COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 142 expands the circumstances under which a volunteer dentist or dental hygienist is not personally liable for negligence. Under existing law, the liability protections apply to free dental services provided to low-income patients pursuant to a government contract. Under the bill, the dentist or dental hygienist may accept voluntary contributions for the cost of laboratory work and retain the protections from personal liability.

The bill does not change the liability of the government entity that contracts with the dentist or dental hygienist to provide the free dental services. The government entity remains liable, subject to the state's sovereign immunity limitations, for any negligent dental services.

The bill also authorizes any volunteer health care provider—not just dentists or dental hygienists—to retain sovereign immunity and provide care for up to 30 days after a patient is determined not to meet the financial eligibility standard to allow the patient time to find a new provider.

Finally, the bill extends the future repeal date of the health access dental license by five years to January 1, 2020.

The bill has no fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Access to Health Care Act

Section 766.1115, F.S., is entitled "The Access to Health Care Act" (the Act). The Act was enacted in 1992 to encourage health care providers to provide care to low-income persons.[1] This section extends sovereign immunity to health care providers who execute a contract with a governmental contractor and who provide volunteer, uncompensated health care services to low-income individuals as an agent of the state. These health care providers are considered agents of the state under s. 768.28(9), F.S., for purposes of extending sovereign immunity while acting within the scope of duties required under the Act.

Health care providers under the Act include:[2]

- A birth center licensed under ch. 383, F.S.[3]
- An ambulatory surgical center licensed under ch. 395, F.S.[4]
- A hospital licensed under ch. 395, F.S.[5]
- A physician or physician assistant licensed under ch. 458, F.S.[6]
- An osteopathic physician or osteopathic physician assistant licensed under ch. 459, F.S.[7]
- A chiropractic physician licensed under ch. 460, F.S.[8]
- A podiatric physician licensed under ch. 461, F.S.[9]
- A registered nurse, nurse midwife, licensed practical nurse, or advanced registered nurse practitioner licensed or registered under part I of ch. 464, F.S., or any facility that employs nurses licensed or registered under part I of ch. 464, F.S., to supply all or part of the care delivered under the Act.[10]
- A dentist or dental hygienist licensed under ch. 466, F.S.[11]
- A midwife licensed under ch. 467, F.S.[12]
- A health maintenance organization certificated under part I of ch. 641, F.S.[13]
- A health care professional association and its employees or a corporate medical group and its employees.[14]

[1] Low-income persons are defined in the Act as a person who is Medicaid-eligible, a person who is without health insurance and whose family income does not exceed 200 percent of the federal poverty level, or any eligible client of the Department of Health who voluntarily chooses to participate in a program offered or approved by the department. Section 766.1115(3)(e), F.S. A single individual whose annual income does not exceed $22,980 is at 200 percent of the federal poverty level using Medicaid data. See 2013 Poverty Guidelines, Annual Guidelines at: http://www.medicaid.gov/Medicaid-CHIP-Program-Information/By-Topics/Eligibility/Downloads/2013-Federal-Poverty-level-charts.pdf (last visited December 13, 2013).

- Any other medical facility the primary purpose of which is to deliver human medical diagnostic services or which delivers nonsurgical human medical treatment, and which includes an office maintained by a provider.[15]
- A free clinic that delivers only medical diagnostic services or nonsurgical medical treatment free of charge to all low-income recipients.[16]
- Any other health care professional, practitioner, provider, or facility under contract with a governmental contractor, including a student enrolled in an accredited program that prepares the student for licensure as a physician, physician assistant, nurse, or midwife.[17]
- Any nonprofit corporation qualified as exempt from federal income taxation under s. 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, and described in s. 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code, that delivers health care services provided by the listed licensed professionals, any federally funded community health center, and any volunteer corporation or volunteer health care provider that delivers health care services.

A governmental contractor is defined in the Act as the Department of Health (DOH), a county health department, a special taxing district having health care responsibilities, or a hospital owned and operated by a governmental entity.[18]

A contract under the Act must pertain to volunteer, uncompensated services. For services to qualify as volunteer, uncompensated services, the health care provider must receive no compensation from the governmental contractor for any services provided under the contract and must not bill or accept compensation from the recipient or any public or private third-party payor for the specific services provided to the low-income recipients covered by the contract.[19]

The Act further specifies additional contract requirements. The contract must provide that:
- The governmental contractor retains the right of dismissal or termination of any health care provider delivering services under the contract.
- The governmental contractor has access to the patient records of any health care provider delivering services under the contract.
- The health care provider must report adverse incidents and information on treatment outcomes.
- The governmental contractor or the health care provider must make patient selection and initial referrals.
- Patient care, including any follow-up or hospital care, is subject to approval by the governmental contractor.
- The health care provider is subject to supervision and regular inspection by the governmental contractor.[20]
- The health care provider must accept all referred patients; however, the contract may specify limits on the number of patients to be referred.[21]

The governmental contractor must provide written notice to each patient, or the patient's legal representative, receipt of which must be acknowledged in writing, that the provider is covered under s. 768.28, F.S., for purposes of actions related to medical negligence.[22]

The individual accepting services through this contracted provider cannot have medical or dental care insurance coverage for the illness, injury, or condition for which medical or dental care is sought.[23] Services not covered under the Act include experimental procedures and clinically unproven procedures. The governmental contractor must determine whether a procedure is covered.

The health care provider may not subcontract for the provision of services under this chapter.[24]

According to the DOH, from July 1, 2011, through June 30, 2012, 12,867 licensed health care volunteers (plus an additional 9,949 clinic staff volunteers) provided 433,191 health care patient visits with a total value of $231,530,324 under the Act.[25] The Florida Department of Financial Services, Division of Risk Management, reported on March 26, 2012, that nine claims had been filed against the Volunteer Health Care Provider Program under s. 766.1115, F.S., since February 15, 2000.[26]

Interpretation of s. 766.1115, F.S., varies across the state. In certain parts of the state, the statute is interpreted to mean that as long as there is transparency and clear proof that the volunteer provider is providing services, without receiving personal compensation, then the patient can pay a nominal amount per visit to assist in covering laboratory fees. In other parts of the state, the statute is interpreted to mean that if any monetary amount is accepted, then sovereign immunity is lost. Patients sometimes offer to pay a nominal contribution to cover some of the cost of laboratory fees that providers incur to pay third parties for items such as dentures for the patient. In many areas, the dentist is paying the cost of these fees from his or her own resources.[27]

Sovereign Immunity

The term "sovereign immunity" originally referred to the English common law concept that the government may not be sued because "the King can do no wrong." Sovereign immunity bars lawsuits against the state or its political subdivisions for the torts of officers, employees, or agents of such governments unless the immunity is expressly waived.

Article X, s. 13, of the Florida Constitution recognizes the concept of sovereign immunity and gives the Legislature the power to waive such immunity in part or in full by general law. Section 768.28, F.S., contains the limited waiver of sovereign immunity applicable to the state. Under this statute, officers, employees, and agents of the state will not be held personally liable in tort or named as a party defendant in any action for any injury or damage suffered as a result of any act, event, or omission of action in the scope of her or his employment or function. However, personal liability may result from actions in bad faith or with malicious purpose or in a manner exhibiting wanton and willful disregard of human rights, safety, or property.

Instead, the state steps in as the party litigant and defends against the claim. The recovery by any one person is limited to $200,000 for one incident and the total for all recoveries related to one incident is limited to $300,000.[28] The sovereign immunity recovery caps do not prevent a plaintiff from obtaining a judgment in excess of the caps, but the plaintiff cannot recover the excess damages without action by the Legislature.[29]

Whether sovereign immunity applies turns on the degree of control of the agent of the state retained by the state.[30] In Stoll v. Noel, the Florida Supreme Court explained that independent contractor physicians may be agents of the state for purposes of sovereign immunity:

> One who contracts on behalf of another and subject to the other's control except with respect to his physical conduct is an agent and also independent contractor.[31]

The court examined the employment contract between the physicians and the state to determine whether the state's right to control was sufficient to create an agency relationship and held that it did.[32] The court explained:

> Whether the [Children's Medical Services] CMS physician consultants are agents of the state turns on the degree of control retained or exercised by CMS. This Court has held that the right to control depends upon the terms of the employment contract. . . . CMS requires each consultant, as a condition of participating in the CMS program, to agree to abide by the terms published in its HRS[33] Manual and CMS Consultant's Guide which contain CMS policies and rules governing its relationship with the consultants. The Consultant's Guide states that all services provided to CMS patients must be authorized in advance by the clinic medical director. The language of the HRS Manual ascribes to CMS responsibility to supervise and direct the medical care of all CMS patients and supervisory authority over all personnel. The manual also grants to the CMS medical director absolute authority over payment for treatments proposed by consultants. The HRS Manual and the Consultant's Guide demonstrate that CMS has final authority over all care and treatment provided to CMS patients, and it can refuse to allow a physician consultant's recommended course of treatment of any CMS patient for either medical or budgetary reasons.

> Our conclusion is buttressed by HRS's acknowledgement that the manual creates an agency relationship between CMS and its physician consultants, and despite its potential liability in this case, HRS has acknowledged full financial responsibility for the physicians' actions. HRS's interpretation of its manual is entitled to judicial deference and great weight.[34]

Health Access Dental Licensure

In 2008, the Legislature established the health access dental license in order to attract out-of-state dentists to practice in underserved health access settings.[35] With this license, a dentist actively licensed in good standing in another state, the District of Columbia, or a U.S. territory is authorized to practice dentistry in Florida in a health access setting if the dentist:

- Files a Board-approved application and pays the applicable fees;
- Has not been convicted or pled nolo contendre to, regardless of adjudication, any felony or misdemeanor related to the practice of a health care profession;
- Submits proof of graduation from a dental school accredited by the Commission on Dental Accreditation of the American Dental Association;
- Submits documentation that the dentist has completed, or will obtain prior to licensure, a continuing education equivalent to Florida's requirement for dentists for the last full reporting biennium before applying for a health access license;
- Submits proof of her or his successful completion of parts I and II of the National Boards and a state or regional clinical dental license examination that the Board has determined effectively measures the applicant's ability to practice safely;
- Has never had a license revoked from another state, the District of Columbia, or a U.S. territory;
- Has never failed an exam under s. 466.006, F.S., unless the applicant was reexamined and received a license to practice in Florida;
- Has not been reported to the National Board of Dental Examiners (NPDB), unless the applicant successfully appealed to have his or her name removed from the data bank; and
- Submits proof that he or she has been engaged in the active, clinical practice of dentistry providing direct patient care for five years immediately preceding the date of application, or proof of continuous clinical practice providing direct patient care since graduation if the applicant graduated less than five years from his or her application.[36]

A health access dental license is subject to biennial renewal. The Board will renew a health access dental license if the applicant:

- Submits a renewal application and pays the required fees;

[34] Stoll, 694 So. 2d at 703 (Fla. 1997) (internal citations omitted).
[35] A "health access setting" is defined in s. 466.003(14), F.S., as a program or institution of the Department of Children and Family Services, the Department of Health, or the Department of Juvenile Justice, a nonprofit community health center, a Head Start center, a federally qualified health center (FQHC) or FQHC look-alike as defined by federal law, a school-based prevention program, or a clinic operated by an accredited college of dentistry or an accredited dental hygiene program in this state if such community service programs and institutions immediately report to the Board of Dentistry practice act or standard of care violations related to the actions or inactions of a dentist, dental hygienist, or dental assistant engaged in the delivery of dental care in such settings.
[36] Section 466.0067, F. S.

- Signs and submits a statement attesting that the applicant has completed all continuing education required of a licensed dentist;
- Submits documentation of continued employment in the health access setting;
- Has not been convicted or pled nolo contendre to, regardless of adjudication, any felony or misdemeanor related to the practice of a health care profession;
- Has never failed an exam under s. 466.006, F.S., since initially receiving a health access dental license or since the last renewal; and,
- Has not been reported to the NPDB, unless the applicant successfully appealed to have his or her name removed from the data bank.[37]

The Board may revoke a health access dental license if the licensee is terminated from employment at the health access setting or practices outside of the health access setting, fails the Florida dental examination, or is found by the Board to have committed a violation of Chapter 466 (the Dental Practice Act), other than a violation that is a citation offense or a minor violation.[38]

Currently, there are a total of 54 health access dental licenses. Of those 31 are in-state active, five are in-state delinquent, 13 are out-of-state active, three are out-of-state inactive, and two are retired.[39] According to data collected by the Department of Health, 14 dentists with health access licenses are currently practicing in county health departments (CHDs). Several CHD administrators reported they did not believe they could have obtained a dentist without the availability of the health access license. CHDs also report that these dentists have been of high quality and have improved access to care on the part of the low income population.[40]

The program is scheduled for repeal effective January 1, 2015, unless reenacted by the Legislature.[41]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill expands the circumstances in which a volunteer dentist or dental hygienist is not personally liable for negligence. Under existing law, the liability protections apply to free dental services provided to low-income patients pursuant to a government contract. Under the bill, the dentist or dental hygienist may accept voluntary contributions for the cost of laboratory work and

"In-State Active" means the licensed practitioner has a Florida mailing address and is authorized to practice. "In-State Delinquent" means the licensed practitioner has a Florida mailing address and is not authorized to practice in the state because of failure to renew the license by the expiration date. "Out-of-State Active" means the licensed practitioner has an out-of-state mailing address and is authorized to practice. "Out-of-State Inactive" means the licensed practitioner has an out-of-state mailing address and is not authorized to practice. "Retired" means the licensed practitioner is not authorized to practice. The practitioner is not obligated to update licensure data. Id. at 10. s. 456.036, F.S.

retain the protections from personal liability, provided such contributions do not exceed the actual cost of the laboratory work.

The bill does not change the liability of the government entity that contracts with the dentist or dental hygienist to provide the free dental services. The government entity remains liable, subject to the state's sovereign immunity limitations, for any negligent dental services.

The bill also authorizes any volunteer health care provider—not just dentists or dental hygienists—to retain sovereign immunity and provide care for up to 30 days after a patient is determined not to meet the financial eligibility standard to allow the patient time to find a new provider.

Finally, the bill extends the future repeal of the health access dental license to January 1, 2020.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under CS/SB 142, the DOH anticipates that a small number of dental laboratories will receive reimbursement for laboratory work for indigent patients.[42] A dentist or dental hygienist may need to prepare additional documentation showing that any voluntary contribution for laboratory is reimbursement for costs, not compensation.[43]

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

The bill does not provide a definition of the "costs of dental laboratory work" and does not indicate what may be included as part of those costs, e.g. whether a dentist's compensation to his or her staff to coordinate laboratory work may be considered part of the costs of dental laboratory work related to the services provided to the patient.[44] The Legislature may wish to consider whether reimbursable costs for laboratory work should be defined.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 466.00673 and 766.1115.

IX. Additional Information:

CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014.
The CS:

- Makes technical changes to conform the bill to the House companion;
- Allows a voluntary health care provider to retain sovereign immunity and provide care for up to 30 days after a patient is determined not to meet the financial eligibility standard; and
- Extends the future repeal of the health access dental license to January 1, 2020.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 294 lowers the E911 fee from 50 cents to 40 cents for all three categories of voice communication services: prepaid wireless service, wireless service, and nonwireless service. The bill creates a process for collection and distribution of the E911 fee on prepaid wireless services by sellers at point of sale. A seller of prepaid wireless operating in the state before the fee is imposed can retain 100 percent of the prepaid E911 fees collected for the first two months to offset the costs of setup. After this two-month period, a seller may retain five percent of the prepaid wireless E911 fees that are collected as a retailer collection allowance. The remainder of fees collected must be remitted to the Department of Revenue in the month following collection of the fee.

The bill expands the list of authorized county expenditures for which E911 funds may be used and modifies the distribution of funds to counties and wireless providers.

The bill appropriates the nonrecurring sum of $250,000 from the General Revenue Fund to the Department of Revenue and $190,713 from the Operating Trust Fund to the Department of Revenue for the 2014-2015 fiscal year.

On February 17, 2014, the Revenue Estimating Conference determined that the provisions in this bill will decrease revenues distributed to the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund by $1.0 million in Fiscal Year 2014-15, with a $3.2 million positive, recurring impact to the fund.

II. Present Situation:

The Wireless Emergency Communications Act[1] established a statewide E911 system for wireless telephone users. To fund the E911 system, the act imposed a monthly fee, capped at $0.50, on voice communications services. This fee funds costs incurred by local governments to install and operate 911 systems and reimburses providers for costs incurred to provide 911 or E911 services.

Section 365.172(8), F.S., requires voice communications services providers to collect the E911 fee from subscribers of voice communications services on a service identifier basis. The fee is imposed upon local exchange service, wireless service, and other services that have access to E911 service, such as Voice over Internet Protocol. State and local governments are not subject to the fee.[2]

The E911 Board (Board) helps implement and oversee the E911 system and administers the funds derived from the E911 fee. The primary function of the Board is to make disbursements from the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund (E911 Fund) to county governments and wireless providers according to s. 365.173, F.S. The Board has the authority to adjust the level of the fee, within the $0.50 cap, once annually.

E911 Fees for Prepaid Wireless Service

In 2006, the Board was required[3] to evaluate the 911 system revenues and services costs to determine the date that the wireless E911 fee could be reduced to a level that still funds all counties' E911 costs, service provider costs, and Board administration costs. In its report, the Board concluded that there were insufficient fee revenues collected to cover all county and service provider E911 costs.[4]

In its report, the Board also recommended that the Legislature consider changing the provisions relating to prepaid calling services so that fees were imposed on users in a fair and consistent manner. At that time, E911 fees for prepaid wireless service were remitted based upon each prepaid wireless telephone associated with this state, for each wireless service customer that had a sufficient positive balance as of the last day of each month. Recognizing that direct billing may not be possible, the law provided that the surcharge amount, or an equivalent number of minutes, could be transferred from the prepaid wireless subscriber's account.

In 2007, the Legislature suspended collection of E911 fees on prepaid wireless service until July 1, 2009, and required the board to conduct a study of the collection of E911 fees on the sale of prepaid wireless service.[5] The resulting report[6] concluded that it was feasible to collect E911 fees from the sale of prepaid wireless service on an equitable, competitively neutral, and nondiscriminatory basis.

In 2010, the Legislature extended the suspension of E911 fee collections for prepaid wireless service through July 1, 2013, at which point the Board was required to start collecting the fee from those sales.[7] However, currently there is no mechanism for collection of the E911 fee on wireless prepaid services.

Distribution of E911 Funds

Funds generated from the E911 fees levied on subscribers are accounted for in the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund and segregated into two separate categories: wireless and nonwireless.[8] One percent of the moneys in each category is retained by the Board to cover the costs of managing, administering, and overseeing the E911 Fund. Two percent of the moneys in each category are used to make monthly distributions to rural counties for facilities, network and service enhancements, and assistance for their E911 systems and to make grants to rural counties to upgrade and replace such systems.

In the wireless category, 67 percent of the moneys are distributed monthly to counties, based on the total number of service identifiers in each county. The county may use these funds to pay for expenditures related to establishing or providing E911 services and contracting for E911 services, as well as to pay for complying with the requirements for E911 service contained in specified Federal Communications Commission orders.[9] The remaining 30 percent of the moneys in the wireless category are available for distribution to wireless providers as reimbursement for actual costs incurred to provide E911 service.

In the nonwireless category, 97 percent of the moneys are distributed monthly to counties based on the total number of service identifiers in each county. The county may use these funds exclusively to pay for expenditures related to establishing or providing E911 services and contracting for E911 services.[10]

Section 365.172(10), F.S., specifies the types of expenses for which funds derived from the E911 fee may be expended. In general, all costs directly attributable to the establishment or provision of E911 service and contracting for E911 services are eligible. For this purpose, the law defines E911 service to include the functions of database management, call taking, dispatching, location verification, and call transfer.

A county may carry forward up to 30 percent of the total funds it receives from the Board during a calendar year for expenditures for capital outlay, capital improvements, or equipment replacement provided that the expenditures are otherwise authorized uses of the funds derived from E911 fees.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill amends ss. 365.172 and 365.173, F.S., as follows:

- Provides a mechanism for collection of the E911 fee on prepaid wireless service by sellers at the point of sale, beginning January 1, 2015, and establishes a new category in the E911 Trust Fund for revenues derived from this fee.
- Lowers the E911 fee from $0.50 to $0.40 per month per service identifier for wireless and nonwireless voice communications services or $0.40 on each retail transaction for prepaid wireless services. The lower fee amount for wireless and nonwireless services is effective January 1, 2015.
- Retains the existing E911 fee cap of $0.50 and allows the Board, no sooner than June 1, 2015, to adjust the rate under this cap by a two-thirds vote of the total number of all Board members.
- Expands the list of authorized county expenditures for which E911 funds may be used.
- Modifies the percentage of funds to be distributed to counties, such that counties will receive 76 percent of the moneys in the wireless category (up from 67 percent), 96 percent of the moneys in the nonwireless category (down from 97 percent) and 61 percent of the moneys in the new prepaid wireless category.
- Reduces the percentage of funds available for distribution to wireless providers from 30 percent to 20 percent.
- Provides that 35 percent of the moneys in the new prepaid wireless category will be retained by the Board to provide E911 grants to counties.
- Amends and creates definitions to conform to the substantive provisions of the bill.
- Removes obsolete provisions.

E911 Fees for Prepaid Wireless Service

The bill creates subsection (9) of section 365.172, F.S., to provide a mechanism for the collection of the E911 fee on each retail purchase of prepaid wireless service from a seller. The prepaid wireless E911 fee is effective January 1, 2015. The fee is $0.40 per retail transaction. A seller of prepaid wireless service operating in this state before the fee is imposed can retain 100 percent of the prepaid E911 fees collected for the first two months to offset costs of setup. After this two-month period, a seller may retain five percent of the prepaid wireless E911 fees that are collected as a retailer collection allowance. The remainder of fees collected must be remitted to the Department of Revenue in the month following collection of the fee.

The E911 fee on prepaid wireless must be collected by the seller of the prepaid wireless service on each retail transaction occurring in Florida. The amount of the prepaid fee must be separately stated or disclosed to the consumer. If a prepaid wireless device is sold for a single, non-itemized price with a prepaid wireless service of 10 minutes or less or $5 or less, the seller may elect not to apply the wireless E911 fee to the transaction.

In order to determine the county where a retail transaction occurs, the bill provides the following three options:

- When the transaction is done by a consumer in person at a seller's business location in this state, the transaction is deemed to have occurred in the county of the business location.

- If the transaction does not take place at the seller's business location, the transaction is treated as taking place in the county of the consumer's shipping address or, if no item is shipped, at the consumer's address or the location associated with the consumer's mobile telephone number.
- If the specific Florida county location cannot be determined, the transaction is to be treated as nonspecific.

Each seller is required to file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected in the previous month to DOR on or before the 20th day of the month.[11] The bill allows a seller to remit the fees through an electronic transfer and to file its return through an electronic data interchange. If DOR has authorized the seller to file its sales and use tax return on a quarterly, semiannual, or annual basis, the seller may remit the E911 fees and file its return on or before the 20th day of the month following that reporting period. A seller that collects less than $50 per month of the E911 fees is permitted to file quarterly returns on or before the 20th day of the month following each quarterly period. If the seller is required to file a return for two or more business locations, the bill allows the seller to file a consolidated return, provided that the seller reports the E911 fees it has collected by county. No return is required if there are no fees to remit.

The bill requires every seller of prepaid wireless service in Florida to register with DOR for each place of business, as required by existing laws regarding registration as a sales and use tax dealer. A separate application is required for each place of business. The Department of Revenue must administer, collect and enforce the E911 fee on prepaid wireless in the same manner as it administers, collects and enforces sales and use tax.

The bill requires DOR to deposit the funds remitted into the Audit and Warrant Clearing Trust Fund and may retain up to 3.2 percent of the funds remitted to reimburse its direct costs of administering the collection and remittance of prepaid wireless fees. DOR must transfer all remaining funds remitted to the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund on a monthly basis.

The bill also provides appropriations to DOR for the purposes of administering the collection and remittance of the E911 fees from prepaid wireless service.

Distribution of E911 Fees

The bill establishes a new category in the E911 Fund for revenues derived from application of the E911 fee to prepaid wireless service. Of the moneys transferred into the E911 Fund and placed into this new category, the bill specifies the following distribution:

- 61 percent will be distributed each month to counties based on the total amount of fees reported and paid in each county;
- 35 percent will be retained by the Board to provide E911 grants to counties;
- Three percent will be used to make monthly distributions to rural counties; and [11] If the 20th day of the month is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the deadline is extended until the next business day.

- One percent will be retained by the Board to cover the costs of managing, administering, and overseeing the E911 Fund.[12]

The bill increases distributions from the wireless category from 67 percent to 76 percent. The bill decreases the percentage of funds available from the wireless category for distribution to wireless providers from 30 percent to 20 percent.

The bill decreases distributions from the nonwireless category to counties from 97 percent to 96 percent.

The bill increases, from two percent to three percent, the percentage of funds available from both the wireless and nonwireless categories to be used to make monthly distributions to rural counties.

The bill clarifies that any county that receives funds from the E911 Fund may not reduce, withhold, or allocate such funds for purposes other than covering the costs specified in statute. Further, the bill provides that the county's annual financial audit must assure that all E911 fee revenues, interest, and E911 grant funding are used as specified in statute and as specified by the E911 Board's grant and special disbursement programs. The bill also requires counties to submit these financial audit reports to the Board.

The bill expands the list of authorized expenditures for which funds distributed from the E911 Fund may be used. The bill provides that Department of Health certification and recertification and training costs for 911 public safety communications, including dispatching, are functions of 911 services. In addition, it adds circuits; GIS systems and software equipment and information displays; salary and expenses for a county to employ technical system maintenance personnel; and emergency medical, fire, and law enforcement prearrival instruction software to the list of authorized expenditures.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

[12] The Board currently retains one percent of all moneys in the E911 Fund for this purpose.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

On February 17, 2014, the Revenue Estimating Conference determined that CS/SB 294 will decrease revenues distributed to the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund by $1.0 million in Fiscal Year 2014-15, with a $3.2 million positive, recurring impact to the fund.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The bill requires retail sellers of prepaid wireless service to collect the E911 fee and remit the proceeds to DOR. This requirement creates initial costs for system setup and ongoing costs for collections and remittance. To address these costs, the bill allows sellers to retain 100 percent of their E911 fee collections for the first two months of collections and allows sellers to retain five percent of their E911 fee collections thereafter.

C. Government Sector Impact:

CS/SB 294 appropriates the nonrecurring sum of $250,000 from the General Revenue Fund and a recurring sum of $190,713 from the Operating Trust Fund to cover the cost of administering this act for Fiscal Year 2014-2015. The bill also authorizes DOR to retain 3.2 percent of the funds remitted under the bill to cover the annual costs of implementing the bill.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

(d) For purposes of paragraph (c), a retail transaction that takes place in person by a consumer at a business location of the seller shall be treated as occurring in this state if that business location is in this state. Such transaction is deemed to have occurred in the county of the business location. When a retail transaction does not take place at the seller's business location, the transaction shall be treated as taking place at the consumer's shipping address or, if no item is shipped, at the consumer's address or the location associated with the consumer's mobile telephone number. Such transaction is deemed to have occurred in the county of the consumer's shipping address when items are shipped to the consumer or, when no items are shipped, the county of the consumer's address or the location associated with the consumer's mobile telephone number. A transaction for which the specific Florida county cannot be determined shall be treated as nonspecific.

(e) If a prepaid wireless device is sold for a single, nonitemized price with a prepaid wireless service of 10 minutes or less or $5 or less, the seller may elect not to apply the prepaid wireless E911 fee to the transaction.

(f) The amount of the prepaid wireless E911 fee that is collected by a seller from a consumer and that is separately stated on an invoice, receipt, or similar document provided to the consumer by the seller, may not be included in the base for imposition of any tax, fee, surcharge, or other charge that is imposed by this state, any political subdivision of this state, or any intergovernmental agency.

(g) Beginning April 1, 2015, each seller shall file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected in the previous month to the Department of Revenue on or before the 20th day of the month. If the 20th day falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, payments accompanied by returns are due on the next succeeding day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday observed by federal or state agencies as defined in chapter 683 and s. 7503 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. A seller may remit the prepaid wireless

E911 fee by electronic funds transfer and file a fee return with the Department of Revenue that is initiated through an electronic data interchange.

1. When a seller is authorized by the Department of Revenue pursuant to s. 212.11(1)(c) or (d) to file a sales and use tax return on a quarterly, semiannual, or annual reporting basis, the seller may file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees on or before the 20th day of the month following the authorized reporting period for sales and use tax.

2. A seller collecting less than $50 per month of prepaid wireless E911 fees may file a quarterly return for the calendar quarters ending in March, June, September, and December. The seller must file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected during each calendar quarter on or before the 20th day of the month following that calendar quarter.

3. A seller must provide the following information on each prepaid wireless E911 fee return filed with the Department of Revenue:

a. The seller’s name, federal identification number, taxpayer identification number issued by the Department of Revenue, business location address and mailing address, and county of the business location in accordance with paragraph (d);

b. The reporting period;

c. The number of prepaid wireless services sold during the reporting period;

d. The amount of prepaid wireless E911 fees collected and the amount of any adjustments to the fees collected;

e. The amount of any retailer collection allowance deducted from the amount of prepaid wireless E911 fees collected; and

f. The amount to be remitted to the Department of Revenue.

4. A seller who operates two or more business locations for which returns are required to be filed with the Department of Revenue may file a consolidated return reporting and remitting the prepaid wireless E911 fee for all business locations. Such sellers must report the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected in each county, in accordance with paragraph (d), on a reporting schedule filed with the fee return.

5. A return is not required for a reporting period when no prepaid wireless E911 fee is to be remitted for that period.

6. The Department of Revenue shall administer, collect, and enforce the fee under this subsection pursuant to the same procedures used in the administration, collection, and enforcement of the general state sales tax imposed under chapter 212, except as provided in this section. The provisions of chapter 212, regarding authority to audit and make assessments, keeping of books and records, and interest and penalties on delinquent fees shall apply. The provision of estimated tax liability in s. 212.11(1)(a) shall not apply to the prepaid wireless E911 fee.

(h) A seller of prepaid wireless services in this state must register with the Department of Revenue for each place of business as required by s. 212.18(3) and the Department of Revenue's administrative rule regarding registration as a sales and use tax dealer. A separate application is required for each place of business. (g) pursuant to the schedule, in order to implement E911 services in the most efficient and cost-effective manner.

The money shall be disbursed equitably to all of the counties using a timeframe and distribution methodology established by the board before September 1, 2007, in order to prevent a loss to the counties in the ordinary and expected time value of money caused by any timing delay in remittance to the counties of wireline fees caused by the one-time transfer of collecting wireline fees by the counties to the board. All disbursements for this purpose must be returned to the fund from future remittances by the nonwireless category.~~

e. After taking the action required in sub-subparagraphs a.-d., the board may review and, with all members participating in the vote, adjust the percentage allocations or adjust the amount of the fee as provided~~, or both,~~ under paragraph (8)(g) ~~(8)(h)~~, and, if the board determines that the revenues in the wireless category exceed the amount needed to reimburse wireless providers for the cost to implement E911 services, the board may transfer revenue to the counties from the existing funds within the wireless category. 6. Hire and retain employees, which may include an independent executive director who shall possess experience in the area of telecommunications and emergency 911 issues, for the purposes of performing the technical and administrative functions for the board.

18. Have the authority to secure the services of an independent, private attorney via invitation to bid, request for proposals, invitation to negotiate, or professional contracts for legal services already established at the Division of Purchasing of the Department of Management Services.

(b) Board members shall serve without compensation; however, members are entitled to per diem and travel expenses as provided in s. 112.061.

(f) The rate of the fee ~~shall be set by the board after considering the factors set forth in paragraphs (h) and (i), but~~ may not exceed 50 cents per month for ~~per~~ each service identifier. Effective on the first day of the month following 180 days after this act takes effect, the fee shall be 46 cents per month for each service identifier. The fee shall apply uniformly and be imposed throughout the state, except for those counties that, before July 1, 2007, had adopted an ordinance or resolution establishing a fee less than 50 cents per month per access line. In those counties the fee established by ordinance may be changed only to the uniform statewide rate no sooner than 30 days after notification is made by the county's board of county commissioners to the board.

~~(g) It is the intent of the Legislature that all revenue from the fee be used as specified in s. 365.173(2)(a)-(i).~~

(g)~~(h) No later than November 1, 2007,~~ The board may adjust the allocation percentages for distribution of the fund as provided in s. 365.173. No sooner than 1 year after the fee is imposed under paragraph (9)(a), the board may adjust the rate of the fee under paragraph (f) based on the criteria in this paragraph and paragraph (h). Any adjustment in the rate must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the total number of E911 board members. When setting the percentages or ~~and~~ contemplating any adjustments to the fee, the board shall consider the following:

1. The revenues currently allocated for wireless service provider costs for implementing E911 service and projected costs for implementing E911 service, including recurring costs for Phase I and Phase II and the effect of new technologies;

2. The appropriate level of funding needed to fund the rural grant program provided for in s. 365.173(2)(g); and

3. The need to fund statewide, regional, and county grants in accordance with sub-subparagraph (6)(a)3.b. and s. 365.173(2)(h).

(h)~~(i)~~ The board may adjust the allocation percentages or adjust the amount of the fee as provided in paragraph (g)~~, or both,~~ if necessary to ensure full cost recovery or prevent overrecovery of costs incurred in the provision of E911 service, including costs incurred or projected to be incurred to comply with the order. Any new allocation percentages or reduced or increased fee may not be adjusted for 1 year. In no event shall the fee ~~may not~~ exceed 50 cents per month for ~~per~~ each service identifier. The ~~board-established~~ fee, and any board adjustment of the fee, shall be uniform throughout the state, except for the counties identified in paragraph (f). No less than 90 days before the effective date of any adjustment to the fee, the board shall provide written notice of the adjusted fee amount and effective date to each voice communications services provider from which the board is then receiving the fee.

(i) It is the intent of the Legislature that all revenue from the fee be used as specified in s. 365.173(2)(a)-(i).

(j) State and local taxes do not apply to the fee. The amount of the E911 fee collected by a provider may not be included in the base for measuring any tax, fee, surcharge, or other charge imposed by this state, any political subdivision of this state, or any governmental agency.

(k) A local government may not levy the fee or any additional fee on providers or subscribers for the provision of E911 service.

(l) For purposes of this section, the definitions contained in s. 202.11 and the provisions of s. 202.155 apply in the same manner and to the same extent as the definitions and provisions apply to the taxes levied under chapter 202 on mobile communications services.

(9) PREPAID WIRELESS E911 FEE.—

(a) Effective on the first day of the month following 120 days after this act takes effect, a prepaid wireless E911 fee is imposed per retail transaction at the rate of 46 cents. In order to allow sellers of all sizes and technological capabilities adequate time to comply with this subsection, a seller of prepaid wireless service operating in this state before the prepaid wireless E911 fee is imposed shall retain 100 percent of the fee collected under this paragraph for the first 2 months to offset the cost of setup.

(b) Effective on the first day of the month following 180 days after this act takes effect, the prepaid wireless E911 fee is imposed per retail transaction at the rate established in paragraphs (8)(f)-(h) and shall be remitted in accordance with paragraph (g). In no event shall the fee exceed 50 cents for each retail transaction. At least 90 days before the effective date of any adjustment to the fee under paragraph (8)(g), the Department of Revenue shall provide written notice of the adjusted fee amount and its effective date to each seller from which the department is then receiving the fee. At least 120 days before the effective date of any adjustment to the fee imposed under this subsection, the board shall provide notice to the Department of Revenue of the adjusted fee amount and effective date of the adjustment.

(c) The prepaid wireless E911 fee shall be collected by the seller from the consumer with respect to each retail transaction occurring in this state. The amount of the prepaid wireless E911 fee shall be separately stated on an invoice, receipt, or other similar document that is provided to the consumer by the seller or otherwise disclosed to the consumer.

(d) For purposes of paragraph (c), a retail transaction that takes place in person by a consumer at a business location of the seller shall be treated as occurring in this state if that business location is in this state. Such transaction is deemed to have occurred in the county of the business location. When a retail transaction does not take place at the seller's business location, the transaction shall be treated as taking place at the consumer's shipping address or, if no item is shipped, at the consumer's address or the location associated with the consumer's mobile telephone number. Such transaction is deemed to have occurred in the county of the consumer's shipping address when items are shipped to the consumer or, when no items are shipped, the county of the consumer's address or the location associated with the consumer's mobile telephone number. A transaction for which the specific Florida county cannot be determined shall be treated as nonspecific.

(e) If a prepaid wireless device is sold for a single, nonitemized price with a prepaid wireless service of 10 minutes or less or $5 or less, the seller may elect not to apply the wireless E911 fee to the transaction.

(f) The amount of the prepaid wireless E911 fee that is collected by a seller from a consumer and that is separately stated on an invoice, receipt, or similar document provided to the consumer by the seller, may not be included in the base for measuring any tax, fee, surcharge, or other charge that is imposed by this state, any political subdivision of this state, or any intergovernmental agency.

(g) Beginning the month after the fee is imposed under paragraph (b), each seller shall file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected in the previous month to the Department of Revenue on or before the 20th day of the month. If the 20th day falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, payments accompanied by returns are due on the next succeeding day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday observed by federal or state agencies as defined in chapter 683 and s. 7503 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. A seller may remit the prepaid wireless E911 fee by electronic funds transfer and file a fee return with the Department of Revenue that is initiated through an electronic data interchange.

1. When a seller is authorized by the Department of Revenue pursuant to s. 212.11(1)(c) or (d) to file a sales and use tax return on a quarterly, semiannual, or annual reporting basis, the seller may file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees on or before the 20th day of the month following the authorized reporting period for sales and use tax.

2. A seller collecting less than $50 per month of prepaid wireless E911 fees may file a quarterly return for the calendar quarters ending in March, June, September, and December. The seller must file a return and remit the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected during each calendar quarter on or before the 20th day of the month following that calendar quarter.

3. A seller must provide the following information on each prepaid wireless E911 fee return filed with the Department of Revenue:

a. The seller's name, federal identification number, taxpayer identification number issued by the Department of Revenue, business location address and mailing address, and county of the business location in accordance with paragraph (d);

b. The reporting period;

c. The number of prepaid wireless services sold during the reporting period;

d. The amount of prepaid wireless E911 fees collected and the amount of any adjustments to the fees collected;

e. The amount of any retailer collection allowance deducted from the amount of prepaid wireless E911 fees collected; and

f. The amount to be remitted to the Department of Revenue.

4. A seller who operates two or more business locations for which returns are required to be filed with the Department of Revenue may file a consolidated return reporting and remitting the prepaid wireless E911 fee for all business locations. Such sellers must report the prepaid wireless E911 fees collected in each county, in accordance with paragraph (d), on a reporting schedule filed with the fee return.

5. A return is not required for a reporting period when no prepaid wireless E911 fee is to be remitted for that period.

6. The Department of Revenue serves as an agent of the E911 Board for collection of the prepaid wireless E911 fee, and the board retains the authority to administer the fee as provided in this section and s. 365.173.

(h) A seller of prepaid wireless services in this state must register with the Department of Revenue for each place of business as required by s. 212.18(3) and the Department of Revenue's administrative rule regarding registration as a sales and use tax dealer. A separate application is required for each place of business. A valid certificate of registration issued by the Department of Revenue to a seller for sales and use tax purposes is sufficient for purposes of the registration requirement of this subsection. There is no fee for registration for remittance of the prepaid wireless service E911 fee.

(i) The Department of Revenue shall deposit the funds remitted under this subsection into the Audit and Warrant Clearing Trust Fund established in s. 215.199 and retain up to 3.2 percent of the funds remitted under this subsection to reimburse its direct costs of administering the collection and remittance of prepaid wireless fees. Thereafter, the Department of Revenue shall transfer all remaining funds remitted under this subsection to the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund monthly for use as provided in s. 365.173.

(j) A seller may retain 5 percent of the prepaid wireless E911 fees that are collected under paragraph (b) by the seller from consumers as a retailer collection allowance.

(k) A provider or seller of prepaid wireless service is not liable for damages to any person resulting from or incurred in connection with providing or failing to provide 911 or E911 service or for identifying or failing to identify the telephone number, address, location, or name associated with any person or device that is accessing or attempting to access 911 or E911 service.

(l) A provider or seller of prepaid wireless service is not liable for damages to any person resulting from or incurred in connection with providing any lawful assistance to any investigative or law enforcement officer of the United States, any state, or any political subdivision of any state in connection with any lawful investigation or other law enforcement activity by such law enforcement officer.

(m) The limitations of liability under this subsection for providers and sellers are in addition to any other limitation of liability provided for under this section.

(n) A local government may not levy the fee or any additional fee on providers or sellers of prepaid wireless service for the provision of E911 service.

(o) For purposes of this section, the state and local governments are not consumers.

(p) For purposes of this subsection, the term:

1. "Consumer" means a person who purchases prepaid wireless service in a retail sale.

2. "Prepaid wireless E911 fee" means the fee that is required to be collected by a seller from a consumer as provided in this subsection.

3. "Provider" means a person that provides prepaid wireless service pursuant to a license issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

4. "Retail transaction" means the purchase by a consumer from a seller of prepaid wireless service that may be applied to a single service identifier for use by the consumer. If a consumer makes a purchase of multiple prepaid wireless services in a single transaction, each individual prepaid wireless service shall be considered a separate retail transaction for purposes of calculating the prepaid wireless E911 fee.

5. "Seller" means a person who makes retail sales of prepaid wireless services to a consumer.

(10) ~~(9)~~ AUTHORIZED EXPENDITURES OF E911 FEE.—

(a) For purposes of this section, E911 service includes the functions of database management, call taking, ~~dispatching,~~ location verification, and call transfer. Department of Health certification and recertification and training costs for 911 public safety telecommunications, including dispatching, are functions of 911 services.

(b) All costs directly attributable to the establishment or provision of E911 service and contracting for E911 services are eligible for expenditure of moneys derived from imposition of the fee authorized by this section. These costs include the acquisition, implementation, and maintenance of Public Safety Answering Point (PSAP) equipment and E911 service features, as defined in the providers' published schedules ~~Public Service Commission's lawfully approved 911 and E911 and related tariffs~~ or the acquisition, installation, and maintenance of other E911 equipment, including: circuits; call answering equipment; ~~,~~ call transfer equipment; ~~,~~ ANI or ALI controllers; ~~, ALI controllers,~~ ANI or ALI displays; ~~, ALI displays,~~ station instruments; ~~,~~ E911 telecommunications systems; ~~,~~ visual call information and storage devices; ~~,~~ recording equipment; ~~,~~ telephone devices and other equipment for the hearing impaired used in the E911 system; ~~,~~ PSAP backup power systems; ~~,~~ consoles; ~~,~~ automatic call distributors, and interfaces, including hardware and software, for computer-aided dispatch (CAD) systems; ~~,~~ integrated CAD systems for that portion of the systems used for E911 call taking; GIS system and software equipment and information displays; ~~,~~ network clocks; ~~,~~ salary and associated expenses for E911 call takers for that portion of their time spent taking and transferring E911 calls, salary, and associated expenses for a county to employ a full-time equivalent E911 coordinator position and a full-time equivalent mapping or geographical data position, and technical system maintenance, database, and administration personnel ~~and a staff assistant position per county~~ for the portion of their time spent administrating the E911 system; emergency medical, fire, and law enforcement prearrival instruction software; charts and training costs; ~~,~~ training costs for PSAP call takers, supervisors, and managers in the proper methods and techniques used in taking and transferring E911 calls; ~~,~~ costs to train and educate PSAP employees regarding E911 service or E911 equipment, including fees collected by the Department of Health for the certification and recertification of 911 public safety telecommunicators as required under s. 401.465; ~~,~~ and expenses required to develop and maintain all information, including ALI and ANI databases and other information source repositories, necessary to properly inform call takers as to location address, type of emergency, and other information directly relevant to the E911 call-taking and transferring function. Moneys derived from the fee may also be used for next-generation E911 network services, next-generation E911 database services, next-generation E911 equipment, and wireless E911 routing systems.

(c) The moneys may not be used to pay for any item not listed in this subsection, including, but not limited to, any capital or operational costs for emergency responses which occur after the call transfer to the responding public safety entity and the costs for constructing, leasing, maintaining, or renovating buildings, except for those building modifications necessary to maintain the security and environmental integrity of the PSAP and E911 equipment rooms.

Section 2. Effective on the date that the prepaid wireless E911 fee is imposed and remitted to the state under section 365.172(9)(b), Florida Statutes, as amended by this act, section 365.173, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

365.173 Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund.—

(1) REVENUES.—

(a) ~~All~~ Revenues derived from the fee levied on subscribers under s. 365.172(8) must be paid by the board into the State Treasury on or before the 15th day of each month. Such moneys must be accounted for in a special fund to be designated as the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund, a fund created in the Technology Program, or other office as designated by the Secretary of Management Services.~~,~~

(b) Revenues derived from the fee levied on prepaid wireless service under s. 365.172(9), less the costs of administering collection of the fee, must be transferred by the Department of Revenue to the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund on or before the 25th day of each month following the month of receipt. ~~and,~~

(c) For accounting purposes, the Emergency Communications Number E911 System Fund must be segregated into three ~~two~~ separate categories:

1.~~(a)~~ The wireless category; ~~and~~

2.~~(b)~~ The nonwireless category; and

3. The prepaid wireless category.

(d) All moneys must be invested by the Chief Financial Officer pursuant to s. 17.61. All moneys in such fund are to be expended by the office for the purposes provided in this section and s. 365.172. These funds are not subject to s. 215.20.

(2) DISTRIBUTION AND USE OF FUNDS.—As determined by the board pursuant to s. 365.172(8)(g) ~~s. 365.172(8)(h)~~, and subject to any modifications approved by the board pursuant to s. 365.172(6)(a)3. or (8)(h) ~~(8)(i)~~, the moneys in the fund shall be distributed and used only as follows:

(a) Seventy-six ~~Sixty-seven~~ percent of the moneys in the wireless category shall be distributed each month to counties, based on the total number of service identifiers in each county, and shall be used exclusively for payment of:

1. Authorized expenditures, as specified in s. 365.172(10) ~~s. 365.172(9)~~.

2. Costs to comply with the requirements for E911 service contained in the order and any future rules related to the order.

(b) Ninety-six ~~Ninety-seven~~ percent of the moneys in the nonwireless category shall be distributed each month to counties based on the total number of service identifiers in each county and shall be used exclusively for payment of authorized expenditures, as specified in s. 365.172(10) ~~s. 365.172(9)~~.

(c) Sixty-one percent of the moneys in the prepaid wireless category shall be distributed each month to counties based on the total amount of fees reported and paid in each county and shall be used exclusively for payment of authorized expenditures, as specified in s. 365.172(10). The moneys from prepaid wireless fees identified as nonspecific in accordance with s. 365.172(9) shall be distributed as determined by the E911 Board.

(d) ~~(c)~~ Any county that receives funds under paragraphs (a), ~~and~~ (b), and (c) shall establish a fund to be used exclusively for the receipt and expenditure of the revenues collected under paragraphs (a), ~~and~~ (b), and (c). All fees placed in the fund and any interest accrued shall be used solely for costs described in subparagraphs (a)1. and 2. and may not be reduced, withheld, or allocated for other purposes. The money collected and interest earned in this fund shall be appropriated for these purposes by the county commissioners and incorporated into the annual county budget. The fund shall be included within the financial audit performed in accordance with s. 218.39. The financial audit shall assure that all E911 fee revenues, interest, and E911 grant funding are used for payment of authorized expenditures, as specified in s. 365.172(10) and as specified in the E911 Board grant and special disbursement programs. The county is responsible for all expenditures of revenues distributed from the county E911 fund and shall submit the financial audit reports to the board for review. A county may carry forward up to 30 percent of the total funds disbursed to the county by the board during a county fiscal ~~calendar~~ year for expenditures for capital outlay, capital improvements, ~~or~~ equipment replacement, or implementation of a hosted system if such expenditures are made for the purposes specified in subparagraphs (a)1. and 2.; however, the 30-percent limitation does not apply to funds disbursed to a county under s. 365.172(6)(a)3., and a county may carry forward any percentage of the funds, except that any grant provided shall continue to be subject to any condition imposed by the board. In order to prevent an excess recovery of costs incurred in providing E911 service, a county that receives funds greater than the permissible E911 costs described in s. 365.172(10) ~~s. 365.172(9)~~, including the 30-percent carryforward allowance, must return the excess funds to the E911 board to be allocated under s. 365.172(6)(a).

(e) ~~(d)~~ Twenty ~~Thirty~~ percent of the moneys in the wireless category shall be distributed to wireless providers in response to sworn invoices submitted to the board by wireless providers to reimburse such wireless providers for the actual costs incurred to provide 911 or E911 service, including the costs of complying with the order. Such costs include costs and expenses incurred by wireless providers to design, purchase, lease, program, install, test, upgrade, operate, and maintain all necessary data, hardware, and software required to provide E911 service. Each wireless provider shall submit to the board, by August 1 of each year, a detailed estimate of the capital and operating expenses for which it anticipates that it will seek reimbursement under this paragraph during the ensuing state fiscal year. In order to be eligible for recovery during any ensuing state fiscal year, a wireless provider must submit all sworn invoices for allowable purchases made within the previous calendar year no later than March 31 of the fiscal year. By September 15 of each year, the board shall submit to the Legislature its legislative budget request for funds to be allocated to wireless providers under this paragraph during the ensuing state fiscal year. The budget request shall be based on the information submitted by the wireless providers and estimated surcharge revenues. Distributions of moneys in the fund by the board to wireless providers must be fair and nondiscriminatory. If the total amount of moneys requested by wireless providers pursuant to invoices submitted to the board and approved for payment exceeds the amount in the fund in any month, wireless providers that have invoices approved for payment shall receive a pro rata share of moneys in the fund and the balance of the payments shall be carried over to the following month or months until all of the approved payments are made. The board may adopt rules necessary to address the manner in which pro rata distributions are made when the total amount of funds requested by wireless providers pursuant to invoices submitted to the board exceeds the total amount of moneys on deposit in the fund.

~~(c) Notwithstanding paragraphs (a) and (d), the amount of money that remained in the wireless 911 system fund on December 31, 2006, must be disbursed to wireless providers for the recovery of allowable costs incurred in previous years ending December 31, 2006, and in accordance with paragraph (d). In order to be eligible for recovered costs incurred under paragraph (d), a wireless provider must submit sworn invoices to the board by December 31, 2007. The board must disburse the~~

(f) One percent of the moneys in each category of the fund shall be retained by the board to be applied to costs and expenses incurred for the purposes of managing, administering, and overseeing the receipts and disbursements from the fund and other activities as defined in s. 365.172(6). Any funds retained for such purposes in a calendar year which are not applied to such costs and expenses by March 31 of the following year shall be redistributed as determined by the board.

(g) Three ~~Two~~ percent of the moneys in each category of the fund shall be used to make monthly distributions to rural counties for the purpose of providing facilities and network and service enhancements and assistance for the 911 or E911 systems operated by rural counties and for the provision of grants by the office to rural counties for upgrading and replacing E911 systems.

(h) Thirty-five percent of the moneys in the prepaid wireless category shall be retained by the board to provide state E911 grants to be awarded in accordance with the following order of priority:

1. For all large, medium, and rural counties to upgrade or replace E911 systems.

2. For all large, medium, and rural counties to develop and maintain statewide 911 routing, geographic, and management information systems.

3. For all large, medium, and rural counties to develop and maintain next-generation 911 services and equipment. ~~By September 1, 2007, up to $15 million of the existing 911 system~~

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

~~fund shall be available for distribution by the board to the counties in order to prevent a loss in the ordinary and expected time value of money caused by any timing delay in remittance to the counties of wireline fees caused by the one-time transfer of collecting wireline fees by the counties to the board. All disbursements for this purpose must be returned to the fund from the future remittance by the nonwireless category.~~

(i) If the wireless category has funds remaining in it on December 31 after disbursements have been made during the calendar year immediately prior to December 31, the board may disburse the excess funds in the wireless category in accordance with s. 365.172(6)(a)3.b.

(3) The Legislature recognizes that the fee authorized under s. 365.172 may not necessarily provide the total funding required for establishing or providing the E911 service. It is the intent of the Legislature that all revenue from the fee be used as specified in ~~this~~ subsection (2).

Section 3. Paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of section 401.465, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

401.465 911 public safety telecommunicator certification.—

(2) PERSONNEL; STANDARDS AND CERTIFICATION.—

(a) Effective October 1, 2012, any person employed as a 911 public safety telecommunicator at a public safety answering point, as defined in s. 365.172(3) ~~s. 365.172(3)(a)~~, must be certified by the department.

Section 4. The Division of Law Revision and Information is directed to replace the phrase "on the first day of the month following 120 days after this act takes effect" or the phrase "on the first day of the month following 180 days after this act takes effect" wherever it occurs in this act with the respective date.

Section 5. For the 2014-2015 fiscal year, the nonrecurring sum of $500,000 is appropriated from the General Revenue Fund to the Department of Revenue for the purposes of administering this act.

Section 6. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this act, this act shall take effect upon becoming a law.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/CS/SB 312 allows property appraisers to approve late-filed applications for agricultural classification when extenuating circumstances exist.

The bill expands the definition of "livestock" to include aquacultural species certified pursuant to chapter 597. It also allows agricultural land to retain an agricultural classification when the land owner participates in a water retention program sponsored by a water management district or the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, and requires that these lands be assessed as nonproductive agricultural lands.

The bill also expands the sales tax exemption for certain farm equipment to include:

- Power farm equipment used in the storage of raw products on the farm;
- Irrigation equipment, including replacement parts and accessories;
- Repairs of power farm equipment and irrigation equipment; and
- The portion of the sales price below $20,000 of trailers that weigh 12,000 pounds or less, used in agricultural production and transportation of farm products.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has determined the provisions of this bill will reduce General Revenue Fund receipts by $13.6 million in Fiscal Year 2014-2015, with a recurring impact of $15 million, and the bill will reduce local property taxes by $100,000 in Fiscal Year 2015-2016 and future years.

II. Present Situation:

Property Valuation in Florida

The Florida Constitution requires that all property be assessed at just value (fair market value) for ad valorem tax purposes. However, sections 3, 4, and 6, Article VII of the Florida Constitution, provide for specified assessment limitations, property classifications, and exemptions. After the property appraiser has considered any assessment limitation or use classification affecting the just value of a property, the assessed value is determined. The assessed value is then reduced by any applicable exemptions to produce the taxable value.

Agricultural Property Classification

Section 193.461, F.S., provides that each county's property appraiser shall, for assessment purposes on an annual basis, classify all lands within a county as agricultural or nonagricultural. For property to be classified as agricultural land, it must be used "primarily for bona fide agricultural purposes." Agricultural purposes include, but are not limited to: horticulture; floriculture; viticulture; forestry; dairy; livestock; poultry; bee; pisciculture, when the land is used principally for the production of tropical fish; aquaculture, including algaculture; sod farming; and all forms of farm products and farm production.

Property appraisers are required to reclassify lands as nonagricultural when they are diverted from an agricultural to a nonagricultural use or no longer utilized for agricultural purposes.

In response to the spread of citrus canker, the 2000 Legislature authorized lands to retain agricultural classification and be assessed at a de minimis value of no more than $50 per acre if the owner took the land out of production due to a state or federal eradication or quarantine program. These lands retain the agricultural classification and de minimis assessment as long as they are not used to produce income or used for a nonagricultural use.

Property owners must submit applications for agricultural classification by March 1 of each year.[1] If a property owner submits an application after March 1, the property owner must petition the value adjustment board and show extenuating circumstances that warrant granting the classification; the property appraiser is not authorized to review late applications.[2]

Water Retention Programs

The Legislature has encouraged and supported development of creative public-private partnerships and programs that facilitate or further the restoration of the surface water resources of the Lake Okeechobee watershed, the Caloosahatchee River watershed, and the St. Lucie River watershed. Since 2005, the South Florida Water Management District has been working with agencies, environmental organizations, land owners, and researchers to enhance opportunities for storing excess surface water on private and public lands. Over the years, these efforts have made thousands of acre-feet of water retention and storage available.

Water retention systems serve to control storm water volume before it is discharged to surface waters or floods urban areas. The systems also act to minimize point source and non-point source pollution prior to its entry into streams, natural wetlands, and other receiving waters. These systems vary widely in their pollutant removal capabilities, but can effectively remove a number of contaminants with removal rates as high as 95 and 99 percent for some non-dissolved nutrients and pesticides, respectively.

Eight Florida ranchers participated in a $6 million pilot program run by the South Florida Water Management District called the "Florida Ranchlands Environmental Services Project." The program, which ran from 2006 to 2011, paid ranchers to construct water retention areas on their properties that acted as natural phosphorous filters. In addition to construction costs, the program paid ranchers for annual maintenance and a participation fee for three years. The district also created a $3 million water farming pilot project that paid citrus growers to build systems to store excess water on fallow citrus land before it can flow into estuaries.

When an agricultural landowner enters into an agreement with a water management district or the Department of Environmental Protection for water storage or water quality improvements on private land, the extent of existing wetlands and other surface waters must be established in the agreement.[3]This "baseline determination" is later needed so that any increase in wetlands or surface water as a result of the project does not subject the landowner to increased regulatory requirements.

As part of Florida's pollution control requirements, Florida establishes the amount of a pollutant that a water body may receive without exceeding water quality standards.[4] The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is authorized to establish best management practices to reduce agricultural pollutants.[5]

Sales and Use Tax

Florida provides the following sales tax exemptions relating to livestock:

- The gross proceeds from the sale of livestock directly from the farm;[6]
- The use of livestock or livestock products by the farmer;[7]
- Disinfectants, insecticides and pesticides used in dairy barns or on poultry farms for the purpose of protecting livestock;[8] and
- The sale of feed for livestock.[9]

[9] Section 212.08(7)(d), F.S.

"Livestock" is defined as "all animals of the equine, bovine, or swine class, including goats, sheep, mules, horses, hogs, cattle, ostriches, and other grazing animals raised for commercial purposes[,] . . . [and] fish raised for commercial purposes."[10]

Florida provides a sales tax exemption for certain farm equipment. In order to qualify, the equipment must be "power farm equipment" used exclusively on a farm or in a forest for the agricultural production of crops or for fire prevention and suppression work with respect to such crops. The exemption applies to the "sale, rental, lease, use, consumption or storage for use in this state of power farm equipment"; the provision does not exempt the repair of power farm equipment.

"Power farm equipment" is limited to moving or stationary equipment that contains within itself the means for its own propulsion or depends upon an external power source to perform its functions. Sales of component parts of power farm equipment are not exempt unless the component part is, by itself, power farm equipment. For example, the sale of a complete irrigation supply system would be exempt as the sale of power farm equipment; however, the sale of a pipe that will be used to update an existing system is not exempt.

Agricultural production is limited to practices necessary to accomplish the production of plants and animals through the harvest phase. Power farm equipment used in activities that occur after harvesting, such as processing, is not exempt.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 allows property appraisers to review late applications for agricultural classification and approve the application if the property owner demonstrates that he or she was unable to apply timely or otherwise demonstrates extenuating circumstances for not having filed in a timely manner.

The bill also allows agricultural lands to be used in water retention programs sponsored by the Department of Environmental Protection or a water management district without losing their agricultural classification. These lands will be assessed as nonproductive agricultural lands. If these lands are diverted to a nonagricultural use, they will be subject to normal assessment procedures.

Section 2 amends the definition of "livestock" to include all aquaculture species that are certified under chapter 597 and raised for commercial purposes.

The bill also amends the definition of "agricultural production" to include the storage of raw products on the farm, thereby expanding the exemption for power farm equipment to include certain equipment used in the storage of agricultural products.

Section 3 amends the exemption for farm equipment to include:
- Irrigation equipment;
- The repair of power farm equipment and irrigation equipment;

[10] Section 212.02(29), F.S.

- Replacement parts and accessories for power farm equipment or irrigation equipment; and
- The portion of a sales price below $20,000 for trailers weighing 12,000 pounds or less that are purchased by a farmer and used by the farmer to transport farm products from his or her farm to the first point of sale.

The bill also exempts stakes used by a farmer to support plants during agricultural production.

Section 4 allows a landowner that enters into an agreement to implement best management practices with the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services to establish a baseline of wetlands and other surface waters, at the landowner's expense, and document the baseline in the best management practices implementation agreement. The determination will serve as the baseline for future agricultural pollutant analysis.

Section 5 provides that the bill will take effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Subsection (b) of s. 18, Art. VII of the Florida Constitution provides that, except upon approval of each house of the Legislature by two-thirds vote of the membership, the Legislature may not enact, amend, or repeal any general law, if the anticipated effect of doing so would be to reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenue in the aggregate, as such authority existed on February 1, 1989.

PCS/CS/SB 312 provides property tax and sales tax exemptions that will reduce municipalities' and counties' property tax and sales tax collections, thereby reducing their revenue-raising authority. However, an exemption from the mandates provision may apply because the reduction in local governments' revenue-raising authority may result in an insignificant fiscal impact.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference has determined that the provisions of PCS/CS/SB 312 will reduce General Revenue receipts by $13.6 million in Fiscal Year 2014-2015, with a recurring impact of $15 million, and the bill will reduce local property taxes by $100,000 in Fiscal Year 2015-2016 and future years.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under the conditions described in the bill, participants in water retention programs may have reduced ad valorem tax liability for flooded lands. The legislation allows agricultural producers to benefit from reduced tax liability for purchases of specified agricultural items, such as parts and repairs for irrigation equipment.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 193.461, 212.02, 212.08, and 373.4591.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

Recommended CS/CS by Appropriations Subcommittee on Finance and Tax on April 2, 2014:
The CS/CS:

- Allows property appraisers to approve late-filed applications for agricultural classification under certain circumstances;
- Provides that agricultural land used in a dispersed water storage program will be assessed as nonproductive agricultural land, and will be subject to statutory assessment procedures if it is diverted to a nonagricultural use;
- Expands the definition of "livestock" to include all aquaculture certified under chapter 597;
- Limits new the sales tax exemption for power farm equipment used for storage to equipment used to store raw products on the farm;
- Limits the new sales tax exemption for trailers use for agricultural purposes to the portion of sales prices below $20,000 for trailers weighing 12,000 pounds or less;
- Creates a sales tax exemption for stakes used by a farmer to support plants during agricultural production; and
- Expands the ability of a landowner that participates in water storage programs to use a baseline determination of wetlands and other surface waters for future regulatory requirements to also allow a baseline to be used for best management practices implementation agreements regarding agricultural pollutants.

CS by Community Affairs on January 8, 2014:

The CS classifies flooded lands as agricultural lands for property tax valuation purposes, instead of classifying the use of such lands as non-income-producing. Flooded lands in recognized water storage programs, or successor programs, would be assessed at a de minimis value, on a single year methodology, and this provision would not expire.

The CS removes provisions that would have defined "qualified agricultural producer," and authorized the Department of Revenue to issue certificates for agricultural sales and use tax exemptions.

B. Amendments:

None.

are hereby specifically exempt from the tax imposed by this chapter.

(3) EXEMPTIONS; CERTAIN FARM EQUIPMENT.—A ~~There shall be no~~ tax may not be imposed on the sale, rental, lease, use, consumption, or storage for use in this state of power farm equipment or irrigation equipment used exclusively on a farm or in a forest in the agricultural production of crops or products as produced by those agricultural industries included in s. 570.02(1), or for fire prevention and suppression work with respect to such crops or products. This exemption also applies to replacement parts and accessories for irrigation equipment and repairs to irrigation equipment. Harvesting may not be construed to include processing activities. This exemption is not forfeited by moving farm equipment between farms or forests. However, this exemption shall not be allowed unless the purchaser, renter, or lessee signs a certificate stating that the farm equipment is to be used exclusively on a farm or in a forest for agricultural production or for fire prevention and suppression, as required by this subsection. Possession by a seller, lessor, or other dealer of a written certification by the purchaser, renter, or lessee certifying the purchaser's, renter's, or lessee's entitlement to an exemption permitted by this subsection relieves the seller from the responsibility of collecting the tax on the nontaxable amounts, and the department shall look solely to the purchaser for recovery of such tax if it determines that the purchaser was not entitled to the exemption.

373.4591 Improvements on private agricultural lands.—The Legislature encourages public-private partnerships to accomplish water storage and water quality improvements on private agricultural lands. When an agreement is entered into between a water management district or the department and a private landowner to establish such a partnership, a baseline condition determining the extent of wetlands and other surface waters on the property shall be established and documented in the agreement before improvements are constructed. When an agreement is entered into between the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services and a private landowner to implement best management practices pursuant to s. 403.067(7)(c), a baseline condition determining the extent of wetlands and other surface waters on the property may be established at the option and expense of the private landowner and documented in the agreement before improvements are constructed. The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services shall submit the landowner's proposed baseline condition documentation to the lead agency for review and approval, and the agency shall make every effort to complete the review within 45 days. Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Paragraph (a) of subsection (3) and subsection

(7) of section 193.461, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

193.461 Agricultural lands; classification and assessment; mandated eradication or quarantine program.—

(3)(a) ~~No~~ Lands may not ~~shall~~ be classified as agricultural lands unless a return is filed on or before March 1 of each year. The property appraiser, before so classifying such lands, may require the taxpayer or the taxpayer's representative to furnish the property appraiser such information as may reasonably be required to establish that such lands were actually used for a bona fide agricultural purpose. Failure to make timely application by March 1 shall constitute a waiver for 1 year of the privilege herein granted for agricultural assessment. However, an applicant who is qualified to receive an agricultural classification who fails to file an application by March 1 must ~~may~~ file an application for the classification with the property appraiser within 25 days after the property appraiser mails the notices required under s. 194.011(1). Upon receipt of sufficient evidence, as determined by the property appraiser, demonstrating that the applicant was unable to apply for the classification in a timely manner or otherwise demonstrating extenuating circumstances judged by the property appraiser to warrant granting the classification, the property appraiser may grant the classification. If the applicant fails to produce sufficient evidence demonstrating that the applicant was unable to apply for the classification in a timely manner or otherwise demonstrating extenuating circumstances as judged by the property appraiser, the applicant ~~and~~ may file, pursuant to s. 194.011(3), a petition with the value adjustment board requesting that the classification be granted. The petition may be filed at any time during the taxable year on or before the 25th day following the mailing of the notice by the property appraiser as provided in s. 194.011(1). Notwithstanding ~~the provisions of~~ s. 194.013, the applicant must pay a nonrefundable fee of $15 upon filing the petition. Upon reviewing the petition, if the person is qualified to receive the classification and demonstrates particular extenuating circumstances judged by the ~~property appraiser or the~~ value adjustment board to warrant granting the classification, ~~the property appraiser or~~ the value adjustment board may grant the classification for the current year. The owner of land that was classified agricultural in the previous year and whose ownership or use has not changed may reapply on a short form as provided by the department. The lessee of property may make original application or reapply using the short form if the lease, or an affidavit executed by the owner, provides that the lessee is empowered to make application for the agricultural classification on behalf of the owner and a copy of the lease or affidavit accompanies the application. A county may, at the request of the property appraiser and by a majority vote of its governing body, waive the requirement that an annual application or statement be made for classification of property within the county after an initial application is made and the classification granted by the property appraiser. Such waiver may be revoked by a majority vote of the governing body of the county.

(7)(a) Lands classified for assessment purposes as agricultural lands which are taken out of production by a ~~any~~ state or federal eradication or quarantine program shall continue to be classified as agricultural lands for the duration of such program or successor programs. Lands under these programs which are converted to fallow~~,~~ or otherwise nonincome-producing uses shall continue to be classified as agricultural lands and shall be assessed at a de minimis value of up to ~~no more than~~ $50 per acre, on a single year assessment methodology; however, lands converted to other income-producing agricultural uses permissible under such programs shall be assessed pursuant to this section. Land under a mandated eradication or quarantine program which is diverted from an agricultural to a nonagricultural use shall be assessed under s. 193.011.

(b) Lands classified for assessment purposes as agricultural lands which participate in a dispersed water storage program pursuant to a contract with the Department of Environmental Protection or a water management district which requires flooding of land shall continue to be classified as agricultural lands for the duration of the inclusion of the lands in such program or successor programs and shall be assessed as nonproductive agricultural lands. Land under a dispersed water storage program which is diverted to a nonagricultural use shall be assessed under s. 193.011.

Section 2. Subsections (29) and (32) of section 212.02, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

212.02 Definitions.—The following terms and phrases when used in this chapter have the meanings ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

(29) "Livestock" includes all animals of the equine, bovine, or swine class, including goats, sheep, mules, horses, hogs, cattle, ostriches, and other grazing animals raised for commercial purposes. The term ~~"livestock" shall~~ also includes all aquaculture species that are certified under chapter 597 and ~~include fish~~ raised for commercial purposes.

(32) "Agricultural production" means the production of plants and animals useful to humans, including the preparation, planting, cultivating, or harvesting of these products or any other practices necessary to accomplish production through the harvest phase, including storage of raw products on the farm. The term ~~and~~ includes aquaculture, horticulture, floriculture, viticulture, forestry, dairy, livestock, poultry, bees, and any and all forms of farm products and farm production.

Section 3. Subsection (3) and paragraph (a) of subsection (5) of section 212.08, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

212.08 Sales, rental, use, consumption, distribution, and storage tax; specified exemptions.—The sale at retail, the rental, the use, the consumption, the distribution, and the storage to be used or consumed in this state of the following are hereby specifically exempt from the tax imposed by this chapter.

(3) EXEMPTIONS; CERTAIN FARM EQUIPMENT.—

(a) A ~~There shall be no~~ tax may not be imposed on the sale, rental, lease, use, consumption, repair, or storage for use in this state of power farm equipment or irrigation equipment, including replacement parts and accessories for power farm equipment or irrigation equipment, which are used exclusively on a farm or in a forest in the agricultural production of crops or products ~~as~~ produced by those agricultural industries included in s. 570.02(1), or for fire prevention and suppression work with respect to such crops or products. Harvesting may not be construed to include processing activities. This exemption is not forfeited by moving farm equipment between farms or forests.

This exemption is not forfeited by using a trailer to transport the farmer's farm equipment. The exemption provided under this paragraph does not apply to the lease or rental of a trailer.

water storage and water quality improvements on private agricultural lands. When an agreement is entered into between a water management district or the department and a private landowner to establish such a partnership, a baseline condition determining the extent of wetlands and other surface waters on the property shall be established and documented in the agreement before improvements are constructed. When the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services and a landowner agree to a plan to implement best management practices pursuant to s. 403.067(7)(c), a baseline condition determining the extent of wetlands and other surface waters on the property may be established at the option and expense of the landowner and documented in the best management practice implementation agreement before improvements are constructed. The determination for the baseline condition shall be conducted using the methods set forth in the rules adopted pursuant to s. 373.421. The baseline condition documented in the agreement shall be considered the extent of wetlands and other surface waters on the property for the purpose of regulation under this chapter for the duration of the agreement and after its expiration.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 312 allows property appraisers to approve late-filed applications for agricultural classification when extenuating circumstances exist.

The bill allows agricultural land to retain an agricultural classification when the land owner participates in a water retention program sponsored by a water management district or the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, and requires that these lands be assessed as nonproductive agricultural lands.

The bill also expands the sales tax exemption for certain farm equipment to include:

- Irrigation equipment, including replacement parts and accessories; and
- Repairs of irrigation equipment.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has determined the provisions of this bill will reduce General Revenue Fund receipts by $2.2 million in Fiscal Year 2014-2015, with a recurring impact of $2.4 million, and the bill will reduce local property taxes by $100,000 in Fiscal Year 2015-2016 and future years.

II. Present Situation:

Property Valuation in Florida

The Florida Constitution requires that all property be assessed at just value (fair market value) for ad valorem tax purposes. However, sections 3, 4, and 6, Article VII of the Florida Constitution, provide for specified assessment limitations, property classifications, and exemptions. After the property appraiser has considered any assessment limitation or use classification affecting the just value of a property, the assessed value is determined. The assessed value is then reduced by any applicable exemptions to produce the taxable value.

Agricultural Property Classification

Section 193.461, F.S., provides that each county's property appraiser shall, for assessment purposes on an annual basis, classify all lands within a county as agricultural or nonagricultural. For property to be classified as agricultural land, it must be used "primarily for bona fide agricultural purposes." Agricultural purposes include, but are not limited to: horticulture; floriculture; viticulture; forestry; dairy; livestock; poultry; bee; pisciculture, when the land is used principally for the production of tropical fish; aquaculture, including algaculture; sod farming; and all forms of farm products and farm production.

Property appraisers are required to reclassify lands as nonagricultural when they are diverted from an agricultural to a nonagricultural use or no longer utilized for agricultural purposes.

In response to the spread of citrus canker, the 2000 Legislature authorized lands to retain agricultural classification and be assessed at a de minimis value of no more than $50 per acre if the owner took the land out of production due to a state or federal eradication or quarantine program. These lands retain the agricultural classification and de minimis assessment as long as they are not used to produce income or used for a nonagricultural use.

Property owners must submit applications for agricultural classification by March 1 of each year.[1] If a property owner submits an application after March 1, the property owner must petition the value adjustment board and show extenuating circumstances that warrant granting the classification; the property appraiser is not authorized to review late applications.[2]

Water Retention Programs

The Legislature has encouraged and supported development of creative public-private partnerships and programs that facilitate or further the restoration of the surface water resources of the Lake Okeechobee watershed, the Caloosahatchee River watershed, and the St. Lucie River watershed. Since 2005, the South Florida Water Management District has been working with agencies, environmental organizations, land owners, and researchers to enhance opportunities for storing excess surface water on private and public lands. Over the years, these efforts have made thousands of acre-feet of water retention and storage available.

[2] Id.

Water retention systems serve to control storm water volume before it is discharged to surface waters or floods urban areas. The systems also act to minimize point source and non-point source pollution prior to its entry into streams, natural wetlands, and other receiving waters. These systems vary widely in their pollutant removal capabilities, but can effectively remove a number of contaminants with removal rates as high as 95 and 99 percent for some non-dissolved nutrients and pesticides, respectively.

Eight Florida ranchers participated in a $6 million pilot program run by the South Florida Water Management District called the "Florida Ranchlands Environmental Services Project." The program, which ran from 2006 to 2011, paid ranchers to construct water retention areas on their properties that acted as natural phosphorous filters. In addition to construction costs, the program paid ranchers for annual maintenance and a participation fee for three years. The district also created a $3 million water farming pilot project that paid citrus growers to build systems to store excess water on fallow citrus land before it can flow into estuaries.

When an agricultural landowner enters into an agreement with a water management district or the Department of Environmental Protection for water storage or water quality improvements on private land, the extent of existing wetlands and other surface waters must be established in the agreement.[3] This "baseline determination" is later needed so that any increase in wetlands or surface water as a result of the project does not subject the landowner to increased regulatory requirements.

As part of Florida's pollution control requirements, Florida establishes the amount of a pollutant that a water body may receive without exceeding water quality standards.[4] The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is authorized to establish best management practices to reduce agricultural pollutants.[5]

Sales and Use Tax

Florida provides a sales tax exemption for certain farm equipment. In order to qualify, the equipment must be "power farm equipment" used exclusively on a farm or in a forest for the agricultural production of crops or for fire prevention and suppression work with respect to such crops. The exemption applies to the "sale, rental, lease, use, consumption or storage for use in this state of power farm equipment"; the provision does not exempt the repair of power farm equipment.

"Power farm equipment" is limited to moving or stationary equipment that contains within itself the means for its own propulsion or depends upon an external power source to perform its functions. Sales of component parts of power farm equipment are not exempt unless the component part is, by itself, power farm equipment. For example, the sale of a complete irrigation supply system would be exempt as the sale of power farm equipment; however, the sale of a pipe that will be used to update an existing system is not exempt.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 allows property appraisers to review late applications for agricultural classification and approve the application if the property owner demonstrates that he or she was unable to apply timely or otherwise demonstrates extenuating circumstances for not having filed in a timely manner.

The bill also allows agricultural lands to be used in water retention programs sponsored by the Department of Environmental Protection or a water management district without losing their agricultural classification. These lands will be assessed as nonproductive agricultural lands. If these lands are diverted to a nonagricultural use, they will be subject to normal assessment procedures.

Section 2 amends the sales tax exemption for farm equipment to include:

- Irrigation equipment;
- The repair of irrigation equipment; and
- Replacement parts and accessories for irrigation equipment.

Section 3 allows a landowner that enters into an agreement to implement best management practices with the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services to establish a baseline of wetlands and other surface waters, at the landowner's expense, and document the baseline in the best management practices implementation agreement. The determination will serve as the baseline for future agricultural pollutant analysis. The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services must submit the determination to the lead agency for approval and the lead agency must make every effort to complete the review within 45 days. The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, the Department of Environmental Protection and the water management districts shall coordinate on a process for approving these requests.

Section 4 provides that the bill will take effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Subsection (b) of s. 18, Art. VII of the Florida Constitution provides that, except upon approval of each house of the Legislature by two-thirds vote of the membership, the Legislature may not enact, amend, or repeal any general law, if the anticipated effect of doing so would be to reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenue in the aggregate, as such authority existed on February 1, 1989.

The bill provides property tax and sales tax exemptions that will reduce municipalities' and counties' property tax and sales tax collections, thereby reducing their revenue-raising authority. However, an exemption from the mandates provision may apply because the reduction in local governments' revenue-raising authority may result in an insignificant fiscal impact.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference has determined that the provisions of CS/CS/SB 312 will reduce General Revenue receipts by $2.2 million in Fiscal Year 2014-2015, with a recurring impact of $2.4 million, and the bill will reduce local property taxes by $100,000 in Fiscal Year 2015-2016 and future years.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under the conditions described in the bill, participants in water retention programs may have reduced ad valorem tax liability for flooded lands. The legislation allows agricultural producers to benefit from reduced tax liability for purchases of specified agricultural items, such as parts and repairs for irrigation equipment.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 193.461, 212.08, and 373.4591.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The CS/CS:

- Allows property appraisers to approve late-filed applications for agricultural classification under certain circumstances;

- Provides that agricultural land used in a dispersed water storage program will be assessed as nonproductive agricultural land, and will be subject to statutory assessment procedures if it is diverted to a nonagricultural use;
- Removes the provisions of the bill that expand the sales tax exemption for power farm equipment to include repairs, repair parts and accessories for power farm equipment;
- Removes the provisions of the bill that expand the definition of "agricultural production" to include storage;
- Removes the provision of the bill that create a sales tax exemption for trailers used in agricultural production and transportation of farm products; and
- Expands the ability of a landowner that participates in water storage programs to use a baseline determination of wetlands and other surface waters for future regulatory requirements to also allow a baseline to be used for best management practices implementation agreements regarding agricultural pollutants.

CS by Community Affairs on January 8, 2014:

The CS classifies flooded lands as agricultural lands for property tax valuation purposes, instead of classifying the use of such lands as non-income-producing. Flooded lands in recognized water storage programs, or successor programs, would be assessed at a de minimis value, on a single year methodology, and this provision would not expire.

The CS removes provisions that would have defined "qualified agricultural producer," and authorized the Department of Revenue to issue certificates for agricultural sales and use tax exemptions.

B. Amendments:

Section 3. Subsection (3) of section 212.08, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

212.08 Sales, rental, use, consumption, distribution, and storage tax; specified exemptions.—The sale at retail, the rental, the use, the consumption, the distribution, and the storage to be used or consumed in this state of the following are hereby specifically exempt from the tax imposed by this chapter.

(3) EXEMPTIONS; CERTAIN FARM EQUIPMENT.—There shall be no tax on the sale, rental, lease, use, consumption, repair, or storage for use in this state of power farm equipment and irrigation equipment, including replacement parts and accessories for such equipment, which are used exclusively on a farm or in a forest in the agricultural production of crops or products ~~as~~ produced by those agricultural industries included in s. 570.02(1), or for fire prevention and suppression work with respect to such crops or products. Trailers used in agricultural production and the transportation of farm products from the farm to the first point of sale are also exempt from such tax. Harvesting may not be construed to include processing activities. This exemption is not forfeited by moving farm equipment between farms or forests. However, this exemption may ~~shall~~ not be allowed unless the purchaser, renter, or lessee signs a certificate stating that the farm equipment is to be used exclusively on a farm or in a forest for agricultural production or for fire prevention and suppression, as required by this subsection. Possession by a seller, lessor, or other dealer of a written certification by the purchaser, renter, or lessee certifying the purchaser's, renter's, or lessee's entitlement to an exemption permitted by this subsection relieves the seller from the responsibility of collecting the tax on the nontaxable amounts, and the department shall look solely to the purchaser for recovery of such tax if it determines that the purchaser was not entitled to the exemption.

Section 4. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	SB 388
INTRODUCER:	Senator Bean
SUBJECT:	Public Retirement Plans
DATE:	April 23, 2014
REVISED:

	ANALYST	STAFF DIRECTOR	REFERENCE	ACTION
1.	McVaney	McVaney	GO	Favorable
2.	White	Yeatman	CA	Favorable
3.	Fournier	Diez-Arguelles	AFT	Favorable
4.	Fournier	Kynoch	AP	Favorable

I. Summary:

SB 388 provides that a consolidated government that has entered into an interlocal agreement to provide police protection services to an incorporated municipality is eligible to receive the premium taxes reported for the municipality under certain circumstances. The bill authorizes the municipality receiving the police protection services to enact an ordinance levying the premium tax as provided by law and authorizes distribution of the premium tax revenues to the consolidated government as long as the interlocal agreement is in effect.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has estimated that this legislation will have an insignificant, negative fiscal impact on the state General Revenue Fund and a corresponding insignificant, positive fiscal impact on local government revenues by shifting these tax revenues from the state to the local governments.

II. Present Situation:

Municipal Police Pensions

Chapter 185, F.S., provides funding for municipal police officers' pension plans. It provides for a "uniform retirement system" with defined benefit retirement plans for municipal police officers and sets standards for the operation and funding of these pension systems.[1] Each municipality with a municipal police officers' retirement trust fund is authorized to assess an excise tax of .85 percent of the gross amount of receipts of premiums from policyholders on casualty insurance policies covering property within its corporate limits.[2] Revenues from this excise tax are one of the funding sources for police officers' pension plans. Currently, a municipality is eligible to receive state premium taxes (or excise taxes) only on those premiums for casualty insurance policies covering property within its municipal limits. A municipality that provides police protection services outside of its municipal limits through an interlocal agreement is not eligible to receive premium tax revenue for casualty policies covering the property where the service is being provided.[3]

[2] Section 185.08, F.S.

In order to qualify for the premium taxes, a police officers' pension plan must meet certain requirements in ch. 185, F.S.[4] The Department of Management Services (DMS) oversees and monitors these pension plans; however, day-to-day operational control rests with local boards of trustees.[5] Any premium taxes collected and distributed to a municipality for funding police officers' pension plans have a negative impact on the General Revenue Fund because those premium taxes paid by an insurance company under ch. 185, F.S., to a municipality are allowed as a credit against premium taxes the insurance company must pay to the state under s. 624.509, F.S.

Chapter 185, F.S., applies only to municipalities organized and established pursuant to the laws of the state, and does not apply to the unincorporated areas of any county or counties or to any governmental entity whose police officers are eligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System.

Firefighter Pensions

Under current law, a municipality may receive another municipality's premium tax revenues (associated with the tax on property insurance premiums) when there is an interlocal agreement in place to provide fire protection services.[6] The municipality receiving fire services must levy the tax authorized by ch. 175, F.S., and copies of the interlocal agreement and the municipal ordinance levying the tax must be provided to the Division of Retirement within DMS.

Consolidation

Consolidation combines city and county governments so that the boundaries of the county and an affected city or cities become the same. Consolidation can be total or partial. Total consolidation occurs when all independent governmental units within a county are assimilated into the consolidated government. When some of the governments remain independent, the consolidation is partial. Nationally, few successful city-county consolidations exist. According to the National Association of Counties, only 31 of the 3,066 county governments in the United States are combined city/county governments.

Section 3, Article VIII, of the Florida Constitution, provides:

> Consolidation. —The government of a county and the government of one or more municipalities located therein may be consolidated into a single government which may exercise any and all powers of the county and the several municipalities. The consolidation plan may be proposed only by > special law, which shall become effective if approved by vote of the electors of the county, or of the county and municipalities affected. Consolidation shall not extend the territorial scope of taxation for the payment of pre-existing debt except to areas whose residents receive a benefit from the facility or service for which the indebtedness was incurred.

Prior to 1933, the Florida Constitution of 1885 was silent on the subject of consolidation. The 1933 Legislature proposed a constitutional amendment specifically declaring its own power to establish a municipal corporation consolidating the governments of Duval County and any of the municipalities within its boundaries, subject to referendum approval of the affected voters. The electorate of Florida adopted this amendment in 1934.

The voters of the City of Jacksonville and Duval County did not adopt a municipal charter pursuant to this constitutional provision until 1967, and to date, only Duval County and the City of Jacksonville have taken advantage of the specific constitutional authority to consolidate. Section 9, Art. VIII of the Constitution of 1885 establishes the Jacksonville/Duval County consolidated charter. Section 6(e), Art. VIII of the State Constitution provides that s. 9, Art. VIII of the Constitution of 1885 remains in full force and effect after the adoption of the 1968 revision. The municipalities of Atlantic Beach, Baldwin, Jacksonville Beach, and Neptune Beach are not consolidated with Duval County.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Sections 1 and 2 amend ss. 185.03 and 185.08, F.S., respectively, to allow a single consolidated government consisting of a former county and one or more municipalities, consolidated pursuant to s. 3 or s. 6(e), Art. VIII of the State Constitution, (Jacksonville/Duval County) to receive the distribution of premium tax revenues related to casualty insurance premiums covering property within a non-consolidated municipality with the county's boundaries. The consolidated government must notify the Division of Retirement of the DMS when it has entered into an interlocal agreement to provide police services to a municipality within its boundaries. The municipality may enact an ordinance levying the tax as provided in s. 185.08, F.S. Upon being provided copies of the interlocal agreement and the municipal ordinance levying the tax, DMS may distribute any premium taxes reported for the municipality to the consolidated government as long as the interlocal agreement is in effect.

