A bill to be entitled

An act for the relief of Irving Hoffman and Marjorie Weiss, parents of Rachel Hoffman, deceased, individually and as co-personal representatives of the Estate of Rachel Hoffman, by the City of Tallahassee; providing an appropriation to compensate them for the wrongful death of their daughter, Rachel Hoffman, as a result of negligence by employees of the Tallahassee Police Department; providing a limitation on the payment of fees and costs; providing an effective date.

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman was the only child of Irving Hoffman and Margie Weiss, born on December 17, 2004, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman was 23 years old, a recent graduate of Florida State University and was living in Tallahassee, Florida, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman was in a drug court intervention program for possession of less than 1 ounce of marijuana and was represented by counsel, and

WHEREAS, on April 17, 2008, the Tallahassee Police Department conducted a search of Rachel Hoffman's apartment and found less than 5 ounces of marijuana and six nonprescribed pills, and at that time advised her that she was facing serious felony charges and prison time or she could "make all of the charges go away," by serving as a confidential informant, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman agreed to become a confidential informant for the Tallahassee Police Department without advice of counsel because she was told not to tell anyone, and

WHEREAS, in spite of its duties as a branch of the court system, the Tallahassee Police Department violated its own policies and procedures and secretly concealed from personnel of the supervising drug court and the office of the state attorney the fact that Rachel Hoffman was not in compliance with orders of the drug court, and

WHEREAS, had the Tallahassee Police Department advised the state attorney's office of its findings, Rachel Hoffman would not have been allowed to participate in the Tallahassee Police Department's confidential informant program because such participation would violate the terms of the order of the drug court, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman repeatedly demonstrated a lack of maturity and experience in serving as a confidential informant so that the supervising case manager should have terminated her use as a confidential informant according to the Chief of the Tallahassee Police Department, Dennis Jones, and

WHEREAS, the supervising case manager for the Tallahassee Police Department and Rachel Hoffman developed a plan whereby Rachel Hoffman would purchase 1,500 MDMA pills, also known as Ecstasy, 2 to 3 ounces of cocaine, and a weapon from Andrea Green and Daneilo Bradshaw, with whom Rachel Hoffman had no previous contact or dealings, and

WHEREAS, the Tallahassee Police Department knew or should have known that Andrea Green had a history of violence, had been convicted of violent crimes, and was dangerous, and

WHEREAS, the Tallahassee Police Department knew or should have known that on May 5, 2008, 2 days prior to the controlled buy-bust transaction, Daneilo Bradshaw was the prime suspect in the theft of a .25 caliber handgun from the car of a customer at a Tallahassee car wash at which Bradshaw was employed, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman had never purchased cocaine nor did she have a history of dealing in cocaine or MDMA (ecstasy), and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman had no experience with a firearm, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman had never been involved as a confidential informant nor had she ever been involved in a controlled buy-bust operation, and

WHEREAS, the Tallahassee Police Department provided no training to Rachel Hoffman to prepare her for the buy-bust operation, and

WHEREAS, the Tallahassee Police Department failed to conduct a dry run of the area of the operation before it occurred, so Rachel Hoffman was unfamiliar with the geographical area that had been designated for this particular transaction, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman was assured by the Tallahassee Police Department that she would be watched and listened to at all times, and that when the buy was made, the police would immediately respond and arrest the targets and rescue her from danger, and

WHEREAS, on May 7, 2008, the Tallahassee Police Department conducted a briefing with the law enforcement officers who would participate in the operation, but they were not briefed that a gun would be present, in violation of policies and procedures of the Tallahassee Police Department, and

WHEREAS, the ill-conceived plan provided that a controlled buy would take place at a designated location at a private home

in a large subdivision off North Meridian Road, but after the briefing and just prior to leaving the police station, the location was changed by the targets, Greene and Bradshaw, to Forestmeadows Park, on North Meridian Road, in violation of policies and procedures of the Tallahassee Police Department, and

WHEREAS, Forestmeadows Park is a popular, highly frequented public park where families and children congregate and was not a suitable and safe location to conduct a dangerous operation involving a known violent criminal who was expected to be in possession of a loaded firearm, and

WHEREAS, the Tallahassee Police Department chose to engage the assistance of the United States Drug Enforcement Agency but not the Leon County Sheriff's Office, who was more familiar with the street locations in that geographical area, and

WHEREAS, as Rachel Hoffman approached Forestmeadows Park in her vehicle at approximately 6:40 p.m., the targets again changed the meeting location from the park to a nearby plant nursery parking lot north of the park on Meridian Road and outside the city limits, which was permitted by the supervising case manager and other law enforcement officers involved in the operation in violation of policies and procedures of the Tallahassee Police Department, and

WHEREAS, after Rachel Hoffman drove toward Forestmeadows Park, the Tallahassee Police Department lost visual sight of her and the listening device in her car ceased to function, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman had no way of knowing that none of the law enforcement officers she entrusted to monitor her safety were watching or listening to her, and

WHEREAS, the targets, Green and Bradshaw, kept Rachel Hoffman on her cellular phone, directing her to another location, Gardner Road, which was north of the plant nursery and outside the city limits, and

WHEREAS, of the 19 law enforcement officers who were involved in the operation, only one knew where Gardner Road was located, and

