c. What direct services will be provided to citizens by the appropriation project?

Advanced recycling, diversion of landfill waste, reduced landfill methane emissions, production of valuable feedstock chemical, Eco-Methanol, which will generate local sales tax revenue and good jobs.

d. Who is the target population served by this project? How many individuals are expected to be served?

This is a regional project serving all citizens whose waste is handled by the landfill. The population surrounding this landfill is estimated to be about 500,000 people generating up to 2000 tons per day municipal solid waste.

e. What is the expected benefit or outcome of this project? What is the methodology by which this outcome will be measured?

Permitting and front-end engineering are necessary to seek offtake contracts from Eco-Methanol and offtake contracts are necessary to secure financing for this project. Success will be measured by successful financing of this project.

f. What are the suggested penalties that the contracting agency may consider in addition to its standard penalties for failing to meet deliverables or performance measures provided for the contract?

The funding agency ultimately has the power to grant permits or not. Failing to receive a permit should not be grounds for penalties, but rather a process to mitigate any issues that affect the permitting issue. Ultimately, there is no reason permits would not be issued, so no penalties should be considered.