Section 3 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

This bill does not appear to: require counties or municipalities to spend funds or take action requiring the expenditure of funds; reduce the authority that counties or municipalities have to raise revenues in the aggregate; or reduce the percentage of state tax shared with counties or municipalities.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference has estimated that SB 388 has a negative, insignificant fiscal impact on the state General Revenue Fund and a corresponding positive, insignificant fiscal impact on local government revenues by shifting these tax revenues from the state to the local governments.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The bill does not have a private sector impact. Although the bill authorizes a municipality to enact a tax on insurance premiums, the municipal taxes are fully credited against the state taxes on insurance premiums.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Department of Revenue (DOR) will be notified by the Division of Retirement (within the Department of Management Services) of any additional taxing jurisdiction that levies a tax on insurance premiums as a result of the language of this bill. DOR will need to add that jurisdiction to the insurance premium tax form in the annual form process. The form will be adopted in a rule in the annual form adoption process. Additionally, this bill will require changes to the Insurance Premium Database to determine situs of premiums for allocation purposes.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

In 2005, the Legislature made similar changes to ch. 175, F.S., relating to the Firefighters' Pension Trust Fund. Sections 175.041 and 175.101, F.S., allow a municipality to receive excise tax monies for firefighter pension plans from another municipality if there is an interlocal agreement in place to provide fire protection services.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 185.03 and 185.08.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/SB 444 amends provisions related to stop work orders (SWO) and associated penalties relating to Florida's Workers' Compensation Law as follows:

- Extends the number of days for an employer to provide requested records to the Department of Financial Services (DFS) from five to 10 days or be subject to a SWO.
- Authorizes the DFS to issue an order of conditional release from a SWO to an employer that has secured appropriate coverage if the employer pays $1,000 as a down payment and agrees to pay the remainder of the penalty in periodic installments or to pay the remaining penalty in full.
- Authorizes an immediate reinstatement of the SWO if the employer does not pay the full penalty or enter into a payment agreement within 28 days after service of the SWO upon the employer.
- Repeals a required employer reporting requirement for a probationary period.
- Credits the initial payment of the premium made by the employer to secure coverage against the assessed penalty for not having coverage for an employer that has not previously been issued a SWO. The bill provides a minimum $1,000 penalty if the calculated penalty, after the credit is applied, is less than $1,000.
- Revises the penalty for failing to have required coverage. The bill reduces the look-back period for failure to comply with coverage requirements from three to two years and increases the penalty multiplier from 1.5 to two times the amount of unpaid premiums.

The bill codifies a recent court decision regarding the calculation of workers' compensation indemnity benefits to allow the payment of such benefits at either 66.67 percent or the current 66 2/3 percent of the employee's average weekly wage; this change has no fiscal impact because it reflects current procedures used by carriers. The remaining provisions of the bill are expected to have a negligible fiscal impact.

The bill also changes the assessment calculation for the Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund and requires it be calculated by the DFS based upon the net premiums written by carriers, the amount of premiums calculated by the department for self-insured employers, and the anticipated balance and expenses of the trust fund. The assessment rate cap is changed from 4.52 percent to 2.50 percent.

II. Present Situation:

Coverage Requirements

The Division of Workers' Compensation within the Department of Financial Services is responsible for administering ch. 440, F.S., including the enforcement of coverage requirements. Whether an employer is required to have workers' compensation insurance depends upon the employer's industry and the number of employees. Employers may secure coverage by purchasing a workers' compensation insurance policy or qualifying as a self-insurer.[1]

An employer in a non-construction industry employing four or more part- or full-time employees must secure insurance.[2] An employer engaged in the construction industry must secure workers' compensation insurance if it employs one or more part- or full-time employees.[3] No more than three officers of a corporation or members of a limited liability company who are engaged in the construction industry may elect to be exempt from this requirement, if certain conditions are met.[4] Corporate officers and members of a non-construction LLC can elect to be exempt from workers' compensation coverage requirements.[5]

An employer may secure the workers' compensation coverage for his or her employees by entering into an employee leasing arrangement. In a traditional employee leasing arrangement, an employee leasing company will enter into an arrangement with an employer under which all or most of the client's workforce is employed by the leasing company and leased to the client company.[6] The employer must notify the employee leasing company of the names of covered employees.

[6] The Board of Employee Leasing Companies within the Department of Business and Professional Regulation license and regulate employee leasing companies pursuant to Part XI of chapter 468, F.S. Temporary help arrangements are excluded from the definition of employee leasing. (s. 468.520, F.S.)

Enforcement of Coverage Requirements

If an employer fails to comply with workers' compensation coverage requirements, the DFS must issue a stop-work order (SWO) within 72 hours of determining noncompliance.[7] The SWO requires the employer to cease all business operations. The SWO remains in effect until the employer secures appropriate coverage and the DFS issues an order releasing the SWO (for employers that have paid the assessed penalty); or an order of conditional release (for employers that have agreed to pay the penalty in installments pursuant to a payment agreement schedule with the DFS). Additionally, employers are assessed a penalty equal to 1.5 times what the employer would have paid in workers' compensation premiums for all periods of non-compliance during the preceding three-year period or $1,000, whichever is greater. Thus, for penalty calculation purposes, the employer must provide three years of business records. Some employers are often unable to quickly provide all records required to calculate the penalty. The SWO remains in effect and the employer cannot conduct business until the DFS has calculated the penalty.

A SWO is issued for the following violations: failure to obtain workers' compensation insurance, materially understating or concealing payroll, materially misrepresenting or concealing employee duties to avoid paying the proper premium, materially concealing information pertinent to the calculation of an experience modification factor, and failure to produce business records within five days of receipt of a written request from the DFS.[8] As a condition of release from a SWO, the DFS may require an employer to file periodic reports, for up to two years, to document the employer's continued compliance with coverage requirements.

Workers' Compensation Indemnity Benefits

Workers' compensation indemnity (monetary) benefits are payable to employees who miss at least eight days of work due to a covered (compensable) injury. Indemnity benefits are payable retroactively from the first day of disability (to include compensation for the first seven days missed) to employees who miss more than 21 days of work due to a compensable injury.[9] Such benefits are generally payable at 66 2/3 percent of the employee's average weekly wage (AWW), up to the maximum weekly benefit established by law.[10]

In a 2013 case, an employer had calculated the compensation rate for a claimant by multiplying the AWW by .66667 (or $529.48). The Judge of Compensation Claims (JCC) calculated the compensation rate by multiplying the AWW by .6667 (or $529.50). On appeal, the First District Court of Appeal held that "[b]ecause the [e]mployer did not pay less than the compensation required by statute, the JCC erred in ordering the employer to pay more []"than 66 2/3 percent of the AWW, namely $529.47.[11]

Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund

The Florida Special Disability Trust Fund (SDTF) was established to encourage the employment of workers with pre-existing permanent physical impairments. The SDTF reimburses employers (or their carriers) for the excess in workers' compensation benefits provided to an employee with a pre-existing impairment who is subsequently injured in a workers' compensation accident. As part of the reimbursement process, the SDTF determines whether claims are eligible to receive reimbursements, as well as audits and processes reimbursement requests. Reimbursement under the SDTF is not available for injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1998. The SDTF is maintained by annual assessments on insurers providing compensation insurance coverage. Claims with an accident date before 1998 are still eligible to seek reimbursements. After a claim has been accepted, a request for reimbursement of additional expenses may be submitted annually.

The assessment rate is calculated by the DFS using the previous three calendar years of SDTF expenditures. Currently, the assessment rate must produce an amount equal to the average of the sum of disbursements during the immediate past three calendar years and two times the disbursements of the most recent calendar year. The assessment rate is capped at 4.52 percent of net premiums.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Enforcement of Coverage Requirements

The bill allows employers an additional five business days (ten days total) to produce records requested by the DFS before the issuance of a stop-work order.

The bill revises penalty for failure to comply with coverage requirements by increasing the penalty multiplier from 1.5 to two times the unpaid premiums and reducing the penalty period from the preceding three years to the prior two years.

The DFS is authorized to issue a conditional release of a SWO if the employer has obtained coverage, paid a $1,000 down payment and agreed to either pay the remaining penalty or enter into a periodic payment agreement. The bill authorizes an immediate reinstatement of the SWO if the employer does not pay the full penalty or enters into a payment agreement within 28 days after service of the SWO upon the employer. The bill repeals a required employer reporting requirement for a probationary period.

The bill provides for a credit of the initial payment of workers' compensation insurance premium against the full amount of the penalty for employers who have not been previously issued a SWO. The employer is required to provide the DFS with documentation that the employer has secured the payment of compensation and proof of payment to the carrier. If an employer secures coverage through an employee leasing company, the bill requires the employer to provide the DFS with a written attestation by a representative from the employee leasing company that the employer has entered into an employee leasing contract, the dollar amount attributable to the initial payment of estimated workers' compensation premium for the employer, and proof of payment to the employee leasing company. The bill provides for assessment of a minimum

$1,000 penalty against an employer if the calculated penalty, after the credit is applied, is less than $1,000.

Calculation of Compensation

The bill addresses the holdings in Escambia County School District v. Vickery-Orso, supra, by authorizing employers/carriers to pay compensation to injured employees of "66 2/3 or 66.67 percent" of the AWW. The latter percentage produces a slightly higher compensation rate for injured employees and removes the need for employers/carriers that have been paying benefits at 66.67 percent of the AWW to incur costs associated with modifying their payment procedures.

Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund

The bill changes the assessment calculation for the Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund and requires it be calculated by the DFS based upon the net premiums written by carriers, the amount of premiums calculated by the department for self-insured employers, and the anticipated balance and expenses of the trust fund. The assessment rate cap is changed from 4.52 percent to 2.50 percent.

The bill is effective July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

PCS/SB 444 allows employers five additional days to produce records requested by the DFS before the issuance of a SWO.

The bill revises the employer penalty for not having coverage by reducing the look-back period from the preceding three years to two years for purposes of calculating the penalty; however, it increases the penalty multiplier from 1.5 to two times the amount an employer would have paid in premium.

If an employer has not been previously issued a SWO, the bill provides for a credit of the initial payment of premium made to secure coverage against the assessed penalty, thereby decreasing the amount of the penalty to be paid by the employer.

The codification of the 66.67 percent compensation rate reflects current carrier claims payment procedures; so, there is no impact.[12]

The DFS states the changing of the assessment calculation will benefit the private sector by allowing the department to draw down the SDTF fund balance to pay approved older reimbursement requests that are awaiting payment without increasing the SDTF assessment rate. Reducing the cap from 4.52 percent to 2.5 percent lowers the maximum assessment for employers.

C. Government Sector Impact:

According to the DFS, revising the coverage non-compliance penalty will have a negligible impact on the Workers' Compensation Administration Trust Fund.[13]

Since the program is closed and the assessment rate is lower than 2.5 percent, reducing the assessment cap from 4.52 percent to 2.5 percent has no impact to the trust fund.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 440.107, 440.15, and 440.16.

(Appropriations Subcommittee on General Government)

A bill to be entitled

An act relating to workers' compensation; amending s. 440.107, F.S.; revising powers of the Department of Financial Services relating to compliance with and enforcement of workers' compensation coverage requirements; revising requirements for the release of stop-work orders; revising penalties; amending ss. 440.15 and 440.16, F.S.; revising rate formulas related to the determination of compensation for disability and death; amending s. 440.49, F.S.; revising provisions relating to the assessment rate of the Special Disability Trust Fund; reducing the assessment rate limitation; providing an effective date.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Paragraphs (a), (d), and (e) of subsection (7) of section 440.107, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.107 Department powers to enforce employer compliance with coverage requirements.—

(7)(a) Whenever the department determines that an employer who is required to secure the payment to his or her employees of the compensation provided for by this chapter has failed to secure the payment of workers' compensation required by this chapter or to produce the required business records under subsection (5) within 10 ~~5~~ business days after receipt of the written request of the department, such failure shall be deemed an immediate serious danger to public health, safety, or welfare sufficient to justify service by the department of a stop-work order on the employer, requiring the cessation of all business operations. If the department makes such a determination, the department shall issue a stop-work order within 72 hours. The order shall take effect when served upon the employer or, for a particular employer worksite, when served at that worksite. In addition to serving a stop-work order at a particular worksite which shall be effective immediately, the department shall immediately proceed with service upon the employer which shall be effective upon all employer worksites in the state for which the employer is not in compliance. A stop-work order may be served with regard to an employer's worksite by posting a copy of the stop-work order in a conspicuous location at the worksite. The order shall remain in effect until the department issues an order releasing the stop-work order upon a finding that the employer has come into compliance with the coverage requirements of this chapter and has paid any penalty assessed under this section. The department may issue an order of conditional release from a stop-work order to an employer upon a finding that the employer has complied with the coverage requirements of this chapter, paid a penalty of $1,000 as a down payment, and ~~has~~ agreed to remit periodic payments of the remaining penalty amount pursuant to a payment agreement schedule with the department or pay the remaining penalty amount in full. If an order of conditional release is issued, failure by the employer to pay the penalty in full or enter into a payment agreement with the department within 28 days after service of the stop-work order upon the employer, or to meet any term or condition of such penalty payment agreement, shall result in the immediate reinstatement of the stop-work order and the entire unpaid balance of the penalty shall become immediately due. ~~The department may require an employer who is found to have failed to comply with the coverage requirements of s. 440.38 to file with the department, as a condition of release from a stop-work order, periodic reports for a probationary period that shall not exceed 2 years that demonstrate the employer's continued compliance with this chapter. The department shall by rule specify the reports required and the time for filing under this subsection.~~

(d)1. In addition to any penalty, stop-work order, or injunction, the department shall assess against any employer who has failed to secure the payment of compensation as required by this chapter a penalty equal to 2 ~~1.5~~ times the amount the employer would have paid in premium when applying approved manual rates to the employer's payroll during periods for which it failed to secure the payment of workers' compensation required by this chapter within the preceding 2-year ~~3-year~~ period or $1,000, whichever is greater. For employers who have not been previously issued a stop-work order, the department shall allow the employer to receive a credit for the initial payment of the estimated annual workers' compensation policy premium, as determined by the carrier, to be applied to the penalty. Before the department applies the credit to the penalty, the employer must provide the department with documentation reflecting that the employer has secured the payment of compensation pursuant to s. 440.38 and proof of payment to the carrier. In order for the department to apply a credit for an employer that has secured the payment of compensation by entering into an employee leasing contract with a licensed employee leasing company, the employer must provide the department with a written attestation by a representative from the employee leasing company that the employer has entered into an employee leasing contract, the dollar amount attributable to the initial payment of the estimated workers' compensation premium for the employer, and proof of payment to the employee leasing company. The $1,000 penalty shall be assessed against the employer even if the calculated penalty after the credit has been applied is less than $1,000.

2. Any subsequent violation within 5 years after the most recent violation shall, in addition to the penalties set forth in this subsection, be deemed a knowing act within the meaning of s. 440.105.

(e) When an employer fails to provide business records sufficient to enable the department to determine the employer's payroll for the period requested for the calculation of the penalty provided in paragraph (d), for penalty calculation purposes, the imputed weekly payroll for each employee, corporate officer, sole proprietor, or partner shall be the statewide average weekly wage as defined in s. 440.12(2) multiplied by 2 ~~1.5~~.

Section 2. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1), paragraph (a) of subsection (2), and paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 440.15, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.15 Compensation for disability.—Compensation for disability shall be paid to the employee, subject to the limits provided in s. 440.12(2), as follows:

(1) PERMANENT TOTAL DISABILITY.—

(a) In case of total disability adjudged to be permanent, 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the average weekly wages shall be paid to the employee during the continuance of such total disability. ~~No~~ Compensation is not ~~shall be~~ payable under this section if the employee is engaged in, or is physically capable of engaging in, at least sedentary employment.

(2) TEMPORARY TOTAL DISABILITY.—

(a) Subject to subsection (7), in case of disability total in character but temporary in quality, 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the average weekly wages shall be paid to the employee during the continuance thereof, not to exceed 104 weeks except as provided in this subsection, s. 440.12(1), and s. 440.14(3). Once the employee reaches the maximum number of weeks allowed, or the employee reaches the date of maximum medical improvement, whichever occurs earlier, temporary disability benefits shall cease and the injured worker's permanent impairment shall be determined.

(4) TEMPORARY PARTIAL DISABILITY.—

(a) Subject to subsection (7), in case of temporary partial disability, compensation shall be equal to 80 percent of the difference between 80 percent of the employee's average weekly wage and the salary, wages, and other remuneration the employee is able to earn postinjury, as compared weekly; however, weekly temporary partial disability benefits may not exceed an amount equal to 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the employee's average weekly wage at the time of accident. In order to simplify the comparison of the preinjury average weekly wage with the salary, wages, and other remuneration the employee is able to earn postinjury, the department may by rule provide for payment of the initial installment of temporary partial disability benefits to be paid as a partial week so that payment for remaining weeks of temporary partial disability can coincide as closely as possible with the postinjury employer's work week. The amount determined to be the salary, wages, and other remuneration the employee is able to earn shall in no case be less than the sum actually being earned by the employee, including earnings from sheltered employment. Benefits are ~~shall be~~ payable under this subsection only if overall maximum medical improvement has not been reached and the medical conditions resulting from the accident create restrictions on the injured employee's ability to return to work.

Section 3. Paragraph (b) of subsection (1) and subsection (3) of section 440.16, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.16 Compensation for death.—

(1) If death results from the accident within 1 year thereafter or follows continuous disability and results from the accident within 5 years thereafter, the employer shall pay:

(b) Compensation, in addition to the above, in the following percentages of the average weekly wages to the following persons entitled thereto on account of dependency upon the deceased, and in the following order of preference, subject to the limitation provided in subparagraph 2., but such compensation shall be subject to the limits provided in s. 440.12(2), shall not exceed $150,000, and may be less than, but shall not exceed, for all dependents or persons entitled to compensation, 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the average wage:

1. To the spouse, if there is no child, 50 percent of the average weekly wage, such compensation to cease upon the spouse's death.

2. To the spouse, if there is a child or children, the compensation payable under subparagraph 1. and, in addition, 16 2/3 or 16.67 percent on account of the child or children. However, when the deceased is survived by a spouse and also a child or children, whether such child or children are the product of the union existing at the time of death or of a former marriage or marriages, the judge of compensation claims may provide for the payment of compensation in such manner as may appear to the judge of compensation claims just and proper and for the best interests of the respective parties and, in so doing, may provide for the entire compensation to be paid exclusively to the child or children; and, in the case of death of such spouse, 33 1/3 or 33.33 percent for each child. However, upon the surviving spouse's remarriage, the spouse shall be entitled to a lump-sum payment equal to 26 weeks of compensation at the rate of 50 percent of the average weekly wage as provided in s. 440.12(2), unless the $150,000 limit provided in this paragraph is exceeded, in which case the surviving spouse shall receive a lump-sum payment equal to the remaining available benefits in lieu of any further indemnity benefits. ~~In no case shall~~ A surviving spouse's acceptance of a lump-sum payment does not affect payment of death benefits to other dependents.

3. To the child or children, if there is no spouse, 33 1/3 or 33.33 percent for each child.

4. To the parents, 25 percent to each, such compensation to be paid during the continuance of dependency.

5. To the brothers, sisters, and grandchildren, 15 percent for each brother, sister, or grandchild.

(3) If ~~Where~~, because of the limitation in paragraph (1)(b), a person or class of persons cannot receive the percentage of compensation specified as payable to or on account of such person or class, there shall be available to such person or class that proportion of such percentage as, when added to the total percentage payable to all persons having priority of preference, will not exceed a total of said 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent, which proportion shall be paid:

(a) To such person; or

(b) To such class, share and share alike, unless the judge of compensation claims determines otherwise in accordance with the provisions of subsection (4).

Section 4. Paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (9) of section 440.49, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.49 Limitation of liability for subsequent injury through Special Disability Trust Fund.—

(9) SPECIAL DISABILITY TRUST FUND.—

(b)1. The Special Disability Trust Fund shall be maintained by annual assessments upon the insurance companies writing compensation insurance in the state, the commercial self-insurers under ss. 624.462 and 624.4621, the assessable mutuals as defined in s. 628.6011, and the self-insurers under this chapter, which assessments shall become due and be paid quarterly at the same time and in addition to the assessments provided in s. 440.51. Such payments shall be made by each carrier and self-insurer to the department for the Special Disability Trust Fund pursuant to department rule.

2. The department shall estimate annually in advance the amount necessary for the administration of this subsection and the maintenance of this fund pursuant to this paragraph ~~and shall make such assessment in the manner hereinafter provided~~. By July 1 of each year, the department shall calculate the assessment rate, which shall be based upon the net premiums written by carriers, the amount of premiums calculated by the department for self-insured employers, and the anticipated balance and expenses of the Special Disability Trust Fund for the next calendar year. Such assessment rate shall take effect January 1 of the next calendar year. Such amount shall be prorated among the insurance companies writing compensation insurance in the state and the self-insurers.

~~2. The annual assessment shall be calculated to produce during the next calendar year an amount which, when combined with that part of the balance anticipated to be in the fund on December 31 of the current calendar year which is in excess of $100,000, is equal to the average of:~~

~~a. The sum of disbursements from the fund during the immediate past 3 calendar years, and~~

~~b. Two times the disbursements of the most recent calendar year.~~

~~c. Such assessment rate shall first apply on a calendar year basis for the period beginning January 1, 2012, and shall be included in workers' compensation rate filings approved by the office which become effective on or after January 1, 2012. The assessment rate effective January 1, 2011, shall also apply to the interim period from July 1, 2011, through December 31, 2011, and shall be included in workers' compensation rate~~

~~filings, whether regular or amended, approved by the office which become effective on or after July 1, 2011. Thereafter, the annual assessment rate shall take effect January 1 of the next calendar year and shall be included in workers' compensation rate filings approved by the office which become effective on or after January 1 of the next calendar year. Assessments shall become due and be paid quarterly.~~

~~Such amount shall be prorated among the insurance companies writing compensation insurance in the state and the self-insurers.~~

3. ~~The net premiums written by the companies for workers' compensation in this state and the net premium written applicable to the self-insurers in this state are the basis for computing the amount to be assessed as a percentage of net premiums. Such payments shall be made by each carrier and self-insurer to the department for the Special Disability Trust Fund in accordance with such regulations as the department prescribes.~~

~~4.~~ The Chief Financial Officer is authorized to receive and credit to such Special Disability Trust Fund any sum or sums that may at any time be contributed to the state by the United States under any Act of Congress, or otherwise, to which the state may be or become entitled by reason of any payments made out of such fund.

(c) Notwithstanding the Special Disability Trust Fund assessment rate calculated pursuant to this section, the rate assessed may ~~shall~~ not exceed 2.5 ~~4.52~~ percent.

Section 5. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 444 amends provisions related to stop work orders (SWO) and associated penalties relating to Florida's Workers' Compensation Law as follows:

- Extends the number of days for an employer to provide requested records to the Department of Financial Services (DFS) from five to 10 days or be subject to a SWO.
- Authorizes the DFS to issue an order of conditional release from a SWO to an employer that has secured appropriate coverage if the employer pays $1,000 as a down payment and agrees to pay the remainder of the penalty in periodic installments or to pay the remaining penalty in full.
- Authorizes an immediate reinstatement of the SWO if the employer does not pay the full penalty or enter into a payment agreement within 28 days after service of the SWO upon the employer.
- Requires the DFS to maintain information related to an employer's SWO on the Division of Workers' Compensation website. Such information will remain on the website for at least five years.
- Repeals a required employer-reporting requirement for a probationary period.
- Credits the initial payment of the premium made by the employer to secure coverage against the assessed penalty for not having coverage for an employer that has not previously been issued a SWO. The bill provides a minimum $1,000 penalty if the calculated penalty, after the credit is applied, is less than $1,000.

- Revises the penalty for failing to have required coverage. The bill reduces the look-back period for failure to comply with coverage requirements from three to two years and increases the penalty multiplier from 1.5 to two times the amount of unpaid premiums.

The bill codifies a recent court decision regarding the calculation of workers' compensation indemnity benefits to allow the payment of such benefits at either 66.67 percent or the current 66 2/3 percent of the employee's average weekly wage; this change has no fiscal impact because it reflects current procedures used by carriers. The remaining provisions of the bill are expected to have a negligible fiscal impact.

The bill also revises the assessment calculation for the Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund and requires it be calculated by the DFS based upon the net premiums written by carriers and self-insurers, the amount of premiums calculated by the department for self-insured employers, and the anticipated balance, disbursements, and expenses of the trust fund. The bill reduces the assessment rate cap from 4.52 percent to 2.50 percent.

II. Present Situation:

Coverage Requirements

The Division of Workers' Compensation within the Department of Financial Services is responsible for administering ch. 440, F.S., including the enforcement of coverage requirements. Whether an employer is required to have workers' compensation insurance depends upon the employer's industry and the number of employees. Employers may secure coverage by purchasing a workers' compensation insurance policy or qualifying as a self-insurer.[1]

An employer in a non-construction industry employing four or more part- or full-time employees must secure insurance.[2] An employer engaged in the construction industry must secure workers' compensation insurance if it employs one or more part- or full-time employees.[3] No more than three officers of a corporation or members of a limited liability company who are engaged in the construction industry may elect to be exempt from this requirement, if certain conditions are met.[4] Corporate officers and members of a non-construction LLC can elect to be exempt from workers' compensation coverage requirements.[5]

An employer may secure the workers' compensation coverage for his or her employees by entering into an employee leasing arrangement. In a traditional employee leasing arrangement, an employee leasing company will enter into an arrangement with an employer under which all or most of the client's workforce is employed by the leasing company and leased to the client company.[6] The employer must notify the employee leasing company of the names of covered employees.

Enforcement of Coverage Requirements

If an employer fails to comply with workers' compensation coverage requirements, the DFS must issue a stop-work order (SWO) within 72 hours of determining noncompliance.[7] The SWO requires the employer to cease all business operations. The SWO remains in effect until the employer secures appropriate coverage and the DFS issues an order releasing the SWO (for employers that have paid the assessed penalty); or an order of conditional release (for employers that have agreed to pay the penalty in installments pursuant to a payment agreement schedule with the DFS). Additionally, employers are assessed a penalty equal to 1.5 times what the employer would have paid in workers' compensation premiums for all periods of non-compliance during the preceding three-year period or $1,000, whichever is greater. Thus, for penalty calculation purposes, the employer must provide three years of business records. Some employers are often unable to provide all records required to calculate the penalty in an expedited manner. The SWO remains in effect and the employer cannot conduct business until the DFS has calculated the penalty.

A SWO is issued for the following violations: failure to obtain workers' compensation insurance, materially understating or concealing payroll, materially misrepresenting or concealing employee duties to avoid paying the proper premium, materially concealing information pertinent to the calculation of an experience modification factor, and failure to produce business records within five days of receipt of a written request from the DFS.[8] As a condition of release from a SWO, the DFS may require an employer to file periodic reports, for up to two years, to document the employer's continued compliance with coverage requirements.

Workers' Compensation Indemnity Benefits

Workers' compensation indemnity (monetary) benefits are payable to employees who miss at least eight days of work due to a covered (compensable) injury. Indemnity benefits are payable retroactively from the first day of disability (to include compensation for the first seven days missed) to employees who miss more than 21 days of work due to a compensable injury.[9] Such benefits are generally payable at 66 2/3 percent of the employee's average weekly wage (AWW), up to the maximum weekly benefit established by law.[10]

In a 2013 case, an employer had calculated the compensation rate for a claimant by multiplying the AWW by .66667 (or $529.48). The Judge of Compensation Claims (JCC) calculated the compensation rate by multiplying the AWW by .6667 (or $529.50). On appeal, the First District Court of Appeal held that "[b]ecause the [e]mployer did not pay less than the compensation required by statute, the JCC erred in ordering the employer to pay more []"than 66 2/3 percent of the AWW, namely $529.47.[11]

Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund

The Florida Special Disability Trust Fund (SDTF) was established to encourage the employment of workers with pre-existing permanent physical impairments. The SDTF reimburses employers (or their carriers) for the excess in workers' compensation benefits provided to an employee with a pre-existing impairment who is subsequently injured in a workers' compensation accident. As part of the reimbursement process, the SDTF determines whether claims are eligible to receive reimbursements, as well as audits and processes reimbursement requests. Reimbursement under the SDTF is not available for injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1998. The SDTF is maintained by annual assessments on insurers providing compensation insurance coverage. Claims with an accident date before 1998 are still eligible to seek reimbursements. After a claim has been accepted, a request for reimbursement of additional expenses may be submitted annually.

The assessment rate is calculated by the DFS using the previous three calendar years of SDTF expenditures. Currently, the assessment rate must produce an amount equal to the average of the sum of disbursements during the immediate past three calendar years and two times the disbursements of the most recent calendar year. The assessment rate is capped at 4.52 percent of net premiums.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Enforcement of Coverage Requirements

The bill allows employers an additional five business days (ten days total) to produce records requested by the DFS before the issuance of a stop-work order.

The bill revises penalty for failure to comply with coverage requirements by increasing the penalty multiplier from 1.5 to two times the unpaid premiums and reducing the penalty period from the preceding three years to the prior two years.

The DFS is authorized to issue a conditional release of a SWO if the employer has obtained coverage, paid a $1,000 down payment and agreed to either pay the remaining penalty or enter into a periodic payment agreement. The bill authorizes an immediate reinstatement of the SWO if the employer does not pay the full penalty or enters into a payment agreement within 28 days after service of the SWO upon the employer. The bill repeals a required employer reporting requirement for a probationary period.

The bill provides for a credit of the initial payment of workers' compensation insurance premium against the full amount of the penalty for employers who have not been previously issued a SWO. The employer is required to provide the DFS with documentation that the employer has secured the payment of compensation and proof of payment to the carrier. If an employer secures coverage through an employee leasing company, the bill requires the employer to provide the DFS with a written confirmation by a representative from the employee leasing company of the dollar amount or percentage amount attributable to the initial estimated workers' compensation expense for leased employees and proof of payment to the employee leasing company. The bill provides for assessment of a minimum $1,000 penalty against an employer if the calculated penalty, after the credit is applied, is less than $1,000.

The bill requires the DFS to maintain information related to an employer's SWO on the Division of Workers' Compensation website. Such information must remain on the website for at least five years.

Calculation of Compensation

The bill addresses the holdings in Escambia County School District v. Vickery-Orso, supra, by authorizing employers/carriers to pay compensation to injured employees of "66 2/3 or 66.67 percent" of the AWW. The latter percentage produces a slightly higher compensation rate for injured employees and removes the need for employers/carriers that have been paying benefits at 66.67 percent of the AWW to incur costs associated with modifying their payment procedures.

Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund

The bill changes the assessment calculation for the Workers' Compensation Special Disability Trust Fund and requires it be calculated by the DFS based upon the net premiums written by carriers and self-insurers, the amount of premiums calculated by the department for self-insured employers, the sum of the anticipated disbursements and expenses for the next calendar year, and the expected fund balance of the trust fund for the next calendar year. The assessment rate cap is reduced from 4.52 percent to 2.50 percent. The bill requires a reimbursement request that has been approved but remains unpaid by the DFS as of June 30, 2014, to be paid by October 31, 2014.

The bill is effective July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/SB 444 allows employers five additional days to produce records requested by the DFS before the issuance of a SWO.

The bill revises the employer penalty for not having coverage by reducing the look-back period from the preceding three years to two years for purposes of calculating the penalty; however, it increases the penalty multiplier from 1.5 to two times the amount an employer would have paid in premium.

If an employer has not been previously issued a SWO, the bill provides for a credit of the initial payment of premium made to secure coverage against the assessed penalty, thereby decreasing the amount of the penalty to be paid by the employer.

The codification of the 66.67 percent compensation rate reflects current carrier claims payment procedures; so, there is no impact.[12]

The DFS states the changing of the assessment calculation will benefit the private sector by allowing the department to draw down the SDTF fund balance to pay approved older reimbursement requests that are awaiting payment without increasing the SDTF assessment rate. Reducing the cap from 4.52 percent to 2.5 percent lowers the maximum assessment for employers.

C. Government Sector Impact:

According to the DFS, revising the coverage non-compliance penalty will have a negligible impact on the Workers' Compensation Administration Trust Fund.[13]

Since the program is closed and the assessment rate is lower than 2.5 percent, reducing the assessment cap from 4.52 percent to 2.5 percent has no impact to the trust fund.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

VIII. Statutes Affected:

A bill to be entitled

An act relating to workers' compensation; amending s. 440.107, F.S.; revising powers of the Department of Financial Services relating to compliance with and enforcement of workers' compensation coverage requirements; revising requirements for the release of stop-work orders; revising penalties; amending ss. 440.15 and 440.16, F.S.; revising rate formulas related to the determination of compensation for disability and death; providing an effective date.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Paragraphs (a), (d), and (e) of subsection (7) of section 440.107, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.107 Department powers to enforce employer compliance with coverage requirements.—

(7)(a) Whenever the department determines that an employer who is required to secure the payment to his or her employees of the compensation provided for by this chapter has failed to secure the payment of workers' compensation required by this chapter or to produce the required business records under subsection (5) within 10 ~~5~~ business days after receipt of the written request of the department, such failure shall be deemed an immediate serious danger to public health, safety, or welfare sufficient to justify service by the department of a stop-work order on the employer, requiring the cessation of all business operations. If the department makes such a determination, the department shall issue a stop-work order within 72 hours. The order shall take effect when served upon the employer or, for a particular employer worksite, when served at that worksite. In addition to serving a stop-work order at a particular worksite which shall be effective immediately, the department shall immediately proceed with service upon the employer which shall be effective upon all employer worksites in the state for which the employer is not in compliance. A stop-work order may be served with regard to an employer's worksite by posting a copy of the stop-work order in a conspicuous location at the worksite. The order shall remain in effect until the department issues an order releasing the stop-work order upon a finding that the employer has come into compliance with the coverage requirements of this chapter and has paid any penalty assessed under this section. The department may issue an order of conditional release from a stop-work order to an employer upon a finding that the employer has complied with the coverage requirements of this chapter, paid a penalty of $1,000 as a down payment, and ~~has~~ agreed to remit periodic payments of the remaining penalty amount pursuant to a payment agreement schedule with the department or pay the remaining penalty amount in full. If an order of conditional release is issued, failure by the employer to pay the penalty in full or enter into a payment agreement with the department within 28 days after service of the stop-work order upon the employer, or to meet any term or condition of such penalty payment agreement, shall result in the immediate reinstatement of the stop-work order and the entire unpaid balance of the penalty shall become immediately due. ~~The department may require an employer who is found to have failed to comply with the coverage requirements of~~

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

~~s. 440.38 to file with the department, as a condition of release from a stop-work order, periodic reports for a probationary period that shall not exceed 2 years that demonstrate the employer's continued compliance with this chapter. The department shall by rule specify the reports required and the time for filing under this subsection.~~

(d)1. In addition to any penalty, stop-work order, or injunction, the department shall assess against any employer who has failed to secure the payment of compensation as required by this chapter a penalty equal to 2 ~~1.5~~ times the amount the employer would have paid in premium when applying approved manual rates to the employer's payroll during periods for which it failed to secure the payment of workers' compensation required by this chapter within the preceding 2-year ~~3-year~~ period or $1,000, whichever is greater. For employers who have not been previously issued a stop-work order, the department shall allow the employer to receive a credit for the initial payment of the estimated annual workers' compensation policy premium, as determined by the carrier, to be applied to the penalty. Before the department applies the credit to the penalty, the employer must provide the department with documentation reflecting that the employer has secured the payment of compensation pursuant to s. 440.38 and proof of payment to the carrier. In order for the department to apply a credit for an employer that has secured the payment of compensation by entering into an employee leasing contract with a licensed employee leasing company, the employer must provide the department with a written attestation by a representative from the employee leasing company that the employer has entered into an employee leasing contract, the dollar amount attributable to the initial payment of the estimated workers' compensation premium for the employer, and proof of payment to the employee leasing company. The $1,000 penalty shall be assessed against the employer even if the calculated penalty after the credit has been applied is less than $1,000.

2. Any subsequent violation within 5 years after the most recent violation shall, in addition to the penalties set forth in this subsection, be deemed a knowing act within the meaning of s. 440.105.

(e) When an employer fails to provide business records sufficient to enable the department to determine the employer's payroll for the period requested for the calculation of the penalty provided in paragraph (d), for penalty calculation purposes, the imputed weekly payroll for each employee, corporate officer, sole proprietor, or partner shall be the statewide average weekly wage as defined in s. 440.12(2) multiplied by 2 ~~1.5~~.

Section 2. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1), paragraph (a) of subsection (2), and paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 440.15, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.15 Compensation for disability.—Compensation for disability shall be paid to the employee, subject to the limits provided in s. 440.12(2), as follows:

(1) PERMANENT TOTAL DISABILITY.—

(a) In case of total disability adjudged to be permanent, 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the average weekly wages shall be paid to the employee during the continuance of such total disability. ~~No~~ Compensation is not ~~shall be~~ payable under this section if the employee is engaged in, or is physically capable of engaging in, at least sedentary employment.

(2) TEMPORARY TOTAL DISABILITY.—

(a) Subject to subsection (7), in case of disability total in character but temporary in quality, 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the average weekly wages shall be paid to the employee during the continuance thereof, not to exceed 104 weeks except as provided in this subsection, s. 440.12(1), and s. 440.14(3). Once the employee reaches the maximum number of weeks allowed, or the employee reaches the date of maximum medical improvement, whichever occurs earlier, temporary disability benefits shall cease and the injured worker's permanent impairment shall be determined.

(4) TEMPORARY PARTIAL DISABILITY.—

(a) Subject to subsection (7), in case of temporary partial disability, compensation shall be equal to 80 percent of the difference between 80 percent of the employee's average weekly wage and the salary, wages, and other remuneration the employee is able to earn postinjury, as compared weekly; however, weekly temporary partial disability benefits may not exceed an amount equal to 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the employee's average weekly wage at the time of accident. In order to simplify the comparison of the preinjury average weekly wage with the salary, wages, and other remuneration the employee is able to earn postinjury, the department may by rule provide for payment of the initial installment of temporary partial disability benefits to be paid as a partial week so that payment for remaining weeks of temporary partial disability can coincide as closely as possible with the postinjury employer's work week. The amount determined to be the salary, wages, and other remuneration the employee is able to earn shall in no case be less than the sum actually being earned by the employee, including earnings from sheltered employment. Benefits are ~~shall be~~ payable under this subsection only if overall maximum medical improvement has not been reached and the medical conditions resulting from the accident create restrictions on the injured employee's ability to return to work.

Section 3. Paragraph (b) of subsection (1) and subsection (3) of section 440.16, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.16 Compensation for death.—

(1) If death results from the accident within 1 year thereafter or follows continuous disability and results from the accident within 5 years thereafter, the employer shall pay:

(b) Compensation, in addition to the above, in the following percentages of the average weekly wages to the following persons entitled thereto on account of dependency upon the deceased, and in the following order of preference, subject to the limitation provided in subparagraph 2., but such compensation shall be subject to the limits provided in s. 440.12(2), shall not exceed $150,000, and may be less than, but shall not exceed, for all dependents or persons entitled to compensation, 66 2/3 or 66.67 percent of the average wage:

1. To the spouse, if there is no child, 50 percent of the average weekly wage, such compensation to cease upon the spouse's death.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 470 repeals the prohibition against beer tastings and creates conditions under which certain parties are authorized to conduct a tasting. The bill regulates the locations at which a tasting can be held and requires certain methods to be used at a tasting. The bill allows vendors to conduct a tasting on their own premises using malt beverages from their own inventory.

The bill prohibits certain parties from paying a fee or any compensation to a vendor for conducting a tasting. Licensed premises are authorized to hold more than one tasting in a day, but only one tasting may take place at a time. The bill provides for liability of certain parties that contract with third-parties to conduct tastings on their behalf. The bill prohibits certain parties from engaging in cooperative advertising with a vendor.

The bill has no fiscal impact on state funds.

II. Present Situation:

In Florida, alcoholic beverages are regulated by the Beverage Law,[1] which regulates the manufacture, distribution, and sale of wine, beer, and liquor via manufacturers, distributors, and

[1] The Beverage Law means chs. 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 567, and 568, F.S. See s. 561.01(6), F.S.

vendors.[2] The Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco (division) within the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (department) administers and enforces the Beverage Law.[3]

Three Tier System

In the United States, the regulation of alcohol has traditionally been through what is termed the "three-tier system." The system requires that the manufacture, distribution, and sale of alcoholic beverages be separated. Retailers must buy their products from distributors who in turn buy their products from the manufacturers. Manufacturers cannot sell directly to retailers or directly to consumers. The system is deeply rooted in the perceived evils of the "tied house" in which a bar is owned or operated by a manufacturer or the manufacturer exercises undue influence over the retail vendor.[4]

In a three-tier system, each license classification has clearly delineated functions. For example, in Florida distributors are licensed to sell and distribute alcoholic beverages at wholesale to persons who are licensed to sell alcoholic beverages at retail.[5] Only licensed vendors are permitted to sell alcoholic beverages directly to consumers at retail.[6] Vendors are limited to purchasing their alcoholic beverage inventory from licensed distributors, manufacturers, or bottlers.[7]

There are some exceptions to this regulatory system. The exceptions include allowing beer brew pubs to manufacture malt beverages and to sell them to consumers,[8] allowing individuals to bring small quantities of alcohol back from trips out-of-state,[9] and allowing in-state wineries to manufacture and sell directly to consumers.[10]

Tied House Evil Prohibitions

Section 561.42(1), F.S., prohibits a licensed manufacturer or distributor from assisting any vendor by any gifts or loans of money or property of any description or by the giving of any rebates of any kind whatsoever. Specifically, s. 561.42(1), F.S., provides in pertinent part:

> No manufacturer, distributor, importer, primary American source of supply, or brand owner… or sales person thereof, shall have any financial interest, directly or indirectly, in the establishment or business of any vendor licensed under the > Beverage Law; nor shall such licensed manufacturer or distributor assist any vendor by any gifts or loans of money or property of any description or by the giving of any rebates of any kind whatsoever. (Emphasis supplied.)

Section 561.42(8), F.S., authorizes the division to establish rules and require reports to enforce limitation on credits and other forms of assistance.

Section 561.42, F.S., defines the types of items or services that may be provided to vendors. For example, s. 561.42(10), F.S., prohibits manufacturers, distributors, importers, primary American sources of supply,[11] or brand owners or registrants, or their brokers, sales agents or sales persons, from directly or indirectly giving, lending, renting, selling, or in any other manner furnishing to a vendor any outside sign, printed, painted, electric, or otherwise.

Alcoholic Beverage Tastings

Section 561.42(14)(e), F.S., prohibits sampling activities that include the tasting of beer at a vendor's premises that is licensed for off-premises sales only. This prohibition applies to manufacturers, distributers, importers, brand owners or brand registrants of beer, and their sales agents or sales persons.

Section 564.08, F.S., permits licensed wine distributors and vendors to conduct wine tastings at any licensed premises authorized to sell wine or spirituous beverages by package or for consumption on premises without violating s. 561.42, F.S., provided that the conduct of the wine tasting is limited to and directed toward the general public of the age of legal consumption.

Section 565.17, F.S., permits licensed distributors of spirituous beverages and vendors to conduct spirituous beverage tastings at any licensed premises authorized to sell spirituous beverages by package or for consumption on premises without violating s. 561.42, F.S., provided that the conduct of the spirituous beverage tasting is limited to and directed toward the general public of the age of legal consumption.

[11] Section 564.045(1), F.S., defines the term "primary American source of supply" as the:
> manufacturer, vintner, winery, or bottler, or their legally authorized exclusive agent, who, if the product cannot be secured directly from the manufacturer by an American distributor, is the source closest to the manufacturer in the channel of commerce from whom the product can be secured by an American distributor, or who, if the product can be secured directly from the manufacturer by an American distributor, is the manufacturer. It shall also include any applicant who directly purchases vinous beverages from a manufacturer, vintner, winery, or bottler who represents that there is no primary American source of supply for the brand and such applicant must petition the division for approval of licensure.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 deletes brokers from the provisions of s. 561.42(14)(e), F.S., regulating malt beverages.

The bill allows a manufacturer, distributor, importer, or contracted third-party agent thereof, to conduct malt beverage tastings to be held on:

- The licensed premises of any vendor authorized to sell alcoholic beverages by the drink for consumption on premises; or
- The licensed premises of any vendor authorized to sell alcoholic beverages only in sealed containers for consumption off premises if:
  - The licensed premises has at least 10,000 square feet of interior floor space exclusive of storage space; or
  - The licensed premises is a package store licensed under s. 565.02(1)(a) F.S.

For tastings conducted on the licensed premises of a vendor authorized to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption on premises, the samples shall be:

- Served to members of the general public of the age of legal consumption.
- Served in a tasting cup, glass, or other open container.

For tastings conducted on the licensed premises of a vendor authorized to sell alcoholic beverages only in sealed containers for off premises consumption, the samples shall be:

- Served to members of the general public of the age of legal consumption.
- Served in the interior of the building and each serving must be provided in a tasting cup having a capacity of 3.5 ounces or less.

A manufacturer, distributor, importer, or any contracted third-party agent thereof, may not pay a vendor, and a vendor may not accept, a fee or compensation of any kind, including the provision of any malt beverage at no or reduced cost, in return for the vendor's authorization of the tasting at his premises.

A manufacturer, distributor, importer, or any contracted third-party agent thereof must provide all of the beverages to be tasted. The total volume of beverages may not exceed 576 ounces per tasting. Any samples provided to a vendor count against the 576-ounce cap. The party conducting the tasting must have paid all excise taxes on the beverages and must return to the manufacturer or distributor's inventory any remaining beverages after the tasting. The party may purchase at retail price the malt beverages to be used for the tasting from the vendor that owns the premises to be used for the tasting, but any remaining beverages must be removed after the tasting.

More than one tasting may be held on the licensed premises per day, but only one manufacturer, distributor, importer, or any contracted third-party agent thereof may conduct a tasting on the premises at any one time.

A manufacturer, distributor, or importer that contracts with a third-party agent to conduct a malt beverage tasting on its behalf is responsible for any violation of this section by that agent.

A vendor may conduct a malt beverage tasting on its licensed premises using malt beverages from its own inventory.

The division may adopt rules pursuant to ss. 561.08 and 561.11, F.S., to implement, administer, and enforce this bill.

A manufacturer, distributor, importer, brand owner, brand registrant, sales agent or sales person, or any contracted third-party agent thereof may not engage in cooperative advertising with a vendor and may not name a vendor in any advertising for a malt beverage tasting.

Section 2 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

Section 212.0606(1), F.S., imposes a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day upon the lease or rental of a motor vehicle licensed for hire and designed to carry less than nine passengers.

PCS/CS/SB 484 provides that a member of a car-sharing service who uses a motor vehicle for less than 24 hours must pay a surcharge of $1.00 per usage. A member of a car-sharing service who uses the same motor vehicle for at least 24 consecutive hours must pay a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day.

The bill provides that the new hourly surcharge on a car-sharing service does not apply to the lease, rental, or use of a motor vehicle from a location owned, operated, leased by or for the benefit of an airport or airport authority.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has not determined the impact of the bill. Staff estimates that the bill will have an insignificant, negative impact to the General Revenue Fund and a negative, recurring impact of $0.4 million to trust funds.

II. Present Situation:

Rental Car Surcharge

Section 212.0606(1), F.S., imposes a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day upon the lease or rental of a motor vehicle licensed for hire and designed to carry less than nine passengers, regardless of whether such vehicle is licensed in Florida. The surcharge is included in the lease or rental price on which sales tax is computed and must be listed separately on the invoice. Businesses that collect the rental car surcharge are required to report surcharge collections by county, attributing the surcharge to the county where the rental agreement was made.

The surcharge applies to only the first 30 days of the term of any lease or rental, whether or not the vehicle is licensed in Florida. If the rental or lease of a vehicle is for longer than 30 days, only the first 30 days are subject to the surcharge. If the lease is renewed, the first 30 days of the renewed lease is subject to the surcharge. If payment for the lease or rental of a motor vehicle is made in Florida, the surcharge applies.

The surcharge is not imposed on leases or rentals to tax-exempt entities.[1] Section 212.0606(4), F.S., exempts from payment of the surcharge a motor vehicle provided at no charge to a person whose motor vehicle is being repaired, adjusted, or serviced by the entity providing the replacement motor vehicle.

After deduction for administrative fees, the rental car surcharge is distributed as follows:
- 80 percent of the surcharge to the State Transportation Trust Fund (STTF);
- 15.75 percent of the surcharge to the Tourism Promotional Trust Fund; and
- 4.25 percent of the surcharge to the Florida International Trade and Promotion Trust Fund.

The proceeds of the rental car surcharge deposited into the STTF are allocated to each Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) district, except the Turnpike District, for transportation projects based on the amount of proceeds collected in the counties within each respective district.

For-Hire Vehicles

With limited exception, offering for lease or rent any motor vehicle in the State of Florida qualifies the vehicle as a "for-hire vehicle" under s. 320.01(15)(a), F.S.:

> "For-hire vehicle" means any motor vehicle, when used for transporting persons or goods for compensation; let or rented to another for consideration; offered for rent or hire as a means of transportation for compensation; advertised in a newspaper or generally held out as being for rent or hire; used in connection with a travel bureau; or offered or used to provide transportation for persons solicited through personal contact or advertised on a "share-expense" basis. When goods or passengers are transported for compensation in a motor vehicle outside a municipal > corporation of this state, or when goods are transported in a motor vehicle not owned by the person owning the goods, such transportation is "for hire." The carriage of goods and other personal property in a motor vehicle by a corporation or association for its stockholders, shareholders, and members, cooperative or otherwise, is transportation "for hire."

Rental Car Industry

In recent years there has been a growing sub-industry of rental cars known as "car-sharing" services. Companies, or programs, like "Zipcar"[2], "car2go"[3], and "Hertz 24/7"[4] allow members to reserve the use of a car without visiting a rental car location. This model is seen as an alternative to the traditional rental car business model as well as an alternative to owning a car in a major metropolitan area. As a new and developing industry, car-sharing services are facing the challenge of varying regulations and taxes across different local and state governments. The CarSharing Association (CSA) represents several car-sharing companies and "works with shared-use mobility operators to advance industry standards, best practices and public policy advocacy."[5] Car-sharing services are promoted by some organizations as a form of "collaborative consumption," which is described as a "shift in consumer values from ownership to access."[6]

Three major varieties of car-sharing models exist currently:[7]

- Peer to Peer: "A fleet of cars is owned by a community. The marketplace matches owners of cars that are available to other drivers to rent."
- Business to Consumer: "A company owns a fleet of cars and facilitates the sharing among members."
- Not-For-Profit or Co-Op: "A local organization or community that facilitates car sharing with the goal of changing driving habits over making a profit."

A 2006 study conducted by Travelocity[8] (an online travel agency) found that taxes imposed by state and local governments accounted for an average of 28 percent of the total cost of renting a motor vehicle at airport locations and an average of almost 15 percent at neighborhood locations. Many rental companies also charge additional fees for drivers under 25 years of age, additional drivers, airport concession fees, refueling charges, loss and damage waivers, drop-off charges, partial days, mileage limits, frequent flyer fees, child safety seats, and GPS rental.

Rental Car Surcharge and Car-Sharing Services

On September 17, 2012, the Department of Revenue (DOR) issued Technical Assistance Advisement 12A-022 which answered the question of whether a member based car-sharing service is subject to the Florida rental car surcharge. The facts presented to DOR were as follows:

> Taxpayer [the car-sharing service] offers a member based car-sharing service with a fleet of vehicles available for use by registered members at any time of the day, seven days a week. A member can reserve a vehicle before use, or simply locate one and access it. Each use is labeled as a "trip" and can last up to four consecutive days. A unique feature of Taxpayer's car-sharing service is members may, and often do, use a car for a much shorter period of time than typical car rentals. According to Taxpayer, the typical trip lasts twenty-five to forty minutes, costing between $7 and $10 before taxes. Members are invoiced daily for all trips that occur and Taxpayer adds the rental car surcharge and sales tax to this invoice.[9]

Despite the taxpayer's assertion that it is not engaged in the "traditional" rental of cars, DOR concluded that the taxpayer is renting cars and, therefore, the rental car surcharge does apply. The DOR further concluded that because the taxpayer's members may make multiple trips in one day without executing any additional agreement and without any action required of the taxpayer, and because members are charged for every trip within the same 24-hour period on a single daily invoice, the rental car "surcharge is due from Taxpayer's members once a day, regardless of the number of trips taken by a member in a twenty-four hour period."[10]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill provides that a member of a car-sharing service who uses a motor vehicle for less than 24 hours must pay a surcharge of $1.00 per usage. A member of a car-sharing service who uses the same motor vehicle for at least 24 consecutive hours must pay a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day.

The bill defines a "car-sharing service" as a membership-based organization or business which requires payment of a membership fee and provides the member with access to motor vehicles:

- Only at locations that are not staffed by service personnel employed solely for the purpose of interacting with members;
- Twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week;
- Only through automated means;
- On an hourly basis or shorter period of time;

[9] DOR Technical Assistance Advisement 12A-022, https://revenuelaw.state.fl.us/LawLibraryDocuments/2012/09/TAA-111870_deleted%20with%20summary%2012A-022.pdf#search="technical assistance advisement 12A-022" (last visited February 3, 2014).

[10] To support its finding, DOR cited Rule Code 12A-16.002(3)(b), F.A.C.: "When the terms of a lease or rental agreement authorize the lessee to extend the lease or rental beyond the initial lease term without executing an additional lease or agreement and without any action on the part of the lessor, the extension period will not be considered a new lease or rental."

- Without a separate fee for refueling the motor vehicle;
- Without a separate fee for minimum financial responsibility liability insurance; and
- Owned or controlled by the car-sharing service or its affiliates.

The bill provides that the new hourly surcharge does not apply to the lease, rental, or use of a motor vehicle from a location owned, operated, leased by or for the benefit of an airport or airport authority.

The bill provides an effective date of January 1, 2015.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Subsection (b) of s. 18, Art. VII of the Florida Constitution provides that except upon approval of each house of the Legislature by two-thirds vote of the membership, the Legislature may not enact, amend or repeal any general law if the anticipated effect of doing so would be to reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenue in the aggregate, as such authority existed on February 1, 1989.

PCS/CS/SB 484 will reduce the amount of the municipalities' and counties' local option sales tax collections, thereby reducing their revenue-raising authority. However, an exemption from the mandates provision may apply because the reduction in local governments' revenue-raising authority may result in an insignificant fiscal impact.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference has not determined the impact of PCS/CS/SB 484. Staff estimates that the bill will have an insignificant, negative impact to the General Revenue Fund and a negative, recurring impact of $0.4 million to trust funds.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Individuals using car-sharing services for less than a 24-hour period will see a reduction in the rental car surcharge that they pay.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Department of Revenue estimated an insignificant operational impact.[11]

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends section 212.0606, Florida Statutes.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

Section 212.0606(1), F.S., imposes a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day upon the lease or rental of a motor vehicle licensed for hire and designed to carry less than nine passengers.

CS/CS/SB 484 provides that a member of a car-sharing service who uses a motor vehicle for less than 24 hours must pay a surcharge of $1.00 per usage. A member of a car-sharing service who uses the same motor vehicle for at least 24 consecutive hours must pay a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day.

The bill provides that the new hourly surcharge on a car-sharing service does not apply to the lease, rental, or use of a motor vehicle from a location owned, operated, leased by or for the benefit of an airport or airport authority.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has not determined the impact of the bill. Staff estimates that the bill will have an insignificant, negative impact to the General Revenue Fund and a negative, recurring impact of $0.4 million to trust funds.

II. Present Situation:

Rental Car Surcharge

Section 212.0606(1), F.S., imposes a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day upon the lease or rental of a motor vehicle licensed for hire and designed to carry less than nine passengers, regardless of whether such vehicle is licensed in Florida. The surcharge is included in the lease or rental price on which sales tax is computed and must be listed separately on the invoice. Businesses that collect the rental car surcharge are required to report surcharge collections by county, attributing the surcharge to the county where the rental agreement was made.

The surcharge applies to only the first 30 days of the term of any lease or rental, whether or not the vehicle is licensed in Florida. If the rental or lease of a vehicle is for longer than 30 days, only the first 30 days are subject to the surcharge. If the lease is renewed, the first 30 days of the renewed lease is subject to the surcharge. If payment for the lease or rental of a motor vehicle is made in Florida, the surcharge applies.

The surcharge is not imposed on leases or rentals to tax-exempt entities.[1] Section 212.0606(4), F.S., exempts from payment of the surcharge a motor vehicle provided at no charge to a person whose motor vehicle is being repaired, adjusted, or serviced by the entity providing the replacement motor vehicle.

After deduction for administrative fees, the rental car surcharge is distributed as follows:
- 80 percent of the surcharge to the State Transportation Trust Fund (STTF);
- 15.75 percent of the surcharge to the Tourism Promotional Trust Fund; and
- 4.25 percent of the surcharge to the Florida International Trade and Promotion Trust Fund.

The proceeds of the rental car surcharge deposited into the STTF are allocated to each Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) district, except the Turnpike District, for transportation projects based on the amount of proceeds collected in the counties within each respective district.

For-Hire Vehicles

With limited exception, offering for lease or rent any motor vehicle in the State of Florida qualifies the vehicle as a "for-hire vehicle" under s. 320.01(15)(a), F.S.:

The carriage of goods and other personal property in a motor vehicle by a corporation or association for its stockholders, shareholders, and members, cooperative or otherwise, is transportation "for hire."

Rental Car Surcharge and Car-Sharing Services

On September 17, 2012, the Department of Revenue (DOR) issued Technical Assistance Advisement 12A-022 which answered the question of whether a member based car-sharing service is subject to the Florida rental car surcharge. The facts presented to DOR were as follows:

> Taxpayer [the car-sharing service] offers a member based car-sharing service with a fleet of vehicles available for use by registered members at any time of the day, seven days a week. A member can reserve a vehicle before use, or simply locate one and access it. Each use is labeled as a "trip" and can last up to four consecutive days. A unique feature of Taxpayer's car-sharing service is members may, and often do, use a car for a much shorter period of time than typical car rentals. According to Taxpayer, the typical trip lasts twenty-five to forty minutes, costing between $7 and $10 before taxes. Members are invoiced daily for all trips that occur and Taxpayer adds the rental car surcharge and sales tax to this invoice.[9]

Despite the taxpayer's assertion that it is not engaged in the "traditional" rental of cars, DOR concluded that the taxpayer is renting cars and, therefore, the rental car surcharge does apply. The DOR further concluded that because the taxpayer's members may make multiple trips in one day without executing any additional agreement and without any action required of the taxpayer, and because members are charged for every trip within the same 24-hour period on a single daily invoice, the rental car "surcharge is due from Taxpayer's members once a day, regardless of the number of trips taken by a member in a twenty-four hour period."[10]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill provides that a member of a car-sharing service who uses a motor vehicle for less than 24 hours must pay a surcharge of $1.00 per usage. A member of a car-sharing service who uses the same motor vehicle for at least 24 consecutive hours must pay a surcharge of $2.00 per day or any part of a day.

The bill defines a "car-sharing service" as a membership-based organization or business which requires payment of a membership fee and provides the member with access to motor vehicles:

- Only at locations that are not staffed by service personnel employed solely for the purpose of interacting with members;
- Twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week;
- Only through automated means;
- On an hourly basis or shorter period of time;

[9] DOR Technical Assistance Advisement 12A-022, https://revenuelaw.state.fl.us/LawLibraryDocuments/2012/09/TAA-111870_deleted%20with%20summary%2012A-022.pdf#search="technical assistance advisement 12A-022" (last visited February 3, 2014).

[10] To support its finding, DOR cited Rule Code 12A-16.002(3)(b), F.A.C.: "When the terms of a lease or rental agreement authorize the lessee to extend the lease or rental beyond the initial lease term without executing an additional lease or agreement and without any action on the part of the lessor, the extension period will not be considered a new lease or rental."

- Without a separate fee for refueling the motor vehicle;
- Without a separate fee for minimum financial responsibility liability insurance; and
- Owned or controlled by the car-sharing service or its affiliates.

The bill provides that the new hourly surcharge does not apply to the lease, rental, or use of a motor vehicle from a location owned, operated, leased by or for the benefit of an airport or airport authority.

The bill provides an effective date of January 1, 2015.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Subsection (b) of s. 18, Art. VII of the Florida Constitution provides that except upon approval of each house of the Legislature by two-thirds vote of the membership, the Legislature may not enact, amend or repeal any general law if the anticipated effect of doing so would be to reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenue in the aggregate, as such authority existed on February 1, 1989.

PCS/CS/SB 484 will reduce the amount of the municipalities' and counties' local option sales tax collections, thereby reducing their revenue-raising authority. However, an exemption from the mandates provision may apply because the reduction in local governments' revenue-raising authority may result in an insignificant fiscal impact.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference has not determined the impact of CS/CS/SB 484. Staff estimates that the bill will have an insignificant, negative impact to the General Revenue Fund and a negative, recurring impact of $0.4 million to trust funds.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Individuals using car-sharing services for less than a 24-hour period will see a reduction in the rental car surcharge that they pay.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Department of Revenue estimated an insignificant operational impact.[11]

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	PCS/SB 550 (435328)

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/SB 550 creates section 843.22, Florida Statutes, which makes it a third degree felony for a person to travel any distance with the intent to commit a felony offense in a Florida county that is not their residence. The bill also makes persons who are charged with committing the new offense ineligible for pretrial release without appearing before a judge.

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference found the bill as originally filed would have an insignificant impact on prison bed space. The changes made to the original bill are likely to reduce this fiscal impact. The bill will also have some impact on county jails because a person charged with the new offense cannot be released on pre-trial release without appearing before a judge. In some cases, this will result in a minimum of an overnight stay in jail which would not otherwise occur.

II. Present Situation:

According to Martin County Sheriff William Snyder, there has been a recent phenomenon in Martin County, and most Florida counties, where traveling burglars dubbed "the pillowcase burglars" break into houses near the interstate, stuff the most valuable items into pillowcases and immediately flee to another county. According to Snyder, traditional methods of law enforcement such as using local pawn shop databases, confidential informants, normal proactive police patrols, or targeted patrols based on time and place of burglary are less effective because of the burglars' speedy departure from the county of the burglary.[1]

Bail Determinations

Pretrial release is an alternative to incarceration that allows arrested defendants to be released from jail while they await disposition of their criminal charges.[2] Generally, pretrial release is granted by releasing a defendant on their own recognizance, by requiring the defendant to post bail, and/or by requiring the defendant to participate in a pretrial release program.[3]

Bail requires an accused to pay a set sum of money to the sheriff to secure his or her release. If a defendant released on bail fails to appear before the court at the appointed place and time, the bail is forfeited. The purpose of a bail determination in criminal proceedings is to ensure the appearance of the criminal defendant at subsequent proceedings and to protect the community against unreasonable danger.[4] Courts must consider certain things when determining whether to release a defendant on bail and what level bail should be set at (e.g., the nature and circumstances of the offense charged, the weight of the evidence against the defendant, the defendant's family ties, length of residence in the community, employment history, financial resources, and mental condition, etc.).[5]

Sentencing Guidelines

Chapter 921, F.S., contains the Criminal Punishment Code, which provides sentencing criteria to guide the imposition of criminal penalties for the commission of a felony offense. The "offense severity ranking chart," provided in s. 921.0022, F.S., has ten offense levels, ranked from least severe, which are level one offenses, to most severe, which are level ten offenses. In the event that a particular felony does not have a specific sentencing severity level set in s. 921.0022, F.S., its severity level is decided according to the following parameters:

- A felony of the third degree is within offense level one.
- A felony of the second degree is within offense level four.
- A felony of the first degree is within offense level seven.
- A felony of the first degree punishable by life is within offense level nine.
- A life felony is within offense level ten.[6]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 creates s. 843.22, F.S., which makes it a third degree felony for a person to travel any distance with the intent to commit burglary in a Florida county that is not his or her county of residence. An additional element of the offense is that the travel must have been for the purpose of thwarting law enforcement attempts to track items stolen in the burglary.

The bill defines "county of residence" as the county within Florida in which a person resides. Evidence of a person's county of residence includes, but is not limited to:

- The address on a person's driver license or state identification card;
- Records of real property or mobile home ownership;
- Records of a lease agreement for residential property;
- The county in which a person's motor vehicle is registered;
- The county in which a person is enrolled in an educational institution; and
- The county in which a person is employed.

Section 2 amends s. 903.046(2)(l), F.S., to prohibit those charged with traveling across county lines with the intent to commit a felony from being released on bail until first appearance to ensure the full participation of the prosecutor and the protection of the public. The bill makes the crossing of a county line with the intent to commit a felony a factor to be considered by the court when making a bail determination.

Section 3 provides an effective date of October 1, 2014.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference met on January 30, 2014, and determined that SB 550 would have an insignificant negative impact on state prison beds because the bill creates a new third degree felony offense. The bill may also have a negative jail bed impact because it prohibits persons charged under s. 843.22, F.S., from being released on bail until first appearance. However, since first appearance must occur within 24 hours of arrest, the impact on local jails will likely be insignificant. Because of the changes made to the original bill, PCS/SB 550 is likely to have a smaller fiscal impact.

According to the Department of Corrections (DOC), there will be a $3,400 fiscal impact on the agency's technology systems due to the need for a new offense code and additional changes to existing codes and tables. The DOC estimates 40 hours of work at $85.00 an hour. This amount can be absorbed within existing resources.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

The bill does not allocate an "offense severity level" to the newly created crime for sentencing purposes. Therefore, pursuant to s. 921.0023(1), F.S., the severity level will be level one, which will score 0.7 points as an additional offense on a score sheet.[7]

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends section 903.046 of the Florida Statutes.

This bill creates section 843.22 of the Florida Statutes.

Recommended CS by Appropriations Subcommittee on Criminal and Civil Justice on April 9, 2014:

The committee substitute:

- Limits the definition of the term "felony offense" as used in the bill to include only burglary.
- Adds an element to the new offense requiring that the person's travel must have been for the purpose of thwarting law enforcement efforts to track items stolen in the burglary.

B. Amendments:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 582 requires sober house transitional living homes (sober houses) to annually register with the Department of Children & Families (DCF) in order to operate in the state and provides a criminal penalty for operating without a valid certificate of registration. The bill provides definitions of "recovery residences," "registrable components," and "residential dwelling units." The registration fee is capped at $200. The bill authorizes the DCF to conduct inspections, and issue, deny, suspend, or revoke a certificate of registration. The bill requires certain personnel of a sober house to comply with level 2 background screening as provided in s. 435.04, F.S. Requirements for advertising a sober house are included in the bill.

The fiscal impact of the bill is indeterminate but likely significant.

II. Present Situation:

Sober Houses

The operation of sober houses is motivated by the theory that housing addicts in a low-crime, drug-free community fosters rehabilitation and is essential to the success of any addict's treatment.[1] Proponents of sober houses believe that "such environments foster sobriety and encourage trust and camaraderie between home residents"[2] and that living in a sober house affords a recovering addict the opportunity to develop practical life skills and build self-confidence.[3]

[1] M.M. Gorman et al., Fair Housing for Sober Living: How the Fair Housing Act Addresses Recovery Homes for Drug and Alcohol Addiction, THE URBAN LAWYER v. 42, No. 3 (Summer 2010) (on file with the Senate Committee on Children, Families, and Elder Affairs).

"Sober houses" and "sober housing" are new terms for facilities formerly known as "halfway houses." Halfway houses were used by those leaving a residential center who had limited residential options. Sober houses offer the same vital services to addicts in the early stages of recovery.[4]

The facilities, operators and organizational design of sober houses vary greatly. Some sober house advocates argue that the location of the home is critical to promoting recovery. They argue that placing the home in a single-family neighborhood helps to avoid temptations that other environments can create.[5] Organizationally, these homes can range from a private landlord renting his or her home to recovering addicts to corporations that operate full-time treatment centers across the country and employ professional staff.[6]

Fair Housing Act

The Federal Fair Housing Act of 1988 (FHA)[7] prohibits discrimination on the basis of a handicap in all types of housing transactions. The FHA defines a "handicap" to mean those mental or physical impairments that substantially limit one or more major life activities. The term "mental or physical impairment" may include conditions such as blindness, hearing impairment, mobility impairment, HIV infection, mental retardation, alcoholism, drug addiction, chronic fatigue, learning disability, head injury, and mental illness. The term "major life activity" may include seeing, hearing, walking, breathing, performing manual tasks, caring for one's self, learning, speaking, or working. The FHA also protects persons who have a record of such impairment or are regarded as having such impairment. Current users of illegal controlled substances, persons convicted for the illegal manufacture or distribution of a controlled substance, sex offenders, and juvenile offenders are not considered disabled by virtue of that status under the FHA.[8]

The Florida Fair Housing Act provides in s. 760.23(7)(b), F.S., that it is unlawful to discriminate in the sale or rental of, or to otherwise make unavailable or deny, a dwelling to any buyer or renter because of a handicap of a person residing in or intending to reside in that dwelling after it is sold, rented, or made available. The statute defines "discrimination" to include a refusal to make reasonable accommodations in rules, policies, practices, or services when such accommodations may be necessary to afford such person equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling.

Americans with Disabilities Act

In July 1999, the U.S. Supreme Court held that the unnecessary institutionalization of persons with disabilities is a form of discrimination prohibited by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).[9] In its opinion, the court challenged federal, state, and local governments to develop more opportunities for individuals with disabilities through accessible systems of cost-effective, community-based services. This decision interpreted Title II of the ADA and its implementing regulation, as requiring states to administer their services, programs, and activities, "in the most integrated setting appropriate to meet the needs of qualified individuals with disabilities." The ADA and the Olmstead decision apply to all qualified individuals with disabilities regardless of age. A former drug addict may be protected under the ADA because the addiction may be considered a substantially limiting impairment.[10] In addition, in the United States of America v. City of Boca Raton, the court held that the city's ordinance excluding substance abuse treatment facilities from residential areas violates the FHA because it unjustifiably prohibits these individuals from enjoying the same rights and access to housing as anyone else.[11]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 provides legislative findings, intent, and purpose.

Section 2 amends s. 397.311, F.S., to add the following definitions:

- "Recovery residence" means a democratically run, peer-managed, and peer-supported dwelling for a resident who is established in his or her recovery and who is a party to a single lease agreement to occupy a dwelling which has a single beginning date and a single termination date.
- "Registrable component" means a sober house transitional living home that is a residential dwelling unit that provides, offers, or advertises housing in an alcohol-free and drug-free living environment to persons needing room and board while receiving treatment services as provided in s. 397.311(18), F.S., at a licensed facility. The term includes the community housing component of a day or night treatment facility of a residential treatment facility that offers level 5 treatment programs, but the term does not include a recovery residence.
- "Residential dwelling unit" means a single unit used primarily for living and sleeping which provides complete independent living facilities for one or more persons, including permanent provisions for living, sleeping, eating, cooking, and sanitation.
- "Sober house operator" means a person who operates a sober house transitional living home.

Section 3 creates s. 397.487, F.S., which requires sober houses to comply with the DCF's annual application process for a certificate of registration to operate. A sober house licensed by the DCF as a residential treatment facility that offers level 5 treatment programs or serves as a community housing component of a day or night treatment facility is not required to obtain additional licensure or registration for the housing component of the license.

The application process will require a sober house to provide:

[10] U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Sharing the Dream: Is the ADA Accommodating All?, available at http://www.usccr.gov/pubs/ada/ch4.htm#_ftn12 (last visited March 13, 2014).
[11] United States of America vs. City of Boca Raton, 1008 WL 686689 (S.D. Fla. 2008).

- Name and physical address of the sober house transitional living home;
- Name of the sober house operator;
- Number of individuals served at the sober house;
- Proof of screening and background checks as required under ch. 435, F.S.;
- Written eviction procedures;
- Proof of satisfactory fire, safety, and health inspections and compliance with local zoning ordinances; and
- A registration fee not to exceed $200.

The bill requires sober houses in existence on July 1, 2014, to apply for a certificate of registration by September 1, 2014. Sober houses in existence on July 1, 2014, that have a license as the community housing component of a day or night treatment facility or are licensed as a residential treatment facility offering level 5 treatment programs, do not have to apply for additional licensure or certification by September 1, 2014. The bill provides that operating a sober house without a valid certificate of registration is a first degree misdemeanor. The DCF is required to adopt rules pertaining to the application process for obtaining a certificate of registration.

The bill also provides that the owner, director, manager, operator, and chief financial officer of a sober house are subject to level 2 background screening as provided in s. 435.04, F.S. The bill prohibits the DCF from granting a certificate of registration:

- If a sober house fails to provide proof that background screening information has been submitted in accordance with ch. 435, F.S.; or
- If one of the above-named individuals has been arrested for and pled to an offense prohibited under the level 2 screening standards established in s. 435.04, F.S., unless an exemption from disqualification has been granted by the DCF under ch. 435, F.S.

If one of the above-named individuals is arrested or pleads guilty to an offense prohibited under s. 435.04, F.S., while acting in his or her professional capacity, the bill requires the DCF to immediately suspend the certificate of registration of a sober house until the individual resigns or is removed and replaced by another qualified individual.

Under the bill, all advertising by a person who owns or operates a sober house must include the home's state registration number in the advertisement. Violation of this requirement is a first degree misdemeanor.

The bill provides authority to the DCF's authorized agent to enter and inspect a sober house with a certificate of registration at any time to determine if it is in compliance with certification requirements. Additionally, with the permission of the person in charge of the premises or pursuant to a warrant, the DCF's authorized agent may enter and inspect a residential dwelling unit that is reasonably suspected to be operating as a sober house in violation of the Florida Statutes. The DCF's designated and authorized agent may access the records of the individuals served by a sober house solely for certification, monitoring, and investigation. Prior to granting or denying a certificate of registration, the DCF's authorized agent may enter and inspect the premises of an applicant sober house at any time. The bill requires the DCF to maintain certificates of registration and inspection reports of sober houses as public records available to any person upon request and payment of a reasonable charge for copying as provided in s. 119.07, F.S.

Under the bill, if the DCF determines that an applicant or a sober house is not in compliance with statutory and regulatory requirements, the DCF may deny, suspend, revoke, or impose reasonable restrictions or penalties on the certificate of registration or any portion of the certificate. The DCF may:

- Impose an administrative penalty of up to $500 per day; or
- Suspend or revoke a sober house certificate of registration that, after notice, has failed to correct a substantial or chronic violation of a statutory or regulatory requirement that impacts the safety of the individuals served in the house.

If a sober house's certificate of registration is revoked, the house is barred for one year after the revocation from submitting an application for a certificate of registration. Proceedings for the denial, suspension, or revocation of a sober house certificate of registration must be conducted pursuant to ch. 120, F.S. The DCF has the authority to maintain an action in court to enjoin the operation of an uncertified sober house.

Under the bill, to avoid increased homelessness and crime and to ensure the due process rights of sober house tenants are not violated, a sober house that is not subject to Florida's Landlord and Tenant Act, ch. 83, F.S., must provide 48 hours' advance, written notice of eviction to a tenant or must provide immediate shelter to that tenant for at least 48 hours after eviction at an alternative temporary dwelling unit.

The DCF is required to adopt rules to administer this section.

Section 4 amends s. 212.055(5)(e)2., F.S., to refer to s. 397.311, F.S., instead of 397.311(35), F.S., when incorporating the definition of "stabilization."

Section 5 amends s. 440.102(1)(d) and (g), F.S., to refer to s. 397.311, F.S., instead of 397.311(33), F.S., when incorporating the definitions of "drug rehabilitation program" and "employee assistance program."

Section 6 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

D. Other Constitutional Issues:

The Fair Housing Act (FHA) prohibits a large range of practices that are considered to discriminate against individuals on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, familial status, and disability or handicap. The term "disability" has been interpreted to include individuals recovering from drug or alcohol addiction.[12] Therefore, discriminatory practices against recovering addicts are prohibited. As such, restrictions placed on sober houses by the bill may violate the FHA. An owner or operator of a home adversely affected by the bill may bring suit to seek relief under the FHA.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The bill authorizes the DCF to assess registration fees against sober homes not to exceed $200.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The bill could limit the number of sober houses due to increased qualifications for those homes not currently subject to licensure by the DCF. The sober houses would be assessed a certificate of registration fee not to exceed $200.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The bill would have a significant negative fiscal impact on the DCF. The DCF estimates it would need one full-time equivalent position for every 100 sober houses regulated under the bill. However, the number of sober houses statewide that would apply for certificates of registration and require initial and ongoing inspections and administrative oversight is indeterminate and cannot be reliably estimated, according to the DCF.

Additionally, the DCF would need funding to modify its existing licensure database and pay for additional data storage capacity at the shared resource center. The DCF would need staff to perform inspections, process applications, review background screenings, provide legal representation in ch. 120, F.S., proceedings in the event of a denial, revocation, or suspension of a registration, and update its licensing and technology systems. In 2013, the DCF estimated it would need $200,000 to modify its licensing and technology systems.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

The bill makes three references to "level 5 treatment programs" (lines 66, 131, and 158) but does not define that term. The term also does not appear in the Florida Statutes in relation to substance abuse or treatment.

[12] M.M. Gorman et al, supra note 2.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 397.305, 397.311, 212.055, and 440.102.

This bill creates section 397.487 of the Florida Statutes.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS by Children, Families, and Elder Affairs on February 11, 2014:

However, a sober house transitional living home that is licensed by the department as a residential treatment facility that offers level 5 treatment programs or a sober house transitional living home that is intended to serve as and has a license for the community housing component of a day or night treatment facility is not required to obtain additional licensure or registration for the housing component of the license.

(b) A sober house operator shall annually apply to the department for a certificate of registration to operate a sober house transitional living home by submitting the following:

1. The name and physical address of the sober house transitional living home.

2. The name of the sober house operator.

3. The number of individuals served at the sober house transitional living home.

4. Proof of screening and background checks as required

6. Proof of satisfactory fire, safety, and health inspections and compliance with local zoning ordinances.

7. A registration fee, not to exceed $200.

(c) A sober house transitional living home in existence on July 1, 2014, shall apply for a certificate of registration by September 1, 2014. This paragraph does not apply to a sober house transitional living home in existence on July 1, 2014, which has a license for the community housing component of a day or night treatment facility or is licensed as a residential treatment facility that offers level 5 treatment programs.

(d) The department shall adopt rules pertaining to the application process for obtaining a certificate of registration.

(2) BACKGROUND SCREENING.—

(a) The owner, director, manager, operator, and chief financial officer of a sober house transitional living home are subject to level 2 background screening as provided in s. 435.04.

(b) The department may not grant a certificate of registration to a sober house transitional living home that fails to provide proof that background screening information has been submitted in accordance with chapter 435.

(c) If a background screening reveals that an individual specified in paragraph (a) has been arrested for and is awaiting final disposition of; has been found guilty of, regardless of adjudication, or has entered a plea of nolo contendere or guilty to; or has been adjudicated delinquent and the record has not been sealed or expunged for, an offense prohibited under the level 2 screening standards established in s. 435.04, the department may not grant a certificate of registration to the applicant's sober house transitional living home unless an exemption from disqualification has been granted by the department pursuant to chapter 435.

(d) The department shall immediately suspend the certificate of registration of a sober house transitional living home if an individual specified in paragraph (a), while acting in his or her professional capacity, is arrested for and is awaiting final disposition of; is found guilty of, regardless of adjudication, or enters a plea of nolo contendere or guilty to; or is adjudicated delinquent and the record has not been sealed or expunged for, an offense prohibited under the level 2 screening standards established in s. 435.04. The department shall reinstate the certificate of registration after such individual resigns or is removed from his or her position at the sober house transitional living home and replaced by another qualified individual who passes the level 2 background screening as provided in s. 435.04.

(3) PENALTIES.—A person or agency that operates a residential dwelling unit as a sober house transitional living home without a valid certificate of registration in accordance with this section commits a misdemeanor of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082 or s. 775.083.

(4) ADVERTISING.—A person, as defined in s. 1.01, who owns or operates a sober house transitional living home must include the home's state registration number within an advertisement of the sober house transitional living home. A person who violates this subsection commits a misdemeanor of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082 or s. 775.083.

(5) INSPECTIONS.—

(a) An authorized agent of the department may enter and inspect at any time a sober house transitional living home that has a certificate of registration from the department to determine whether it is in compliance with s. 397.411 and rules 65D-30.004 and 65D-30.0081, Florida Administrative Code.

(b) An authorized agent of the department may, with the permission of the person in charge of the premises or pursuant to a warrant, enter and inspect a residential dwelling unit that the agent reasonably suspects to be operating as a sober house transitional living home in violation of this section.

(e) The department shall maintain certificates of registration and reports of inspections of sober house transitional living homes as public records that are available to any person upon request and upon payment of a reasonable charge for copying as provided in s. 119.07.

(6) DENIAL; SUSPENSION; AND REVOCATION.—

(a) If the department determines that an applicant or a sober house transitional living home is not in compliance with statutory and regulatory requirements, the department may deny, suspend, revoke, or impose reasonable restrictions or penalties on the certificate of registration or any portion of the certificate. In such case, the department may:

1. Impose an administrative penalty of up to $500 per day against a sober house transitional living home that operates in violation of statutory or regulatory requirements.

2. Suspend or revoke a sober house transitional living home's certificate of registration if, after notice, the department determines that the home has failed to correct a substantial or chronic violation of a statutory or regulatory requirement which impacts the safety of the individuals served at the home.

(b) If a sober house transitional living home's certificate of registration is revoked, the home is barred from submitting an application for a certificate of registration to the department for a period of 1 year after the revocation.

(c) Proceedings for the denial, suspension, or revocation of a sober house transitional living home's certificate of registration must be conducted in accordance with chapter 120.

(d) The department may maintain an action in court to enjoin the operation of an uncertified sober house transitional living home that violates this section.

(7) EVICTIONS.—In order to avoid increased homelessness and crime and to ensure that the due process rights of a tenant are not violated, a sober house transitional living home that is not subject to chapter 83 must provide 48 hours' advance, written notice of eviction to a tenant or immediate shelter to that tenant for at least 48 hours after eviction at an alternative temporary dwelling unit. As used in this subsection, the term "tenant" means an individual entitled to occupy or reside at a sober house transitional living home in accordance with a written agreement.

(8) The department shall adopt rules to administer this section.

Section 4. Paragraph (e) of subsection (5) of section 212.055, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

212.055 Discretionary sales surtaxes; legislative intent; authorization and use of proceeds.—It is the legislative intent that any authorization for imposition of a discretionary sales surtax shall be published in the Florida Statutes as a subsection of this section, irrespective of the duration of the levy. Each enactment shall specify the types of counties authorized to levy; the rate or rates which may be imposed; the maximum length of time the surtax may be imposed, if any; the procedure which must be followed to secure voter approval, if required; the purpose for which the proceeds may be expended; and such other requirements as the Legislature may provide. Taxable transactions and administrative procedures shall be as provided in s. 212.054.

(5) COUNTY PUBLIC HOSPITAL SURTAX.—Any county as defined in s. 125.011(1) may levy the surtax authorized in this subsection pursuant to an ordinance either approved by extraordinary vote of the county commission or conditioned to take effect only upon approval by a majority vote of the electors of the county voting in a referendum. In a county as defined in s. 125.011(1), for the purposes of this subsection, "county public general hospital" means a general hospital as defined in s. 395.002 which is owned, operated, maintained, or governed by the county or its agency, authority, or public health trust.

(e) A governing board, agency, or authority shall be chartered by the county commission upon this act becoming law. The governing board, agency, or authority shall adopt and implement a health care plan for indigent health care services. The governing board, agency, or authority shall consist of no more than seven and no fewer than five members appointed by the county commission. The members of the governing board, agency, or authority shall be at least 18 years of age and residents of the county. No member may be employed by or affiliated with a health care provider or the public health trust, agency, or authority responsible for the county public general hospital. The following community organizations shall each appoint a representative to a nominating committee: the South Florida Hospital and Healthcare Association, the Miami-Dade County Public Health Trust, the Dade County Medical Association, the Miami-Dade County Homeless Trust, and the Mayor of Miami-Dade County. This committee shall nominate between 10 and 14 county citizens for the governing board, agency, or authority. The slate shall be presented to the county commission and the county commission shall confirm the top five to seven nominees, depending on the size of the governing board. Until such time as the governing board, agency, or authority is created, the funds provided for in subparagraph (d)2. shall be placed in a restricted account set aside from other county funds and not disbursed by the county for any other purpose.

1. The plan shall divide the county into a minimum of four and maximum of six service areas, with no more than one participant hospital per service area. The county public general hospital shall be designated as the provider for one of the service areas. Services shall be provided through participants' primary acute care facilities.

2. The plan and subsequent amendments to it shall fund a defined range of health care services for both indigent persons and the medically poor, including primary care, preventive care, hospital emergency room care, and hospital care necessary to stabilize the patient. For the purposes of this section, "stabilization" means stabilization as defined in s. 397.311 ~~s. 397.311(35)~~. Where consistent with these objectives, the plan may include services rendered by physicians, clinics, community hospitals, and alternative delivery sites, as well as at least one regional referral hospital per service area. The plan shall provide that agreements negotiated between the governing board, agency, or authority and providers shall recognize hospitals that render a disproportionate share of indigent care, provide other incentives to promote the delivery of charity care to draw down federal funds where appropriate, and require cost containment, including, but not limited to, case management. From the funds specified in subparagraphs (d)1. and 2. for indigent health care services, service providers shall receive reimbursement at a Medicaid rate to be determined by the governing board, agency, or authority created pursuant to this paragraph for the initial emergency room visit, and a per-member per-month fee or capitation for those members enrolled in their service area, as compensation for the services rendered following the initial emergency visit. Except for provisions of emergency services, upon determination of eligibility, enrollment shall be deemed to have occurred at the time services were rendered. The provisions for specific reimbursement of emergency services shall be repealed on July 1, 2001, unless otherwise reenacted by the Legislature. The capitation amount or rate shall be determined prior to program implementation by an independent actuarial consultant. In no event shall such reimbursement rates exceed the Medicaid rate. The plan must also provide that any hospitals owned and operated by government entities on or after the effective date of this act must, as a condition of receiving funds under this subsection, afford public access equal to that provided under s. 286.011 as to any meeting of the governing board, agency, or authority the subject of which is budgeting resources for the retention of charity care, as that term is defined in the rules of the Agency for Health Care Administration. The plan shall also include innovative health care programs that provide cost-effective alternatives to traditional methods of service and delivery funding.

3. The plan's benefits shall be made available to all county residents currently eligible to receive health care services as indigents or medically poor as defined in paragraph (4)(d).

4. Eligible residents who participate in the health care plan shall receive coverage for a period of 12 months or the period extending from the time of enrollment to the end of the current fiscal year, per enrollment period, whichever is less.

5. At the end of each fiscal year, the governing board, agency, or authority shall prepare an audit that reviews the budget of the plan, delivery of services, and quality of services, and makes recommendations to increase the plan's efficiency. The audit shall take into account participant hospital satisfaction with the plan and assess the amount of poststabilization patient transfers requested, and accepted or denied, by the county public general hospital.

Section 5. Paragraphs (d) and (g) of subsection (1) of section 440.102, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

440.102 Drug-free workplace program requirements.—The following provisions apply to a drug-free workplace program implemented pursuant to law or to rules adopted by the Agency for Health Care Administration:

(1) DEFINITIONS.—Except where the context otherwise requires, as used in this act:

(d) "Drug rehabilitation program" means a service provider, as defined in s. 397.311, which ~~established pursuant to s. 397.311(33), that~~ provides confidential, timely, and expert identification, assessment, and resolution of employee drug abuse.

