ANALYST	STAFF DIRECTOR	REFERENCE	ACTION
1. Jones	Jones		Pre-meeting

I. Summary:

SPB 7000 deletes the scheduled repeal of the current public records exemption for the court ordered expunged criminal history records of human trafficking victims. If the bill passes, the court ordered expunged criminal history records of human trafficking victims will continue to be confidential and exempt from public disclosure.

The bill requires a majority vote for passage.

The bill is effective October 1, 2018.

II. Present Situation:

Public Records Law

The Florida Constitution provides that the public has the right to inspect or copy records made or received in connection with official governmental business.¹ This applies to the official business of any public body, officer or employee of the state, including all three branches of state government, local governmental entities, and any person acting on behalf of the government.²

Chapter 119, F.S., constitutes the main body of public records laws, and is known as the Public Records Act.³ The Public Records Act states that “it is the policy of this state that all state, county and municipal records are open for personal inspection and copying by any person. Providing access to public records is a duty of each agency.”⁴

³ Public records laws are found throughout the Florida Statutes.

⁴ Section 119.01(1), F.S.

According to the Public Records Act, a public record includes virtually any document or recording, regardless of its physical form or how it may be transmitted.⁵ The Florida Supreme Court has interpreted public records as being “any material prepared in connection with official agency business which is intended to perpetuate, communicate or formalize knowledge of some type.”⁶

The Legislature may create an exemption to the public records requirements by passing a general law by a two-thirds vote of the House and the Senate.⁷ The exemption must explicitly lay out the public necessity justifying the exemption, and must be no broader than necessary to accomplish the stated purpose of the exemption.⁸ A statutory exemption which does not meet these two criteria may be unconstitutional and may not be judicially saved.⁹

When creating a public records exemption, the Legislature may provide that a record is ‘confidential and exempt’ or ‘exempt.’¹⁰ Records designated as ‘confidential and exempt’ may be released by the records custodian only under the circumstances defined by the Legislature. Records designated as ‘exempt’ may be released at the discretion of the records custodian under certain circumstances.¹¹

Open Government Sunset Review Act

The Open Government Sunset Review Act (OGSR) prescribes a legislative review process for newly created or substantially amended public records or public meetings exemptions.¹² The OGSR provides that an exemption automatically repeals on October 2nd of the fifth year after ⁵ Section 119.011(12), F.S., defines “public record” to mean all documents, papers, letters, maps, books, tapes, photographs, films, sound recordings, data processing software, or other material, regardless of the physical form, characteristics, or means of transmission, made or received pursuant to law or ordinance or in connection with the transaction of official business by any agency. Section 119.011(2), F.S., defines “agency” to mean any state, county, district, authority, or municipal officer, department, division, board, bureau, commission, or other separate unit of government created or established by law including, for the purposes of ch. 119, F.S., the Commission on Ethics, the Public Service Commission, and the Office of Public Counsel, and any other public or private agency, person, partnership, corporation, or business entity acting on behalf of any public agency.

⁸ FLA. CONST., art. I, s. 24(c).

⁹ Halifax Hosp. Medical Center v. New-Journal Corp., 724 So.2d 567 (Fla. 1999). In Halifax Hospital, the Florida Supreme Court found that a public meetings exemption was unconstitutional because the statement of public necessity did not define important terms and did not justify the breadth of the exemption. Id. at 570. The Florida Supreme Court also declined to narrow the exemption in order to save it. Id. In Baker County Press, Inc. v. Baker County Medical Services, Inc., 870 So.2d 189 (Fla. 1st DCA 2004), the court found that the intent of a statute was to create a public records exemption. The Baker County Press court found that since the law did not contain a public necessity statement, it was unconstitutional. Id. at 196.

¹⁰ If the Legislature designates a record as confidential, such record may not be released to anyone other than the persons or entities specifically designated in the statutory exemption. WFTV, Inc. v. The School Bd. of Seminole, 874 So.2d 48 (Fla. 5th DCA 2004).

¹¹ A record classified as exempt from public disclosure may be disclosed under certain circumstances. Williams v. City of Minneola, 575 So.2d 687 (Fla. 5th DCA 1991).

¹² Section 119.15, F.S. Section 119.15(4)(b), F.S., provides that an exemption is considered to be substantially amended if the amendment expands the scope of the exemption to include more records or information or to include meetings as well as records. An exemption is not substantially amended if the amendment narrows the scope of the exemption. The OGSR does not apply to an exemption required by federal law or applied solely to the Legislature or the State Court System. Section 119.15(2), F.S.

creation or substantial amendment; in order to save an exemption from repeal, the Legislature must reenact the exemption.¹³

The OGSR provides that a public records or open meetings exemption may be created, revised, or maintained only if it serves an identifiable public purpose and is no broader than is necessary to meet the public purpose it serves.¹⁴ An exemption serves an identifiable public purpose if it meets one of the following purposes and the Legislature finds that the purpose of the exemption outweighs open government policy and cannot be accomplished without the exemption:

- It allows the state or its political subdivisions to effectively and efficiently administer a governmental program, which administration would be significantly impaired without the exemption;¹⁵
- It protects information of a sensitive personal nature concerning individuals, the release of which information would be defamatory to such individuals or cause unwarranted damage to their good name or reputation or jeopardize their safety;¹⁶ or
- It protects trade or business secrets.¹⁷

As part of the OGSR review process, the Legislature is required to consider the following questions:

- What specific records or meetings are affected by the exemption?
- Whom does the exemption uniquely affect, as opposed to the general public?
- What is the identifiable public purpose or goal of the exemption?
- Can the information contained in the records or discussed in the meeting be readily obtained by alternative means? If so, how?
- Is the record or meeting protected by another exemption?
- Are there multiple exemptions for the same type of record or meeting that it would be appropriate to merge?¹⁸

If, in reenacting an existing exemption, the exemption is expanded, a public necessity statement and a two-thirds vote for passage are required.¹⁹ If the exemption is reenacted without substantive changes or if the exemption is narrowed, a public necessity statement and a two-thirds vote for passage are not required.