WHEREAS, after completely losing all monitoring capabilities, the Tallahassee Police Department incompetently and negligently failed to timely search and intervene on behalf of its confidential informant even though the surveillance team was only 2 minutes from the Gardner Road location, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman was shot five times to death at close range with the .25 caliber handgun she was to have purchased from Green and Bradshaw, and

WHEREAS, the Tallahassee Police Department was so slow to respond that by the time law enforcement personnel arrived at the Gardner Road location, Rachel Hoffman, Andrea Green, and Daneilo Bradshaw were no longer there, and the only recorded evidence were one flip-flop sandal, two live .25 caliber rounds, one spent .25 caliber round, and tire marks, and

WHEREAS, hours later, Rachel Hoffman's cellular phone was found in a ditch miles away from the Gardner Road location, and

WHEREAS, at approximately 2 a.m. on May 8, 2008, Sgt. Odom of the Tallahassee Police Department called Margie Weiss, the mother of Rachel Hoffman, and Irving Hoffman, the father, and advised them that their daughter was missing, but provided no further information, and

WHEREAS, when Irving Hoffman and Margie Weiss arrived later

that afternoon at the Tallahassee police station after driving from their homes in Pinellas County, Florida, they were met by the Chief of the Tallahassee Police Department and other police department officials and told simply that their daughter was missing but that no other information was available about why their daughter was missing, and

WHEREAS, it was not until 2 days later, on May 9, 2008, that Rachel Hoffman's body was found near Perry, Florida, approximately 50 miles away, shot multiple times by the gun the Tallahassee Police Department required her to purchase, and

WHEREAS, upon the discovery of Rachel Hoffman's body, the Chief and Public Information Officer of the Tallahassee Police Department appeared before the media and blamed Rachel Hoffman for her death, stating that she had failed to follow "established protocols," but refused to explain what those protocols were and admitted no negligence or wrongdoing on its part, and

WHEREAS, it was while watching television that Irving Hoffman and Margie Weiss learned for the first time that their daughter had been missing and was murdered while serving the Tallahassee Police Department in an undercover capacity, and

WHEREAS, through an Internal Affairs Investigation, the Tallahassee Police Department has admitted that it committed multiple acts of negligence in the recruitment of Rachel Hoffman as a confidential informant, the planning of the controlled buy, the execution thereof, and the supervision of the plan and execution of the operation, and

WHEREAS, on August 1, 2008, a Leon County Grand Jury returned indictments against Andrea Green and Daneilo Bradshaw

for the murder of Rachel Hoffman and issued an ancillary report known as a "Presentment," and found that, "During the course of our review of the facts, it became apparent to that negligent conduct on the part of Tallahassee Department and D.E.A. attributed to Ms. Hoffman's death," and

WHEREAS, the Grand Jury found that the transaction requiring the purchase of 1,500 ecstasy pills, 2 1/2 ounces of cocaine, and a firearm from individuals she had never dealt with before placed Rachel Hoffman "in a position way over her head," and

WHEREAS, the Grand Jury found that the command staff of the Tallahassee Police Department were negligent in supervising, reviewing, and executing the planned controlled drug and weapons buy, and stated that "letting a young, immature woman get into a car by herself with $13,000 to go off and meet two convicted felons that they knew were bringing at least one firearm with them was an unconscionable decision that cost Ms. Hoffman her life," and

WHEREAS, the Grand Jury determined, based on the evidence and testimony of police officers who participated in the surveillance operation, that Rachel Hoffman believed that she was being closely watched, followed, and listened to, and she remained on the phone with the targets, Green and Bradshaw, as they directed her down Gardner Road, and that "When she finally spoke to a T.P.D. officer on the phone and told them where she was, she was told by the officer to turn around and not follow the targets. The officer heard no response and the phone went dead, and by that time it was too late anyway. With the exception of one officer, nobody else participating in the transaction even knew where Gardner Road was," and

WHEREAS, the Grand Jury determined "That through poor planning and supervision, and a series of mistakes throughout the transaction, T.P.D. handed Ms. Hoffman to Bradshaw and Green to rob and kill her as they saw fit," and

WHEREAS, the Grand Jury determined that based on Rachel Hoffman's immaturity and judgment, she should never have been used as a confidential informant, "but if [T.P.D.] were going to use her, [T.P.D.] certainly had a responsibility to protect her as they assured her they would," and

WHEREAS, an investigation by the Florida Attorney General determined that the Tallahassee Police Department had insufficient policies and procedures and had committed numerous violations of its own policies and procedures, and

WHEREAS, an internal investigation by the Tallahassee Police Department determined that numerous violations of its policies and procedures had occurred in the planning, supervision, and execution of the operation which led to the murder of Rachel Hoffman, and

WHEREAS, the internal investigation conducted by the Tallahassee Police Department cited 14 acts of negligence on the part of the law enforcement officers involved, and

WHEREAS, the City of Tallahassee Police Chief, Dennis Jones, stated that the investigator responsible for managing the operation should have terminated Rachel Hoffman's confidential informant service well before she participated in the botched operation, and

WHEREAS, if the case managing investigator had exercised reasonable care and followed policies and procedures and terminated Rachel Hoffman's service as a confidential informant, she would never have been involved in the tragic drug operation of May 7, 2008, and

WHEREAS, Rachel Hoffman's murder has been a shocking and devastating loss to her parents, who are in states of intense unresolved grief as a result of the death of their only child, NOW, THEREFORE,