(g) "Employee assistance program" means an established program capable of providing expert assessment of employee personal concerns; confidential and timely identification services with regard to employee drug abuse; referrals of employees for appropriate diagnosis, treatment, and assistance; and followup services for employees who participate in the program or require monitoring after returning to work. If, in addition to the above activities, an employee assistance program provides diagnostic and treatment services, these services shall in all cases be provided by service providers as defined in s. 397.311 ~~pursuant to s. 397.311(33)~~.

Section 6. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

Chair Negron:

I respectfully request that SB 582 – Substance Abuse Services be added to the agenda for the next Committee on Appropriations meeting.

SB 582 will allow the state to track sober house transitional living homes by providing rules for the registration and operation of these type of substance abuse service facilities. Currently, sober homes can be established anywhere by anyone and, while claiming to provide assistance for recovering addicts, oftentimes do not offer treatment programs or services. The proposed legislation will outline where and how sober homes can be operated and address public safety issues that result from poorly run facilities.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions. Thank you, in advance, for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Senator Jeff Clemens

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 634 expands the authority of judges and clerks of court to oversee guardians and assets held by guardians. For this purpose, the bill:

- Redefines the term "audit" to include various practices that meet professional audit standards.
- Requires persons, other than corporate guardians, seeking appointment as a guardian, including employees of a professional guardian to submit to a credit history investigation and background screening.
- Upon petition by an interested party or on the court's own motion, the court may waive the requirement of a credit history investigation or a level 2 background screening for persons, other than a corporate guardian, seeking appointment by the court.
- Authorizes clerks of court to obtain and review documents and records reasonably relating to guardianship assets and, upon application to the court, to issue subpoenas to do so.
- Allows a guardian or ward who receives notice and a proposed subpoena to object to a clerk's request for authority from the court to subpoena documents from a third party.
- Allows the court to remove a guardian for a failure in bad faith to submit records during a clerk's audit.
- Requires a person seeking a guardianship appointment to acknowledge arrests covered by an expunged or sealed record.

The bill has no fiscal impact on state government.

II. Present Situation:

Guardianships serve as a mechanism to protect vulnerable individuals in our society who do not have a family or loved on or someone who is willing and able to manage their property or other personal matters. A guardian may be described as a person "who has the legal authority and duty to care for another's person or property, esp[ecially] because of the other's infancy, incapacity, or disability."[1] Guardianships are governed completely and exclusively under statutes in Florida.[2] Any adult may petition a court to initiate guardianship proceedings to determine the incapacity of any person.[3] An "incapacitated person" is a "person who has been judicially determined to lack the capacity to manage at least some of the property or to meet at least some of the essential health and safety requirements of the person."[4]

A guardian is a surrogate decision-maker appointed by the court to make personal or financial decisions for a minor or an adult having mental or physical disabilities.[5] Under Florida law, a ward is defined as a person for whom a guardian has been appointed.[6]

The procedure to determine an alleged person's incapacity is prescribed by statute.[7] Any person may file, under oath, a petition in circuit court for determination of incapacity alleging that a person is incapacitated.[8] After a petition for determination of incapacity has been filed, a court must appoint an examining committee comprised of three health care professionals to examine and report the condition of the alleged incapacitated person.[9] If the examining committee determines the alleged incapacitated person is not incapacitated, the court must dismiss the petition for determination of incapacity.[10] If the examining committee determines the alleged incapacitated person is incapacitated, the court must hold a hearing on the petition. If after a hearing, the court determines a person is incapacitated, the court must also find alternatives to guardianship were considered and that no alternatives to guardianship will sufficiently address the problems of the incapacitated person and appoint a guardian.[11]

Guardians

Upon a finding by the court a guardianship sufficiently addresses the problem of the incapacitated person, a guardian will be appointed. There are many different types of guardians available for court appointment such as a "limited guardian," "nonprofit guardian," "preneed guardian," and "professional guardian." A "professional guardian," is any guardian who has at any time rendered services to three or more wards as their guardian.[12] A professional guardian must comply with statutory application, bond, and educational requirements. Each professional guardian must allow, at the guardian's expense, an investigation of the guardian's credit history, and the credit history of employees of the guardian, in a manner prescribed by the Department of Elderly Affairs.[13] Each professional guardian shall allow a level two background screening of the guardian and employees of the guardian.[14]

Any resident of this state who is sui juris (someone with full legal rights or capacity and not under any legal disability or power of another such as guardianship)[15] and is 18 years of age or older is qualified to act as a guardian of the ward.[16] A nonresident of the state may serve as a guardian of a resident if he or she is:

- Related by lineal consanguinity[17] to the ward;
- A legally adopted child or adoptive parent of the ward;
- A spouse, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, niece, or nephew of the ward, or someone related by lineal consanguinity to any such person; or[18]

Every prospective guardian must complete an application for appointment as a guardian. The application must list the person's qualifications to serve as a guardian.[19] A professional guardian and each employee of a professional guardian who has a fiduciary responsibility to a ward, must complete, at his or her own expense:

- A level two background screening, before and at least once every five years after the date the guardian is registered.[20]
- A level one background screening[21], at least once every two years after the date the guardian is registered.[22]
- An investigation of his or her credit history before and at least once every two years after the date of the guardian's registration with the Statewide Public Guardianship Office.[23]

If the guardian appointed by the court does not meet the definition of "professional guardian," the guardian is considered a nonprofessional guardian. For nonprofessional guardians, the court must accept the satisfactory completion of a criminal history record check.[24] The nonprofessional guardian can satisfy this requirement by undergoing a state and national criminal history record check using fingerprints. The nonprofessional guardian shall have his or her fingerprints taken and provide them to the Department of Law Enforcement with the appropriate fee for processing. The results shall be forwarded to the clerk of the court, maintained in the nonprofessional guardian's file and made available to the court.[25] A guardian may be removed for reasons set forth in the law and the removal shall be in addition to any other penalties prescribed by law.[26]

Annual Accounting

Each guardian of the property of the ward must file an annual accounting with the court.[27] The annual accounting must include a full and correct account of the receipts and disbursements of all of the ward's property over which the guardian has control and a statement of the ward's property on hand at the end of the accounting period. However, the requirement for an accounting does not apply to any property or trust of which the ward is a beneficiary but which is not under the control or administration of the guardian.[28]

Responsibilities of the Clerk of the Court

In addition to the duty to serve as the custodian of the guardianship files, the clerk must review each initial and annual guardianship report to ensure it contains information about the ward that addresses mental and physical health care, physical and mental health examinations, personal and social services, residential setting, the application of insurance, private benefits and government benefits and the initial verified inventory or the annual accounting.[29] The clerk has certain timeframes within which to review reports, audit verified inventory and accountings, and report to the court when a report is not timely filed.[30]

Court-ordered Sealing of Criminal Records

Sections 943.0585 and 943.059, F.S., provide for the court-ordered expunction or sealing of certain criminal history records. Any court of competent jurisdiction may order a criminal justice agency to seal or expunge the criminal history records of a minor or an adult under certain circumstances. The person seeking to seal a criminal history must apply for and receive a certificate of eligibility for sealing. [31] When a court orders a criminal history record of a minor or an adult to be sealed or expunged, he or she may lawfully deny or fail to acknowledge the arrests covered by the sealed records except under certain circumstances.[32]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This bill expands the authority of judges and clerks of court to oversee guardians and guardianship assets.

[32] Section 943.059(4)(a), F.S.

Section 1 amends s. 744.102(2), F.S., which contains the definition of "audit." Currently the term refers to a systematic review of financial and other documents to ensure compliance with court rules and generally accepted accounting principles. Under the bill, the term "audit" also includes various practices that meet professional audit standards such as verifications, reviews of substantiating papers and accounts, interviews, inspections, and investigations.

Section 2 amends s. 744.3135(1), F.S. to require all persons seeking appointment as a guardian (other than a person seeking appointment as a corporate guardian) to submit, at his or her own expense, to an investigation of the person's credit history and undergo a level two background screening. The court, on its own motion, or by petition of any interested party, may waive the requirement of a credit history investigation or a level two background screening for persons, other than a corporate guardian as described in s. 744.309(4), F.S., seeking appointment by the court. Under existing law, a credit history check and criminal history record check are up to the discretion of the court. If appointed, a nonprofessional guardian may petition the court for reimbursement of reasonable expenses incurred for credit history investigation and background screening.

Section 3 amends s. 744.368, F.S., to expand the authority of the clerk of the court at the direction of the court to obtain or review records and documents that reasonably relate to guardianship assets, including beginning inventory balances and fees charged to the guardianship. If a guardian fails to produce records or documents to the clerk upon request, the clerk may file an affidavit requesting the court to issue an order that identifies the records or documents requested and which shows good cause as to why the documents or records should be produced. In addition, the clerk may apply to the court for the issuance of a subpoena to nonparties to compel production of records or documents. The clerk must properly notice the guardian and the ward and attach a copy of the affidavit for the subpoena to compel production of documents or records from third parties other than the guardian or ward. The guardian or ward may object to the production of such documents or records.

Section 4 amends s. 744.3685, F.S., to create a procedure for the guardian to object upon a showing of good cause to a request for records by the clerk pursuant to an audit. After a timely objection, the clerk must obtain a court order to compel the production of the records.

Section 5 amends s. 744.474, F.S., to provide the failure of a guardian to submit guardianship records during the audit by a clerk as required by s. 744.368, F.S., due to bad faith is grounds for the removal of the guardian.

Section 6 amends s. 943.0585 F.S., to require a person seeking appointment as a guardian to disclose arrests covered by a court-ordered expunction.

Section 7 amend s. 943.059, F.S., to require a person seeking appointment as a guardian to disclose arrests covered by a sealed record.

Section 8 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

(6) If a guardian fails to produce records or documents to the clerk upon request, the clerk may request the court to enter an order pursuant to s. 744.3685(2) by filing an affidavit that produced until resolution of the objection. If an objection is not made within 10 days after service of the notice, the clerk may issue the subpoena to the nonparty. Section 6. Paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 943.0585, Florida Statutes, is amended, and paragraph (c) of that subsection is reenacted, to read:

943.0585 Court-ordered expunction of criminal history records.—The courts of this state have jurisdiction over their own procedures, including the maintenance, expunction, and correction of judicial records containing criminal history information to the extent such procedures are not inconsistent with the conditions, responsibilities, and duties established by this section. Any court of competent jurisdiction may order a criminal justice agency to expunge the criminal history record of a minor or an adult who complies with the requirements of this section. The court shall not order a criminal justice agency to expunge a criminal history record until the person seeking to expunge a criminal history record has applied for and received a certificate of eligibility for expunction pursuant to subsection (2). A criminal history record that relates to a violation of s. 393.135, s. 394.4593, s. 787.025, chapter 794, s. 796.03, s. 800.04, s. 810.14, s. 817.034, s. 825.1025, s. 827.071, chapter 839, s. 847.0133, s. 847.0135, s. 847.0145, s. 893.135, s. 916.1075, a violation enumerated in s. 907.041, or any violation specified as a predicate offense for registration as a sexual predator pursuant to s. 775.21, without regard to whether that offense alone is sufficient to require such registration, or for registration as a sexual offender pursuant to s. 943.0435, may not be expunged, without regard to whether adjudication was withheld, if the defendant was found guilty of or pled guilty or nolo contendere to the offense, or if the defendant, as a minor, was found to have committed, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to committing, the offense as a delinquent act. The court may only order expunction of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity, except as provided in this section. The court may, at its sole discretion, order the expunction of a criminal history record pertaining to more than one arrest if the additional arrests directly relate to the original arrest. If the court intends to order the expunction of records pertaining to such additional arrests, such intent must be specified in the order. A criminal justice agency may not expunge any record pertaining to such additional arrests if the order to expunge does not articulate the intention of the court to expunge a record pertaining to more than one arrest. This section does not prevent the court from ordering the expunction of only a portion of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, a criminal justice agency may comply with laws, court orders, and official requests of other jurisdictions relating to expunction, correction, or confidential handling of criminal history records or information derived therefrom. This section does not confer any right to the expunction of any criminal history record, and any request for expunction of a criminal history record may be denied at the sole discretion of the court.

(4) EFFECT OF CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORD EXPUNCTION.—Any criminal history record of a minor or an adult which is ordered expunged by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to this section must be physically destroyed or obliterated by any criminal justice agency having custody of such record; except that any criminal history record in the custody of the department must be retained in all cases. A criminal history record ordered expunged that is retained by the department is confidential and exempt from the provisions of s. 119.07(1) and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution and not available to any person or entity except upon order of a court of competent jurisdiction. A criminal justice agency may retain a notation indicating compliance with an order to expunge.

(a) The person who is the subject of a criminal history record that is expunged under this section or under other provisions of law, including former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, and former s. 943.058, may lawfully deny or fail to acknowledge the arrests covered by the expunged record, except when the subject of the record:

1. Is a candidate for employment with a criminal justice agency;

2. Is a defendant in a criminal prosecution;

3. Concurrently or subsequently petitions for relief under this section, s. 943.0583, or s. 943.059;

4. Is a candidate for admission to The Florida Bar;

5. Is seeking to be employed or licensed by or to contract with the Department of Children and Families, the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation within the Department of Education, the Agency for Health Care Administration, the Agency for Persons with Disabilities, the Department of Health, the Department of Elderly Affairs, or the Department of Juvenile Justice or to be employed or used by such contractor or licensee in a sensitive position having direct contact with children, the disabled, or the elderly; ~~or~~

6. Is seeking to be employed or licensed by the Department of Education, any district school board, any university laboratory school, any charter school, any private or parochial school, or any local governmental entity that licenses child care facilities; or~~.~~

7. Is seeking to be appointed as a guardian pursuant to s. 744.3125.

(c) Information relating to the existence of an expunged criminal history record which is provided in accordance with paragraph (a) is confidential and exempt from the provisions of s. 119.07(1) and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution, except that the department shall disclose the existence of a criminal history record ordered expunged to the entities set forth in subparagraphs (a)1., 4., 5., 6., and 7. for their respective licensing, access authorization, and employment purposes, and to criminal justice agencies for their respective criminal justice purposes. It is unlawful for any employee of an entity set forth in subparagraph (a)1., subparagraph (a)4., subparagraph (a)5., subparagraph (a)6., or subparagraph (a)7. to disclose information relating to the existence of an expunged criminal history record of a person seeking employment, access authorization, or licensure with such entity or contractor, except to the person to whom the criminal history record relates or to persons having direct responsibility for employment, access authorization, or licensure decisions. Any person who violates this paragraph commits a misdemeanor of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082 or s. 775.083.

Section 7. Paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 943.059, Florida Statutes, is amended, and paragraph (c) of that subsection is reenacted, to read:

943.059 Court-ordered sealing of criminal history records.—The courts of this state shall continue to have jurisdiction over their own procedures, including the maintenance, sealing, and correction of judicial records containing criminal history information to the extent such procedures are not inconsistent with the conditions, responsibilities, and duties established by this section. Any court of competent jurisdiction may order a criminal justice agency to seal the criminal history record of a minor or an adult who complies with the requirements of this section. The court shall not order a criminal justice agency to seal a criminal history record until the person seeking to seal a criminal history record has applied for and received a certificate of eligibility for sealing pursuant to subsection (2). A criminal history record that relates to a violation of s. 393.135, s. 394.4593, s. 787.025, chapter 794, s. 796.03, s. 800.04, s. 810.14, s. 817.034, s. 825.1025, s. 827.071, chapter 839, s. 847.0133, s. 847.0135, s. 847.0145, s. 893.135, s. 916.1075, a violation enumerated in s. 907.041, or any violation specified as a predicate offense for registration as a sexual predator pursuant to s. 775.21, without regard to whether that offense alone is sufficient to require such registration, or for registration as a sexual offender pursuant to s. 943.0435, may not be sealed, without regard to whether adjudication was withheld, if the defendant was found guilty of or pled guilty or nolo contendere to the offense, or if the defendant, as a minor, was found to have committed or pled guilty or nolo contendere to committing the offense as a delinquent act. The court may only order sealing of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity, except as provided in this section. The court may, at its sole discretion, order the sealing of a criminal history record pertaining to more than one arrest if the additional arrests directly relate to the original arrest. If the court intends to order the sealing of records pertaining to such additional arrests, such intent must be specified in the order. A criminal justice agency may not seal any record pertaining to such additional arrests if the order to seal does not articulate the intention of the court to seal records pertaining to more than one arrest. This section does not prevent the court from ordering the sealing of only a portion of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, a criminal justice agency may comply with laws, court orders, and official requests of other jurisdictions relating to sealing, correction, or confidential handling of criminal history records or information derived therefrom. This section does not confer any right to the sealing of any criminal history record, and any request for sealing a criminal history record may be denied at the sole discretion of the court.

(4) EFFECT OF CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORD SEALING.—A criminal

(a) The subject of a criminal history record sealed under this section or under other provisions of law, including former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, and former s. 943.058, may lawfully deny or fail to acknowledge the arrests covered by the sealed record, except when the subject of the record:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/CS/SB 638 updates the Solicitation of Contributions Act to provide increased oversight by the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) of charitable organizations and sponsors, professional fundraising consultants, and professional solicitors. It requires additional financial disclosure for a charitable organization that had more than $1 million in total revenue and devoted less than a specified proportion of its spending to program service costs in the preceding year, and allows the DACS to disqualify a charitable organization from receiving a sales tax exemption certificate if the organization failed to spend at least 25 percent of total annual functional expenses on program costs for the 3 previous years.

The bill creates a license for professional solicitors that is expected to increase revenue to the DACS General Inspection Trust Fund by $250,000 annually. It also requires fingerprinting of professional solicitors. Fingerprint processing fees will increase revenue to the FDLE Operating Trust Fund (net of payments to the FBI) by $60,000 in the first year and an indeterminate amount in subsequent years. The bill also increases administrative fines for violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act.

The bill appropriates $235,352 in recurring funds and $239,357 in nonrecurring funds from the DACS General Inspection Trust Fund, and four full-time equivalent positions to the DACS to implement this act.

II. Present Situation:

In Florida, the solicitation of contributions by charitable organizations and sponsors is regulated by the Solicitation of Contributions Act (the SCA).[1] There are currently over 18,000 charitable organizations and sponsors, 404 professional fundraising consultants, and 87 professional solicitors registered in Florida. Of those 87 professional solicitors, 54 are headquartered outside Florida.[2]

The SCA contains basic registration, financial disclosure, and notification requirements for charitable organizations and sponsors, fundraising consultants, and solicitors. Recent news reports suggest current regulations under the SCA may be insufficient to effectively monitor and regulate these entities to ensure they are fulfilling their purpose as charitable entities.[3]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill makes the following changes to statutes regulating charitable organizations and sponsors, professional fundraising consultants, and professional solicitors. The bill:

- Requires that any changes to information in a registration statement be submitted to the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) within 10 days of the change.
- Requires automatic suspension of a registration for failure to disclose any information related to certain criminal or administrative actions.
- Permits increased processing times for the DACS if the applicant discloses any information related to certain criminal or administrative actions against it.
- Authorizes the DACS to deny or revoke an application if the applicant or its agent has had certain criminal or administrative action taken against it.
- Prohibits the employment of persons with certain criminal history.[4]
- Requires notices to be provided for all solicitations and confirmations.
- Requires professional fundraising consultants and professional solicitors to only enter into contracts with charitable organizations and sponsors registered under ch. 496, F.S.

[1] Chapter 496, F.S. The majority of the provisions in the SCA "do not apply to bona fide religious institutions, educational instructions, and state agencies or other government entities or persons or organizations who solicit or act as professional fundraising consultants solely on their behalf." Section 496.403, F.S. Nor do the majority of the provisions in the SCA apply to political contributions solicited in accordance with election laws. Id.

Charitable Organizations and Sponsors[5]

Summary

The bill:

- Authorizes the DACS to enter a disqualification order for certain charities not meeting expense requirements, which disqualifies the charity from receiving sales tax exempt status for at least a year.
- Clarifies the requirements related to financial statements.
- Requires certain charities to adopt conflict of interest policies.
- Requires certain charities to file supplemental financial disclosures and quarterly disaster relief statements.

Present Situation - Registration Statements

Currently, under s. 495.405, F.S., any charitable organization or sponsor[6] that intends to solicit donations in Florida must register annually with the DACS and pay a registration fee[7] before soliciting donations.[8] Registration includes a financial report,[9] a statement of the purpose of the charity, how donations will be used, names of individuals in charge of solicitation activities, and proof of federal tax exempt status. The charity must also identify any professional solicitors and fundraising consultants the charity will use, along with the terms of the arrangements for compensation to be paid to the consultant and solicitor. The registration must also include a statement related to the charity's activity in other states, including whether the charity is authorized to operate in another state; whether the charity's registration has been denied, suspended, or revoked in another state; and whether the charity or any person associated with the charity has been subject to any adverse administrative actions or criminal convictions in any state.[10]

Each affiliate of a parent charity required to register under s. 495.405, F.S., must either file a separate registration and financial report or provide the information to the parent organization to file a consolidated registration. The consolidated registration must include financial reports for the parent organization and each of its Florida affiliates. However, if all contributions received by the affiliates are remitted directly into a single account with the parent organization, the parent organization may submit one consolidated financial report.[11]

[5] A "sponsor" is "a group or person which is or holds itself out to be soliciting contributions by the use of any name which implies that the group or person is in any way affiliated with or organized for the benefit of emergency service employees or law enforcement officers and which is not a charitable organization." Section 496.404(21), F.S. For a sponsor to solicit contributions in this state, it must be a membership organization that, among other things, has a membership that consists of at least 10 percent or 100 members, whichever is less, who are employed as law enforcement officers or emergency services employees. Section 496.426, F.S.

[6] As used in this analysis, the term "charity" or "charities" refers to both charitable organizations and sponsors, unless otherwise indicated.

[7] The registration fee varies from $10 to $400 based on the amount of contributions received by the charity. Section 496.405(4), F.S.

[11] Id.

A charity must renew its registration annually; if any information submitted on the original registration statement changes, the charity must update that information on its renewal registration. The DACS may extend the time for filing an annual renewal statement or financial report for up to 60 days, during which time the charity's previous registration remains in effect. However, a charity's registration may not continue in effect after the date the charity should have filed its financial report and the charity may not file its renewal statement until it has filed its financial report.[12] Failure to file a renewal statement by the date on which the statement and financial report were due may result in a late filing fee of $25 per month.[13]

After receiving a registration statement, the DACS has 15 business days to either approve, deny, or notify the charity that it must provide additional information. If, after 15 days, no additional information is requested, and the DACS has not approved or denied the registration, it is deemed approved. If additional information is requested, the DACS has 15 days after the information is received to either approve or deny the registration.[14]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 5 amends s. 496.405, F.S., to require that any changes to the information in a charity's registration statement related to the charity's activity in other states, including criminal, administrative, or other actions against the charity, must be reported to the DACS within 10 days of the change occurring. If the charity discloses any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the charity in its initial registration statement or annual renewal statement, the bill allows the DACS additional time to process the applications under the processing time limits in ch. 120, F.S.[15] Additionally, if a charity fails to disclose any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the charity, its registration will be automatically suspended until the charity submits the required information related to those actions to the DACS.

The bill also requires that the consolidated financial statements filed by charities with affiliates must reflect the activities of each affiliate, including all contributions received by each entity, all payments made to each entity, and all administrative fees assessed to each entity. A copy of Internal Revenue Service Form 990 or Form 990-EZ, and attached schedules for the preceding year for the parent organization and each Florida chapter, branch, or affiliate, must be attached to the consolidated financial statement.

The bill repeals the DACS' authority to extend the time for filing an annual renewal statement or financial statement. The bill also provides that a charity's registration will expire with no further action required by the DACS if the charity fails to timely file its renewal statement or it fails to provide a financial statement within the extension periods under s. 496.407, F.S.[16]. Additionally, the DACS will have the authority to deny or revoke a charity's registration if the charity or any of its officers, directors, or trustees, has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state or has been ordered by any court or agency to cease soliciting contributions in any state.

Lastly, the bill requires a charity to immediately notify the DACS in writing when it ceases solicitation activities or participation in charitable sales promotions in Florida.

Present Situation - Fundraising Restrictions for Individuals with Criminal Records

Currently, under s. 496.405(8), F.S., a charity is prohibited from allowing any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees to solicit contributions on behalf of the charity if he or she has, within the last 10 years, been convicted of or pled guilty to any felony or any crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 5 of the bill also amends s. 496.405(8), F.S., to clarify that in addition to the charity, no officer, director, trustee, or employee of the charity may allow any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees to solicit contributions on behalf of the charity if he or she has a criminal history as described above. The bill also clarifies that the applicable criminal history includes crimes or events that occurred in other states and any misdemeanor in another state that constitutes a disqualifying felony in Florida.

Present Situation – Conflict of Interest Transactions

Currently, ch. 496, F.S., does not regulate conflict of interest transactions involving charities.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 6 creates s. 496.4055, F.S., to require the board of directors, or a board committee, of a charity required to register with the DACS pursuant to s. 496.405, F.S., to adopt a policy regarding conflict of interest transactions. A "conflict of interest" is defined as a transaction between a charity and another party in which a director, officer, or trustee of the charity has a direct or indirect financial interest. The term includes the sale, lease, or exchange of property to or from the charity; the lending to or borrowing of money from the charity; and the payment for services provided to or from the charity. The policy adopted by the board must require an annual certification of compliance with the policy, and the organization must provide a copy of the policy to the department with the annual registration statement.

Present Situation – Financial Statements

Currently, under s. 496.407, F.S., a charity that is required to register with the DACS must file an annual financial report for the preceding year with the DACS. The report must include the following: a balance sheet; a statement of support, revenue, and expenses; identification of any charities, professional fundraising consultants, professional solicitors, and commercial co-venturers used and the amounts received from each of them; and a statement of functional expenses that must include program expenses, management and general expenses, and fundraising expenses.[17] A charity may choose to include a financial report that has been audited by an independent certified public accountant (CPA) or an audit with an opinion by an independent CPA. In lieu of the financial report a charity may submit a copy of its IRS Form 990 or Form 990-EZ.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 7 amends s. 496.407, F.S., to change the name of the financial reporting document required by the DACS from "financial report" to "financial statement."[18] The bill clarifies and adds new information that must be included in the required financial statement. Specifically, the financial statement must include a statement of functional expenses[19] that must include program service costs, management and general costs, and fundraising costs.[20] "Management and general costs" are defined in the bill as all costs of a charity that are not identifiable with a single program or fundraising activity but which are necessary to conducting the charity's programs and activities and necessary to the charity's existence. The term includes expenses for business management, salaries, and overhead. "Program service costs" are defined in the bill to means all expenses incurred primarily to accomplish the charity's purposes; however, the term does not include fundraising costs.

The bill also provides the option for a charity that receives less than $500,000 in annual contributions to submit a copy of its IRS Form 990 or Form 990-EZ in lieu of a financial statement. The bill also repeals the option for charities to include an audited financial report and replaces it with a requirement that financial statements be audited or reviewed. The type of audit or review required varies based on the amount of annual contributions received by the charity: for charities that receive less than $500,000 in annual contributions, an audit or review is optional; for charities that receive at least $500,000 but less than $1 million in annual contributions, the financial statement must be reviewed or audited by an independent CPA; and for charities that receive $1 million or more in annual contributions, the financial statement must be audited by an independent CPA. The bill also requires that audits must be performed by an independent CPA in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and that reviews must be performed by an independent CPA in accordance with the Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services. Audited and reviewed financial statements must be accompanied by a report signed and prepared by the independent CPA that performed the audit or review. The bill provides that a charitable organization that receives at least $500,000 in annual revenue may submit a copy of its IRS Form 990 or Form 990-EZ in lieu of a financial

[17] "Fundraising costs" are defined in current law as "those costs incurred in inducing others to make contributions to a charitable organization or sponsor for which the contributors will receive no direct economic benefit. Fundraising costs include, but are not limited to, salaries, rent, acquiring and obtaining mailing lists, printing, mailing, and all direct and indirect costs of soliciting, as well as the cost of unsolicited merchandise sent to encourage contributions." Section 496.404(11), F.S. However, ch. 496, F.S., currently does not define "program expenses" or "management and general expenses."

[18] Section 4 of the bill updates the phrase "financial report" to "financial statement" in s. 496.405, F.S., to reflect the changes made to s. 496.407, F.S., in section 6 of the bill.

[19] Section 406.707(1)(d), F.S. Internal Revenue Forms 990 and 990-EZ also require a Statement of Functional Expenses; instructions are found at http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/i990.pdf.

[20] Definitions of "program service costs" and "management and general costs" are added to s. 496.404, F.S., in Section 3 of the bill.

statement if these forms are prepared by a certified public accountant or professional tax preparer.

Lastly, the bill authorizes the DACS, upon a showing of good cause by a charity, to extend the time for filing a financial statement up to 180 days. The DACS is also authorized to require that an audit or review be conducted for any financial statement submitted by a charity.

Present Situation – Supplemental Financial Disclosure

Currently, ch. 496, F.S., does not require a supplemental financial disclosure.

Effect of proposed changes:

Section 8 creates s. 496.4071, F.S., to require a charity with more than $1 million in total revenue that spent less than 25 percent of the charity's total annual functional expenses on program service costs in the preceding fiscal year to file a supplemental financial disclosure in addition to the financial statement required under s. 496.407, F.S. The supplemental financial disclosure must be filed within 30 days of receiving a request by the DACS to provide such information and must include:

- The dollar amount and the percentage of total revenue and charitable contributions allocated to administrative functions related to managing and administering the charity, including information about payments to and contributions received from professional solicitors.
- The name of and amount earned by or paid to all employees or consultants who earned or were paid more than $100,000.
- The name of and amount paid to all service providers who were paid $100,000 or more and a description of the services provided.
- The amount and percentage of total revenue and charitable contributions allocated to programs.
- The details of any transactions between the charity and an officer, trustee, or director of the charity or his or her immediate family; any entity controlled by an officer, trustee, or director of the charity or his or her the immediate family; and any entity that employed or engaged for consultation an officer, trustee, or director the charity or his or her immediate family.[21]

Present Situation – Specific Disaster Relief Solicitations

Currently, ch. 496, F.S., does not have special regulations for disaster relief solicitations.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 9 creates s. 497.4072, F.S., to require charities that solicit donations related to a specific disaster or crisis and receive at least $100,000 in donations in response to such solicitations to file quarterly disaster relief statements with the DACS. A "crisis" is defined in the bill as an event that garners widespread national or global media coverage due to an actual or perceived threat of harm to an individual, a group, or a community. Likewise, a "disaster" is defined in the bill as a natural, technological, or civil event, including an explosion, chemical spill, wildfire, tornado, hurricane, drought, or flood, which affects one or more countries and causes sufficient damage to result in an official declaration of a state of emergency or an official request for international assistance.[22] The bill requires the DACS to provide a list on its website of disasters and crises that are subject to the quarterly disaster relief statement within 10 days of the disaster or crisis occurring.

[21] The term "immediate family" is defined in section 8 of the bill to mean a parent, spouse, child, sibling, grandparent, grandchild, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, mother-in-law, or father-in-law.

The quarterly statement must detail the donations received and how the funds were expended. A charity must file the first quarterly statement 3 months after it has received at least $100,000 in donations following commencement of solicitations for the specific disaster or crisis, and the charity must continue to file quarterly statements until the quarter after all donations raised in response to the solicitation are expended.

Present Situation – Notice Statements

Currently, s. 496.411(3), F.S., requires every charity that is required to register under s. 496.405, F.S., to conspicuously display the following statement in capital letters on every printed solicitation, written confirmation, receipt, or reminder of a contribution: "A copy of the official registration and financial information may be obtained from the Division of Consumer Services by calling toll-free within the state. Registration does not imply endorsement, approval, or recommendation by the state." The statement must also include a toll-free number for the DACS.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 13 amends s. 496.411(3), F.S., to require charities that are exempt from registration under s. 496.406(1)(d), F.S.,[23] to provide a notice statement. Additionally, the notice statement must be included with all solicitations and confirmations, regardless of form. The notice statement must also include the DACS website address where registration information can be obtained. If the solicitation is done through a website, the notice statement must be conspicuously displayed on the webpage where donations are requested.

Present Situation – Tax-Exempt Status and Disqualifying Events

Currently, organizations that are exempt from federal income tax under s. 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, such as charities, are exempt from Florida's sales and use tax.[24] To receive an exemption, the organization must submit to the Florida Department of Revenue (DOR) a copy of the Internal Revenue Service's (IRS) letter determining the organization's 501(c)(3) status.[25] After receiving the IRS determination letter and making a determination that the organization is actively engaged in an exempt endeavor, the DOR issues a certificate of exemption to the organization. Under current law, the DACS is not part of determining whether a charity operating in Florida should be exempt from sales tax. Specifically, the DACS does not have authority to disqualify a charity from receiving any sales tax exemption based on the charity's allocation of expenses to accomplish the charity's stated purpose.

[22] Definitions of "disaster" and "crisis" are added to s. 496.404, F.S., in Section 4 of the bill.
[23] A charitable organization or sponsor that has less than $25,000 in total revenue during a fiscal year if the fundraising activities of such organization or sponsor are carried on by volunteers, members, or officers who are not compensated and no part of the assets or income of such organization or sponsor inures to the benefit of or is paid to any officer or member of such organization or sponsor or to any professional fundraising consultant, professional solicitor, or commercial co-venturer.
[24] Section 212.08(7)(p), F.S.
[25] Section 212.084, F.S.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 19 creates s. 496.430, F.S., to give the DACS authority to disqualify a charity from receiving a sales tax exemption certificate from the DOR. The DACS must issue the disqualification order if it determines that the charity has failed to expend at least 25 percent of its total annual functional expenses on program service costs for the three most recent years. The DACS may decline to issue a disqualification order if the charity establishes that payments were made to affiliates that should be considered in calculating the program service costs, that revenue was accumulated for a specific program purpose consistent with the representations it made in solicitations, or any other mitigating circumstances. Additionally, charities that are not required to register under ch. 496, F.S., or that have been in existence less than 4 years regardless of whether they are registered in Florida, are exempt from the disqualification provisions of s. 496.30, F.S.

A disqualification order must remain in effect for at least 1 year and until the DACS receives sufficient evidence from the charity that demonstrates it spends at least 25 percent of its total annual functional expenses on program service costs. The charity may not submit such evidence to the DACS earlier than 1 year after the disqualification order becomes final and may not submit such information to the DACS more than once a year. The DACS must also consider any financial statement that was submitted by the charity pursuant to s. 496.407, F.S., after the disqualification order became final.

The DACS must submit a disqualification order to the DOR within 30 days after the order becomes final, and the DOR must revoke or refuse to grant a sales tax exemption certificate within 30 days after receiving the final order. A final disqualification order is conclusive as to the charity's entitlement to any sales tax exemption, and a charity may not appeal the revocation or denial of a sales tax exemption certificate by the DOR if the revocation or denial is based upon a final disqualification order from the DACS. A charity may appeal a disqualification order from the DACS by requesting a hearing within 21 days of being notified the order has been issued. The hearing will be conducted pursuant to ch. 120, F.S.

Sections 1 and 2 of the bill amend ss. 212.08 and 212.084, F.S., to disqualify any charity that is subject to a final disqualification order issued by the DACS from the sales and use tax exemption for 501(c)(3) organizations. The DOR's revocation or denial of a tax exempt certificate may be challenged under ch. 120, F.S., only as to whether a disqualification order is in effect. If a charitable organization wishes to challenge the validity of a disqualification order issued by the DACS, it must do so pursuant to the procedures under s. 496.430(2), F.S.

Professional Fundraising Consultants

Present Situation - Registration

Currently, professional fundraising consultants are required to register annually and pay a $300 fee to the DACS pursuant to s. 496.409, F.S., before operating in Florida.[26] In addition to name and address information, the registration must also indicate whether any of the owners, directors, officers, or employees of the consultant are related to any other directors, officers, owners, or employees, any charity under contract to the consultant, or any supplier or vendor providing goods or services to any charity under contract with the consultant. Additionally, the registration must indicate and explain whether the consultant or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees have been convicted or pled guilty within the past 10 years to any felony or a crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity. Finally, the registration must indicate and explain whether the consultant or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees have been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.[27]

[26] Section 496.409(1)(3), F.S.

After receiving the registration statement, the DACS has 15 business days to either approve the registration or notify the consultant that the registration requirements are not satisfied. If, after 15 days the DACS has not notified the consultant, the registration is deemed approved.[28]

In addition to the registration requirement, every agreement between a fundraising consultant and a charity must be in writing and signed by two authorized officials of the charity and must be filed with the DACS at least 5 days before the consultant begins providing services.[29]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Sections 10 amends s. 496.409, F.S., to provide that professional fundraising consultants who enter into agreements with charities may do so only if the charity has complied with ch. 496, F.S. If the consultant discloses in its initial registration or renewal application any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the consultant, its officers, directors, trustees, or employees, the bill gives the DACS additional time to process the application under the processing time limits in ch. 120, F.S.[30] Additionally, if a consultant fails to disclose any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the consultant, its officers, directors, trustees, or employees, its registration will be automatically suspended until the consultant submits required information to the DACS. The DACS will also have the authority to deny or revoke a consultant's registration if the consultant or any of its officers, directors, or trustees, has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state or has been ordered by any court or agency to cease soliciting contributions.

Present Situation – Restrictions on Individuals with Criminal Records

Currently, under s. 495.409(9), F.S., a person may not act as a professional fundraising consultant, and a professional fundraising consultant may not employ any person, if, within the last 10 years, the person has been convicted of or pled guilty to any crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.[31]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 10 also amends s. 495.409(9), F.S., to clarify that in addition to the consultant, no officer, director, trustee, or employee of the consultant may employ anyone with a criminal history as described above. The bill also clarifies that the applicable criminal history includes crimes or events that occurred in other states.

Professional Solicitor

Summary

The bill:

- Creates a new, annual license for officers, directors, trustees, and owners of a professional solicitor and any employee of the solicitor conducting telephone solicitations.
- Updates the definition of "professional solicitor" to include solicitors located in Florida that solicit outside of Florida.
- Creates an annual license fee of $100 and a $10 fee, similar to telemarketers, for application updates for the professional solicitors license.
- Requires professional solicitation businesses to include additional application information, such as all of the telephone numbers the solicitor will use and a copy of any script, presentation, or sales literature used.
- Requires professional solicitors to include additional information in the notice required before beginning a solicitation campaign, such as a statement of the minimum percentage of gross receipts from contributions that will be remitted to the charity.
- Prohibits a professional solicitor from failing to remit to a charity the disclosed guaranteed minimum percentage of gross receipts from the solicitation campaign.

Present Situation - Registration

Currently, s. 496.410, F.S., requires a professional solicitor to register annually and pay a $300 fee to the DACS before operating in Florida.[32] Information that must be provided for registration includes the address of the business, the names and addresses of owners, officers, and directors, and the names of anyone in charge of any solicitation activity. The registration must also indicate whether any of the owners, directors, officers, or employees of the solicitor are related to any other directors, officers, owners, or employees of the solicitor, any charity under contract to the solicitor, or any supplier or vendor providing goods or services to any charity under contract with the solicitor. Additionally, the registration must indicate and explain whether the solicitor or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees or agents involved in solicitation have been convicted or pled guilty within the past 10 years to any felony or a crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity. Finally, the registration must indicate and explain, if applicable, whether the solicitor or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees or agents involved in solicitation have been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.[33]

[32] "A professional solicitor that is a partnership or corporation may register for and pay a single fee on behalf of all of its partners, members, officers, directors, agents, and employees." Section 496.410(3), F.S. Additionally, professional solicitors are required to maintain a $50,000 bond. Id. at (4).
[33] Id. at (2).

After receiving the registration statement, the DACS has 15 business days to either approve the registration or notify the solicitor that the registration requirements are not satisfied. If, after 15 days the DACS has not notified the solicitor, the registration is deemed approved.[34]

In addition to being required to register, solicitors must also file a solicitation notice with the DACS at least 15 days before beginning a solicitation campaign or event.[35] Section 496.410(6), F.S., requires the notice to include a description of the solicitation campaign; each location and telephone number from which the solicitation will be conducted; the name and address of each person responsible for supervising the campaign; a statement as to whether the solicitor will have custody of donations; the account information for each account where receipts from the campaign are to be deposited; a description of the charity for which the campaign is being carried; the fundraising methods to be used; and copy of the contract between the solicitor and charity.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 4 of the bill amends s. 496.404, F.S., to update the definition of "professional solicitor" to include professional solicitors located in Florida that solicit outside of Florida.

Section 11 amends s. 495.410, F.S., to require professional solicitors to include the following additional information in its registration: a list of all telephone numbers the solicitor will use to solicit contributions and the address associated with each telephone number and any fictitious names associated with such address; a copy of any script, outline, or presentation used by the solicitor; and a copy of sales information or literature provided to a donor or potential donor.

The bill also repeals a provision in s. 496.410(3), F.S. that permits a professional solicitor that is a partnership or corporation to register as and pay a single fee on behalf of all of its partners, members, officers, directors, agents, and employees. Instead being included under the solicitor's registration, these individuals will now be required to obtain a solicitor's license under s. 496.4101, F.S., which is created in section 12 of the bill.[36]

If a solicitor discloses in its initial registration or renewal application any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the solicitor, its officers, directors, trustees, or employees or agents, the bill allows the DACS to have additional time to process the application under the processing time limits in ch. 120, F.S.[37] If a solicitor fails to disclose any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the solicitor, its officers, directors, trustees, employees, or agents, the solicitor's registration will be automatically suspended until the solicitor submits the required information to the DACS. The DACS will also have the authority to deny or revoke a solicitor's registration if the solicitor or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or agents has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state, has entered into an agreement with any state to cease soliciting contributions within that state, or has been ordered by any court or agency to cease soliciting contributions.

The bill requires professional solicitors to include the following additional information in the solicitation notice required under s. 495.410(6), F.S., before beginning a solicitation campaign:

- A statement of the guaranteed minimum percentage of the gross receipts from contributions which will be remitted to the charity, or, if the solicitation involves the sale of goods, services, or tickets to a fundraising event, the percentage of the purchase price which will be remitted to the charity.
- The percentage of a contribution that may be tax-deductible.
- A statement as to whether any owner, director, officer, trustee, or employee of the solicitor is related to another officer, director, owner, trustee, or employee of the solicitor, a charity under contract with the solicitor, or any supplier or vendor providing goods or services to a charity under contract with the solicitor.
- The beginning and ending dates of the campaign.
- A copy of any script, outline, or presentation used by the solicitor.
- A copy of sales information or literature provided to a donor or potential donor.

The bill provides that professional solicitors who enter into agreements with charities may do so only if the charity has complied with ch. 496, F.S.

Present Situation – Restrictions on Individuals with Criminal Records

Under s. 496.410(14), F.S, a person may not act as a professional solicitor, and a solicitor may not employ any person, who has been convicted or pled guilty within the last 10 years to a felony involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity, or who has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 11 also amends s. 495.410(14), F.S., to clarify that in addition to the solicitor, no officer, director, trustee, or employee of the solicitor may employ anyone with a criminal history as described above. The bill clarifies that the applicable criminal history includes crimes or events that occurred in other states and any misdemeanor in another state that constitutes a disqualifying felony in Florida.

Present Situation – Licensure of Professional Solicitors

Beyond the registration and notice provisions for professional solicitors in s. 496.410, F.S., current law does not require solicitors or their employees to be licensed to operate in Florida.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 11 creates s. 496.4101, F.S., to establish a licensing requirement for professional solicitors. The bill requires each officer, director, trustee, or owner of a professional solicitor and any employee of a professional solicitor conducting telephonic solicitations to obtain a solicitor license from the DACS. A license can be obtained by paying a $100 application fee and completing an application that includes the following information:

- The name, address, date of birth, and identification number of a government-issued ID of the applicant.

- Whether the applicant has been convicted of or pled guilty in any state to any crime within the last 10 years involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charitable organization or sponsor, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.
- Whether the applicant is involved in pending litigation in any state or has had entered against her or him an injunction, a temporary restraining order, a final judgment or order, or any similar document, in any civil or administrative action involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property.

The DACS must adopt rules that allow applicants to temporarily engage in solicitation activities while the solicitor license is being processed.

Applicants must be fingerprinted by an agency, entity, or vendor that meets state and federal standards,[38] and fees for state and national fingerprint processing and retention must be borne by the applicant. The Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) must retain the fingerprints and enroll them in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) national retained print arrest notification program once the FDLE begins participating in the program. The DACS is required to screen background results to determine if an applicant meets licensure requirements. When a person is no longer licensed, the DACS must notify the FDLE.

Any material change to the information submitted in the licensing application must be reported to the DACS within 10 days of the change along with payment of a $10 fee.[39] A license must be renewed annually; an un-renewed license automatically expires. The annual renewal fee is $100. All fees, less administrative costs, will be deposited into the General Inspection Trust Fund of the DACS.

The bill also makes it a violation of ch. 496, F.S., to provide inaccurate or incomplete information in an initial or renewal application for a solicitor license; for any person to fail to maintain a license; and for a solicitor to allow, require, permit, or authorize an employee without an active license to conduct telephonic solicitations.

Additionally, the DACS may deny or revoke a solicitor's license if the solicitor has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state or is subject to any disqualification specified in s. 496.410(14), F.S., relating to the solicitor's criminal history.

Present Situation – Notice Statements and Requested Information

Currently, s. 496.412(1), F.S., requires that in the course of requesting a donation, a solicitor must clearly disclose the name of the solicitor, the name and state of the principal place of business of the charity, and a description of how the contributions raised by the solicitation will be used. Like charities, solicitors are also required to conspicuously state the following in capital letters on every written solicitation, written confirmation, receipt, or reminder of a contribution: "A copy of the official registration and financial information may be obtained from the Division of Consumer Services by calling toll-free within the state. Registration does not imply

[38] Section 943.053(13), F.S.
[39] The $10 change fee is also charged to telemarketers under s. 501.609(2), F.S.

endorsement, approval, or recommendation by the state." The statement must include a toll-free number for the DACS.[40]

Additionally, if a person being solicited requests the percentage of the gross revenue that the charity will receive from the solicitation campaign or requests the percentage of the contribution which may be tax-deductible, the solicitor must provide the requested information in writing within 14 days of the request.[41]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 14 amends s. 496.412(1), F.S., to expand the use of notice statements by solicitors to all solicitations rather than only on written solicitations and confirmations. The notice statement must also include the DACS website where registration information can be obtained. If the solicitation is done through a website, the notice statement must be conspicuously displayed on the webpage where donations are requested.

The bill also provides an alternate to the written response required when a person being solicited requests the percentage of the gross revenue that the charity will receive from the solicitation campaign or requests the percentage of the contribution which may be tax-deductible as a charitable contribution. The solicitor may immediately notify the person that the information is available on the DACS' website or by calling the Division of Consumer Services' toll-free number.

Present Situation – Collection Receptacles Used for Donations

Some charities utilize collection receptacles located in parking lots or along roads as a place for people to donate clothing and other goods. Recent reports indicate that for-profit businesses have begun using collection receptacles that look similar to those used by charities. The business uses the receptacles to collect clothes and sell them at a profit. [42] Current law does not regulate the use of collection receptacles either by charities or by for-profit businesses.[43]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 15 creates s. 496.4121, F.S., to regulate the use of collection receptacles. The bill defines a "collection receptacle" as a receptacle used to collect donated clothing, household items, or other goods for resale. The bill requires all collection receptacles to display a permanent sign on each side of the receptacle. The information on the sign must be printed in letters that are at least 3 inches in height and no less than one-half inch in width, in a color that contrasts with the color of the receptacle. For receptacles used by a charity required to register under ch. 496, F.S., the sign must provide the name, address, telephone number, and registration number of the charity. For receptacles placed by an organization not required to register under ch. 496, F.S., or not claiming an exemption pursuant to s. 496.406, F.S., the sign must include the name, telephone number, and address of the business and the statement: "This is not a charity. Donations made here support a for-profit business and are not tax deductible." The bill also requires a charity using a collection receptacle to provide a donor with documentation of its tax-exempt status and registration, if requested.

Present Situation – Prohibited Acts and Penalties

Currently, s. 496.415, F.S., contains a list of seventeen acts that are prohibited for any person when done in connection with any solicitation or charity sales promotion. Examples of prohibited acts include: violating any of the requirements in ch. 496, F.S.; knowingly submitting false, misleading, or inaccurate information in a document that is filed with the DACS, provided to the public, or offered in response to a request or investigation by the DACS, the Department of Legal Affairs, or the state attorney; and representing that a charity will receive a fixed or estimated percentage of the gross revenue from a solicitation campaign greater than that identified in filings with the DACS, or that a charity will receive an actual or estimated dollar amount or percentage of goods or services purchased or used in the charity sales promotion that is greater than that agreed to with a vendor.

Any violation of ch. 496, F.S., including engaging in any of the prohibited acts identified in s. 496.415, F.S., is a violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Practices Act[44] and may also result in a civil action filed by the DACS.[45] Additionally, any willful and knowing violation of ch. 496, F.S., is a third-degree felony punishable by up to 5 years in prison and a fine of up to $5,000, and any subsequent conviction is a second-degree felony punishable by up to 15 years in prison and a fine of up to $10,000.[46]

Currently, under s. 496.419, F.S., after the DACS has investigated and found that a person or entity has violated ch. 496, F.S., it can enter an order imposing a range of administrative penalties, including imposing an administrative fine up to $1,000 for each act or omission. However, for 501(c)(3) organizations, the maximum penalty is limited to $500 per violation.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 16 amends s. 496.415, F.S., to prohibit a person from submitting false, misleading, or inaccurate information in a document that is filed with the DACS, provided to the public, or offered in response to a request or investigation by the DACS, the Department of Legal Affairs, or the state attorney regardless of whether the person knows he or she is submitting false, misleading, or inaccurate information. The bill also prohibits a person from failing to remit to a charity the disclosed guaranteed minimum percentage of gross receipts from contributions as indicated with its agreement with a charity, or, if the solicitation involved the sale of goods, services, or tickets to a fundraising event, the percentage of the purchase price as agreed to in the agreement.

Section 17 amends s. 496.419, F.S., to increase the fine the DACS may levy to $5,000 for each act or omission and makes this fine applicable to 501(c)(3) organizations. The bill limits the fine for 501(c)(3) organizations that fail to register under s. 496.405, F.S., or file an exemption under s. 496.406(2), F.S., to $500 per violation. The DACS may also levy a fine up to $10,000 for any violation of ch. 496, F.S., which involves fraud or deception.

Section 18 creates. s. 496.4191, F.S., to require the DACS to suspend immediately the registration or the processing of a registration of any organization if the DACS receives written notification and verification by law enforcement, a court, a state attorney, or the FDLE, that the registrant, applicant, or any officer or director of the registrant or applicant is charged with a crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, or fraudulent conversion or misappropriation of property or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charitable organization or sponsor. The suspension will remain in effect until final disposition of the case or removal or resignation of the officer or director.

Other Provisions

Section 3 of the bill amends s. 496.403, F.S., to remove blood establishments from the list of regulated charitable institutions.

Section 20 creates s. 496.431, F.S., to provide a severability clause for ch. 496, F.S.

Section 21 amends s. 741.0305, F.S., to correct a cross-reference due to the amendments to s. 496.404, F.S., in section 3 of the bill.

Section 22 appropriates $235,352 in recurring funds and $239,357 in nonrecurring funds from the DACS General Inspection Trust Fund, and four full-time equivalent positions with associated salary rate of 143,264, to the DACS to implement this act.

Section 23 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

PCS/CS/SB 638 creates a $100 application fee for a professional solicitor license and a $10 fee to report material changes associated with changes to information submitted with the license application. The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) estimates that the $100 application and renewal fee for a professional solicitor license will result in an estimated recurring revenue increase of $250,000 annually.[47] The DACS did not estimate the revenue impact from the $10 fee.

The cost for a state and national criminal history record check is $40.50, which goes into the FDLE Operating Trust Fund. From that amount, $16.50 is transferred from the FDLE Operating Trust Fund to the FBI; the remaining $24 stays in the FDLE Operating Trust Fund for state processing. Based on the DACS estimate of 2,500 applications for professional solicitor licenses, the FDLE Operating Trust Fund will receive an additional $60,000 (net of payments to the FBI) in the first year of the program, and an indeterminate amount in subsequent years as new license applications are submitted. Additionally, the bill requires that all fingerprints be retained by the FDLE. The fee for state retention of fingerprints is $6 annually after the year of the original fingerprint processing.

The impact of losing sales tax exempt status by a charity is unknown at this time.

The bill has not been evaluated by the Revenue Estimating Conference.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Charities may incur increased administrative and record keeping costs to comply with the provisions of the bill requiring the updated requirements for reporting, notice, registration, financial statement, auditing and review, and establishment a conflict of interest policy. Similarly, some charities that raise funds in response to a specific disaster or crisis will incur additional administrative costs associated with filing quarterly relief statements. Additionally, charities and for-profit entities may incur increased costs to comply with the signage requirement for collection receptacles.

Professional fundraising consultants may incur minimal administrative and record keeping costs to comply with the updated registration and reporting requirements.

Officers, directors, trustees, or owners of a professional solicitor and any employee of a solicitor conducting telephonic solicitations will have to annually apply and pay a $100 fee for a solicitor license. Additionally, solicitors are likely to incur increased administrative and record keeping costs to comply with the updated reporting and disclosure requirements, updated financial statement requirements, and updated notice statement requirements.

The fingerprinting cost for a new applicant for a professional solicitor license is $53.50 in total: $40.50 for the state and federal background check and $13 for lifetime federal fingerprint retention, after FDLE begins to participate in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's national retained print arrest notification program.[48]For annual renewal of a license, an applicant will pay the $6 state fingerprint retention fee.

Charities, consultants, and solicitors may also incur greater costs due to any fines levied by the DACS and any violations prosecuted by the Attorney General or the State Attorney.

C. Government Sector Impact:

Expenditures

The DACS anticipates the additional rules and licensing required by the bill will necessitate the hiring of two Regulatory Consultants and the development of new software for the Division of Consumer Services.[49] Similarly, the DACS anticipates the bill will result in an additional 500 cases that will be referred to the department's Office of Agriculture Law Enforcement (OALE) for regulatory investigation.[50] To meet the increased workload, OALE estimates it will require two additional Senior Financial Investigators as well as a vehicle for each investigator.[51] The DACS projects it will need $474,709 in additional funding in Fiscal Year 2014-2015 and $235,352 each year thereafter.

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference has not yet determined the impact of this bill on prison beds.

Revenues

The DACS expects annual revenues of an additional $112,000 due to the increase in the maximum administrative fine for violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Practices Act from $1,000 to $5,000.[52] The DACS did not provide information related to revenue impacts for the $10,000 fine or for fines from increased criminal prosecutions of willful and knowing violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act. See Tax/Fee Issues.

According to the FDLE, it expects annual revenues in year 1 of $60,000 from the collection of the $24 fee for state criminal history record checks. The amount does not

[48] The bill also requires fingerprints submitted by applicants for professional solicitor licenses to be enrolled in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's national retained print arrest notification program when FDLE begins participation in the program. include the $6 state fingerprint retention fee because it is paid only by those seeking annual license renewals.

The impact of this bill on the Attorney General or state attorneys has not been determined; however, it may increase caseloads for these agencies.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) recommended in its bill analysis that the fingerprinting provisions be amended to require that the fingerprints be taken by an authorized entity and to clarify that fingerprint fees will be paid by the applicant.[53]

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 212.08, 212.084, 496.403, 496.404, 496.405, 496.407, 496.409, 496.410, 496.411, 496.412, 496.415, 496.419, and 741.0305.

This bill creates the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 496.4055, 496.4071, 496.4072, 496.4101, 496.4121, 496.4191, 496.430, and 496.431.

(1) Property owned by an exempt organization is used for an exempt purpose if the owner has taken affirmative steps to prepare the property for an exempt educational, literary, scientific, religious, or charitable use and no portion of the property is being used for a nonexempt purpose. The term "affirmative steps" means environmental or land use permitting activities, creation of architectural plans or schematic drawings, land clearing or site preparation, construction or renovation activities, or other similar activities that demonstrate a commitment to prepare the property for an exempt use.

(2) If property owned by an organization granted an exemption under this section is transferred for a purpose other than an exempt use; is transferred for a purpose other than for directly providing affordable homeownership or rental housing to persons or families defined as extremely-low-income persons, very-low-income persons, low-income persons, or moderate-income persons under s. 420.0004; or is not in actual exempt use within 5 years after the date the organization is granted an exemption, the property appraiser making such determination shall serve upon the organization that received the exemption a notice of intent to record in the public records of the county a notice of tax lien against any property owned by that organization in the county, and such property must be identified in the notice of tax lien. (b) Before such lien may be filed, the organization so notified must be given 30 days to pay the taxes and interest.

(c) If an exemption is improperly granted as a result of a clerical error or an omission by the property appraiser, the organization improperly receiving the exemption may not be assessed interest.

(d) The 5-year limitation specified in this subsection may be extended if the holder of the exemption continues to take affirmative steps to develop the property for the purposes specified in this subsection.

(e) This subsection does not apply to property owned by an exempt organization and used for educational or religious purposes as specified in subsection (1).

(23)~~(19)~~ "Religious institution" means any church, ecclesiastical or denominational organization, or established physical place for worship in this state at which nonprofit religious services and activities are regularly conducted and carried on, and includes those bona fide religious groups which do not maintain specific places of worship. The term ~~"Religious institution"~~ also includes any separate group or corporation which forms an integral part of a religious institution which is exempt from federal income tax under the provisions of s. 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, and which is not primarily supported by funds solicited outside its own membership or congregation.

(24)~~(20)~~ "Solicitation" means a request, directly or indirectly, for money, property, financial assistance, or any other thing of value on the plea or representation that such money, property, financial assistance, or other thing of value or a portion of it will be used for a charitable or sponsor purpose or will benefit a charitable organization or sponsor. The term ~~"Solicitation"~~ includes, but is not limited to, the following methods of requesting or securing the promise, pledge, or grant of money, property, financial assistance, or any other thing of value:

(a) Making any oral or written request;

(b) Making any announcement to the press, on radio or television, by telephone or telegraph, or by any other communication device concerning an appeal or campaign by or for any charitable organization or sponsor or for any charitable or sponsor purpose;

(c) Distributing, circulating, posting, or publishing any handbill, written advertisement, or other publication that directly or by implication seeks to obtain any contribution; or

(d) Selling or offering or attempting to sell any advertisement, advertising space, book, card, coupon, chance, device, magazine, membership, merchandise, subscription, sponsorship, flower, admission, ticket, food, or other service or tangible good, item, or thing of value, or any right of any description in connection with which any appeal is made for any charitable organization or sponsor or charitable or sponsor purpose, or when the name of any charitable organization or sponsor is used or referred to in any such appeal as an inducement or reason for making the sale or when, in connection with the sale or offer or attempt to sell, any statement is made that all or part of the proceeds from the sale will be used for any charitable or sponsor purpose or will benefit any charitable organization or sponsor.

A solicitation is considered as having taken place whether or not the person making the solicitation receives any contribution. A solicitation does not occur when a person applies for a grant or an award to the government or to an organization that is exempt from federal income taxation under s. 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and described in s. 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and is duly registered with the department.

(25)~~(21)~~ "Sponsor" means a group or person that ~~which~~ is or holds itself out to be soliciting contributions by the use of any name that ~~which~~ implies that the group or person is in any way affiliated with or organized for the benefit of emergency service employees or law enforcement officers and the group or person ~~which~~ is not a charitable organization. The term includes a chapter, branch, or affiliate that ~~which~~ has its principal place of business outside the state, if such chapter, branch, or affiliate solicits or holds itself out to be soliciting contributions in this state.

(26)~~(22)~~ "Sponsor purpose" means any program or endeavor performed to benefit emergency service employees or law enforcement officers.

(27)~~(23)~~ "Sponsor sales promotion" means an advertising or sales campaign conducted by a commercial co-venturer who represents that the purchase or use of goods or services offered by the commercial co-venturer will be used for a sponsor purpose or donated to a sponsor. The provision of advertising services to a sponsor does not, in itself, constitute a sponsor sales promotion.

(2) Persons required to obtain a solicitor license under subsection (1) shall submit to the department, in such form as the department prescribes, an application for a solicitor license. The application must include all of the following information:

(a) The true name, date of birth, unique identification number of a driver license or other valid form of identification, and home address of the applicant.

(b) If the applicant, in any state, regardless of adjudication, has previously been convicted of, or found guilty of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, or has been incarcerated within the last 10 years as a result of having previously been convicted of, or found guilty of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, any crime within the last 10 years involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charitable organization or sponsor, or has been enjoined, in any state, from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.

(c) If the applicant, in any state, is involved in pending litigation or has had entered against her or him an injunction, a temporary restraining order, or a final judgment or order, including a stipulated judgment or order, an assurance of voluntary compliance, cease and desist, or any similar document, in any civil or administrative action involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.

(3)(a) Each applicant must be fingerprinted by an agency, entity, or vendor that meets the requirements of s. 943.053(13). The agency, entity, or vendor shall forward a complete set of the applicant's fingerprints to the Department of Law Enforcement for state processing, and the Department of Law Enforcement shall forward the applicant's fingerprints to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for national processing.

(b) Fees for state and national fingerprint processing and retention shall be borne by the applicant. The state cost for fingerprint processing is that authorized in s. 943.053(3)(b) for records provided to persons or entities other than those specified as exceptions therein.

(c) All fingerprints submitted to the Department of Law Enforcement as required under this subsection shall be retained by the Department of Law Enforcement as provided under s. 943.05(2)(g) and (h) and enrolled in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's national retained print arrest notification program. Fingerprints may not be enrolled in the national retained print arrest notification program until the Department of Law Enforcement begins participation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Arrest fingerprints will be searched against the retained prints by the Department of Law Enforcement and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(d) For any renewal of the applicant's license, the department shall request the Department of Law Enforcement to forward the retained fingerprints of the applicant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation unless the applicant is enrolled in the national retained print arrest notification program described in paragraph (c). The fee for the national criminal history check will be paid as part of the renewal fee to the department and forwarded by the department to Department of Law Enforcement. If the applicant's fingerprints are retained in the national retained print arrest notification program, the applicant shall pay the state and national retention fee to the department which will forward the fee to the Department of Law Enforcement.

(e) The department shall notify the Department of Law Enforcement regarding any person whose fingerprints have been retained but who is no longer licensed under this chapter.

(f) The department shall screen background results to determine if an applicant meets licensure requirements.

(4) A solicitor license must be renewed annually by the submission of a renewal application. A solicitor license that is not renewed expires without further action by the department.

(5) Each applicant for a solicitor license shall remit a license fee of $100 to the department at the time the initial application is filed with the department and an annual renewal fee of $100 thereafter. All fees collected, less the cost of administration, shall be deposited into the General Inspection Trust Fund.

(6) Any material change to the information submitted to the department in the initial application or renewal application for a solicitor license shall be reported to the department by the applicant or licensee within 10 days after the change occurs. The applicant or licensee shall also remit a fee in the amount of $10 for processing the change to the initial or renewal application.

(7) It is a violation of this chapter:

(a) For an applicant to provide inaccurate or incomplete information to the department in the initial or renewal application for a solicitor license.

(b) For any person specified in subsection (1) to fail to maintain a solicitor license as required by this section.

(c) For a professional solicitor to allow, require, permit, or authorize an employee without an active solicitor license issued under this section to conduct telephonic solicitations.

(8) The department shall adopt rules that allow applicants to engage in solicitation activities on an interim basis until such time as a solicitor license is granted or denied.

(9) The department may deny or revoke any solicitor license if the applicant or licensee has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state, has been ordered by any court or governmental agency to cease soliciting contributions within any state, or is subject to any disqualification specified in s. 496.410(14).

(10) Any administrative proceeding conducted pursuant to this section must be conducted in accordance with chapter 120.

Section 19. Section 496.430, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

496.430 Disqualification for certain tax exemptions.—

(2) A charitable organization or sponsor may appeal a disqualification order by requesting a hearing within 21 days after notification from the department that it has issued a disqualification order under this section. The hearing must be conducted in accordance with chapter 120.

(3) Notwithstanding a finding under subsection (1) that a charitable organization or sponsor has failed to expend at least 25 percent of its total annual functional expenses on program service costs, the department may decline to issue a disqualification order if the charitable organization or sponsor establishes:

(a) That payments were made to affiliates which should be considered in calculating the program service costs;

(b) That revenue was accumulated for a specific program purpose consistent with representations in solicitations; or

(c) Such other mitigating circumstances as are defined by rule of the department.

(4) A disqualification order issued by the department pursuant to this section is effective for at least 1 year after such order becomes final and shall remain effective until such time as the department receives sufficient evidence from the disqualified charitable organization or sponsor which demonstrates it expends at least 25 percent of its total annual functional expenses on program service costs.

(a) The charitable organization or sponsor may not submit such evidence to the department sooner than 1 year after the disqualification order becomes final and may not submit such information more than once each year for consideration by the department.

(b) The department shall also consider any financial statement that was submitted by the charitable organization or sponsor to the department pursuant to s. 496.407 after the disqualification order became final.

(5) The department shall provide a disqualification order to the Department of Revenue within 30 days after such order becomes final. A final disqualification order is conclusive as to the charitable organization's or sponsor's entitlement to any sales tax exemption. The Department of Revenue shall revoke or refuse to grant a sales tax exemption certificate to a charitable organization or sponsor subject to a final disqualification order within 30 days after receiving such disqualification order. A charitable organization or sponsor may not appeal or challenge the revocation or denial of a sales tax exemption certificate by the Department of Revenue if such revocation or denial is based upon a final disqualification order issued pursuant to this section.

(6) This section does not apply to a charitable organization or sponsor that:

(a) Is not required to register under this chapter with the department; or

(b) Has been in existence for less than 4 years, regardless of whether the charitable organization or sponsor is registered in this state.

Section 20. Section 496.431, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

496.431 Severability.—If any provision of this chapter or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of this chapter which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this chapter are severable.

Section 21. Paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of section

741.0305, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

Section 23. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 638 updates the Solicitation of Contributions Act to provide increased oversight by the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) of charitable organizations and sponsors, professional fundraising consultants, and professional solicitors. It requires additional financial disclosure for a charitable organization that had more than $1 million in total revenue and devoted less than a specified proportion of its spending to program service costs in the preceding year, and allows the DACS to disqualify a charitable organization from receiving a sales tax exemption certificate if the organization is found to be in violation of s. 496.419(4), F.S.

The bill creates a license for professional solicitors that is expected to increase revenue to the DACS General Inspection Trust Fund by $125,000 annually. It also requires fingerprinting of professional solicitors. Fingerprint processing fees will increase revenue to the FDLE Operating Trust Fund (net of payments to the FBI) by $60,000 in the first year and an indeterminate amount in subsequent years. The bill also increases administrative fines for violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act.

The bill appropriates $179,944 in recurring funds and $235.584 in nonrecurring funds from the DACS General Inspection Trust Fund, and three full-time equivalent positions to the DACS to implement this act.

II. Present Situation:

In Florida, the solicitation of contributions by charitable organizations and sponsors is regulated by the Solicitation of Contributions Act (the SCA).[1] There are currently over 18,000 charitable organizations and sponsors, 404 professional fundraising consultants, and 87 professional solicitors registered in Florida. Of those 87 professional solicitors, 54 are headquartered outside Florida.[2]

The SCA contains basic registration, financial disclosure, and notification requirements for charitable organizations and sponsors, fundraising consultants, and solicitors. Recent news reports suggest current regulations under the SCA may be insufficient to effectively monitor and regulate these entities to ensure they are fulfilling their purpose as charitable entities.[3]

(See a detailed analysis of the bill's effect on each part of the SCA below.)

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill makes the following changes to statutes regulating charitable organizations and sponsors, professional fundraising consultants, and professional solicitors. The bill:

- Requires that any changes to information in a registration statement be submitted to the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) within 10 days of the change.
- Requires automatic suspension of a registration for failure to disclose any information related to certain criminal or administrative actions.
- Permits increased processing times for the DACS if the applicant discloses any information related to certain criminal or administrative actions against it.
- Authorizes the DACS to deny or revoke an application if the applicant or its agent has had certain criminal or administrative action taken against it.
- Prohibits the employment of persons with certain criminal history.[4]
- Requires notices to be provided for all solicitations and confirmations.
- Requires professional fundraising consultants and professional solicitors to only enter into contracts with charitable organizations and sponsors registered under ch. 496, F.S.

[1] Chapter 496, F.S. The majority of the provisions in the SCA "do not apply to bona fide religious institutions, educational instructions, and state agencies or other government entities or persons or organizations who solicit or act as professional fundraising consultants solely on their behalf." Section 496.403, F.S. Nor do the majority of the provisions in the SCA apply to political contributions solicited in accordance with election laws. Id.

Charitable Organizations and Sponsors[5]

Summary

The bill:

- Authorizes the DACS to enter a disqualification order for a charity found to be in violation of s. 496.419(4), F.S., which disqualifies the charity from receiving sales tax exempt status for at least a year.
- Clarifies the requirements related to financial statements.
- Requires certain charities to adopt conflict of interest policies.
- Requires certain charities to file supplemental financial disclosures and quarterly disaster relief statements.

Present Situation - Registration Statements

Currently, under s. 495.405, F.S., any charitable organization or sponsor[6] that intends to solicit donations in Florida must register annually with the DACS and pay a registration fee[7] before soliciting donations.[8] Registration includes a financial report,[9] a statement of the purpose of the charity, how donations will be used, names of individuals in charge of solicitation activities, and proof of federal tax exempt status. The charity must also identify any professional solicitors and fundraising consultants the charity will use, along with the terms of the arrangements for compensation to be paid to the consultant and solicitor. The registration must also include a statement related to the charity's activity in other states, including whether the charity is authorized to operate in another state; whether the charity's registration has been denied, suspended, or revoked in another state; and whether the charity or any person associated with the charity has been subject to any adverse administrative actions or criminal convictions in any state.[10]

Each affiliate of a parent charity required to register under s. 495.405, F.S., must either file a separate registration and financial report or provide the information to the parent organization to file a consolidated registration. The consolidated registration must include financial reports for the parent organization and each of its Florida affiliates. However, if all contributions received by the affiliates are remitted directly into a single account with the parent organization, the parent organization may submit one consolidated financial report.[11]

[5] A "sponsor" is "a group or person which is or holds itself out to be soliciting contributions by the use of any name which implies that the group or person is in any way affiliated with or organized for the benefit of emergency service employees or law enforcement officers and which is not a charitable organization." Section 496.404(21), F.S. For a sponsor to solicit contributions in this state, it must be a membership organization that, among other things, has a membership that consists of at least 10 percent or 100 members, whichever is less, who are employed as law enforcement officers or emergency services employees. Section 496.426, F.S.

[6] As used in this analysis, the term "charity" or "charities" refers to both charitable organizations and sponsors, unless otherwise indicated.

[7] The registration fee varies from $10 to $400 based on the amount of contributions received by the charity. Section 496.405(4), F.S.

[8] Id. at (1)(a) and (c), F.S. Certain small charities (with less than $25,000 total annual revenue) are exempt from the registration and financial reporting requirements in ss. 496.405 and 496.407, F.S. See id.; s. 496.406, F.S.

[9] The information that must be included in the financial report is identified in s. 496.407, F.S. See "Financial Statements" section below.

[10] Section 496.405(2), F.S.

[11] Id.

A charity must renew its registration annually; if any information submitted on the original registration statement changes, the charity must update that information on its renewal registration. The DACS may extend the time for filing an annual renewal statement or financial report for up to 60 days, during which time the charity's previous registration remains in effect. However, a charity's registration may not continue in effect after the date the charity should have filed its financial report and the charity may not file its renewal statement until it has filed its financial report.[12] Failure to file a renewal statement by the date on which the statement and financial report were due may result in a late filing fee of $25 per month.[13]

After receiving a registration statement, the DACS has 15 business days to either approve, deny, or notify the charity that it must provide additional information. If, after 15 days, no additional information is requested, and the DACS has not approved or denied the registration, it is deemed approved. If additional information is requested, the DACS has 15 days after the information is received to either approve or deny the registration.[14]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 5 amends s. 496.405, F.S., to require that any changes to the information in a charity's registration statement related to the charity's activity in other states, including criminal, administrative, or other actions against the charity, must be reported to the DACS within 10 days of the change occurring. If the charity discloses any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the charity in its initial registration statement or annual renewal statement, the bill allows the DACS additional time to process the applications under the processing time limits in ch. 120, F.S.[15] Additionally, if a charity fails to disclose any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the charity, its registration will be automatically suspended until the charity submits the required information related to those actions to the DACS.

The bill also requires that the consolidated financial statements filed by charities with affiliates must reflect the activities of each affiliate, including all contributions received by each entity, all payments made to each entity, and all administrative fees assessed to each entity. A copy of Internal Revenue Service Form 990 or Form 990-EZ, and attached schedules for the preceding year for the parent organization and each Florida chapter, branch, or affiliate, must be attached to the consolidated financial statement.

The bill repeals the DACS' authority to extend the time for filing an annual renewal statement or financial statement. The bill also provides that a charity's registration will expire with no further action required by the DACS if the charity fails to timely file its renewal statement or it fails to provide a financial statement within the extension periods under s. 496.407, F.S.[16]. Additionally, the DACS will have the authority to deny or revoke a charity's registration if the charity or any of its officers, directors, or trustees, has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state or has been ordered by any court or agency to cease soliciting contributions in any state.

[15] The time limits for processing a registration under ch. 120, F.S., are longer than those in ch. 496, F.S. For example, under ch. 120, F.S., an agency has 30 days to request additional information from an application, and the agency has 90 days after receipt of a completed application to approve or deny a registration.

Lastly, the bill requires a charity to immediately notify the DACS in writing when it ceases solicitation activities or participation in charitable sales promotions in Florida.

Present Situation - Fundraising Restrictions for Individuals with Criminal Records

Currently, under s. 496.405(8), F.S., a charity is prohibited from allowing any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees to solicit contributions on behalf of the charity if he or she has, within the last 10 years, been convicted of or pled guilty to any felony or any crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 5 of the bill also amends s. 496.405(8), F.S., to clarify that in addition to the charity, no officer, director, trustee, or employee of the charity may allow any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees to solicit contributions on behalf of the charity if he or she has a criminal history as described above. The bill also clarifies that the applicable criminal history includes crimes or events that occurred in other states and any misdemeanor in another state that constitutes a disqualifying felony in Florida.

Present Situation – Conflict of Interest Transactions

Currently, ch. 496, F.S., does not regulate conflict of interest transactions involving charities.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 6 creates s. 496.4055, F.S., to require the board of directors, or a board committee, of a charity required to register with the DACS pursuant to s. 496.405, F.S., to adopt a policy regarding conflict of interest transactions. A "conflict of interest" is defined as a transaction between a charity and another party in which a director, officer, or trustee of the charity has a direct or indirect financial interest. The term includes the sale, lease, or exchange of property to or from the charity; the lending to or borrowing of money from the charity; and the payment for services provided to or from the charity. The policy adopted by the board must require an annual certification of compliance with the policy, and the organization must provide a copy of the policy to the department with the annual registration statement.

Present Situation – Financial Statements

Currently, under s. 496.407, F.S., a charity that is required to register with the DACS must file an annual financial report for the preceding year with the DACS. The report must include the following: a balance sheet; a statement of support, revenue, and expenses; identification of any charities, professional fundraising consultants, professional solicitors, and commercial co-venturers used and the amounts received from each of them; and a statement of functional expenses that must include program expenses, management and general expenses, and fundraising expenses.[17] A charity may choose to include a financial report that has been audited by an independent certified public accountant (CPA) or an audit with an opinion by an independent CPA. In lieu of the financial report a charity may submit a copy of its IRS Form 990 or Form 990-EZ.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 7 amends s. 496.407, F.S., to change the name of the financial reporting document required by the DACS from "financial report" to "financial statement."[18] The bill clarifies and adds new information that must be included in the required financial statement. Specifically, the financial statement must include a statement of functional expenses[19] that must include program service costs, management and general costs, and fundraising costs.[20] "Management and general costs" are defined in the bill as all costs of a charity that are not identifiable with a single program or fundraising activity but which are necessary to conducting the charity's programs and activities and necessary to the charity's existence. The term includes expenses for business management, salaries, and overhead. "Program service costs" are defined in the bill to means all expenses incurred primarily to accomplish the charity's purposes; however, the term does not include fundraising costs.

The bill also provides the option for a charity that receives less than $500,000 in annual contributions to submit a copy of its IRS Form 990 or Form 990-EZ in lieu of a financial statement. The bill also repeals the option for charities to include an audited financial report and replaces it with a requirement that financial statements be audited or reviewed. The type of audit or review required varies based on the amount of annual contributions received by the charity: for charities that receive less than $500,000 in annual contributions, an audit or review is optional; for charities that receive at least $500,000 but less than $1 million in annual contributions, the financial statement must be reviewed or audited by an independent CPA; and for charities that receive $1 million or more in annual contributions, the financial statement must be audited by an independent CPA. The bill also requires that audits must be performed by an independent CPA in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and that reviews must be performed by an independent CPA in accordance with the Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services. Audited and reviewed financial statements must be accompanied by a report signed and prepared by the independent CPA that performed the audit or review. The bill provides that a charitable organization that receives at least $500,000 in annual revenue may submit a copy of its IRS Form 990 or Form 990-EZ in lieu of a financial

[17] "Fundraising costs" are defined in current law as "those costs incurred in inducing others to make contributions to a charitable organization or sponsor for which the contributors will receive no direct economic benefit. Fundraising costs include, but are not limited to, salaries, rent, acquiring and obtaining mailing lists, printing, mailing, and all direct and indirect costs of soliciting, as well as the cost of unsolicited merchandise sent to encourage contributions." Section 496.404(11), F.S. However, ch. 496, F.S., currently does not define "program expenses" or "management and general expenses."

[18] Section 4 of the bill updates the phrase "financial report" to "financial statement" in s. 496.405, F.S., to reflect the changes made to s. 496.407, F.S., in section 6 of the bill.

[19] Section 406.707(1)(d), F.S. Internal Revenue Forms 990 and 990-EZ also require a Statement of Functional Expenses; instructions are found at http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/i990.pdf.

[20] Definitions of "program service costs" and "management and general costs" are added to s. 496.404, F.S., in Section 3 of the bill.

statement if these forms are prepared by a certified public accountant or professional tax preparer.

Lastly, the bill authorizes the DACS, upon a showing of good cause by a charity, to extend the time for filing a financial statement up to 180 days. The DACS is also authorized to require that an audit or review be conducted for any financial statement submitted by a charity.

Present Situation – Supplemental Financial Disclosure

Currently, ch. 496, F.S., does not require a supplemental financial disclosure.

Effect of proposed changes:

Section 8 creates s. 496.4071, F.S., to require a charity with more than $1 million in total revenue that spent less than 25 percent of the charity's total annual functional expenses on program service costs in the preceding fiscal year to file a supplemental financial disclosure in addition to the financial statement required under s. 496.407, F.S. The supplemental financial disclosure must be filed within 30 days of receiving a request by the DACS to provide such information and must include:

- The dollar amount and the percentage of total revenue and charitable contributions allocated to administrative functions related to managing and administering the charity, including information about payments to and contributions received from professional solicitors.
- The name of and amount earned by or paid to all employees or consultants who earned or were paid more than $100,000.
- The name of and amount paid to all service providers who were paid $100,000 or more and a description of the services provided.
- The amount and percentage of total revenue and charitable contributions allocated to programs.
- The details of any transactions between the charity and an officer, trustee, or director of the charity or his or her immediate family; any entity controlled by an officer, trustee, or director of the charity or his or her the immediate family; and any entity that employed or engaged for consultation an officer, trustee, or director the charity or his or her immediate family.[21]

Present Situation – Specific Disaster Relief Solicitations

Currently, ch. 496, F.S., does not have special regulations for disaster relief solicitations.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 9 creates s. 497.4072, F.S., to require charities that solicit donations related to a specific disaster or crisis and receive at least $100,000 in donations in response to such solicitations to file quarterly disaster relief statements with the DACS. A "crisis" is defined in the bill as an event that garners widespread national or global media coverage due to an actual or perceived threat of harm to an individual, a group, or a community. Likewise, a "disaster" is defined in the bill as a natural, technological, or civil event, including an explosion, chemical spill, wildfire, tornado, hurricane, drought, or flood, which affects one or more countries and causes sufficient damage to result in an official declaration of a state of emergency or an official request for international assistance.[22] The bill requires the DACS to provide a list on its website of disasters and crises that are subject to the quarterly disaster relief statement within 10 days of the disaster or crisis occurring.

[21] The term "immediate family" is defined in section 8 of the bill to mean a parent, spouse, child, sibling, grandparent, grandchild, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, mother-in-law, or father-in-law.

The quarterly statement must detail the donations received and how the funds were expended. A charity must file the first quarterly statement 3 months after it has received at least $100,000 in donations following commencement of solicitations for the specific disaster or crisis, and the charity must continue to file quarterly statements until the quarter after all donations raised in response to the solicitation are expended.

Present Situation – Notice Statements

Currently, s. 496.411(3), F.S., requires every charity that is required to register under s. 496.405, F.S., to conspicuously display the following statement in capital letters on every printed solicitation, written confirmation, receipt, or reminder of a contribution: "A copy of the official registration and financial information may be obtained from the Division of Consumer Services by calling toll-free within the state. Registration does not imply endorsement, approval, or recommendation by the state." The statement must also include a toll-free number for the DACS.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 13 amends s. 496.411(3), F.S., to require charities that are exempt from registration under s. 496.406(1)(d), F.S.,[23] to provide a notice statement. Additionally, the notice statement must be included with all solicitations and confirmations, regardless of form. The notice statement must also include the DACS website address where registration information can be obtained. If the solicitation is done through a website, the notice statement must be conspicuously displayed on any webpage that identifies a mailing address where contributions are to be sent, identifies a telephone number to call to process contributions, or provides for online processing of contributions.

Present Situation – Tax-Exempt Status and Disqualifying Events

Currently, organizations that are exempt from federal income tax under s. 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, such as charities, are exempt from Florida's sales and use tax.[24] To receive an exemption, the organization must submit to the Florida Department of Revenue (DOR) a copy of the Internal Revenue Service's (IRS) letter determining the organization's 501(c)(3) status.[25] After receiving the IRS determination letter and making a determination that the organization is actively engaged in an exempt endeavor, the DOR issues a certificate of exemption to the organization. Under current law, the DACS is not part of determining whether a charity operating in Florida should be exempt from sales tax. Specifically, the DACS does not have authority to disqualify a charity from receiving any sales tax exemption based on the charity's allocation of expenses to accomplish the charity's stated purpose.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 19 creates s. 496.430, F.S., to give the DACS authority to disqualify a charity from receiving a sales tax exemption certificate from the DOR. The DACS may issue the disqualification order if the charitable organization is found to be in violation of s. 496.419(4), F.S. A violation occurs if the organization violated the provisions of the "Solicitation of Contributions Act," (s. 496.401-496.424 or 496.426, F.S.), or the rules adopted or orders issued thereunder, made false statements in an application under the Act, refused or failed to produce any records or provide any information required under the Act, or made false statements in response to any request or investigation under the Act. A disqualification order remains in effect for 1 year

The DACS must submit a disqualification order to the DOR within 30 days after the order becomes final, and the DOR must revoke or refuse to grant a sales tax exemption certificate within 30 days after receiving the final order. A final disqualification order is conclusive as to the charity's entitlement to any sales tax exemption, and a charity may not appeal the revocation or denial of a sales tax exemption certificate by the DOR if the revocation or denial is based upon a final disqualification order from the DACS. A charity may appeal a disqualification order from the DACS by requesting a hearing within 21 days of being notified the order has been issued. The hearing will be conducted pursuant to ch. 120, F.S.

Sections 1 and 2 of the bill amend ss. 212.08 and 212.084, F.S., to disqualify any charity that is subject to a final disqualification order issued by the DACS from the sales and use tax exemption for 501(c)(3) organizations. The DOR's revocation or denial of a tax exempt certificate may be challenged under ch. 120, F.S., only as to whether a disqualification order is in effect. If a charitable organization wishes to challenge the validity of a disqualification order issued by the DACS, it must do so pursuant to the procedures under s. 496.430(2), F.S.

Professional Fundraising Consultants

Present Situation - Registration

Currently, professional fundraising consultants are required to register annually and pay a $300 fee to the DACS pursuant to s. 496.409, F.S., before operating in Florida.[26] In addition to name and address information, the registration must also indicate whether any of the owners, directors, officers, or employees of the consultant are related to any other directors, officers, owners, or employees, any charity under contract to the consultant, or any supplier or vendor providing goods or services to any charity under contract with the consultant. Additionally, the registration must indicate and explain whether the consultant or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees have been convicted or pled guilty within the past 10 years to any felony or a crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity. Finally, the registration must indicate and explain whether the consultant or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees have been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.[27]

[26] Section 496.409(1)(3), F.S.

After receiving the registration statement, the DACS has 15 business days to either approve the registration or notify the consultant that the registration requirements are not satisfied. If, after 15 days the DACS has not notified the consultant, the registration is deemed approved.[28]

In addition to the registration requirement, every agreement between a fundraising consultant and a charity must be in writing and signed by two authorized officials of the charity and must be filed with the DACS at least 5 days before the consultant begins providing services.[29]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Sections 10 amends s. 496.409, F.S., to provide that professional fundraising consultants who enter into agreements with charities may do so only if the charity has complied with ch. 496, F.S. If the consultant discloses in its initial registration or renewal application any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the consultant, its officers, directors, trustees, or employees, the bill gives the DACS additional time to process the application under the processing time limits in ch. 120, F.S.[30] Additionally, if a consultant fails to disclose any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the consultant, its officers, directors, trustees, or employees, its registration will be automatically suspended until the consultant submits required information to the DACS. The DACS will also have the authority to deny or revoke a consultant's registration if the consultant or any of its officers, directors, or trustees, has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state or has been ordered by any court or agency to cease soliciting contributions.

Present Situation – Restrictions on Individuals with Criminal Records

Currently, under s. 495.409(9), F.S., a person may not act as a professional fundraising consultant, and a professional fundraising consultant may not employ any person, if, within the last 10 years, the person has been convicted of or pled guilty to any crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.[31]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 10 also amends s. 495.409(9), F.S., to clarify that in addition to the consultant, no officer, director, trustee, or employee of the consultant may employ anyone with a criminal history as described above. The bill also clarifies that the applicable criminal history includes crimes or events that occurred in other states.

Professional Solicitor

Summary

The bill:

- Creates a new, annual license for officers, directors, trustees, and owners of a professional solicitor and any employee of the solicitor conducting telephone solicitations.
- Updates the definition of "professional solicitor" to include solicitors located in Florida that solicit outside of Florida.
- Creates an annual license fee of $100 and a $10 fee, similar to telemarketers, for application updates for the professional solicitors license.
- Requires professional solicitation businesses to include additional application information, such as all of the telephone numbers the solicitor will use and a copy of any script, presentation, or sales literature used.
- Requires professional solicitors to include additional information in the notice required before beginning a solicitation campaign, such as a statement of the minimum percentage of gross receipts from contributions that will be remitted to the charity.
- Prohibits a professional solicitor from failing to remit to a charity the disclosed guaranteed minimum percentage of gross receipts from the solicitation campaign.