Human Trafficking

Human trafficking is a form of modern-day slavery. Victims of human trafficking are young children, men, and women, who are often subjected to force, fraud, or coercion for the purpose of sexual exploitation or forced labor. There is an estimated 20.9 million adults and children in the world who are in some sort of forced labor or sexual exploitation. Of that number, an estimated 26 percent of them are children, and in 2010, it was estimated that as many as 300,000 children in the United States were at risk for exploitation each year.²⁰

Section 787.06, F.S., is Florida's human trafficking statute and defines "human trafficking" as the transporting, soliciting, recruiting, harboring, providing, enticing, maintaining, or obtaining of another person for the purpose of exploitation of that person. A victim of human trafficking is a person subjected to coercion,²¹ for the purpose of being used in human trafficking, a child under 18 years of age subjected to human trafficking, or an individual subjected to human trafficking as defined by federal law.²²

Open Government Sunset Review of the Public Records Exemption for Expunged Criminal History Record of a Victim of Human Trafficking

In 2013, the Legislature created s. 943.0583, F.S.²³ Section 943.0583, F.S., allows a victim of human trafficking to petition the court for the expunction of a criminal history record resulting from the arrest or filing of charges for an offense committed or reported to have been committed while the person was a victim of human trafficking, which offense was committed or reported to have been committed as a part of the human trafficking scheme of which the person was a victim or at the direction of an operator of the scheme.²⁴

The expunction of a criminal history record is the court-ordered physical destruction or obliteration of a record or portion of a record by any criminal justice agency having custody thereof, or as prescribed by the court issuing the order.²⁵ A criminal history record ordered expunged under s. 943.0583, F.S., is confidential and exempt from s. 119.07(1), F.S., and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution.²⁶

Section 943.0583(10), F.S., is subject to the Open Government Sunset Review Act and stands repealed on October 2, 2018, unless reviewed and saved from repeal through reenactment by the Legislature.

²¹ "Coercion" means using or threatening to use physical force against any person; restraining, isolating, or confining or threatening to restrain, isolate, or confine any person without lawful authority and against her or his will; using lending or other credit methods to establish a debt by any person when labor or services are pledged as a security for the debt, if the value of the labor or services as reasonably assessed is not applied toward the liquidation of the debt, the length and nature of the labor or services are not respectively limited and defined; destroying, concealing, removing, confiscating, withholding, or possessing any actual or purported passport, visa, or other immigration document, or any other actual or purported government identification document, of any person; causing or threatening to cause financial harm to any person; enticing or luring any person by fraud or deceit; or providing a controlled substance as outlined in Schedule I or Schedule II of s. 893.03, F.S., to any person for the purpose of exploitation of that person.

²³ Chapter 2013-99, L.O.F.

²⁴ Section 943.0583(3), F.S., does not allow the following offenses to be expunged: arson, sexual battery, robbery, kidnapping, aggravated child abuse, aggravated abuse of an elderly person or disabled adult, aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, murder, manslaughter, aggravated manslaughter of an elderly person or disabled adult, aggravated manslaughter of a child, unlawful throwing, placing, or discharging of a destructive device or bomb, armed burglary, aggravated battery, and aggravated stalking.

²⁵ Section 943.045(16), F.S.

²⁶ Section 943.0583(10), F.S.

In creating the exemption, the Legislature articulated the following reasons for the exemption:

The Legislature finds that it is a public necessity that a criminal history record ordered expunged under s. 943.0583, Florida Statutes, that is retained by the Department of Law Enforcement be made confidential and exempt from s. 119.07(1), Florida Statutes, and s. 24(a), Article I of the State Constitution. Persons who are victims of human trafficking and who have been convicted of crimes committed at the behest of their traffickers are themselves victims of crimes. Such victims face barriers to employment and other life opportunities as long as these criminal convictions remain on record and accessible to potential employers and others. It is necessary that these records be made confidential in order for human trafficking victims to have the chance to rebuild their lives and reenter society.²⁷

During the 2017 interim, Senate and House professional staff contacted the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE), the Florida Court Clerks and Comptrollers, and the Florida Prosecuting Attorney's Association as part of its review of s. 943.0583, F.S.

A total of 33 orders for expunction have been processed by the FDLE since 2014.²⁸ Specifically, the orders, by year, processed by the FDLE were:

- 1 in 2014;
- 12 in 2015;
- 6 in 2016; and
- 14 thus far in 2017.²⁹

Professional staff from the Senate and the House attempted to ascertain if any victims of human trafficking were experiencing hurdles in the petition process. The Florida Court Clerks and Comptrollers and the Florida Prosecuting Attorney's Association were unaware of any issues.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill amends s. 943.0583, F.S., by deleting the scheduled repeal date, thereby reenacting the public record exemption for court ordered expunged criminal history records of victims of human trafficking.

The bill is effective October 1, 2018.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

Article I, s. 24(c) of the State Constitution requires a two-thirds vote of the members present and voting for final passage of a newly created or expanded public records exemption. If an exemption is reenacted without substantive changes or if the exemption is narrowed, then a public necessity statement and a two-thirds vote for passage are not required. The bill does not create or expand a public records exemption, therefore it does not require a two-thirds vote for final passage.