Present Situation - Registration

Currently, s. 496.410, F.S., requires a professional solicitor to register annually and pay a $300 fee to the DACS before operating in Florida.[32] Information that must be provided for registration includes the address of the business, the names and addresses of owners, officers, and directors, and the names of anyone in charge of any solicitation activity. The registration must also indicate whether any of the owners, directors, officers, or employees of the solicitor are related to any other directors, officers, owners, or employees of the solicitor, any charity under contract to the solicitor, or any supplier or vendor providing goods or services to any charity under contract with the solicitor. Additionally, the registration must indicate and explain whether the solicitor or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees or agents involved in solicitation have been convicted or pled guilty within the past 10 years to any felony or a crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity. Finally, the registration must indicate and explain, if applicable, whether the solicitor or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or employees or agents involved in solicitation have been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.[33]

After receiving the registration statement, the DACS has 15 business days to either approve the registration or notify the solicitor that the registration requirements are not satisfied. If, after 15 days the DACS has not notified the solicitor, the registration is deemed approved.[34]

[32] "A professional solicitor that is a partnership or corporation may register for and pay a single fee on behalf of all of its partners, members, officers, directors, agents, and employees." Section 496.410(3), F.S. Additionally, professional solicitors are required to maintain a $50,000 bond. Id. at (4).
[33] Id. at (2).
[34] Id. at (5).

In addition to being required to register, solicitors must also file a solicitation notice with the DACS at least 15 days before beginning a solicitation campaign or event.[35] Section 496.410(6), F.S., requires the notice to include a description of the solicitation campaign; each location and telephone number from which the solicitation will be conducted; the name and address of each person responsible for supervising the campaign; a statement as to whether the solicitor will have custody of donations; the account information for each account where receipts from the campaign are to be deposited; a description of the charity for which the campaign is being carried; the fundraising methods to be used; and copy of the contract between the solicitor and charity.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 4 of the bill amends s. 496.404, F.S., to update the definition of "professional solicitor" to include professional solicitors located in Florida that solicit outside of Florida.

Section 11 amends s. 495.410, F.S., to require professional solicitors to include the following additional information in its registration: a list of all telephone numbers the solicitor will use to solicit contributions and the address associated with each telephone number and any fictitious names associated with such address; a copy of any script, outline, or presentation used by the solicitor; and a copy of sales information or literature provided to a donor or potential donor.

The bill also repeals a provision in s. 496.410(3), F.S. that permits a professional solicitor that is a partnership or corporation to register as and pay a single fee on behalf of all of its partners, members, officers, directors, agents, and employees. Instead being included under the solicitor's registration, these individuals will now be required to obtain a solicitor's license under s. 496.4101, F.S., which is created in section 12 of the bill.[36]

If a solicitor discloses in its initial registration or renewal application any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the solicitor, its officers, directors, trustees, or employees or agents, the bill allows the DACS to have additional time to process the application under the processing time limits in ch. 120, F.S.[37] If a solicitor fails to disclose any information related to criminal, administrative, or other actions against the solicitor, its officers, directors, trustees, employees, or agents, the solicitor's registration will be automatically suspended until the solicitor submits the required information to the DACS. The DACS will also have the authority to deny or revoke a solicitor's registration if the solicitor or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or agents has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state, has entered into an agreement with any state to cease soliciting contributions within that state, or has been ordered by any court or agency to cease soliciting contributions.

The bill requires professional solicitors to include the following additional information in the solicitation notice required under s. 495.410(6), F.S., before beginning a solicitation campaign:

- A statement of the guaranteed minimum percentage of the gross receipts from contributions which will be remitted to the charity, or, if the solicitation involves the sale of goods, services, or tickets to a fundraising event, the percentage of the purchase price which will be remitted to the charity.

- The percentage of a contribution that may be tax-deductible.
- A statement as to whether any owner, director, officer, trustee, or employee of the solicitor is related to another officer, director, owner, trustee, or employee of the solicitor, a charity under contract with the solicitor, or any supplier or vendor providing goods or services to a charity under contract with the solicitor.
- The beginning and ending dates of the campaign.
- A copy of any script, outline, or presentation used by the solicitor.
- A copy of sales information or literature provided to a donor or potential donor.

The bill provides that professional solicitors who enter into agreements with charities may do so only if the charity has complied with ch. 496, F.S.

Present Situation – Restrictions on Individuals with Criminal Records

Under s. 496.410(14), F.S, a person may not act as a professional solicitor, and a solicitor may not employ any person, who has been convicted or pled guilty within the last 10 years to a felony involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charity, or who has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 11 also amends s. 495.410(14), F.S., to clarify that in addition to the solicitor, no officer, director, trustee, or employee of the solicitor may employ anyone with a criminal history as described above. The bill clarifies that the applicable criminal history includes crimes or events that occurred in other states and any misdemeanor in another state that constitutes a disqualifying felony in Florida.

Present Situation – Licensure of Professional Solicitors

Beyond the registration and notice provisions for professional solicitors in s. 496.410, F.S., current law does not require solicitors or their employees to be licensed to operate in Florida.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 11 creates s. 496.4101, F.S., to establish a licensing requirement for professional solicitors. The bill requires each officer, director, trustee, or owner of a professional solicitor and any employee of a professional solicitor conducting telephonic solicitations during which a donor's personal financial information is collected to obtain a solicitor license from the DACS. "Personal financial information" includes, but is not limited to, social security numbers, credit card numbers, banking information, and credit reports. (Employees engaged in telephonic solicitation that do not collect personal financial information must submit their names and valid government identifiers to allow the DACS to perform background checks.)

A license can be obtained by paying a $50 application fee and completing an application that includes the following information:

- The name, address, date of birth, and identification number of a government-issued ID of the applicant.
- Whether the applicant has been convicted of or pled guilty in any state to any crime within the last 10 years involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charitable organization or sponsor, or has been enjoined from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation.
- Whether the applicant is involved in pending litigation in any state or has had entered against her or him an injunction, a temporary restraining order, a final judgment or order, or any similar document, in any civil or administrative action involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, or misappropriation of property.

The DACS must adopt rules that allow applicants to engage temporarily in solicitation activities while the solicitor license is being processed.

Applicants must submit a complete set of fingerprints to an agency, entity, or vendor authorized by s. 943.053(13), F.S., and the fingerprints must be forwarded to Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) for processing. Fees for state and national fingerprint processing and retention must be borne by the applicant. The FDLE must retain the fingerprints and enroll them in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) national retained print arrest notification program once the FDLE begins participating in the program. The DACS is required to screen background results to determine if an applicant meets licensure requirements. When a person is no longer licensed, the DACS must notify the FDLE.

Any material change to the information submitted in the licensing application must be reported to the DACS within 10 days of the change along with payment of a $10 fee.[38] A license must be renewed annually; an un-renewed license automatically expires. The annual renewal fee is $50. All fees, less administrative costs, will be deposited into the General Inspection Trust Fund of the DACS.

The bill also makes it a violation of ch. 496, F.S., to provide inaccurate or incomplete information in an initial or renewal application for a solicitor license; for any person to fail to maintain a license; and for a solicitor to allow, require, permit, or authorize an employee without an active license to conduct telephonic solicitations.

Additionally, the DACS may deny or revoke a solicitor's license if the solicitor has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state or is subject to any disqualification specified in s. 496.410(14), F.S., relating to the solicitor's criminal history.

Present Situation – Notice Statements and Requested Information

Currently, s. 496.412(1), F.S., requires that in the course of requesting a donation, a solicitor must clearly disclose the name of the solicitor, the name and state of the principal place of business of the charity, and a description of how the contributions raised by the solicitation will be used. Like charities, solicitors are also required to conspicuously state the following in capital letters on every written solicitation, written confirmation, receipt, or reminder of a contribution: "A copy of the official registration and financial information may be obtained from the Division of Consumer Services by calling toll-free within the state. Registration does not imply endorsement, approval, or recommendation by the state." The statement must include a toll-free number for the DACS.[39]

Additionally, if a person being solicited requests the percentage of the gross revenue that the charity will receive from the solicitation campaign or requests the percentage of the contribution which may be tax-deductible, the solicitor must provide the requested information in writing within 14 days of the request.[40]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 14 amends s. 496.412(1), F.S., to expand the use of notice statements by solicitors to all solicitations rather than only on written solicitations and confirmations. The notice statement must also include the DACS website where registration information can be obtained. If the solicitation is done through a website, the notice statement must be conspicuously displayed on any webpage that identifies a mailing address where contributions are to be sent, identifies a telephone number to call to process contributions, or provides for online processing of contributions.

The bill also provides an alternate to the written response required when a person being solicited requests the percentage of the gross revenue that the charity will receive from the solicitation campaign or requests the percentage of the contribution which may be tax-deductible as a charitable contribution. The solicitor may immediately notify the person that the information is available on the DACS' website or by calling the Division of Consumer Services' toll-free number.

Present Situation – Collection Receptacles Used for Donations

Some charities utilize collection receptacles located in parking lots or along roads as a place for people to donate clothing and other goods. Recent reports indicate that for-profit businesses have begun using collection receptacles that look similar to those used by charities. The business uses the receptacles to collect clothes and sell them at a profit. [41] Current law does not regulate the use of collection receptacles either by charities or by for-profit businesses.[42]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 15 creates s. 496.4121, F.S., to regulate the use of collection receptacles. The bill defines a "collection receptacle" as a receptacle used to collect donated clothing, household items, or other goods for resale. The bill requires all collection receptacles to display a permanent sign on each side of the receptacle. The information on the sign must be printed in letters that are at least 3 inches in height and no less than one-half inch in width, in a color that contrasts with the color of the receptacle. For receptacles used by a charity required to register under ch. 496, F.S., the sign must provide the name, address, telephone number, and registration number of the charity. For receptacles placed by an organization not required to register under ch. 496, F.S., or not claiming an exemption pursuant to s. 496.406, F.S., the sign must include the name, telephone number, and address of the business and the statement: "This is not a charity. Donations made here support a for-profit business and are not tax deductible." The bill also requires a charity using a collection receptacle to provide a donor with documentation of its tax-exempt status and registration, if requested.

Present Situation – Prohibited Acts and Penalties

Currently, s. 496.415, F.S., contains a list of seventeen acts that are prohibited for any person when done in connection with any solicitation or charity sales promotion. Examples of prohibited acts include: violating any of the requirements in ch. 496, F.S.; knowingly submitting false, misleading, or inaccurate information in a document that is filed with the DACS, provided to the public, or offered in response to a request or investigation by the DACS, the Department of Legal Affairs, or the state attorney; and representing that a charity will receive a fixed or estimated percentage of the gross revenue from a solicitation campaign greater than that identified in filings with the DACS, or that a charity will receive an actual or estimated dollar amount or percentage of goods or services purchased or used in the charity sales promotion that is greater than that agreed to with a vendor.

Any violation of ch. 496, F.S., including engaging in any of the prohibited acts identified in s. 496.415, F.S., is a violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Practices Act[43] and may also result in a civil action filed by the DACS.[44] Additionally, any willful and knowing violation of ch. 496, F.S., is a third-degree felony punishable by up to 5 years in prison and a fine of up to $5,000, and any subsequent conviction is a second-degree felony punishable by up to 15 years in prison and a fine of up to $10,000.[45]

Currently, under s. 496.419, F.S., after the DACS has investigated and found that a person or entity has violated ch. 496, F.S., it can enter an order imposing a range of administrative penalties, including imposing an administrative fine up to $1,000 for each act or omission. However, for 501(c)(3) organizations, the maximum penalty is limited to $500 per violation.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 16 amends s. 496.415, F.S., to prohibit a person from submitting false, misleading, or inaccurate information in a document that is filed with the DACS, provided to the public, or offered in response to a request or investigation by the DACS, the Department of Legal Affairs, or the state attorney regardless of whether the person knows he or she is submitting false, misleading, or inaccurate information. The bill also prohibits a person from failing to remit to a charity the disclosed guaranteed minimum percentage of gross receipts from contributions as indicated with its agreement with a charity, or, if the solicitation involved the sale of goods, services, or tickets to a fundraising event, the percentage of the purchase price as agreed to in the agreement.

Section 17 amends s. 496.419, F.S., to increase the fine the DACS may levy to $5,000 for each act or omission and makes this fine applicable to 501(c)(3) organizations. The bill limits the fine for 501(c)(3) organizations that fail to register under s. 496.405, F.S., or file an exemption under s. 496.406(2), F.S., to $500 per violation. The DACS may also levy a fine up to $10,000 for any violation of ch. 496, F.S., which involves fraud or deception.

Section 18 creates. s. 496.4191, F.S., to require the DACS to suspend immediately the registration or the processing of a registration of any organization if the DACS receives written notification and verification by law enforcement, a court, a state attorney, or the FDLE, that the registrant, applicant, or any officer or director of the registrant or applicant is charged with a crime involving fraud, theft, larceny, embezzlement, or fraudulent conversion or misappropriation of property or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charitable organization or sponsor. The suspension will remain in effect until final disposition of the case or removal or resignation of the officer or director.

Other Provisions

Section 3 of the bill amends s. 496.403, F.S., to remove blood establishments from the list of regulated charitable institutions.

Section 20 creates s. 496.431, F.S., to provide a severability clause for ch. 496, F.S.

Section 21 amends s. 741.0305, F.S., to correct a cross-reference due to the amendments to s. 496.404, F.S., in section 3 of the bill.

Section 22 appropriates $235,352 in recurring funds and $239,357 in nonrecurring funds from the DACS General Inspection Trust Fund, and four full-time equivalent positions with associated salary rate of 143,264, to the DACS to implement this act.

Section 23 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

CS/CS/SB 638 creates a $50 application fee for a professional solicitor license and a $10 fee to report material changes associated with changes to information submitted with the license application. The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) estimates that the $50 application and renewal fee for a professional solicitor license will result in an estimated recurring revenue increase of $125,000 annually.[46] The DACS did not estimate the revenue impact from the $10 fee.

The cost for a state and national criminal history record check is $40.50, which goes into the FDLE Operating Trust Fund. From that amount, $16.50 is transferred from the FDLE Operating Trust Fund to the FBI; the remaining $24 stays in the FDLE Operating Trust Fund for state processing. Based on the DACS estimate of 2,500 applications for professional solicitor licenses, the FDLE Operating Trust Fund will receive an additional $60,000 (net of payments to the FBI) in the first year of the program, and an indeterminate amount in subsequent years as new license applications are submitted. Additionally, the bill requires that all fingerprints be retained by the FDLE. The fee for state retention of fingerprints is $6 annually after the year of the original fingerprint processing.

The impact of losing sales tax exempt status by a charity is unknown at this time.

The bill, as amended by the Appropriations Committee, has not been evaluated by the Revenue Estimating Conference.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Charities may incur increased administrative and record keeping costs to comply with the provisions of the bill requiring the updated requirements for reporting, notice, registration, financial statement, auditing and review, and establishment a conflict of interest policy. Similarly, some charities that raise funds in response to a specific disaster or crisis will incur additional administrative costs associated with filing quarterly relief statements. Additionally, charities and for-profit entities may incur increased costs to comply with the signage requirement for collection receptacles.

[46] The DACS Analysis, proposed amendment to CS/SB 638, April 21, 2014, on file with the Appropriations Committee. The DACS estimates 2,500 licenses at $50 per license, but did not provide a breakdown of renewal applicants versus new applicants in outlying years.

Professional fundraising consultants may incur minimal administrative and record keeping costs to comply with the updated registration and reporting requirements.

Officers, directors, trustees, or owners of a professional solicitor and any employee of a solicitor conducting telephonic solicitations during which a donor's personal financial information is collected will have to annually apply and pay a $50 fee for a solicitor license. Additionally, solicitors are likely to incur increased administrative and record keeping costs to comply with the updated reporting and disclosure requirements, updated financial statement requirements, and updated notice statement requirements.

The fingerprinting cost for a new applicant for a professional solicitor license is $53.50 in total: $40.50 for the state and federal background check and $13 for lifetime federal fingerprint retention, after FDLE begins to participate in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's national retained print arrest notification program.[47]For annual renewal of a license, an applicant will pay the $6 state fingerprint retention fee.

Charities, consultants, and solicitors may also incur greater costs due to any fines levied by the DACS and any violations prosecuted by the Attorney General or the State Attorney.

C. Government Sector Impact:

Expenditures

The DACS anticipates the additional rules and licensing required by the bill will necessitate the hiring of one Regulatory Consultant and the development of new software for the Division of Consumer Services.[48] Similarly, the DACS anticipates the bill will result in an additional 500 cases that will be referred to the department's Office of Agriculture Law Enforcement (OALE) for regulatory investigation.[49] To meet the increased workload, OALE estimates it will require two additional Senior Financial Investigators as well as a vehicle for each investigator.[50] The DACS projects it will need $438,891 in additional funding in Fiscal Year 2014-2015 and $203,307 each year thereafter.

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference has not yet determined the impact of this bill on prison beds.

Revenues

The DACS expects annual revenues of an additional $112,000 due to the increase in the maximum administrative fine for violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Practices

[47] The bill also requires fingerprints submitted by applicants for professional solicitor licenses to be enrolled in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's national retained print arrest notification program when FDLE begins participation in the program. The annual fee for fingerprint retention in this program will be $13. (Information provided by FDLE fiscal analyst Cynthia Barr, March 13, 2014.)

Act from $1,000 to $5,000.[51] The DACS did not provide information related to revenue impacts for the $10,000 fine or for fines from increased criminal prosecutions of willful and knowing violations of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act. See Tax/Fee Issues.

According to the FDLE, it expects annual revenues in year 1 of $60,000 from the collection of the $24 fee for state criminal history record checks. The amount does not include the $6 state fingerprint retention fee because it is paid only by those seeking annual license renewals.

The impact of this bill on the Attorney General or state attorneys has not been determined; however, it may increase caseloads for these agencies.

(7) The department shall revoke or refuse to grant a sales tax exemption certificate to an institution, organization, or individual that is the subject of a final disqualification order issued by the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services pursuant to s. 496.430. A bona fide volunteer or bona fide employee or salaried officer of a charitable organization or sponsor maintaining a permanent establishment in this state is not a professional fundraising consultant. An attorney, investment counselor, or banker who advises an individual, corporation, or association to make a charitable contribution is not a professional fundraising consultant as the result of such advice.

(21)~~(18)~~ "Professional solicitor" means a ~~any~~ person who, for compensation, performs for a charitable organization or sponsor any service in connection with which contributions are or will be solicited in, or from a location in, this state by the compensated person or by any person it employs, procures, or otherwise engages, directly or indirectly, to solicit contributions, or a person who plans, conducts, manages, carries on, advises, consults, ~~whether~~ directly or indirectly, in connection with the solicitation of contributions for or on behalf of a charitable organization or sponsor, but who does not qualify as a professional fundraising consultant. A bona fide volunteer or bona fide employee or salaried officer of a charitable organization or sponsor maintaining a permanent establishment in this state is not a professional solicitor. An attorney, investment counselor, or banker who advises an individual, corporation, or association to make a charitable contribution is not a professional solicitor as the result of such advice.

A solicitation is considered as having taken place whether or not the person making the solicitation receives any contribution. A solicitation does not occur when a person applies for a grant or an award to the government or to an organization that is exempt from federal income taxation under s. 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and described in s. 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and is duly registered with the department.

conversion, or misappropriation of property, or any crime arising from the conduct of a solicitation for a charitable organization or sponsor, or has been enjoined in any state from violating any law relating to a charitable solicitation. The prohibitions in this subsection also apply to any misdemeanor in another state which constitutes a disqualifying felony in this state.

(15) The department may deny or revoke the registration of a professional solicitor if the professional solicitor, or any of its officers, directors, trustees, or agents, has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state, has entered into an agreement with any state to cease soliciting contributions within that state, or has been ordered by any court or governmental agency to cease soliciting contributions within any state.

(16)~~(15)~~ All registration fees must be paid to the department and deposited into the General Inspection Trust Fund.

Section 11. Section 496.4101, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

496.4101 Licensure of professional solicitors and certain employees thereof.—

(1) Each officer, director, trustee, or owner of a professional solicitor and any employee of a professional solicitor conducting telephonic solicitations must, before engaging in solicitation activities, obtain a solicitor license from the department.

(3)(a) Each applicant shall submit a complete set of his or her fingerprints with the initial application for a solicitor license and a fee equal to the federal and state costs for fingerprint processing and fingerprint retention. The state cost for fingerprint processing is that authorized in s.

943.053(3)(b) for records provided to persons or entities other than those specified as exceptions therein.

(b) The department shall forward the fingerprints to the Department of Law Enforcement for state processing, and the Department of Law Enforcement shall forward them to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for national processing.

(c) All fingerprints submitted to the Department of Law Enforcement as required under this subsection shall be retained by the Department of Law Enforcement as provided under s. 943.05(2)(g) and (h) and enrolled in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's national retained print arrest notification program. Arrest fingerprints will be searched against the retained prints by the Department of Law Enforcement and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(d) For any renewal of the applicant's license, the department shall request the Department of Law Enforcement to forward the retained fingerprints of the applicant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation unless the applicant is enrolled in the national retained print arrest notification program described in paragraph (c). The fee for the national criminal history check will be paid as part of the renewal fee to the department and forwarded by the department to Department of Law Enforcement. If the applicant's fingerprints are retained in the national retained print arrest notification program, the applicant shall pay the state and national retention fee to the department which will forward the fee to the Department of Law Enforcement.

(e) The department shall notify the Department of Law Enforcement regarding any person whose fingerprints have been retained but who is no longer licensed under this chapter.

(f) The department shall screen background results to determine if an applicant meets licensure requirements.

(4) A solicitor license must be renewed annually by the submission of a renewal application. A solicitor license that is not renewed expires without further action by the department.

(5) Each applicant for a solicitor license shall remit a license fee of $100 to the department at the time the initial application is filed with the department and an annual renewal fee of $100 thereafter. All fees collected, less the cost of administration, shall be deposited into the General Inspection Trust Fund.

(6) Any material change to the information submitted to the department in the initial application or renewal application for a solicitor license shall be reported to the department by the applicant or licensee within 10 days after the change occurs. The applicant or licensee shall also remit a fee in the amount of $10 for processing the change to the initial or renewal application.

(7) It is a violation of this chapter:

(a) For an applicant to provide inaccurate or incomplete information to the department in the initial or renewal application for a solicitor license.

(b) For any person specified in subsection (1) to fail to maintain a solicitor license as required by this section.

(c) For a professional solicitor to allow, require, permit, or authorize an employee without an active solicitor license issued under this section to conduct telephonic solicitations.

(8) The department shall adopt rules that allow certain applicants to engage in solicitation activities on an interim basis until such time as a solicitor license is granted or denied.

(9) The department may deny or revoke any solicitor license if the applicant or licensee has had the right to solicit contributions revoked in any state, has entered into an agreement with any state to cease soliciting contributions within that state, has been ordered by any court or governmental agency to cease soliciting contributions within any state, or is subject to any disqualification specified in s. 496.410(14).

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	SB 640
INTRODUCER:	Senator Braynon
SUBJECT:	Public Health Trusts
DATE:	April 23, 2014
REVISED:

	ANALYST	STAFF DIRECTOR	REFERENCE	ACTION
1.	Stovall	Stovall	HP	Favorable
2.	White	Yeatman	CA	Favorable
3.	Brown	Pigott	AHS	Favorable
4.	Brown	Kynoch	AP	Favorable

I. Summary:

SB 640 authorizes the board of trustees of a public health trust to lease out office space without first advertising and soliciting bids for the office space.

The bill has an insignificant fiscal impact, if any.

II. Present Situation:

Limitations on Public Health Trusts' Authority to Lease Office Space

Chapter 73-102, Laws of Florida, authorized the governing body of each county to create a public health trust in and for the county. A public health trust's board of trustees, appointed by the governing body of the county, is responsible for the operation, governance, and management of a publicly funded health care facility designated by the county's governing body.[1]

Specifically, the board of trustees is empowered to:[2]

- Lease – either as lessee or lessor – or rent for any number of years and upon any terms and conditions, real property, except that the board shall not lease or rent, as lessor, any real property except in accordance with the requirements of s. 125.35 [F. S. 1973];
- Sue and be sued;
- Have a seal;
- Adopt bylaws, rules, and regulations for the board's responsibilities;
- Execute contracts;

[1] See Part II of Chapter 154, Florida Statutes.

[2] Section 154.11(1), F.S. However, note that a public health trust may not impose any tax, issue bonds, or require the imposition of a tax or the issuance of any bond by the governing body of the county. Section 154.11(2), F.S.

- Acquire and hold title to real or personal property;
- Appoint and remove a chief executive officer of the trust;
- Establish and collect fees for using or receiving services from the facility;
- Accept gifts of money, services, or real or personal property;
- Appoint, remove, or suspend employees or agents of the board, fix their compensation, and adopt personnel and management policies;
- Provide for employee benefits;
- Cooperate with and contract with any governmental agency or instrumentality, federal, state, municipal, or county;
- Adopt rules and regulations for the management and use of any properties under its control;
- Appoint originally the staff of physicians to practice in a designated facility and approve bylaws and rules to be adopted by the medical staff addressing the method of appointing or removing additional staff members; and
- Employ certified public accountants and legal counsel.

Section 125.35, F. S., authorizes a board of county commissioners to sell and convey any real or personal property, and to lease real property belonging to the county, whenever the county believes it is in its best interest to do so. However, the sale or lease must be awarded to the highest and best bidder for the highest and best use. Each sale or lease must be noticed by publishing once a week, for at least two weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county. The highest bid must be accepted, unless all are rejected because all are too low. A surety bond may be required of each bid submitted.

Jackson Health System

A Public Health Trust was created in 1973 by the Miami-Dade[3] Board of County Commissioners as an independent governing body for Jackson Memorial Hospital. In 2003, the Board of County Commissioners amended the Miami-Dade County Code to expand the responsibilities of the Public Health Trust countywide to health care facilities within the Jackson Health System. The Trust is composed of volunteer citizens who set policies that assure that the Jackson Health System is responsive to community needs. This "citizen body" provides leadership for joint planning between Jackson Health System, the University of Miami's Miller School of Medicine, Miami-Dade County, and other private and community organizations.[4]

Representatives of Jackson Health System have indicated that the requirements under s. 125.35, F.S., (1973) prove cumbersome, time-consuming, and wasteful when trying to recruit physicians and other health care practitioners who desire to lease office space in the hospital. The only bid typically received is from one practitioner.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 154.11, F.S., to authorize the board of trustees of a public health trust (Jackson Health System) to lease out its office space without first advertising and soliciting bids for the office space.

[3] In 1973, the county was named Dade County.
[4] See Jackson Health System, Public Health Trust, http://www.jacksonhealth.org/trust.asp, (Last visited March 18, 2014).

Section 2 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 662 requires a pharmacy located in another state (nonresident pharmacy) or an outsourcing facility in another state to obtain a nonresident sterile compounding permit prior to shipping, mailing, delivering, or dispensing a compounded sterile product into Florida. The term "compounded sterile product" is defined. Any compounded sterile product that is sent into Florida must have been compounded in a manner that meets or exceeds Florida's standards for sterile compounding.

The bill authorizes the Department of Health (DOH) or its agents to inspect any nonresident pharmacy that is DOH-registered or nonresident sterile compounding permittee. The nonresident facility is responsible for the cost of this inspection. The DOH is also authorized to take regulatory action against a nonresident pharmacy immediately, without waiting 180 days for the pharmacy's home state to act on alleged conduct that causes or could cause serious injury to a human or animal in this state.

The bill has an insignificant fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Pharmacies and pharmacists are regulated under the Florida Pharmacy Act (the Act) found in ch. 465, F.S.[1] The Board of Pharmacy (the board) is created within the DOH to adopt rules to implement provisions of the Act and take other actions based upon duties conferred on it by the Act.[2]

Several pharmacy types are specified in law and are required to be permitted or registered under the Act:

- Community pharmacy – a location where medicinal drugs are compounded, dispensed, stored, or sold or where prescriptions are filled or dispensed on an outpatient basis.
- Institutional pharmacy – a location in a hospital, clinic, nursing home, dispensary, sanitarium, extended care facility, or other facility where medical drugs are compounded, dispensed, stored, or sold. The Act further classifies institutional pharmacies according to the type of facility or activities with respect to the handling of drugs within the facility.
- Nuclear pharmacy – a location where radioactive drugs and chemicals within the classification of medicinal drugs are compounded, dispensed, stored, or sold, excluding hospitals or the nuclear medicine facilities of such hospitals.
- Internet pharmacy – a location not otherwise permitted under the Act, whether within or outside the state, which uses the Internet to communicate with or obtain information from consumers in this state in order to fill or refill prescriptions or to dispense, distribute, or otherwise engage in the practice of pharmacy in this state.
- Nonresident pharmacy – a location outside this state which ships, mails, or delivers, in any manner, a dispensed drug into this state.
- Special pharmacy – a location where medicinal drugs are compounded, dispensed, stored, or sold if such location is not otherwise defined which provides miscellaneous specialized pharmacy service functions. Seven special pharmacy permits are established in rule.[3]

Nonresident pharmacy

Any pharmacy located outside of Florida which ships, mails, or delivers, in any manner, a dispensed drug into this state is required to be registered with the board as a nonresident pharmacy.[4] In order to register in this state, a nonresident pharmacy must submit an application fee of $255 and a certified application[5] that documents:

- The pharmacy's maintenance of a valid, unexpired license, permit, or registration to operate the pharmacy in compliance with the laws of the state in which the dispensing facility is located and from which the drugs are dispensed;

[1]Other pharmacy paraprofessionals, including pharmacy interns and pharmacy technicians, are also regulated under the Act.
[2]Section 465.005, F.S.
[3] Rule 64B16-28.800, F.A.C., establishes the following special permits: Special-Parenteral and Enteral, Special-Closed System Pharmacy, Special-Non Resident (Mail Service), Special-End Stage Renal Disease, Special-Parenteral/Enteral Extended Scope, Special-ALF, and Special Sterile Compounding.
[4] Section 465.0156, F.S. However, the board may grant an exemption from the registration requirements to any nonresident pharmacy which confines its dispensing activity to isolated transactions. See s. 465.0156(2), F.S.

- The identity of the principal corporate officers and the pharmacist who serves as the prescription department manager as well as the criminal and disciplinary history of each;
- The pharmacy's compliance with lawful directions and requests for information from applicable regulatory bodies;
- The pharmacy department manager's licensure status;
- The most recent pharmacy inspection report; and
- The availability of the pharmacist and patient records for a minimum of 40 hours per week, 6 days a week.

The board may deny, revoke, or suspend registration of, or fine or reprimand, a nonresident pharmacy for:

- Failure to comply with Florida's drug substitution provisions in s. 465.025, F.S.;
- Failure to comply with the registration requirements;
- Advertising the services of a nonresident pharmacy which has not registered, knowing the advertisement will likely induce members of the public in this state to use the pharmacy to fill prescriptions; or
- Conduct that causes serious bodily injury or serious psychological injury to a resident of Florida if the board has referred the matter to the regulatory or licensing agency in the state in which the pharmacy is located and the regulatory or licensing agency fails to act within 180 days of the referral.

Pharmaceutical Compounding

Compounding is the professional act by a pharmacist or other practitioner authorized by law, while employing the science or art of any branch of the profession of pharmacy and while incorporating prescription or non-prescription ingredients, to create a finished product for dispensing to a patient or for administration by a practitioner or the practitioner's agent.[6]

Historically and continuing today, a practitioner might prescribe a compounded preparation when a patient requires a different dosage form, such as:

- Transformation of a pill into a liquid for a patient who cannot swallow pills or into a lollipop or flavored medication for children;
- Changes in dosage strength, such as for an infant; or
- Elimination of allergens.

Compounding and dispensing in this manner is typically patient-specific. More recently, the practice of compounding medications has evolved and expanded to include compounding for office use. "Office use" means the provision and administration of a compounded drug to a patient by a practitioner in the practitioner's office or by the practitioner in a health care facility or treatment setting, including a hospital, ambulatory surgical center, or pharmacy.[7] Typically, a drug compounded for office use is not prepared, labeled, and dispensed for a specific patient.

Under the board's rules, compounding includes the preparation of:

[6] See Rule 64B16-27.700, F.A.C.
[7] Id.

- Drugs or devices in anticipation of prescriptions based on routine, regularly-observed prescribing patterns;
- Drugs or devices, pursuant to a prescription, that are not commercially available; or
- Commercially available products[8] from bulk when the prescribing practitioner has prescribed the compounded product on a per prescription basis and the patient has been made aware that the compounded product will be prepared by the pharmacist. The reconstitution of commercially available products pursuant to the manufacturer's guidelines is permissible without notice to the practitioner.

Compounded Products

Compounded products may be either sterile or non-sterile. A sterile preparation is defined in the board's rule[9] as any dosage form devoid of viable microorganisms, but does not include commercially manufactured products that do not require compounding prior to dispensing. Compounded sterile preparations include, but are not limited to:

- Injectables;
- Parenterals, including Total Parenteral Nutrition (TPN) solutions, parenteral analgesic drugs, parenteral antibiotics, parenteral antineoplastic agents, parenteral electrolytes, and parenteral vitamins;
- Irrigating fluids;
- Ophthalmic preparations; and
- Aqueous inhalant solutions for respiratory treatments.

The United States Pharmacopeia and the National Formulary (USP–NF) is a book containing standards for chemical and biological drug substances, dosage forms, and compounded preparations, excipients, medical devices, and dietary supplements. The Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) designates the USP–NF as the official compendium for drugs marketed in the United States. A drug product in the U.S. market must conform to the USP–NF standards for strength, quality, purity, packaging, and labeling of medications to avoid possible charges of adulteration and misbranding.[10] The USP–NF has five chapters specifically related to pharmaceutical compounding, two of which are USP Chapter 795, which addresses compounding for non-sterile preparations, and USP Chapter 797, which addresses compounding for sterile preparations. In addition, USP Chapter 797 requires the use of other general chapters as well.

Safety Concerns Regarding Compounded Drugs

Compounded drugs can pose both direct and indirect health risks. Direct health risks may result from poor compounding practices. The compounded drugs may be sub- or super-potent, contaminated, or otherwise adulterated. Indirect health risks include the possibility that patients will use ineffective compounded drugs instead of FDA-approved drugs that have been shown to be safe and effective. Not all pharmacists have the same level of skills and equipment to safely compound certain medications, and some drugs may be inappropriate for compounding. In some cases, compounders may lack sufficient controls (e.g., equipment, training, testing, or facilities) to ensure product quality or to compound complex drugs like sterile or extended-release drugs.

In 2012, the Federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), in collaboration with state and local health departments and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), began investigating a multi-state outbreak of fungal meningitis and other infections among patients who received contaminated preservative-free methylprednisolone acetate (MPA) steroid injections from the New England Compounding Center (NECC).[11] As of October 23, 2013, 751 cases were reported nationwide, with 64 deaths attributed to contaminated injectables that had been compounded in the Massachusetts pharmacy.[12] Florida reported 25 cases, with seven deaths related to persons receiving the medications from the contaminated lots.

The FDA continues to inform the public about recalls, inspections, and regulatory enforcement action related to compounded medications.[13]

State and Federal Oversight of Compounded Medications

Until recently, the regulation of compounded medications was without clear guidelines or oversight responsibility by the FDA or state agencies.[14] The FDA traditionally regulated the manufacture of prescription drugs, which typically includes making drugs (preparation, deriving, compounding, propagation, processing, producing, or fabrication) on a large scale for marketing and distribution of the product for unidentified patients. State boards of pharmacy historically have regulated the compounding of medications by a pharmacy under the practice of pharmacy.[15] However, compounding standards, inspector competency, inspection frequency, and resources for inspections vary considerably.[16]

[14]The U.S. Supreme Court had found certain provisions relating to the advertising and promotion of certain human compounded drugs in section 503A of the FDCA to be unconstitutional in 2002 and struck the entire section of law dealing with the remaining provisions related to compliance with current good manufacturing practices, labeling, and FDA approval prior to marketing. In subsequent opinions, lower courts split on whether the remaining provisions remained intact and enforceable. In some instances, the FDA was refused admittance to conduct an inspection of compounders, which necessitated obtaining an administrative warrant to gain access to the firm and make copies of the firm's records. See http://www.fda.gov/Drugs/GuidanceComplianceRegulatoryInformation/PharmacyCompounding/ucm347722.htm (last visited Dec. 27, 2013).

On November 27, 2013, President Barack Obama signed the Drug Quality and Security Act (DQSA)[17] to enhance oversight of the compounding of human drugs. This law creates a new section 503B in the FDCA. Under section 503B, a compounder can become an "outsourcing facility." An outsourcing facility is not required to also be a state-licensed pharmacy. An outsourcing facility will be able to qualify for exemptions from the FDA approval requirements for new drugs and the requirement to label products with adequate directions for use. Outsourcing facilities:

- Must comply with current good manufacturing practices (CGMP) requirements;
- Will be inspected by the FDA according to a risk-based schedule; and
- Must meet certain other conditions, such as reporting adverse events and providing the FDA with certain information about the products they compound.

This law provides that hospitals and other health care providers can lawfully provide their patients with drugs that were compounded in FDA-registered outsourcing facilities that are subject to CGMP requirements and federal oversight.

A compounder that chooses not to register as an outsourcing facility and qualify for the exemptions under section 503B, may qualify for the exemptions under section 503A of the FDCA relating to traditional compounding for patient-specific medications. Otherwise, the compounder is subject to all of the requirements in the FDCA applicable to conventional manufacturers.

The FDA anticipates that state boards of pharmacy will continue their oversight and regulation of the practice of pharmacy, including traditional pharmacy compounding. The FDA has also indicated it intends to continue to cooperate with state authorities to address pharmacy compounding activities that may be in violation of the FDCA.[18]

In response to the 2012 nationwide fungal meningitis outbreak caused by contaminated compounded products, the Florida Board of Pharmacy adopted Emergency Rule 64B16ER12-1, Florida Administrative Code. This Emergency Rule required all Florida licensed pharmacy permit holders, including non-residents, to complete a mandatory survey to inform the board of their compounding activities. The goal of this mandatory survey was to determine the scope of sterile and non-sterile compounding within Florida licensed pharmacies, whether physically located in or out-of-state. Of the 8,981 permitted pharmacies, 8,294 (92 percent) responded. The board published the compounding survey results noted below in January 2013.[19]

Results relating to non-sterile compounding facilities:

- 55 percent (4,494) compound non-sterile products; 9 percent (382) of these are nonresident pharmacies.
- 54 percent (4,380) compound non-sterile products pursuant to a patient-specific prescription; 9 percent (373) of these are nonresident pharmacies.

- 6 percent (459) compound non-sterile products in bulk; 81 percent (373) of these are nonresident pharmacies.
- 1 percent (119) compound non-sterile products in bulk for office use; 50 percent (59) of these are nonresident pharmacies.
- 5 percent (382) ship compounded non-sterile products to other states; 80 percent (307) of these are nonresident pharmacies.

Key results relating to sterile compounding facilities:

- 12 percent (946) compound sterile products; 32 percent (301) of these are nonresident pharmacies. Some of these in-state pharmacies may hold other permit types as well, such as an institutional permit or a special permit that authorizes compounding.
- 11 percent (913) compound sterile products pursuant to a patient-specific prescription; 32 percent (289) of these are nonresident pharmacies.
- 4 percent (348) compound sterile products in bulk and/or in bulk for office use; 45 percent (155) of these are nonresident pharmacies. Eighty-three of these 348 pharmacies (22 in-state and 61 nonresident) compound greater than 100 doses from a single batch.
- 4 percent (307) ship compounded sterile products to other states; 177 of these are nonresident pharmacies that ship sterile compounded products to Florida.

Effective September 23, 2013, the board adopted a rule requiring most pharmacies that engage or intend to engage in the preparation of sterile compounded products within the state to obtain a Special Sterile Compounding permit.[20] Pharmacies required to obtain this permit may compound sterile products only in strict compliance with the standards set forth in board rules.[21] These rules address, among other things, compounding products for office use, including the quantity of the product that may be safely compounded for office use, execution of an agreement between the pharmacist and practitioner outlining responsibilities of the practitioner, and labeling. Compliance with additional standards based on the risk level for contamination is also required. The rule addressing standards of practice for compounding sterile preparations was first adopted in 2008 and amended in January of 2010. These standards apply to all sterile pharmaceuticals, regardless of the location of the patient, e.g., home, hospital, nursing home, hospice, or doctor's office.[22]

There is no statutory authority to require nonresident pharmacies to register or obtain a separate sterile compounding permit in Florida.

Compounding Pharmacy Accreditation

The Pharmacy Compounding Accreditation Board (PCAB) is a nationally recognized organization that issues a voluntary quality accreditation designation for the compounding industry. Founders of the organization include the American College of Apothecaries, National Community Pharmacists Association, American Pharmacists Association, National Alliance of State Pharmacy Associations, International Academy of Compounding Pharmacists, National Association of Boards of Pharmacy, National Home Infusion Association, and United States Pharmacopeia.

The PCAB accreditation means a pharmacy has independent, outside validation that it meets nationally accepted quality assurance, quality control, and quality improvement standards. In order to demonstrate compliance with PCAB standards and earn PCAB accreditation, pharmacies participate in an off-site and on-site evaluation process that includes: verification by PCAB that the pharmacy is not on probation for issues related to compounding quality, public safety or controlled substances; verification that the pharmacy is properly licensed in each state in which it does business; and an extensive on-site evaluation by a PCAB surveyor, all of whom are compounding pharmacists trained in evaluating compliance with PCAB's quality standards. For example, this evaluation includes:

- An assessment of the pharmacy's system for assuring and maintaining staff competency;
- A review of facilities and equipment;
- A review of records and procedures required to prepare quality compounded medications;
- A verification that the pharmacy uses ingredients from FDA registered or licensed sources.
- A review of the pharmacy's program for testing compounded preparations.[23]

Currently, 187 pharmacies hold PCAB accreditation, 15 of which are located in Florida.[24]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 465.003, F.S., to include the definitions of "compounding," "outsourcing facility," and "compounded sterile product." Under the bill, outsourcing facility means a single physical location registered as an outsourcing facility under federal law at which sterile compounding of a drug or product is conducted. Compounding means combining, mixing, or altering the ingredients of one or more drugs or products to create another drug or product. A compounded sterile product is a drug intended for parenteral administration,[25] an ophthalmic or oral inhalation drug in aqueous format, or a drug or product required to be sterile under federal or state law or rule, which is produced through compounding but is not approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration.

Section 2 amends s. 465.0156, F.S., to authorize the Department of Health (DOH) to take regulatory action against a nonresident pharmacy immediately, without waiting 180 days for the pharmacy's home state to act, for:

- Failure to comply with record maintenance and disposal provisions under s. 465.017(2), F.S.;
- Failure to comply with permit requirements created under s. 465.0158, F.S.; or
- Alleged conduct that causes or could cause serious injury to a human or animal in this state. Authorized regulatory action is expanded to include conduct that could cause serious injury to a human or animal, without demonstrating that the conduct actually injured a person. Regulatory enforcement action may also occur for conduct that causes or could cause serious bodily injury to an animal in this state or for noncompliance with the requirements of the newly established nonresident pharmacy compounded sterile products permit.

The bill also provides that a nonresident pharmacy is subject to s. 456.0635, F.S., which sets out the conditions required to dispense medicinal drugs via a facsimile of a prescription.

Section 3 creates s. 465.0158, F.S., to establish the nonresident sterile compounding permit. A pharmacy located in another state or an outsourcing facility is required to obtain a nonresident sterile compounding permit prior to shipping, mailing, delivering, or dispensing a compounded sterile product into this state. This permit is a supplemental permit to registration as a nonresident pharmacy.

The board is directed to establish a permit application form and set a permit and renewal fee not to exceed $250.

An applicant for a permit must submit an application form for the initial permit and renewal, proof of registration as an outsourcing facility with the secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, if eligible under federal law, and proof of registration as a nonresident pharmacy under s. 465.0156, F.S., unless the applicant is an outsourcing facility and not a pharmacy. If the applicant is an outsourcing facility, then the application must include proof of an active and unencumbered license, permit, or registration issued by the state where the facility is located that allows the facility to engage in compounding and to dispense or transport a compounded sterile product into Florida, if so required by the resident state, territory, or district.

The applicant must also submit written attestations of owners, officers, and a prescription department manager or pharmacist in charge that the attestor understands:

- Florida's laws and rules governing sterile compounding;
- That any compounded sterile products sent into this state will comply with those standards; and
- That the compounded sterile products are in compliance with the laws of the state in which the applicant is located.

The applicant must submit its existing policies and procedures that comply with pharmaceutical standards in ch. 797 of the United States Pharmacopoeia and any standards for sterile compounding required by board rule or good manufacturing practices for an outsourcing facility. The applicant must also submit a current inspection report by the licensing agency where the facility is located reflecting compliance with this section. An inspection report is current if it was completed within 6 months before the initial application and within 1 year before a renewal.

If the applicant is unable to submit a current inspection report due to acceptable circumstances established by rule, the DOH is required to conduct or contract to have an inspection done at the cost of the applicant, accept an alternative satisfactory report from a board-approved entity, or accept an inspection report from the Food and Drug Administration.

Any compounded sterile product that is sent into this state must have been compounded in a manner that meets or exceeds the standards for sterile compounding in Florida and comply with the laws of the state in which the permittee is located.

The board may deny, revoke, or suspend a permit, or issue a fine or reprimand, for:
- Failure to comply with this section;
- A violation of ss. 456.0635, 456.065, or 456.072, F.S., except s. 456.072(1)(s) or (u), F.S.;
- A violation of s. 465.0156(5), F.S.; or
- A violation listed under s. 465.016, F.S.

A nonresident pharmacy registered under s. 465.0156, F.S., may continue to ship, mail, deliver, or dispense a compounded sterile product into this state if the product meets or exceeds the standards for sterile compounding in this state, the product conforms with the law or rules of the state where the pharmacy is located, and the pharmacy applies for and is issued a permit under this section on or before February 28, 2015.

If an applicant is not registered as a nonresident pharmacy by October 1, 2014, it must seek registration and obtain the nonresident sterile compounding permit prior to sending compounded sterile products to Florida.

The board is required to adopt rules to administer this section, including for:
- Submitting an application for a permit;
- Determining inspections of a nonresident sterile compounding permitted facility; and
- Evaluating what is a satisfactory inspection report in lieu of an on-site inspection by the DOH or another state.

Section 4 amends s. 465.017, F.S., to authorize the DOH or its agents to inspect any nonresident pharmacy that is registered with the DOH or nonresident sterile compounding permittee. The nonresident facility is responsible for the actual costs incurred by the DOH for this inspection.

Section 5 provides an effective date of October 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

A biennial permit fee for the nonresident pharmacy permit is created in an amount not to exceed $250.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/CS/SB 662 enhances the regulation of pharmacies and outsourcing facilities that are located in other states and provide medication to persons in this state. These entities that compound sterile products for patients in Florida may experience increased costs related to additional permit fees and compliance with greater compounding practice standards, if the pharmacy is located in a state with lesser practice standards. All registered or permitted facilities may experience on-site inspections and regulatory enforcement for non-compliance with Florida-specific practice requirements and standards.

Patients receiving compounded sterile products from other states might experience increased medication costs to offset costs of compliance with safer compounding standards.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The DOH anticipates approximately 350 biennial applications for nonresident pharmacy permits that will incur the $250 permit fee plus a $5 unlicensed activity fee. The anticipated biennial state revenue is $89,250.[26]

The DOH will incur non-recurring costs for rulemaking and to mail notifications to nonresident pharmacies, which current budget authority is adequate to absorb. The DOH will update its licensure system to accommodate the new nonresident sterile compounding permit, which current resources are adequate to absorb. Costs incurred for inspections of nonresident pharmacies and permitted outsourcing facilities that are not pharmacies will be covered by these entities. The DOH will experience a recurring increase in workload associated with inspecting these facilities and with enforcing various provisions of the bill. These latter impacts are indeterminate at this time, but the DOH anticipates that current resources and budget authority are adequate to absorb these costs.[27]

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 465.003, 465.0156, and 465.017.

This bill creates section 465.0158 of the Florida Statutes.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The CS/CS changes the definition of "compounding" and adds a definition for "compounded sterile product." Technical changes include:

- Changing the term applicant to attestor for who must provide an attestation;
- Removing a reference to board approval for entities the Department of Health may contract with to perform an inspection;
- Adding references to territory or district when mentioning the non-resident state in several places in the bill; and
- Removing an unnecessary phrase regarding applying for a permit since the critical point is when the permit is issued.

CS by Regulated Industries on March 13, 2014:
The CS adds definitions under s. 465.003, F.S., for "compounding" and "outsourcing facility." It provides that the board may deny, revoke, or suspend registration of, or fine or reprimand, a nonresident pharmacy in accordance with ch. 465, F.S., for conduct in noncompliance with record-keeping provisions or which causes or could cause serious bodily injury or psychological injury to a human, or could cause serious bodily injury to a non-human animal.

The CS provides that a nonresident pharmacy is subject to s. 456.0635, F.S.
Section 465.0158, F.S., is created providing for a nonresident sterile compounding permit, not a nonresident pharmacy compounded sterile products permit. The CS includes nonresident sterile outsourcing facilities in the requirement for a permit. The nonresident sterile compounding permit applicant must additionally attest that compounded products conform to the laws and rules of the state in which the applicant is located. The nonresident licensure requirement to lawfully send sterile compounded drugs into the state is expanded to include outsourcing facilities.

The CS specifies the permit application requirements which include licensure documentation for the location of the nonresident pharmacy or outsourcing facility and current inspection reports. It also provides rulemaking for alternate inspecting entities if the applicant cannot produce a current inspection report from the resident state's regulatory entity. Violations for which the board may take disciplinary action against a nonresident sterile compounding permittee are expanded. An applicant registering on or after October 1, 2014, under s. 465.0156, F.S., may not ship, mail, deliver, or dispense a compounded sterile product into this state until the applicant is registered as a nonresident pharmacy and is issued a permit under this section.

The CS does not provide a sunset provision under s. 465.0158, F.S.

B. Amendments:

(e) A current inspection report from an inspection conducted by the regulatory or licensing agency of the state, territory, or district in which the applicant is located. The inspection report must reflect compliance with this section. An inspection report is current if the inspection was conducted

3. Accept a current inspection report from the United States Food and Drug Administration conducted pursuant to the federal Drug Quality and Security Act, Pub. L. No. 113-54.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 698 reclassifies the felony degree of a specified sexual offense committed by an "authority figure" of a school against a student at that school. An "authority figure" is an adult employed by, volunteering at, or under contract with a school.

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference found the original bill would have an insignificant prison bed impact. It does not appear the amendment made to the original bill will change that estimate.

II. Present Situation:

Currently, Florida laws punishing sexual acts committed against children do not provide for any specific offense or felony enhancement when, for example, the perpetrator is a teacher or school administrator and the victim is a student.[1] The bill reclassifies the felony degree of a specified sexual offense committed by an "authority figure" of a school against a student at that school.

[1] An exception is s. 810.145(8)(a)2., F.S., a form of video voyeurism which is described in footnote three. Also, in some cases educational personnel are charged with the offense of sexual battery upon a minor by a person having "custodial authority" over the minor (s. 794.011(8), F.S.). See, e.g., Crews v. State, 130 So.3d 698 (Fla. 1st DCA 2013). However, depending upon the factual circumstances, a teacher, for example, may or may not have "custodial authority" over a student for purpose of this offense. "In Hallberg v. State, 649 So.2d 1355 (Fla.1994), the Florida Supreme Court held that 'a teacher, without any teaching responsibility or extracurricular activity supervisory authority over a child during a summer recess, is not in a position of custodial authority' for the purposes of the statute which forbids sexual activity with a child by a person in familial or custodial authority. Thus, 'teachers are not, by reason of their chosen profession, custodians of their students at all times, particularly when school is recessed for the summer.' Id. at 1357." Crews v. State, 130 So.3d at 701.

The relevant sexual offenses are those listed in s. 775.21(4)(a)1., F.S. (offenses relevant to registration of sexual predators) or s. 943.0435(1)(a)1.a., F.S. (offenses relevant to registration of sexual offenders), but excluding s. 794.011(4)(g), F.S.,[2] and s. 810.145(8)(a)2., F.S.[3] The bill reclassifies third degree felonies, second degree felonies, and first degree felonies.

Excluding s. 794.011(4)(g), F.S., and s. 810.145(8)(a)2., F.S. (offenses excluded by the bill), and offenses in which the offender is a minor (the bill requires the "authority figure" be an adult), the sexual offenses listed in the registry statutes that are third degree felonies, second degree felonies, or first degree felonies are:

- Kidnapping (minor victim, offender not a parent): First degree felony (Level nine or ten). Section 787.01(2), F.S.
- False imprisonment (minor victim, offender not a parent): Third degree felony (Level six). Section 787.02(2), F.S.
- False imprisonment (child under 13 with sexual offense, offender not a parent): First degree felony (Level nine). Section 787.02(3), F.S.
- Luring or enticing a child (offender 18+ with previous sexual offense and not a parent, victim under 12): Third degree felony (Not ranked: defaults to Level one). Section 787.025(2)(c), F.S.
- Human trafficking (using coercion for commercial sexual activity): First degree felony (Level 8). Section 787.06(3)(b), F.S.
- Human trafficking (using coercion for commercial sexual activity of any individual who is an unauthorized alien): First degree felony (Level nine). Section 787.06(3)(d), F.S.
- Human trafficking (using coercion for commercial sexual activity, transfer or transport of any individual from outside this state to within this state): First degree felony (Level eight). Section 787.06(3)(f), F.S.
- Human trafficking (for commercial sexual activity in which any child under 18 is involved): First degree felony (Level nine). Section 787.06(3)(g), F.S.
- Sexual battery (victim 12+, no consent, special circumstance): First degree felony (Level nine). Section 794.011(4), F.S.
- Sexual battery (victim 12+, no consent, no deadly force): Second degree felony (Level eight). Section 794.011(5), F.S.
- Sexual battery (victim under 18, offender in a position of familial or custodial authority and solicits victim to engage in sexual battery): Third degree felony (Level six). Section 794.011(8)(a), F.S.
- Sexual battery (victim 12+ but under 18, offender in a position of familial or custodial authority and engages in sexual battery): First degree felony (Level nine). Section 794.011(8)(b), F.S.

- Procuring person under 18 for prostitution: Second degree felony (Level seven). Section 796.03, F.S.

[2] Section 794.011(4)(g), F.S., provides that it is a first degree felony for a law enforcement officer, correctional officer, or other specified officer or official to commit sexual battery upon a victim 12 years of age or older.
[3] Section 810.145(8)(a)2., F.S., provides that it is a second degree felony for an adult employed by a school to commit an act of video voyeurism against a student of the school.

The bill creates s. 775.0862, F.S., which provides the felony degree of a violation of an offense listed in s. 775.21(4)(a)1., F.S. (offenses relevant to registration of sexual predators), or s. 943.0435(1)(a)1.a., F.S. (offenses relevant to registration of sexual offenders), but excluding s. 794.011(4)(g), F.S. and s. 810.145(8)(a)2., F.S., shall be reclassified if the offense is committed by an "authority figure" of a "school" against a "student" of that school.

The bill provides the following definitions of relevant terms:

- "Authority figure" means a person over the age of 18 employed by, volunteering at, or under contract with a school.
- "School" has the same meaning as provided in s. 1003.01, F.S.,[4] and includes a private school as defined in s. 1002.01, F.S.,[5] a voluntary prekindergarten education program as described in s. 1002.53(3), F.S.,[6] early learning programs, a public school as described in s. 402.3025(1), F.S.,[7] the Florida School for the Deaf and the Blind, the Florida Virtual

[4] Section 1003.01(2), F.S., defines "school" as an organization of students for instructional purposes on an elementary, middle or junior high school, secondary or high school, or other public school level authorized under rules of the State Board of Education.

[5] Section 1002.01(2), F.S., defines "private school" as a nonpublic school defined as an individual, association, copartnership, or corporation, or department, division, or section of such organizations, that designates itself as an educational center that includes kindergarten or a higher grade or as an elementary, secondary, business, technical, or trade school below college level or any organization that provides instructional services that meet the intent of s. 1003.01(13), F.S., or that gives preemployment or supplementary training in technology or in fields of trade or industry or that offers academic, literary, or career training below college level, or any combination of the above, including an institution that performs the functions of the above schools through correspondence or extension, except those licensed under the provisions of chapter 1005, F.S. A private school may be a parochial, religious, denominational, for-profit, or nonprofit school. This definition does not include home education programs conducted in accordance with s. 1002.41, F.S.

[6] Section 1002.53(3), F.S., provides that the parent of each child eligible for the Voluntary Prekindergarten Education Program under subsection (2) of the statute may enroll the child in one of the following programs:

- A school-year prekindergarten program delivered by a private prekindergarten provider under s. 1002.55, F.S.;
- A summer prekindergarten program delivered by a public school or private prekindergarten provider under s. 1002.61, F.S.;
- A school-year prekindergarten program delivered by a public school; or
- A specialized instructional services program for children who have disabilities, if the child has been evaluated and determined as eligible, has a current individual educational plan developed by the local school board, and is eligible for the program under s. 1002.66, F.S.

[7] Section 402.3025(1)(a), F.S., provides (under the subtitle "public schools") that the following programs for children shall not be deemed to be child care and shall not be subject to the provisions of ss. 402.301-402.319, F.S. (child care facilities):

- Programs for children in five-year-old kindergarten and grades one or above;
- Programs for children who are at least three years of age, but who are under five years of age, provided the programs are operated and staffed directly by the schools and provided the programs meet age-appropriate standards as adopted by the State Board of Education; and
- Programs for children under three years of age who are eligible for participation in the programs under the existing or successor provisions of Pub. L. No. 94-142 or Pub. L. No. 99-457, provided the programs are operated and staffed directly by the schools and provided the programs meet age-appropriate standards as adopted by the State Board of Education.

School as established under s. 1002.37, F.S., and a K-8 Virtual School as established under s. 1002.415, F.S., but does not include facilities dedicated exclusively to the education of adults.

- "Student" means a person under the age of 18 who is enrolled at a school.

Based on these definitions, it appears the only required nexus between the authority figure and the student is that they are at the same school (the student is enrolled at the school and the authority figure is employed by, volunteering at, or under contract with that school). There is no requirement the offense occur on the premises of the school or during the school year or the authority figure have any responsibility for or authority over the student by reason of the authority figure's position.

The bill reclassifies the offense as follows:

- In the case of a third degree felony,[8] the offense is reclassified to a second degree felony.[9]
- In the case of a second degree felony, the offense is reclassified to a first degree felony.[10]
- In the case of a first degree felony, the offense is reclassified to a life felony.[11]

The bill also provides, for purposes of sentencing under ch. 921, F.S. (the Criminal Punishment Code), and determining incentive gain-time eligibility under ch. 944, F.S., a felony offense reclassified, as provided in the bill, is ranked one level above the ranking under s. 921.0022, F.S., or s. 921.0023, F.S., of the offense committed.

An example of this reclassification is lewd or lascivious battery (s. 800.04(4), F.S.). This offense is a second degree felony (punishable by up to 15 years in state prison) and is ranked in Level eight. As reclassified, this offense would be a first degree felony (punishable by up to 30 years in state prison) and ranked in Level nine.

The bill also amends s. 921.0022, F.S. (the offense severity ranking chart of the Criminal Punishment Code). Currently, this statute, in part, provides reclassification of the degree of the felony through the application of a statute specified in s. 921.0022, F.S., or any other law which provides an enhanced penalty for a felony offense, to any offense listed in the offense severity

Section 402.3025(1)(b), F.S., provides (under the subtitle "public schools") that the following programs for children shall be deemed to be child care and shall be subject to the provisions of ss. 402.301-402.319, F.S.:

- Programs for children who are under five years of age when the programs are not operated and staffed directly by the schools; and
- Programs for children under three years of age who are not eligible for participation in the programs under existing or successor provisions of Pub. L. No. 94-142 or Pub. L. No. 99-457.

[8] A third degree felony is punishable by up to five years in state prison, a fine of up to $5,000, or prison and a fine. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S. However, if the third degree felony is not a forcible felony (excluding ch. 810, F.S.) and total sentence points are 22 points or fewer, the court must impose a nonstate prison sanction, unless the court makes written findings that a nonstate prison sanction could present a danger to the public. Section 775.082, F.S.

[9] A second degree felony is punishable by up to 15 years in state prison, a fine of up to $10,000, or prison and a fine. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

[10] A first degree felony is generally punishable by up to 30 years in state prison, a fine of up to $10,000, or prison and a fine. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

[11] A life felony is generally punishable by a term of imprisonment for life or by imprisonment for a term of years not exceeding life imprisonment, a fine of up to $15,000, or prison and a fine. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

The effective date of the bill is October 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/CS/SB 700 amends chapter 985, Florida Statutes, which provides a framework for the juvenile justice system in Florida and delineates duties and responsibilities of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ or department). Specifically, the bill enhances the state's focus on serious juvenile offenders, adopts measures to reduce recidivism, and increases care of juvenile offenders in the department's custody.

To provide an increased focus on serious cases and public safety, the bill:

- Requires the DJJ to notify a law enforcement agency and the victim of a juvenile offender who has escaped or absconded while in custody during commitment;
- Grants the court jurisdiction over a juvenile sex offender under THE DJJ supervision until he or she is 21 years old;
- Encourages the DJJ to develop evening-reporting centers to better support children in nonsecure detention;
- Authorizes the court to order juvenile offenders who commit technical violations of probation into a diversion program; and
- Waives fingerprinting requirements for children committing offenses that may only result in a civil citation.

To reduce recidivism through recognizing the special needs of children and the need for transitional services, the bill:

- Authorizes intake personnel to incorporate mental health, substance abuse, and psychosexual evaluations as part of the intake process;
- Establishes trauma-informed care as part of the DJJ model;
- Encourages placement of children in their home communities to facilitate family and community support;
- Enhances the transition-to-adult services offered and lifts the age restriction of youth clients eligible for service; and
- Requires the DJJ to focus on prevention services through providing academic and community support for at-risk youth.

To improve care to juveniles in the residential custody of the DJJ, the bill:

- Combines the commitment levels of low-risk and moderate-risk residential commitments into the newly-designated nonsecure residential commitment level and caps the number of beds authorized per facility at 90 beds, rather than the current cap of 165 beds;
- Creates a criminal offense of willful and malicious neglect, punishable as a third degree felony if the employee's lack of care does not result in harm to the juvenile offender in DJJ custody and as a second degree felony if great bodily harm results; and
- Allows for prosecution under the new criminal offense for any victim in commitment care, not just children under the age of 18.

To increase performance accountability, the bill requires the DJJ to adopt a system to measure performance based on recidivism rates of providers and programs, and to annually report findings to the Legislature.

The bill codifies a provision found in the 2013-2014 Implementing Bill for the General Appropriations Act which caps the allowable rate for hospital health services provided to juveniles at 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate, with a cap of 125 percent in limited cases.

This bill grants the DJJ greater flexibility in the assessment process by allowing a DJJ employee other than a juvenile probation officer to participate in intake, screenings, and assessments.

The DJJ indicates that the bill will result in a small increase in costs which can be absorbed within existing resources. The Office of State Courts Administrator also indicates it expects that it will not need additional resources for any increased workload in the court system. The new detention criteria may result in some children being held in secure detention who would not be held under current law, and some others being held for a longer period of time. This may have an indeterminate fiscal impact on local government expenditures for a share of detention costs.

II. Present Situation:

Department of Juvenile Justice/Department of Health and Human Services

In years past, the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) participated in all court proceedings relating to children, including dependency and delinquency cases.[1] In 1994, the Legislature created the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ), and assigned the DJJ responsibility for juvenile delinquency cases and children in need of services and families in need of services (CINS/FINS) cases. The HRS retained jurisdiction of dependency cases. Despite this bifurcation, laws governing delinquency and dependency remained together in ch. 39, F.S.[2]

In 1997, the Legislature transferred provisions relating to juvenile delinquency proceedings in ch. 39, F.S., into ch. 984, F.S., (relating to CINS/FINS) and ch. 985, F.S., (relating to juvenile delinquency cases).[3] However, the legislation inadvertently included a handful of provisions relating to dependency in the transfer. Dependency duties are now the responsibility of the Department of Children and Families (DCF).[4]

Jurisdiction

Section 985.0301(1), F.S., provides that Florida's circuit courts have exclusive original jurisdiction in criminal proceedings in which a child is alleged to have committed a violation. Currently, the circuit court where the alleged violation occurred may transfer a case to the circuit court in which the child resides or will reside at the time of detention or placement.[5] A child detainee must be transferred to the appropriate detention center or facility or other placement directed by the court receiving the case.[6]

The court retains jurisdiction over a child until the child:

- Is 19 years old, if the child's case has not been resolved;
- Is 19 years old, if the child is ordered to participate in a probation program, including participation in transition-to-adulthood services;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ;
- Is 22 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ for placement in a juvenile prison or in a high-risk or maximum-risk residential commitment program;[7]
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ for placement in an intensive residential treatment program for 10-13 year-old offenders, in the residential commitment program in a juvenile prison or in a residential sex offender program;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to a juvenile correctional facility or a juvenile prison, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete the program;

- Is 21 years old, if the child is a juvenile sexual offender who has been placed in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders, specifically to complete the program; or
- Completes payment of court-ordered restitution.[8]

Contempt of Court

Section 985.037, F.S., authorizes the court to punish a child for contempt for interfering with the court or court administration, or for violating a court order or ch. 985, F.S. Direct contempt results from conduct committed by the juvenile in the presence of the judge, while indirect contempt concerns conduct committed outside the judge's presence.[9]

A child charged with direct contempt may be sanctioned immediately.[10] If a child is charged with indirect contempt, the court must hold a hearing within 24 hours to determine if the child committed indirect contempt.[11] In indirect contempt proceedings, the child is given specified due process rights.[12]

If a court finds that a child committed contempt of court, the court may order the child to serve an alternative sanction[13] or order the placement of the child into a secure facility[14] for a specified time.[15] If a child is placed into a secure facility, the court must review the placement every 72 hours.[16]

Fingerprinting and Photographing

Section 985.11(1)(a), F.S., requires a child who is charged with or found to have committed specified offenses to be fingerprinted by the appropriate law enforcement agency, and requires the law enforcement agency to submit the fingerprints to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE).

Intake Process

Every child under the age of 18 charged with a crime in Florida is referred to the DJJ.[17] Intake and screening services for youth referred to the DJJ are performed at a Juvenile Assessment Center[18] by a DJJ employee.[19] Once brought into intake, the DJJ assigns the child a juvenile probation officer, conducts an assessment, and recommends appropriate sanctions and services to the state attorney and the court.[20] The probation officer serves as the primary case manager responsible for managing, coordinating, and monitoring services provided to the child.[21]

Detention Care System

Detention care is the temporary care of children pursuant to an adjudication or order of the court.[22] Children may be detained in one of three types of detention care: secure,[23] nonsecure,[24] and home detention[25] when specific statutory criteria are met.

Section 985.24, F.S., provides guidelines for the court to use in ordering detention care, including that the child:

- Presents a substantial risk of not appearing at a hearing;
- Presents a substantial risk of inflicting bodily harm on others as evidenced by recent behavior;
- Presents a history of committing a property offense prior to adjudication, disposition, or placement;
- Has committed contempt of court; or
- Requests protection from imminent bodily harm.

If a law enforcement agency takes a child into custody, the DJJ must accept custody of the child and review the facts in the arrest report to determine what, if any, detention care is necessary.[26] The probation officer makes an initial decision regarding detention care placement using the "Detention Risk Assessment Instrument."[27] In certain instances, the probation officer does not have discretion and must place a child in secure detention (e.g., when a child is charged with possessing or discharging a firearm on school property).[28]

A child may not be held in secure, nonsecure, or home detention for more than 24 hours without a detention hearing.[29] A detention hearing is conducted by a circuit judge who reviews the

However, the DJJ reports that its current practice for detention is to only utilize secure or home detention; nonsecure detention has not been used for several years. [25] Section 985.03(18)(c), F.S., defines "home detention" as temporary custody of the child while the child is released to the custody of the parent, guardian, or custodian in a physically nonrestrictive environment under the supervision of department staff pending adjudication, disposition, or placement.

assessment instrument to determine whether probable cause exists that the child committed the offense and the need for continued detention.[30] A court's detention order must include specific instructions for release of the child from detention (generally, a 21-day limit applies to secure, nonsecure, or home detention[31]).[32]

If the child is a juvenile sex offender, detention staff must notify the appropriate law enforcement agency and school personnel of the child's release from secure detention or transfer to nonsecure detention.[33]

Disposition

The state attorney formally charges a child with a criminal offense by filing a petition for delinquency.[34] Because a child may be detained if adjudicated delinquent, federal constitutional law requires many of the same due process safeguards afforded to adult criminal defendants[35] and that the case proceed to adjudicatory hearing (trial)[36] as quickly as possible. If the court finds that the child committed the violation of law, the court may either withhold adjudication of delinquency or adjudicate the child delinquent.[37]

If the court finds that a child has committed an offense, the court must hold a disposition hearing to determine appropriate punishment. Before making a final disposition, the court reviews a pre-disposition report[38] prepared by the DJJ.[39] The pre-disposition report identifies appropriate educational and vocational goals, which include successful completion of vocational courses, and successful attendance and completion of the child's current grade. The court must then determine whether it is appropriate to commit the child to the DJJ or probation and community-based sanctions.[40]

[30] Section 985.255(3), F.S.
[31] Section 985.26(2), F.S. A child may be held up to 30 days if the child is charged with what would be, if committed by an adult, a capital felony, a life felony, a first degree felony, or a second degree felony offense.
[32] Section 985.255(3)(c), F.S.
[33] Similarly, once a juvenile sex offender is released from a commitment program, the DJJ must notify the FDLE under ss. 985.481 and 985.4815, F.S. The DJJ has been required to provide this notification electronically since November 1, 2007.
[34] Section 985.318, F.S.
[35] Section 985.35(2)(a), (b), and (c), F.S., provides that the child is entitled to present evidence, cross examine witnesses, protect himself or herself from self-incrimination, and to not have evidence that was illegally seized or obtained presented to the court in the case against them. Facts must be established beyond a reasonable doubt and rules of evidence apply to the proceedings. Additionally, s. 985.033(1), F.S., provides that a child is entitled to legal counsel at all stages of any delinquency court proceeding.
[36] Section 985.03(2), F.S., defines an "adjudicatory hearing" as a hearing for the court to determine whether the facts support the allegations stated in the petition, as provided under s. 985.35, F.S. In an adjudicatory hearing, the judge decides both questions of fact and law. Section 985.35(2), F.S.
[37] Section 985.35, F.S. An adjudication of delinquency by a court is not considered a conviction.
[38] Section 985.433(6), F.S., requires the pre-disposition report to include a summary of the juvenile's present offense, a statement by the youth, background information regarding the familial and community environment, a narrative explaining the juvenile's employment or school history, psychological data, restitution information, criminal history, risk assessment, and the recommendations of DJJ concerning disposition of the case.
[39] Section 985.43, F.S.
[40] Section 985.433(6), F.S.

Probation or Postcommitment Probation (Probation)

A child's probation program must include both a penalty and a rehabilitative component.[41] Each child is assigned a juvenile probation officer who monitors the child's compliance and helps the child connect with service providers.

If the child does not comply with terms of probation, the child may be brought before the court on a violation of probation. The violation may be a substantive violation for committing a new criminal offense or a technical violation for failure to comply with a condition of probation.[42] If a child admits to the violation or is found by the court to have violated probation, the court must enter an order revoking, modifying, or continuing probation.[43] Specifically, the court may:

- Place the child into a consequence unit [44] for up to 15 days;
- Place the child on home detention with electronic monitoring;
- Modify or continue the child's probation; or
- Revoke probation and commit the child to the DJJ.[45]

Commitment

The court may commit the child to a nonresidential or residential facility.[46] Commitment programs vary by "restrictiveness level," defined in s. 985.03(46), F.S., as "the level of programming and security provided by programs that service the supervision, custody, care, and treatment needs of committed children." Levels of commitment are:

- Minimum-risk nonresidential, a level 2 commitment program, where children remain in their community and participate at least 5 days a week in day treatment;
- Low-risk residential, a level 4 program, where children live in a residential program and have unsupervised access to their community;
- Moderate-risk residential, a level 6 program, where children are in a residential program and have supervised access to their community;
- High-risk residential, a level 8 program, where children are not allowed access to their community; and
- Maximum-risk residential, a level 10 long-term residential program, including juvenile correctional facilities or juvenile prisons that do not allow the children to have any access to their community.[47]

Florida law caps the number of beds at residential facilities at 165 beds.[48]

[43] Section 985.439(4), F.S.
[44] Section 985.439(2), F.S., defines "consequence unit" as a secure facility specifically designated by the department for children who are taken into custody under s. 985.101, F.S., for violating probation or postcommitment probation, or who have been found by the court to have violated the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation.

[47] Section 985.03(46)(e), F.S.
[48] Section 985.03(46), F.S.

If the court determines the child should be adjudicated delinquent and committed to the DJJ through court order, [49] the DJJ must recommend the restrictiveness level for the child. The court may commit the child at a different restrictiveness level but must set out findings for departure in the record based on a preponderance of the evidence.[50]

Once the court enters a commitment order, the DJJ is responsible for determining placement in a specific residential program based on the child's identified risks and needs.[51] Currently, the court must order a child to be placed in a specific restrictiveness level from level 2 through level 10 and the DJJ does not have the flexibility to move a child into a different restrictiveness level.

A child is committed to a residential program for an indeterminate length of time and must complete an individualized treatment plan.[52] The goals of the plan are based on the child's rehabilitative needs and include educational and vocational service goals.[53] All residential programs provide medical, mental health, substance abuse, and developmental disability services.[54]

Conditional Release and Transition-to-Adulthood Services

Conditional release is defined as the care, treatment, help, and supervision provided to a juvenile released from a residential commitment program. The purposes of conditional release are to protect the public, reduce recidivism, increase responsible productive behavior, and provide for a successful transition of the youth from the DJJ to the family.[55]

The DJJ must assess each child placed into a residential commitment facility to determine the need for conditional release services upon release from the facility.[56] Children participating in conditional release services must participate in an educational program [57] if they are of compulsory school attendance age or noncompulsory school age and have not obtained a high school diploma or its equivalent.[58] A child who has received a diploma or equivalent, but is not employed, must attend college classes, other career education, or participate in workforce development.[59]

The DJJ must also provide older [60] children with opportunities to participate in "transition-to-adulthood" services that build life skills and increase the ability to live independently and be

Internal Agency Procedures

Administering the Juvenile Justice Continuum

Section 985.601, F.S., requires the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) to develop or contract for diversified and innovative programs to provide rehabilitative treatment.

Quality Assurance and Cost-Effectiveness

Section 985.632, F.S., requires the DJJ to provide transparency to policy makers and the public about the costs and effectiveness of the programs that it operates. The DJJ is also required to develop an accountability system to assist in ensuring that children served receive the best services for their needs.

The DJJ is required to annually collect cost data for every program that it operates or contracts for and submit this data to the Legislature and the Governor.[63] The DJJ is also required to develop a cost-effectiveness model and apply the model to each commitment program. The cost-effectiveness model must compare program costs to client outcomes and program outputs, and include recidivism rates.[64] The DJJ must rank each commitment program based on the cost-effectiveness model and may terminate a program if the program has failed to achieve a minimum threshold of program effectiveness.

Departmental Contracting Powers; Personnel Standards and Screening

Section 985.644, F.S., requires DJJ employees and all personnel[65] of contract providers to complete a:

- Level 2 employment screening prior to employment (which requires fingerprinting);[66] and
- National criminal records check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation every 5 years following the date of the person's employment.

The DJJ must electronically submit fingerprint information of DJJ employees and contract personnel (other than law enforcement, correctional, and correctional probation officers) to the FDLE.

[66] Section 435.04, F.S. Level 2 employment screenings require fingerprints to be processed through statewide criminal history records checks through FDLE and national criminal history records checks through the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The screenings may include local criminal records checks through local law enforcement agencies.

Juvenile Justice Training Academies

The DJJ is required to establish and oversee juvenile justice training academies.[67] The DJJ must develop, implement, and maintain the curriculum for the training academies, develop uniform minimum job-related training, and establish a certifiable program for juvenile justice training.[68]

Section 985.66(3), F.S., requires the DJJ to provide specified components to the training programs for the juvenile justice program staff based upon a job-task analysis.[69] All department program staff and providers who deliver direct care services pursuant to contract with the DJJ must participate in and successfully complete the approved training programs relevant to their areas of employment.[70] Judges, state attorneys, public defenders, law enforcement officers, and school district personnel may also participate in these programs.

Juvenile Justice Circuit Advisory Boards

Section 985.664, F.S., authorizes juvenile justice circuit advisory boards (advisory boards) to be established in each of the 20 judicial circuits. The purpose of advisory boards is to advise the DJJ in the development and implementation of juvenile justice programs and policies related to at-risk youth.[71] The duties of the advisory boards are enumerated in s. 985.664(2), F.S.

Direct-Support Organizations

Section 985.672, F.S., defines a direct support organization as a not-for-profit organization whose sole purpose is to support the juvenile justice system and which is:

- Organized and operated to conduct programs and activities; raise funds; request and receive grants, gifts, and bequests of moneys; acquire, receive, hold, invest, and administer in its own name, securities, funds, objects of value, or other property, real or personal; and make expenditures to or for the direct or indirect benefit of the DJJ or the juvenile justice system operated by a county commission or a circuit board; and
- Determined by the DJJ to be consistent with the goals of the juvenile justice system, in the best interest of the state, and in accordance with the DJJ's adopted goals and mission.

The DJJ may permit a direct support organization to use fixed property and facilities of the juvenile justice system free of charge.[72]

Siting of Facilities

Section 985.682, F.S., establishes procedures that must be followed when proposing a site for a juvenile justice facility. Currently, the DJJ is required to conduct a detailed statewide comprehensive study to determine current and future needs for all facility types for children committed to the DJJ.[73] The study must assess, rank, and designate appropriate sites based upon these needs.[74]

One-Time Startup Funding for Juvenile Justice Purposes

Section 985.69, F.S., authorizes the DJJ to use funds from juvenile justice appropriations as one-time startup funding for juvenile justice purposes that include remodeling or renovation of existing facilities, construction and leasing costs, purchase of equipment and furniture, site development, and other necessary and reasonable costs associated with the startup of facilities or programs. The DJJ is currently funded for repair and maintenance of facilities through the General Appropriations Act.

Payment of Medical Expenses for Detained Youth

Medicare Rates

Medicare is the federal health insurance program for people who are 65 or older, certain younger people with disabilities, and people with End-Stage Renal Disease (permanent kidney failure requiring dialysis or a transplant).[75]

Medicare reimburses providers based on the type of service they provide. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services develops fee schedules for physicians, ambulance services, clinical laboratory services, and durable medical equipment, prosthetics, orthotics, and supplies.[76] Other Medicare providers are paid via a prospective payment system. The prospective payment system is a method of reimbursement in which Medicare payment is made based on a predetermined, fixed amount. The payment amount for a particular service is derived based on the classification system of that service (for example, diagnosis-related groups for inpatient hospital services).

The Department of Corrections and Medical Payment Caps

In 2008, the General Appropriations Implementing Bill [77] capped medical payment rates that the Department of Corrections (DOC) could pay to a hospital or a health care provider providing services at a hospital. Payments to providers for services were capped at 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate for inmate medical care if no contract existed between the DOC and a hospital, or a provider providing services at a hospital. However, hospitals reporting an operating loss to the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) were capped at 125 percent of the

Similarly, the 2013 General Appropriations Implementing Bill capped medical payment rates that the DJJ could pay to a hospital or provider providing any health care services.[79]

Offenses Committed Against Youth under the Jurisdiction of the DJJ

Sexual Misconduct by an Employee

Section 985.701, F.S., makes it a second degree felony [80] for a DJJ employee [81] to engage in sexual misconduct [82] with juvenile offenders "detained or supervised by, or committed to the custody, of the department." The statute does not define the term "juvenile offender."

Neglect of Youth Committed to the Department of Juvenile Justice

Section 985.02, F.S., provides that the children of the state must be provided with protection from abuse, neglect, and exploitation; as well as adequate nutrition, shelter, and clothing. In some instances, a DJJ employee has neglected or abused a juvenile offender resulting in harm to the juvenile offender.[83]

Currently, ch. 985, F.S., does not provide sanctions against the neglect of a youth in the DJJ's custody. As a result, prosecutors have looked outside of ch. 985, F.S., to prosecute cases involving abuse or neglect of a child in the care of the DJJ. One statute prosecutors have attempted to use to prosecute is s. 827.03, F.S., relating to criminal child neglect. However, the child neglect statute is not designed to prosecute neglect cases that arise within the unique framework of the juvenile justice environment, nor does it apply to youth in the DJJ's custody who are 18 or older.[84]

The term does not include an act done for a bona fide medical purpose or an internal search conducted in the lawful performance of duty by an employee of the DJJ or an employee of a provider under contract with the DJJ.

[84] Section 827.01, F.S., defines a child as "any person under the age of 18 years." While the majority of youth in DJJ's custody are under 18 years old, DJJ has custody of persons 18 years old and older. Section 985.0301(5)(a), F.S., requires DJJ to retain jurisdiction over a child alleged to have committed a delinquent act until the child reaches 19 years old and authorizes DJJ to retain jurisdiction for an additional 365 days following the child's 19th birthday if the child is participating in transition-to-adulthood services.

Diversion Programs/Expunction of Records

Section 943.0582, F.S., provides guidelines to the FDLE relating to the expunction of criminal history records of youth who have successfully completed a prearrest, postarrest, or teen court diversion program.

Prevention Services Programs and Providers

Section 985.605, F.S., requires the DJJ to monitor all state-funded programs, grants, appropriations, or activities designed to prevent juvenile delinquency.[85] The DJJ is authorized to expend funds to prevent juvenile delinquency as long as it maximizes public accountability and documents outcomes. Each entity that receives money from the state must design its programs to provide one of four specified strategies [86] and submit demographic information of participants to the DJJ for verification.[87]

Section 985.606, F.S., requires each state agency or entity that receives or uses state money to fund juvenile delinquency prevention programs, grants, appropriations, or activities to submit performance data to the Governor and both houses of the Legislature by January 31st of each year for the preceding fiscal year.

Tours of State Correctional Facilities

Section 945.75, F.S., requires the DOC to develop programs in which a judge may order juveniles who have committed delinquent acts to be allowed to tour state correctional facilities under terms and conditions established by the DOC. The statute requires counties to develop similar programs involving county jails, commonly referred to as "scared straight programs."[88] The goal of these programs is to modify the behavior of the juveniles by shocking, scaring, and thus deterring them from engaging in further delinquent activity.[89] The DJJ reports because it complies with the Federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 2002 it receives between 2 million and 8 million dollars in federal funding.[90] The DJJ reports that it could lose two-thirds of its federal funding because the scared straight tours violate several portions of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act.[91]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This bill amends various provisions in law relating to juvenile delinquency, to enhance public safety, reduce recidivism, better measure performance outcomes, and improve care provided to juvenile offenders in the custody of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ).

Prevention

The bill creates s. 985.17, F.S., relating to prevention services. To reduce recidivism, protect public safety, and facilitate successful re-entry into the community, the bill requires the DJJ to:

- Engage faith- and community-based organizations;[92]
- Establish volunteer coordinators in each circuit and encourage mentor recruitment;
- Encourage the recruitment of volunteers to serve as mentors for youth in DJJ services;
- Promote the "Invest in Children" license plate to help fund programs and services;[93]
- Ensure prevention services address the multiple needs of youth at risk of becoming delinquent in order to decrease the prevalence of disproportionate minority representation in the juvenile justice system; and
- Expend prevention-related funds in a manner that maximizes accountability and ensures documentation of outcomes.

As a condition for receiving state funds, entities that receive or use state moneys to fund prevention services through contracts with the DJJ or grants from an entity will be required to:

- Design programs providing services to further one or more of the following strategies:
  - Encourage youth to attend and succeed in school;
  - Engage youth in productive and wholesome activities during non-school hours that build positive character, instill positive values, and enhance educational experiences;
  - Encourage youth to avoid the use of violence; and
  - Assist youth to acquire skills needed to find meaningful employment, including assistance in finding a suitable employer; and
- Provide the department with demographic information, dates of services, and the type of interventions received by each youth.

The bill requires the DJJ to monitor output and outcome measures for each program strategy and annually report this data in the Comprehensive Accountability Report. The DJJ also will be required to monitor all state-funded programs that receive or use state moneys to fund the juvenile delinquency prevention services through contracts or grants for compliance with contract and grant provisions.

Offenses Committed Against Youth under the Jurisdiction of the Department of Juvenile Justice

Sexual Misconduct by an Employee

The bill amends s. 985.701, F.S., to define "juvenile offender" as "any person of any age who is detained or supervised by, or committed to the custody of, the department." This mirrors the definition used in s. 985.702, F.S.

[92] The bill further provides that the voluntary programs and services include, but are not limited to, chaplaincy services, crisis intervention counseling, mentoring, and tutoring.

[93] The bill further requires the DJJ to allocate moneys for programs and services within each county based on that county's proportionate share of the license plate annual use fee collected by the county, which is identical to how s. 320.08058(11), F.S., specifies the money should be allocated.

Neglect of Youth Committed to the Department of Juvenile Justice

Section 985.702, F.S., is created and establishes a new criminal offense relating to willful and malicious neglect of a juvenile offender. The bill makes it a third degree felony [94] for a DJJ employee to willfully and maliciously neglect a juvenile offender without causing great bodily harm, permanent disability, or permanent disfigurement. If the neglect does cause great bodily harm, permanent disability, or permanent disfigurement to the juvenile offender, the employee commits a second degree felony.[95]

An "employee" is defined in the bill as a paid staff member, volunteer, or intern who works in a DJJ program or a program operated by a provider under contract with the DJJ. A "juvenile offender" is defined as "any person of any age who is detained by, or committed to the custody of, the department." "Neglect" is defined as an employee's:

- Failure or omission to provide a juvenile offender with the proper level of care, supervision, and services necessary to maintain the juvenile offender's physical and mental health including, but not limited to, adequate food, nutrition, clothing, shelter, supervision, medicine, and medical services; or
- Failure to make a reasonable effort to protect a juvenile offender from abuse, neglect, or exploitation by another person.

If the Public Employees Relations Commission determines that a DJJ employee violates the newly created s. 985.702, F.S., the determination constitutes sufficient cause under s. 110.227, F.S.,[96] for dismissal from employment with the DJJ, and prohibits the employee from being employed in any capacity in the juvenile justice system.

The bill requires employees who witness the neglect of a juvenile offender to immediately report the incident to the DJJ's incident hotline. The witness must also prepare an independent report specifically describing the incident, location and time, and persons involved. The report must be submitted to the witness's supervisor or program director, who in turn must provide copies of the report to the inspector general and the circuit juvenile justice manager. The inspector general must immediately conduct an appropriate administrative investigation and, if probable cause exists, notify the state attorney in the circuit in which the incident occurred.

Any person required to prepare a report who knowingly or willfully fails to do so or prevents another person from filing a report commits a first degree misdemeanor.[97] In addition, any person who knowingly or willfully:

- Submits inaccurate, incomplete, or untruthful information on a report commits a first degree misdemeanor.
- Coerces or threatens another person with the intent to alter testimony or a written report commits a third degree felony.

[94] A third degree felony is punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a fine of up to $5,000. Sections 775.082, 775.083, and 775.084, F.S.
[95] A second degree felony is punishable by up to 15 years imprisonment and a fine of up to $10,000. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.
[96] Section 110.227, F.S., relates to the suspension and dismissal of career service employees.
[97] A first degree misdemeanor is punishable by up to 1 year incarceration and a fine up to $1,000. Sections 775.082, F.S. and 775.083, F.S.

Trauma-informed Care as a Component of the Department of Juvenile Justice Model

The bill requires the DJJ to implement trauma-informed care in its model of response and delivery of services to juvenile offenders. "Trauma-informed care" is defined to mean providing services to children with a history of trauma, which recognizes the symptoms of trauma and acknowledges the role the trauma has played in the child's life. Trauma may include, but is not limited to, community and school violence, physical or sexual abuse, neglect, medical difficulties, and domestic violence.

Family Support

The bill recognizes the importance of placing facilities close to the home communities of children they house in facilitating family involvement in the treatment process and encourages the use of customized treatment plans to prepare a child for a successful transition back to his or her family and community support system.

Detention Care System

The definition of "detention care" found in s. 985.03, F.S., is revised to remove "home detention," thereby limiting the definition to "secure" and "nonsecure" detention. The bill amends the definition of "nonsecure detention" to mean:

> Temporary nonsecure custody of the child while the child is released to the custody of the parent, guardian, or custodian in a physically nonrestrictive home environment under the supervision of department staff pending adjudication, disposition, or placement. Forms of nonsecure detention may include, but are not limited, to home detention, electronic monitoring, day reporting centers, evening reporting centers, nonsecure shelters, and may include other requirements imposed by the court.

The bill authorizes the DJJ to develop evening reporting centers (centers), which are included in the definition of "nonsecure detention." These centers serve as an alternative to placing a child in secure detention and may be co-located with a juvenile assessment center. Centers must serve children and families who are awaiting a child's court hearing and must operate at a minimum during the afternoon and evening hours to provide a highly structured program of supervision. Centers may also provide academic tutoring, counseling, family engagement programs, and other activities. The bill specifies that if DJJ establishes centers, it must be do so within its existing resources.

The term "juvenile probation officer" is replaced with the term "department" throughout many of the detention-related statutes, which will allow the DJJ greater flexibility to use employees other than probation officers in initial detention placement. The bill specifies a child's "illegal possession of a firearm" can be considered as a basis for ordering detention or continued detention and requires secure detention for any child who has been taken into custody on three or more separate occasions within a 60-day period.

The bill requires detention staff to notify the appropriate law enforcement agency, school personnel, and victim when a child charged with any of the following offenses is released from secure detention or transferred to nonsecure detention:

- Murder, under s. 782.04, F.S.;
- Sexual battery, under ch. 794, F.S.;
- Stalking, under s. 784.048, F.S; or
- Domestic violence, as defined in s. 741.28, F.S.

In some respects, the notice requirement expands notice by not limiting notice to juvenile sex offenses. In other respects, this provision limits notice, as notice is only required for sexual battery, not all of the currently-included offenses that qualify a child as a juvenile sex offender.

In instances where a detained child is transferred to a jail or other facility used to detain adults,[98] the bill requires physical observation and documented checks of the child every 10 minutes. Existing law requires observations every 15 minutes.

The court must place in detention care all children who are adjudicated and awaiting placement in a commitment program. In such instances, the bill requires, rather than permits, a child who has been committed to a high-risk or maximum risk residential facility to be held in secure detention until placement.

Jurisdiction

The bill amends s. 985.0301, F.S., to authorize, rather than require, the court to transfer a detained child to a detention center in the circuit in which the child resides or will reside at the time of detention. The bill restricts transfers to only these two circumstances, which means the receiving court will no longer be able to direct where the detained child may be placed when a case is being transferred.

The bill simplifies statutory jurisdictional criteria. As a result, the court will retain jurisdiction over a child until the child:

- Is 19 years old, generally, or if the child is in a probation program;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ in any type of commitment program, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete the commitment program, including conditional release supervision;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is a juvenile sexual offender who has been placed on community-based treatment alternative with supervision, or in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders, specifically for the purpose of completing the program; or
- Satisfies restitution ordered in the case.

Contempt of Court

The bill requires the court to hold a hearing to determine if a child committed direct contempt of court and affords the child specified due process rights at this hearing. The bill also clarifies if a judge places a child into a secure facility for contempt, the facility must be a detention facility. In these instances, the court needs to review the placement only upon motion by the defense attorney or state attorney. Under existing law, the court must review the placement every 72 hours.

[98] Section 985.265(5), F.S., sets forth instances in which a child may be detained in a jail or other facility used to detain adults.

Fingerprinting and Photographing

The bill excludes a child from fingerprint requirements if the child is issued a civil citation. This provision may better focus resources on more serious juvenile offenders by waiving fingerprinting requirements of children charged with nonserious delinquent acts.

Intake Process

Section 985.14, F.S., is amended to allow both the DJJ and juvenile assessment center personnel to perform the intake process, which may provide for a more efficient intake process in counties that operate their own juvenile assessment centers. The bill also:

- Clarifies that the intake assessment process consists of an initial assessment that may be followed by a full mental health, substance abuse, cognitive impairment, and/or psychosexual evaluation, which may help decision makers better target successful treatment and reduce recidivism; and
- Requires children to be screened to determine career or technical education problems (rather than just vocational problems), which provides more options for children in pursuing a successful career.

Disposition

Predisposition Reports

The bill requires the predisposition report prepared by the DJJ to assist the court in determining whether a child is committed is to identify appropriate educational and career (rather than vocational) goals for the child, which include:

- Successful completion of career and technical education courses (rather than vocational courses); and
- Successful completion of the child's current grade or recovery of credits or classes the child previously failed.

Probation or Postcommitment Probation (Probation)

A court is authorized by the bill to impose an alternative consequence for juveniles on probation who commit relatively minor violations (technical violations). If so, the judge must approve specific consequences for specific future violations of the conditions of probation. Alternative consequence programs:

- Must be established at the local level in coordination with law enforcement agencies, the Chief Judge of the circuit, the State Attorney, and the Public Defender; and
- May be operated by a law enforcement agency, the DJJ, a juvenile assessment center, or another entity selected by DJJ.

Commitment

The term "juvenile probation officer" is replaced with the term "department" throughout many of the commitment-related statutes, which will allow the DJJ to use employees other than probation officers to perform commitment-related duties.

The "restrictiveness levels" in s. 985.03(46), F.S., of low-risk residential (level 4) and moderate-risk residential (level 6) are combined into a single "nonsecure residential" group. This will allow the DJJ to place a child whose risk is currently low into a program that caters to children with slightly higher risk levels to ensure the child access to other needs and services.

The current cap on residential beds per facility is reduced to 90 beds from 165 beds. This reduction in the number of residential beds authorized per facility may increase efficiency of facilities in meeting the goals of commitment and reducing recidivism.

Certain youth[99] will be allowed to be committed to nonsecure residential placement under this bill if the child has:

- Previously been adjudicated or had an adjudication withheld for a felony offense; or
- Previously been adjudicated or had adjudication withheld for three or more misdemeanor offenses within the last 18 months.

The amendments to s. 985.275, F.S., requires the DJJ to notify a law enforcement agency and, if the offense requires victim notification under ch. 960, F.S., the victim, any time a child in the custody of the DJJ:

- Escapes from a residential commitment program or from being transported to or from one; or
- Absconds from a nonresidential commitment facility.

The DJJ also will be required by the bill to make every reasonable effort to locate the child.

Conditional Release and Transition-to-Adulthood Services

The bill amends s. 985.46, F.S., to clarify conditional release includes the provision of transition-to-adulthood services. The bill also requires a child of noncompulsory school age on conditional release supervision to participate in the education program or career and technical education courses.

The application of transition-to-adulthood services is expanded by the bill by removing the limitation that these services only be provided to "older children." As a result, any child who is under the supervision of the DJJ may be provided transition-to-adulthood services as part of his or her treatment plan.

The activities the DJJ is authorized to engage in to support participation in transition-to-adulthood services are expanded. Specifically, the DJJ may:

- Employ community re-entry teams to assist in developing a list of age appropriate activities and responsibilities to be incorporated in the child's case plan. Community re-entry teams include representatives from school districts, law enforcement, workforce development services, community based service providers, and the child's family.

- Assist the child in building a portfolio of educational and vocational accomplishments, necessary identification, and resumes and cover letters to enhance the child's employability; and
- Collaborate with school district contacts to facilitate appropriate educational services based on the child's identified needs.

Internal Agency Procedures

Quality Assurance and Cost-Effectiveness

The bill amends s. 985.632, F.S. to:
- Require the annual report to collect and analyze available statistical data for the purpose of ongoing evaluation of all programs;
- Delete the terms "client" and "program effectiveness" and adds the following definitions:
  - "Program," which means any facility or service for youth that is operated by the DJJ or by a provider under contract with the DJJ; and
  - "Program group," which means a collection of programs with sufficient similarity of functions, services, and youth to permit appropriate comparison among programs within the group;
- Codify the Comprehensive Accountability Report (CAR), [100] and requires the DJJ to work with contract service providers to develop a standard methodology for measuring and reporting program outputs and youth outcomes;
- Require the standard methodology used in the CAR to include certain terminology for measuring performance, to specify program outputs, and to specify desired child outcomes and methods to measure child outcomes; and
- Require the cost-effectiveness model to include a comparison of program costs to expected and actual child recidivism rates, rather than client outcomes and program outputs; and requires the DJJ to rank commitment programs based on performance measures and adherence to quality improvement standards.

Departmental Contracting Powers; Personnel Standards and Screening

The bill provides that law enforcement, correctional, or correctional probation officers certified pursuant to s. 943.13, F.S., are not required to submit to level 2 screenings if they are currently employed by a law enforcement agency or correctional facility.

Juvenile Justice Training Academies

Section 985.66, F.S., is amended to:
- Remove references to "academies" when referring to juvenile justice training programs;
- Require the DJJ to designate the number of (not just the location of) training programs and courses; and [100] The CAR, in its current form, has been published by the DJJ since 2006. It includes all of the information required to be reported under s. 985.632, F.S., as well as additional information. See Comprehensive Accountability Reports, http://www.djj.state.fl.us/research/reports/car (last visited on February 12, 2014).

- Authorize all employees of contract providers who provide services or care for youth under the responsibility of the DJJ to participate in the certifiable training program.

Juvenile Justice Circuit Advisory Boards

The bill amends s. 985.664, F.S., to remove obsolete language and specifies the chair of a board serves at the pleasure of the DJJ's Secretary.

Direct-Support Organizations

Current law does not address whether the DJJ may authorize direct support organizations to use personnel services of the juvenile justice system. The bill authorizes the DJJ to permit a direct support organization to use its personnel services. Personnel services include full-time or part-time personnel, as well as payroll processing services.

One-Time Startup Funding for Juvenile Justice Purposes

The bill changes references to "startup" funding and costs in s. 985.69, F.S., to refer to "repair and maintenance" funding and costs. This allows these funds to be used for the continuing repair and maintenance of the DJJ facilities.

Payment for Medical Expenses for Detained Youth (Section 35)

The bill codifies a similar provision contained in the 2013-2014 Implementing Bill for the General Appropriations Act.[101] This provision requires, if there is no contract between the DJJ and the hospital or provider providing health care services (services) at a hospital, payments to a provider may not exceed 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate for any services provided. The DJJ may continue to make payments for services to a provider at the current contracted rates through the current term of an executed contract.[102] However, once that contract expires, payments may not exceed 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate.

If a contract is executed on or after July 1, 2014, payments to providers for services may not exceed 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate, unless the services are performed at a hospital that reports a negative operating margin for the previous fiscal year to the AHCA through hospital-audited financial data. In that instance, the DJJ may pay up to 125 percent of the Medicare allowable rate.

Repeal of Provisions

The bill removes obsolete provisions, including definitions in ch. 985, F.S., relating to dependency proceedings. Dependency proceedings are within the jurisdiction of the DCF and are addressed in ch. 39, F.S.

[101] Similar provisions have been included annually in the Implementing Bill since the 2010-2011 fiscal year. See, Ch. 2010-153, s. 11, Laws of Fla., Ch. 2011-47, s. 19, Laws of Fla., Ch. 2012-119, s. 16, Laws of Fla.; and Ch. 2013-41, s. 41, Laws of Fla.

[102] The bill allows for contracts to be renewed during the 2013-2014 fiscal year.

The bill repeals s. 945.75, F.S., relating to state correctional facility tours by juvenile offenders which violate federal law. This repeal will prevent the federal funding allocated to state juvenile justice programs from being compromised.

Effective Date

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014. However, the criminal offense of "willful and intentional neglect of a juvenile" that is created in s. 985.702, F.S., has an effective date of October 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under PCS/CS/SB 700, families currently financially unable to access various services may have increased access to services, such as tutoring and counseling, as a result of the establishment of evening reporting centers.

Children currently subject to placement in secure detention for technical violations of probation may not be required to go into secure detention because the bill creates an alternative consequence option to handle noncompliance with the technical conditions of probation. This could assist these children with maintaining employment they currently have.

C. Government Sector Impact:

Department of Juvenile Justice

The bill caps the maximum bed number for all residential facilities at 90 beds, instead of the maximum bed number of 165 in current law. The DJJ currently has two residential facilities over the 90 bed limit, Riverside Academy which has 165 beds and Avon Park

Youth Academy which has 144 beds.[103] The DJJ reports the procurement process is already underway to place the excess beds at other facilities.[104]

The bill amends s. 985.25, F.S., to require any child taken into custody on three or more separate occasions within a 60-day period to be placed in secure detention care until the detention hearing. The DJJ reports that 1,500 youth met this criteria in the last fiscal year, at a cost (clothing and food) per youth of $5.16 per day. This change is estimated to cost an additional $7,740 a year and could vary depending on how many nights each youth stays at a detention center. The DJJ indicates they can absorb this increased cost within existing resources.[105]

The bill allows the DJJ to pay expenses in support of innovative programs and activities that address identified needs and the well-being of children in the DJJ's care or under its supervision. However, the bill specifies that these programs and activities must be accomplished within existing resources and the DJJ indicates that it can do so.[106]

The bill allows the DJJ to permit direct support organizations to use the DJJ personnel services, which may have a fiscal impact on the DJJ. However, the DJJ indicates any new expenses will be absorbed within existing resources.[107]

The bill adds new detention criteria which may result in some children being held in secure detention who would not otherwise have been detained, or being detained for longer periods of time. This will have an indeterminate impact on local government expenditures.

The DJJ may realize a positive fiscal impact from reduced recidivism rates as a result of the technical violation diversion program and increased supervision.

Office of State Courts Administrator (OSCA)

The OSCA indicates the following provisions of the bill will affect court operations:

- Requiring the courts to hold a hearing and ensure due process for juvenile offenders in direct contempt;
- Requiring the courts to provide a release date for offenders currently in detention; and
- Authorizing the courts to place children in alternative consequence programs for technical violations of probation.

Although the OSCA cannot accurately determine fiscal impact due to the unavailability of data needed to quantify the increase in judicial workload, the OSCA indicates they expect to be able to absorb additional workload with existing resources.[108]

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

Recommended CS/CS by Appropriations Subcommittee on Criminal and Civil Justice on March 19, 2014:
The committee substitute:

- Adds evaluation of cognitive impairment to the types of evaluations that may be performed as part of the comprehensive evaluation during the intake process.
- Provides that several types of newly authorized initiatives must be done within the DJJ's existing resources.
- Removes the Office of Economic and Demographic Research and the Office of Program Policy and Government Accountability from the team that develops a standard methodology for the Comprehensive Accountability Report.
- Removes language authorizing the DJJ to execute contracts with hospitals for rates other than rates based on the Medicare reimbursement cap.
- Provides that the effective date of the new criminal offense of "willful and malicious neglect of a juvenile" is October 1, 2014, rather than the effective date of the bill.
- Amends the definition of "child" in s. 985.03, F.S., to apply to both married and unmarried persons under the age of 18. Currently, a married person who is under the age of 18 is not considered to be a "child" unless he or she is charged with a violation of law.
- Includes a number of technical changes, including replacing the term "home detention" with "non-secure detention" in statutes that were not amended in CS/SB 700.

CS by Judiciary on March 4, 2014:
The committee substitute:

- Makes three technical corrections which do not change the substance of the bill.

Provides legislative intent that the purpose of the juvenile justice system is to increase public safety and to place low and moderate-risk children in nonresidential programs.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Section 985.01, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.01 Purposes and intent.—

(1) The purposes of this chapter are:

(a) To increase public safety by reducing juvenile delinquency through effective prevention, intervention, and treatment services that strengthen and reform the lives of children.

(b) ~~(a)~~ To provide judicial and other procedures to assure due process through which children, victims, and other interested parties are assured fair hearings by a respectful and respected court or other tribunal and the recognition, protection, and enforcement of their constitutional and other legal rights, while ensuring that public safety interests and the authority and dignity of the courts are adequately protected.

(c) ~~(b)~~ To provide ~~for the care, safety, and protection of children in~~ an environment that fosters healthy social, emotional, intellectual, educational, and physical development; to ensure secure and safe custody; and to promote the health and well-being of all children under the state's care.

(d) ~~(c)~~ To ensure the protection of society, by providing for a comprehensive standardized assessment of the child's needs so that the most appropriate control, discipline, punishment, and treatment can be administered consistent with the seriousness of the act committed, the community's long-term need for public safety, the prior record of the child, and the specific rehabilitation needs of the child, while also providing, whenever possible, restitution to the victim of the offense.

(e) ~~(d)~~ To preserve and strengthen the child's family ties whenever possible, by providing for removal of the child from the physical custody of a parent ~~parental custody~~ only when his or her welfare or the safety and protection of the public cannot be adequately safeguarded without such removal; and, when the child is removed from his or her own family, to secure custody, care, and discipline for the child as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given by the parents~~;~~ ~~and to assure, in all cases in which a child must be permanently removed from parental custody, that the child be placed in an approved family home, adoptive home, independent living program, or other placement that provides the most stable and permanent living arrangement for the child, as determined by the court~~.

(f) ~~(e)~~ 1. To assure that the adjudication and disposition of a child alleged or found to have committed a violation of Florida law be exercised with appropriate discretion and in keeping with the seriousness of the offense and the need for treatment services, and that all findings made under this chapter be based upon facts presented at a hearing that meets the constitutional standards of fundamental fairness and due process.

2. To assure that the sentencing and placement of a child tried as an adult be appropriate and in keeping with the seriousness of the offense and the child's need for rehabilitative services, and that the proceedings and procedures applicable to such sentencing and placement be applied within the full framework of constitutional standards of fundamental fairness and due process.

(g) ~~(f)~~ To provide children committed to the department with training in life skills, including career and technical education, when appropriate.

(h) To care for children in the least restrictive and most appropriate service environments, ensuring that children assessed as low and moderate risk to reoffend are not committed to residential programs.

(i) To allocate resources for the most effective programs, services, and treatments to ensure that children, their families, and their community support systems are connected with these programs at the points along the juvenile justice continuum where they will have the most impact.

(2) It is the intent of the Legislature that this chapter be liberally interpreted and construed in conformity with its declared purposes.

Section 2. Paragraphs (g) and (h) of subsection (1), subsections (2) and (3), paragraph (b) of subsection (4), and subsections (5) and (7) of section 985.02, Florida Statutes, are amended, and subsections (8) and (9) are added to that section, to read:

985.02 Legislative intent for the juvenile justice system.—

(1) GENERAL PROTECTIONS FOR CHILDREN.—It is a purpose of the Legislature that the children of this state be provided with the following protections:

582052

576-02819-14

(g) Access to prevention programs and ~~preventive~~ services.

~~(h) An independent, trained advocate when intervention is necessary, and a skilled guardian or caretaker in a safe environment when alternative placement is necessary.~~

(2) SUBSTANCE ABUSE SERVICES.—The Legislature finds that children in the care of the state's ~~dependency and~~ delinquency system ~~systems~~ need appropriate health care services, that the impact of substance abuse on health indicates the need for health care services to include substance abuse services where appropriate, and that it is in the state's best interest that such children be provided the services they need to enable them to become and remain independent of state care. In order to provide these services, the state's ~~dependency and~~ delinquency system ~~systems~~ must have the ability to identify and provide appropriate intervention and treatment for children with personal or family-related substance abuse problems. It is therefore the purpose of the Legislature to provide authority for the state to contract with community substance abuse treatment providers for the development and operation of specialized support and overlay services for the ~~dependency and~~ delinquency system ~~systems~~, which will be fully implemented and utilized as resources permit.

(3) JUVENILE JUSTICE AND DELINQUENCY PREVENTION.—It is the policy of the state with respect to juvenile justice and delinquency prevention to first protect the public from acts of delinquency. In addition, it is the policy of the state to:

(a) Develop and implement effective methods of preventing and reducing acts of delinquency, with a focus on maintaining and strengthening the family as a whole so that children may remain in their homes or communities.

(b) Develop and implement effective programs to prevent delinquency, to divert children from the traditional juvenile justice system, to intervene at an early stage of delinquency, and to provide critically needed alternatives to institutionalization and deep-end commitment.

(c) Provide well-trained personnel, high-quality services, and cost-effective programs within the juvenile justice system.

(d) Increase the capacity of local governments and public and private agencies to conduct rehabilitative treatment programs and to provide research, evaluation, and training services in the field of juvenile delinquency prevention.

~~The Legislature intends that detention care, in addition to providing secure and safe custody, will promote the health and well-being of the children committed thereto and provide an environment that fosters their social, emotional, intellectual, and physical development.~~

(4) DETENTION.—

(b) The Legislature intends that a juvenile found to have committed a delinquent act understands the consequences and the serious nature of such behavior. Therefore, the Legislature finds that secure detention is appropriate to provide punishment for children who pose a threat to public safety ~~that discourages further delinquent behavior~~. The Legislature also finds that certain juveniles have committed a sufficient number of criminal acts, including acts involving violence to persons, to represent sufficient danger to the community to warrant sentencing and placement within the adult system. It is the intent of the Legislature to establish clear criteria in order to identify these juveniles and remove them from the juvenile justice system.

(5) SITING OF FACILITIES.—

(a) The Legislature finds that timely siting and development of needed residential facilities for juvenile offenders is critical to the public safety of the citizens of this state and to the effective rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

(b) It is the purpose of the Legislature to guarantee that such facilities are sited and developed within reasonable timeframes after they are legislatively authorized and appropriated.

(c) The Legislature further finds that such facilities must be located in areas of the state close to the home communities of the children they house in order to ensure the most effective rehabilitation efforts, ~~and the most intensive~~ postrelease supervision, and case management. The placement of facilities close to the home communities of the children they house is also intended to facilitate family involvement in the treatment process. Residential facilities shall have no more than 90 ~~165~~ beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one ~~level of restrictiveness, provide multilevel education and~~ treatment program ~~programs~~ using different treatment protocols~~,~~ and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property.

(d) It is the intent of the Legislature that all other departments and agencies of the state shall cooperate fully with the Department of Juvenile Justice to accomplish the siting of facilities for juvenile offenders.

The supervision, counseling, and rehabilitative treatment~~, and punitive~~ efforts of the juvenile justice system should avoid the inappropriate use of correctional programs and large institutions. ~~The Legislature finds that detention services should exceed the primary goal of providing safe and secure custody pending adjudication and disposition.~~

(7) GENDER-SPECIFIC PROGRAMMING.—

(a) The Legislature finds that the ~~prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation~~ needs of children ~~youth~~ served by the juvenile justice system are gender-specific. A gender-specific approach is one in which programs, services, and treatments comprehensively address the unique developmental needs of a targeted gender group under the care of the department. Young women and men have different pathways to delinquency, display different patterns of offending, and respond differently to interventions, treatment, and services.

(b) ~~Gender-specific programming refers to unique program models and services that comprehensively address the needs of a targeted gender group. Gender-specific services require the adherence to the principle of equity to ensure that the different interests of young women and men are recognized and varying needs are met, with equality as the desired outcome.~~ Gender-specific interventions focus ~~programming focuses~~ on the differences between young females' and young males' social roles and responsibilities, ~~positions in society,~~ access to and use of resources, history of trauma, and reasons for interaction with the juvenile justice system ~~and social codes governing behavior~~.

Gender-specific programs increase the effectiveness of programs by making interventions more appropriate to the specific needs of young women and men and ensuring that these programs do not unknowingly create, maintain, or reinforce gender roles or relations that may be damaging.

(8) TRAUMA-INFORMED CARE.—The Legislature finds that the department should use trauma-informed care as an approach to treating children with histories of trauma. Trauma-informed care assists service providers in recognizing the symptoms of trauma and acknowledges the role trauma has played in the child's life. Services for children should be based on an understanding of the vulnerabilities and triggers of trauma survivors that traditional service delivery approaches may exacerbate, so that these services and programs can be more supportive and avoid retraumatization. The department should use trauma-specific interventions that are designed to address the consequences of trauma in the child and to facilitate healing.

(9) FAMILY AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT.—The Legislature finds that families and community support systems are critical to the success of children and to ensure they are nondelinquent. Therefore, when appropriate, children who can safely be held accountable when served and treated in their homes and communities should be diverted from more restrictive placements within the juvenile justice system. There should be an emphasis on strengthening the family and immersing the family members in their community support system. The department should develop customized plans that acknowledge the importance of family and community support systems. The customized plans should recognize a child's individual needs, capitalize on their strengths, reduce their risks, and prepare them for a successful transition to, and unification with, their family and community support system. The child's family must be considered in the department's process of assessing the needs, services and treatment, and community connections of the children who are involved in the juvenile justice system or in danger of becoming involved in the system.

~~(b) Escalating activities to determine the cause, and to attempt the remediation, of the child's truant behavior under ss. 1003.26 and 1003.27 have been completed.~~

~~If a child who is subject to compulsory school attendance is responsive to the interventions described in ss. 1003.26 and 1003.27 and has completed the necessary requirements to pass the current grade as indicated in the district pupil progression plan, the child shall not be determined to be habitually truant and shall be passed. If a child within the compulsory school attendance age has 15 unexcused absences within 90 calendar days or fails to enroll in school, the state attorney may file a child-in-need-of-services petition. Before filing a petition, the child must be referred to the appropriate agency for evaluation. After consulting with the evaluating agency, the state attorney may elect to file a child-in-need-of-services petition.~~

~~(c) A school representative, designated according to school board policy, and a juvenile probation officer of the department have jointly investigated the truancy problem or, if that was not feasible, have performed separate investigations to identify conditions that could be contributing to the truant behavior; and if, after a joint staffing of the case to determine the necessity for services, such services were determined to be needed, the persons who performed the investigations met jointly~~

(b) The referral of the child to another public or private agency when appropriate.

(c) The recommendation by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ of judicial handling when appropriate and warranted.

(29) ~~(32)~~ "Licensed child-caring agency" means a person, society, association, or agency licensed by the Department of Children and Families ~~Family Services~~ to care for, receive, and board children.

(31) ~~(34)~~ "Likely to injure oneself" means that, as evidenced by violent or other actively self-destructive behavior, it is more likely than not that within a 24-hour period the child will attempt to commit suicide or inflict serious bodily harm on himself or herself.

(32) ~~(35)~~ "Likely to injure others" means that it is more likely than not that within a 24-hour period the child will inflict serious and unjustified bodily harm on another person.

(33) ~~(36)~~ "Mediation" means a process whereby a neutral third person called a mediator acts to encourage and facilitate the resolution of a dispute between two or more parties. It is an informal and nonadversarial process with the objective of helping the disputing parties reach a mutually acceptable and voluntary agreement. fostering joint problem solving, and exploring settlement alternatives.

(34) ~~(37)~~ "Mother-infant program" means a residential program designed to serve the needs of juvenile mothers or expectant juvenile mothers who are committed as delinquents, which is operated or contracted by the department. A mother-infant program facility must be licensed as a child care facility under s. 402.308 and must provide the services and support necessary to enable each juvenile mother committed to the facility to provide for the needs of her infants who, upon agreement of the mother, may accompany her in the program.

(35) ~~(38)~~ "Necessary medical treatment" means care which is necessary within a reasonable degree of medical certainty to prevent the deterioration of a child's condition or to alleviate immediate pain of a child.

(36) ~~(39)~~ "Next of kin" means an adult relative of a child who is the child's brother, sister, grandparent, aunt, uncle, or first cousin.

(37) ~~(40)~~ "Ordinary medical care" means medical procedures that are administered or performed on a routine basis and include, but are not limited to, inoculations, physical examinations, remedial treatment for minor illnesses and injuries, preventive services, medication management, chronic disease detection and treatment, and other medical procedures that are administered or performed on a routine basis and do not involve hospitalization, surgery, the use of general anesthesia, or the provision of psychotropic medications.

(38) ~~(41)~~ "Parent" means a woman who gives birth to a child and a man whose consent to the adoption of the child would be required under s. 63.062(1). If a child has been legally adopted, the term "parent" means the adoptive mother or father of the child. The term does not include an individual whose parental relationship to the child has been legally terminated, or an alleged or prospective parent, unless the parental status falls within the terms of either s. 39.503(1) or s. 63.062(1).

(39) ~~(42)~~ "Preliminary screening" means the gathering of preliminary information to be used in determining a child's need for further evaluation or assessment or for referral for other substance abuse services through means such as psychosocial interviews; urine and breathalyzer screenings; and reviews of available educational, delinquency, and dependency records of the child.

~~(43) "Preventive services" means social services and other supportive and rehabilitative services provided to the parent of the child, the legal guardian of the child, or the custodian of the child and to the child for the purpose of averting the removal of the child from the home or disruption of a family which will or could result in the placement of a child in foster care. Social services and other supportive and rehabilitative services shall promote the child's need for a safe, continuous, stable living environment and shall promote family autonomy and shall strengthen family life as the first priority whenever possible.~~

(40) "Prevention" means programs, strategies, initiatives, and networks designed to keep children from making initial or further contact with the juvenile justice system.

(41) ~~(44)~~ "Probation" means the legal status of probation created by law and court order in cases involving a child who has been found to have committed a delinquent act. Probation is an individualized program in which the freedom of the child is limited and the child is restricted to noninstitutional quarters or restricted to the child's home in lieu of commitment to the custody of the department. Youth on probation may be assessed and classified for placement in day-treatment probation programs designed for youth who represent a minimum risk to themselves and public safety and do not require placement and services in a residential setting.

(42) ~~(45)~~ "Relative" means a grandparent, great-grandparent, sibling, first cousin, aunt, uncle, great-aunt, great-uncle, niece, or nephew, whether related by the whole or half blood, by affinity, or by adoption. The term does not include a stepparent.

(44) ~~(46)~~ "Restrictiveness level" means the level of programming and security provided by programs that service the supervision, custody, care, and treatment needs of committed children. Sections 985.601(10) and 985.721 apply to children placed in programs at any residential commitment level. The restrictiveness levels of commitment are as follows:

(a) Minimum-risk nonresidential.—Programs or program models at this commitment level work with youth who remain in the community and participate at least 5 days per week in a day treatment program. Youth assessed and classified for programs at this commitment level represent a minimum risk to themselves and public safety and do not require placement and services in residential settings. Youth in this level have full access to, and reside in, the community. Youth who have been found to have committed delinquent acts that involve firearms, that are sexual offenses, or that would be life felonies or first degree felonies if committed by an adult may not be committed to a program at this level.

~~(b) Low-risk residential.—Programs or program models at this commitment level are residential but may allow youth to have unsupervised access to the community. Residential facilities shall have no more than 165 beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one level of restrictiveness, provide multilevel education and treatment programs using different treatment protocols, and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property. Youth assessed and classified for placement in programs at this commitment level represent a low risk to themselves and public safety but do require placement and services in residential settings. Children who have been found to have committed delinquent acts that involve firearms, delinquent acts that are sexual offenses, or delinquent acts that would be life felonies or first degree felonies if committed by an adult shall not be committed to a program at this level.~~

(b) ~~(c)~~ Nonsecure ~~Moderate-risk~~ residential.—Programs or program models at this commitment level are residential but may allow youth to have supervised access to the community. Facilities at this commitment level are either environmentally secure, staff secure, or are hardware-secure with walls, fencing, or locking doors. Residential facilities at this commitment level shall have no more than 90 ~~165~~ beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one ~~level of restrictiveness, provide~~

~~multilevel education and~~ treatment program ~~programs~~ using different treatment protocols, and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property. Facilities at this commitment level shall provide 24-hour awake supervision, custody, care, and treatment of residents. Youth assessed and classified for placement in programs at this commitment level represent a low or moderate risk to public safety and require close supervision. The staff at a facility at this commitment level may seclude a child who is a physical threat to himself or herself or others. Mechanical restraint may also be used when necessary.

(c) ~~(d)~~ High-risk residential.—Programs or program models at this commitment level are residential and do not allow youth to have access to the community, except that temporary release providing community access for up to 72 continuous hours may be approved by a court for a youth who has made successful progress in his or her program in order for the youth to attend a family emergency or, during the final 60 days of his or her placement, to visit his or her home, enroll in school or a career and technical education ~~vocational~~ program, complete a job interview, or participate in a community service project. High-risk residential facilities are hardware-secure with perimeter fencing and locking doors. Residential facilities at this commitment level shall have no more than 90 ~~165~~ beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one ~~level of restrictiveness, provide multilevel education and~~ treatment program ~~programs~~ using different treatment protocols, and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property.

Facilities at this commitment level shall provide 24-hour awake supervision, custody, care, and treatment of residents. Youth assessed and classified for this level of placement require close supervision in a structured residential setting. Placement in programs at this level is prompted by a concern for public safety that outweighs placement in programs at lower commitment levels. The staff at a facility at this commitment level may seclude a child who is a physical threat to himself or herself or others. Mechanical restraint may also be used when necessary. The facility may provide for single cell occupancy, except that youth may be housed together during prerelease transition.

(d) ~~(c)~~ Maximum-risk residential.—Programs or program models at this commitment level include juvenile correctional facilities and juvenile prisons. The programs at this commitment level are long-term residential and do not allow youth to have access to the community. Facilities at this commitment level are maximum-custody, hardware-secure with perimeter security fencing and locking doors. Residential facilities at this commitment level shall have no more than 90 ~~165~~ beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one ~~level of restrictiveness, provide multilevel education and~~ treatment program ~~programs~~ using different treatment protocols, and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property. Facilities at this commitment level shall provide 24-hour awake supervision, custody, care, and treatment of residents. The staff at a facility at this commitment level may seclude a child who is a physical threat to himself or herself or others. Mechanical restraint may also be used when necessary. Facilities at this commitment level ~~The facility~~ shall provide for single cell occupancy, except that youth may be housed together during prerelease transition. Youth assessed and classified for this level of placement require close supervision in a maximum security residential setting. Placement in a program at this level is prompted by a demonstrated need to protect the public.

(43) ~~(47)~~ "Respite" means a placement that is available for the care, custody, and placement of a youth charged with domestic violence as an alternative to secure detention or for placement of a youth when a shelter bed for a child in need of services or a family in need of services is unavailable.

(45) ~~(48)~~ "Secure detention center or facility" means a physically restricting facility for the temporary care of children~~,~~ pending adjudication, disposition, or placement.

(46) ~~(49)~~ "Shelter" means a place for the temporary care of a child who is alleged to be or who has been found to be delinquent.

Section 4. Subsections (4) and (5) of section 985.0301, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.0301 Jurisdiction.—

(4)(a) Petitions alleging delinquency shall be filed in the county where the delinquent act or violation of law occurred. The ~~, but the~~ circuit court for that county may transfer the case to the circuit court of the circuit in which the child resides or will reside at the time of detention or placement for dispositional purposes. A child who has been detained may ~~shall~~ be transferred to the ~~appropriate~~ detention center or facility in the circuit in which the child resides or will reside at the time of detention ~~or other placement directed by the receiving court~~.

(b) The jurisdiction to be exercised by the court when a child is taken into custody before the filing of a petition under subsection (2) shall be exercised by the circuit court for the county in which the child is taken into custody, which court shall have personal jurisdiction of the child and the child's parent or legal guardian. Upon the filing of a petition in the appropriate circuit court, the court that is exercising initial jurisdiction of the person of the child shall, if the child has been detained, immediately order the child to be transferred to the detention center or facility or other placement as ordered by the court having subject matter jurisdiction of the case.

(5)(a) Notwithstanding s. ~~ss.~~ 743.07~~, 985.43, 985.433, 985.435, 985.439, and 985.441~~, and except as provided in paragraph (b) ~~ss. 985.461 and 985.465 and paragraph (f)~~, when the jurisdiction of any child who is alleged to have committed a delinquent act or violation of law is obtained, the court shall retain jurisdiction to dispose a case, unless relinquished by its order, until the child reaches 19 years of age, with the same power over the child which the court had before the child became an adult. ~~For the purposes of s. 985.461, the court may retain jurisdiction for an additional 365 days following the child's 19th birthday if the child is participating in transition-to-adulthood services. The additional services do not extend involuntary court-sanctioned residential commitment and therefore require voluntary participation by the affected youth.~~

(b) The court shall retain jurisdiction, ~~Notwithstanding ss. 743.07 and 985.455(3), the term of any order placing a child in a probation program must be until the child's 19th birthday~~ unless relinquished by its own order:

1. Over a child on probation until the child reaches 19 years of age ~~he or she is released by the court on the motion of an interested party or on his or her own motion~~.

2. Over a child committed to the department until the child reaches 21 years of age, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete the commitment program, including conditional release supervision.

(c) The court shall retain jurisdiction over a juvenile sexual offender, as defined in s. 985.475, who has been placed on community-based treatment alternative with supervision or who has been placed in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders, pursuant to s. 985.48, until the juvenile sexual offender reaches 21 years of age, specifically for the purpose of allowing the juvenile to complete the program.

~~(c) Notwithstanding ss. 743.07 and 985.455(3), the term of the commitment must be until the child is discharged by the~~

~~department or until he or she reaches the age of 21 years. Notwithstanding ss. 743.07, 985.435, 985.437, 985.439, 985.441, 985.455, and 985.513, and except as provided in this section, a child may not be held under a commitment from a court under s. 985.439, s. 985.441(1)(a) or (b), or s. 985.455 after becoming 21 years of age.~~

~~(d) The court may retain jurisdiction over a child committed to the department for placement in a juvenile prison or in a high-risk or maximum-risk residential commitment program to allow the child to participate in a juvenile conditional release program pursuant to s. 985.46. The jurisdiction of the court may not be retained after the child's 22nd birthday. However, if the child is not successful in the conditional release program, the department may use the transfer procedure under s. 985.441(4).~~

~~(e) The court may retain jurisdiction over a child committed to the department for placement in an intensive residential treatment program for 10-year-old to 13-year-old offenders, in the residential commitment program in a juvenile prison or in a residential sex offender program until the child reaches the age of 21. If the court exercises this jurisdiction retention, it shall do so solely for the purpose of the child completing the intensive residential treatment program for 10-year-old to 13-year-old offenders, in the residential commitment program in a juvenile prison, or in a residential sex offender program. Such jurisdiction retention does not apply for other programs, other purposes, or new offenses.~~

~~(f) The court may retain jurisdiction over a child committed to a juvenile correctional facility or a juvenile~~

~~prison until the child reaches the age of 21 years, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete such program.~~

~~(g) The court may retain jurisdiction over a juvenile sexual offender who has been placed in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders until the juvenile sexual offender reaches the age of 21, specifically for the purpose of completing the program.~~

(d) ~~(h)~~ The court may retain jurisdiction over a child and the child's parent or legal guardian whom the court has ordered to pay restitution until the restitution order is satisfied. To retain jurisdiction, the court shall enter a restitution order, which is separate from any disposition or order of commitment, on or prior to the date that the court's jurisdiction would cease under this section. The contents of the restitution order shall be limited to the child's name and address, the name and address of the parent or legal guardian, the name and address of the payee, the case number, the date and amount of restitution ordered, any amount of restitution paid, the amount of restitution due and owing, and a notation that costs, interest, penalties, and attorney fees may also be due and owing. The terms of the restitution order are subject to s. 775.089(5).

(e) ~~(i)~~ This subsection does not prevent the exercise of jurisdiction by any court having jurisdiction of the child if the child, after becoming an adult, commits a violation of law.

Section 5. Subsections (2) and (4) of section 985.037, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.037 Punishment for contempt of court; alternative sanctions.—

(2) PLACEMENT IN A SECURE DETENTION FACILITY.—A child may be placed in a secure detention facility for purposes of punishment for contempt of court if alternative sanctions are unavailable or inappropriate, or if the child has already been ordered to serve an alternative sanction but failed to comply with the sanction. A delinquent child who has been held in direct or indirect contempt may be placed in a secure detention facility not to exceed 5 days for a first offense and not to exceed 15 days for a second or subsequent offense.

(4) CONTEMPT OF COURT SANCTIONS; PROCEDURE AND DUE PROCESS.—

(a) If a child is charged with direct contempt of court, including traffic court, the court may impose an authorized sanction immediately. The court must hold a hearing to determine if the child committed direct contempt. Due process must be afforded to the child during this hearing.

(b) If a child is charged with indirect contempt of court, the court must hold a hearing within 24 hours to determine whether the child committed indirect contempt of a valid court order. At the hearing, the following due process rights must be provided to the child:

1. Right to a copy of the order to show cause alleging facts supporting the contempt charge.

2. Right to an explanation of the nature and the consequences of the proceedings.

3. Right to legal counsel and the right to have legal counsel appointed by the court if the juvenile is indigent, under s. 985.033.

4. Right to confront witnesses.

5. Right to present witnesses.

6. Right to have a transcript or record of the proceeding.

7. Right to appeal to an appropriate court.

The child's parent or guardian may address the court regarding the due process rights of the child. Upon motion by the defense attorney or state attorney, the court shall review the placement of the child ~~every 72 hours~~ to determine whether it is appropriate for the child to remain in the facility.

(c) The court may not order that a child be placed in a secure detention facility for punishment for contempt unless the court determines that an alternative sanction is inappropriate or unavailable or that the child was initially ordered to an alternative sanction and did not comply with the alternative sanction. The court is encouraged to order a child to perform community service, up to the maximum number of hours, where appropriate before ordering that the child be placed in a secure detention facility as punishment for contempt of court.

(d) In addition to any other sanction imposed under this section, the court may direct the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles to withhold issuance of, or suspend, a child's driver ~~driver's~~ license or driving privilege. The court may order that a child's driver ~~driver's~~ license or driving privilege be withheld or suspended for up to 1 year for a first offense of contempt and up to 2 years for a second or subsequent offense. If the child's driver ~~driver's~~ license or driving privilege is suspended or revoked for any reason at the time the sanction for contempt is imposed, the court shall extend the period of suspension or revocation by the additional period ordered under this paragraph. If the child's driver ~~driver's~~ license is being withheld at the time the sanction for contempt is imposed, the period of suspension or revocation ordered under this paragraph shall begin on the date on which the child is otherwise eligible to drive.

Section 6. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section 985.039, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.039 Cost of supervision; cost of care.—

(1) Except as provided in subsection (3) or subsection (4):

(a) When any child is placed into nonsecure ~~home~~ detention, probation, or other supervision status with the department, or is committed to the minimum-risk nonresidential restrictiveness level, the court shall order the parent of such child to pay to the department a fee for the cost of the supervision of such child in the amount of $1 per day for each day that the child is in such status.

Section 7. Subsection (5) of section 985.045, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.045 Court records.—

(5) This chapter does not prohibit a circuit court from providing a restitution order containing the information prescribed in s. 985.0301(5)(d) ~~985.0301(5)(h)~~ to a collection court or a private collection agency for the sole purpose of collecting unpaid restitution ordered in a case in which the circuit court has retained jurisdiction over the child and the child's parent or legal guardian. The collection court or private collection agency shall maintain the confidential status of the information to the extent such confidentiality is provided by law.

Section 8. Paragraph (d) of subsection (1) and subsection

(3) of section 985.101, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.101 Taking a child into custody.—

(1) A child may be taken into custody under the following circumstances:

(d) By a law enforcement officer who has probable cause to believe that the child is in violation of the conditions of the child's probation, nonsecure ~~home~~ detention, postcommitment probation, or conditional release supervision; has absconded from nonresidential commitment; or has escaped from residential commitment.

Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to allow the detention of a child who does not meet the detention criteria in part V.

(3) When a child is taken into custody as provided in this section, the person taking the child into custody shall attempt to notify the parent, guardian, or legal custodian of the child. The person taking the child into custody shall continue such attempt until the parent, guardian, or legal custodian of the child is notified or the child is delivered to the department ~~a juvenile probation officer~~ under ss. 985.14 and 985.145, whichever occurs first. If the child is delivered to the department ~~a juvenile probation officer~~ before the parent, guardian, or legal custodian is notified, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall continue the attempt to notify until the parent, guardian, or legal custodian of the child is notified. Following notification, the parent or guardian must provide identifying information, including name, address, date of birth, social security number, and driver ~~driver's~~ license number or identification card number of the parent or guardian to the person taking the child into custody or the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~.

Section 9. Section 985.105, Florida Statutes, is repealed.

Section 10. Paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of section 985.11, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

(b) Unless the child is issued a civil citation or is participating in a similar diversion program pursuant to s. 985.12, a child who is charged with or found to have committed one of the following offenses shall be fingerprinted, and the fingerprints shall be submitted to the Department of Law Enforcement as provided in s. 943.051(3)(b):

A law enforcement agency may fingerprint and photograph a child taken into custody upon probable cause that such child has committed any other violation of law, as the agency deems appropriate. Such fingerprint records and photographs shall be retained by the law enforcement agency in a separate file, and these records and all copies thereof must be marked "Juvenile Confidential." These records are not available for public disclosure and inspection under s. 119.07(1) except as provided in ss. 943.053 and 985.04(2), but shall be available to other law enforcement agencies, criminal justice agencies, state attorneys, the courts, the child, the parents or legal custodians of the child, their attorneys, and any other person authorized by the court to have access to such records. In addition, such records may be submitted to the Department of Law Enforcement for inclusion in the state criminal history records and used by criminal justice agencies for criminal justice purposes. Section 11. Subsection (2) of section 985.14, Florida

Statutes, is amended to read:

985.14 Intake and case management system.—

(2) The intake process shall be performed by the department or juvenile assessment center personnel through a case management system. The purpose of the intake process is to assess the child's needs and risks and to determine the most appropriate treatment plan and setting for the child's programmatic needs and risks. The intake process shall consist of a preliminary screening and may be followed by a comprehensive assessment. The comprehensive assessment may consist of a full mental health, cognitive impairment, substance abuse, or psychosexual evaluation. The intake process shall result in choosing the most appropriate services through a balancing of the interests and needs of the child with those of the family and the community ~~public~~. The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall be responsible for making informed decisions and recommendations to other agencies, the state attorney, and the courts so that the child and family may receive the least intrusive service alternative throughout the judicial process. The department shall establish uniform procedures for the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ to provide a preliminary screening of the child and family for substance abuse and mental health services prior to the filing of a petition or as soon as possible thereafter and prior to a disposition hearing.

Section 12. Section 985.145, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.145 Responsibilities of the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ during intake; screenings and assessments.—

(1) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall serve as the primary case manager for the purpose of managing, coordinating, and monitoring the services provided to the child. Each program administrator within the Department of Children and Families ~~Family Services~~ shall cooperate with the primary case manager in carrying out the duties and responsibilities described in this section. In addition to duties specified in other sections and through departmental rules, the department ~~assigned juvenile probation officer~~ shall be responsible for the following:

(a) Reviewing probable cause affidavit.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall make a preliminary determination as to whether the report, affidavit, or complaint is complete, consulting with the state attorney as may be necessary. A report, affidavit, or complaint alleging that a child has committed a delinquent act or violation of law shall be made to the intake office operating in the county in which the child is found or in which the delinquent act or violation of law occurred. Any person or agency having knowledge of the facts may make such a written report, affidavit, or complaint and shall furnish to the intake office facts sufficient to establish the jurisdiction of the court and to support a finding by the court that the child has committed a delinquent act or violation of law.

(b) Notification concerning apparent insufficiencies in probable cause affidavit.—In any case where the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ or the state attorney finds that the report, affidavit, or complaint is insufficient by the standards for a probable cause affidavit, the department ~~juvenile~~

~~probation officer~~ or state attorney shall return the report, affidavit, or complaint, without delay, to the person or agency originating the report, affidavit, or complaint or having knowledge of the facts or to the appropriate law enforcement agency having investigative jurisdiction of the offense, and shall request, and the person or agency shall promptly furnish, additional information in order to comply with the standards for a probable cause affidavit.

(c) Screening.—During the intake process, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall screen each child or shall cause each child to be screened in order to determine:

1. Appropriateness for release; referral to a diversionary program, including, but not limited to, a teen court program; referral for community arbitration; or referral to some other program or agency for the purpose of nonofficial or nonjudicial handling.

2. The presence of medical, psychiatric, psychological, substance abuse, educational, or career and technical education ~~vocational~~ problems, or other conditions that may have caused the child to come to the attention of law enforcement or the department. The child shall also be screened to determine whether the child poses a danger to himself or herself or others in the community. The results of this screening shall be made available to the court and to court officers. In cases where such conditions are identified and a nonjudicial handling of the case is chosen, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall attempt to refer the child to a program or agency, together with all available and relevant assessment information concerning the child's precipitating condition.

(d) Completing risk assessment instrument.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall ensure that a risk assessment instrument establishing the child's eligibility for detention has been accurately completed and that the appropriate recommendation was made to the court.

(e) Rights.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall inquire as to whether the child understands his or her rights to counsel and against self-incrimination.

(f) Multidisciplinary assessment.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall coordinate the multidisciplinary assessment when required, which includes the classification and placement process that determines the child's priority needs, risk classification, and treatment plan. When sufficient evidence exists to warrant a comprehensive assessment and the child fails to voluntarily participate in the assessment efforts, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall inform the court of the need for the assessment and the refusal of the child to participate in such assessment. This assessment, classification, and placement process shall develop into the predisposition report.

(g) Comprehensive assessment.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~, pursuant to uniform procedures established by the department and upon determining that the report, affidavit, or complaint is complete, shall:

1. Perform the preliminary screening and make referrals for a comprehensive assessment regarding the child's need for substance abuse treatment services, mental health services, intellectual disability services, literacy services, or other educational or treatment services.

2. If indicated by the preliminary screening, provide for a comprehensive assessment of the child and family for substance abuse problems, using community-based licensed programs with clinical expertise and experience in the assessment of substance abuse problems.

3. If indicated by the preliminary screening, provide for a comprehensive assessment of the child and family for mental health problems, using community-based psychologists, psychiatrists, or other licensed mental health professionals who have clinical expertise and experience in the assessment of mental health problems.

(h) Referrals for services.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall make recommendations for services and facilitate the delivery of those services to the child, including any mental health services, educational services, family counseling services, family assistance services, and substance abuse services.

(i) Recommendation concerning a petition.—Upon determining that the report, affidavit, or complaint complies with the standards of a probable cause affidavit and that the interests of the child and the public will be best served, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ may recommend that a delinquency petition not be filed. If such a recommendation is made, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall advise in writing the person or agency making the report, affidavit, or complaint, the victim, if any, and the law enforcement agency having investigative jurisdiction over the offense of the recommendation; the reasons therefor; and that the person or agency may submit, within 10 days after the receipt of such notice, the report, affidavit, or complaint to the state attorney for special review. The state attorney, upon receiving a request for special review, shall consider the facts presented by the report, affidavit, or complaint, and by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ who made the recommendation that no petition be filed, before making a final decision as to whether a petition or information should or should not be filed.

(j) Completing intake report.—Subject to the interagency agreement authorized under this paragraph, the department ~~the juvenile probation officer for each case in which a child is alleged to have committed a violation of law or delinquent act and is not detained~~ shall submit a written report to the state attorney for each case in which a child is alleged to have committed a violation of law or delinquent act and is not detained. The report shall be submitted within 20 days after the date the child is taken into custody and include ~~,including~~ the original police report, complaint, or affidavit, or a copy thereof, and ~~including~~ a copy of the child's prior juvenile record~~, within 20 days after the date the child is taken into custody~~. In cases in which the child is in detention, the intake office report must be submitted within 24 hours after the child is placed into detention. The intake office report may include a recommendation that a petition or information be filed or that no petition or information be filed and may set forth reasons for the recommendation. The state attorney and the department may, on a district-by-district basis, enter into interagency agreements denoting the cases that will require a recommendation and those for which a recommendation is unnecessary.

(2) Prior to requesting that a delinquency petition be filed or prior to filing a dependency petition, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ may request the parent or legal guardian of the child to attend a course of instruction in parenting skills, training in conflict resolution, and the practice of nonviolence; to accept counseling; or to receive other assistance from any agency in the community which notifies the clerk of the court of the availability of its services. Where appropriate, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall request both parents or guardians to receive such parental assistance. The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ may, in determining whether to request that a delinquency petition be filed, take into consideration the willingness of the parent or legal guardian to comply with such request. The parent or guardian must provide the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ with identifying information, including the parent's or guardian's name, address, date of birth, social security number, and driver ~~driver's~~ license number or identification card number in order to comply with s. 985.039.

(3) When indicated by the comprehensive assessment, the department is authorized to contract within appropriated funds for services with a local nonprofit community mental health or substance abuse agency licensed or authorized under chapter 394 or chapter 397 or other authorized nonprofit social service agency providing related services. The determination of mental health or substance abuse services shall be conducted in coordination with existing programs providing mental health or substance abuse services in conjunction with the intake office.

(4) Client information resulting from the screening and evaluation shall be documented under rules of the department and shall serve to assist the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ in providing the most appropriate services and recommendations in the least intrusive manner. Such client information shall be used in the multidisciplinary assessment and classification of the child, but such information, and any information obtained directly or indirectly through the assessment process, is inadmissible in court prior to the disposition hearing, unless the child's written consent is obtained. At the disposition hearing, documented client information shall serve to assist the court in making the most appropriate custody, adjudicatory, and dispositional decision.

(5) If the screening and assessment indicate that the interests of the child and the public will be best served, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~, with the approval of the state attorney, may refer the child for care, diagnostic, and evaluation services; substance abuse treatment services; mental health services; intellectual disability services; a diversionary, arbitration, or mediation program; community service work; or other programs or treatment services voluntarily accepted by the child and the child's parents or legal guardian. If a child volunteers to participate in any work program under this chapter or volunteers to work in a specified state, county, municipal, or community service organization supervised work program or to work for the victim, the child is considered an employee of the state for the purposes of liability. In determining the child's average weekly wage, unless otherwise determined by a specific funding program, all remuneration received from the employer is considered a gratuity, and the child is not entitled to any benefits otherwise payable under s. 440.15 regardless of whether the child may be receiving wages and remuneration from other employment with another employer and regardless of the child's future wage-earning capacity.

(6) The victim, if any, and the law enforcement agency that investigated the offense shall be notified immediately by the state attorney of the action taken under subsection (5).

Section 13. Section 985.17, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

985.17 Prevention services.—

(1) The Legislature finds that prevention services decrease recidivism by addressing the needs of at-risk youth and their families, preventing further involvement of such youth in the juvenile justice system, protecting the safety of the public, and facilitating successful reentry of at-risk youth into the community. To assist with decreasing recidivism, the department's prevention services shall strengthen protective factors and reduce risk factors using tested and effective approaches.

(2) A goal of the department's prevention services shall be to develop the capacity for local communities to serve their youth.

(a) The department shall engage faith and community-based organizations to provide a full range of voluntary programs and services to prevent and reduce juvenile delinquency, including, but not limited to, chaplaincy services, crisis intervention counseling, mentoring, and tutoring.

(b) The department shall establish volunteer coordinators in each circuit and encourage the recruitment of volunteers to serve as mentors for youth in department services.

(c) The department shall promote the sale of the Invest in Children license plate to help fund programs and services to prevent juvenile delinquency. The department shall allocate money for programs and services within each county based on that county's proportionate share of the license plate annual use fees collected by the county.

(3) The department's prevention services for youth at risk of becoming delinquent should:

(a) Focus on preventing initial or further involvement of such youth in the juvenile justice system by including services such as literacy services, gender-specific programming, recreational services, and after-school services, and should include targeted services to troubled, truant, ungovernable, abused, trafficked, or runaway youth. To decrease the likelihood that a youth will commit a delinquent act, the department should use mentoring and may provide specialized services addressing the strengthening of families, job training, and substance abuse.

(b) Address the multiple needs of such youth in order to decrease the prevalence of disproportionate minority representation in the juvenile justice system.

(4) The department shall expend funds related to the prevention services in a manner consistent with the policies expressed in ss. 984.02 and 985.01 and in a manner that maximizes accountability to the public and ensures the documentation of outcomes.

(a) As a condition of receipt of state funds, all entities that receive or use state moneys to fund prevention services through contracts with the department or grants from any entity dispersed by the department shall:

1. Design the programs providing such services to further one or more of the following strategies:

a. Encouraging youth to attend and succeed in school, which may include special assistance and tutoring to address deficiencies in academic performance and collecting outcome data to reveal the number of days youth attended school while participating in the program.

b. Engaging youth in productive and wholesome activities during nonschool hours that build positive character, instill positive values, and enhance educational experiences.

c. Encouraging youth to avoid the use of violence.

d. Assisting youth in acquiring the skills needed to find meaningful employment, which may include assisting the youth in finding a suitable employer.

2. Provide the department with demographic information, dates of services, and types of interventions received by each youth.

(b) The department shall monitor output and outcome measures for each program strategy in paragraph (a) and annually report the outputs and outcomes in the Comprehensive Accountability Report as provided in s. 985.632.

(c) The department shall monitor all state-funded programs that receive or use state moneys to fund the prevention services through contracts or grants with the department for compliance with all provisions in the contracts and grants.

Section 14. Section 985.24, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.24 Use of detention; prohibitions.—

(1) All determinations and court orders regarding the use of ~~secure, nonsecure, or home~~ detention care shall be based primarily upon findings that the child:

(a) Presents a substantial risk of not appearing at a subsequent hearing;

(b) Presents a substantial risk of inflicting bodily harm on others as evidenced by recent behavior, including the illegal possession of a firearm;

(c) Presents a history of committing a property offense prior to adjudication, disposition, or placement;

(d) Has committed contempt of court by:

1. Intentionally disrupting the administration of the court;

2. Intentionally disobeying a court order; or

3. Engaging in a punishable act or speech in the court's presence which shows disrespect for the authority and dignity of the court; or

(e) Requests protection from imminent bodily harm.

(2) A child alleged to have committed a delinquent act or violation of law may not be placed into secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care for any of the following reasons:

(a) To allow a parent to avoid his or her legal responsibility.

(b) To permit more convenient administrative access to the child.

(c) To facilitate further interrogation or investigation.

(d) Due to a lack of more appropriate facilities.

(3) A child alleged to be dependent under chapter 39 may not, under any circumstances, be placed into secure detention care.

(4) The department may, within its existing resources, develop nonsecure, nonresidential evening reporting centers as an alternative to placing a child in secure detention. Evening reporting centers may be collocated with a juvenile assessment center. If established, evening reporting centers shall serve children and families who are awaiting a child's court hearing and, at a minimum, operate during the afternoon and evening hours to provide a highly structured program of supervision. Evening reporting centers may also provide academic tutoring, counseling, family engagement programs, and other activities.

(5) ~~(4)~~ The department shall continue to identify alternatives to secure detention care and shall develop such alternatives and annually submit them to the Legislature for authorization and appropriation.

Section 15. Paragraph (b) of subsection (2) and subsection (4) of section 985.245, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.245 Risk assessment instrument.—

(b) The risk assessment instrument shall take into consideration, but need not be limited to, prior history of failure to appear, prior offenses, offenses committed pending adjudication, any unlawful possession of a firearm, theft of a motor vehicle or possession of a stolen motor vehicle, and probation status at the time the child is taken into custody. The risk assessment instrument shall also take into consideration appropriate aggravating and mitigating circumstances, and shall be designed to target a narrower population of children than s. 985.255. The risk assessment instrument shall also include any information concerning the child's history of abuse and neglect. The risk assessment shall indicate whether detention care is warranted, and, if detention care is warranted, whether the child should be placed into secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care.

(4) For a child who is under the supervision of the department through probation, ~~home detention,~~ nonsecure detention, conditional release, postcommitment probation, or commitment and who is charged with committing a new offense, the risk assessment instrument may be completed and scored based on the underlying charge for which the child was placed under the supervision of the department and the new offense.

Section 16. Subsection (1) of section 985.25, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.25 Detention intake.—

(1) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall receive custody of a child who has been taken into custody from the law enforcement agency or court and shall review the facts in the law enforcement report or probable cause affidavit and make such further inquiry as may be necessary to determine whether detention care is appropriate ~~required~~.

(a) During the period of time from the taking of the child into custody to the date of the detention hearing, the initial decision as to the child's placement into secure ~~detention care,~~ or nonsecure detention care~~, or home detention care~~ shall be made by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ under ss. 985.24 and 985.245(1).

(b) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall base the decision whether ~~or not~~ to place the child into secure ~~detention care, home detention care,~~ or nonsecure detention care on an assessment of risk in accordance with the risk assessment instrument and procedures developed by the department under s. 985.245. However, a child charged with possessing or discharging a firearm on school property in violation of s. 790.115 shall be placed in secure detention care. A child who has been taken into custody on three or more separate occasions within a 60-day period shall be placed in secure detention care until the child's detention hearing.

(c) If the final score on the child's risk assessment instrument indicates ~~juvenile probation officer determines that a child who is eligible for~~ detention care is appropriate, but the department otherwise determines the child ~~based upon the results of the risk assessment instrument~~ should be released, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall contact the state attorney, who may authorize release.

(d) If the final score on the risk assessment instrument indicates detention is not appropriate ~~authorized~~, the child may be released by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ in accordance with ss. 985.115 and 985.13.

Under no circumstances shall the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ or the state attorney or law enforcement officer authorize the detention of any child in a jail or other facility intended or used for the detention of adults, without an order of the court.

Section 17. Subsections (1) and (2) and paragraphs (a) and (c) of subsection (3) of section 985.255, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.255 Detention criteria; detention hearing.—

(1) Subject to s. 985.25(1), a child taken into custody and placed into secure or nonsecure ~~or home~~ detention care shall be given a hearing within 24 hours after being taken into custody. At the hearing, the court may order continued detention ~~or detained in secure detention care prior to a detention hearing may continue to be detained by the court~~ if:

(a) The child is alleged to be an escapee from a residential commitment program; or an absconder from a nonresidential commitment program, a probation program, or conditional release supervision; or is alleged to have escaped while being lawfully transported to or from a residential commitment program.

(b) The child is wanted in another jurisdiction for an offense which, if committed by an adult, would be a felony.

(c) The child is charged with a delinquent act or violation of law and requests in writing through legal counsel to be detained for protection from an imminent physical threat to his or her personal safety.

(d) The child is charged with committing an offense of domestic violence as defined in s. 741.28 and is detained as provided in subsection (2).

(e) The child is charged with possession of or discharging a firearm on school property in violation of s. 790.115 or the illegal possession of a firearm.

(f) The child is charged with a capital felony, a life felony, a felony of the first degree, a felony of the second degree that does not involve a violation of chapter 893, or a felony of the third degree that is also a crime of violence, including any such offense involving the use or possession of a firearm.

(g) The child is charged with any second degree or third degree felony involving a violation of chapter 893 or any third degree felony that is not also a crime of violence, and the child:

1. Has a record of failure to appear at court hearings after being properly notified in accordance with the Rules of Juvenile Procedure;

2. Has a record of law violations prior to court hearings;

3. Has already been detained or has been released and is awaiting final disposition of the case;

4. Has a record of violent conduct resulting in physical injury to others; or

5. Is found to have been in possession of a firearm.

(h) The child is alleged to have violated the conditions of the child's probation or conditional release supervision. However, a child detained under this paragraph may be held only in a consequence unit as provided in s. 985.439. If a consequence unit is not available, the child shall be placed on nonsecure ~~home~~ detention with electronic monitoring.

(i) The child is detained on a judicial order for failure to appear and has previously willfully failed to appear, after proper notice:~~,~~

1. For an adjudicatory hearing on the same case regardless of the results of the risk assessment instrument; or

2. At two or more court hearings of any nature on the same case regardless of the results of the risk assessment instrument.

A child may be held in secure detention for up to 72 hours in advance of the next scheduled court hearing pursuant to this paragraph. The child's failure to keep the clerk of court and defense counsel informed of a current and valid mailing address where the child will receive notice to appear at court proceedings does not provide an adequate ground for excusal of the child's nonappearance at the hearings.

~~(j) The child is detained on a judicial order for failure to appear and has previously willfully failed to appear, after proper notice, at two or more court hearings of any nature on the same case regardless of the results of the risk assessment instrument. A child may be held in secure detention for up to 72 hours in advance of the next scheduled court hearing pursuant to this paragraph. The child's failure to keep the clerk of court and defense counsel informed of a current and valid mailing address where the child will receive notice to appear at court proceedings does not provide an adequate ground for excusal of the child's nonappearance at the hearings.~~

(2) A child who is charged with committing an offense that is classified as an act of domestic violence as defined in s. 741.28 and whose risk assessment instrument indicates secure detention is not appropriate ~~who does not meet detention criteria~~ may be held in secure detention if the court makes specific written findings that:

(a) Respite care for the child is not available; or~~.~~

(b) It is necessary to place the child in secure detention in order to protect the victim from injury.

The child may not be held in secure detention under this subsection for more than 48 hours unless ordered by the court. After 48 hours, the court shall hold a hearing if the state attorney or victim requests that secure detention be continued. The child may continue to be held in detention care if the court makes a specific, written finding that respite care is unavailable or it ~~detention care~~ is necessary to protect the victim from injury. However, the child may not be held in detention care beyond the time limits set forth in this section or s. 985.26.

(3)(a) ~~A child who meets any of the criteria in subsection (1) and who is ordered to be detained under that subsection shall be given a hearing within 24 hours after being taken into custody.~~ The purpose of the detention hearing required under subsection (1) is to determine the existence of probable cause that the child has committed the delinquent act or violation of law that he or she is charged with and the need for continued detention. Unless a child is detained under paragraph (1)(d) or paragraph (1)(e), the court shall use the results of the risk assessment performed by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ and, based on the criteria in subsection (1), shall determine the need for continued detention. ~~A child placed into secure, nonsecure, or home detention care may continue to be so detained by the court.~~

(c) Except as provided in s. 790.22(8) or in s. 985.27, when a child is placed into secure or nonsecure detention care, or into a respite home or other placement pursuant to a court order following a hearing, the court order must include specific instructions that direct the release of the child from such placement no later than 5 p.m. on the last day of the detention period specified in s. 985.26 or s. 985.27, whichever is applicable, unless the requirements of such applicable provision have been met or an order of continuance has been granted under s. 985.26(4). If the court order does not include a release date, the release date shall be requested from the court on the same date that the child is placed in detention care. If a subsequent hearing is needed to provide additional information to the court for safety planning, the initial order placing the child in detention care shall reflect the next detention review hearing, which shall be held within 3 calendar days after the child's initial detention placement.

Section 18. Subsections (1), (2), and (3) of section 985.26, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.26 Length of detention.—

(1) A child may not be placed into or held in secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care for longer than 24 hours unless the court orders such detention care, and the order includes specific instructions that direct the release of the child from such detention care, in accordance with s. 985.255. The order shall be a final order, reviewable by appeal under s. 985.534 and the Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure. Appeals of such orders shall take precedence over other appeals and other pending matters.

(2) A child may not be held in secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care under a special detention order for more than 21 days unless an adjudicatory hearing for the case has been commenced in good faith by the court. However, upon good cause being shown that the nature of the charge requires additional time for the prosecution or defense of the case, the court may extend the length of detention for an additional 9 days if the child is charged with an offense that would be, if committed by an adult, a capital felony, a life felony, a felony of the first degree, or a felony of the second degree involving violence against any individual.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (2), a child may not be held in secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care for more than 15 days following the entry of an order of adjudication.

Section 19. Section 985.265, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.265 Detention transfer and release; education; adult jails.—

(1) If a child is detained under this part, the department may transfer the child from nonsecure ~~or home~~ detention care to secure detention care only if significantly changed circumstances warrant such transfer.

(2) If a child is on release status and not detained under this part, the child may be placed into secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care only pursuant to a court hearing in which the original risk assessment instrument and the~~, rescored based on~~ newly discovered evidence or changed circumstances are introduced into evidence with a rescored risk assessment instrument ~~with the results recommending detention, is introduced into evidence~~.

(3)(a) When a juvenile sexual offender is placed in detention, detention staff shall provide appropriate monitoring and supervision to ensure the safety of other children in the facility.

(b) When a juvenile ~~sexual offender, under this subsection,~~ is released from secure detention or transferred to ~~home detention or~~ nonsecure detention, detention staff shall immediately notify the appropriate law enforcement agency~~, and~~ school personnel, and victim if the juvenile is charged with committing any of the following offenses or attempting to commit any of the following offenses:

1. Murder, under s. 782.04;

2. Sexual battery, under chapter 794;

3. Stalking, under s. 784.048; or

4. Domestic violence, as defined in s. 741.28.

(4)(a) While a child who is currently enrolled in school is in nonsecure ~~or home~~ detention care, the child shall continue to attend school unless otherwise ordered by the court.

(b) While a child is in secure detention care, the child shall receive education commensurate with his or her grade level and educational ability.

(5) The court shall order the delivery of a child to a jail or other facility intended or used for the detention of adults:

(a) When the child has been transferred or indicted for criminal prosecution as an adult under part X, except that the court may not order or allow a child alleged to have committed a misdemeanor who is being transferred for criminal prosecution pursuant to either s. 985.556 or s. 985.557 to be detained or held in a jail or other facility intended or used for the detention of adults; however, such child may be held temporarily in a detention facility; or by another jurisdiction for prosecution as an adult.

(b) When a child taken into custody in this state is wanted

The child shall be housed separately from adult inmates to prohibit a child from having regular contact with incarcerated adults, including trustees. "Regular contact" means sight and sound contact. Separation of children from adults shall permit no more than haphazard or accidental contact. The receiving jail or other facility shall contain a separate section for children and shall have an adequate staff to supervise and monitor the child's activities at all times. Supervision and monitoring of children includes physical observation and documented checks by jail or receiving facility supervisory personnel at intervals not to exceed 10 ~~15~~ minutes. This subsection does not prohibit placing two or more children in the same cell. Under no circumstances shall a child be placed in the same cell with an adult.

Section 20. Section 985.27, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.27 Postdisposition ~~Postcommitment~~ detention while awaiting commitment placement.—

(1) The court must place all children who are adjudicated and awaiting placement in a commitment program in detention care. Children who are in ~~home detention care or~~ nonsecure detention care may be placed on electronic monitoring.

~~(a) A child who is awaiting placement in a low-risk residential program must be removed from detention within 5 days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. Any child held in secure detention during the 5 days must meet detention admission criteria under this part. A child who is~~

~~placed in home detention care, nonsecure detention care, or home or nonsecure detention care with electronic monitoring, while awaiting placement in a minimum-risk or low-risk program, may be held in secure detention care for 5 days, if the child violates the conditions of the home detention care, the nonsecure detention care, or the electronic monitoring agreement. For any subsequent violation, the court may impose an additional 5 days in secure detention care.~~

(a) ~~(b)~~ A child who is awaiting placement in a nonsecure ~~moderate-risk~~ residential program must be removed from detention within 5 days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. Any child held in secure detention during the 5 days must meet detention admission criteria under this part. The department may seek an order from the court authorizing continued detention for a specific period of time necessary for the appropriate residential placement of the child. However, such continued detention in secure detention care may not exceed 15 days after entry of the commitment order, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, and except as otherwise provided in this section. A child who is placed in ~~home detention care,~~ nonsecure detention care~~,~~ or ~~home or~~ nonsecure detention care with electronic monitoring, while awaiting placement in a nonsecure residential ~~moderate-risk~~ program, may be held in secure detention care for 5 days, if the child violates the conditions of the ~~home detention care, the~~ nonsecure detention care~~,~~ or the electronic monitoring agreement. For any subsequent violation, the court may impose an additional 5 days in secure detention care.

(b) ~~(c)~~ If the child is committed to a high-risk residential program, the child must be held in secure detention care until placement or commitment is accomplished.

(c) ~~(d)~~ If the child is committed to a maximum-risk residential program, the child must be held in secure detention care until placement or commitment is accomplished.

(2) Regardless of detention status, a child being transported by the department to a residential commitment facility of the department may be placed in secure detention overnight, not to exceed a 24-hour period, for the specific purpose of ensuring the safe delivery of the child to his or her residential commitment program, court, appointment, transfer, or release.

Section 21. Subsection (1) of section 985.275, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.275 Detention of escapee or absconder on authority of the department.—

(1) If an authorized agent of the department has reasonable grounds to believe that any delinquent child committed to the department has escaped from a residential commitment facility or from being lawfully transported thereto or therefrom, or has absconded from a nonresidential commitment facility, the agent shall notify law enforcement and, if the offense would require notification under chapter 960, notify the victim. The agent shall make every reasonable effort as permitted within existing resources provided to the department to locate the delinquent child and the child may be returned to the facility ~~take the child into active custody and may deliver the child to the facility~~ or, if it is closer, to a detention center for return to the facility. However, a child may not be held in detention longer than 24 hours, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, unless a special order so directing is made by the judge after a detention hearing resulting in a finding that detention is required based on the criteria in s. 985.255. The order shall state the reasons for such finding. The reasons shall be reviewable by appeal or in habeas corpus proceedings in the district court of appeal.

Section 22. Paragraph (b) of subsection (4), paragraph (h) of subsection (6), and paragraph (a) of subsection (7) of section 985.433, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.433 Disposition hearings in delinquency cases.—When a child has been found to have committed a delinquent act, the following procedures shall be applicable to the disposition of the case:

(4) Before the court determines and announces the disposition to be imposed, it shall:

(b) Discuss with the child his or her compliance with any predisposition ~~home release~~ plan or other plan imposed since the date of the offense.

(6) The first determination to be made by the court is a determination of the suitability or nonsuitability for adjudication and commitment of the child to the department. This determination shall include consideration of the recommendations of the department, which may include a predisposition report. The predisposition report shall include, whether as part of the child's multidisciplinary assessment, classification, and placement process components or separately, evaluation of the following criteria:

(h) The child's educational status, including, but not limited to, the child's strengths, abilities, and unmet and special educational needs. The report shall identify appropriate educational and career ~~vocational~~ goals for the child. Examples of appropriate goals include:

1. Attainment of a high school diploma or its equivalent.

2. Successful completion of literacy courses ~~course(s)~~.

3. Successful completion of career and technical education courses ~~vocational course(s)~~.

4. Successful attendance and completion of the child's current grade or recovery of credits of classes the child previously failed, if enrolled in school.

5. Enrollment in an apprenticeship or a similar program.

It is the intent of the Legislature that the criteria set forth in this subsection are general guidelines to be followed at the discretion of the court and not mandatory requirements of procedure. It is not the intent of the Legislature to provide for the appeal of the disposition made under this section.

(7) If the court determines that the child should be adjudicated as having committed a delinquent act and should be committed to the department, such determination shall be in writing or on the record of the hearing. The determination shall include a specific finding of the reasons for the decision to adjudicate and to commit the child to the department, including any determination that the child was a member of a criminal gang.

(a) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall recommend to the court the most appropriate placement and treatment plan, specifically identifying the restrictiveness level most appropriate for the child if commitment is recommended. If the court has determined that the child was a member of a criminal gang, that determination shall be given great weight in identifying the most appropriate restrictiveness level for the child. The court shall consider the department's recommendation in making its commitment decision.

Section 23. Subsections (4) through (6) of section 985.435, Florida Statutes, are renumbered as subsections (5) through (7), respectively, subsection (3) and present subsection (4) of that section are amended, and a new subsection (4) is added to that section, to read:

985.435 Probation and postcommitment probation; community service.—

(3) A probation program must also include a rehabilitative program component such as a requirement of participation in substance abuse treatment or in a school or career and technical education ~~other educational~~ program. The nonconsent of the child to treatment in a substance abuse treatment program in no way precludes the court from ordering such treatment. Upon the recommendation of the department at the time of disposition, or subsequent to disposition pursuant to the filing of a petition alleging a violation of the child's conditions of postcommitment probation, the court may order the child to submit to random testing for the purpose of detecting and monitoring the use of alcohol or controlled substances.

(4) A probation program may also include an alternative consequence component to address instances in which a child is noncompliant with technical conditions of his or her probation, but has not committed any new violations of law. The alternative consequence component is designed to provide swift and appropriate consequences to any noncompliance with technical conditions of probation. If the probation program includes this component, specific consequences that apply to noncompliance with specific technical conditions of probation must be detailed in the disposition order.

(5) ~~(4)~~ An identification of the child's risk of reoffending ~~A classification scale for levels of supervision~~ shall be provided by the department, taking into account the child's needs and risks relative to probation supervision requirements to reasonably ensure the public safety. Probation programs for children shall be supervised by the department or by any other person or agency specifically authorized by the court. These programs must include, but are not limited to, structured or restricted activities as described in this section and s. 985.439, and shall be designed to encourage the child toward acceptable and functional social behavior.

Section 24. Subsections (1) and (4) of section 985.439, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.439 Violation of probation or postcommitment probation.—

(1)(a) This section is applicable when the court has jurisdiction over a child on probation or postcommitment probation, regardless of adjudication ~~an adjudicated delinquent child~~.

(b) If the conditions of the probation program or the postcommitment probation program are violated, the department or the state attorney may bring the child before the court on a petition alleging a violation of the program. A ~~Any~~ child who violates the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation must be brought before the court if sanctions are sought.

(4) Upon the child's admission, or if the court finds after a hearing that the child has violated the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation, the court shall enter an order revoking, modifying, or continuing probation or postcommitment probation. In each such case, the court shall enter a new disposition order and, in addition to the sanctions set forth in this section, may impose any sanction the court could have imposed at the original disposition hearing. If the child is found to have violated the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation, the court may:

(a) Place the child in a consequence unit in that judicial circuit, if available, for up to 5 days for a first violation and up to 15 days for a second or subsequent violation.

(b) Place the child in nonsecure ~~on home~~ detention with electronic monitoring. However, this sanction may be used only if a residential consequence unit is not available.

(c) If the violation of probation is technical in nature and not a new violation of law, place the child in an alternative consequence program designed to provide swift and appropriate consequences to any further violations of probation.

1. Alternative consequence programs shall be established, within existing resources, at the local level in coordination with law enforcement agencies, the chief judge of the circuit, the state attorney, and the public defender.

2. Alternative consequence programs may be operated by an entity such as a law enforcement agency, the department, a juvenile assessment center, a county or municipality, or another entity selected by the department.

3. Upon placing a child in an alternative consequence program, the court must approve specific consequences for specific violations of the conditions of probation.

(d) ~~(c)~~ Modify or continue the child's probation program or postcommitment probation program.

(e) ~~(d)~~ Revoke probation or postcommitment probation and commit the child to the department.

Section 25. Subsection (2) of section 985.441, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.441 Commitment.—

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), the court having jurisdiction over an adjudicated delinquent child whose ~~underlying~~ offense is ~~was~~ a misdemeanor, or a child who is currently on probation for a misdemeanor, may not commit the child for any misdemeanor offense or any probation violation that is technical in nature and not a new violation of law at a restrictiveness level other than minimum-risk nonresidential ~~unless the probation violation is a new violation of law constituting a felony~~. However, the court may commit such child to a nonsecure ~~low-risk or moderate-risk~~ residential placement if:

(a) The child has previously been adjudicated or had adjudication withheld for a felony offense;

(b) The child has previously been adjudicated or had adjudication withheld for three or more misdemeanor offenses within the previous 18 months;

(c) The child is before the court for disposition for a violation of s. 800.03, s. 806.031, or s. 828.12; or

(d) The court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the protection of the public requires such placement or that the particular needs of the child would be best served by such placement. Such finding must be in writing.

Section 26. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) and subsection (5) of section 985.46, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.46 Conditional release.—

(1) The Legislature finds that:

(a) Conditional release is the care, treatment, help, ~~and~~ supervision, and provision of transition-to-adulthood services to ~~provided~~ juveniles released from residential commitment programs to promote rehabilitation and prevent recidivism.

(5) Participation in the educational program by students of compulsory school attendance age pursuant to s. 1003.21(1) and (2)(a) is mandatory for juvenile justice youth on conditional release or postcommitment probation status. A student of noncompulsory school-attendance age who has not received a high school diploma or its equivalent must participate in an ~~the~~ educational program or career and technical education course. A youth who has received a high school diploma or its equivalent and is not employed must participate in workforce development or other career or technical education or attend a community college or a university while in the program, subject to available funding.

Section 27. Subsections (1) through (5) of section 985.461, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.461 Transition to adulthood.—

(1) The Legislature finds that ~~older~~ youth are faced with the need to learn how to support themselves within legal means and overcome the stigma of being delinquent. In most cases, parents expedite this transition. It is the intent of the Legislature that the department provide ~~older~~ youth in its custody or under its supervision with opportunities for participating in transition-to-adulthood services while in the department's commitment programs or in probation or conditional release programs in the community. These services should be reasonable and appropriate for the youths' respective ages or special needs and provide activities that build life skills and increase the ability to live independently and become self-sufficient.

(2) Youth served by the department who are in the custody of the Department of Children and Families ~~Family Services~~ and who entered juvenile justice placement from a foster care placement, if otherwise eligible, may receive independent living transition services pursuant to s. 409.1451. Court-ordered commitment or probation with the department is not a barrier to eligibility for the array of services available to a youth who is in the dependency foster care system only.

(3) For a dependent child in the foster care system, adjudication for delinquency does not, by itself, disqualify such child for eligibility in the Department of Children and Families' ~~Family Services'~~ independent living program.

(4) As part of the child's treatment plan, the department may provide transition-to-adulthood services to children released from residential commitment. To support participation in transition-to-adulthood services and subject to appropriation, the department may:

(a) Assess the child's skills and abilities to live independently and become self-sufficient. The specific services to be provided shall be determined using an assessment of his or her readiness for adult life.

(b) Use community reentry teams to assist in the development of ~~Develop~~ a list of age-appropriate activities and responsibilities to be incorporated in the child's written case plan for any youth ~~17 years of age or older~~ who is under the custody or supervision of the department. 121.0515 Special Risk Class.—

(2) MEMBERSHIP.—

~~(e) Effective July 1, 2001, "special risk member" includes any member who is employed as a youth custody officer by the Department of Juvenile Justice and meets the special criteria set forth in paragraph (3)(g).~~

(e)~~(f)~~ Effective October 1, 2005, through June 30, 2008, the member must be employed by a law enforcement agency or medical examiner's office in a forensic discipline and meet the special criteria set forth in paragraph (3)(g) ~~(3)(h)~~.

(f)~~(g)~~ Effective July 1, 2008, the member must be employed by the Department of Law Enforcement in the crime laboratory or by the Division of State Fire Marshal in the forensic laboratory and meet the special criteria set forth in paragraph (3)(h) ~~(3)(i)~~.

(g)~~(h)~~ Effective July 1, 2008, the member must be employed by a local government law enforcement agency or medical examiner's office and meet the special criteria set forth in paragraph (3)(i) ~~(3)(j)~~.

(h)~~(i)~~ Effective August 1, 2008, "special risk member" includes any member who meets the special criteria for continued membership set forth in paragraph (3)(j) ~~(3)(k)~~.

(3) CRITERIA.—A member, to be designated as a special risk member, must meet the following criteria:

~~(g) Effective July 1, 2001, the member must be employed as a youth custody officer and be certified, or required to be certified, in compliance with s. 943.1395. In addition, the member's primary duties and responsibilities must be the supervised custody, surveillance, control, investigation, apprehension, arrest, and counseling of assigned juveniles within the community;~~

(j)~~(k)~~ The member must have already qualified for and be actively participating in special risk membership under paragraph (a), paragraph (b), or paragraph (c), must have suffered a qualifying injury as defined in this paragraph, must not be receiving disability retirement benefits as provided in s. 121.091(4), and must satisfy the requirements of this paragraph.

1. The ability to qualify for the class of membership defined in paragraph (2)(h) ~~(2)(i)~~ occurs when two licensed medical physicians, one of whom is a primary treating physician of the member, certify the existence of the physical injury and medical condition that constitute a qualifying injury as defined in this paragraph and that the member has reached maximum medical improvement after August 1, 2008. The certifications from the licensed medical physicians must include, at a minimum, that the injury to the special risk member has resulted in a physical loss, or loss of use, of at least two of the following: left arm, right arm, left leg, or right leg; and:

a. That this physical loss or loss of use is total and permanent, except if the loss of use is due to a physical injury to the member's brain, in which event the loss of use is permanent with at least 75 percent loss of motor function with respect to each arm or leg affected.

b. That this physical loss or loss of use renders the member physically unable to perform the essential job functions of his or her special risk position.

c. That, notwithstanding this physical loss or loss of use, the individual can perform the essential job functions required by the member's new position, as provided in subparagraph 3.

d. That use of artificial limbs is not possible or does not alter the member's ability to perform the essential job functions of the member's position.

e. That the physical loss or loss of use is a direct result of a physical injury and not a result of any mental, psychological, or emotional injury.

2. For the purposes of this paragraph, "qualifying injury" means an injury sustained in the line of duty, as certified by the member's employing agency, by a special risk member that does not result in total and permanent disability as defined in s. 121.091(4)(b). An injury is a qualifying injury if the injury is a physical injury to the member's physical body resulting in a physical loss, or loss of use, of at least two of the following: left arm, right arm, left leg, or right leg.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, an injury that would otherwise qualify as a qualifying injury is not considered a qualifying injury if and when the member ceases employment with the employer for whom he or she was providing special risk services on the date the injury occurred.

3. The new position, as described in sub-subparagraph 1.c., that is required for qualification as a special risk member under this paragraph is not required to be a position with essential job functions that entitle an individual to special risk membership. Whether a new position as described in sub-subparagraph 1.c. exists and is available to the special risk member is a decision to be made solely by the employer in accordance with its hiring practices and applicable law.

4. This paragraph does not grant or create additional rights for any individual to continued employment or to be hired or rehired by his or her employer that are not already provided within the Florida Statutes, the State Constitution, the Americans with Disabilities Act, if applicable, or any other applicable state or federal law.

(5) REMOVAL OF SPECIAL RISK CLASS MEMBERSHIP.—

(b) Any member who is a special risk member on July 1, 2008, and who became eligible to participate under paragraph (3)(g) ~~(3)(h)~~ but fails to meet the criteria for Special Risk Class membership established by paragraph (3)(h) ~~(3)(i)~~ or paragraph (3)(i) ~~(3)(j)~~ shall have his or her special risk designation removed and thereafter shall be a Regular Class member and earn only Regular Class membership credit. The department may review the special risk designation of members to determine whether or not those members continue to meet the criteria for Special Risk Class membership.

(8) SPECIAL RISK ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPORT CLASS.—

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, this subsection does not apply to any special risk member who qualifies for continued membership pursuant to paragraph (3)(j) ~~(3)(k)~~.

(10) CREDIT FOR UPGRADED SERVICE.—

(c) Any member of the Special Risk Class who has earned creditable service through June 30, 2008, in another membership class of the Florida Retirement System in a position with the Department of Law Enforcement or the Division of State Fire Marshal and became covered by the Special Risk Class as described in paragraph (3)(h) ~~(3)(i)~~, or with a local government law enforcement agency or medical examiner's office and became covered by the Special Risk Class as described in paragraph (3)(i) ~~(3)(j)~~, which service is within the purview of the Special Risk Class, and is employed in such position on or after July 1, 2008, may purchase additional retirement credit to upgrade such service to Special Risk Class service, to the extent of the percentages of the member's average final compensation provided in s. 121.091(1)(a)2. The cost for such credit must be an amount representing the actuarial accrued liability for the difference in accrual value during the affected period of service. The cost shall be calculated using the discount rate and other relevant actuarial assumptions that were used to value the Florida Retirement System Pension Plan liabilities in the most recent actuarial valuation. The division shall ensure that the transfer sum is prepared using a formula and methodology certified by an enrolled actuary. The cost must be paid immediately upon notification by the division. The local government employer may purchase the upgraded service credit on behalf of the member if the member has been employed by that employer for at least 3 years.

Section 48. Paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 316.635, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

316.635 Courts having jurisdiction over traffic violations; powers relating to custody and detention of minors.—

(4) A minor who willfully fails to appear before any court or judicial officer as required by written notice to appear is guilty of contempt of court. Upon a finding by a court, after notice and a hearing, that a minor is in contempt of court for willful failure to appear pursuant to a valid notice to appear, the court may:

(a) For a first offense, order the minor to serve up to 5 days in a staff-secure shelter as defined in chapter 984 ~~or chapter 985~~ or, if space in a staff-secure shelter is unavailable, in a secure juvenile detention center.

Section 49. Paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of section 318.143, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

318.143 Sanctions for infractions by minors.—

(2) Failure to comply with one or more of the sanctions imposed by the court constitutes contempt of court. Upon a finding by the court, after notice and a hearing, that a minor is in contempt of court for failure to comply with court-ordered sanctions, the court may:

(a) For a first offense, order the minor to serve up to 5 days in a staff-secure shelter as defined in chapter 984 ~~or chapter 985~~ or, if space in a staff-secure shelter is unavailable, in a secure juvenile detention center.

Section 50. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this act, this act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 700 amends chapter 985, Florida Statutes, which provides a framework for the juvenile justice system in Florida and delineates duties and responsibilities of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ or department). Specifically, the bill enhances the state's focus on serious juvenile offenders, adopts measures to reduce recidivism, and increases care of juvenile offenders in the department's custody.

To provide an increased focus on serious cases and public safety, the bill:

- Requires the DJJ to notify a law enforcement agency and the victim of a juvenile offender who has escaped or absconded while in custody during commitment;
- Grants the court jurisdiction over a juvenile sex offender under THE DJJ supervision until he or she is 21 years old;
- Encourages the DJJ to develop evening-reporting centers to better support children in nonsecure detention;
- Authorizes the court to order juvenile offenders who commit technical violations of probation into a diversion program; and
- Waives fingerprinting requirements for children committing offenses that may only result in a civil citation.

To reduce recidivism through recognizing the special needs of children and the need for transitional services, the bill:

- Authorizes intake personnel to incorporate mental health, substance abuse, and psychosexual evaluations as part of the intake process;
- Establishes trauma-informed care as part of the DJJ model;
- Encourages placement of children in their home communities to facilitate family and community support;
- Enhances the transition-to-adult services offered and lifts the age restriction of youth clients eligible for service; and
- Requires the DJJ to focus on prevention services through providing academic and community support for at-risk youth.

To improve care to juveniles in the residential custody of the DJJ, the bill:

- Combines the commitment levels of low-risk and moderate-risk residential commitments into the newly-designated nonsecure residential commitment level and caps the number of beds authorized per facility at 90 beds, rather than the current cap of 165 beds;
- Creates a criminal offense of willful and malicious neglect, punishable as a third degree felony if the employee's lack of care does not result in harm to the juvenile offender in DJJ custody and as a second degree felony if great bodily harm results; and
- Allows for prosecution under the new criminal offense for any victim in commitment care, not just children under the age of 18.

To increase performance accountability, the bill requires the DJJ to adopt a system to measure performance based on recidivism rates of providers and programs, and to annually report findings to the Legislature.

The bill codifies a provision found in the 2013-2014 Implementing Bill for the General Appropriations Act which caps the allowable rate for hospital health services provided to juveniles at 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate, with a cap of 125 percent in limited cases.

This bill grants the DJJ greater flexibility in the assessment process by allowing a DJJ employee other than a juvenile probation officer to participate in intake, screenings, and assessments.

The DJJ indicates that the bill will result in a small increase in costs which can be absorbed within existing resources. The Office of State Courts Administrator also indicates it expects that it will not need additional resources for any increased workload in the court system. The new detention criteria may result in some children being held in secure detention who would not be held under current law, and some others being held for a longer period of time. This may have an indeterminate fiscal impact on local government expenditures for a share of detention costs.

II. Present Situation:

Department of Juvenile Justice/Department of Health and Human Services

In years past, the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) participated in all court proceedings relating to children, including dependency and delinquency cases.[1] In 1994, the Legislature created the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ), and assigned the DJJ responsibility for juvenile delinquency cases and children in need of services and families in need of services (CINS/FINS) cases. The HRS retained jurisdiction of dependency cases. Despite this bifurcation, laws governing delinquency and dependency remained together in ch. 39, F.S.[2]

In 1997, the Legislature transferred provisions relating to juvenile delinquency proceedings in ch. 39, F.S., into ch. 984, F.S., (relating to CINS/FINS) and ch. 985, F.S., (relating to juvenile delinquency cases).[3] However, the legislation inadvertently included a handful of provisions relating to dependency in the transfer. Dependency duties are now the responsibility of the Department of Children and Families (DCF).[4]

Jurisdiction

Section 985.0301(1), F.S., provides that Florida's circuit courts have exclusive original jurisdiction in criminal proceedings in which a child is alleged to have committed a violation. Currently, the circuit court where the alleged violation occurred may transfer a case to the circuit court in which the child resides or will reside at the time of detention or placement.[5] A child detainee must be transferred to the appropriate detention center or facility or other placement directed by the court receiving the case.[6]

The court retains jurisdiction over a child until the child:

- Is 19 years old, if the child's case has not been resolved;
- Is 19 years old, if the child is ordered to participate in a probation program, including participation in transition-to-adulthood services;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ;
- Is 22 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ for placement in a juvenile prison or in a high-risk or maximum-risk residential commitment program;[7]
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ for placement in an intensive residential treatment program for 10-13 year-old offenders, in the residential commitment program in a juvenile prison or in a residential sex offender program;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to a juvenile correctional facility or a juvenile prison, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete the program;

- Is 21 years old, if the child is a juvenile sexual offender who has been placed in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders, specifically to complete the program; or
- Completes payment of court-ordered restitution.[8]

Contempt of Court

Section 985.037, F.S., authorizes the court to punish a child for contempt for interfering with the court or court administration, or for violating a court order or ch. 985, F.S. Direct contempt results from conduct committed by the juvenile in the presence of the judge, while indirect contempt concerns conduct committed outside the judge's presence.[9]

A child charged with direct contempt may be sanctioned immediately.[10] If a child is charged with indirect contempt, the court must hold a hearing within 24 hours to determine if the child committed indirect contempt.[11] In indirect contempt proceedings, the child is given specified due process rights.[12]

If a court finds that a child committed contempt of court, the court may order the child to serve an alternative sanction[13] or order the placement of the child into a secure facility[14] for a specified time.[15] If a child is placed into a secure facility, the court must review the placement every 72 hours.[16]

Fingerprinting and Photographing

Section 985.11(1)(a), F.S., requires a child who is charged with or found to have committed specified offenses to be fingerprinted by the appropriate law enforcement agency, and requires the law enforcement agency to submit the fingerprints to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE).

Intake Process

Every child under the age of 18 charged with a crime in Florida is referred to the DJJ.[17] Intake and screening services for youth referred to the DJJ are performed at a Juvenile Assessment Center[18] by a DJJ employee.[19] Once brought into intake, the DJJ assigns the child a juvenile probation officer, conducts an assessment, and recommends appropriate sanctions and services to the state attorney and the court.[20] The probation officer serves as the primary case manager responsible for managing, coordinating, and monitoring services provided to the child.[21]

Detention Care System

Detention care is the temporary care of children pursuant to an adjudication or order of the court.[22] Children may be detained in one of three types of detention care: secure,[23] nonsecure,[24] and home detention[25] when specific statutory criteria are met.

Section 985.24, F.S., provides guidelines for the court to use in ordering detention care, including that the child:

- Presents a substantial risk of not appearing at a hearing;
- Presents a substantial risk of inflicting bodily harm on others as evidenced by recent behavior;
- Presents a history of committing a property offense prior to adjudication, disposition, or placement;
- Has committed contempt of court; or
- Requests protection from imminent bodily harm.

If a law enforcement agency takes a child into custody, the DJJ must accept custody of the child and review the facts in the arrest report to determine what, if any, detention care is necessary.[26] The probation officer makes an initial decision regarding detention care placement using the "Detention Risk Assessment Instrument."[27] In certain instances, the probation officer does not have discretion and must place a child in secure detention (e.g., when a child is charged with possessing or discharging a firearm on school property).[28]

A child may not be held in secure, nonsecure, or home detention for more than 24 hours without a detention hearing.[29] A detention hearing is conducted by a circuit judge who reviews the [24] Section 985.03(18)(b), F.S., defines "nonsecure detention" as temporary custody of the child while the child is in a residential home in the community in a physically nonrestrictive environment under the supervision of the Department of Juvenile Justice pending adjudication, disposition, or placement. However, the DJJ reports that its current practice for detention is to only utilize secure or home detention; nonsecure detention has not been used for several years. [25] Section 985.03(18)(c), F.S., defines "home detention" as temporary custody of the child while the child is released to the custody of the parent, guardian, or custodian in a physically nonrestrictive environment under the supervision of department staff pending adjudication, disposition, or placement.

assessment instrument to determine whether probable cause exists that the child committed the offense and the need for continued detention.[30] A court's detention order must include specific instructions for release of the child from detention (generally, a 21-day limit applies to secure, nonsecure, or home detention[31]).[32]

If the child is a juvenile sex offender, detention staff must notify the appropriate law enforcement agency and school personnel of the child's release from secure detention or transfer to nonsecure detention.[33]

Disposition

The state attorney formally charges a child with a criminal offense by filing a petition for delinquency.[34] Because a child may be detained if adjudicated delinquent, federal constitutional law requires many of the same due process safeguards afforded to adult criminal defendants[35] and that the case proceed to adjudicatory hearing (trial)[36] as quickly as possible. If the court finds that the child committed the violation of law, the court may either withhold adjudication of delinquency or adjudicate the child delinquent.[37]

If the court finds that a child has committed an offense, the court must hold a disposition hearing to determine appropriate punishment. Before making a final disposition, the court reviews a pre-disposition report[38] prepared by the DJJ.[39] The pre-disposition report identifies appropriate educational and vocational goals, which include successful completion of vocational courses, and successful attendance and completion of the child's current grade. The court must then determine whether it is appropriate to commit the child to the DJJ or probation and community-based sanctions.[40]

[30] Section 985.255(3), F.S.
[31] Section 985.26(2), F.S. A child may be held up to 30 days if the child is charged with what would be, if committed by an adult, a capital felony, a life felony, a first degree felony, or a second degree felony offense.
[32] Section 985.255(3)(c), F.S.
[33] Similarly, once a juvenile sex offender is released from a commitment program, the DJJ must notify the FDLE under ss. 985.481 and 985.4815, F.S. The DJJ has been required to provide this notification electronically since November 1, 2007.
[34] Section 985.318, F.S.
[35] Section 985.35(2)(a), (b), and (c), F.S., provides that the child is entitled to present evidence, cross examine witnesses, protect himself or herself from self-incrimination, and to not have evidence that was illegally seized or obtained presented to the court in the case against them. Facts must be established beyond a reasonable doubt and rules of evidence apply to the proceedings. Additionally, s. 985.033(1), F.S., provides that a child is entitled to legal counsel at all stages of any delinquency court proceeding.
[36] Section 985.03(2), F.S., defines an "adjudicatory hearing" as a hearing for the court to determine whether the facts support the allegations stated in the petition, as provided under s. 985.35, F.S. In an adjudicatory hearing, the judge decides both questions of fact and law. Section 985.35(2), F.S.
[37] Section 985.35, F.S. An adjudication of delinquency by a court is not considered a conviction.
[38] Section 985.433(6), F.S., requires the pre-disposition report to include a summary of the juvenile's present offense, a statement by the youth, background information regarding the familial and community environment, a narrative explaining the juvenile's employment or school history, psychological data, restitution information, criminal history, risk assessment, and the recommendations of DJJ concerning disposition of the case.

Probation or Postcommitment Probation (Probation)

A child's probation program must include both a penalty and a rehabilitative component.[41] Each child is assigned a juvenile probation officer who monitors the child's compliance and helps the child connect with service providers.

If the child does not comply with terms of probation, the child may be brought before the court on a violation of probation. The violation may be a substantive violation for committing a new criminal offense or a technical violation for failure to comply with a condition of probation.[42] If a child admits to the violation or is found by the court to have violated probation, the court must enter an order revoking, modifying, or continuing probation.[43] Specifically, the court may:

- Place the child into a consequence unit [44] for up to 15 days;
- Place the child on home detention with electronic monitoring;
- Modify or continue the child's probation; or
- Revoke probation and commit the child to the DJJ.[45]

Commitment

The court may commit the child to a nonresidential or residential facility.[46] Commitment programs vary by "restrictiveness level," defined in s. 985.03(46), F.S., as "the level of programming and security provided by programs that service the supervision, custody, care, and treatment needs of committed children." Levels of commitment are:

- Minimum-risk nonresidential, a level 2 commitment program, where children remain in their community and participate at least 5 days a week in day treatment;
- Low-risk residential, a level 4 program, where children live in a residential program and have unsupervised access to their community;
- Moderate-risk residential, a level 6 program, where children are in a residential program and have supervised access to their community;
- High-risk residential, a level 8 program, where children are not allowed access to their community; and
- Maximum-risk residential, a level 10 long-term residential program, including juvenile correctional facilities or juvenile prisons that do not allow the children to have any access to their community.[47]

Florida law caps the number of beds at residential facilities at 165 beds.[48]

[44] Section 985.439(2), F.S., defines "consequence unit" as a secure facility specifically designated by the department for children who are taken into custody under s. 985.101, F.S., for violating probation or postcommitment probation, or who have been found by the court to have violated the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation.

[48] Section 985.03(46), F.S.

If the court determines the child should be adjudicated delinquent and committed to the DJJ through court order, [49] the DJJ must recommend the restrictiveness level for the child. The court may commit the child at a different restrictiveness level but must set out findings for departure in the record based on a preponderance of the evidence.[50]

Once the court enters a commitment order, the DJJ is responsible for determining placement in a specific residential program based on the child's identified risks and needs.[51] Currently, the court must order a child to be placed in a specific restrictiveness level from level 2 through level 10 and the DJJ does not have the flexibility to move a child into a different restrictiveness level.

A child is committed to a residential program for an indeterminate length of time and must complete an individualized treatment plan.[52] The goals of the plan are based on the child's rehabilitative needs and include educational and vocational service goals.[53] All residential programs provide medical, mental health, substance abuse, and developmental disability services.[54]

Conditional Release and Transition-to-Adulthood Services

Conditional release is defined as the care, treatment, help, and supervision provided to a juvenile released from a residential commitment program. The purposes of conditional release are to protect the public, reduce recidivism, increase responsible productive behavior, and provide for a successful transition of the youth from the DJJ to the family.[55]

The DJJ must assess each child placed into a residential commitment facility to determine the need for conditional release services upon release from the facility.[56] Children participating in conditional release services must participate in an educational program [57] if they are of compulsory school attendance age or noncompulsory school age and have not obtained a high school diploma or its equivalent.[58] A child who has received a diploma or equivalent, but is not employed, must attend college classes, other career education, or participate in workforce development.[59]

The DJJ must also provide older [60] children with opportunities to participate in "transition-to-adulthood" services that build life skills and increase the ability to live independently and be

Internal Agency Procedures

Administering the Juvenile Justice Continuum

Section 985.601, F.S., requires the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) to develop or contract for diversified and innovative programs to provide rehabilitative treatment.

Quality Assurance and Cost-Effectiveness

Section 985.632, F.S., requires the DJJ to provide transparency to policy makers and the public about the costs and effectiveness of the programs that it operates. The DJJ is also required to develop an accountability system to assist in ensuring that children served receive the best services for their needs.

The DJJ is required to annually collect cost data for every program that it operates or contracts for and submit this data to the Legislature and the Governor.[63] The DJJ is also required to develop a cost-effectiveness model and apply the model to each commitment program. The cost-effectiveness model must compare program costs to client outcomes and program outputs, and include recidivism rates.[64] The DJJ must rank each commitment program based on the cost-effectiveness model and may terminate a program if the program has failed to achieve a minimum threshold of program effectiveness.

Departmental Contracting Powers; Personnel Standards and Screening

Section 985.644, F.S., requires DJJ employees and all personnel[65] of contract providers to complete a:

- Level 2 employment screening prior to employment (which requires fingerprinting);[66] and
- National criminal records check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation every 5 years following the date of the person's employment.

The DJJ must electronically submit fingerprint information of DJJ employees and contract personnel (other than law enforcement, correctional, and correctional probation officers) to the FDLE.

Level 2 employment screenings require fingerprints to be processed through statewide criminal history records checks through FDLE and national criminal history records checks through the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The screenings may include local criminal records checks through local law enforcement agencies.

Juvenile Justice Training Academies

The DJJ is required to establish and oversee juvenile justice training academies.[67] The DJJ must develop, implement, and maintain the curriculum for the training academies, develop uniform minimum job-related training, and establish a certifiable program for juvenile justice training.[68]

Section 985.66(3), F.S., requires the DJJ to provide specified components to the training programs for the juvenile justice program staff based upon a job-task analysis.[69] All department program staff and providers who deliver direct care services pursuant to contract with the DJJ must participate in and successfully complete the approved training programs relevant to their areas of employment.[70] Judges, state attorneys, public defenders, law enforcement officers, and school district personnel may also participate in these programs.

Juvenile Justice Circuit Advisory Boards

Section 985.664, F.S., authorizes juvenile justice circuit advisory boards (advisory boards) to be established in each of the 20 judicial circuits. The purpose of advisory boards is to advise the DJJ in the development and implementation of juvenile justice programs and policies related to at-risk youth.[71] The duties of the advisory boards are enumerated in s. 985.664(2), F.S.

Direct-Support Organizations

Section 985.672, F.S., defines a direct support organization as a not-for-profit organization whose sole purpose is to support the juvenile justice system and which is:

- Organized and operated to conduct programs and activities; raise funds; request and receive grants, gifts, and bequests of moneys; acquire, receive, hold, invest, and administer in its own name, securities, funds, objects of value, or other property, real or personal; and make expenditures to or for the direct or indirect benefit of the DJJ or the juvenile justice system operated by a county commission or a circuit board; and
- Determined by the DJJ to be consistent with the goals of the juvenile justice system, in the best interest of the state, and in accordance with the DJJ's adopted goals and mission.

The DJJ may permit a direct support organization to use fixed property and facilities of the juvenile justice system free of charge.[72]

Siting of Facilities

Section 985.682, F.S., establishes procedures that must be followed when proposing a site for a juvenile justice facility. Currently, the DJJ is required to conduct a detailed statewide comprehensive study to determine current and future needs for all facility types for children committed to the DJJ.[73] The study must assess, rank, and designate appropriate sites based upon these needs.[74]

One-Time Startup Funding for Juvenile Justice Purposes

Section 985.69, F.S., authorizes the DJJ to use funds from juvenile justice appropriations as one-time startup funding for juvenile justice purposes that include remodeling or renovation of existing facilities, construction and leasing costs, purchase of equipment and furniture, site development, and other necessary and reasonable costs associated with the startup of facilities or programs. The DJJ is currently funded for repair and maintenance of facilities through the General Appropriations Act.

Payment of Medical Expenses for Detained Youth

Medicare Rates

Medicare is the federal health insurance program for people who are 65 or older, certain younger people with disabilities, and people with End-Stage Renal Disease (permanent kidney failure requiring dialysis or a transplant).[75]

Medicare reimburses providers based on the type of service they provide. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services develops fee schedules for physicians, ambulance services, clinical laboratory services, and durable medical equipment, prosthetics, orthotics, and supplies.[76] Other Medicare providers are paid via a prospective payment system. The prospective payment system is a method of reimbursement in which Medicare payment is made based on a predetermined, fixed amount. The payment amount for a particular service is derived based on the classification system of that service (for example, diagnosis-related groups for inpatient hospital services).

The Department of Corrections and Medical Payment Caps

In 2008, the General Appropriations Implementing Bill [77] capped medical payment rates that the Department of Corrections (DOC) could pay to a hospital or a health care provider providing services at a hospital. Payments to providers for services were capped at 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate for inmate medical care if no contract existed between the DOC and a hospital, or a provider providing services at a hospital. However, hospitals reporting an operating loss to the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) were capped at 125 percent of the

Similarly, the 2013 General Appropriations Implementing Bill capped medical payment rates that the DJJ could pay to a hospital or provider providing any health care services.[79]

Offenses Committed Against Youth under the Jurisdiction of the DJJ

Sexual Misconduct by an Employee

Section 985.701, F.S., makes it a second degree felony [80] for a DJJ employee [81] to engage in sexual misconduct [82] with juvenile offenders "detained or supervised by, or committed to the custody, of the department." The statute does not define the term "juvenile offender."

Neglect of Youth Committed to the Department of Juvenile Justice

Section 985.02, F.S., provides that the children of the state must be provided with protection from abuse, neglect, and exploitation; as well as adequate nutrition, shelter, and clothing. In some instances, a DJJ employee has neglected or abused a juvenile offender resulting in harm to the juvenile offender.[83]

Currently, ch. 985, F.S., does not provide sanctions against the neglect of a youth in the DJJ's custody. As a result, prosecutors have looked outside of ch. 985, F.S., to prosecute cases involving abuse or neglect of a child in the care of the DJJ. One statute prosecutors have attempted to use to prosecute is s. 827.03, F.S., relating to criminal child neglect. However, the child neglect statute is not designed to prosecute neglect cases that arise within the unique framework of the juvenile justice environment, nor does it apply to youth in the DJJ's custody who are 18 or older.[84]

[84] Section 827.01, F.S., defines a child as "any person under the age of 18 years." While the majority of youth in DJJ's custody are under 18 years old, DJJ has custody of persons 18 years old and older. Section 985.0301(5)(a), F.S., requires DJJ to retain jurisdiction over a child alleged to have committed a delinquent act until the child reaches 19 years old and authorizes DJJ to retain jurisdiction for an additional 365 days following the child's 19th birthday if the child is participating in transition-to-adulthood services.

Diversion Programs/Expunction of Records

Section 943.0582, F.S., provides guidelines to the FDLE relating to the expunction of criminal history records of youth who have successfully completed a prearrest, postarrest, or teen court diversion program.

Prevention Services Programs and Providers

Section 985.605, F.S., requires the DJJ to monitor all state-funded programs, grants, appropriations, or activities designed to prevent juvenile delinquency.[85] The DJJ is authorized to expend funds to prevent juvenile delinquency as long as it maximizes public accountability and documents outcomes. Each entity that receives money from the state must design its programs to provide one of four specified strategies [86] and submit demographic information of participants to the DJJ for verification.[87]

Section 985.606, F.S., requires each state agency or entity that receives or uses state money to fund juvenile delinquency prevention programs, grants, appropriations, or activities to submit performance data to the Governor and both houses of the Legislature by January 31st of each year for the preceding fiscal year.

Tours of State Correctional Facilities

Section 945.75, F.S., requires the DOC to develop programs in which a judge may order juveniles who have committed delinquent acts to be allowed to tour state correctional facilities under terms and conditions established by the DOC. The statute requires counties to develop similar programs involving county jails, commonly referred to as "scared straight programs."[88] The goal of these programs is to modify the behavior of the juveniles by shocking, scaring, and thus deterring them from engaging in further delinquent activity.[89] The DJJ reports because it complies with the Federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 2002 it receives between 2 million and 8 million dollars in federal funding.[90] The DJJ reports that it could lose two-thirds of its federal funding because the scared straight tours violate several portions of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act.[91]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This bill amends various provisions in law relating to juvenile delinquency, to enhance public safety, reduce recidivism, better measure performance outcomes, and improve care provided to juvenile offenders in the custody of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ).

Prevention

The bill creates s. 985.17, F.S., relating to prevention services. To reduce recidivism, protect public safety, and facilitate successful re-entry into the community, the bill requires the DJJ to:

- Engage faith- and community-based organizations;[92]
- Establish volunteer coordinators in each circuit and encourage mentor recruitment;
- Encourage the recruitment of volunteers to serve as mentors for youth in DJJ services;
- Promote the "Invest in Children" license plate to help fund programs and services;[93]
- Ensure prevention services address the multiple needs of youth at risk of becoming delinquent in order to decrease the prevalence of disproportionate minority representation in the juvenile justice system; and
- Expend prevention-related funds in a manner that maximizes accountability and ensures documentation of outcomes.

As a condition for receiving state funds, entities that receive or use state moneys to fund prevention services through contracts with the DJJ or grants from an entity will be required to:

- Design programs providing services to further one or more of the following strategies:
  - Encourage youth to attend and succeed in school;
  - Engage youth in productive and wholesome activities during non-school hours that build positive character, instill positive values, and enhance educational experiences;
  - Encourage youth to avoid the use of violence; and
  - Assist youth to acquire skills needed to find meaningful employment, including assistance in finding a suitable employer; and
- Provide the department with demographic information, dates of services, and the type of interventions received by each youth.

The bill requires the DJJ to monitor output and outcome measures for each program strategy and annually report this data in the Comprehensive Accountability Report. The DJJ also will be required to monitor all state-funded programs that receive or use state moneys to fund the juvenile delinquency prevention services through contracts or grants for compliance with contract and grant provisions.

Offenses Committed Against Youth under the Jurisdiction of the Department of Juvenile Justice

Sexual Misconduct by an Employee

The bill amends s. 985.701, F.S., to define "juvenile offender" as "any person of any age who is detained or supervised by, or committed to the custody of, the department." This mirrors the definition used in s. 985.702, F.S.

[92] The bill further provides that the voluntary programs and services include, but are not limited to, chaplaincy services, crisis intervention counseling, mentoring, and tutoring.

[93] The bill further requires the DJJ to allocate moneys for programs and services within each county based on that county's proportionate share of the license plate annual use fee collected by the county, which is identical to how s. 320.08058(11), F.S., specifies the money should be allocated.

Neglect of Youth Committed to the Department of Juvenile Justice

Section 985.702, F.S., is created and establishes a new criminal offense relating to willful and malicious neglect of a juvenile offender. The bill makes it a third degree felony [94] for a DJJ employee to willfully and maliciously neglect a juvenile offender without causing great bodily harm, permanent disability, or permanent disfigurement. If the neglect does cause great bodily harm, permanent disability, or permanent disfigurement to the juvenile offender, the employee commits a second degree felony.[95]

An "employee" is defined in the bill as a paid staff member, volunteer, or intern who works in a DJJ program or a program operated by a provider under contract with the DJJ. A "juvenile offender" is defined as "any person of any age who is detained by, or committed to the custody of, the department." "Neglect" is defined as an employee's:

- Failure or omission to provide a juvenile offender with the proper level of care, supervision, and services necessary to maintain the juvenile offender's physical and mental health including, but not limited to, adequate food, nutrition, clothing, shelter, supervision, medicine, and medical services; or
- Failure to make a reasonable effort to protect a juvenile offender from abuse, neglect, or exploitation by another person.

If the Public Employees Relations Commission determines that a DJJ employee violates the newly created s. 985.702, F.S., the determination constitutes sufficient cause under s. 110.227, F.S.,[96] for dismissal from employment with the DJJ, and prohibits the employee from being employed in any capacity in the juvenile justice system.

The bill requires employees who witness the neglect of a juvenile offender to immediately report the incident to the DJJ's incident hotline. The witness must also prepare an independent report specifically describing the incident, location and time, and persons involved. The report must be submitted to the witness's supervisor or program director, who in turn must provide copies of the report to the inspector general and the circuit juvenile justice manager. The inspector general must immediately conduct an appropriate administrative investigation and, if probable cause exists, notify the state attorney in the circuit in which the incident occurred.

Any person required to prepare a report who knowingly or willfully fails to do so or prevents another person from filing a report commits a first degree misdemeanor.[97] In addition, any person who knowingly or willfully:

- Submits inaccurate, incomplete, or untruthful information on a report commits a first degree misdemeanor.
- Coerces or threatens another person with the intent to alter testimony or a written report commits a third degree felony.

[94] A third degree felony is punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a fine of up to $5,000. Sections 775.082, 775.083, and 775.084, F.S.
[95] A second degree felony is punishable by up to 15 years imprisonment and a fine of up to $10,000. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.
[96] Section 110.227, F.S., relates to the suspension and dismissal of career service employees.
[97] A first degree misdemeanor is punishable by up to 1 year incarceration and a fine up to $1,000. Sections 775.082, F.S. and 775.083, F.S.

Trauma-informed Care as a Component of the Department of Juvenile Justice Model

The bill requires the DJJ to implement trauma-informed care in its model of response and delivery of services to juvenile offenders. "Trauma-informed care" is defined to mean providing services to children with a history of trauma, which recognizes the symptoms of trauma and acknowledges the role the trauma has played in the child's life. Trauma may include, but is not limited to, community and school violence, physical or sexual abuse, neglect, medical difficulties, and domestic violence.

Family Support

The bill recognizes the importance of placing facilities close to the home communities of children they house in facilitating family involvement in the treatment process and encourages the use of customized treatment plans to prepare a child for a successful transition back to his or her family and community support system.

Detention Care System

The definition of "detention care" found in s. 985.03, F.S., is revised to remove "home detention," thereby limiting the definition to "secure" and "nonsecure" detention. The bill amends the definition of "nonsecure detention" to mean:

> Temporary nonsecure custody of the child while the child is released to the custody of the parent, guardian, or custodian in a physically nonrestrictive home environment under the supervision of department staff pending adjudication, disposition, or placement. Forms of nonsecure detention may include, but are not limited, to home detention, electronic monitoring, day reporting centers, evening reporting centers, nonsecure shelters, and may include other requirements imposed by the court.

The definition of "child" in s. 985.03, F.S., is amended to apply to both married and unmarried persons under the age of 18. Currently, a married person who is under the age of 18 is not considered to be a "child" unless he or she is charged with a violation of law.

The bill authorizes the DJJ to develop evening reporting centers (centers), which are included in the definition of "nonsecure detention." These centers serve as an alternative to placing a child in secure detention and may be co-located with a juvenile assessment center. Centers must serve children and families who are awaiting a child's court hearing and must operate at a minimum during the afternoon and evening hours to provide a highly structured program of supervision. Centers may also provide academic tutoring, counseling, family engagement programs, and other activities. The bill specifies that if DJJ establishes centers, it must be do so within its existing resources.

The term "juvenile probation officer" is replaced with the term "department" throughout many of the detention-related statutes, which will allow the DJJ greater flexibility to use employees other than probation officers in initial detention placement. The bill specifies a child's "illegal possession of a firearm" can be considered as a basis for ordering detention or continued detention and requires secure detention for any child who has been taken into custody on three or more separate occasions within a 60-day period.

The bill requires detention staff to notify the appropriate law enforcement agency, school personnel, and victim when a child charged with any of the following offenses is released from secure detention or transferred to nonsecure detention:

- Murder, under s. 782.04, F.S.;
- Sexual battery, under ch. 794, F.S.;
- Stalking, under s. 784.048, F.S; or
- Domestic violence, as defined in s. 741.28, F.S.

In some respects, the notice requirement expands notice by not limiting notice to juvenile sex offenses. In other respects, this provision limits notice, as notice is only required for sexual battery, not all of the currently-included offenses that qualify a child as a juvenile sex offender.

In instances where a detained child is transferred to a jail or other facility used to detain adults,[98] the bill requires physical observation and documented checks of the child every 10 minutes. Existing law requires observations every 15 minutes.

The court must place in detention care all children who are adjudicated and awaiting placement in a commitment program. In such instances, the bill requires, rather than permits, a child who has been committed to a high-risk or maximum risk residential facility to be held in secure detention until placement.

Jurisdiction

The bill amends s. 985.0301, F.S., to authorize, rather than require, the court to transfer a detained child to a detention center in the circuit in which the child resides or will reside at the time of detention. The bill restricts transfers to only these two circumstances, which means the receiving court will no longer be able to direct where the detained child may be placed when a case is being transferred.

The bill simplifies statutory jurisdictional criteria. As a result, the court will retain jurisdiction over a child until the child:

- Is 19 years old, generally, or if the child is in a probation program;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is committed to the DJJ in any type of commitment program, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete the commitment program, including conditional release supervision;
- Is 21 years old, if the child is a juvenile sexual offender who has been placed on community-based treatment alternative with supervision, or in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders, specifically for the purpose of completing the program; or
- Satisfies restitution ordered in the case.

[98] Section 985.265(5), F.S., sets forth instances in which a child may be detained in a jail or other facility used to detain adults.

Contempt of Court

The bill requires the court to hold a hearing to determine if a child committed direct contempt of court and affords the child specified due process rights at this hearing. The bill also clarifies if a judge places a child into a secure facility for contempt, the facility must be a detention facility. In these instances, the court needs to review the placement only upon motion by the defense attorney or state attorney. Under existing law, the court must review the placement every 72 hours.

Fingerprinting and Photographing

The bill excludes a child from fingerprint requirements if the child is issued a civil citation. This provision may better focus resources on more serious juvenile offenders by waiving fingerprinting requirements of children charged with nonserious delinquent acts.

Intake Process

Section 985.14, F.S., is amended to allow both the DJJ and juvenile assessment center personnel to perform the intake process, which may provide for a more efficient intake process in counties that operate their own juvenile assessment centers. The bill also:

- Clarifies that the intake assessment process consists of an initial assessment that may be followed by a full mental health, substance abuse, cognitive impairment, and/or psychosexual evaluation, which may help decision makers better target successful treatment and reduce recidivism; and
- Requires children to be screened to determine career or technical education problems (rather than just vocational problems), which provides more options for children in pursuing a successful career.

Disposition

Predisposition Reports

The bill requires the predisposition report prepared by the DJJ to assist the court in determining whether a child is committed is to identify appropriate educational and career (rather than vocational) goals for the child, which include:

- Successful completion of career and technical education courses (rather than vocational courses); and
- Successful completion of the child's current grade or recovery of credits or classes the child previously failed.

Probation or Postcommitment Probation (Probation)

A court is authorized by the bill to impose an alternative consequence for juveniles on probation who commit relatively minor violations (technical violations). If so, the judge must approve specific consequences for specific future violations of the conditions of probation. Alternative consequence programs:

- Must be established at the local level in coordination with law enforcement agencies, the Chief Judge of the circuit, the State Attorney, and the Public Defender; and

- May be operated by a law enforcement agency, the DJJ, a juvenile assessment center, or another entity selected by DJJ.

Commitment

The term "juvenile probation officer" is replaced with the term "department" throughout many of the commitment-related statutes, which will allow the DJJ to use employees other than probation officers to perform commitment-related duties.

The "restrictiveness levels" in s. 985.03(46), F.S., of low-risk residential (level 4) and moderate-risk residential (level 6) are combined into a single "nonsecure residential" group. This will allow the DJJ to place a child whose risk is currently low into a program that caters to children with slightly higher risk levels to ensure the child access to other needs and services.

The current cap on residential beds per facility is reduced to 90 beds from 165 beds. This reduction in the number of residential beds authorized per facility may increase efficiency of facilities in meeting the goals of commitment and reducing recidivism.

Certain youth[99] will be allowed to be committed to nonsecure residential placement under this bill if the child has:
- Previously been adjudicated or had an adjudication withheld for a felony offense; or
- Previously been adjudicated or had adjudication withheld for three or more misdemeanor offenses within the last 18 months.

The amendments to s. 985.275, F.S., requires the DJJ to notify a law enforcement agency and, if the offense requires victim notification under ch. 960, F.S., the victim, any time a child in the custody of the DJJ:
- Escapes from a residential commitment program or from being transported to or from one; or
- Absconds from a nonresidential commitment facility.

The DJJ also will be required by the bill to make every reasonable effort to locate the child.

Conditional Release and Transition-to-Adulthood Services

The bill amends s. 985.46, F.S., to clarify conditional release includes the provision of transition-to-adulthood services. The bill also requires a child of noncompulsory school age on conditional release supervision to participate in the education program or career and technical education courses.

The application of transition-to-adulthood services is expanded by the bill by removing the limitation that these services only be provided to "older children." As a result, any child who is under the supervision of the DJJ may be provided transition-to-adulthood services as part of his or her treatment plan.

[99] This includes youth whose offense is a misdemeanor as well as youth who are on probation for a misdemeanor and who commit a technical violation. Section 985.441(2), F.S.

The activities the DJJ is authorized to engage in to support participation in transition-to-adulthood services are expanded. Specifically, the DJJ may:

- Employ community re-entry teams to assist in developing a list of age appropriate activities and responsibilities to be incorporated in the child's case plan. Community re-entry teams include representatives from school districts, law enforcement, workforce development services, community based service providers, and the child's family.
- Assist the child in building a portfolio of educational and vocational accomplishments, necessary identification, and resumes and cover letters to enhance the child's employability; and
- Collaborate with school district contacts to facilitate appropriate educational services based on the child's identified needs.

Internal Agency Procedures

Quality Assurance and Cost-Effectiveness

The bill amends s. 985.632, F.S. to:

- Require the annual report to collect and analyze available statistical data for the purpose of ongoing evaluation of all programs;
- Delete the terms "client" and "program effectiveness" and adds the following definitions:
  - "Program," which means any facility or service for youth that is operated by the DJJ or by a provider under contract with the DJJ; and
  - "Program group," which means a collection of programs with sufficient similarity of functions, services, and youth to permit appropriate comparison among programs within the group;
- Codify the Comprehensive Accountability Report (CAR), [100] and requires the DJJ to work with contract service providers to develop a standard methodology for measuring and reporting program outputs and youth outcomes;
- Require the standard methodology used in the CAR to include certain terminology for measuring performance, to specify program outputs, and to specify desired child outcomes and methods to measure child outcomes; and
- Require the cost-effectiveness model to include a comparison of program costs to expected and actual child recidivism rates, rather than client outcomes and program outputs; and requires the DJJ to rank commitment programs based on performance measures and adherence to quality improvement standards.

Departmental Contracting Powers; Personnel Standards and Screening

The bill provides that law enforcement, correctional, or correctional probation officers certified pursuant to s. 943.13, F.S., are not required to submit to level 2 screenings if they are currently employed by a law enforcement agency or correctional facility.

Juvenile Justice Training Academies

Section 985.66, F.S., is amended to:

[100] The CAR, in its current form, has been published by the DJJ since 2006. It includes all of the information required to be reported under s. 985.632, F.S., as well as additional information. See Comprehensive Accountability Reports, http://www.djj.state.fl.us/research/reports/car (last visited on February 12, 2014).

- Remove references to "academies" when referring to juvenile justice training programs;
- Require the DJJ to designate the number of (not just the location of) training programs and courses; and
- Authorize all employees of contract providers who provide services or care for youth under the responsibility of the DJJ to participate in the certifiable training program.

Juvenile Justice Circuit Advisory Boards

The bill amends s. 985.664, F.S., to remove obsolete language and specifies the chair of a board serves at the pleasure of the DJJ's Secretary.

Direct-Support Organizations

Current law does not address whether the DJJ may authorize direct support organizations to use personnel services of the juvenile justice system. The bill authorizes the DJJ to permit a direct support organization to use its personnel services. Personnel services include full-time or part-time personnel, as well as payroll processing services.

One-Time Startup Funding for Juvenile Justice Purposes

The bill changes references to "startup" funding and costs in s. 985.69, F.S., to refer to "repair and maintenance" funding and costs. This allows these funds to be used for the continuing repair and maintenance of the DJJ facilities.

Payment for Medical Expenses for Detained Youth (Section 35)

The bill codifies a similar provision contained in the 2013-2014 Implementing Bill for the General Appropriations Act.[101] This provision requires, if there is no contract between the DJJ and the hospital or provider providing health care services (services) at a hospital, payments to a provider may not exceed 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate for any services provided. The DJJ may continue to make payments for services to a provider at the current contracted rates through the current term of an executed contract.[102] However, once that contract expires, payments may not exceed 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate.

If a contract is executed on or after July 1, 2014, payments to providers for services may not exceed 110 percent of the Medicare allowable rate, unless the services are performed at a hospital that reports a negative operating margin for the previous fiscal year to the AHCA through hospital-audited financial data. In that instance, the DJJ may pay up to 125 percent of the Medicare allowable rate.

[101] Similar provisions have been included annually in the Implementing Bill since the 2010-2011 fiscal year. See, Ch. 2010-153, s. 11, Laws of Fla., Ch. 2011-47, s. 19, Laws of Fla., Ch. 2012-119, s. 16, Laws of Fla.; and Ch. 2013-41, s. 41, Laws of Fla.

[102] The bill allows for contracts to be renewed during the 2013-2014 fiscal year.

Repeal of Provisions

The bill removes obsolete provisions, including definitions in ch. 985, F.S., relating to dependency proceedings. Dependency proceedings are within the jurisdiction of the DCF and are addressed in ch. 39, F.S.

The bill repeals s. 945.75, F.S., relating to state correctional facility tours by juvenile offenders which violate federal law. This repeal will prevent the federal funding allocated to state juvenile justice programs from being compromised.

Effective Date

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014. However, the criminal offense of "willful and intentional neglect of a juvenile" that is created in s. 985.702, F.S., has an effective date of October 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under CS/CS/CS/SB 700, families currently financially unable to access various services may have increased access to services, such as tutoring and counseling, as a result of the establishment of evening reporting centers.

Children currently subject to placement in secure detention for technical violations of probation may not be required to go into secure detention because the bill creates an alternative consequence option to handle noncompliance with the technical conditions of probation. This could assist these children with maintaining employment they currently have.

C. Government Sector Impact:

Department of Juvenile Justice

The bill caps the maximum bed number for all residential facilities at 90 beds, instead of the maximum bed number of 165 in current law. The DJJ currently has two residential facilities over the 90 bed limit, Riverside Academy which has 165 beds and Avon Park Youth Academy which has 144 beds.[103] The DJJ reports the procurement process is already underway to place the excess beds at other facilities.[104]

The bill amends s. 985.25, F.S., to require any child taken into custody on three or more separate occasions within a 60-day period to be placed in secure detention care until the detention hearing. The DJJ reports that 1,500 youth met this criteria in the last fiscal year, at a cost (clothing and food) per youth of $5.16 per day. This change is estimated to cost an additional $7,740 a year and could vary depending on how many nights each youth stays at a detention center. The DJJ indicates they can absorb this increased cost within existing resources.[105]

The bill allows the DJJ to pay expenses in support of innovative programs and activities that address identified needs and the well-being of children in the DJJ's care or under its supervision. However, the bill specifies that these programs and activities must be accomplished within existing resources and the DJJ indicates that it can do so.[106]

The bill allows the DJJ to permit direct support organizations to use the DJJ personnel services, which may have a fiscal impact on the DJJ. However, the DJJ indicates any new expenses will be absorbed within existing resources.[107]

The bill adds new detention criteria which may result in some children being held in secure detention who would not otherwise have been detained, or being detained for longer periods of time. This will have an indeterminate impact on local government expenditures.

The DJJ may realize a positive fiscal impact from reduced recidivism rates as a result of the technical violation diversion program and increased supervision.

Office of State Courts Administrator (OSCA)

The OSCA indicates the following provisions of the bill will affect court operations:

- Requiring the courts to hold a hearing and ensure due process for juvenile offenders in direct contempt;
- Requiring the courts to provide a release date for offenders currently in detention; and

- Authorizing the courts to place children in alternative consequence programs for technical violations of probation.

Although the OSCA cannot accurately determine fiscal impact due to the unavailability of data needed to quantify the increase in judicial workload, the OSCA indicates they expect to be able to absorb additional workload with existing resources.[108]

Prison Bed Impact

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference found the new offense of "willful and intentional neglect of a juvenile" created in s. 985.702, F.S. would have an insignificant impact on the need for prison beds.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 121.0515, 316.635, 318.143, 985.01, 985.02, 985.03, 985.0301, 985.037, 985.039, 985.045, 985.11, 985.14, 985.145, 985.24, 985.245, 985.25, 985.255, 985.26, 985.265, 985.27, 985.275, 985.433, 985.435, 985.439, 985.441, 985.46, 985.461, 985.481, 985.4815, 985.514, 985.601, 985.632, 985.644, 985.66, 985.664, 985.672, 985.682, 985.69, 985.701, 985.721, and 943.0582.

This bill creates the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 985.17, 985.6441, and 985.702.

This bill repeals the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 985.105, 985.605, 985.606, 985.61, 985.694, and 945.75.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Section 985.01, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.01 Purposes and intent.—

(1) The purposes of this chapter are:

(a) To increase public safety by reducing juvenile delinquency through effective prevention, intervention, and treatment services that strengthen and reform the lives of children.

(b) ~~(a)~~ To provide judicial and other procedures to assure due process through which children, victims, and other interested parties are assured fair hearings by a respectful and respected court or other tribunal and the recognition, protection, and enforcement of their constitutional and other legal rights, while ensuring that public safety interests and the authority and dignity of the courts are adequately protected.

(c) ~~(b)~~ To provide ~~for the care, safety, and protection of children in~~ an environment that fosters healthy social, emotional, intellectual, educational, and physical development; to ensure secure and safe custody; and to promote the health and well-being of all children under the state's care.

(d) ~~(c)~~ To ensure the protection of society, by providing for a comprehensive standardized assessment of the child's needs so that the most appropriate control, discipline, punishment, and treatment can be administered consistent with the seriousness of the act committed, the community's long-term need for public safety, the prior record of the child, and the specific rehabilitation needs of the child, while also providing, whenever possible, restitution to the victim of the offense.

(e) ~~(d)~~ To preserve and strengthen the child's family ties, whenever possible, by providing for removal of the child from the physical custody of a parent ~~parental custody~~ only when his or her welfare or the safety and protection of the public cannot be adequately safeguarded without such removal; and, when the child is removed from his or her own family, to secure custody, care, and discipline for the child as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given by the parents~~;~~ ~~and to assure, in all cases in which a child must be permanently removed from parental custody, that the child be placed in an approved family home, adoptive home, independent living program, or other placement that provides the most stable and permanent living arrangement for the child, as determined by the court~~.

(f) ~~(e)~~ 1. To assure that the adjudication and disposition of a child alleged or found to have committed a violation of Florida law be exercised with appropriate discretion and in keeping with the seriousness of the offense and the need for treatment services, and that all findings made under this chapter be based upon facts presented at a hearing that meets the constitutional standards of fundamental fairness and due process.

2. To assure that the sentencing and placement of a child tried as an adult be appropriate and in keeping with the seriousness of the offense and the child's need for rehabilitative services, and that the proceedings and procedures applicable to such sentencing and placement be applied within the full framework of constitutional standards of fundamental fairness and due process.

(g) ~~(f)~~ To provide children committed to the department with training in life skills, including career and technical education, if appropriate.

(h) To care for children in the least restrictive and most appropriate service environments.

(i) To allocate resources for the most effective programs, services, and treatments to ensure that children, their families, and their community support systems are connected with these programs, services, and treatments at the most impactful points along the juvenile justice continuum.

(2) It is the intent of the Legislature that this chapter be liberally interpreted and construed in conformity with its declared purposes.

Section 2. Section 985.02, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.02 Legislative intent for the juvenile justice system.—

(1) GENERAL PROTECTIONS FOR CHILDREN.—It is a purpose of the Legislature that the children of this state be provided with the following protections:

(a) Protection from abuse, neglect, and exploitation.

(b) A permanent and stable home.

(c) A safe and nurturing environment that ~~which~~ will preserve a sense of personal dignity and integrity.

(d) Adequate nutrition, shelter, and clothing.

(e) Effective treatment to address physical, social, and emotional needs, regardless of geographical location.

(f) Equal opportunity and access to quality and effective education, which will meet the individual needs of each child, and to recreation and other community resources to develop individual abilities.

(g) Access to preventive services.

~~(h) An independent, trained advocate when intervention is necessary, and a skilled guardian or caretaker in a safe environment when alternative placement is necessary.~~

(h) ~~(i)~~ Gender-specific programming and gender-specific program models and services that comprehensively address the needs of a targeted gender group.

(2) SUBSTANCE ABUSE SERVICES.—The Legislature finds that children in the care of the state's ~~dependency and~~ delinquency system ~~systems~~ need appropriate health care services, that the impact of substance abuse on health indicates the need for health care services to include substance abuse services where appropriate, and that it is in the state's best interest that such children be provided the services they need to enable them to become and remain independent of state care. In order to provide these services, the state's ~~dependency and~~ delinquency system ~~systems~~ must have the ability to identify and provide appropriate intervention and treatment for children with personal or family-related substance abuse problems. It is therefore the purpose of the Legislature to provide authority for the state to contract with community substance abuse treatment providers for the development and operation of specialized support and overlay services for the ~~dependency and~~ delinquency system ~~systems~~, which will be fully implemented and used ~~utilized~~ as resources permit.

(3) JUVENILE JUSTICE AND DELINQUENCY PREVENTION.—It is the policy of the state with respect to juvenile justice and delinquency prevention to first protect the public from acts of delinquency. In addition, it is the policy of the state to:

(a) Develop and implement effective methods of preventing and reducing acts of delinquency, with a focus on maintaining and strengthening the family as a whole so that children may remain in their homes or communities.

(b) Develop and implement effective programs to prevent delinquency, to divert children from the traditional juvenile justice system, to intervene at an early stage of delinquency, and to provide critically needed alternatives to institutionalization and deep-end commitment.

(c) Provide well-trained personnel, high-quality services, and cost-effective programs within the juvenile justice system.

(d) Increase the capacity of local governments and public and private agencies to conduct rehabilitative treatment programs and to provide research, evaluation, and training services in the field of juvenile delinquency prevention.

~~The Legislature intends that detention care, in addition to providing secure and safe custody, will promote the health and well-being of the children committed thereto and provide an environment that fosters their social, emotional, intellectual, and physical development.~~

(4) DETENTION.—

(a) The Legislature finds that there is a need for a secure placement for certain children alleged to have committed a delinquent act. The Legislature finds that detention should be used only when less restrictive interim placement alternatives before ~~prior to~~ adjudication and disposition are not appropriate. The Legislature further finds that decisions to detain should be based in part on a prudent assessment of risk and be limited to situations where there is clear and convincing evidence that a child presents a risk of failing to appear or presents a substantial risk of inflicting bodily harm on others as evidenced by recent behavior; presents a history of committing a serious property offense prior to adjudication, disposition, or placement; has acted in direct or indirect contempt of court; or requests protection from imminent bodily harm.

(b) The Legislature intends that a juvenile found to have committed a delinquent act understands the consequences and the serious nature of such behavior. Therefore, the Legislature finds that secure detention is appropriate to provide punishment for juveniles who pose a threat to public safety ~~that discourages further delinquent behavior~~. The Legislature also finds that certain juveniles have committed a sufficient number of criminal acts, including acts involving violence to persons, to represent sufficient danger to the community to warrant sentencing and placement within the adult system. It is the intent of the Legislature to establish clear criteria in order to identify these juveniles and remove them from the juvenile justice system.

(5) SITING OF FACILITIES.—

(a) The Legislature finds that timely siting and development of needed residential facilities for juvenile offenders is critical to the public safety of the citizens of this state and to the effective rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

(b) It is the purpose of the Legislature to guarantee that such facilities are sited and developed within reasonable timeframes after they are legislatively authorized and appropriated.

(c) The Legislature further finds that such facilities must be located in areas of the state close to the home communities of the children they house in order to ensure the most effective rehabilitation efforts, ~~and the most intensive~~ postrelease supervision, and case management. The placement of facilities close to the home communities of the children they house is also intended to facilitate family involvement in the treatment process. Residential facilities may not ~~shall~~ have ~~no~~ more than 90 ~~165~~ beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one ~~level of restrictiveness, provide multilevel education and~~ treatment program ~~programs~~ using different treatment protocols~~,~~ and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property.

(d) It is the intent of the Legislature that all other departments and agencies of the state ~~shall~~ cooperate fully with the Department of Juvenile Justice to accomplish the siting of facilities for juvenile offenders.

The supervision, counseling, and rehabilitative treatment~~, and punitive~~ efforts of the juvenile justice system should avoid the inappropriate use of correctional programs and large institutions. ~~The Legislature finds that detention services should exceed the primary goal of providing safe and secure custody pending adjudication and disposition.~~

(6) PARENTAL, CUSTODIAL, AND GUARDIAN RESPONSIBILITIES.—

Parents, custodians, and guardians are deemed by the state to be responsible for providing their children with sufficient support, guidance, and supervision to deter their participation in delinquent acts. The state further recognizes that the ability of parents, custodians, and guardians to fulfill those responsibilities can be greatly impaired by economic, social, behavioral, emotional, and related problems. It is therefore the policy of the Legislature that it is the state's responsibility to ensure that factors impeding the ability of caretakers to fulfill their responsibilities are identified through the delinquency intake process and that appropriate recommendations to address those problems are considered in any judicial or nonjudicial proceeding. Nonetheless, as it is also the intent of the Legislature to preserve and strengthen the child's family ties, it is the policy of the Legislature that the emotional, legal, and financial responsibilities of the caretaker with regard to the care, custody, and support of the child continue while the child is in the physical or legal custody of the department.

(7) GENDER-SPECIFIC PROGRAMMING.—

(a) The Legislature finds that the prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation needs of children ~~youth~~ served by the juvenile justice system are gender specific ~~gender-specific~~.

(b) Gender-specific programming refers to unique program models and services that comprehensively address the needs of a targeted gender group. Gender-specific services require the adherence to the principle of equity to ensure that the different interests of young women and men are recognized and varying needs are met, with equality as the desired outcome. Gender-specific programming focuses on the differences between young females' and young males' roles and responsibilities, positions in society, access to and use of resources, and social codes governing behavior. Gender-specific programs increase the effectiveness of programs by making interventions more appropriate to the specific needs of young women and men and ensuring that these programs do not unknowingly create, maintain, or reinforce gender roles or relations that may be damaging.

(8) TRAUMA-INFORMED CARE.—The Legislature finds that the department should use trauma-informed care as an approach to treating children with histories of trauma. Trauma-informed care assists service providers in recognizing the symptoms of trauma and acknowledges the role trauma has played in the child's life. Services for children should be based on an understanding of the vulnerabilities and triggers of trauma survivors which traditional service delivery approaches may exacerbate so that these services and programs can be more supportive and avoid re-traumatization. The department should use trauma-specific interventions that are designed to address the consequences of trauma in the child and to facilitate healing.

(9) FAMILY AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT.—The Legislature finds that families and community support systems are critical to the success of children and to ensure that they are nondelinquent. Therefore, if appropriate, children who can be held accountable safely through serving and treating them in their homes and communities should be diverted from more restrictive placements within the juvenile justice system. The Legislature also finds that there should be an emphasis on strengthening the family and immersing them in their community support system. The department should develop customized plans that acknowledge the importance of family and community support systems. The customized plans should recognize a child's individual needs, capitalize on his or her strengths, reduce risk to the child, and prepare the child for a successful transition to, and unification with, his or her family and community support system. The child's family shall be included in the department's process of assessing the needs, services and treatment, and community connections of the children who are involved with the juvenile justice system or in danger of becoming so involved.

(a) Minimum-risk nonresidential.—Programs or program models at this commitment level work with youth who remain in the community and participate at least 5 days per week in a day-treatment ~~day treatment~~ program. Youth assessed and classified for programs at this commitment level represent a minimum risk to themselves and public safety and do not require placement and services in residential settings. Youth assessed and classified for placement in programs at this commitment level represent a low risk to themselves and public safety but do require placement and services in residential settings. Children who have been found to have committed delinquent acts that involve firearms, delinquent acts that are sexual offenses, or delinquent acts that would be life felonies or first degree felonies if committed by an adult shall not be committed to a program at this level.~~

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

Residential facilities at this commitment level may ~~shall~~ have up to 90 ~~no more than 165~~ beds each, including campus-style programs, unless those campus-style programs include more than one ~~level of restrictiveness, provide multilevel education and~~ treatment program ~~programs~~ using different treatment protocols~~,~~ and have facilities that coexist separately in distinct locations on the same property. Facilities at this commitment level shall provide 24-hour awake supervision, custody, care, and treatment of residents. Youth assessed and classified for this level of placement require close supervision in a structured residential setting. Placement in programs at this level is prompted by a concern for public safety which ~~that~~ outweighs placement in programs at lower commitment levels. The staff at a facility at this commitment level may seclude a child who is a physical threat to himself, ~~or~~ herself, or others. Mechanical restraint may also be used when necessary. The facility shall ~~may~~ provide for single cell occupancy, except that youth may be housed together during prerelease transition.

(5)(a) Notwithstanding s. 743.07, ~~ss. 743.07, 985.43, 985.433, 985.435, 985.439, and 985.441,~~ and except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) ~~ss. 985.461 and 985.465 and paragraph (f)~~, when the jurisdiction of a ~~any~~ child who is alleged to have committed a delinquent act or violation of law is obtained, the court retains ~~shall retain~~ jurisdiction to dispose the case, unless relinquished by its order, until the child reaches 19 years of age, with the same power over the child which the court had before the child became an adult. ~~For the purposes of s. 985.461, the court may retain jurisdiction for an additional 365 days following the child's 19th birthday if the child is participating in transition-to-adulthood services. The additional services do not extend involuntary court-sanctioned residential commitment and therefore require voluntary participation by the affected youth.~~

(b) Unless relinquished by its own order, the court retains jurisdiction over a child on probation until the child reaches 19 years of age ~~Notwithstanding ss. 743.07 and 985.455(3), the term of any order placing a child in a probation program must be until the child's 19th birthday unless he or she is released by the court on the motion of an interested party or on his or her own motion~~.

(c) Unless relinquished by its own order, the court retains jurisdiction over a child committed to the department until the child reaches 21 years of age, specifically for the purpose of allowing the child to complete the department's commitment program, including conditional release supervision.

(d) The court retains jurisdiction over a juvenile sex offender as defined in s. 985.475 who has been placed in a community-based treatment alternative program with supervision or in a program or facility for juvenile sex offenders pursuant to s. 985.48 until the juvenile sex offender reaches 21 years of age, specifically for the purpose of completing the program.

~~(c) Notwithstanding ss. 743.07 and 985.455(3), the term of the commitment must be until the child is discharged by the department or until he or she reaches the age of 21 years. Notwithstanding ss. 743.07, 985.435, 985.437, 985.439, 985.441, 985.455, and 985.513, and except as provided in this section, a child may not be held under a commitment from a court under s. 985.439, s. 985.441(1)(a) or (b), or s. 985.455 after becoming 21 years of age.~~

~~(d) The court may retain jurisdiction over a child committed to the department for placement in a juvenile prison or in a high-risk or maximum-risk residential commitment program to allow the child to participate in a juvenile conditional release program pursuant to s. 985.46. ~~(g) The court may retain jurisdiction over a juvenile sexual offender who has been placed in a program or facility for juvenile sexual offenders until the juvenile sexual offender reaches the age of 21, specifically for the purpose of completing the program.~~

(e) ~~(h)~~ The court may retain jurisdiction over a child and the child's parent or legal guardian whom the court has ordered to pay restitution until the restitution order is satisfied. To retain jurisdiction, the court shall enter a restitution order, which is separate from any disposition or order of commitment, on or before ~~prior to~~ the date that the court's jurisdiction would cease under this section. The contents of the restitution order are ~~shall be~~ limited to the child's name and address, the name and address of the parent or legal guardian, the name and address of the payee, the case number, the date and amount of restitution ordered, any amount of restitution paid, the amount of restitution due and owing, and a notation that costs, interest, penalties, and attorney fees may also be due and owing. The terms of the restitution order are subject to s. 775.089(5).

(b) If a child is charged with indirect contempt of court, the court must hold a hearing within 24 hours to determine whether the child committed indirect contempt of a valid court order. At the hearing, the following due process rights must be provided to the child:

1. Right to a copy of the order to show cause alleging facts supporting the contempt charge.

2. Right to an explanation of the nature and the consequences of the proceedings.

7. Right to appeal to an appropriate court.

(c) The court may not order that a child be placed in a secure detention facility as ~~for~~ punishment for contempt unless the court determines that an alternative sanction is inappropriate or unavailable or that the child was initially ordered to an alternative sanction and did not comply with the alternative sanction. The court is encouraged to order a child to perform community service, up to the maximum number of hours, if ~~where~~ appropriate before ordering that the child be placed in a secure detention facility as punishment for contempt of court.

(d) In addition to any other sanction imposed under this section, the court may direct the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles to withhold issuance of, or suspend, a child's driver ~~driver's~~ license or driving privilege. If the child's driver ~~driver's~~ license or driving privilege is suspended or revoked for any reason at the time the sanction for contempt is imposed, the court shall extend the period of suspension or revocation by the additional period ordered under this paragraph. If the child's driver ~~driver's~~ license is being withheld at the time the sanction for contempt is imposed, the period of suspension or revocation ordered under this paragraph shall begin on the date on which the child is otherwise eligible to drive.

Section 6. Section 985.105, Florida Statutes, is repealed.

Any person or agency having knowledge of the facts may make such a written report, affidavit, or complaint and shall furnish to the intake office facts sufficient to establish the jurisdiction of the court and to support a finding by the court that the child has committed a delinquent act or violation of law.

(b) Notification concerning apparent insufficiencies in probable cause affidavit.—In any case where the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ or the state attorney finds that the report, affidavit, or complaint is insufficient by the standards for a probable cause affidavit, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ or state attorney shall return the report, affidavit, or complaint, without delay, to the person or agency originating the report, affidavit, or complaint or having knowledge of the facts or to the appropriate law enforcement agency having investigative jurisdiction of the offense, and shall request, and the person or agency shall promptly furnish, additional information in order to comply with the standards for a probable cause affidavit.

The child shall also be screened to determine whether the child poses a danger to himself or herself or others in the community. The results of this screening shall be made available to the court and to court officers. In cases where such conditions are identified and a nonjudicial handling of the case is chosen, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall attempt to refer the child to a program or agency, together with all available and relevant assessment information concerning the child's precipitating condition.

(d) Completing risk assessment instrument.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall ensure that a risk assessment instrument establishing the child's eligibility for detention has been accurately completed and that the appropriate recommendation was made to the court.

(e) Rights.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall inquire as to whether the child understands his or her rights to counsel and against self-incrimination.

(f) Multidisciplinary assessment.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall coordinate the multidisciplinary assessment when required, which includes the classification and placement process that determines the child's priority needs, risk classification, and treatment plan. If ~~When~~ sufficient evidence exists to warrant a comprehensive assessment and the child fails to voluntarily participate in the assessment efforts, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall inform the court of the need for the assessment and the refusal of the child to participate in such assessment. (g) Comprehensive assessment. ~~The juvenile probation officer,~~ Pursuant to uniform procedures established by the department and upon determining that the report, affidavit, or complaint is complete, the department shall:

2. If indicated by the preliminary screening, provide for a comprehensive assessment of the child and family for substance abuse problems, using community-based licensed programs with clinical expertise and experience in the assessment of substance abuse problems.

(h) Referrals for services.—The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall make recommendations for services and facilitate the delivery of those services to the child, including any mental health services, educational services, family counseling services, family assistance services, and substance abuse services.

(i) Recommendation concerning a petition.—Upon determining that the report, affidavit, or complaint complies with the standards of a probable cause affidavit and that the interests of the child and the public will be best served, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ may recommend that a delinquency petition not be filed. If such a recommendation is made, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall advise in writing the person or agency making the report, affidavit, or complaint, the victim, if any, and the law enforcement agency having investigative jurisdiction over the offense of the recommendation; the reasons therefor; and that the person or agency may submit, within 10 days after the receipt of such notice, the report, affidavit, or complaint to the state attorney for special review. The state attorney, upon receiving a request for special review, shall consider the facts presented by the report, affidavit, or complaint~~,~~ and by the department ~~juvenile probation officer who made the recommendation that no petition be filed,~~ before making a final decision as to whether a petition or information should or should not be filed.

(j) Completing intake report.—Subject to the interagency agreement authorized under this paragraph, the department ~~the juvenile probation officer for each case in which a child is alleged to have committed a violation of law or delinquent act and is not detained~~ shall submit a written report to the state attorney for each case in which a child is alleged to have committed a violation of law or delinquent act and is not detained. The report shall be submitted within 20 days after the date the child is taken into custody and must include~~, including~~ the original police report, complaint, or affidavit, or a copy thereof, and ~~including~~ a copy of the child's prior juvenile record~~, within 20 days after the date the child is taken into custody~~. In cases in which the child is in detention, the intake office report must be submitted within 24 hours after the child is placed into detention. The intake office report may include a recommendation that a petition or information be filed or that no petition or information be filed and may set forth reasons for the recommendation. The state attorney and the department may, on a district-by-district basis, enter into interagency agreements denoting the cases that will require a recommendation and those for which a recommendation is unnecessary.

(2) Before ~~Prior to~~ requesting that a delinquency petition be filed or before ~~prior to~~ filing a dependency petition, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ may request the parent or legal guardian of the child to attend a course of instruction in parenting skills, training in conflict resolution, and the practice of nonviolence; to accept counseling; or to receive other assistance from any agency in the community which notifies the clerk of the court of the availability of its services. If ~~Where~~ appropriate, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~

The parent or guardian must provide the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ with identifying information, including the parent's or guardian's name, address, date of birth, social security number, and driver ~~driver's~~ license number or identification card number in order to comply with s. 985.039.

(3) If ~~When~~ indicated by the comprehensive assessment, the department is authorized to contract within appropriated funds for services with a local nonprofit community mental health or substance abuse agency licensed or authorized under chapter 394 or chapter 397 or other authorized nonprofit social service agency providing related services. (4) Client information resulting from the screening and evaluation shall be documented under rules of the department and shall serve to assist the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ in providing the most appropriate services and recommendations in the least intrusive manner. Such client information shall be used in the multidisciplinary assessment and classification of the child, but such information, and any information obtained directly or indirectly through the assessment process, is inadmissible in court before ~~prior to~~ the disposition hearing, unless the child's written consent is obtained. At the disposition hearing, documented client information shall serve to assist the court in making the most appropriate custody, adjudicatory, and dispositional decision.

(5) If the screening and assessment indicate that the interests of the child and the public will be best served, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~, with the approval of the state attorney, may refer the child for care, diagnostic, and evaluation services; substance abuse treatment services; mental health services; intellectual disability services; a diversionary, arbitration, or mediation program; community service work; or other programs or treatment services voluntarily accepted by the child and the child's parents or legal guardian. If a child volunteers to participate in any work program under this chapter or volunteers to work in a specified state, county, municipal, or community service organization supervised work program or to work for the victim, the child is considered an employee of the state for the purposes of liability. In determining the child's average weekly wage, unless otherwise determined by a specific funding program, all remuneration received from the employer is considered a gratuity, and the child is not entitled to any benefits otherwise payable under s. 440.15 regardless of whether the child may be receiving wages and remuneration from other employment with another employer and regardless of the child's future wage-earning capacity.

(6) The victim, if any, and the law enforcement agency that investigated the offense shall be notified immediately by the state attorney of the action taken under subsection (5).

2. Provide the department with demographic information, dates of services, and the type of interventions received by each youth.

(b) The department shall monitor output and outcome measures for each program strategy in paragraph (a) and include them in the annual Comprehensive Accountability Report published pursuant to s. 985.632.

(c) The department shall monitor all programs that receive or use state moneys to fund juvenile delinquency prevention services through contracts or grants with the department for compliance with all provisions in the contracts or grants.

Section 11. Section 985.24, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.24 Use of detention; prohibitions.—

3. Engaging in a punishable act or speech in the court's presence which shows disrespect for the authority and dignity of the court; or

(e) Requests protection from imminent bodily harm.

(2) A child alleged to have committed a delinquent act or violation of law may not be placed into secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care for any of the following reasons:

(3) A child alleged to be dependent under chapter 39 may not, under any circumstances, be placed into secure detention care.

(4) The department may develop nonsecure, nonresidential evening-reporting centers as an alternative to placing a child in secure detention to serve children and families while awaiting court hearings. Evening-reporting centers may be collocated with the juvenile assessment center. At a minimum, evening-reporting centers shall be operated during the afternoon and evening hours and provide a highly structured program of supervision. Evening-reporting centers may also provide academic tutoring, counseling, family engagement programs, and other activities.

(5)~~(4)~~ The department shall continue to identify alternatives to secure detention care and shall develop such alternatives and annually submit them to the Legislature for authorization and appropriation.

Section 12. Paragraph (b) of subsection (2) and subsection (4) of section 985.245, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

(b) The risk assessment instrument, at a minimum, shall consider ~~take into consideration, but need not be limited to,~~ prior history of failure to appear, prior offenses, offenses committed pending adjudication, any unlawful possession of a firearm, theft of a motor vehicle or possession of a stolen motor vehicle, and probation status at the time the child is taken into custody. The risk assessment instrument shall also consider ~~take into consideration~~ appropriate aggravating and mitigating circumstances, ~~and~~ shall be designed to target a narrower population of children than s. 985.255, and~~. The risk assessment instrument~~ shall ~~also~~ include any information concerning the child's history of abuse and neglect. The risk assessment shall indicate whether detention care is warranted~~,~~ and, if detention care is warranted, whether the child should be placed into secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care.

(4) If ~~For~~ a child who is under the supervision of the department through probation, ~~home detention,~~ nonsecure detention, conditional release, postcommitment probation, or commitment ~~and who~~ is charged with committing a new offense, the

Section 13. Subsection (1) of section 985.25, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.25 Detention intake.—

(1) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall receive custody of a child who has been taken into custody from the law enforcement agency or court and shall review the facts in the law enforcement report or probable cause affidavit and make such further inquiry as may be necessary to determine whether detention care is appropriate ~~required~~.

(a) During the period of time from the taking of the child into custody to the date of the detention hearing, the initial decision as to the child's placement into secure detention care or~~,~~ nonsecure detention care~~, or home detention care~~ shall be made by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ under ss. 985.24 and 985.245(1).

(b) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall base its ~~the~~ decision as to whether ~~or not~~ to place the child into secure ~~detention care, home detention care,~~ or nonsecure detention care on an assessment of risk in accordance with the risk assessment instrument and procedures developed by the department under s. 985.245. However, a child charged with possessing or discharging a firearm on school property in violation of s. 790.115 shall be placed in secure detention care. A child who has been taken into custody on three or more separate occasions within a 60-day period shall be placed in secure detention care until the child's detention hearing.

(c) If the child's final score on the risk assessment instrument indicates that ~~juvenile probation officer determines that a child who is eligible for~~ detention care is appropriate, but the department otherwise determines he or she ~~based upon the results of the risk assessment instrument~~ should be released, the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall contact the state attorney, who may authorize release.

(d) If the child's final score on the risk assessment instrument indicates that detention is not appropriate ~~authorized~~, the child may be released by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ in accordance with ss. 985.115 and 985.13.

~~Under no circumstances shall~~ The department, ~~juvenile probation officer or~~ the state attorney, or a law enforcement officer may not authorize the detention of any child in a jail or other facility intended or used for the detention of adults~~,~~ without an order of the court.

(1) Subject to s. 985.25(1), a child taken into custody and placed into nonsecure or secure ~~home~~ detention care shall be given a hearing within 24 hours after being taken into custody. At the hearing, the court may order continued detention ~~or detained in secure detention care prior to a detention hearing may continue to be detained by the court~~ if:

(a) The child is alleged to be an escapee from a residential commitment program~~,~~ or an absconder from a nonresidential commitment program, a probation program, or conditional release supervision~~;~~ or is alleged to have escaped while being lawfully transported to or from a residential commitment program.

(b) The child is wanted in another jurisdiction for an offense that ~~which~~, if committed by an adult, would be a felony.

(c) The child is charged with a delinquent act or violation of law and requests in writing through legal counsel to be detained for protection from an imminent physical threat to his or her personal safety.

(d) The child is charged with committing an offense of domestic violence as defined in s. 741.28 and is detained as provided in subsection (2).

(e) The child is charged with possession or discharging a firearm on school property in violation of s. 790.115 or the illegal possession of a firearm.

(f) The child is charged with a capital felony, a life felony, a felony of the first degree, a felony of the second degree which ~~that~~ does not involve a violation of chapter 893, or a felony of the third degree which ~~that~~ is also a crime of violence, including any such offense involving the use or possession of a firearm.

(g) The child is charged with a felony of the ~~any~~ second degree or a felony of the third degree ~~felony~~ involving a violation of chapter 893 or a felony of the ~~any~~ third degree which ~~felony that~~ is not also a crime of violence, and the child:

(h) The child is alleged to have violated the conditions of the child's probation or conditional release supervision. However, a child detained under this paragraph may be held only in a consequence unit as provided in s. 985.439. If a consequence unit is not available, the child shall be placed on nonsecure ~~home~~ detention with electronic monitoring.

(i) The child is detained on a judicial order for failure to appear and has previously willfully failed to appear, after proper notice:~~,~~

1. For an adjudicatory hearing on the same case regardless of the results of the risk assessment instrument; or

2. At two or more court hearings of any nature on the same case, regardless of the results of the risk assessment instrument.

A child may be held in secure detention for up to 72 hours in advance of the next scheduled court hearing pursuant to this paragraph. The child's failure to keep the clerk of court and defense counsel informed of a current and valid mailing address where the child will receive notice to appear at court proceedings does not provide an adequate ground for excusal of the child's nonappearance at the hearings.

~~(j) The child is detained on a judicial order for failure to appear and has previously willfully failed to appear, after proper notice, at two or more court hearings of any nature on the same case regardless of the results of the risk assessment instrument. A child may be held in secure detention for up to 72 hours in advance of the next scheduled court hearing pursuant to this paragraph. The child's failure to keep the clerk of court and defense counsel informed of a current and valid mailing address where the child will receive notice to appear at court proceedings does not provide an adequate ground for excusal of the child's nonappearance at the hearings.~~

(2) A child who is charged with committing an offense classified as ~~of~~ domestic violence as defined in s. 741.28 and whose risk assessment indicates secure detention is not appropriate ~~who does not meet detention criteria~~ may be held in secure detention if the court makes specific written findings that:

(a) Respite care for the child is not available; or~~.~~

(b) It is necessary to place the child in secure detention in order to protect the victim from injury.

The child may not be held in secure detention under this subsection for more than 48 hours unless ordered by the court. After 48 hours, the court shall hold a hearing if the state attorney or victim requests that secure detention be continued. The child may continue to be held in detention care if the court makes a specific, written finding that respite care is unavailable or it ~~detention care~~ is necessary to protect the victim from injury. However, the child may not be held in detention care beyond the time limits provided ~~set forth~~ in this section or s. 985.26.

(3)(a) ~~A child who meets any of the criteria in subsection (1) and who is ordered to be detained under that subsection shall be given a hearing within 24 hours after being taken into custody.~~ The purpose of the detention hearing required under subsection (1) is to determine the existence of probable cause that the child has committed the delinquent act or violation of law that he or she is charged with and the need for continued detention. Unless a child is detained under paragraph (1)(d) or paragraph (1)(e), the court shall use the results of the risk assessment performed by the department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ and, based on the criteria in subsection (1), shall determine the need for continued detention. ~~A child placed into secure, nonsecure, or home detention care may continue to be so detained by the court.~~

(b) If the court orders a placement more restrictive than indicated by the results of the risk assessment instrument, the court shall state, in writing, clear and convincing reasons for such placement.

(c) Except as provided in s. 790.22(8) or ~~in~~ s. 985.27, when a child is placed into secure or nonsecure detention care, or into a respite home or other placement pursuant to a court order following a hearing, the court order must include specific instructions that direct the release of the child from such placement by ~~no later than~~ 5 p.m. on the last day of the detention period specified in s. 985.26 or s. 985.27, whichever is applicable, unless the requirements of such applicable provision have been met or an order of continuance has been granted under s. 985.26(4). If the court order does not include a date of release, the release date must be requested of the court on the same date the youth was placed on detention care. If a subsequent hearing is needed to provide additional information to the court for safety planning, the initial order placing the youth on detention care must reflect the next detention review hearing, which should be held within 3 calendar days after the child's initial detention placement.

Section 15. Subsections (1) through (3) of section 985.26, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.26 Length of detention.—

(1) A child may not be placed into or held in secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care for more ~~longer~~ than 24 hours unless the court orders such detention care~~,~~ and the order includes specific instructions that direct the release of the child from such detention care~~,~~ in accordance with s. 985.255. The order shall be a final order, reviewable by appeal under s. 985.534 and the Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure. Appeals of such orders ~~shall~~ take precedence over other appeals and other pending matters.

(2) A child may not be held in secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care under a special detention order for more than 21 days unless an adjudicatory hearing for the case has been commenced in good faith by the court. However, upon good cause being shown that the nature of the charge requires additional time for the prosecution or defense of the case, the court may extend the length of detention for an additional 9 days if the child is charged with an offense that would be, if committed by an adult, a capital felony, a life felony, a felony

(3) Except as provided in subsection (2), a child may not be held in secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care for more than 15 days following the entry of an order of adjudication.

Section 16. Section 985.265, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.265 Detention transfer and release; education; adult jails.—

(1) If a child is detained under this part, the department may transfer the child from nonsecure ~~or home~~ detention care to secure detention care only if significantly changed circumstances warrant such transfer.

(2) If a child is on release status and not detained under this part, the child may be placed into secure or~~,~~ nonsecure~~, or home~~ detention care only pursuant to a court hearing in which the original risk assessment instrument and the~~, rescored based on~~ newly discovered evidence or changed circumstances are introduced into evidence with a rescored risk assessment instrument ~~with the results recommending detention, is introduced into evidence~~.

(3)(a) If ~~When~~ a juvenile sexual offender is placed in detention, detention staff shall provide appropriate monitoring and supervision to ensure the safety of other children in the facility.

(b) If ~~When~~ a juvenile charged with murder under s. 782.04, sexual battery under chapter 794, stalking under s. 784.048, or domestic violence as defined in s. 741.28, or an attempt to commit any of these offenses ~~sexual offender~~, ~~under this~~

(4)(a) While a child who is currently enrolled in school is in nonsecure ~~or home~~ detention care, the child shall continue to attend school unless otherwise ordered by the court.

(b) While a child is in secure detention care, the child shall receive education commensurate with his or her grade level and educational ability.

(5) The court shall order the delivery of a child to a jail or other facility intended or used for the detention of adults:

(a) If ~~When~~ the child has been transferred or indicted for criminal prosecution as an adult under part X., ~~except that~~ The court may not order or allow a child alleged to have committed a misdemeanor who is being transferred for criminal prosecution pursuant to either s. 985.556 or s. 985.557 to be detained or held in a jail or other facility intended or used for the detention of adults; however, such child may be held temporarily in a detention facility; or

(b) If ~~When~~ a child taken into custody in this state is wanted by another jurisdiction for prosecution as an adult.

A ~~The~~ child shall be housed separately from adult inmates to prohibit the ~~a~~ child from having regular contact with incarcerated adults, including trustees. As used in this subsection, the term "regular contact" means sight and sound contact. Separation of children from adults may not allow ~~shall permit no~~ more than haphazard or accidental contact. The receiving jail or other facility shall provide ~~contain~~ a separate section for children and shall have ~~an adequate~~ staff adequate to supervise and monitor the child's activities at all times. Supervision and monitoring of children includes physical observation and documented checks by jail or receiving facility supervisory personnel at intervals not to exceed 10 ~~15~~ minutes. This subsection does not prohibit placing two or more children in the same cell. ~~Under no circumstances shall~~ A child may not be placed in a ~~the same~~ cell with an adult.

Section 17. Section 985.27, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.27 Postadjudication ~~Postcommitment~~ detention while awaiting commitment placement.—

(1) The court must place all children who are adjudicated and awaiting placement in a commitment program in detention care. Children who are in ~~home detention care or~~ nonsecure detention care may be placed on electronic monitoring.

(a) ~~A child who is awaiting placement in a low-risk residential program must be removed from detention within 5 days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. Any child held in secure detention during the 5 days must meet detention admission criteria under this part. A child who is placed in home detention care, nonsecure detention care, or home or nonsecure detention care with electronic monitoring, while awaiting placement in a minimum-risk or low-risk program, may be held in secure detention care for 5 days, if the child violates the conditions of the home detention care, the nonsecure detention care, or the electronic monitoring agreement. For any subsequent violation, the court may impose an additional 5 days~~

~~in secure detention care.~~

~~(b)~~ A child who is awaiting placement in a nonsecure ~~moderate-risk~~ residential program must be removed from detention within 5 days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. A ~~Any~~ child held in secure detention during the 5 days must meet detention admission criteria under this part. The department may seek an order from the court authorizing continued detention for a specific period of time necessary for the appropriate residential placement of the child. However, such continued detention in secure detention care may not exceed 15 days after entry of the commitment order, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, and except as otherwise provided in this section. A child who is placed in ~~home detention care,~~ nonsecure detention care~~,~~ or ~~home or~~ nonsecure detention care with electronic monitoring~~,~~ while awaiting placement in a nonsecure residential ~~moderate-risk~~ program~~,~~ may be held in secure detention care for 5 days~~,~~ if the child violates the conditions of ~~the home detention care,~~ the nonsecure detention care~~,~~ or the electronic monitoring agreement. For any subsequent violation, the court may impose an additional 5 days in secure detention care.

(b) ~~(c)~~ If the child is committed to a high-risk residential program, the child must be held in secure detention care until placement or commitment is accomplished.

(c) ~~(d)~~ If the child is committed to a maximum-risk residential program, the child must be held in secure detention care until placement or commitment is accomplished.

(2) Regardless of detention status, a child being transported by the department to a residential commitment facility of the department may be placed in secure detention for up to 24 hours ~~overnight, not to exceed a 24-hour period,~~ for the specific purpose of ensuring the safe delivery of the child to his or her residential commitment program, court, appointment, transfer, or release.

Section 18. Subsection (1) of section 985.275, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.275 Detention of escapee or absconder on authority of the department.—

(1) If an authorized agent of the department has reasonable grounds to believe that a ~~any~~ delinquent child committed to the department has escaped from a residential commitment facility or in the course of lawful transportation to or from such facility ~~from being lawfully transported thereto or therefrom,~~ or has absconded from a nonresidential commitment facility, the agent shall notify law enforcement and, if the offense qualifies under chapter 960, notify the victim, and make every reasonable effort to locate the delinquent child. The child may be returned ~~take the child into active custody and may deliver the child~~ to the facility or, if it is closer, to a detention center for return to the facility. However, a child may not be held in detention more ~~longer~~ than 24 hours, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, unless a special order so directing is made by the judge after a detention hearing resulting in a finding that detention is required based on the criteria in s. 985.255. The order must ~~shall~~ state the reasons for such finding. The reasons are ~~shall be~~ reviewable by appeal or in habeas corpus proceedings in the district court of appeal.

Section 19. Paragraph (b) of subsection (4), paragraph (h) of subsection (6), and paragraph (a) of subsection (7) of section 985.433, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.433 Disposition hearings in delinquency cases.—When a child has been found to have committed a delinquent act, the following procedures shall be applicable to the disposition of the case:

(4) Before the court determines and announces the disposition to be imposed, it shall:

(b) Discuss with the child his or her compliance with any predisposition ~~home release~~ plan or other plan imposed since the date of the offense.

(6) The first determination to be made by the court is a determination of the suitability or nonsuitability for adjudication and commitment of the child to the department. This determination shall include consideration of the recommendations of the department, which may include a predisposition report. The predisposition report shall include, whether as part of the child's multidisciplinary assessment, classification, and placement process components or separately, evaluation of the following criteria:

(h) The child's educational status, including, but not limited to, the child's strengths, abilities, and unmet and special educational needs. The report must ~~shall~~ identify appropriate educational and career ~~vocational~~ goals for the child. Examples of appropriate goals include:

1. Attainment of a high school diploma or its equivalent.

2. Successful completion of literacy course(s).

3. Successful completion of career and technical educational ~~vocational~~ course(s).

4. Successful attendance and completion of the child's current grade, or recovery of credits of classes the child previously failed, if enrolled in school.

5. Enrollment in an apprenticeship or a similar program.

It is the intent of the Legislature that the criteria set forth in this subsection are general guidelines to be followed at the discretion of the court and not mandatory requirements of procedure. It is not the intent of the Legislature to provide for the appeal of the disposition made under this section.

(7) If the court determines that the child should be adjudicated as having committed a delinquent act and should be committed to the department, such determination shall be in writing or on the record of the hearing. The determination shall include a specific finding of the reasons for the decision to adjudicate and to commit the child to the department, including any determination that the child was a member of a criminal gang.

(a) The department ~~juvenile probation officer~~ shall recommend to the court the most appropriate placement and treatment plan, specifically identifying the restrictiveness level most appropriate for the child if commitment is recommended. If the court has determined that the child was a member of a criminal gang, that determination shall be given great weight in identifying the most appropriate restrictiveness level for the child. The court shall consider the department's recommendation in making its commitment decision.

Section 20. Present subsections (4) through (6) of section 985.435, Florida Statutes, are redesignated as subsections (5) through (7), respectively, a new subsection (4) is added to that section, and subsection (3) and present subsection (4) of that section are amended, to read:

985.435 Probation and postcommitment probation; community service.—

(3) A probation program must also include a rehabilitative program component such as a requirement of participation in substance abuse treatment or in a school or career and technical ~~other~~ educational program. The nonconsent of the child to treatment in a substance abuse treatment program does not preclude ~~in no way precludes~~ the court from ordering such treatment. Upon the recommendation of the department at the time of disposition, or subsequent to disposition pursuant to the filing of a petition alleging a violation of the child's conditions of postcommitment probation, the court may order the child to submit to random testing for the purpose of detecting and monitoring the use of alcohol or controlled substances.

(4) A probation program may also include an alternative consequence component to address instances in which a child is noncompliant with technical conditions of his or her probation, but has not committed any new violations of law. The alternative consequence component shall be designed to provide swift and appropriate consequences to any noncompliance with technical conditions of probation. If the probation program includes this component, specific consequences that apply to noncompliance with specific technical conditions of probation must be detailed in the disposition order.

(5) ~~(4)~~ An evaluation of the youth's risk to reoffend ~~A classification scale for levels of supervision~~ shall be provided by the department, taking into account the child's needs and risks relative to probation supervision requirements to reasonably ensure the public safety. Probation programs for children shall be supervised by the department or by any other person or agency specifically authorized by the court. These programs must include, but are not limited to, structured or restricted activities as described in this section and s. 985.439, and shall be designed to encourage the child toward acceptable and functional social behavior.

Section 21. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) and subsection (4) of section 985.439, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.439 Violation of probation or postcommitment probation.—

(1)(a) This section is applicable when the court has jurisdiction over a child on probation or postcommitment probation, regardless of adjudication ~~an adjudicated delinquent child~~.

(4) Upon the child's admission, or if the court finds after a hearing that the child has violated the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation, the court shall enter an order revoking, modifying, or continuing probation or postcommitment probation. In each such case, the court shall enter a new disposition order and, in addition to the sanctions set forth in this section, may impose any sanction the court could have imposed at the original disposition hearing. If the child is found to have violated the conditions of probation or postcommitment probation, the court may:

(a) Place the child in a consequence unit in that judicial circuit, if available, for up to 5 days for a first violation and up to 15 days for a second or subsequent violation.

(b) Place the child on nonsecure ~~home~~ detention with electronic monitoring. However, this sanction may be used only if a residential consequence unit is not available.

(c) Modify or continue the child's probation program or postcommitment probation program.

(d) Revoke probation or postcommitment probation and commit the child to the department.

(e) If the violation of probation is technical in nature and not a new violation of law, place the child in an alternative consequence program designed to provide swift and appropriate consequences for any further violations of probation.

1. Alternative consequence programs shall be established at the local level in coordination with law enforcement agencies, the chief judge of the circuit, the state attorney, and the public defender.

2. Alternative consequence programs may be operated by an entity such as a law enforcement agency, the department, a juvenile assessment center, a county or municipality, or another entity selected by the department.

3. Upon placing a child in an alternative consequence program, the court must approve specific consequences for specific violations of the conditions of probation.

Section 22. Subsection (2) of section 985.441, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

985.441 Commitment.—

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), the court having jurisdiction over an adjudicated delinquent child whose

~~underlying~~ offense is ~~was~~ a misdemeanor, or a child who is currently on probation for a misdemeanor, may not commit the child for any misdemeanor offense or any probation violation that is technical in nature and not a new violation of law at a restrictiveness level other than minimum-risk nonresidential ~~unless the probation violation is a new violation of law constituting a felony~~. However, the court may commit such child to a nonsecure ~~low-risk or moderate-risk~~ residential placement if:

(a) The child has previously been adjudicated or had adjudication withheld for a felony offense;

(b) The child has previously been adjudicated or had adjudication withheld for three or more misdemeanor offenses within the preceding 18 months;

(c) The child is before the court for disposition for a violation of s. 800.03, s. 806.031, or s. 828.12; or

(d) The court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the protection of the public requires such placement or that the particular needs of the child would be best served by such placement. Such finding must be in writing.

Section 23. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) and subsection (5) of section 985.46, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.46 Conditional release.—

(1) The Legislature finds that:

(a) Conditional release is the care, treatment, help, provision of transition-to-adulthood services, and supervision provided to juveniles released from residential commitment programs to promote rehabilitation and prevent recidivism.

(5) Participation in the educational program by students of compulsory school attendance age pursuant to s. 1003.21(1) and (2)(a) is mandatory for juvenile justice youth on conditional release or postcommitment probation status. A student of noncompulsory school-attendance age who has not received a high school diploma or its equivalent must participate in an ~~the~~ educational or career and technical educational program. A youth who has received a high school diploma or its equivalent and is not employed must participate in workforce development or other career or technical education or attend a community college or a university while in the program, subject to available funding.

Section 24. Subsections (1) through (5) of section 985.461, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

985.461 Transition to adulthood.—

(1) The Legislature finds that ~~older~~ youth are faced with the need to learn how to support themselves within legal means and overcome the stigma of being delinquent. In most cases, parents expedite this transition. It is the intent of the Legislature that the department provide ~~older~~ youth in its custody or under its supervision with opportunities for participating in transition-to-adulthood services while in the department's commitment programs or in probation or conditional release programs in the community. These services should be reasonable and appropriate for the youths' respective ages or special needs and provide activities that build life skills and increase the ability to live independently and become self-sufficient.

(2) Youth served by the department who are in the custody of the Department of Children and Families ~~Family Services~~ and who entered juvenile justice placement from a foster care placement, if otherwise eligible, may receive independent living transition services pursuant to s. 409.1451. Court-ordered commitment or probation with the department is not a barrier to eligibility for the array of services available to a youth who is in the dependency foster care system only.

(3) For a dependent child in the foster care system, adjudication for delinquency does not, by itself, disqualify such child for eligibility in the Department of Children and Families' ~~Family Services'~~ independent living program.

(4) As part of the child's treatment plan, the department may provide transition-to-adulthood services to children released from residential commitment. To support participation in transition-to-adulthood services and subject to appropriation, the department may:

(a) Assess the child's skills and abilities to live independently and become self-sufficient. The specific services ~~to be~~ provided shall be determined using an assessment of his or her readiness for adult life.

(b) Use community reentry teams to assist in the development of ~~Develop~~ a list of age-appropriate activities and responsibilities to be incorporated in the child's written case plan for any youth ~~17 years of age or older~~ who is under the custody or supervision of the department. Community reentry teams may include representation from school districts, law enforcement, workforce development services, community-based service providers, and the youth's family. For the purposes of this section, modification includes, but is not limited to, a variance, rezoning, special exception, or any other action of the local government having jurisdiction over the proposed site which would authorize siting of a facility.

(3) ~~(7)~~ Upon receipt of a request for modification from the department, the local government may recommend and hold a public hearing on the request for modification in the same manner as for a rezoning as provided under the appropriate special or

If the regional planning council has not established a dispute resolution process pursuant to s. 186.509, the department shall establish, by rule, procedures for dispute resolution. The dispute resolution process must ~~shall~~ require the parties to commence meetings to reconcile their differences. If the parties fail to resolve their differences within 30 days after the denial, they ~~the parties~~ shall engage in voluntary mediation or a similar process. If the parties fail to resolve their differences by mediation within 60 days after the denial, or if no action is taken on the department's request within 90 days after the request, the department must appeal the decision of the local government on the requested modification of local plans, ordinances, or regulations to the Governor and Cabinet. (c) ~~The statewide study, as established in subsection (1); other~~ Existing studies; reports and information maintained by the department as the Governor and Cabinet may request addressing the feasibility and availability of alternative sites in the general area; and the need for a facility in the area based on the average number of petitions, commitments, and transfers into the criminal court from the county to state facilities for the 3 most recent ~~3~~ calendar years.

(6) ~~(10)~~ The Governor and Cabinet, upon determining that the local government has not recommended a ~~no~~ feasible alternative site and that the interests of the state in providing facilities outweigh the concerns of the local government, shall authorize construction and operation of a facility on the proposed site notwithstanding any local plan, ordinance, or regulation.

(7) ~~(11)~~ The Governor and Cabinet may adopt rules ~~of procedure~~ to govern these proceedings in accordance with ~~the provisions of~~ s. 120.54.

(8) ~~(12)~~ Actions taken by the department or the Governor and Cabinet pursuant to this section are not ~~shall not be~~ subject to ~~the provisions of~~ ss. 120.56, 120.569, and 120.57. (f)~~(g)~~ Effective July 1, 2008, the member must be employed by the Department of Law Enforcement in the crime laboratory or by the Division of State Fire Marshal in the forensic laboratory and meet the special criteria set forth in paragraph (3)(h) ~~(3)(i)~~.

(g)~~(h)~~ Effective July 1, 2008, the member must be employed by a local government law enforcement agency or medical examiner's office and meet the special criteria set forth in paragraph (3)(i) ~~(3)(j)~~.

(h)~~(i)~~ Effective August 1, 2008, "special risk member" includes any member who meets the special criteria for continued membership set forth in paragraph (3)(j) ~~(3)(k)~~.

(3) CRITERIA.—A member, to be designated as a special risk member, must meet the following criteria:

s. 121.091(4), and must satisfy the requirements of this paragraph.

1. The ability to qualify for the class of membership defined in paragraph (2)(h) ~~(2)(i)~~ occurs when two licensed medical physicians, one of whom is a primary treating physician of the member, certify the existence of the physical injury and medical condition that constitute a qualifying injury as defined in this paragraph and that the member has reached maximum medical improvement after August 1, 2008. The certifications from the licensed medical physicians must include, at a minimum, that the injury to the special risk member has resulted in a physical loss, or loss of use, of at least two of the following: left arm, right arm, left leg, or right leg; and:

a. That this physical loss or loss of use is total and permanent, except if the loss of use is due to a physical injury to the member's brain, in which event the loss of use is permanent with at least 75 percent loss of motor function with respect to each arm or leg affected.

b. That this physical loss or loss of use renders the member physically unable to perform the essential job functions of his or her special risk position.

c. That, notwithstanding this physical loss or loss of use, the individual can perform the essential job functions required by the member's new position, as provided in subparagraph 3.

d. That use of artificial limbs is not possible or does not alter the member's ability to perform the essential job functions of the member's position.

psychological, or emotional injury.

2. For the purposes of this paragraph, "qualifying injury" means an injury sustained in the line of duty, as certified by the member's employing agency, by a special risk member that does not result in total and permanent disability as defined in s. 121.091(4)(b). An injury is a qualifying injury if the injury is a physical injury to the member's physical body resulting in a physical loss, or loss of use, of at least two of the following: left arm, right arm, left leg, or right leg. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, an injury that would otherwise qualify as a qualifying injury is not considered a qualifying injury if and when the member ceases employment with the employer for whom he or she was providing special risk services on the date the injury occurred.

3. The new position, as described in sub-subparagraph 1.c., that is required for qualification as a special risk member under this paragraph is not required to be a position with essential job functions that entitle an individual to special risk membership. Whether a new position as described in sub-subparagraph 1.c. exists and is available to the special risk member is a decision to be made solely by the employer in accordance with its hiring practices and applicable law.

4. This paragraph does not grant or create additional rights for any individual to continued employment or to be hired or rehired by his or her employer that are not already provided within the Florida Statutes, the State Constitution, the Americans with Disabilities Act, if applicable, or any other applicable state or federal law.

(5) REMOVAL OF SPECIAL RISK CLASS MEMBERSHIP.—

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

(b) Any member who is a special risk member on July 1, 2008, and who became eligible to participate under paragraph (3)(g) ~~(3)(h)~~ but fails to meet the criteria for Special Risk Class membership established by paragraph (3)(h) ~~(3)(i)~~ or paragraph (3)(i) ~~(3)(j)~~ shall have his or her special risk designation removed and thereafter shall be a Regular Class member and earn only Regular Class membership credit. The department may review the special risk designation of members to determine whether or not those members continue to meet the criteria for Special Risk Class membership.

The cost for such credit must be an amount representing the actuarial accrued liability for the difference in accrual value during the affected period of service. The cost shall be calculated using the discount rate and other relevant actuarial assumptions that were used to value the Florida Retirement System Pension Plan liabilities in the most recent actuarial valuation. The division shall ensure that the transfer sum is prepared using a formula and methodology certified by an enrolled actuary. The cost must be paid immediately upon notification by the division. BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	SB 712
INTRODUCER:	Senator Galvano and others
SUBJECT:	Taxes on Prepaid Calling Arrangements
DATE:	April 24, 2014
REVISED:

	ANALYST	STAFF DIRECTOR	REFERENCE	ACTION
1.	Wiehle	Caldwell	CU	Favorable
2.	Cote	Diez-Arguelles	AFT	Favorable
3.	Cote	Kynoch	AP	Favorable

I. Summary:

SB 712 revises the definition of "prepaid calling arrangement" in chapter 202, F.S., relating to the Communication Services Tax and chapter 212. F.S., relating to the sales tax, to include mobile communications services that meet specified conditions. The bill expands the definition of "prepaid calling arrangement" to include prepaid communication services other than those that consist exclusively of telephone calls, and provides that the purchaser of prepaid units may use the units to purchase communication services other than mobile communication services, if the other services are provided to or through the same handset or other electronic device the purchaser uses to access mobile communication services.

The changes made by the bill are intended to be remedial in nature and apply retroactively, but do not provide a basis for an assessment of any tax not paid or create a right to a refund or credit of any tax paid before the effective date, July 1, 2014.

The Revenue Estimating Conference estimated that this bill will have a zero cash impact in Fiscal Year 2014-2015, with the following recurring, negative impacts: General Revenue Fund ($1.4 million), Public Education Capital Outlay Trust Fund ($5.7 million), and local governments ($11.2 million). Additional losses of an indeterminate amount may occur due to the purchase, on a prepaid basis, of other communication services through the same handset or other electronic device that is used by the purchaser to access mobile communication services. See Section V. of this analysis for additional information regarding the fiscal impact of the bill.

The mandates constitutional provision may apply to this bill, requiring a two-thirds vote of the membership of each house for passage. See Section IV.A. of the analysis.

II. Present Situation:

Communications Services Tax

Chapter 202, F.S., provides for a tax on communication services, including telecommunications, cable, direct-to-home satellite and related services. The communications services tax includes a state tax rate of 6.65 percent and a state gross receipts tax rate of 2.52 percent for a combined rate of 9.17 percent.[1] In addition, local governments may impose a local tax rate of up to 7.12 percent.[2] The statewide, total average tax rate is approximately 14.21 percent.

A portion of the state taxes collected – including taxes collected on direct-to-home satellite service – are deposited into the General Revenue Fund and a portion is distributed to local governments.[3] Gross receipts tax collections are deposited into the Public Education Capital Outlay and Debt Service Trust Fund and are used to fund public schools', community colleges', and universities' capital projects.

Prepaid Calling Arrangement

The communication services tax (CST) is applied to the sales price of each communications service which originates and terminates in this state, or originates or terminates in this state and is charged to a service address in this state.[4] However, the definition of the term "sales price" expressly excludes the "sale or recharge of a prepaid calling arrangement," so CST is not collected on the sale of a prepaid calling arrangement. [5]

The term "prepaid calling arrangement" is defined to mean "the separately stated retail sale by advance payment of communications services that consist exclusively of telephone calls originated by using an access number, authorization code, or other means that may be manually, electronically, or otherwise entered and that are sold in predetermined units or dollars of which the number declines with use in a known amount."[6]

Chapter 212, F.S., provides for the application of the sales tax to the sale of tangible personal property and some services. The sales tax rate of 6 percent is applicable to charges for prepaid calling arrangements.[7] The term "prepaid calling arrangement" as defined in ch. 212, F.S., means "the separately stated retail sale by advance payment of communications services that consist exclusively of telephone calls originated by using an access number, authorization code, or other means that may be manually, electronically, or otherwise entered and that are sold in predetermined units or dollars whose number declines with use in a known amount."[8] The definition of "prepaid calling arrangement" in ch. 202, F.S. is virtually identical to the definition in ch. 212, F.S.

[1] See ss. 202.12(1)(a) and 203.01(1)(b), F.S. The gross receipts tax is 2.37 percent, plus an additional 0.15 percent for certain services. Direct-to-home satellite is taxed at a rate of 10.8 percent and is also subject to the 2.37 percent gross receipts tax. The local tax does not apply to these services.

When the definition of prepaid calling arrangement was placed in the statute[9], prepaid calling arrangements typically consisted of prepaid calling cards purchased in advance and limited to telephone calls. However, since then the telecommunications industry has developed to offer more prepaid plans compatible with the texting, data, video, and other capabilities of today's modern smartphones. This has led to increased utilization of prepaid mobile services. As markets and technology have evolved, the statutory definition has become increasingly incompatible and inconsistent with industry practice and the ability to collect communication services taxes.

As technology evolved, most communications service providers and other prepaid phone retailers continued to apply the sales tax to all prepaid mobile phone plans, even though the plans did not meet the strict definition of a "prepaid calling arrangement." This practice continues today for all prepaid plans.

DOR Tax Information Publication on Prepaid Communications Services

In March of 2012, DOR issued Tax Information Publication (TIP) No. 12ADM-02 to provide clarification regarding the application of Florida taxes to sales of certain prepaid communications plans and services.[10] The TIP stated that certain prepaid communications plans or services are not "prepaid calling arrangements." It continued:

> Examples of such plans that do not fall under this definition include, but are not limited to:
> - service that includes text messaging, multimedia messaging, web, e-mail, etc.;
> - unlimited calling plans that do not decline with usage;
> - services or plans that are not sold in predetermined units or dollars; or > - services or plans that are not originated using an access number or authorization code.[11]

The TIP concluded that a "sale of a prepaid card or prepaid arrangement that does not fall under the strict definition of a "prepaid calling arrangement" is not subject to sales tax. Instead, sales of such plans are subject to CST.[12]

The TIP was retracted on July 29, 2013, after DOR received a notice contesting the TIP as an un-promulgated rule. Currently, DOR is in the rule development process.

In summary, the current statutory provisions seem to require the conclusion that sales of prepaid calling plans or services that meet the strict definition of a "prepaid calling arrangement" are subject to the state sales tax (6 percent) and local discretionary sales surtaxes, and that sales of plans that do not meet the strict definition are subject to the state CST (6.65 percent), gross receipts tax (2.52) and the local CST (variable rate) applicable to other communication services.

Communications service providers do not agree with this conclusion and argue that the prepaid mobile phone plans being sold today are subject only to the state sales tax and local discretionary sales surtaxes.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends subsection 202.11(9), F.S., to revise the definition of the term "prepaid calling arrangement." For other than mobile communications services, the term includes a right to use communications services "for which a separately stated price must be paid in advance, which is sold at retail in predetermined units that decline in number with use on a predetermined basis, and which consists exclusively of telephone calls originated by using an access number, authorization code, or other means that may be manually, electronically, or otherwise entered."

For mobile communications services, the term includes "a right to use mobile communications services that must be paid for in advance and is sold at retail in predetermined units that expire or decline in number on a predetermined basis if:

1. The purchaser's right to use mobile communications services terminates upon all purchased units expiring or being exhausted unless the purchaser pays for additional units;
2. The purchaser is not required to purchase additional units; and
3. Any right of the purchaser to use units to obtain communications services other than mobile communications services is limited to services that are provided to or through the same handset or other electronic device that is used by the purchaser to access mobile communications services."

Predetermined units may be quantified as amounts of usage, time, money, or a combination of these or other means of measurement.

The bill expands the definition of "prepaid calling arrangement" to include prepaid communication services other than those that consist exclusively of telephone calls. The changes recognize that under current industry practices prepaid services may include services other than telephone calls, such as text messaging, web access, and email.

In addition, the bill provides that the purchaser of prepaid units may use the units to purchase other communication services other than mobile communication services if the other services are provided to or through the same handset or other electronic device the purchaser uses to access mobile communication services. This provision may result in communication services currently subject to CST tax rates being subject to only sales tax in the future if they are sold as part of a prepaid calling arrangement.

Section 2 amends paragraph 212.05(1)(e), F.S., to define the term "prepaid calling arrangement" to have the same meaning as provided for in s. 202.11, F.S.

The bill also provides that if a purchaser of a prepaid calling arrangement has paid sales tax on the sale or recharge of such arrangement, no additional sales tax or CST tax is due or payable if the purchaser applies one or more units of the prepaid calling arrangement to obtain communications services that are provided to or through the same handset or other electronic device that is used by the purchaser to access mobile communications services, other services that are not communications services, or products.

Section 3 provides that the amendments made by the bill are intended to be remedial in nature and apply retroactively, but do not provide a basis for an assessment of any tax not paid or create a right to a refund or credit of any tax paid before the effective date of this act.

Section 4 provides that, except as otherwise expressly provided in section 3, the bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Subsection (b) of s. 18, Art. VII, State Constitution, provides that except upon approval of each house of the Legislature by two-thirds vote of the membership, the Legislature may not enact, amend or repeal any general law if the anticipated effect of doing so would be to reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenue in the aggregate, as such authority existed on February 1, 1989.

The mandates provision may apply because the bill redefines the types of services to which local Communication Services tax rates apply, thereby potentially reducing the authority of municipalities to raise revenue.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference estimated that SB 712 will have a zero cash impact in Fiscal Year 2014-2015, with the following recurring, negative impacts: General Revenue ($1.4 million), PECO Trust ($5.7 million), and Local ($11.2 million). Additional losses of an indeterminate amount may occur due to the purchase, on a prepaid basis, of other communication services through the same handset or other electronic device that is used by the purchaser to access mobile communication services.

In addition, a loss of up to $600 million in audit recoveries may occur if the Department of Revenue were to successfully enforce the strict definition of "prepaid calling arrangement," with a potential loss of up to $200 million annually on a going-forward basis. These amounts reflect the estimate of what CST tax collections would have been in the past and would be in the future if CST tax, instead of sales tax, were collected on prepaid calling arrangements. However, because current industry practice is to collect sales tax on prepaid mobile communications services, and the timing of any successful Department of Revenue action is unknown, it is uncertain if and when these losses would be realized.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Communications service providers can continue to offer a prepaid plan consisting of a flat-rate charge for a predetermined number of units that can be used to purchase mobile communications services, including services such as texting, without the sale being subject to the higher CST rate. Purchasers of these plans will continue to pay the sales tax rate instead of the higher CST tax rate.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The bill may require that the Department of Revenue (DOR) notify all businesses that sell prepaid wireless telecommunication services of the changes made by the bill. This would require mailing a Tax Information Publication to 262,200 businesses. The estimated nonrecurring cost to DOR is $125,646.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 202.11 and 212.05.

Section 2. Paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of section 212.05, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

212.05 Sales, storage, use tax.—It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that every person is exercising a taxable privilege who engages in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail in this state, including the business of making mail order sales, or who rents or furnishes any of the things or services taxable under this chapter, or who stores for use or consumption in this state any item or article of tangible personal property as defined herein and who leases or rents such property within the state.

(III) The sale or recharge of a prepaid calling arrangement shall be treated as a sale of tangible personal property for purposes of this chapter, whether or not a tangible item evidencing such arrangement is furnished to the purchaser, and such sale within this state subjects the selling dealer to the jurisdiction of this state for purposes of this subsection.

(IV) No additional tax under this chapter or chapter 202 is due or payable if a purchaser of a prepaid calling arrangement, who has paid tax under this chapter on the sale or recharge of such arrangement, applies one or more units of the prepaid calling arrangement to obtain communications services as described in s. 202.11(9)(b)3., other services that are not communications services, or products.

b. The installation of telecommunication and telegraphic equipment.

c. Electrical power or energy, except that the tax rate for charges for electrical power or energy is 7 percent.

2. The provisions of s. 212.17(3), regarding credit for tax paid on charges subsequently found to be worthless, are ~~shall be~~ equally applicable to any tax paid under ~~the provisions of~~ this section on charges for prepaid calling arrangements, telecommunication or telegraph services, or electric power subsequently found to be uncollectible. COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 734 reduces the number of members of the Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council (CCRAB) from 35 to 15 and revises which organizations are represented on the CCRAB, as well as how CCRAB members and the chairperson of the CCRAB are appointed. The bill also revises the duties of the CCRAB by eliminating the CCRAB's responsibility for recommending the awarding of grants and contracts to private entities and government agencies for cancer control, prevention, education, or research. The bill requires the CCRAB to recommend to the state surgeon general a statewide research plan.

The bill has no fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

The Florida Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council was established by the Legislature in 1979 to advise the Legislature, governor, and state surgeon general on how to reduce the cancer burden in Florida.[1] The CCRAB is housed within the H. Lee Moffitt Cancer Center and Research Institute, Inc. (Moffitt).[2] The CCRAB:

[1] Florida Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council, What is CCRAB?, found at http://www.ccrab.org/, last visited on March 7, 2014.
[2] See s. 1004.435(4), F.S.

- Advises the Board of Governors, the state surgeon general, and the Legislature on cancer control and research in Florida;
- Annually approves the Florida Cancer Plan;
- Provides recommendations for the Florida Cancer Plan to include the coordination and integration of plans concerned with cancer control and research provided by other stakeholders;
- Formulates and recommends to the state surgeon general:
  - A plan for the care and treatment of persons suffering from cancer,
  - Standard requirements for organization, equipment, and conduct of cancer units or departments in hospitals and clinics, and
  - The designation of cancer units following a survey of needs and facilities for treatment of cancer throughout the state;
- Recommends grant awards and contracts to qualified recipients;[3]
- Develops educational materials and programs; and
- Recommends rules and methods of implementing or enforcing laws concerned with cancer control, research, and education.

The CCRAB consists of 35 members, including appointees by the speaker of the House of Representatives, the president of the Senate, the governor, and other persons. Members represent:

- American Cancer Society,
- Florida Tumor Registrars Association,
- Sylvester Comprehensive Cancer Center of the University of Miami,
- Department of Health (DOH),
- University of Florida Shands Cancer Center,
- Agency for Health Care Administration,
- Florida Nurses Association,
- Florida Osteopathic Medical Association,
- American College of Surgeons,
- School of Medicine of the University of Miami,
- College of Medicine of the University of Florida,
- Nova Southeastern University College of Osteopathic Medicine,
- College of Medicine of the University of South Florida,
- College of Public Health of the University of South Florida,
- Florida Society of Clinical Oncology,
- Florida Obstetric and Gynecologic Society,
- Florida Ovarian Cancer Alliance Speaks,
- Florida Medical Association,
- Florida Pediatric Society,
- Florida Radiological Society,
- Florida Society of Pathologists,
- Moffitt,

[3] According to a phone conversation with Susan Fleming at the DOH on Mar. 10, 2014, the Florida Cancer Control Research Fund, from which the council was supposed to grant the awards and contracts, was never implemented or funded.

- Florida Dental Association,
- Florida Hospital Association,
- Association of Community Cancer Centers,
- Statutory teaching hospitals,[4]
- Florida Association of Pediatric Tumor Programs, Inc.,
- Cancer Information Services,
- Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University Institute of Public Health,
- Florida Society of Oncology Social Workers, and
- Consumer advocates from the general public.

In 2013, the Legislature passed 2013-50, L.O.F., which created the Cancer Center of Excellence Award and amended s. 1004.435(4), F.S., to require the CCRAB, along with the Biomedical Research Advisory Council (BRAC), to develop performance measures, a rating system, a rating standard, and an application for the Cancer Center of Excellence Award. The CCRAB is required to select by majority vote seven members to form a joint committee with six members of the BRAC in order to implement the Cancer Center of Excellence Award.

The Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund

The Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund is not an official trust fund of the state of Florida. The fund was created by ch. 2002-387, L.O.F., and is authorized to consist of appropriations from the General Revenue Fund and any gifts, grants, or funds received from other sources. The fund is statutorily required to be used exclusively for grants and contracts to qualified non-profit associations of governmental agencies for the purpose of cancer control and prevention, cancer education and training, cancer research, and all expenses incurred in connection with the administration of s. 1004.435, F.S., and programs funded through grants and contracts authorized by the Board of Education or the state surgeon general.[5]

The General Appropriations Act has never contained an appropriation for the Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund since the fund was created in 2002.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 of the bill amends s. 1004.435, F.S., to revise the membership of the CCRAB and reduce its membership from 35 to 15 members[6] consisting of:

"Teaching hospital" means any Florida hospital officially affiliated with an accredited Florida medical school which participates in graduate medical education as reflected by at least seven different graduate medical education programs accredited by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education or the Council on Postdoctoral Training of the American Osteopathic Association and the presence of 100 or more full-time equivalent resident physicians.
[5] See s. 1004.435(6), F.S.
[6] Organizations that are no longer included in council membership include: The Florida Tumor Registration Association, the Agency for Health Care Administration, the American College of Surgeons, the University of Miami College of Medicine, the University of Florida College of Medicine, the NOVA Southeastern College of Osteopathic Medicine, the University of South Florida College of Public Health, the Florida Society of Clinical Oncology, the Florida Obstetric and Gynecologic Society, the Florida Ovarian Cancer Alliance Speaks organization, the Florida Pediatric Society, the Florida Radiological Society, the Florida Society of Pathologists, the Florida Dental Association, the Association of Community Cancer Centers, the Florida Association of Pediatric Tumor Programs, Inc., a statutory teaching hospital affiliated with a community-based

  - The Florida Nurses Association who specializes in the field of oncology and is not from an institution or organization already represented on the CCRAB;
  - The Florida Osteopathic Medical Association who specializes in the field of oncology;
  - The Florida Medical Association (FMA) who is a member of the FMA, specializes in the field of oncology, and represents a cancer center not already represented on the CCRAB;
  - The H. Lee Moffitt Cancer Center and Research Institute;
  - The Florida Hospital Association (FHA) who specializes in the field of oncology, is a member of the FHA, and represents a comprehensive cancer center not already represented on the CCRAB; and

- One member of the House of Representatives appointed by the speaker of the House of Representatives; and,
- One member of the Senate, appointed by the president of the Senate.

Regarding CCRAB membership, the bill also provides that:
- At least four members must be minority persons;[7]
- A member's term is four years with the option of reappointment;
- Members of the CCRAB select the chairperson;
- Eight members constitute a quorum; and
- The institution that a member represents may reimburse that member for travel expenses, or if a member does not represent an institution, then Moffitt is required to reimburse that member for travel expenses.

cancer center, the Cancer Information Service, the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University Institute of Public Health, and the Florida Society of Oncology Social Workers.

[7] Defined in s. 288.703, F.S., to mean a lawful, permanent resident of Florida who is an African American, a person having origins in any of the black racial groups of the African Diaspora, regardless of cultural origin; a Hispanic American, a person of Spanish or Portuguese culture with origins in Spain, Portugal, Mexico, South America, Central America, or the Caribbean, regardless of race; an Asian American, a person having origins in any of the original peoples of the Far East, Southeast Asia, the Indian Subcontinent, or the Pacific Islands, including the Hawaiian Islands before 1778; a Native American, a person who has origins in any of the Indian Tribes of North America before 1835, upon presentation of proper documentation thereof as established by rule of the Department of Management Services; or, an American woman.

The bill requires that the CCRAB must collaborate with the Florida Biomedical Research Advisory Council to annually recommend to the state surgeon general a statewide research plan, in addition to the plan for the care and treatment of persons suffering from cancer that is required of the CCRAB under current law. The latter plan is named the "Florida Cancer Treatment Plan" under the bill.

The bill removes from statute:

- Requirements for the CCRAB to recommend the awarding of grants and contracts to qualified associations or government agencies;
- The CCRAB's duty to create summaries of the treatment options available to persons suffering from breast and prostate cancer;
- The authorization for the DOH to furnish financial aid to Florida citizens who are afflicted with cancer; and
- The Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund.

Sections 2 and 3 of the bill amend ss. 458.324 and 459.0125, F.S., to conform those sections to the changes made in Section 1 of the bill relating to summaries of treatment alternatives and to make other technical revisions.

Section 4 of the bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under PCS/SB 734, organizations represented on the CCRAB may be required to pay their representative's travel expenses under the provisions of ss. 1004.435(4)(e) and 112.061, F.S.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

In delineating the membership of the CCRAB, the bill indicates one member must be a member of the Florida Medical Association who represents a cancer center not already represented on the CCRAB. The bill also indicates one member must be a member of the Florida Hospital Association who represents a comprehensive cancer center not already represented on the CCRAB. The bill does not specify what differentiates a "cancer center" from a "comprehensive cancer center," and that differentiation is also not found under current law in s. 1004.435, F.S.

The bill's intent is not clear regarding the requirement that one CCRAB member be a "member of the Florida Hospital Association" (FHA). The FHA's membership is not composed of individual persons. Organizations such as hospitals and health systems constitute the membership of the FHA.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 458.324, 459.0125, and 1004.435.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 734 reduces the number of members of the Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council (CCRAB) from 35 to 15 and revises which organizations are represented on the CCRAB, as well as how CCRAB members and the chairperson of the CCRAB are appointed. The bill also revises the duties of the CCRAB by eliminating the CCRAB's responsibility for recommending the awarding of grants and contracts to private entities and government agencies for cancer control, prevention, education, or research. The bill requires the CCRAB to recommend to the state surgeon general a statewide research plan.

The bill has no fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

The Florida Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council was established by the Legislature in 1979 to advise the Legislature, governor, and state surgeon general on how to reduce the cancer burden in Florida.[1] The CCRAB is housed within the H. The CCRAB is required to select by majority vote seven members to form a joint committee with six members of the BRAC in order to implement the Cancer Center of Excellence Award.

The Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund

The Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund is not an official trust fund of the state of Florida. The fund was created by ch. 2002-387, L.O.F., and is authorized to consist of appropriations from the General Revenue Fund and any gifts, grants, or funds received from other sources. The fund is statutorily required to be used exclusively for grants and contracts to qualified non-profit associations of governmental agencies for the purpose of cancer control and prevention, cancer education and training, cancer research, and all expenses incurred in connection with the administration of s. 1004.435, F.S., and programs funded through grants and contracts authorized by the Board of Education or the state surgeon general.[5]

The General Appropriations Act has never contained an appropriation for the Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund since the fund was created in 2002.

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under CS/SB 734, organizations represented on the CCRAB may be required to pay their representative's travel expenses under the provisions of ss. 1004.435(4)(e) and 112.061, F.S.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

In delineating the membership of the CCRAB, the bill indicates one member must be a member of the Florida Medical Association who represents a cancer center not already represented on the CCRAB. The bill also indicates one member must be a member of the Florida Hospital Association who represents a comprehensive cancer center not already represented on the CCRAB. The bill does not specify what differentiates a "cancer center" from a "comprehensive cancer center," and that differentiation is also not found under current law in s. 1004.435, F.S.

The bill's intent is not clear regarding the requirement that one CCRAB member be a "member of the Florida Hospital Association" (FHA). The FHA's membership is not composed of individual persons. Organizations such as hospitals and health systems constitute the membership of the FHA.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 458.324, 459.0125, and 1004.435.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

Dear Chair Negron:

This letter is to request that SB 734 relating to the Florida Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council (CCRAB) be placed on the agenda of the next scheduled meeting of the committee.

The proposed legislation would revise the membership of the Florida Cancer Control and Research Advisory Council (15 from 35 to reach a quorum). It also requires a statewide research plan. Further, it deletes the duties of the Council, Board of Governors, and State Surgeon General relating to the awarding of grants and contracts for cancer-related programs, and deletes the Council duties relating to the development of written summaries of treatment alternatives. Lastly, it deletes the financial aid provisions and the Florida Cancer Control and Research Fund.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Respectfully,

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 742, now titled Racing Animals, requires greyhound track veterinarians to prepare detailed reports of all injuries to racing greyhound dogs that occur while the dogs are on a racetrack or in another location. Injury reports must be signed under oath and witnessed by a representative of the Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering (division) in the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (department). The reports and any associated records are public records that must be maintained for seven years. False statements in an injury report may result in a $1,500 fine for a first violation and $3,000 or more for subsequent violations.

The bill modifies requirements regarding prohibited medication or drugging of racing animals (horses and greyhounds). The fine for violations may be up to $10,000 or the race winnings (purse amount), whichever is greater. Prosecutions must be started within 180 days of the race date. Samples collected from racing animals at racetracks are held by the division, but a portion of each sample is sent to the state laboratory to analyze whether it contains any substance prohibited in racing animals. If the analyzed sample does contain prohibited substances, the owner or trainer has the right to request analysis by an independent laboratory on the remaining portion of the sample. If the second analysis does not confirm the first, or is of insufficient quantity to do so, no prosecution may be pursued against the owner or trainer, and any suspended licensee must be reinstated. The ability of laboratories approved by the division to analyze samples for prohibited substances must be assessed on an annual basis.

The department estimates the need for two positions and $231,026 from the Pari-mutuel Wagering Trust Fund for the 2014-2015 fiscal year. See Section V.

II. Present Situation:

As of June 30, 2013, there were 30 pari-mutuel facilities in Florida, including 16 greyhound tracks, six jai alai frontons, four quarter horse tracks, three thoroughbred tracks, and one harness track.[1] Among the 16 greyhound racing tracks, three conducted races at leased facilities[2] so the actual number of operating tracks is 13. In addition, there were four tracks that operated two greyhound permits each,[3] bringing the total number of greyhound racing permitholders with Fiscal Year 2013-2014 operating licenses to 20. Jefferson County Kennel Club recently closed, reducing the number of operating permitholders to 19 and the number of operating tracks to 12.

Racing greyhounds are registered with the National Greyhound Association and are used in racing at a pari-mutuel facility, or have been used, bred, raised, or trained to be used for such racing.[4] More greyhound racing performances occur in Florida than any other state.

Regulation by Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering

Greyhound racing is regulated by the Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering in the Department of Business and Professional Regulation. The division has regulatory oversight of permitted and licensed pari-mutuel wagering facilities, cardrooms located at pari-mutuel facilities, and slot machines at pari-mutuel facilities located in Miami-Dade and Broward counties.

Under current law, greyhound permitholders are not required to have operating licenses if not currently conducting live racing. There are ten inactive permits: one greyhound,[5] two jai alai, one limited thoroughbred,[6] and six quarter horse[7] permits.

Greyhound permitholders must apply for an annual operating license, specifying the number, dates, and starting times of all performances to be conducted.[8] A "performance" is a minimum of eight consecutive live races.[9] At least three live performances must be held at a track each week.[10] When a permitholder conducts at least three live performances in a week, it must pay

[6] Under s. 550.3345, F.S., during Fiscal Year 2010-2011 only, holders of quarter horse permits were allowed to convert their permits to a thoroughbred racing permit, conditioned upon specific use of racing revenues for enhancement of thoroughbred purses and awards, promotion of the thoroughbred horse industry, and the care of retired thoroughbred horses. Two conversions occurred (Gulfstream-GPTARP and Ocala Thoroughbred Racing).

purses (cash prizes) on wagers accepted at the track on certain greyhound races run at other tracks (in Florida or elsewhere).[11]

In order to receive an operating license, a greyhound permitholder must have conducted a full schedule of live racing during the preceding year,[12] that is, a minimum of 100 live performances.[13]

If a permitholder does not conduct all of the performances specified in its operating license, the division may determine whether to fine the permitholder or suspend the license,[14] unless the failure is due to certain events beyond the permitholder's control.[15] Financial hardship itself is not an acceptable basis to avoid a fine or suspension.[16]

Intertrack Wagering and Simulcast

Section 550.615(2), F.S., allows a greyhound permitholder that has conducted a full schedule of live racing in the preceding year to receive broadcasts and accept wagers on any type of pari-mutuel race or game conducted by other licensed pari-mutuel permitholders in the state. This type of wagering is defined as "intertrack wagering."[17]

Wagering on a simulcast event occurs when a wager is placed on (1) a live race or game that is broadcast outside the state from an in-state location, or (2) a live race or game that occurs outside the state but is broadcast to a permitholder in the state.[18]

Cardrooms at Pari-mutuel Locations

Section s. 849.086, F.S., provides that a licensed pari-mutuel permitholder that holds a valid pari-mutuel permit and license to conduct a full schedule of greyhound performances may obtain a cardroom license. Eleven of the 12 currently operating greyhound racing locations have cardrooms.[19] As a result of the "90 percent rule," the required minimum of live performances varies among greyhound permitholders (e.g., in Fiscal Year 2012-2013, the number of performances ranged from 104 to 395).

[11] Section 550.09514(2)(c), F.S.
[12] Section 550.002(11), F.S. In accordance with s. 550.002(38), F.S., a full schedule of live racing is calculated from July 1 to June 30, which is the state fiscal year.
[13] The performances may be during the day or in the evenings, as set forth in the schedule that is part of the operating license issued by the division.

[18] Section 550.002(32), F.S.
[19] Section 849.086(5)(a), F.S., provides that an initial cardroom license may be issued to a permitholder only after its facilities are in place and it has conducted its first day of live racing or games. If more than one permitholder is operating at a facility, each permitholder must have applied for a license to conduct a full schedule of live racing. See s. 849.086(5)(b), F.S., Renewal of a cardroom license requires that the permitholder's annual application requests at least 90 percent of the performances conducted either (1) in the year in which its first cardroom license was issued, or (2) in the state fiscal year immediately prior to the application if a full schedule of live racing was conducted.

Slot Machines at Pari-mutuel Locations in Miami-Dade and Broward Counties

Section 551.104(4), F.S., outlines licensing requirements related to slot machine gaming, which is authorized only in Miami-Dade and Broward counties.[20] A greyhound permitholder that is also a slot machine licensee must conduct at least a full schedule of live racing or games as defined in s. 551.002 (11), F.S.

Injury Reporting

The division, by administrative rule pursuant to s. 550.2415(12), F.S., requires notification of the death of a racing greyhound while in training or during a race on the grounds of a greyhound track or kennel compound. The track must notify the division within 18 hours of the deceased animal's location, where the death occurred, and how to reach the kennel operator, trainer, and the person making the report.[21] Also, if an animal is injured and later dies or is euthanized, the division may conduct a postmortem examination.[22]

Testing for Prohibited Substances in Racing Animals

The racing of animals (horses and greyhound) using any drug, medication, stimulant, depressant, hypnotic, narcotic, local anesthetic, or drug-masking agent is generally prohibited.[23] However, the division may adopt rules specifying acceptable levels of naturally occurring substances in untreated animals which may not be exceeded in race-day specimens.[24] Other drugs and substances are permitted under limited conditions, such as furosemide to treat exercise-induced bleeding, and vitamins and minerals that do not exceed acceptable levels.[25] Classification of a substance in a sample as permissible or impermissible may be dependent upon whether:

- The substance is administered within or outside the allowed time frame before a race is scheduled to begin;
- The racing animal is approved for administration of the substance, is qualified by gender to receive it;
- The level of the substance exceeds acceptable levels set by administrative rule; and
- The method of administration of the substance is prohibited.[26]

Each racetrack permitholder must maintain a detention enclosure for securing urine, blood or other samples from racing animals.[27] The trainer of record for each animal is responsible for the condition of the animals entered into race,[28] and for securing all prescribed medications, over-the-counter medicines, and natural or synthetic medicinal compounds.[29]

Samples of blood, urine, saliva, or any other bodily fluid may be collected from a race animal before and immediately after it has raced.[30] If racing officials find, through reasonably reliable evidence, that substances other than permissible substances have been administered, or that otherwise permissible substances have been administered during prohibited periods before the time of a race, the animal may be prohibited from racing in the race (scratched).[31]

The winner of every race is sent to the detention enclosure for examination by an authorized representative of the division and the taking of samples to monitor and detect both permissible and impermissible substances.[32] Any other animals that participated in the race may be designated for examination and testing by the stewards, judges, racetrack veterinarian or a division representative.[33]

All samples are collected by staff of the Office of Operations within the division and sent to the University of Florida, College of Medicine Racing Laboratory for analysis.[34] Blood specimens must be collected from racing animals by veterinarians employed by the division or any licensed veterinarian hired or retained by the division, and the collection must be witnessed by the animal's trainer, owner, or designee.[35]

The 82nd Annual Report of the division reflects that during Fiscal Year 2012-2013, the laboratory processed 89,597 samples and performed 386,276 analyses, as follows:[36]

Sample Type	Horse Urine/Blood	Greyhound Urine	Investigative
Samples Received	20,133	69,397	67
Samples Analyzed	20,005	48,184	25
Number of Analyses	95,535	290,675	66
Positive Results	285	21	n/a

The volume of many greyhound urine samples that were taken at racetracks, 21,538 or 31 percent of the total, was insufficient to permit valid testing of those samples.[37]

Of the 89,530 non-investigative samples that were collected at racetracks, 68,189 samples were analyzed, and there were 306 positive results (i.e. a finding of impermissible substances).[38]

If a prohibited substance is found in a race-day specimen, it is evidence that the substance was administered to and in the racing animal while racing.[39] Test results are confidential and exempt public records for ten days after the testing of all samples collected on a particular day have been completed and the positive results have been reported to the director of the division, or until action against a person licensed by the division has been commenced by the service of an administrative complaint.[40]

Once the division notifies the owners or trainer of the positive result as required, the owner may request that each urine or blood sample be split into a primary sample and a secondary (split) sample. The splitting procedure must occur in the laboratory using procedures approved by the division by rule.[41] At the request of either the affected owner or trainer, the division must send the secondary sample to an independent laboratory for analysis.

If the positive result found by the state laboratory is not confirmed by the analysis made by the independent laboratory, no further administrative or disciplinary action may be pursued by the division.[42] If the positive result is confirmed, or if the volume of the secondary sample is insufficient to do so, then administrative proceedings may begin on the basis of the analysis made by the state laboratory.[43] There must be a good faith attempt by the division to obtain a sufficient quantity of fluid specimens to allow both a primary test to be made by the state laboratory and a secondary test to be made by an independent laboratory.[44] The division must begin administrative proceedings against a licensee for a violation based on a positive drug test result within two years of the race date.[45]

According to the division, there were 27 license suspensions, and $66,375 in fines assessed for violations of all pari-mutuel statutes and rules in Fiscal Year 2012-2103.[46]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill requires that an injury to a racing greyhound be reported by a racetrack veterinarian to the division. The bill requires reporting of the following information about an injury that does not cause a racing greyhound's death:

- Specific identification of the injured greyhound (name, tattoos, microchip information, color weight, and sex);
- Contact information for the greyhound's owner, trainer, and kennel operator;
- The location where the injury occurred, whether on a racetrack, or elsewhere;

- The weather and track conditions at the time of the injury; and
- The type and location of the injury, its cause, and the recovery time anticipated.

Further, if the injury occurs during a race, an injury report must state:
- The name of the racetrack and the time injury occurred; and
- The distance, grade, race, and post position of the injured greyhound.

Racing greyhound injury reports must be sworn to by the racetrack veterinarian under penalty of perjury and witnessed by an employee or other designated representative of the division. False statements in an injury report may result in a $1,500 fine for a first violation and $3,000 or more for subsequent violations. The bill does not set a deadline for the submission of injury reports.

The bill provides that the records that are created and maintained regarding injury reports are public records that must be maintained by the division for seven years. Any oral or written requests to the division for the records must result in the records being made "readily available."

The bill modifies requirements relating to the prohibited medication or drugging of racing animals (horses and greyhounds). The fine for violations may be up to $10,000 or the race winnings (purse amount), whichever is greater. Prosecutions must be started within 180 days of the race date.

The division must split urine and blood samples collected at racetracks, retaining a portion of the sample sent to the state racing laboratory. The University of Florida, College of Medicine Racing Laboratory is under annual contract for these services. If the state laboratory finds that the sample contains prohibited substances, the owner or trainer has the right to request another analysis be made on the retained portion (split sample) by an independent laboratory.

If the independent laboratory's analysis does not confirm the finding made by the state laboratory, or if the quantity of the available split sample is not sufficient to do so, no prosecution may be pursued against the owner or trainer, and any suspended license must be reinstated.

Laboratories approved by the division to analyze samples collected from racing animals must undergo a third party, annual assessment of their ability to detect and quantify substances that may be administered to racing animals. The administrator of the quality assurance program must report the results and findings to the division.

The bill provides for an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/SB 742 requires additional reporting which will have an indeterminate fiscal impact on greyhound racetracks. The changes to the sampling of urine and blood specimens from racing animals and the annual assessment of independent testing laboratories will have an indeterminate impact on horse and greyhound tracks, and the owners and trainers of racing animals.

Individuals who knowingly file false injury reports will be subject to a fine up to $1,500 for a first violation and at least $3,000 for second or subsequent violations.

Individuals found in violation of impermissibly medicating or drugging race animals will be subject to a fine in an amount not exceeding the purse or sweepstakes earned by the animal or $10,000, whichever is greater.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The bill may have a positive but indeterminate increase in state revenues related to the additional fines for violations resulting from falsifying injury reports and impermissibly medicating race animals.

The bill requires information system program changes to the department's Versa system and OnBase document management system. The department indicates that the additional programming costs can be handled within existing resources. The infrastructure and licensing costs are estimated to be $3,147 for two additional personnel.[47]

The bill requires recordkeeping of injury reports and producing documents in response to public records requests for injury reports on greyhounds. The bill also changes the current process related to the collection of split sampling and provides additional guidelines and requirements for the division. The department staff estimates the implementation of this bill will require two full-time equivalent positions and $227,879 from the Pari-mutuel Wagering Trust Fund. Included in the costs are expenditures of $16,000 for two additional freezers to store the volume of samples, increased shipping costs of $35,000 for collected samples, and $55,000 for additional supplies (i.e. containers, tags, tubes, etc.).[48]

All unappropriated funds in excess of $1.5 million, and those funds necessary for incurred obligations and subsequent year positive cash flow for slot machine regulation in the Pari-mutuel Wagering Trust Fund, are transferred to the General Revenue Fund annually.[49] Therefore, increases to the division's appropriations will impact the General Revenue Fund.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

The bill does not set deadlines for completing racing greyhound injury reports or providing the quality assurance results and findings reports to the Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

The bill substantially amends section 550.2415 of the Florida Statutes.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS by Gaming on April 8, 2014:
The committee substitute amends s. 550.2415, F.S., to modify requirements respecting the prohibited medication or drugging of racing animals (horses and greyhounds). The fine for violations may be up to $10,000 or the race winnings (purse amount), whichever is greater. Prosecutions must be started within 180 days of the race date.

The Division of Pari-Mutuel Racing must split urine and blood samples collected at racetracks, retaining a portion of the sample sent to the state racing laboratory. If the state laboratory finds that the sample contains prohibited substances, the owner or trainer has the right to request another analysis be made on the retained portion (split sample) by an approved independent laboratory. Independent laboratories must undergo third party assessment of their ability to detect and quantify substances that may be administered to racing animals.

If the independent laboratory's analysis does not confirm the finding made by the state laboratory, or if the quantity of the available split sample is insufficient, no prosecution may be pursued against the owner or trainer, and any suspended license must be reinstated.

Section 2. Subsection (1) of section 550.01215, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.01215 License application; periods of operation; bond, conversion of permit.—

(1) Each permitholder shall annually, during the period between December 15 and January 4, file in writing with the division its application for a license to conduct performances, if any, during the next state fiscal year. Each application shall specify the number, dates, and starting times of all performances which the permitholder intends to conduct. It shall also specify which performances will be conducted as charity or scholarship performances. In addition, each application for a license shall include, for each permitholder which elects to operate a cardroom, the dates and periods of operation the permitholder intends to operate the cardroom or, for each thoroughbred permitholder which elects to receive or rebroadcast out-of-state races after 7 p.m., the dates for all performances which the permitholder intends to conduct. Permitholders may ~~shall be entitled to~~ amend their applications through February 28. A greyhound permitholder operating pursuant to a current year's operating license issued by the division may specify that it intends to conduct no live performances in its annual application for a license to conduct performances during the next state fiscal year. A greyhound permitholder operating pursuant to a current year's operating license may amend its license for the 2014-2015 state fiscal year through August 31, 2014.

Section 3. Subsections (1), (7), and (8) of section 550.0351, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

550.0351 Charity racing days.—

(1) The division shall, upon the request of a permitholder, authorize each horseracing permitholder~~, dogracing permitholder,~~ and jai alai permitholder up to five charity or scholarship days in addition to the regular racing days authorized by law.

~~(7) In addition to the charity days authorized by this~~

~~section, any dogracing permitholder may allow its facility to be used for conducting "hound dog derbies" or "mutt derbies" on any day during each racing season by any charitable, civic, or nonprofit organization for the purpose of conducting "hound dog derbies" or "mutt derbies" if only dogs other than those usually used in dogracing (greyhounds) are permitted to race and if adults and minors are allowed to participate as dog owners or spectators. During these racing events, betting, gambling, and the sale or use of alcoholic beverages is prohibited.~~

(7)~~(8)~~ In addition to the eligible charities that meet the criteria set forth in this section, a jai alai permitholder is authorized to conduct two additional charity performances each fiscal year for a fund to benefit retired jai alai players. This performance shall be known as the "Retired Jai Alai Players Charity Day." The administration of this fund shall be determined by rule by the division.

Section 4. Paragraph (b) of subsection (14) of section 550.054, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.054 Application for permit to conduct pari-mutuel wagering.—

(b) The division, upon application from the holder of a jai alai permit meeting all conditions of this section, shall convert the permit and shall issue to the permitholder a permit to conduct greyhound racing. A permitholder of a permit converted under this section shall be required to apply for and conduct a full schedule of live racing in the first fiscal year following the conversion ~~A permitholder of a permit converted under this section shall be required to apply for and conduct a~~ ~~full schedule of live racing each fiscal year to be eligible for any tax credit provided by this chapter~~. The holder of a permit converted pursuant to this subsection or any holder of a permit to conduct greyhound racing located in a county in which it is the only permit issued pursuant to this section who operates at a leased facility pursuant to s. 550.475 may move the location for which the permit has been issued to another location within a 30-mile radius of the location fixed in the permit issued in that county, provided the move does not cross the county boundary and such location is approved under the zoning regulations of the county or municipality in which the permit is located, and upon such relocation may use the permit for the conduct of pari-mutuel wagering and the operation of a cardroom. The provisions of s. 550.6305(9)(d) and (f) shall apply to any permit converted under this subsection and shall continue to apply to any permit which was previously included under and subject to such provisions before a conversion pursuant to this section occurred.

Section 5. Subsections (1) and (3) of section 550.0951, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

550.0951 Payment of daily license fee and taxes; penalties.—

(1)~~(a)~~ DAILY LICENSE FEE.—Each person engaged in the business of conducting horserace meets ~~race meetings~~ or jai alai games under this chapter, hereinafter referred to as the "permitholder," "licensee," or "permittee," shall pay to the division, for the use of the division, a daily license fee on each live or simulcast pari-mutuel event of $100 for each horserace ~~and $80 for each dograce~~ and $40 for each jai alai game conducted at a racetrack or fronton licensed under this chapter. ~~In addition to the tax exemption specified in s. 550.09514(1) of $360,000 or $500,000 per greyhound permitholder per state fiscal year, each greyhound permitholder shall receive in the current state fiscal year a tax credit equal to the number of live greyhound races conducted in the previous state fiscal year times the daily license fee specified for each dograce in this subsection applicable for the previous state fiscal year. This tax credit and the exemption in s. 550.09514(1) shall be applicable to any tax imposed by this chapter or the daily license fees imposed by this chapter except during any charity or scholarship performances conducted pursuant to s. 550.0351.~~ Each permitholder shall pay daily license fees not to exceed $500 per day on any simulcast races or games on which such permitholder accepts wagers regardless of the number of out-of-state events taken or the number of out-of-state locations from which such events are taken. This license fee shall be deposited with the Chief Financial Officer to the credit of the Pari-mutuel Wagering Trust Fund.

~~(b) Each permitholder that cannot utilize the full amount of the exemption of $360,000 or $500,000 provided in s. 550.09514(1) or the daily license fee credit provided in this section may, after notifying the division in writing, elect once per state fiscal year on a form provided by the division to transfer such exemption or credit or any portion thereof to any greyhound permitholder which acts as a host track to such permitholder for the purpose of intertrack wagering. Once an election to transfer such exemption or credit is filed with the division, it shall not be rescinded. The division shall~~

~~disapprove the transfer when the amount of the exemption or credit or portion thereof is unavailable to the transferring permitholder or when the permitholder who is entitled to transfer the exemption or credit or who is entitled to receive the exemption or credit owes taxes to the state pursuant to a deficiency letter or administrative complaint issued by the division. Upon approval of the transfer by the division, the transferred tax exemption or credit shall be effective for the first performance of the next payment period as specified in subsection (5). The exemption or credit transferred to such host track may be applied by such host track against any taxes imposed by this chapter or daily license fees imposed by this chapter. The greyhound permitholder host track to which such exemption or credit is transferred shall reimburse such permitholder the exact monetary value of such transferred exemption or credit as actually applied against the taxes and daily license fees of the host track. The division shall ensure that all transfers of exemption or credit are made in accordance with this subsection and shall have the authority to adopt rules to ensure the implementation of this section.~~

(3) TAX ON HANDLE.—Each permitholder shall pay a tax on contributions to pari-mutuel pools, the aggregate of which is hereinafter referred to as "handle," on races or games conducted by the permitholder. The tax is imposed daily and is based on the total contributions to all pari-mutuel pools conducted during the daily performance. If a permitholder conducts more than one performance daily, the tax is imposed on each performance separately.

(a) The tax on handle for quarter horse racing is 1.0

percent of the handle.

(b)1. The tax on handle for dogracing is 1.28 ~~5.5~~ percent of the handle~~, except that for live charity performances held pursuant to s. 550.0351, and for intertrack wagering on such charity performances at a guest greyhound track within the market area of the host, the tax is 7.6 percent of the handle~~.

2. The tax on handle for jai alai is 7.1 percent of the handle.

(c)1. The tax on handle for intertrack wagering is 2.0 percent of the handle if the host track is a horse track, 3.3 percent if the host track is a harness track, 1.28 ~~5.5~~ percent if the host track is a dog track to be remitted by the guest track, and 7.1 percent if the host track is a jai alai fronton. The tax on handle for intertrack wagering is 0.5 percent if the host track and the guest track are thoroughbred permitholders or if the guest track is located outside the market area of a nongreyhound ~~the~~ host track and within the market area of a thoroughbred permitholder currently conducting a live race meet. The tax on handle for intertrack wagering on rebroadcasts of simulcast thoroughbred horseraces is 2.4 percent of the handle and 1.5 percent of the handle for intertrack wagering on rebroadcasts of simulcast harness horseraces. The tax shall be deposited into the Pari-mutuel Wagering Trust Fund.

2. If the host facility is a jai alai permitholder, the tax on handle for intertrack wagers is ~~accepted by any dog track located in an area of the state in which there are only three permitholders, all of which are greyhound permitholders, located in three contiguous counties, from any greyhound permitholder also located within such area or any dog track or jai alai~~

~~fronton located as specified in s. 550.615(6) or (9), on races or games received from the same class of permitholder located within the same market area is 3.9 percent if the host facility is a greyhound permitholder and, if the host facility is a jai alai permitholder, the rate shall be~~ 6.1 percent except that it shall be 2.3 percent on handle at such time as the total tax on intertrack handle paid to the division by the permitholder during the current state fiscal year exceeds the total tax on intertrack handle paid to the division by the permitholder during the 1992-1993 state fiscal year.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, in order to protect the Florida jai alai industry, effective July 1, 2000, a jai alai permitholder may not be taxed on live handle at a rate higher than 2 percent.

Section 6. Section 550.09514, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.09514 Greyhound dogracing taxes; purse requirements.—

~~(1) Wagering on greyhound racing is subject to a tax on handle for live greyhound racing as specified in s. 550.0951(3). However, each permitholder shall pay no tax on handle until such time as this subsection has resulted in a tax savings per state fiscal year of $360,000. Thereafter, each permitholder shall pay the tax as specified in s. 550.0951(3) on all handle for the remainder of the permitholder's current race meet. For the three permitholders that conducted a full schedule of live racing in 1995, and are closest to another state that authorizes greyhound pari-mutuel wagering, the maximum tax savings per state fiscal year shall be $500,000. The provisions of this subsection relating to tax exemptions shall not apply to any charity or~~

~~scholarship performances conducted pursuant to s. 550.0351.~~

(1)~~(2)~~(a) The division shall determine for each greyhound permitholder the annual purse percentage rate of live handle for the state fiscal year 1993-1994 by dividing total purses paid on live handle by the permitholder, exclusive of payments made from outside sources, during the 1993-1994 state fiscal year by the permitholder's live handle for the 1993-1994 state fiscal year. A greyhound ~~Each~~ permitholder conducting live racing during a fiscal year shall pay as purses for such live races conducted during its current race meet a percentage of its live handle not less than the percentage determined under this paragraph, exclusive of payments made by outside sources, for its 1993-1994 state fiscal year.

(b) Except as otherwise set forth herein, in addition to the minimum purse percentage required by paragraph (a), each greyhound permitholder conducting live racing during a fiscal year shall pay as purses an annual amount of $60 for each live race conducted ~~equal to 75 percent of the daily license fees paid~~ by the greyhound ~~each~~ permitholder in ~~for~~ the preceding ~~1994-1995~~ fiscal year. ~~This purse supplement shall be disbursed weekly during the permitholder's race meet in an amount determined by dividing the annual purse supplement by the number of performances approved for the permitholder pursuant to its annual license and multiplying that amount by the number of performances conducted each week. For the greyhound permitholders in the county where there are two greyhound permitholders located as specified in s. 550.615(6), such permitholders shall pay in the aggregate an amount equal to 75 percent of the daily license fees paid by such permitholders for~~

~~the 1994-1995 fiscal year. These permitholders shall be jointly and severally liable for such purse payments.~~ The additional purses provided by this paragraph must be used exclusively for purses other than stakes and shall be disbursed weekly during the permitholder's race meet. The division shall conduct audits necessary to ensure compliance with this section.

(c)1. Each greyhound permitholder, when conducting at least three live performances during any week, shall pay purses in that week on wagers it accepts as a guest track on intertrack and simulcast greyhound races at the same rate as it pays on live races. Each greyhound permitholder, when conducting at least three live performances during any week, shall pay purses in that week, at the same rate as it pays on live races, on wagers accepted on greyhound races at a guest track which is not conducting live racing and is located within the same market area as the greyhound permitholder conducting at least three live performances during any week.

2. Each host greyhound permitholder shall pay purses on its simulcast and intertrack broadcasts of greyhound races to guest facilities that are located outside its market area in an amount equal to one quarter of an amount determined by subtracting the transmission costs of sending the simulcast or intertrack broadcasts from an amount determined by adding the fees received for greyhound simulcast races plus 3 percent of the greyhound intertrack handle at guest facilities that are located outside the market area of the host and that paid contractual fees to the host for such broadcasts of greyhound races.

(d) The division shall require sufficient documentation from each greyhound permitholder regarding purses paid on live racing to assure that the annual purse percentage rates paid by each greyhound permitholder conducting ~~on the~~ live races are not reduced below those paid during the 1993-1994 state fiscal year. The division shall require sufficient documentation from each greyhound permitholder conducting live races to assure that the purses paid by each permitholder on the greyhound intertrack and simulcast broadcasts are in compliance with the requirements of paragraph (c).

(e) In addition to the purse requirements of paragraphs (a)-(c), each greyhound permitholder conducting live races shall pay as purses an amount equal to one-third of the amount of the tax reduction on live and simulcast handle applicable to such permitholder as a result of the reductions in tax rates provided by s. 6 of chapter 2000-354, Laws of Florida ~~this act through the amendments to s. 550.0951(3)~~. With respect to intertrack wagering when the host and guest tracks are greyhound permitholders not within the same market area, an amount equal to the tax reduction applicable to the guest track handle as a result of the reduction in tax rate provided by s. 6 of chapter 2000-354, Laws of Florida, ~~this act through the amendment to s. 550.0951(3)~~ shall be distributed to the guest track, one-third of which amount shall be paid as purses at the guest track. However, if the guest track is a greyhound permitholder within the market area of the host or if the guest track is not a greyhound permitholder, an amount equal to such tax reduction applicable to the guest track handle shall be retained by the host track, one-third of which amount shall be paid as purses at the host track. These purse funds shall be disbursed in the week received if the permitholder conducts at least one live performance during that week. If the permitholder does not conduct at least one live performance during the week in which the purse funds are received, the purse funds shall be disbursed weekly during the permitholder's next race meet in an amount determined by dividing the purse amount by the number of performances approved for the permitholder pursuant to its annual license, and multiplying that amount by the number of performances conducted each week. The division shall conduct audits necessary to ensure compliance with this paragraph.

(f) Each greyhound permitholder conducting live racing shall, during the permitholder's race meet, supply kennel operators and the Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering with a weekly report showing purses paid on live greyhound races and all greyhound intertrack and simulcast broadcasts, including both as a guest and a host together with the handle or commission calculations on which such purses were paid and the transmission costs of sending the simulcast or intertrack broadcasts, so that the kennel operators may determine statutory and contractual compliance.

(g) Each greyhound permitholder conducting live racing shall make direct payment of purses to the greyhound owners who have filed with such permitholder appropriate federal taxpayer identification information based on the percentage amount agreed upon between the kennel operator and the greyhound owner.

(h) At the request of a majority of kennel operators under contract with a greyhound permitholder conducting live racing, the permitholder shall make deductions from purses paid to each kennel operator electing such deduction and shall make a direct payment of such deductions to the local association of greyhound kennel operators formed by a majority of kennel operators under contract with the permitholder. The amount of the deduction shall be at least 1 percent of purses, as determined by the local association of greyhound kennel operators. ~~No~~ Deductions may not be taken pursuant to this paragraph without a kennel operator's specific approval before or after the effective date of this act.

(2)~~(3)~~ For the purpose of this section, the term "live handle" means the handle from wagers placed at the permitholder's establishment on the live greyhound races conducted at the permitholder's establishment.

Section 7. Subsection (2) of section 550.1625, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.1625 Dogracing; taxes.—

(2) A permitholder that conducts a dograce meet under this chapter must pay ~~the daily license fee,~~ the admission tax~~, the breaks tax,~~ and the tax on pari-mutuel handle as provided in s. 550.0951 and is subject to all penalties and sanctions provided in s. 550.0951(6).

Section 8. Section 550.1647, Florida Statutes, is repealed.

Section 9. Section 550.1648, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.1648 Greyhound adoptions.—

~~(1)~~ A ~~Each~~ dogracing permitholder conducting live racing at ~~operating~~ a dogracing facility in this state shall provide for a greyhound adoption booth to be located at the facility.

(1) The greyhound adoption booth must be operated on weekends by personnel or volunteers from a bona fide organization that promotes or encourages the adoption of greyhounds ~~pursuant to s. 550.1647~~. Such bona fide organization, as a condition of adoption, must provide sterilization of greyhounds by a licensed veterinarian before relinquishing custody of the greyhound to the adopter. The fee for sterilization may be included in the cost of adoption. As used in this section, the term "weekend" includes the hours during which live greyhound racing is conducted on Friday, Saturday, or Sunday, and the term "bona fide organization that promotes or encourages the adoption of greyhounds" means an organization that provides evidence of compliance with chapter 496 and possesses a valid exemption from federal taxation issued by the Internal Revenue Service. Information pamphlets and application forms shall be provided to the public upon request.

(2) ~~In addition,~~ The kennel operator or owner shall notify the permitholder that a greyhound is available for adoption and the permitholder shall provide information concerning the adoption of a greyhound in each race program and shall post adoption information at conspicuous locations throughout the dogracing facility. Any greyhound that is participating in a race and that will be available for future adoption must be noted in the race program. The permitholder shall allow greyhounds to be walked through the track facility to publicize the greyhound adoption program.

~~(2) In addition to the charity days authorized under s. 550.0351, a greyhound permitholder may fund the greyhound adoption program by holding a charity racing day designated as "Greyhound Adopt-A-Pet Day." All profits derived from the operation of the charity day must be placed into a fund used to support activities at the racing facility which promote the~~

~~adoption of greyhounds. The division may adopt rules for administering the fund. Proceeds from the charity day authorized in this subsection may not be used as a source of funds for the purposes set forth in s. 550.1647.~~

(3)(a) Upon a violation of this section by a permitholder or licensee, the division may impose a penalty as provided in s. 550.0251(10) and require the permitholder to take corrective action.

(b) A penalty imposed under s. 550.0251(10) does not exclude a prosecution for cruelty to animals or for any other criminal act.

Section 10. Paragraph (a) of subsection (6) of section 550.3551, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.3551 Transmission of racing and jai alai information; commingling of pari-mutuel pools.—

(6)(a) ~~A maximum of 20 percent of the total number of races on which wagers are accepted by a greyhound permitholder not located as specified in s. 550.615(6) may be received from locations outside this state.~~ A horseracing or a jai alai permitholder may not conduct fewer than eight live races or games on any authorized race day except as provided in this subsection. A thoroughbred permitholder may not conduct fewer than eight live races on any race day without the written approval of the Florida Thoroughbred Breeders' Association and the Florida Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, Inc., unless it is determined by the department that another entity represents a majority of the thoroughbred racehorse owners and trainers in the state. A harness permitholder may conduct fewer than eight live races on any authorized race day, except that such permitholder must conduct a full schedule of live racing during its race meet consisting of at least eight live races per authorized race day for at least 100 days. Any harness ~~horse~~ permitholder that during the preceding racing season conducted a full schedule of live racing may, at any time during its current race meet, receive full-card broadcasts of harness horse races conducted at harness racetracks outside this state at the harness track of the permitholder and accept wagers on such harness races. With specific authorization from the division for special racing events, a permitholder may conduct fewer than eight live races or games when the permitholder also broadcasts out-of-state races or games. The division may not grant more than two such exceptions a year for a permitholder in any 12-month period, and those two exceptions may not be consecutive.

Section 11. A new subsection (11) is added to section 550.615, Florida Statutes, to read:

550.615 Intertrack wagering.—

(11) A greyhound permitholder operating pursuant to a current year's operating license that specifies no live performances is qualified to accept wagers on live races conducted at out-of-state greyhound tracks only on the days when such permitholder receives a live race that a greyhound host track in this state makes available.

Section 12. Paragraph (g) of subsection (9) of section 550.6305, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

550.6305 Intertrack wagering; guest track payments; accounting rules.—

(9) A host track that has contracted with an out-of-state

horse track to broadcast live races conducted at such out-of-state horse track pursuant to s. 550.3551(5) may broadcast such out-of-state races to any guest track and accept wagers thereon in the same manner as is provided in s. 550.3551.

(g)1. Any thoroughbred permitholder which accepts wagers on a simulcast signal must make the signal available to any permitholder that is eligible to conduct intertrack wagering under the provisions of ss. 550.615-550.6345.

2. Any thoroughbred permitholder which accepts wagers on a simulcast signal received after 6 p.m. must make such signal available to any permitholder that is eligible to conduct intertrack wagering under the provisions of ss. 550.615-550.6345, including any permitholder located as specified in s. 550.615(6). Such guest permitholders are authorized to accept wagers on such simulcast signal, notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter to the contrary.

3. Any thoroughbred permitholder which accepts wagers on a simulcast signal received after 6 p.m. must make such signal available to any permitholder that is eligible to conduct intertrack wagering under the provisions of ss. 550.615-550.6345~~, including any permitholder located as specified in s. 550.615(9)~~. Such guest permitholders are authorized to accept wagers on such simulcast signals for a number of performances not to exceed that which constitutes a full schedule of live races for a quarter horse permitholder pursuant to s. 550.002(11), notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter to the contrary~~, except that the restrictions provided in s. 550.615(9)(a) apply to wagers on such simulcast signals~~.

No thoroughbred permitholder shall be required to continue to rebroadcast a simulcast signal to any in-state permitholder if the average per performance gross receipts returned to the host permitholder over the preceding 30-day period were less than $100. Subject to the provisions of s. 550.615(4), as a condition of receiving rebroadcasts of thoroughbred simulcast signals under this paragraph, a guest permitholder must accept intertrack wagers on all live races conducted by all then-operating thoroughbred permitholders.

Section 13. Paragraph (c) of subsection (4) of section 551.104, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

551.104 License to conduct slot machine gaming.—

(4) As a condition of licensure and to maintain continued authority for the conduct of slot machine gaming, the slot machine licensee shall:

(c) Conduct no fewer than a full schedule of live racing or games as defined in s. 550.002(11). A permitholder's responsibility to conduct such number of live races or games shall be reduced by the number of races or games that could not be conducted due to the direct result of fire, war, hurricane, or other disaster or event beyond the control of the permitholder. The live racing requirement in this paragraph does not apply to a greyhound permitholder operating pursuant to a current year's operating license issued by the division.

Section 14. Subsections (2) and (4) of section 551.114, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

551.114 Slot machine gaming areas.—

(2) The slot machine licensee shall display pari-mutuel races or games within the designated slot machine gaming areas and offer patrons within the designated slot machine gaming areas the ability to engage in pari-mutuel wagering on any live, intertrack, and simulcast races conducted or offered to patrons of the licensed facility.

(4) Designated slot machine gaming areas may be located within the current live gaming facility or in an existing building that must be contiguous and connected to the live gaming facility. If a designated slot machine gaming area is to be located in a building that is to be constructed, that new building must be contiguous and connected to the live gaming facility. For a greyhound permitholder authorized to conduct pari-mutuel gaming activities pursuant to a current year's operating license that specifies no live performances, designated slot machine gaming areas may be located only within the eligible facility for which the division issued the initial annual slot machine license.

Section 15. Paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (5) and paragraph (d) of subsection (13) of section 849.086, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

849.086 Cardrooms authorized.—

(5) LICENSE REQUIRED; APPLICATION; FEES.—No person may operate a cardroom in this state unless such person holds a valid cardroom license issued pursuant to this section.

(a) Only those persons holding a valid cardroom license issued by the division may operate a cardroom. A cardroom license may only be issued to a licensed pari-mutuel permitholder. ~~and~~ An authorized cardroom may only be operated at the same facility at which the permitholder is authorized under its valid pari-mutuel wagering permit to conduct pari-mutuel wagering activities. An initial cardroom license shall be issued to a pari-mutuel permitholder only after its facilities are in place and after it conducts its first day of live racing or games or, for a greyhound permitholder, only after it has conducted a full schedule of live racing in each of the preceding 10 years or after it was converted pursuant to s. 550.054(14).

(b) After the initial cardroom license is granted, the application for the annual license renewal shall be made in conjunction with the applicant's annual application for its pari-mutuel license. If a permitholder has operated a cardroom during any of the 3 previous fiscal years and fails to include a renewal request for the operation of the cardroom in its annual application for license renewal, the permitholder may amend its annual application to include operation of the cardroom. In order for a cardroom license to be renewed the applicant must have requested, as part of its pari-mutuel annual license application, to conduct at least 90 percent of the total number of live performances conducted by such permitholder during either the state fiscal year in which its initial cardroom license was issued or the state fiscal year immediately prior thereto if the permitholder ran at least a full schedule of live racing or games in the prior year. If the application is for a harness permitholder cardroom, the applicant must have requested authorization to conduct a minimum of 140 live performances during the state fiscal year immediately prior thereto. If more than one permitholder is operating at a facility, each permitholder must have applied for a license to conduct a full schedule of live racing. Notwithstanding the full schedule of live racing requirements in this paragraph, the division may approve an annual cardroom license renewal for a greyhound permitholder authorized to conduct pari-mutuel gaming activities pursuant to a current year's operating license that specifies no live performances, provided that such greyhound permitholder must conduct intertrack wagering on greyhound signals, to the extent available, on each day of cardroom operation.

(13) TAXES AND OTHER PAYMENTS.—

(d)1. Each greyhound permitholder conducting live racing and jai alai permitholder that operates a cardroom facility shall use at least 4 percent of such permitholder's cardroom monthly gross receipts to supplement greyhound purses, if any, or jai alai prize money, respectively, during the permitholder's current or next ensuing pari-mutuel meet.

2. Each thoroughbred and harness horse racing permitholder that operates a cardroom facility shall use at least 50 percent of such permitholder's cardroom monthly net proceeds as follows: 47 percent to supplement purses and 3 percent to supplement breeders' awards during the permitholder's next ensuing racing meet.

3. A ~~No~~ cardroom license or renewal thereof may not ~~shall~~ be issued to an applicant holding a permit under chapter 550 to conduct pari-mutuel wagering meets of quarter horse racing unless the applicant has on file with the division a binding written agreement between the applicant and the Florida Quarter Horse Racing Association or the association representing a majority of the horse owners and trainers at the applicant's eligible facility, governing the payment of purses on live quarter horse races conducted at the licensee's pari-mutuel facility. The agreement governing purses may direct the payment of such purses from revenues generated by any wagering or gaming the applicant is authorized to conduct under Florida law. All purses shall be subject to the terms of chapter 550.

in a positive test for such substance based on samples taken from the animal ~~immediately~~ prior to or immediately after the racing of that animal. Test results and the identities of the animals being tested and of their trainers and owners of record are confidential and exempt from s. 119.07(1) and from s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution for 10 days after testing of all samples collected on a particular day has been completed and any positive test results derived from such samples have been reported to the director of the division or administrative action has been commenced.

(3)(a) Upon the finding of a violation of this section, the division may revoke or suspend the license or permit of the violator or deny a license or permit to the violator; impose a fine against the violator in an amount not exceeding the purse or sweepstakes earned by the animal in the race at issue or $10,000, whichever is greater ~~$5,000~~; require the full or partial return of the purse, sweepstakes, and trophy of the race at issue; or impose against the violator any combination of such penalties. The finding of a violation of this section in no way prohibits a prosecution for criminal acts committed.

(b) The division, notwithstanding the provisions of chapter 120, may summarily suspend the license of an occupational licensee responsible under this section or division rule for the condition of a race animal if the division laboratory reports the presence of a prohibited ~~an impermissible~~ substance in the animal or its blood, urine, saliva, or any other bodily fluid, either before a race in which the animal is entered or after a race the animal has run.

(5) The division shall implement a split-sample procedure for testing animals under this section. Each urine and blood sample shall be split into a primary sample and a secondary (split) sample upon collection, under rules adopted by the division. The division shall transfer custody of the primary sample to the division laboratory, with custody of the split sample to remain with the division except as provided in this subsection.

(a) ~~Upon finding a positive drug test result,~~ The division ~~department~~ shall notify the owner or trainer, the stewards, and the horsemen's association of all drug test ~~the~~ results~~. The owner may request that each urine and blood sample be split into a primary sample and a secondary (split) sample. In the event of a positive test result ~~However~~, upon request by the affected trainer or owner of the animal from which the sample was obtained, the division shall send the split sample to an approved independent laboratory for analysis. The division shall establish standards and rules for uniform enforcement and shall maintain a list of at least five approved independent laboratories for an owner or trainer to select from in the event of a positive test result ~~sample~~.

(b) If the division ~~state~~ laboratory's findings are not confirmed by the independent laboratory, no further administrative or disciplinary action under this section may be pursued. The division may adopt rules identifying substances that diminish in a blood or urine sample due to passage of time and that must be taken into account in applying this section.

(c) If the independent laboratory confirms the division ~~state~~ laboratory's positive result, ~~or if there is an insufficient quantity of the secondary (split) sample for confirmation of the state laboratory's positive result,~~ the division may commence administrative proceedings as prescribed in this chapter and consistent with chapter 120. For purposes of this subsection, the department shall in good faith attempt to obtain a sufficient quantity of the test fluid to allow both a primary test and a secondary test to be made. If there is an insufficient quantity of the split sample for confirmation of the division laboratory's positive result, the division may not take further action on the matter against the owner or trainer, and any resulting license suspension must be immediately lifted.

(d) The division shall require its laboratory and the independent laboratories to annually participate in an externally administered quality assurance program designed to assess testing proficiency in the detection and appropriate quantification of medications, drugs, and naturally occurring substances that may be administered to racing animals. The administrator of the quality assurance program shall report its results and findings to the division.

c. The color, weight, and sex of the greyhound.

d. The location where the injury took place, whether on a racetrack or in another area.

Senator Joe Negron, Chair
Appropriations Committee
412 Senate Office Building

Tallahassee, Florida 32399

Dear Chair Negron,

This letter is to request that SB 742 relating to Greyhound Injury Reporting be placed on the agenda of the next scheduled meeting of the Appropriations Committee.

The proposed legislation would require facilities that race greyhounds to report and provide documentation of any injury or death relating to greyhounds housed within their facility. Every three days, a racing greyhound dies in Florida. Further, Florida is one of only two states in the country that does not require this information to be provided by these facilities.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

With Best Regards,

Eleanor Sobel

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 744 directs the Department of Children and Families (DCF) to establish a statewide pilot program to pay specified costs of driver education, licensure, and motor vehicle insurance for a foster child who meets certain qualifications. The bill sets limits of the amount to be paid and requires payment to be made in the order of eligibility until funds are exhausted.

The bill requires the DCF to contract with a qualified not-for-profit entity to operate and develop procedures for the program. The bill requires an annual report to the governor and the Legislature.

The bill provides for preferential enrollment in driver education for specified children in the care of the DCF.

The bill contains an appropriation of $800,000 from the General Revenue Fund to the DCF for the purpose of implementing the bill during the 2014-2015 fiscal year.

II. Present Situation:

Foster Children

Young people in the foster care system often face barriers to participating in everyday life experiences common to other young people their age. These life experiences are a part of how all children are prepared for the responsibilities they will assume as adults. The Florida State Youth Advisory Board has long identified barriers to driving an automobile that are experienced by the children in Florida's foster care system as a concern. Staff of the Department of Children and Families (DCF) concur that foster care children who are not able to learn or gain experience driving miss an important part of learning how to be independent, including being able to work.

Both statute and administrative code support the efforts of teens in foster care to engage in age-appropriate activities.[1] DCF rules specifically require community-based care lead agency service providers to support foster care teens who have demonstrated the appropriate level of maturity in their efforts to learn to drive and obtain a learner's permit or driver's license, and to assist in obtaining automobile insurance for those who are allowed to drive.[2]

At the end of January 2014, the DCF reported that there were 385 15-year-olds, 458 16-year-olds, and 517 17-year-olds in foster care.[3] The DCF has contracted with Cby25, a private not-for-profit corporation, to survey youth in foster care every six months and to publish reports.[4] According to the most recent of these reports, published in the spring of 2013:

- 5 percent of 15-year-old respondents (11 children of 243 surveyed) had learner's permits;
- 8 percent of 16-year-olds (25 children of 300 surveyed) had learner's permits;
- 13 percent of 17-year-olds (52 children of 387 surveyed) had learner's permits; and
- 9 percent of the total number of children surveyed (88 of 930 surveyed) had learner's permits.

Children surveyed reported the following regarding drivers' licenses:

- 1 percent of 16-year-olds (4 children of 300 surveyed) had driver's licenses;
- 4 percent of 17-year-olds (16 children of 387 surveyed) had driver's licenses; and
- 3 percent of the total number of children surveyed (20 of 687 surveyed) had driver's licenses.[5]

Usually, children in foster care are placed with a foster parent; however, they may also be placed in a group home or other residential facility[6] or, upon turning 16, in an independent living setting, which is subsidized by the DCF.[7]

Currently, foster parents (who are also referred to as licensed foster homes) receive payment from the state of a monthly board rate for caring for a foster child. The basic board rate for a child aged 13-21 is $515 per month.[8]

Driver's Licenses for Teens

A child who is 15 years of age is authorized to obtain a learner's driver's license (learner's permit), provided he or she meets the school attendance requirements of s. 322.091, F.S., and the application and testing requirements of s. 322.1615, F.S. Section 322.09, F.S., requires that, when a child applies for a learner's permit, the application must be signed by a parent, guardian, or when there is no parent or guardian, some other responsible adult. The learner's permit is considered a restricted form of the regular driver's license, or Class E driver license.

Special Driver's License and Insurance Provisions for Foster Children and Foster Parents

Among the primary obstacles to these children being able to drive are the potential liability of the foster parents when the children drive vehicles owned by the foster parent and the attendant cost of insurance to protect foster parents from this liability.

Section 322.09(2), F.S., provides that any negligence or willful misconduct of the child operating a motor vehicle will be imputed to the adult who signed the application. That adult is jointly and severally liable with the child for any damages caused by the negligent or willful misconduct.

In 2001, s. 322.09, F.S., was amended to provide that foster parents or authorized representatives of a residential group home who sign for a foster child's license do not become liable for any damages or misconduct of the child.[9] While this provision relieves the foster parent of liability resulting directly from the signature on the driver license application, it does not address any vicarious liability that the foster parent may have because of the foster parent's ownership of the vehicle that the child drives.[10] This liability arises whenever an insured individual allows another to operate his or her motor vehicle and is independent of the provisions of s. 322.09, F.S. Thus, the foster parent who owns the motor vehicle continues to be subject to vicarious liability for the actions of the child while operating the foster parent's vehicle, in the same way the foster parent would be vicariously liable for the actions of any other person operating that vehicle. This vicarious liability is one of the risks for which insurance coverage is purchased.

Also in 2001, s. 627.746, F.S., was created to prohibit a motor vehicle insurance company from charging an additional premium on a motor vehicle owned by a foster parent for coverage of a child operating the vehicle while the child is holding a learner's permit.[11] This prohibition is only applicable until the child obtains a regular driver's license.

Costs Associated with Obtaining a Driver's License

Driver's education courses are offered free of charge through the public school system but enrollment may be limited. Some school districts offer a summer driver's education course, charging fees from $50 to $250.[12] Commercial courses are offered in some jurisdictions at prices ranging from $300-$5,000.[13]

The cost of obtaining a class E (regular) driver's license is $48.[14] The learner's permit is considered a restricted form of a class E license, requiring the payment of the $48 fee, but no additional fee is required to upgrade from a learner's permit to a class E license. In order to obtain a learner's permit, the person applying must, among other requirements, have completed a traffic law and substance education course[15] and have successfully completed a written examination.[16,17]

The cost of obtaining motor vehicle insurance coverage for a teen driver varies widely contingent on many factors used by insurance companies.[18] These factors include:

- Type of vehicle;
- Driving history;
- Vehicle Usage;
- Geographic Location or Territory;
- Gender;
- Company specific discounts;
- Age;[19] and
- Amount of coverage.

As a generic estimate, the Office of the Guardian ad Litem has used the figure of $2,000 annually per child for motor vehicle insurance.[20]

Emancipation of Minors, Generally

All states have laws dealing with the "emancipation" of minors, which specify when and under what conditions children become independent of their parents for legal purposes. Approximately half of the states regulate emancipation by statutes specifically designed for that purpose. These statutes may specify the conditions required or the procedures for seeking emancipation. Statutes vary considerably from state to state, but under common law, most states allow for the possibility of court-reviewed emancipation. No fixed age of emancipation exists, yet a minor is presumed to become emancipated upon reaching the age of majority. In most states, the age of majority is 18.[21]

Emancipation is the removal of "disability of nonage." Legally, in most instances, children lack the capacity that adults are assumed to have to perform certain activities, such as entering into binding contracts, making certain purchases, and being held responsible in the same way as adults for criminal offenses. This lack of capacity is termed the "disability of nonage." Emancipation is the act by which a person gains all the rights and responsibilities of an adult. An emancipated minor has the legal capacity to act as an adult, be in control of his or her affairs, and be free of the legal control and custody of his or her parents. Emancipated minors lose the right to have their parents provide for them and the protection of the Department of Children and Family Services.[22]

A circuit court has jurisdiction to remove the disabilities of nonage of a minor who is age 16 or older residing in Florida upon a petition filed by the minor's natural or legal guardian or, if there is none, by a guardian ad litem. Subsequent to July 1, 2012, the petition may also be filed by the minor if the minor is a certified homeless and unaccompanied minor over the age of 16. The petition must contain the following information:[23]

- The name, address, residence, and date of birth of the minor;
- The name, address, and current location of each of the minor's parents, if known;
- The name, date of birth, custody, and location of any children born to the minor;
- A statement of the minor's character, habits, education, income, and mental capacity for business, and an explanation of how the needs of the minor with respect to food, shelter, clothing, medical care, and other necessities will be met;
- Whether the minor is a party to or the subject of a pending judicial proceeding in this state or any other jurisdiction, or the subject of a judicial order of any description issued in connection with such pending judicial proceeding; and
- A statement of the reason why the court should remove the disabilities of nonage.

In addition, the law provides that:

- If the petition is filed by the natural or legal guardian, the court must appoint an attorney ad litem for the minor child, and the minor child shall be brought before the court to determine if the interest of the minor will be fully protected by the removal of disabilities of nonage;
- If the petition is filed by the guardian ad litem or next friend[24], service of process must be perfected on the natural parents;

- If both parents are not jointly petitioning the court for the removal of the disabilities of nonage of the minor, service of process must be made upon the non-petitioning parent;[25]
- The court shall consider the petition and receive such evidence as it deems necessary to rule on the petition;
- If the court determines that removal of the disabilities of nonage is in the minor's best interest, it must enter an order to that effect; and
- The judgment must be recorded in the county in which the minor resides, and a certified copy must be received as evidence of the removal of disabilities of nonage for all matters in all courts.[26]

Special Provisions Relating to Emancipation for Foster Children

Section 39.701(3), F.S., requires that the dependency court must hold a judicial review within 90 days following the child's 17th birthday. At this hearing, the court is required to enter an order, separate from the judicial review order, that the disability of nonage for the child has been removed pursuant to s. 743.045, F.S.[27]

Section 743.045, F.S. provides for the removal of the disability of nonage for foster children over the age of 17 for executing contracts for a residential lease.

Additionally, s. 743.046, F.S., which is not referenced in s. 39.701(3), F.S., removes the disability of nonage for foster children over the age of 17 for securing utility services at residential property.

Similarly, s. 743.044, F.S., which is also not referenced in s. 39.701(3), removes the disability of nonage for foster children over the age of 16 for executing agreements for depository financial services. All three of these special provisions (ss. 743.044, 743.045, and 743.046, F.S.) require the entry of a court order to be effective.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 39.701(3), F.S., to add the removal of the disability of nonage for the purposes of obtaining motor vehicle insurance to the matters to be considered at the special judicial review scheduled at the time a child becomes 17 years of age.

Section 2 creates s. 409.1454, F.S., directing the Department of Children and Families (DCF) to establish a three-year pilot program to pay the costs of driver education, licensure, and other costs incidental to licensure and motor vehicle insurance for children in licensed out of home care who have successfully completed a driver education program, to the extent that funding is available.

The bill limits the amount of the payments to the increase in cost attributable to the addition of the child to the policy. The bill directs that payments be made to eligible recipients in the order of eligibility until available funds are exhausted. The bill directs the DCF to contract with a not-for-profit entity whose mission is to support youth aging out of foster care to develop procedures for operating and administering the pilot program and requires the DCF to submit an annual report to the Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives in each year for the duration of the pilot project.

Section 3 creates s. 743.047, F.S., authorizing the court to remove the disability of nonage for minors obtaining motor vehicle insurance if the child has reached 16 years of age, has been adjudicated dependent, is residing in an out-of-home placement, and has completed a driver education program. In order to execute the documents necessary for the insurance, the child must present a court order removing the disability of nonage for this purpose.

Section 4 amends s. 1003.48, F.S., to require secondary schools offering driver's education courses to grant preferential enrollment to students in the custody of the DCF if the student maintains appropriate progress as required by the school.

Section 5 appropriates $800,000 from the General Revenue Fund to the DCF for implementing this act during Fiscal Year 2014-2015.

Section 6 provides for an effective date of July 1, 2014.

12. The child's entire health and mental health records.

13. The process for accessing his or her case file.

14. A statement encouraging the child to attend all judicial review hearings occurring after the child's 17th birthday.

Section 2. Section 409.1454, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

409.1454 Motor vehicle insurance for children in care.—

(1) The Legislature finds that the costs of driver education, licensure and costs incidental to licensure, and motor vehicle insurance for a child in licensed out-of-home care after such child obtains a driver license creates an additional barrier to engaging in normal age-appropriate activities and gaining independence and may limit opportunities for obtaining employment and completing educational goals. The Legislature also finds that the completion of an approved driver education course is necessary to develop safe driving skills.

(2) To the extent that funding is available, the department shall establish a 3-year pilot program to pay the cost of driver education, licensure and other costs incidental to licensure, and motor vehicle insurance for children in licensed out-of-home care who have successfully completed a driver education program.

(3) If a caregiver, or an individual or not-for-profit entity approved by the caregiver, adds a child to his or her existing insurance policy, the amount paid to the caregiver or approved purchaser may not exceed the increase in cost attributable to the addition of the child to the policy.

(4) Payment shall be made to eligible recipients in the order of eligibility until available funds are exhausted.

(5) The department shall contract with a not-for-profit entity whose mission is to support youth aging out of foster care to develop procedures for operating and administering the pilot program, including, but not limited to:

(a) Determining eligibility, including responsibilities for the child and caregivers.

(b) Developing application and payment forms.

(c) Notifying eligible children, caregivers, group homes, and residential programs of the pilot program.

(d) Providing technical assistance to lead agencies, providers, group homes, and residential programs to support removing obstacles that prevent children in foster care from driving.

(6) By July 1, 2015, and annually thereafter for the duration of the pilot program, the department shall submit a report to the Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives evaluating the success of and outcomes achieved by the pilot program. The report shall include a recommendation as to whether the pilot program should be continued, terminated, or expanded.

Section 3. Section 743.047, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

743.047 Removal of disabilities of minors; executing agreements for motor vehicle insurance.—For the purpose of ensuring that a child in foster care will be able to secure motor vehicle insurance, the disability of nonage of minors shall be removed provided that the child has reached 16 years of age, has been adjudicated dependent, is residing in an out-of-home placement as defined in s. 39.01, and has completed a driver education program. Upon issuance of an order by a court of competent jurisdiction, such child is authorized to make and execute all documents, contracts, or agreements necessary for obtaining motor vehicle insurance as if the child is otherwise competent to make and execute contracts. Execution of any such contract or agreement for motor vehicle insurance has the same effect as if it were the act of a person who is not a minor. A child seeking to enter into such contract or agreement or execute other necessary instrument incidental to obtaining motor vehicle insurance must present an order from a court of competent jurisdiction removing the disabilities of nonage of the minor pursuant to this section.

Section 4. Section 1003.48, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

1003.48 Instruction in operation of motor vehicles.—

(1) A course of study and instruction in the safe and lawful operation of a motor vehicle shall be made available by each district school board to students in the secondary schools in the state. The secondary school shall provide preferential enrollment to a student who is in the custody of the Department of Children and Families if the student maintains appropriate progress as required by the school. As used in this section, the term "motor vehicle" has ~~shall have~~ the same meaning as in s.

320.01(1)(a) and includes ~~shall include~~ motorcycles and mopeds. Instruction in motorcycle or moped operation may be limited to classroom instruction. The course may ~~shall~~ not be made a part of, or a substitute for, any of the minimum requirements for graduation.

(2) In order to make such a course available to any secondary school student, the district school board may use any one of the following procedures or any combination thereof:

(a) Use ~~Utilize~~ instructional personnel employed by the district school board.

(b) Contract with a commercial driving school licensed under ~~the provisions of~~ chapter 488.

(c) Contract with an instructor certified under ~~the provisions of~~ chapter 488.

(3)~~(a)~~ District school boards shall earn funds on full-time equivalent students at the appropriate basic program cost factor, regardless of the method by which such courses are offered.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 746 amends the definition of "clinic" within the Health Care Clinic Act to include any entity that "receives remuneration" rather than entities that "tender charges for reimbursement." The bill also makes clinics subject to additional inspections, administrative penalties,[1] and any applicable criminal penalties if an inspection or investigation reveals that the clinic hired or continued to employ a physician whose license is suspended or revoked or the licenses of two or more physicians have been suspended or revoked as a consequence of the physicians' actions while engaged by the clinic. The bill exempts certain federally certified clinics from licensure under the act.

The bill is estimated to have a net recurring negative fiscal impact of approximately $69,000 to the Agency for Health Care Administration's (AHCA) Health Care Trust Fund. The net impact results from an estimate of approximately $176,000 of additional annual revenue for the trust fund and the need for $245,000 of recurring expenditures from the trust fund for four full-time equivalent positions to implement the bill.

[1] See s. 400.995, F.S., allowing the AHCA to deny, revoke, or suspend a license and impose fines of up to $5,000 for violations of the Health Care Clinic Act.

II. Present Situation:

Part X of ch. 400, F.S., is known as the Health Care Clinic Act (the Act). The purpose of the Act is to provide for the licensure, establishment, and enforcement of basic standards for health care clinics and to provide administrative oversight by the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA).

Health care clinics in the state must be licensed by the AHCA;[2] however, there are numerous exclusions from the definition of "clinic" in s. 400.9905, F.S.,[3] and from the requirement to obtain a license as a clinic. The definition of "clinic" includes only entities that "tender charges for reimbursement." The AHCA interprets this phrase to solely include entities that bill third parties, such as Medicare, Medicaid, and insurance companies. Entities that provide health care services on a "cash only" basis are excluded from the definition of "clinic" and, as such, need not be licensed by the AHCA.[4]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 400.9905, F.S., to broaden the definition of "clinic" to include any entity that "receives remuneration" rather than entities that "tender charges for reimbursement." The effect of this change is to require "cash only" clinics to obtain a license as a clinic and, as a result, these facilities will be subject to periodic inspections. The bill exempts clinics subject to federal licensure requirements under 42 C.F.R. part 485, subpart H.

Section 2 amends s. 400.995, F.S., to subject clinics to additional inspections, administrative penalties,[5] licensure suspension or revocation, any applicable criminal penalties[6] or any combination thereof if:

- An inspection or investigation reveals that the clinic hired or continued to employ a physician whose license is suspended or revoked; or
- The licenses of two or more physicians have been suspended or revoked as a consequence of the physicians' actions while engaged by the clinic.

Section 3 establishes an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

[2] Section 400.991, F.S.
[3] Section 400.9905(4)(a)-(n), F.S.
[4] See the AHCA's bill analysis for SB 746 (January 28, 2014) on file with staff of the Committee on Appropriations.
[5] See s. 400.995, F.S., allowing the AHCA to deny, revoke, or suspend a license and impose fines of up to $5,000 for violations of the Health Care Clinic Act.
[6] The criminal penalties are not specified, however, these penalties could include a felony of the third degree imposed by s. 458.327(1)(b), F.S., on physicians who attempt to use a license which is suspended or revoked to practice medicine.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

Under CS/CS/CS/SB 746, "cash only" clinics that are not currently licensed will be required to obtain a license from the AHCA and pay a $2,000 licensing fee in order to continue operating legally.

B. Private Sector Impact:

"Cash only" clinics that are not currently licensed will incur the $2,000 licensing fee if they choose to seek licensure. Also, clinics that hire or continue to employ a physician whose license is suspended or revoked may be required to pay a fine of up to $5,000.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The AHCA anticipates a recurring increase in licensing fee revenue of approximately $176,000 under the bill that will be deposited into the Health Care Trust Fund.

The AHCA anticipates the licensure workload will increase by 10 percent requiring 4 FTE positions to manage the program. The licensure fees will substantially cover the increased workload costs. Existing resources can absorb the difference.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 400.9905 and 400.995.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS/CS by Community Affairs on April 8, 2014:
The CS exempts certain federally certified clinics from the licensure requirements of the bill.

CS/CS by Criminal Justice on March 24, 2014:
The CS subjects clinics to additional inspections and licensure suspension or revocation (or any combination of penalties including administrative and criminal penalties) if an inspection or investigation reveals that the licenses of two or more physicians have been suspended or revoked as a consequence of the physicians' actions while engaged by the clinic.

CS by Health Policy on March 11, 2014:
The CS provides that only clinics that hire or continues to employ, directly or contractually, a physician whose license is suspended or revoked, are liable for sanctions or criminal penalties.

Tallahassee, Florida 32399

Dear Chair Negron:

This letter is to request that SB 746 relating to Health Care Clinics be placed on the agenda of the next scheduled meeting of the committee.

The proposed legislation would change the language of F.S. 400.9905, so that facilities that accept cash only would also be included in the definition of health care clinics. The current language leaves these facilities out, creating a perverse situation whereby employees of such facilities can prescribe illegal amounts of anabolic steroids and HGH with impunity. This bill would mean that such facilities would be subject to the same regulations, inspections, and penalties as other health care clinics in the state.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Respectfully,

Eleanor Sobel

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 768 revises laws on human trafficking. These changes:

- Include certain human trafficking offenses in s. 92.56, F.S., which provide protections from disclosure of information about victims of sexual offenses;
- Allow a defendant who is charged with the crime of human trafficking of a minor to access court records relating to the victim to prepare a defense, but prohibit the defendant from disclosing the victim's identity to persons not related to the preparation of the defense;
- Prohibit adult theaters from employing a person under 18 years of age and require adult theaters to obtain and keep records of proof of the age and identity of its employees and independent contractors;
- Eliminate the statute of limitations for human trafficking offenses under s. 787.06, F.S.;
- Clarify that the offense of human trafficking includes human trafficking that does and does not involve a venture;
- Separate existing offenses that do not differentiate the age of the victim into separate offenses for adult and child victims, remove the requirement to prove the use of coercion if the victim is a child, and create new offenses relating to mentally defective or mentally incapacitated persons and branding of victims;
- Provide legislative intent that adults who involve minors in prostitution prohibited under ch. 796, F.S., be prosecuted under other applicable laws of the state;
- Raise the offense classification for deriving support from the earnings of a prostitute, with additional increases in classification for subsequent offenses;

- Raise the offense classification for acts related to prostitution (but not engaging in prostitution) from a second degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony, with additional increases in classification for subsequent offenses;
- Allow victims of human trafficking to petition for the expunction of a criminal history record resulting from the arrest or filing of charges for an offense committed or reported to have been committed under ch. 796, F.S., (prostitution) and ch. 847, F.S., (obscenity), regardless of the disposition of the arrest or of any charges;
- Provide that if a person is adjudicated not guilty by reason of insanity or found to be incompetent to stand trial for prostitution or obscenity, expunction of the criminal history record may not prevent the entry of the judgment or finding in state and national databases for use in determining eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or carry a concealed firearm;
- Authorize compensation claims for victims of human trafficking; and
- Make victims of human trafficking eligible for victim relocation assistance.

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference determined that CS/HB 1017, which includes the same additions and changes relating to criminal laws as the bill, will require an undetermined number of additional prison beds. The Office of State Courts Administrator anticipates any increase in judicial workload can be absorbed within existing resources.

II. Present Situation:

Human Trafficking

Section 787.06, F.S., punishes "human trafficking," which the statute defines as "transporting, soliciting, recruiting, harboring, providing, enticing, maintaining, or obtaining[1] another person for the purpose of exploitation of that person."[2]

The statute punishes a variety of acts relating to human trafficking.[3] Specifically, the statute provides any person who knowingly, or in reckless disregard of the facts, engages in, or attempts to engage in, or benefits financially by receiving anything of value from participating in a venture[4] involving human trafficking:

[1] "Obtain" means, in relation to labor or services, to secure performance thereof. Section 787.06(2)(g), F.S.
[2] Section 787.06(2)(d), F.S.
[3] The statute was substantially amended by the Legislature in 2012 in HB 7049 (2012-97, L.O.F.). Among other things the legislation consolidated in s. 787.06, F.S., sex trafficking offenses that were previously contained in other statutes.
[4] "Venture" means any group of two or more individuals associated in fact, whether or not a legal entity. Section 787.06(2)(k), F.S.

- Using coercion[5] for labor[6] or services[7] commits a first degree felony (s. 787.06(3)(a), F.S.);[8]
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity[9] commits a first degree felony (s. 787.06(3)(b), F.S.);
- Using coercion for labor or services of any individual who is an unauthorized alien commits a first degree felony (s. 787.06(3)(c), F.S.);
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity of an unauthorized alien commits a first degree felony (s. 787.06(3)(d), F.S.);
- Using coercion for labor or services by transferring or transporting a person into the state commits a felony of the first degree (s. 787.06(3)(e), F.S.);
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity by transferring or transporting a person into the state commits a first degree felony (s. 787.06(3)(f), F.S.);
- For commercial sexual activity in which any child under the age of 18 is involved commits a first degree felony, punishable by imprisonment of up to life imprisonment (s. 787.06(3)(g), F.S.); or
- For commercial sexual activity in which any child under the age of 15 is involved commits a life felony (s. 787.06(3)(h), F.S.).

Additionally, a parent, legal guardian, or other person having custody or control of a minor commits a first degree felony if he or she sells or otherwise transfers custody or control of the minor, or offers to sell or otherwise transfer custody of the minor, with knowledge or in reckless disregard of the fact that, as a consequence of the sale or transfer, the minor will be subject to human trafficking (s. 787.06(4), F.S.).

Definition of "Sexual Abuse of a Child"

Chapter 39, F.S., addresses proceedings relating to the protection of the welfare of children.[10] The definition of "sexual abuse of a child" in s. 39.01(67), F.S., includes the sexual exploitation

[5] "Coercion" means: 1) using or threatening to use physical force against any person; 2) restraining, isolating, or confining or threatening to restrain, isolate, or confine any person without lawful authority and against her or his will; 3) using lending or other credit methods to establish a debt by any person when labor or services are pledged as a security for the debt, if the value of the labor or services as reasonably assessed is not applied toward the liquidation of the debt, the length and nature of the labor or services are not respectively limited and defined; 4) destroying, concealing, removing, confiscating, withholding, or possessing any actual or purported passport, visa, or other immigration document, or any other actual or purported government identification document, of any person; 5) causing or threatening to cause financial harm to any person; 6) enticing or luring any person by fraud or deceit; or 7) providing a controlled substance as outlined in Schedule I or Schedule II of s. 893.03, F.S., to any person for the purpose of exploitation of that person. Section 787.06(2)(a), F.S. "Financial harm" includes extortionate extension of credit, loan sharking as defined in s. 687.071, F.S., or employment contracts that violate the statute of frauds as provided in s. 725.01, F.S. Section 787.06(2)(c), F.S.

[6] "Labor" means work of economic or financial value. Section 787.06(2)(e), F.S.

[7] "Services" means any act committed at the behest of, under the supervision of, or for the benefit of another. The term includes, but is not limited to, forced marriage, servitude, or the removal of organs. Section 787.06(2)(h), F.S.

[8] Generally, a first degree felony is punishable by up to 30 years in state prison, a fine of up to $10,000, or imprisonment and a fine. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

[9] "Commercial sexual activity" means any violation of ch. 796, F.S. (Prostitution), or an attempt to commit any such offense, and includes sexually explicit performances and the production of pornography. Section 787.06(2)(b), F.S. "Sexually explicit performance" means an act or show, whether public or private, that is live, photographed, recorded, or videotaped and intended to arouse or satisfy the sexual desires or appeal to the prurient interest. Section 787.06(2)(i), F.S.

[10] Chapter 39, F.S., establishes a Florida child dependency process and provides the process and procedures for: reporting child abuse and neglect; protective investigations; taking children into custody and shelter hearings; petition, arraignment, of a child, which includes the act of a child offering to engage in or engaging in prostitution, provided that the child is not under arrest or is not being prosecuted in a delinquency or criminal proceeding for a violation of any offense in ch. 796, F.S. (prostitution) based on such behavior; or allowing, encouraging, or forcing a child to:

- Solicit for or engage in prostitution;
- Engage in a sexual performance, as defined by ch. 827, F.S. (child abuse); or
- Participate in sex trafficking as provided in s. 796.035 (selling or buying of minors into prostitution).

Prior to legislation that passed in 2012,[11] s. 796.035, F.S., provided:

> Any parent, legal guardian, or other person having custody or control of a minor who sells or otherwise transfers custody or control of such minor, or offers to sell or otherwise transfer custody of such minor, with knowledge that, as a consequence of the sale or transfer, the minor will engage in prostitution, perform naked for compensation, or otherwise participate in the trade of sex trafficking, commits a felony of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

As a result of the 2012 legislation, the offense was modified and reference to the "trade of sex trafficking" was removed.[12] The statute now reads:

> Any parent, legal guardian, or other person having custody or control of a minor who sells or otherwise transfers custody or control of such minor, or offers to sell or otherwise transfer custody of such minor, with knowledge or in reckless disregard of the fact that, as a consequence of the sale or transfer, the minor will engage in prostitution commits a felony of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

Consequently, as a result of the 2012 legislative changes, the reference to "trade of sex trafficking in s. 796.035" is not in current law.

Victim Identity Information in Judicial Proceedings and Records

Section 92.56(1)(a), F.S., provides the confidential and exempt status of criminal intelligence information or criminal investigative information made confidential and exempt pursuant to s. 119.071(2)(h), F.S., must be maintained in court records pursuant to s. 119.0714(1)(h), F.S.,[13] and in court proceedings, including testimony from witnesses.

and adjudication of dependency; disposition of the dependent child; post-disposition change of custody; case plans; permanency; judicial reviews; and termination of parental rights.

[11] Chapter 2012-97, L.O.F.

[12] Additionally, the 2012 legislation repealed s. 796.045, F.S., which punished sex trafficking. Sex trafficking is now addressed in s. 787.06, F.S.

[13] Section 119.0714(1), F.S., provides that nothing in ch. 119, F.S. (the public records chapter), shall be construed to exempt from s. 119.07(1), F.S. (inspection and copying), a public record that was made a part of a court file and that is not specifically closed by order of court, except for a record or information specified in that subsection. One of the exceptions is

Section 119.071(2)(h), F.S., provides the following criminal intelligence information or criminal investigative information is confidential and exempt from s. 119.07(1), F.S., and s. 24(a), Article I of the State Constitution:

- Any information, including the photograph, name, address, or other fact, which reveals the identity of a victim of child abuse as defined by ch. 827, F.S.[14]
- Any information which may reveal the identity of a person who is a victim of any sexual offense, including a sexual offense proscribed in ch. 794, F.S. (sexual battery), ch. 796, F.S. (prostitution), ch. 800, F.S. (lewd acts), ch. 827, F.S. (child abuse), or ch. 847, F.S. (acts involving obscenity or materials harmful to a minor).
- A photograph, videotape, or image of any part of the body of the victim of a sexual offense prohibited under any of the previously referenced chapters, regardless of whether the photograph, videotape, or image identifies the victim.[15]

If a petition for access to confidential and exempt records is filed with the trial court having jurisdiction over the alleged offense, the court must maintain the confidential and exempt status of this information if the state or the victim demonstrates:

- The identity of the victim is not already known in the community;
- The victim has not voluntarily called public attention to the offense;
- The identity of the victim has not otherwise become a reasonable subject of public concern;
- The disclosure of the victim's identity would offend a reasonable person; and
- The disclosure of the victim's identity would:
  - Endanger the victim because the assailant has not been apprehended and is not otherwise known to the victim;
  - Endanger the victim because of the likelihood of retaliation, harassment, or intimidation;
  - Cause severe emotional or mental harm to the victim;
  - Make the victim unwilling to testify as a witness; or
  - Be inappropriate for other good cause shown.

A defendant charged with a crime described in ch. 794, F.S., or ch. 800, F.S., or with child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child as described in ch. 827, F.S., may apply to the trial court for an order of disclosure of information in court records held confidential and exempt pursuant to s. 119.0714(1)(h), F.S., or maintained as confidential and exempt pursuant to court order under s. 92.56, F.S.

The previously-described victim identification information may be released to the defendant or his or her attorney to prepare for defense. The confidential and exempt status of this information criminal intelligence information or criminal investigative information that is confidential and exempt as provided in s. 119.071(2)(h), F.S. Section 119.0714(1)(h), F.S.

[14] Section 827.03(1)(b), F.S., defines "child abuse" as: 1) intentional infliction of physical or mental injury upon a child; 2) an intentional act that could reasonably be expected to result in physical or mental injury to a child; or 3) active encouragement of any person to commit an act that results or could reasonably be expected to result in physical or mental injury to a child.

[15] Section 119.071(2)(h)2., F.S. Criminal investigative information and criminal intelligence information made confidential and exempt under this paragraph may be disclosed by a law enforcement agency: a) in the furtherance of its official duties and responsibilities; b) for print, publication, or broadcast if the law enforcement agency determines that such release would assist in locating or identifying a person that such agency believes to be missing or endangered; and c) to another governmental agency in the furtherance of its official duties and responsibilities.

may not be construed to prevent disclosure of the victim's identity to the defendant; however, the defendant may not disclose the victim's identity to any person other than the defendant's attorney or any other person directly involved in the preparation of the defense. A willful and knowing disclosure of the identity of the victim to any other person by the defendant constitutes contempt.

The state may use a pseudonym instead of the victim's name to designate the victim of a crime described in ch. 794, F.S., or ch. 800, F.S., or of child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child as described in ch. 827, F.S., or any crime involving the production, possession, or promotion of child pornography as described in ch. 847, F.S., in all court records and records of court proceedings, both civil and criminal.

The protection of s. 92.56, F.S., may be waived by the victim of the alleged offense by filing with the court a written consent to the use or release of identifying information during court proceedings and in the records of court proceedings.

Section 92.56, F.S., does not prohibit publication or broadcast of the substance of trial testimony in a prosecution for an offense described in ch. 794, F.S., or ch. 800, F.S., or a crime of child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child, as described in ch. 827, F.S., but publication or broadcast may not include an identifying photograph, an identifiable voice, or the name or address of the victim, unless the victim has filed with the court written consent or the court has declared such records not confidential and exempt as provided for in s. 92.56 (1), F.S. A willful and knowing violation of s. 92.56, F.S., or a willful and knowing failure to obey any court order issued under the statute constitutes contempt.[16]

Victim Compensation and Relocation Assistance

The Florida Crimes Compensation Act[17] authorizes the Florida Attorney General's Division of Victim Services to administer a compensation program to ensure financial assistance for victims of crime. Injured crime victims may be eligible for financial assistance for medical care, lost income, mental health services, funeral expenses and other out-of-pocket expenses directly related to the injury.[18] Currently, s. 906.065(2), F.S., makes ineligible compensation claims filed by persons engaged in unlawful activity at the time of the crime.

Section 960.199, F.S., provides relocation assistance to victims of sexual battery. The Department of Legal Affairs (the Florida Attorney General's Office) administers the assistance program. Under this program, a victim of sexual battery[19] who needs relocation assistance may receive a one-time payment not exceeding $1,500 on any one claim and a lifetime maximum of $3,000 if all of the following criteria are met:

- Proof that a sexual battery offense was committed.
- The sexual battery offense must be reported to the proper authorities.

[19] See s. 794.011, F.S. (sexual battery).

- The victim's need for assistance as certified by a certified rape crisis center in this state.
- The center must certify the victim is cooperating with law enforcement officials, if applicable, and document the victim has developed a safety plan.
- The act of sexual battery must be committed in the victim's place of residence or in a location that would lead the victim to reasonably fear his or her continued safety.[20]

Criminal Punishment Code/Sentence Point Multipliers

The Criminal Punishment Code (Code)[21] is Florida's framework or mechanism for determining permissible sentencing ranges for noncapital felonies. Noncapital felonies sentenced under the Code receive an offense severity level ranking (Levels 1-10).[22] Points are assigned and accrued based upon the level ranking (sentence points escalate as the level escalates) assigned to the primary offense and, if applicable, additional offenses, prior offenses, prior capital felonies, victim injury, legal status violations, community sanction violations, possession of a firearm, and prior serious felonies.[23]

If total sentence points are less than or equal to 44 points, the lowest permissible sentence is any nonstate prison sanction (e.g., probation). Generally, the sentencing range is a nonprison sanction up to the maximum penalty for the felony degree of the primary offense.[24] If total sentence points are greater than 44 points, 28 points are subtracted from that number. This total is then multiplied by 0.75 to determine the lowest permissible sentence in prison months.[25] For example, if an offender's primary offense is a second degree felony and his or her total sentence points are 80 points, 28 points are subtracted from 80, which equals 52 points. The 52 points are then multiplied by 0.75, which equals 39, or 39 months in prison. In this example, absent mitigation,[26] the sentencing range is 39 months in state prison up to 15 years in state prison, the maximum penalty for a second degree felony.

[20] Section 960.199(2), F.S.
[21] Sections 921.002-921.0027, F.S.
[22] A noncapital felony is ranked in one of two ways. The felony may be assigned a ranking by its placement in a specific ranking level in the Code's offense severity ranking chart. See s. 921.0022, F.S. However, if the offense is not ranked in the chart, it is assigned a ranking based on its felony degree as provided in s. 921.0023, F.S.
[23] See s. 921.0024, F.S. Further discussion of Code sentencing is based on provisions of this statute, unless otherwise noted.
[24] The maximum penalty for the felony degree is generally prescribed in s. 775.082, F.S. An exception is when the scored lowest permissible sentence exceeds the maximum penalty prescribed in s. 775.082, F.S. In this case, the scored lowest permissible sentence for the primary offense becomes both the minimum and maximum penalty for the primary offense.
[25] Mandatory minimum terms are an exception to general sentencing under the Code. "If the lowest permissible sentence is less than the mandatory minimum sentence, the mandatory minimum sentence takes precedence. If the lowest permissible sentence exceeds the mandatory sentence, the requirements of the ... Code and any mandatory minimum penalties apply." Rule 3.704(26) ("The Criminal Punishment Code"), Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure.
[26] The Code includes a list of 'mitigating' factors. See s. 921.0026, F.S. If a mitigating factor is found by the sentencing court, the court may decrease an offender's sentence below the lowest permissible sentence (a "downward departure"). A mandatory minimum term is not subject to these mitigating factors. See State v. Vanderhoff, 14 So. 3d 1185 (Fla. 5th DCA 2009).

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This bill revises the law on human trafficking. These changes:

- Provide protections for disclosure of court record information that identifies a victim of human trafficking of a minor for labor or services or human trafficking for commercial sexual activity;
- Clarify the offense of human trafficking includes human trafficking that does and does not involve a venture;
- Prohibit a public employee or officer having access to specified personal information regarding a victim of human trafficking of a minor for labor or services or human trafficking for commercial sexual activity from willfully and knowingly disclosing that information to an unauthorized person or entity;
- Authorize a compensation claim filed by a person engaged in prostitution as a result of being a victim of human trafficking for commercial sexual activity; and
- Provide that a victim of human trafficking of a minor for labor or services or human trafficking for commercial sexual activity is eligible for victim relocation assistance.

Section 1 amends s. 92.56, F.S. (judicial proceedings and court records involving sexual offenses), to specify in the title of the statute that the statute also includes human trafficking offenses and to add the following offenses to s. 92.56(2), (3), and (5), F.S., that involve human trafficking:

- For labor or services under the age of 18;
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity of an adult;
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity of an adult who is an unauthorized alien;
- For commercial sexual activity by the transfer or transport of any child under the age of 18 from outside this state to within the state;
- For commercial sexual activity who does so by the transfer or transport of an adult from outside this state to within the state; and
- For commercial sexual activity in which any child under the age of 18, or in which any person who is mentally defective or mentally incapacitated, is involved.

The effects of this change are:

- A defendant charged with any of these specified human trafficking offenses may apply to the trial court for an order of disclosure of information in court records held confidential and exempt pursuant to s. 119.0714(1)(h), F.S., or maintained as confidential and exempt pursuant to court order, in order for the defendant to prepare for his or her defense.
- The state may use a pseudonym instead of the victim's name to designate the victim of any of these specified human trafficking offenses in all court records and records of court proceedings, both civil and criminal.
- Section 92.56, F.S., does not prohibit the publication or broadcast of the substance of trial testimony in a prosecution for any of these human trafficking offenses.

Section 2 amends s. 450.021, F.S., to prohibit a person under 18 years of age from working in an adult theater regardless of whether such person's disabilities of nonage have been removed by marriage or otherwise.

Section 3 amends s. 450.045, F.S., to require an adult theater to obtain proof of the identity and age of its employees and independent contractors prior to employment or the provision of services. The adult theater must also verify the validity of the identification documents used to provide such proof. The adult theater is required to maintain a photocopy of the person's government-issued photo identification card, as well as proof of the verification of the validity of the identification document. These records must be maintained at the location where the employee or independent contractor works or provides services to the adult theater for at least three years. This section provides the Department of Business and Professional Regulation and its agents the authority to enter and inspect at any time a place or establishment and to have access to age verification documents kept on file by the adult theater.

Section 4 amends s. 775.082, F.S., to provide that for a life felony committed on or after October 1, 2014, which is a violation of s. 787.06(3)(g), F.S., (commercial sex trafficking in which a child under 18 years of age is involved), the punishment be a term of life imprisonment.

Section 5 amends s. 775.15, F.S., to provide that there is no time limitation for the criminal prosecution of a violation of s. 787.06, F.S., relating to human trafficking offenses.

Section 6 amends s. 787.06(3), F.S., which includes a number of first degree felony human trafficking offenses when coercion is used. Currently, the subsection provides that it is unlawful for any person to knowingly, or in reckless disregard of the facts, engage in, or attempt to engage in, or benefit financially by receiving anything of value from participation in a venture that has subjected a person to human trafficking involving any of a number of specified acts. The bill clarifies that the section applies to persons who engage or attempt to engage in human trafficking whether or not the activity involve a venture.

In addition to clarifying that participation in human trafficking is not a prerequisite, the bill revises and adds to the list of prohibited offenses. Currently, the offenses do not differentiate between adult and child victims and include the use of coercion as an element of the offense. The bill creates separate offenses for adult and child victims and removes the requirement to prove the use of coercion if the victim is a child. The amended offense list includes the following first degree felonies for human trafficking that is engaged in:

- For labor or services of any child under 18 years of age.
- Using coercion for labor or services of an adult.
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity of an adult.
- For labor or services of any child under 18 years of age who is an unauthorized alien.
- Using coercion for labor or services of an adult who is an unauthorized alien.
- Using coercion for commercial activity of an adult who is an unauthorized alien.
- For labor or services by the transfer or transport of any child under the 18 years of age from outside this state to within the state.
- Using coercion for labor or services by the transfer or transport of any adult from outside this state to within the state.
- For commercial sexual activity done by transfer or transport of any child under 18 years of age from outside this state to within this state (first degree felony punishable by life).
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity done by transfer or transport of any adult from outside this state to within this state.

The bill consolidates the offenses of commercial sexual activity involving any child who is under 18 years of age (currently a first degree felony punishable by life) and commercial sexual activity involving any child who is under 15 years of age (currently a life felony) into a single life felony offense of commercial sexual activity involving any child who is under 18 years of age. In addition, the bill expands potential victims to include persons who are mentally defective or mentally incapacitated. The bill specifies that this life felony must be punished by imprisonment for life.

The offense of sale or transfer of a minor by a parent, legal guardian, or other person who has custody or control of a minor with knowledge or reckless disregard that the minor will be subject to human trafficking is currently a first degree felony punishable by life imprisonment. The bill raises it to a life felony.

The bill creates a new second degree felony offense for permanently branding or directing the branding of a person who is a victim of human trafficking. The term "permanently branded" is defined as "a mark on the individual's body that, if it can be removed or repaired at all, can only be removed or repaired by surgical means, laser treatment, or other medical procedure."

The bill creates a new provision that the defendant's ignorance of the victim's age, the victim's misrepresentation of his or her age, or the defendant's bona fide belief of the victim's age cannot be raised as a defense in a prosecution for human trafficking.

Section 7 creates s. 796.001, F.S., to provide legislative intent that adults who involve minors in behaviors prohibited under ch. 796, F.S. (prostitution) be prosecuted under other laws of the state, such as, but not limited to, s. 787.06, F.S., ch. 794, F.S., ch. 800, F.S., s. 810.145, F.S., ch. 827, F.S., and ch. 847, F.S.

Section 8 repeals s. 796.03, F.S., s. 796.035, F.S., and s. 796.036, F.S., which relate to various prostitution related offenses.

Section 9 amends s. 706.05, F.S., which currently provides that it is a third degree felony to knowingly derive support from the earnings of a prostitute. The bill makes the crime a second degree felony for a first offense, elevates second and subsequent offenses to first degree felonies, and provides a mandatory minimum term of 10 years of imprisonment for third and subsequent offenses.

Section 10 amends s. 796.07, F.S., which prohibits and provides penalties for prostitution and related acts. Currently, each of the offenses in s. 796.07, F.S., is a second degree misdemeanor for a first violation, a first degree misdemeanor for a second violation, and a third degree misdemeanor for a third or subsequent violation. The bill maintains this scheme for persons who offer to commit, commit, or engage in prostitution (s. 796.07(2)(e), F.S.) and persons who reside, enter, or remain in a place, structure or building, or enter or remain in a conveyance, for the purpose of prostitution (s. 797.06(2)(g), F.S.). Each of the other acts related to prostitution (ss. 796.07 (a), (b), (c), (d), (f), (h), and (i), F.S.) is raised to a third degree felony for a first offense, a second degree felony for a second offense, and a first degree felony for a third or subsequent offense. These felony offenses generally apply to persons who commit acts that facilitate prostitution or who purchase the services of a person engaged in prostitution.

In addition to increasing the offense classification for certain acts related to prostitution, the bill requires assessment of a criminal penalty of $5000 for the offenses that are designated as felonies if the offense results in any judicial disposition other than acquittal or dismissal. Currently, the statute requires assessment of a $5000 civil penalty for all offenses under s. 796.07, F.S., that result in any judicial disposition other than acquittal or dismissal.

Section 11 amends s. 921.0022, F.S., to make revisions to the Criminal Punishment Code Offense Severity Ranking Chart that are consistent with changes made in the bill. Sections 796.03 and 796.035, F.S. are removed because they are repealed in Section 8 of the bill. The human trafficking offenses in s. 787.06(3), F.S., that are created or renumbered in Section 6 of the bill are added or renumbered in the Severity Ranking Chart. Each offense that involves a child victim is ranked one level higher than the corresponding offense in which the victim is an adult.

Section 12 amends s. 943.0583, F.S., to allow victims of human trafficking to petition for the expunction of a criminal history record resulting from the arrest or filing of charges for an offense committed or reported to have been committed under ch. 796, F.S., and ch. 847, F.S., regardless of the disposition of the arrest or of any charges.

This section also provides that a person adjudicated not guilty by reason of insanity or found to be incompetent to stand trial for any such charge, the expunction of the criminal history record may not prevent the entry of the judgment or finding in state and national databases for use in determination of eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or carry a concealed firearm. The expunction shall not prevent any governmental agency authorized by state or federal law to determine eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or carry a concealed firearm from accessing or using the record of the judgment or finding in the court of its official duties.

Section 13 amends s. 960.065(2), F.S., which provides that compensation claims filed by persons engaged in an unlawful activity at the time of the crime upon which the claim is based are not eligible for an award under the Florida Crimes Compensation Act. The bill provides an exception for a victim engaged in prostitution as a result of being a victim of human trafficking:

- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity of an adult;
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity of an adult who is an unauthorized alien;
- For commercial sexual activity who does so by the transfer or transport of any child under the age of 18 from outside this state to within the state;
- Using coercion for commercial sexual activity who does so by the transfer or transport of an individual from outside this state to within the state; or
- For commercial sexual activity in which a child under the age of 18 or any person who is mentally defective or mentally incapacitated is involved.

Section 14 amends s. 960.199, F.S., which provides for relocation assistance to victims of sexual battery. The bill extends relocation assistance to victims of human trafficking.

The statute currently provides the need for assistance by a victim of sexual battery must be certified by a certified rape center in this state.

Specific to human trafficking victims:
- The bill provides in addition to a certified rape crisis center, a state-certified domestic violence center may also certify the need for relocation assistance.
- The state attorney or statewide prosecutor must approve the certification of need made by either the rape center or the domestic violence center.

Florida law provides that the center's certification must assert the victim is cooperating with law enforcement officials, if applicable, and document the victim has developed a safety plan.

Sections 15 – 30 amend ss. 39.01, 90.404, 772.102, 775.0877, 775.21, 787.01, 787.02, 794.056, 856.022, 895.02, 938.085, 938.10, 943.0435, 943.0585, 943.059, 944.606, 944.607, 948.013, and 948.32, F.S., to make technical changes. Most of the changes delete references to statutes that are repealed by the bill.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

None.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference (CJIC) considered CS/HB 1017, which includes the same additions and changes relating to criminal laws as CS/CS/CS/SB 768. The CJIC determined that CS/HB 1017 would have a positive indeterminate impact on prison beds, meaning that it would require more prison beds but the number could not be determined.

The majority of the sentence increases would lengthen current felony sentences and thus be felt several years from the effective date. However, because the amendment increases the offense classification of many first time prostitution-related offenses from misdemeanors to felonies, it is possible that the some impact will be felt in the first year of the bill. In its analysis of the impact of the bill on the court system, the Office of the State Courts Administrator (OSCA) states any judicial or court workload impact is likely to be absorbed within existing resources. The OSCA provides the following additional comments regarding the bill's impact:

> The extent to which judicial workload would be affected by this bill depends upon the number of human trafficking cases that would be filed as a result of this bill, which is unknown. The more human trafficking cases that are filed as a result of this bill, the more judicial workload may be increased due to prosecution of the cases and required decisions on applications for disclosure of information by defendants.[27]

The Department of Legal Affairs has not provided an analysis of the bill's impact. The bill may result in more victims receiving victim compensation funds from the department.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

The bill is a combination of CS/CS/SB 768 and CS/SB 1440. CS/SB 1440 made substantial amendments to s. 787.06(3), F.S., that were not in CS/CS/SB 768. As a result, it appears that portions of the bill that were in CS/CS/SB 768 and that referred to paragraphs in s. 787.06(3), F.S., may no longer reference the offense that is intended.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 39.01, 92.56, 787.06, 960.065, and 960.199.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The Committee Substitute:

- Removes a change to the definition of "sexual abuse of a child".

[27] 2014 Judicial Impact Statement (CS/SB 768) (April 4, 2014), Office of the State Courts Administrator (on file with the Senate Committee on Criminal Justice).

- Prohibits adult theaters from employing a person under 18 years of age and requires adult theaters to obtain and keep records of proof of the age and identity of its employees and independent contractors.
- Eliminates the statute of limitations for human trafficking offenses under s. 787.06, F.S.
- Separates existing offenses in s. 787.06(3), F.S., that do not differentiate the age of the victim into separate offenses for adult and child victims, removes the requirement to prove the use of coercion if the victim is a child, and creates new offenses relating to mentally defective or mentally incapacitated persons and branding of victims.
- Provides legislative intent that adults who involve minors in prostitution prohibited under ch. 796, F.S., be prosecuted under other applicable laws of the state.
- Raises the offense classification for deriving support from the earnings of a prostitute, with additional increases in classification for subsequent offenses.
- Raises the offense classification for acts related to prostitution (but not engaging in prostitution) from a second degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony, with additional increases in classification for subsequent offenses.
- Allows victims of human trafficking to petition for the expunction of a criminal history record resulting from the arrest or filing of charges for an offense committed or reported to have been committed under ch. 796, F.S., (prostitution) and ch. 847, F.S., (obscenity), regardless of the disposition of the arrest or of any charges.
- Provided that if a person is adjudicated not guilty by reason of insanity or found to be incompetent to stand trial for prostitution or obscenity, expunction of the criminal history record may not prevent the entry of the judgment or finding in state and national databases for use in determining eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or carry a concealed firearm.

CS/CS by Judiciary on April 8, 2014:
The CS revises provisions on relocation assistance available to victims:

- The state attorney or statewide prosecutor will only need to approve certifications of need for human trafficking victims, not all victims of sexual battery.
- A state-certified domestic violence center may also certify a victim of human trafficking's need for relocation assistance.

Removes a provision from the bill that provides a penalty for a public employee/officer who willfully and knowingly discloses certain information regarding a human trafficking victim to a person not authorized to have access to that information.

The Committee on Appropriations (Grimsley) recommended the following:

Senate Amendment (with title amendment)

Delete everything after the enacting clause and insert:

Section 1. Section 92.56, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

92.56 Judicial proceedings and court records involving sexual offenses and human trafficking.—

(1)(a) The confidential and exempt status of criminal intelligence information or criminal investigative information made confidential and exempt pursuant to s. 119.071(2)(h) must be maintained in court records pursuant to s. 119.0714(1)(h) and in court proceedings, including testimony from witnesses.

(b) If a petition for access to such confidential and exempt records is filed with the trial court having jurisdiction over the alleged offense, the confidential and exempt status of such information shall be maintained by the court if the state or the victim demonstrates that:

1. The identity of the victim is not already known in the community;

2. The victim has not voluntarily called public attention to the offense;

3. The identity of the victim has not otherwise become a reasonable subject of public concern;

4. The disclosure of the victim's identity would be offensive to a reasonable person; and

5. The disclosure of the victim's identity would:

a. Endanger the victim because the assailant has not been apprehended and is not otherwise known to the victim;

b. Endanger the victim because of the likelihood of retaliation, harassment, or intimidation;

c. Cause severe emotional or mental harm to the victim;

d. Make the victim unwilling to testify as a witness; or

e. Be inappropriate for other good cause shown.

(2) A defendant charged with a crime specified ~~described~~ in s. 787.06(3)(a), if the victim is younger than 18 years of age, in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g), or in chapter 794 or chapter 800, or with child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child as described in chapter 827, may apply to the trial court for an order of disclosure of information in court records held confidential and exempt pursuant to s. 119.0714(1)(h) or maintained as confidential and exempt pursuant to court order under this section. Such identifying information concerning the victim may be released to the defendant or his or her attorney in order to prepare the defense. The confidential and exempt status of this information does ~~may~~ not ~~be construed to~~ prevent the disclosure of the victim's identity to the defendant; however, the defendant may not disclose the victim's identity to any person other than the defendant's attorney or any other person directly involved in the preparation of the defense. A willful and knowing disclosure of the identity of the victim to any other person by the defendant constitutes contempt.

(3) The state may use a pseudonym instead of the victim's name to designate the victim of a crime specified ~~described~~ in s. 787.06(3)(a), if the victim is younger than 18 years of age, in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g), or in chapter 794 or chapter 800, or of child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child as described in chapter 827, or any crime involving the production, possession, or promotion of child pornography as described in chapter 847, in all court records and records of court proceedings, both civil and criminal.

(4) The protection of this section may be waived by the victim of the alleged offense in a writing filed with the court, in which the victim consents to the use or release of identifying information during court proceedings and in the records of court proceedings.

(5) This section does not prohibit the publication or broadcast of the substance of trial testimony in a prosecution for an offense specified ~~described~~ in s. 787.06(3)(a), if the victim is younger than 18 years of age, in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g), or in chapter 794 or chapter 800, or for a crime of child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child, as described in chapter 827; however, ~~but~~ the publication or broadcast may not include an identifying photograph, an identifiable voice, or the name or address of the victim~~,~~ unless the victim has consented in writing to the publication and filed such consent with the court or unless the court has declared such records not confidential and exempt as provided for in subsection (1).

(6) A willful and knowing violation of this section or a willful and knowing failure to obey a ~~any~~ court order issued under this section constitutes contempt.

Section 2. Subsection (5) is added to section 450.021, Florida Statutes, to read:

450.021 Minimum age; general.—

(5) In order to better ensure the elimination of minors being exploited and becoming victims of human trafficking, a person under the age of 18, whether or not such person's disabilities of nonage have been removed by marriage or otherwise, may not be employed, permitted, or suffered to work in an adult theater, as defined in s. 847.001(2)(b).

Section 3. Subsection (3) is added to section 450.045, Florida Statutes, to read:

450.045 Proof of identity and age; posting of notices.—

(3)(a) In order to provide the department and law enforcement agencies the means to more effectively identify, investigate, and arrest persons engaging in human trafficking, an adult theater as defined in s. 847.001(2)(b) shall obtain proof of the identity and age of each of its employees or independent contractors, and shall verify the validity of the identification and age verification document with the issuer, before his or her employment or provision of services as an independent contractor.

(b) The adult theater shall obtain and keep on record a photocopy of the person's driver license or state or federal government-issued photo identification card, along with a record of the verification of the validity of the identification and age verification document with the issuer, during the entire period of employment or business relationship with the independent contractor and for at least 3 years after the employee or independent contractor ceases employment or the provision of services.

(c) The department and its agents have the authority to enter during operating hours, unannounced and without prior notice, and inspect at any time a place or establishment covered by this subsection and to have access to age verification documents kept on file by the adult theater and such other records as may aid in the enforcement of this subsection.

Section 4. Paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of section 775.082, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

5. For a life felony committed on or after October 1, 2014, which is a violation of s. 787.06(3)(g), by a term of imprisonment for life.

Section 5. Subsection (18) is added to section 775.15, Florida Statutes, to read:

(c) For a third or subsequent offense, a felony of the first degree punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084, with a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment of 10 years.

(e) To offer to commit, or to commit, or to engage in, prostitution, lewdness, or assignation.

578560

(f) To solicit, induce, entice, or procure another to commit prostitution, lewdness, or assignation.

(c) A felony of the third degree for a third or subsequent violation, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

Of the proceeds from each penalty assessed under this subsection, the first $500 shall be paid to the circuit court administrator for the sole purpose of paying the administrative costs of treatment-based drug court programs provided under s. 397.334. The remainder of the penalty assessed shall be deposited in the Operations and Maintenance Trust Fund of the Department of Children and Family Services for the sole purpose of funding safe houses and short-term safe houses as provided in s. 409.1678.

Section 11. Paragraphs (c), (e), and (g) through (j) of subsection (3) of section 921.0022, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

732 943.0583 Human trafficking victim expunction.—
733 (3) A person who is a victim of human trafficking may 734 petition for the expunction of a criminal history record
735 resulting from the arrest or filing of charges ~~any conviction~~
736 for an offense committed or reported to have been committed 737 while the person ~~he or she~~ was a victim of human trafficking,
738 which offense was committed or reported to have been committed

796 and 847, without regard to the disposition of the arrest or of any charges. However, this section does not apply to any offense listed in s. 775.084(1)(b)1. Determination of the petition under this section should be by a preponderance of the evidence. A conviction expunged under this section is deemed to have been vacated due to a substantive defect in the underlying criminal proceedings. If a person is adjudicated not guilty by reason of insanity or is found to be incompetent to stand trial for any such charge, the expunction of the criminal history record may not prevent the entry of the judgment or finding in state and national databases for use in determining eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or to carry a concealed firearm, as authorized in s. 790.065(2)(a)4.c. and 18 U.S.C. s. 922(t), nor shall it prevent any governmental agency that is authorized by state or federal law to determine eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or to carry a concealed firearm from accessing or using the record of the judgment or finding in the course of such agency's official duties.

(8)(a) Any criminal history record of a minor or an adult that is ordered expunged by the court of original jurisdiction over the charges ~~crime~~ sought to be expunged pursuant to this section must be physically destroyed or obliterated by any criminal justice agency having custody of such record, except that any criminal history record in the custody of the department must be retained in all cases.

(10)(a) A criminal history record ordered expunged under this section that is retained by the department is confidential and exempt from s. 119.07(1) and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution, except that the record shall be made available to criminal justice agencies for their respective criminal justice purposes and to any governmental agency that is authorized by state or federal law to determine eligibility to purchase or possess a firearm or to carry a concealed firearm for use in the course of such agency's official duties. Otherwise, such record may ~~shall~~ not be disclosed to any person or entity except upon order of a court of competent jurisdiction. A criminal justice agency may retain a notation indicating compliance with an order to expunge.

Section 13. Subsection (2) of section 960.065, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

(2) In order for an award to be granted to a victim for relocation assistance:

(a) There must be proof that a sexual battery offense or human trafficking offense as described in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g) was committed.

(b) The sexual battery offense or human trafficking offense as specified in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g) must be reported to the proper authorities.

(c) The victim’s need for assistance must be certified by a certified rape crisis center in this state or by the state attorney or statewide prosecutor having jurisdiction over the offense. A victim of human trafficking’s need for assistance may also be certified by a state-certified domestic violence center.

developed a safety plan. If the victim seeking relocation assistance is a victim of a human trafficking offense as specified in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g), the certified rape crisis center's or certified domestic violence center's certification shall include approval of the state attorney or statewide prosecutor, who shall attest that the victim is cooperating with law enforcement officials, if applicable.

(e) The act of sexual battery or human trafficking as specified in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), or (g) must be committed in the victim's place of residence or in a location that would lead the victim to reasonably fear for his or her continued safety in the place of residence.

(3) Relocation payments for a sexual battery or human trafficking claim under this section shall be denied if the department has previously approved or paid out a domestic violence relocation claim under s. 960.198 to the same victim regarding the same incident.

Section 28. Section 943.0585, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

943.0585 Court-ordered expunction of criminal history records.—The courts of this state have jurisdiction over their own procedures, including the maintenance, expunction, and correction of judicial records containing criminal history information to the extent such procedures are not inconsistent with the conditions, responsibilities, and duties established by this section. Any court of competent jurisdiction may order a criminal justice agency to expunge the criminal history record of a minor or an adult who complies with the requirements of this section. The court may ~~shall~~ not order a criminal justice agency to expunge a criminal history record until the person seeking to expunge a criminal history record has applied for and received a certificate of eligibility for expunction pursuant to subsection (2). A criminal history record that relates to a violation of s. 393.135, s. 394.4593, s. 787.025, chapter 794, former s. 796.03, s. 800.04, s. 810.14, s. 817.034, s. 825.1025, s. 827.071, chapter 839, s. 847.0133, s. 847.0135, s. 847.0145, s. 893.135, s. 916.1075, a violation enumerated in s. 907.041, or any violation specified as a predicate offense for registration as a sexual predator pursuant to s. 775.21, without regard to whether that offense alone is sufficient to require such registration, or for registration as a sexual offender pursuant to s. 943.0435, may not be expunged, without regard to whether adjudication was withheld, if the defendant was found guilty of or pled guilty or nolo contendere to the offense, or if the defendant, as a minor, was found to have committed, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to committing, the offense as a delinquent act. The court may only order expunction of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity, except as provided in this section. The court may, at its sole discretion, order the expunction of a criminal history record pertaining to more than one arrest if the additional arrests directly relate to the original arrest. If the court intends to order the expunction of records pertaining to such additional arrests, such intent must be specified in the order. A criminal justice agency may not expunge any record pertaining to such additional arrests if the order to expunge does not articulate the intention of the court to expunge a record pertaining to more than one arrest. This section does not prevent the court from ordering the expunction of only a portion of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, a criminal justice agency may comply with laws, court orders, and official requests of other jurisdictions relating to expunction, correction, or confidential handling of criminal history records or information derived therefrom. This section does not confer any right to the expunction of any criminal history record, and any request for expunction of a criminal history record may be denied at the sole discretion of the court.

578560

(1) PETITION TO EXPUNGE A CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORD.—Each petition to a court to expunge a criminal history record is complete only when accompanied by:

(a) A valid certificate of eligibility for expunction issued by the department pursuant to subsection (2).

(b) The petitioner’s sworn statement attesting that the petitioner:

1. Has never, prior to the date on which the petition is filed, been adjudicated guilty of a criminal offense or comparable ordinance violation, or been adjudicated delinquent for committing any felony or a misdemeanor specified in s. 943.051(3)(b).

2. Has not been adjudicated guilty of, or adjudicated delinquent for committing, any of the acts stemming from the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition pertains.

3. Has never secured a prior sealing or expunction of a criminal history record under this section, s. 943.059, former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, or former s. 943.058, unless expunction is sought of a criminal history record previously sealed for 10 years pursuant to paragraph (2)(h) and the record is otherwise eligible for expunction.

4. Is eligible for such an expunction to the best of his or her knowledge or belief and does not have any other petition to expunge or any petition to seal pending before any court.

A ~~Any~~ person who knowingly provides false information on such sworn statement to the court commits a felony of the third degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

(2) CERTIFICATE OF ELIGIBILITY FOR EXPUNCTION.—Before ~~Prior to~~ petitioning the court to expunge a criminal history record, a person seeking to expunge a criminal history record shall apply to the department for a certificate of eligibility for expunction. The department shall, by rule adopted pursuant to chapter 120, establish procedures pertaining to the application for and issuance of certificates of eligibility for expunction. A certificate of eligibility for expunction is valid for 12 months after the date stamped on the certificate when issued by the department. After that time, the petitioner must reapply to the department for a new certificate of eligibility. Eligibility for a renewed certification of eligibility must be based on the status of the applicant and the law in effect at the time of the renewal application. The department shall issue a certificate of eligibility for expunction to a person who is the subject of a criminal history record if that person:

(a) Has obtained, and submitted to the department, a written, certified statement from the appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor which indicates:

1. That an indictment, information, or other charging document was not filed or issued in the case.

2. That an indictment, information, or other charging document, if filed or issued in the case, was dismissed or nolle prosequi by the state attorney or statewide prosecutor, or was dismissed by a court of competent jurisdiction, and that none of the charges related to the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition to expunge pertains resulted in a trial, without regard to whether the outcome of the trial was other than an adjudication of guilt.

3. That the criminal history record does not relate to a violation of s. 393.135, s. 394.4593, s. 787.025, chapter 794, former s. 796.03, s. 800.04, s. 810.14, s. 817.034, s. 825.1025, s. 827.071, chapter 839, s. 847.0133, s. 847.0135, s. 847.0145, s. 893.135, s. 916.1075, a violation enumerated in s. 907.041, or any violation specified as a predicate offense for registration as a sexual predator pursuant to s. 775.21, without regard to whether that offense alone is sufficient to require such registration, or for registration as a sexual offender pursuant to s. 943.0435, where the defendant was found guilty of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to any such offense, or that the defendant, as a minor, was found to have committed, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to committing, such an offense as a delinquent act, without regard to whether adjudication was withheld.

(b) Remits a $75 processing fee to the department for placement in the Department of Law Enforcement Operating Trust Fund, unless such fee is waived by the executive director.

(c) Has submitted to the department a certified copy of the disposition of the charge to which the petition to expunge pertains.

(d) Has never, prior to the date on which the application for a certificate of eligibility is filed, been adjudicated guilty of a criminal offense or comparable ordinance violation, or been adjudicated delinquent for committing any felony or a misdemeanor specified in s. 943.051(3)(b).

(e) Has not been adjudicated guilty of, or adjudicated delinquent for committing, any of the acts stemming from the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition to expunge pertains.

(f) Has never secured a prior sealing or expunction of a criminal history record under this section, s. 943.059, former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, or former s. 943.058, unless expunction is sought of a criminal history record previously sealed for 10 years pursuant to paragraph (h) and the record is otherwise eligible for expunction.

(g) Is no longer under court supervision applicable to the disposition of the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition to expunge pertains.

(h) Has previously obtained a court order sealing the record under this section, former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, or former s. 943.058 for a minimum of 10 years because adjudication was withheld or because all charges related to the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition to expunge pertains were not dismissed prior to trial, without regard to whether the outcome of the trial was other than an adjudication of guilt. The requirement for the record to have previously been sealed for a minimum of 10 years does not apply when a plea was not entered or all charges related to the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition to expunge pertains were dismissed prior to trial.

(3) PROCESSING OF A PETITION OR ORDER TO EXPUNGE.—

(a) In judicial proceedings under this section, a copy of the completed petition to expunge shall be served upon the appropriate state attorney or the statewide prosecutor and upon the arresting agency; however, it is not necessary to make any agency other than the state a party. The appropriate state attorney or the statewide prosecutor and the arresting agency may respond to the court regarding the completed petition to expunge.

(b) If relief is granted by the court, the clerk of the court shall certify copies of the order to the appropriate state attorney or the statewide prosecutor and the arresting agency. The arresting agency is responsible for forwarding the order to any other agency to which the arresting agency disseminated the criminal history record information to which the order pertains. The department shall forward the order to expunge to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The clerk of the court shall certify a copy of the order to any other agency which the records of the court reflect has received the criminal history record from the court.

(c) For an order to expunge entered by a court prior to July 1, 1992, the department shall notify the appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor of an order to expunge which is contrary to law because the person who is the subject of the record has previously been convicted of a crime or comparable ordinance violation or has had a prior criminal history record sealed or expunged. Upon receipt of such notice, the appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor shall take action, within 60 days, to correct the record and petition the court to void the order to expunge. The department shall seal the record until such time as the order is voided by the court.

(d) On or after July 1, 1992, the department or any other criminal justice agency is not required to act on an order to expunge entered by a court when such order does not comply with the requirements of this section. Upon receipt of such an order, the department must notify the issuing court, the appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor, the petitioner or the petitioner’s attorney, and the arresting agency of the reason for noncompliance. The appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor shall take action within 60 days to correct the record and petition the court to void the order. No cause of action, including contempt of court, shall arise against any criminal justice agency for failure to comply with an order to expunge when the petitioner for such order failed to obtain the certificate of eligibility as required by this section or such order does not otherwise comply with the requirements of this section.

(4) EFFECT OF CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORD EXPUNCTION.—Any

criminal history record of a minor or an adult which is ordered expunged by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to this section must be physically destroyed or obliterated by any criminal justice agency having custody of such record; except that any criminal history record in the custody of the department must be retained in all cases. A criminal history record ordered expunged that is retained by the department is confidential and exempt from the provisions of s. 119.07(1) and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution and not available to any person or entity except upon order of a court of competent jurisdiction. A criminal justice agency may retain a notation indicating compliance with an order to expunge.

(a) The person who is the subject of a criminal history record that is expunged under this section or under other provisions of law, including former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, and former s. 943.058, may lawfully deny or fail to acknowledge the arrests covered by the expunged record, except when the subject of the record:

1. Is a candidate for employment with a criminal justice agency;

2. Is a defendant in a criminal prosecution;

3. Concurrently or subsequently petitions for relief under this section, s. 943.0583, or s. 943.059;

4. Is a candidate for admission to The Florida Bar;

5. Is seeking to be employed or licensed by or to contract with the Department of Children and Families, the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation within the Department of Education, the Agency for Health Care Administration, the Agency for Persons with Disabilities, the Department of Health, the 578560

Department of Elderly Affairs, or the Department of Juvenile Justice or to be employed or used by such contractor or licensee in a sensitive position having direct contact with children, the disabled, or the elderly; or

6. Is seeking to be employed or licensed by the Department of Education, any district school board, any university laboratory school, any charter school, any private or parochial school, or any local governmental entity that licenses child care facilities.

(b) Subject to the exceptions in paragraph (a), a person who has been granted an expunction under this section, former s. 893.14, former s. 901.33, or former s. 943.058 may not be held under any provision of law of this state to commit perjury or to be otherwise liable for giving a false statement by reason of such person’s failure to recite or acknowledge an expunged criminal history record.

(c) Information relating to the existence of an expunged criminal history record which is provided in accordance with paragraph (a) is confidential and exempt from the provisions of s. 119.07(1) and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution, except that the department shall disclose the existence of a criminal history record ordered expunged to the entities set forth in subparagraphs (a)1., 4., 5., 6., and 7. for their respective licensing, access authorization, and employment purposes, and to criminal justice agencies for their respective criminal justice purposes. It is unlawful for any employee of an entity set forth in subparagraph (a)1., subparagraph (a)4., subparagraph (a)5., subparagraph (a)6., or subparagraph (a)7. to disclose information relating to the existence of an expunged criminal history record of a person seeking employment, access authorization, or licensure with such entity or contractor, except to the person to whom the criminal history record relates or to persons having direct responsibility for employment, access authorization, or licensure decisions. Any person who violates this paragraph commits a misdemeanor of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082 or s. 775.083.

The court may, at its sole discretion, order the sealing of a criminal history record pertaining to more than one arrest if the additional arrests directly relate to the original arrest. If the court intends to order the sealing of records pertaining to such additional arrests, such intent must be specified in the order. A criminal justice agency may not seal any record pertaining to such additional arrests if the order to seal does not articulate the intention of the court to seal records pertaining to more than one arrest. This section does not prevent the court from ordering the sealing of only a portion of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity. degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

(2) CERTIFICATE OF ELIGIBILITY FOR SEALING.—Prior to petitioning the court to seal a criminal history record, a person seeking to seal a criminal history record shall apply to the department for a certificate of eligibility for sealing. The department shall, by rule adopted pursuant to chapter 120, establish procedures pertaining to the application for and issuance of certificates of eligibility for sealing. A certificate of eligibility for sealing is valid for 12 months after the date stamped on the certificate when issued by the department. After that time, the petitioner must reapply to the department for a new certificate of eligibility. Eligibility for a renewed certification of eligibility must be based on the status of the applicant and the law in effect at the time of the renewal application. Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Paragraph (g) of subsection (67) of section 39.01, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

39.01 Definitions.—When used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires:

(67) "Sexual abuse of a child" for purposes of finding a child to be dependent means one or more of the following acts:

(g) The sexual exploitation of a child, which includes the act of a child offering to engage in or engaging in prostitution, provided that the child is not under arrest or is not being prosecuted in a delinquency or criminal proceeding for a violation of any offense in chapter 796 based on such behavior; or allowing, encouraging, or forcing a child to:

1. Solicit for or engage in prostitution;

2. Engage in a sexual performance, as defined by chapter 827; or

3. Participate in commercial sexual activity ~~the trade of sex trafficking~~ as provided in ss. 787.06(3)(g) or (h) and 796.035 ~~s. 796.035~~.

Section 2. Section 92.56, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

be maintained in court records pursuant to s. 119.0714(1)(h) and in court proceedings, including testimony from witnesses.

(b) If a petition for access to such confidential and exempt records is filed with the trial court having jurisdiction over the alleged offense, the confidential and exempt status of such information shall be maintained by the court if the state or the victim demonstrates that:

1. The identity of the victim is not already known in the community;

2. The victim has not voluntarily called public attention to the offense;

3. The identity of the victim has not otherwise become a reasonable subject of public concern;

4. The disclosure of the victim's identity would be offensive to a reasonable person; and

5. The disclosure of the victim's identity would:

a. Endanger the victim because the assailant has not been apprehended and is not otherwise known to the victim;

b. Endanger the victim because of the likelihood of retaliation, harassment, or intimidation;

c. Cause severe emotional or mental harm to the victim;

d. Make the victim unwilling to testify as a witness; or

e. Be inappropriate for other good cause shown.

(2) A defendant charged with a crime specified ~~described~~ in s. 787.06(3)(a), if the victim is younger than 18 years of age, in s. 787.06(3)(b), (d), (f), (g), or (h), or in chapter 794 or chapter 800, or with child abuse, aggravated child abuse, or sexual performance by a child as described in chapter 827, may apply to the trial court for an order of disclosure of

(6) A willful and knowing violation of this section or a willful and knowing failure to obey a ~~any~~ court order issued under this section constitutes contempt.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Technical Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 780 adds four new synthetic cannabinoids and two new synthetic phenethylamines (hallucinogenic substances) to the list of Schedule I controlled substances.

The bill also adds three chemical substances to the provisions of the trafficking statute that punishes trafficking in phenethylamines. These chemical substances are currently Schedule I controlled substances that are most commonly found in the street drug "Molly."

The bill also amends the trafficking in phenethylamines provision to specify it applies to analogs or isomers of any listed phenethylamine.

The bill has an insignificant or indeterminate fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Schedule I Controlled Substances

A substance is a "controlled substance" if it is listed in any of five schedules in s. 893.03, F.S. The particular scheduling determines penalties which may be imposed for unlawful possession, sale, etc., and the conditions under which the substance can be legally possessed, prescribed, sold, etc. Relevant to the bill, a substance in Schedule I is considered to have a high potential for abuse[1] and no currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States and, in its use under medical supervision, does not meet accepted safety standards.[2]

As a result of legislation that became law in 2011, 2012, and 2013, there are several synthetic cannabinoids,[3] cathinones,[4] and phenethylamines[5] listed as Schedule I controlled substances in s. 893.03(1)(c), F.S.[6]

Non-Trafficking Controlled Substance Offenses

Unlawful activities involving controlled substances (e.g., possession or sale of controlled substances) are punishable under s. 893.13, F.S. (prohibited acts involving controlled substances),[7] and s. 893.135, F.S. (drug trafficking). Only certain controlled substances sold, etc., in a trafficking quantity are subject to s. 893.13, F.S.

Several synthetic cannabinoids, cathinones, and phenethylamines are listed as Schedule I controlled substances under s. 893.03(1)(c), F.S. Selling, manufacturing, or delivering, or possessing with intent to sell, manufacture or deliver, a controlled substance listed in s. 893.03(1)(c), F.S., is a third degree felony.[8] However, if any of these acts are committed within 1,000 feet of certain designated places, the felony degree and penalties are greater.[9] For [1] "Potential for abuse" means that a substance has properties of a central nervous system stimulant or depressant or an hallucinogen that create a substantial likelihood of its being: (a) Used in amounts that create a hazard to the user's health or the safety of the community; (b) Diverted from legal channels and distributed through illegal channels; or (c) Taken on the user's own initiative rather than on the basis of professional medical advice. [3] "Synthetic Cannabinoids are chemicals that act as cannabinoid receptor agonists. Chemically they are not similar to cannabinoids but the term 'Synthetic Cannabinoids' or 'Cannabinomimetics' is widely used to refer to them as they are cannabinoid-like in their activity." "Synthetic Cannabinoid Drug Information, " Redwood Toxicology Laboratory, https://www.redwoodtoxicology.com/resources/drug_info/synthetic_cannabinoids (last viewed on Feb. 25, 2014).

[4] Cathinone is a Schedule I controlled substance. Section 893.03(1)(c)8., F.S. Cathinone is an alkaloid found in the shrub Catha edulis (khat) and is chemically similar to amphetamines and other substances. "Consideration of the cathinones" (March 2010), Advisory Council on the Misuse of Drugs, United Kingdom, available at https://www.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachment_data/file/119173/acmd-cathinodes-report-2010.pdf (last viewed on Feb. 25, 2014). The "molecular architecture" of cathinone "can be altered to produce a series of different compounds which are closely structurally related to cathinone." Id. at p. 6.
[5] "Phenethylamines" is a broad category of "psychoactive substances" Sanders B., Lankenau S.E., Bloom J.J., Hathazi D. "'Research chemicals': Tryptamine and Phenethylamine Use Among High Risk Youth," Substance Use & Misuse (2008), Vol. 43, No. 3-4, Pages 389-402, available at http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC2536767/ (last viewed on Feb. 25, 2014). Probably the most well-known phenethylamine is 3,4-Methylenedioxymethamphetamine (MDMA), which is often referred to by the street name "Ecstasy."

example, selling a controlled substance listed in s. 893.03(1)(c), F.S., within 1,000 feet of the real property of a child care facility or secondary school is a second degree felony.[10]

Purchasing, or possessing with intent to purchase, a controlled substance listed in s. 893.13(1)(c), F.S., is a third degree felony.[11]

Possessing three grams or less of a synthetic cannabinoid listed in s. 893.03(1)(c)46.-50., 114.-142., 151.-159, or 166.-169., F.S., is a first degree misdemeanor.[12] Possessing more than three grams of any of these synthetic cannabinoids or any amount of any other substance listed in s. 893.03(1)(c), F.S., is a third degree felony.[13]

Drug Trafficking

"Drug trafficking" consists of knowingly selling, purchasing, manufacturing, delivering, or bringing into this state, or knowingly being in actual or constructive possession of, certain controlled substances in a statutorily-specified quantity.

Whether a person is charged with drug trafficking depends, in part, on the type of controlled substance possessed, sold, etc. Only a limited number of controlled substances are covered under s. 893.135, F.S. Relevant to the bill, s. 893.135(1)(k), F.S., currently punishes trafficking in phenethylamines.

The quantity of a covered controlled substance must also meet a minimum weight threshold prescribed in s. 893.135, F.S. Most drug trafficking offenses are first degree felonies and are subject to mandatory minimum terms. Section 893.135, F.S., establishes escalating weight ranges. The mandatory minimum term applicable to a drug trafficking act depends upon which weight range is applicable to the quantity of the controlled substance possessed, sold, etc.

Section 893.135(1)(k), F.S., provides that it is a first degree felony[14] to traffic in a listed phenethylamine or combination or mixture containing a listed phenethylamine. If the quantity involved is:

- 10 grams or more, but less than 200 grams, the violator is sentenced to a three-year mandatory minimum term of imprisonment and a mandatory fine of $50,000;
- 200 grams or more, but less than 400 grams, the violator is sentenced to a seven-year mandatory minimum term of imprisonment and a mandatory fine of $100,000; or
- 400 grams or more, the violator is sentenced to a 15-year mandatory minimum term of imprisonment and a mandatory fine of $250,000.

[10] Section 893.13(1)(c)2., F.S. A second degree felony is punishable by up to 15 years in state prison, a fine of up to $10,000, or both. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.
[11] Section 893.13(2)(a)2., F.S.
[12] Section 893.13(6)(b), F.S. A first degree misdemeanor is punishable by up to a year in jail, a fine of up to $1,000, or both. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.
[13] Section 893.13(6)(a), F.S.
[14] A first degree felony is generally punishable by up to 30 years in state prison. Section 775.082, F.S. Repeat offender sanctions may be available under ss. 775.082 and 775.084, F.S

It is a capital felony[15] to knowingly manufacture or bring into this state 30 kilograms or more of a listed phenethylamine or combination or mixture containing a listed phenethylamine if the violator knows that the probable result of the manufacture or importation would be the death of any person. In addition to life imprisonment or a death sentence, there is a mandatory fine of $250,000.

Florida Department of Law Enforcement Analysis of Chemical Substances Added or Scheduled by the Bill

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) has provided the following information relevant to the chemical substances added or scheduled by the bill:

> The proposed chemical substances to be added to Section 893.03 are currently being seen and abused throughout the State of Florida as an alternative to traditional illicit substances used to alter users' mental faculties or to obtain a "high." The proposed list of Schedule I additions are substances that have no legitimate medical use and have a high potential for abuse. Under the current statute, state and local law enforcement agencies were unable to intercede in cases involving any of the proposed chemical substances, thus creating an environment where individuals are able to possess, distribute, and/or use harmful substances without fear of intervention by state and local law enforcement. On October 9, 2013, four of the six substances in the bill were scheduled by Attorney General Pam Bondi in an emergency rule, temporarily making them controlled substances for criminal purposes. The emergency rule expires on June 30 (or sooner if supplanted by a superseding statutory amendment).
> In addition, on November 15, 2013, the U.S. Department of Justice, Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) federally scheduled two new synthetic phenethylamines in 21 CFR Part 1308 that are currently not scheduled as controlled substances in Florida. These new hallucinogenic compounds are 25B-NBOMe (4-bromo-2,5-dimethoxy-N-[(2-methoxyphenyl)methyl]-benzeneethanamine) and 2C-C-NBOMe(4-chloro-2,5-dimethoxy-N-[(2-methoxyphenyl)methyl]-benzeneethanamine). DEA reports that the abuse of these substances can cause severe toxic reactions, including death. According to DEA, reports from medical examiners and toxicology laboratories link some combination of 25I-NBOMe (currently scheduled in Florida), 25C-NBOMe, and 25B-NBOMe to the death of at least nineteen individuals in the U.S., between the ages of 15 and 29 years old, during the period of March 2012 to August 2013. Adding these two new synthetic phenethylamines substances as schedule I drugs will align Florida law with the current DEA scheduling of said substances.

[15] A capital felony is punishable by life imprisonment or death. Section 775.082, F.S. See s. 921.142, F.S. (further proceedings to determine sentence for capital trafficking felonies).

> Generally, "Molly" (short for "molecule") is illicitly marketed as a pure form of "Ecstasy" (MDMA or 3,4 Methylenedioxymethamphetamine). Intelligence suggests the true chemical makeup of "Molly" varies depending on manufacturer, dealer, and location. In Florida, "Molly" is most often composed of Methylone (3,4-methylenedioxymethcathinone), 3,4-Methylenedioxypyrovalerone (MDPV), and Methylmethcathinone, which are sold as "bath salts" compounds and are similar in chemical structure to "Ecstasy." These substances pose significant health risks to users. These substances are commonly imported from overseas via the Internet and are purchased for use in the U.S., particularly with intent to be distributed at clubs, parties and other social gatherings.[16]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill amends s. 893.03, F.S. (controlled substance schedules), to add four new synthetic cannabinoids and two new synthetic phenethylamines (hallucinogenic substances) to the list of Schedule I controlled substances:

- AB-PINACA (N-(1-Amino-3-methyl-1-oxobutan-2-yl)-1-pentyl-lH-indazole-3-carboxamide);
- AB-FUBINACA (N-(1-Amino-3-methyl-1-oxobutan-2-yl)-1-(4-fluorobenzyl)-lH-indazole-3-carboxamide);
- ADB-PINACA (N-(1-Amino-3,3-dimethyl-1-oxobutan-2-yl)-1-pentyl-1H-indazole-3-carboxamide);
- Fluoro ADBICA (N-(1-Amino-3,3-dimethyl-1-oxobutan-2-yl)-1-(fluoropentyl)-1H-indole-3-carboxamide);
- 25B-NBOMe (4-bromo-2,5-dimethoxy-N-[(2-methoxyphenyl) methyl]-benzeneethanamine); and
- 2C-C-NBOMe (4-chloro-2,5-dimethoxy-N-[(2-methoxyphenyl)methyl]-benzeneethanamine).

The bill amends s. 893.13, F.S. (unlawful acts involving controlled substances), to change the references to synthetic cannabinoids in s. 893.13(6)(b), F.S. (unlawful possession), due to the scheduling of new synthetic cannabinoids by the bill.

The bill amends s. 893.135, F.S. (drug trafficking), to add three currently scheduled phenethylamines to s. 893.135(1)(k), F.S., which punishes trafficking in phenethylamines:

- 3,4-Methylenedioxymethcathinone;
- 3,4-Methylenedioxypyrovalerone (MDPV); and
- Methylmethcathinone.[17]

The bill also amends s. 893.135(1)(k), F.S., to provide that s. 893.135(1)(k), F.S., covers analogs or isomers of a phenethylamine listed in this paragraph.

[16] Analysis of SB 780 (Feb. 7, 2014), Florida Department of Law Enforcement (on file the Senate Committee on Criminal Justice). This analysis is further referenced as "FDLE Analysis (SB 780)."

The bill takes effect upon becoming a law.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The FDLE states CS/SB 780:

> … could potentially increase the number of evidence submissions into FDLE's Crime Laboratory System as well as local law enforcement crime laboratories. The laboratory system will be required to purchase all of the required standards necessary to test the proposed chemical substances.
> The bill will have minimal fiscal impact to FDLE. Any resulting increase in volume of evidence submissions to FDLE's Crime Laboratory system, as well as costs to acquire and maintain additional required chemical standards, will be assimilated as part of the laboratories' cost of doing business. FDLE will monitor submissions to the crime laboratories and if necessary, request an appropriation through a future legislative budget request.[18]

[18] FDLE Analysis (SB 780).

The FDLE also states that "[l]ocal agencies which fund and maintain their own crime lab with a chemistry section would potentially be facing a rise in submissions associated with the additions of the proposed chemical substances."[19]

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference (CJIC), which provides the final, official estimate of the prison bed impact, if any, of legislation estimates that the bill will have an insignificant prison bed impact. According to information provided by the Legislature's Office of Economic and Demographic Research, in Fiscal Year 2012-13, the offense coded as "Other drug—S/M/D," which would include the new substances in the bill, resulted in about 29 new commitments, most of which were third degree felonies.[20]

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 893.03, 893.13, and 893.135.

The bill reenacts paragraphs (b), (c), (e), and (g) through (i) of section 921.0022, Florida Statutes, for the purpose incorporating the amendments made by the bill to sections 893.03 and 893.135, Florida Statutes, in references to those statutes.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 798 relates to the operation and regulation of condominium associations, cooperative associations, homeowners' associations, and timeshare projects.

For homeowners' associations, the bill clarifies the notice requirements for the preservation of association covenants and restrictions under the Marketable Record Title Act.

For timeshare projects, the bill:

- Defines the term "timeshare project" to mean any timeshare property as defined in ch. 721, F.S., which is located in this state and that is also a transient public lodging establishment;
- Provides that public lodging units that are classified as timeshare projects are not subject to the requirement of at least biannual inspections by the Division of Hotels and Restaurants of the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (DBPR or department);
- Exempts timeshare projects from the requirements that public lodging establishments maintain public bathroom facilities, provide in the main public bathroom soap and clean towels or other approved hand-drying devices, and provide guests with clean pillowslips and under and top sheets; and
- Removes timeshare plans from the definition of a "vacation rental," and provides that a vacation rental is a transient public lodging establishment that is not a timeshare project.

The provisions related to condominium associations include:

- Authorizes the associations to enter an abandoned unit to inspect the unit and adjoining common elements, to make specific repairs, and to maintain the unit, and permits the association to charge the unit owner for expenses incurred by the association;
- Provides that the insurance responsibility of the association or unit owners for reconstruction, repair, or replacement in the absence of an insurable event shall be determined by the provisions of the declaration or bylaws;
- Permits board and committee members to participate, including voting, in a meeting via telephone, real-time videoconferencing, or similar real-time electronic or video communication, and for such participation to count towards a quorum;
- Repeals the Community Association Living Study Council; and
- Extends the time period to be classified as a bulk buyer or bulk assignee from July 1, 2015 to July 1, 2016.

For cooperative associations, the bill:

- Revises the financial reporting requirements by increasing to 90 from 60 days the time to prepare a financial statement, or to contract with a third party to prepare the financial statement;
- Specifies the type of financial reporting required based on the association's total annual revenue amounts;
- Limits the financial reporting requirement, for associations of fewer than 50 units, regardless of the association's annual revenues, to the preparation of a report of cash receipts and expenditures, unless otherwise required by the declaration or other recorded governing documents;
- Provides that persons who have been suspended or removed by the division or who are delinquent in the payment of any monetary obligation due to the association are not eligible to be a candidate for board membership and may not be listed on the ballot; and
- Provides for the removal from office of a director or officer charged by information or indictment with a felony theft or embezzlement offense involving the association's funds or property.

In regard to homeowners' associations, the bill provides that an association does not have to provide members with copies of an amendment to the governing documents after it is approved by the membership if a copy of the proposed amendment was previously provided to the members before the vote on the amendment and the proposed amendment was not changed before the vote. In lieu of providing copies of the amendment, the bill also specifies the notice that must be provided to members after an amendment has been adopted.

In regard to condominium and cooperative associations, the bill requires outgoing board or committee members to relinquish all official records and property of the association in their possession or control to the incoming board within five days after the election. The bill provides that an outgoing board or committee member who violates this requirement is personally subject to a civil penalty by the Division of Florida Condominiums, Timeshares, and Mobile Homes. It also prohibits a board member from voting by e-mail.

For cooperative and homeowners' associations, the bill authorizes boards to exercise specified emergency powers in response to the declaration of a state of emergency, including the authority to implement a disaster plan, mitigate damages, and borrow money with the approval of the membership.

Finally, with regard to condominium, cooperative, and homeowners' associations, the bill provides that unit owners may consent in writing to the disclosure of contact information to which other owners are prohibited from having access.

The bill has an indeterminate, but insignificant fiscal impact.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

II. Present Situation:

Public Lodging Establishments

The Division of Hotels and Restaurants (HR division) within the Department of Business and Professional Regulation is the state agency authorized with enforcing the provisions of ch. 509, F.S., and all other applicable laws relating to the inspection and regulation of public lodging establishments and public food service establishments for the purpose of protecting the public health, safety, and welfare. According to the department, there are more than 37,155 licensed public lodging establishments, including hotels, motels, nontransient and transient rooming houses, and resort condominiums and dwellings.[1]

Section 509.013(4)(b)9., F.S., provides several exemptions from the definition of "public lodging establishment," including, in relevant part:

> Any roominghouse, boardinghouse, or other living or sleeping facility that may not be classified as a hotel, motel, vacation rental, nontransient apartment, bed and breakfast inn, or transient apartment under s. 509.242[, F.S].

Section 509.013(4)(a)1., F.S., defines a "transient public lodging establishment" to mean:

> …any unit, group of units, dwelling, building, or group of buildings within a single complex of buildings which is rented to guests more than three times in a calendar year for periods of less than 30 days or 1 calendar month, whichever is less, or which is advertised or held out to the public as a place regularly rented to guests.

Section 509.013(4)(a)2., F.S., defines a "nontransient public lodging establishment" to mean:

> …any unit, group of units, dwelling, building, or group of buildings within a single complex of buildings which is rented to guests for periods of at least 30 days or 1 calendar month, whichever is less, or which is advertised or held out to the public as a place regularly rented to guests for periods of at least 30 days or 1 calendar month.

Section 509.242(1)(c), F.S., defines the term "vacation rental" to mean:

> A vacation rental is any unit or group of units in a condominium, cooperative, or timeshare plan or any individually or collectively owned single-family, two-family, three-family, or four-family house or dwelling unit that is also a transient public lodging establishment.

Timeshares

A timeshare interest is a form of ownership of real and personal property.[2] Timeshares are regulated by the Division of Florida Condominiums, Timeshares, and Mobile Homes (FCTMH division) within the department in accordance with ch. 721, F.S.

In a timeshare, the real property is typically a condominium unit or a cooperative unit. A timeshare property is typically a resort in which multiple parties hold the right to use the property. Each owner of a timeshare interest is allotted a period of time (typically one week) in which he or she may use the property.

Marketable Record Title Act

The Marketable Record Title Act (MRTA or act),[3] may cause covenants to lapse by operation of law if the covenants are silent as to expiration, or if the 30-year period in the act is shorter than the stated expiration time.

Sections 712.02, F.S., provides that:

> Any person having the legal capacity to own land in this state, who, alone or together with her or his predecessors in title, has been vested with any estate in land of record for 30 years or more, shall have a marketable record title to such estate in said land, which shall be free and clear of all claims except the matters set forth as exceptions to marketability in s. 712.03[, F.S]. A person shall have a marketable record title when the public records disclosed a record title transaction affecting the title to the land which has been of record for not less than 30 years purporting to create such estate either in:
> (1) The person claiming such estate; or
> (2) Some other person from whom, by one or more title transactions, such estate has passed to the person claiming such estate, with nothing

[2] See s. 721.05(36), F.S.
[3] Chapter 712, F.S., > appearing of record, in either case, purporting to divest such claimant of the estate claimed.

Sections 712.05 and 712.06, F.S., provide the process, including notice requirements, for the recording of interest in land and the preservation of covenants and restrictions for community associations which may be extinguished under operation of the act.

Section 712.05, F.S., requires that a written notice must be recorded to claim an interest in land and to preserve and protect from extinguishment any covenants or restrictions. Section 712.05(1), F.S., provides:
