> Any person claiming an interest in land or a homeowners' association desiring to preserve any covenant or restriction may preserve and protect the same from extinguishment by the operation of this act by filing for record, during the 30-year period immediately following the effective date of the root of title, a notice, in writing, in accordance with the provisions hereof, which notice shall have the effect of so preserving such claim of right or such covenant or restriction or portion of such covenant or restriction for a period of no longer than 30 years after filing the same unless again filed as required herein. No disability or lack of knowledge of any kind on the part of anyone shall delay the commencement of or suspend the running of said 30-year period. Such notice may be filed for record by the claimant or by any other person acting on behalf of any claimant who is:
> (a) Under a disability,
> (b) Unable to assert a claim on his or her behalf, or
> (c) One of a class, but whose identity cannot be established or is uncertain at the time of filing such notice of claim for record.
> Such notice may be filed by a homeowners' association only if the preservation of such covenant or restriction or portion of such covenant or restriction is approved by at least two-thirds of the members of the board of directors of an incorporated homeowners' association at a meeting for which a notice, stating the meeting's time and place and containing the statement of marketable title action described in s. 712.06(1)(b),[F.S.,] was mailed or hand delivered to members of the homeowners' association not less than seven days prior to such meeting.

For covenants that have expired, residents in these communities have the option to revive the covenants after the expiration by following the procedure in ss. 720.403 - 720.407, F.S. The covenant revitalization procedures in ss. 720.403 - 720.407, F.S., are not available to homeowners' associations not governed by ch. 720, F.S., e.g., associations governing communities that are comprised of property primarily intended for commercial, industrial, or other non-residential use.[4] Non-mandatory associations may not revive covenants pursuant to ss. 702.403 - 702.407, F.S., because ch. 720, F.S., relates to residential homeowners' associations where membership is a mandatory condition for the owners of property.

Section 712.06, F.S., specifies the contents of the notice required under s. 712.05, F.S. Section 712.06(3), F.S., also provides for the service of the notice by the clerk of the circuit court. Section 712.06(3), F.S., provides:

> (3) The person providing the notice referred to in s. 712.05[, F.S.,] shall:
> (a) Cause the clerk of the circuit court to mail by registered or certified mail to the purported owner of said property, as stated in such notice, a copy thereof and shall enter on the original, before recording the same, a certificate showing such mailing. For preparing the certificate, the claimant shall pay to the clerk the service charge as prescribed in s. 28.24(8)[, F.S.,] and the necessary costs of mailing, in addition to the recording charges as prescribed in s. 28.24(12)[, F.S]. If the notice names purported owners having more than one address, the person filing the same shall furnish a true copy for each of the several addresses stated, and the clerk shall send one such copy to the purported owners named at each respective address. Such certificate shall be sufficient if the same reads substantially as follows:
> I hereby certify that I did on this_____, mail by registered (or certified) mail a copy of the foregoing notice to each of the following at the address stated:
>
> _____
> (Clerk of the circuit court)
> of County, Florida,
> By (Deputy Clerk)
>
> The clerk of the circuit court is not required to mail to the purported owner of such property any such notice that pertains solely to the preserving of any covenant or restriction or any portion of a covenant or restriction; or
> (b) Publish once a week, for 2 consecutive weeks, the notice referred to in s. 712.05,[F.S.,] with the official record book and page number in which such notice was recorded, in a newspaper as defined in ch. 50[, F.S.,] in the county in which the property is located.

The Real Property, Probate, and Trust Law Section of The Florida Bar (RPPTL), s. 712.06(3), F.S., requires the clerk of court to mail and publish notice of the preservation of homeowners' association covenants and restrictions. According to RPPTL, compliance with the notice required under s. 712.06(3), F.S., in the context of the preservation of homeowners' association covenants and restrictions is impracticable because of the large amount of space required to publish the notice, which may include tens or hundreds of pages of recorded instruments.

Condominium

A condominium is a "form of ownership of real property created pursuant to [ch. 718, F.S.,] which is comprised entirely of units that may be owned by one or more persons, and in which there is, appurtenant to each unit, an undivided share in common elements."[5] A condominium is created by recording a declaration of condominium in the public records of the county where the condominium is located.[6] A declaration is like a constitution in that it:

> Strictly governs the relationships among condominium unit owners and the condominium association. Under the declaration, the Board of the condominium association has broad authority to enact rules for the benefit of the community.[7]

A declaration "may include covenants and restrictions concerning the use, occupancy, and transfer of the units permitted by law with reference to real property."[8] A declaration of condominium may be amended as provided in the declaration.[9] If the declaration does not provide a method for amendment, it may generally be amended as to any matter by a vote of not less than the owners of two-thirds of the units.[10] Condominiums are administered by a board of directors referred to as a "board of administration."[11]

Section 718.103(8), F.S., defines the term "common elements" to mean the portions of the condominium property not included in the units.

Section 718.103(12), F.S., defines the term "condominium parcel" to mean a unit, together with the undivided share in the common elements appurtenant to the unit.

Section 718.103(19), F.S., defines the term "limited common elements" to mean those common elements that are reserved for the use of a certain unit or units to the exclusion of all other units, as specified in the declaration.

Section 718.103(23), F.S., defines the term "residential condominium" to mean:

> …a condominium consisting of two or more units, any of which are intended for use as a private temporary or permanent residence, except that a condominium is not a residential condominium if the use for which the units are intended is primarily commercial or industrial and not more than three units are intended to be used for private residence, and are intended to be used as housing for maintenance, managerial, janitorial, or other operational staff of the condominium. > condominium that is not a timeshare condominium, a residential unit includes a unit intended as a private temporary or permanent residence as well as a unit not intended for commercial or industrial use. With respect to a timeshare condominium, the timeshare instrument as defined in s. 721.05(35)[, F.S.,] shall govern the intended use of each unit in the condominium. If a condominium is a residential condominium but contains units intended to be used for commercial or industrial purposes, then, with respect to those units which are not intended for or used as private residences, the condominium is not a residential condominium. A condominium which contains both commercial and residential units is a mixed-use condominium and is subject to the requirements of s. 718.404[, F.S].

Cooperative Associations

Section 719.103(12), F.S., defines a "cooperative" to mean:

> …that form of ownership of real property wherein legal title is vested in a corporation or other entity and the beneficial use is evidenced by an ownership interest in the association and a lease or other muniment of title or possession granted by the association as the owner of all the cooperative property.

A cooperative differs from a condominium because, in a cooperative, no unit is individually owned. Instead, a cooperative unit's occupants receive an exclusive right to occupy the unit. The cooperative holds the legal title to the unit and all common elements. The cooperative association may assess costs for the maintenance of common expenses.[12]

Homeowners' Associations

Florida law provides statutory recognition to corporations that operate residential communities in this state and procedures for operating homeowners' associations. These laws protect the rights of association members without unduly impairing the ability of such associations to perform their functions.[13]

A "homeowners' association" is defined as a "Florida corporation responsible for the operation of a community or a mobile home subdivision in which the voting membership is made up of parcel owners or their agents, or a combination thereof, and in which membership is a mandatory condition of parcel ownership, and which is authorized to impose assessments that, if unpaid, may become a lien on the parcel."[14] Unless specifically stated to the contrary, homeowners' associations are also governed by ch. 607, F.S., relating to for-profit corporations or by ch. 617, F.S., relating to not-for-profit corporations.[15]

[15] Section 720.302(5), F.S.

Homeowners' associations are administered by a board of directors whose members are elected.[16] The powers and duties of homeowners' associations include the powers and duties provided in ch. 720, F.S., and in the governing documents of the association, which include recorded declaration of covenants, bylaws, articles of incorporation, and duly adopted amendments to these documents.[17] The officers and members of a homeowners' association have a fiduciary relationship to the members who are served by the association.[18]

Division of Florida Condominiums, Timeshares, and Mobile Homes

Condominiums are regulated by the FCTMH division in accordance with ch. 718, F.S. The FCTMH division is afforded complete jurisdiction to investigate complaints and enforce compliance with ch. 718, F.S. with respect to associations that are still under developer control.[19] The FCTMH division also has the authority to investigate complaints against developers involving improper turnover or failure to turnover control to the association, pursuant to s. 718.301, F.S. After control of the condominium is transferred from the developer to the unit owners, the FCTMH division's jurisdiction is limited to investigating complaints related to financial issues, elections, and unit owner access to association records pursuant to s. 718.111(12), F.S.[20]

As part of the FCTMH division's authority to investigate complaints, s. 718.501(1), F.S., authorizes the division to subpoena witnesses, take sworn statements from witnesses, issue cease and desist orders, and impose civil penalties (fines) against developers and associations.

Chapters 718, 719, and 720, F.S.

Although condominiums and cooperatives are regulated by the FCTMH division, homeowners' associations are not regulated. Chapter 718, F.S., relating to condominiums, ch. 719, F.S., relating to cooperatives, and ch. 720, F.S., relating to homeowners' associations, provide for requirements for the governance of these associations. For example, they delineate requirements for notices of meetings,[21] recordkeeping requirements, including which records are accessible to the members of the association,[22] and financial reporting.[23] Timeshare condominiums are generally governed by ch. 721, F.S., the "Florida Vacation Plan and Timesharing Act."

Rental of Condominium Units

Section 718.110(13), F.S., provides that any amendment of the declaration of condominium that prohibits unit owners from renting their units, alters the duration of the rental term, specifies or limits the number of times unit owners are entitled to rent their units during a specified period applies only to unit owners who consent to the amendment and unit owners who acquire title to their units after the effective date of that amendment.

Insurance – Condominiums

Section 718.111(11), F.S., sets forth the insurance responsibilities of condominium associations and unit owners. Section 718.111(11)(j), F.S., requires the association to reconstruct, repair, or replace as necessary, as a common expense, any portion of the condominium property that it must insure against property loss and is damaged by an insurable event. Section 718.111(11)(f), F.S., specifies the property of the condominium for which the association must provide primary coverage. This section provides:

> (f) Every property insurance policy issued or renewed on or after January 1, 2009, for the purpose of protecting the condominium must provide primary coverage for:
> 1. All portions of the condominium property as originally installed or replacement of like kind and quality, in accordance with the original plans and specifications.
> 2. All alterations or additions made to the condominium property or association property pursuant to s. 718.113(2)[, F.S].
> 3. The coverage must exclude all personal property within the unit or limited common elements, and floor, wall, and ceiling coverings, electrical fixtures, appliances, water heaters, water filters, built-in cabinets and countertops, and window treatments, including curtains, drapes, blinds, hardware, and similar window treatment components, or replacements of any of the foregoing which are located within the boundaries of the unit and serve only such unit. Such property and any insurance thereupon is the responsibility of the unit owner.

Right of Access to Units – Condominiums and Cooperatives

Section 718.111(5), F.S., provides that condominium associations have an irrevocable right of access to each unit during reasonable hours. They have the right to access units when necessary to maintain, repair, or replace any common elements or of any portion of a unit that the association must maintain in accordance with the declaration or as necessary to prevent damage to the common elements or to a unit or units.

Section 719.104(1), F.S., provides a comparable provision for cooperative associations.

Official Records Chapters 718, 719, and 720, F.S.

Section 718.111(12)(c), F.S., for condominium associations, s. 719.104(2), F.S., for cooperative associations, and s. 720.303(5), F.S., for homeowners' associations, provide for the maintenance of the official records of the associations. These provisions delineate the types of records that the associations must maintain and identify types of records that are accessible to their members.

Section 718.111(12)(c), F.S., prohibits unit owner access to certain official records or information in the possession of the condominium association, including:

- Records protected by attorney-client privilege;
- Information in connection with the approval of the lease, sale, or other transfer of a unit;
- Personnel records, including but not limited to disciplinary, health, insurance, and personnel records of the association's employees;
- Medical records of unit owners;
- Social security numbers, driver's license numbers, credit card numbers, email addresses, telephone numbers, facsimile numbers, emergency contact information, and any addresses of a unit owner that are not provided to fulfill the association's notice requirements, and any personal identifying information of a unit owner;
- Electronic security measures used to safeguard data, including passwords; and
- Software and operating systems used by the association to allow manipulation of data.

Condominium unit owners may consent in writing to the disclosure of information that is not accessible to the other unit owners.

The official records provisions for condominiums and homeowners' associations are substantively similar, particularly in regards to the list of the types of information that are not accessible to members.[24] For example, members of condominium associations and homeowners' associations do not have access to the addresses, telephone numbers, and other identifying personal information of the members. Chapter 719, F.S., does not provide a similar limitation on the types of records that are accessible to the members of a cooperative association.

Condominium Bylaws-Meetings of the Board

Section 718.112(2)(b)5., F.S., allows members of the condominium board to meet by telephone conference. Members who appear by teleconference may be counted toward obtaining a quorum and may vote as if physically present. A telephone speaker must be used to permit the conversation to be heard by other board members and any unit owners who may be present.

Condominiums and Cooperatives – Assessments and Foreclosures

Current law defines an "assessment" as a "share of the funds which are required for the payment of common expenses, which from time to time is assessed against the unit owner."[25]

[24] See ss. 718.111(12)(c) and 720.303(5), F.S.
[25] Section 718.103(1), F.S.

"Special assessment" is defined to mean, "any assessment levied against a unit owner other than the assessment required by a budget adopted annually."[26]

A unit owner is jointly and severally liable with the previous owner for all unpaid assessments that came due up to the time of transfer of title. This liability is without prejudice[27] to any right the owner may have to recover from the previous owner the amounts paid by the owner."[28]

Section 719.108, F.S., provides a comparable liability provision for cooperative associations.

If a first mortgagee, (e.g., the mortgage lending institution) or its successor or assignee, acquires title to a condominium unit by foreclosure or by deed in lieu of foreclosure, the first mortgagee's liability for unpaid assessments is limited to the amount of assessments that came due during the 12 months immediately preceding the acquisition of title or one percent of the original mortgage debt, whichever is less.[29] However, this limitation applies only if the first mortgagee joined the association as a defendant in the foreclosure action.[30] In the foreclosure action, the association may defend its claims for unpaid assessments. A first mortgagee who acquires title to a foreclosed condominium unit is exempt from liability for all unpaid assessments if the first mortgage was recorded prior to April 1, 1992.[31] The successor or assignee, with respect to the first mortgagee, includes only a subsequent holder of the first mortgage.[32]

Section 718.116(3), F.S., provides for the accrual of interest on unpaid assessments. Unpaid assessments and installments on assessments accrue interest at the rate provided in the declaration from the due date until paid. The rate may not exceed the rate allowed by law.[33] If no rate is specified in the declaration, the interest accrues at the rate of 18 percent per year.[34] The association may also charge an administrative late fee of up to the greater of $25 or five percent of each installment of the assessment for each delinquent installment for which the payment is late.[35] Payments are applied first to the interest accrued, then the administrative late fee, then to any costs and attorney's fees incurred in collection, and then to the delinquent assessment.[36]

Distressed Condominium Relief Act

The "Distressed Condominium Relief Act" in part VII of ch. 718, F.S., defines the extent to which successors to the developer, including the construction lender after a foreclosure and other bulk buyers and bulk assignees of condominium units, may be responsible for implied warranties.

Section 718.703(1), F.S., defines the term "bulk assignee" to mean a person who acquires more than seven condominium parcels in a single condominium as provided in s. 718.707, F.S., and receives an assignment of some or substantially all of the rights of the developer as an exhibit in the deed or as a separate instrument recorded in the public records in the county where the condominium is located.

Section 718.703(2), F.S., defines the term "bulk buyer" as a person who acquires more than seven condominium parcels in a single condominium but who does not receive an assignment of developer rights other than the rights specified in this section.

Section 718.704(1), F.S., provides that a bulk assignee assumes all the duties and responsibilities of the developer, and specifies obligations for which the bulk assignee is not liable.

Section 718.707, F.S., specifies a time limit for classification as a bulk assignee or bulk buyer. A person acquiring condominium parcels may not be classified as a bulk assignee or a bulk buyer unless the parcels are acquired prior to July 1, 2015. The date of acquisition is based on the date that the deed or other instrument of conveyance is recorded.

Financial Reporting for Cooperatives

Section 719.104(4), F.S., sets forth the financial reporting responsibilities of cooperative associations. Cooperative associations have 60 days after the end of the fiscal year or calendar year to prepare and complete a financial report for the preceding fiscal year. The report must be mailed or furnished by personal delivery to each unit owner. The report must be a complete financial report of actual receipts and expenditures for the previous 12 months, or a complete set of financial statements for the preceding fiscal year prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting procedures (GAAP).

Section 719.104(4)(a), F.S., specifies the accounts and expenses that must be shown in the report. It provides in pertinent part:

> The report shall show the amounts of receipts by accounts and receipt classifications and shall show the amounts of expenses by accounts and expense classifications including, if applicable, but not limited to, the following:
> 1. Costs for security;
> 2. Professional and management fees and expenses;
> 3. Taxes;
> 4. Costs for recreation facilities;
> 5. Expenses for refuse collection and utility services;
> 6. Expenses for lawn care;
> 7. Costs for building maintenance and repair;
> 8. Insurance costs;
> 9. Administrative and salary expenses; and

10. Reserves for capital expenditures, deferred maintenance, and any other category for which the association maintains a reserve account or accounts.

Section 719.104(4)(b), F.S., requires that the FCTMH division adopt rules that may require that the association deliver to the unit owners, in lieu of the financial report required by this section, a complete set of financial statements for the preceding fiscal year.[37] The financial statements must be delivered within 90 days following the end of the previous fiscal year or annually on such other date as provided in the bylaws. The FCTMH division's rules may require that the financial statements be compiled, reviewed, or audited, and the rules shall take into consideration the criteria set forth in s. 719.501(1)(j), F.S.[38]

Cooperative associations may waive the requirement to have financial statements compiled, reviewed, or audited at a duly called meeting of the association.[39] In an association that is under developer control, the developer may vote to waive the audit requirement for the first two years of the operation of the association, after which time waiver of an applicable audit requirement requires the approval of a majority of voting interests other than the developer. The meeting must be held prior to the end of the fiscal year, and the waiver is effective for only one fiscal year.

The reporting requirements in s. 719.104(4)(b), F.S., do not apply to a cooperative that consists of 50 or fewer units.[40]

Financial Reporting for Condominium and Homeowners' Associations

Section 718.111(13), F.S., sets forth the financial reporting responsibilities of homeowners' associations. Homeowners' associations have 90 days after the end of the fiscal year to prepare and complete a financial report for the preceding fiscal year. The type of financial statements or information that must be provided is based on the association's total annual revenues.

Section 718.111(13)(a), F.S., provides, in part, that if the association has a total annual revenue of $150,000 or more, but less than $300,000, the association must prepare compiled financial statements.[41] If the association has a total annual revenue of at least $300,000 and not less than $500,000, the association must prepare reviewed financial statements.[42] If the total annual [38] Section 719.501(1)(j), F.S., authorizes the division to adopt uniform accounting principles, policies, and standards to be used by all associations in the preparation and presentation of all financial statements required by ch. 719, F.S. The principles, policies, and standards must take into consideration the size of the association and the total revenue collected by the association.

revenue is $500,000 or more, the association must prepare audited financial statements.[43] If the total annual revenue is less than $150,000, then a report of cash receipts must be prepared.[44] An association having less than 50 parcels, regardless of annual revenue, may prepare a report of cash receipt and expenditures instead of financial statements, unless the governing documents provide otherwise.[45]

The amounts of total annual revenue and the type of financial statement requirements are identical to the financial reporting requirements for homeowners' associations in s. 720.303(7), F.S.

Community Association Living Study Council

Section 718.50151, F.S., creates the Community Association Living Study Council. The council consists of seven appointed members. The council's function is to receive public input regarding issues of concern with respect to community association living. The council must make recommendations for changes in the law related to community association living and must advise the FCTMH division concerning revisions and adoptions of rules affecting condominium and cooperatives.

Homeowners' Associations – Amendments

Section 720.306(1)(b), F.S., requires that, unless otherwise provided in the governing documents or required by law, the governing document of an association may be amended by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the voting interests of the association. The association is required to provide copies of the amendment to the members within 30 days after recording an amendment to the governing documents.

Section 720.306(1)(c), F.S., prohibits amendments that materially and adversely alter the proportionate voting interest appurtenant to a parcel or increase the proportion or percentage by which a parcel shares in the common expenses of the association unless the record parcel owner and all record owners of liens on the parcels join in the execution of the amendment.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Timeshare Projects

Section 509.013, F.S., excludes a "timeshare project" from the definition of "public lodging establishments."

Section 509.032, F.S., provides that public lodging units that are classified as timeshare projects are not subject to the requirement of at least biannual inspections by the division.

[45] Section 718.111(13)(b)2., F.S.

Section 509.221(9), F.S., exempts timeshare projects from the requirements that public lodging establishments maintain public bathroom facilities, provide in the main public bathroom soap and clean towels or other approved hand-drying devices, and provide each bed, bunk, cot, or other sleeping place for the use of guests with clean pillowslips and under and top sheets. Current law exempts vacation rentals and transient apartments from these requirements.

Section 509.241(2), F.S., provides that a condominium association that does not own any units classified as timeshare projects is not required to apply for or receive a public lodging establishment license. Current law exempts from the license requirement condominium associations that do not own any units classified as vacation rentals.

Section 509.242(1)(c), F.S., removes timeshare plans from the definition of a "vacation rental." It also provides that a vacation rental is a transient public lodging establishment that is not a timeshare project.

Section 509.242(1)(g), F.S., defines the term "timeshare project" to mean "a timeshare property, as defined in chapter 721, [F.S.] that is located in this state and that is also a transient public lodging establishment."

Section 509.251(1), F.S., allows a single public lodging establishment license to cover all the buildings of a timeshare project which are managed by the same licensed agent even if the buildings are at separate locations. Thus, timeshare projects with respect to aggregating buildings for licensure will be treated the same way as vacation rentals.

Marketable Record Title Act

Section 712.05(1), F.S., provides that the homeowners' association or the clerk of the circuit court is not required to provide additional notice pursuant to s. 712.06(3), F.S., in order to preserve association covenants and restrictions under the Marketable Record Title Act The bill also provides that this provision is intended to clarify existing law.

Right of Access to Units – Condominiums

Section 718.111(5)(b), F.S., expands the authority of an association's board to enter abandoned condominium units. Section 718.111(5)(b)1., F.S., provides that, at the sole direction of the board, the association may enter an abandoned unit to inspect it and adjoining common elements, to make specific repairs, and to maintain the unit. This includes repairs to the unit or common elements serving the unit. The bill permits the board to enter an abandoned unit to repair damage from mold, to determine if any mold or deterioration is present, to turn on the power for the unit, and to otherwise maintain, preserve, and protect the unit and adjoining common elements.

Section 718.111(5)(b)1., F.S., provides that a unit is presumed to be abandoned if all tenants or unit owners have been absent from the unit for at least two consecutive months without notice to the association and the association is unable to contact the owner or determine the whereabouts of the owner after reasonable inquiry, unless the unit owner is current on all assessments or notified the association, in writing of an intended absence. The bill does not define what efforts to determine the whereabouts of the owner would constitute reasonable inquiry.

Section 718.111(5)(b)2., F.S., provides that, except in the case of an emergency, an association may not enter a unit until after two days' notice of intent to enter has been mailed or delivered to the owner at the address of the owner as reflected in the records of the association. It permits the association to give notice by electronic transmission to unit owners who have consented to receive notice by electronic transmission.

Section 718.111(5)(b)3., F.S., permits the association to charge the unit owner for any reasonable expense incurred by the association. The charge is enforceable as an assessment pursuant to s. 718.116, F.S., and the association may use its lien authority provided in s. 718.116, F.S., to enforce collection of the expense. This provision does not provide guidance as to the type of expenses that the association may incur and assign to the unit owner, e.g., it does not distinguish between the actual cost to repair mold or deterioration of the property and administrative expenses incurred by the association in its efforts to contact the unit owner.

Section 718.111(5)(b)4., F.S., authorizes the association to petition a court to appoint a receiver to rent an abandoned unit for the benefit of the association to offset the association's costs and expenses of maintaining, preserving, and protecting the unit and the adjoining common elements, including the costs of the receivership and all unpaid assessments, interest, administrative late fees, costs of collection, and attorney fees against the rental income.

Condominium – Insurance

Section 718.111(11)(j), F.S., provides that the insurance responsibility of the association or unit owners for reconstruction, repair, or replacement in the absence of an insurable event is determined by the declaration or bylaws.

Section 718.111(11)(j), F.S., deletes uninsured losses from the list of items that are a common expense of the association. As provided in the bill, whether an uninsured loss is considered a common expense would be determined by the declaration or bylaws.

Condominiums – Official Records

Section 718.111(12)(c)5., F.S., provides that unit owners may consent in writing to the disclosure of other contact information described in this subparagraph.

Section 718.111(12)(f), F.S., requires an outgoing board or committee member to relinquish all official records and property of the association in his or her possession or under his or her control to the incoming board within five days after the election. The bill requires that the division impose a civil penalty as set forth in s. 718.501(1)(d)6., F.S.,[46] against an outgoing board or committee member who willfully and knowingly fails to relinquish such records or property. The requirement that the records and property must be relinquished within five days after an election may not apply, or may be vague, in circumstances in which an election is not held to fill a vacancy on the board, e.g., s. 718.112(2)(d)2., F.S., provides that an election is not required if the number of vacancies equals or exceeds the number of candidates.

[46] Section 718.501(1)(d)6., F.S., authorizes the division to impose a civil penalty individually against an officer or board member who willfully and knowingly violates a provision of this chapter, adopted rule, or a final order of the division. The civil penalty may not exceed $5,000.

The bill provides a comparable provision for cooperative associations in s. 719.104(2)(e), F.S.

Condominiums - Bylaws-Meetings of the Board

Section 718.112(2)(b)5., F.S., permits a board or committee member's participation in a meeting via telephone, real-time videoconferencing, or similar real-time electronic or video communication to count towards a quorum and that the member can vote as if present. There is a comparable provision in current law for meetings of the board of cooperative associations.[47]

Section 718.112(2)(c), F.S., provides a board member may use e-mail as a means of communication but may not cast a vote on an association matter via e-mail.

Community Association Living Study Council

The bill repeals s. 718.50151, F.S., to eliminate the Community Association Living Study Council.

Condominiums-Assessments

Section 718.116(1)(a), F.S., provides that the previous owner does not include an association that acquires the title to a delinquent property through foreclosure or by deed in lieu of foreclosure. The present unit owner's liability for the costs associated with the collection process is limited to the amounts that accrued before the association acquired the title to the delinquent property. Current law provides a comparable provision for homeowners' associations in s. 720.3085(2)(b), F.S. The bill provides a comparable provision for cooperative associations in s. 719.108(1), F.S.

Distressed Condominium Relief Act

Section 718.707, F.S., extends the time period to be classified as a bulk buyer or bulk assignee from July 1, 2015, to July 1, 2016.

Cooperatives - Official Records

Section 719.104(2)(c)5., F.S., provides that unit owners may consent in writing to the disclosure of other contact information described in this subparagraph. The bill provides comparable provisions for cooperative associations in s. 719.104(2)(c)5., F.S., and homeowners' associations in s. 720.303(5)(c)5., F.S.

The bill also creates s. 719.104(2)(e), F.S., to require an outgoing board or committee member to relinquish all official records and property of the association in his or her possession or under his or her control to the incoming board within five days after the election. The bill requires that the division impose a civil penalty as set forth in s. 719.501(1)(d), F.S.,[48] against an outgoing board or committee member who willfully and knowingly fails to relinquish such records or property.

The bill provides a comparable provision for condominium associations in s. 718.111(12)(f), F.S.

Cooperatives – Financial Reporting

Section 719.104(4), F.S., specifies the type of financial reporting that a cooperative association must prepare. The bill increases the time the board has to prepare a financial statement from 60 to 90 days. Within 90 days following the end of the fiscal or calendar year or annually on such date as provided in the association's bylaws, the board must complete, or contract with a third party to complete the financial statements. It provides that within 21 days after the financial report is completed by the association or received from the third party, but no later than 120 days after the end of the fiscal year, the board must provide each member of the association a copy of the financial report or a notice that it is available at no charge. The bylaws may provide for different time frames for the financial report. The bill requires the division adopt rules setting forth uniform accounting principles, standards, and reporting requirements.

The bill replaces existing law which requires a complete financial report of receipts and expenditures for the previous 12 months or a complete set of financial statements for the preceding fiscal year prepared by generally accepted accounting procedures. It provides that the new financial reports must conform to generally accepted accounting principles. The type of reporting is based on the association's total annual revenue.

Section 719.104(4), F.S., provides that cooperative associations may not waive the financial reporting requirements of this section for more than three consecutive years.

An association having total annual revenues between $150,000 and $299,000 must prepare compiled financial statements. An association having total annual revenues of at least $300,000 but less than $499,999 must prepare reviewed financial statements. An association having total revenues of $500,000 or more must prepare audited financial statements.

Section 719.104(4)(c)1., F.S., provides that an association with total annual revenue of less than $150,000 must prepare a report of cash receipts and expenditures.

These financial reporting thresholds are comparable to those required under the division's current financial reporting rule for cooperatives.[49] The thresholds are also comparable to the financial reporting thresholds for condominiums in s. 718.111(13), F.S., and for homeowners' associations in s. 720.303(7), F.S.

Section 719.104(4)(c)2., F.S., provides that an association of fewer than 50 units, regardless of the association's annual revenues, must prepare a report of cash receipts and expenditures, unless otherwise required by the declaration or other recorded governing documents.

[48] Section 719.501(1)(d)4., F.S., authorizes the division to impose a civil penalty individually against an officer or board member who willfully and knowingly violates a provision of this chapter, adopted rule, or a final order of the division. The civil penalty may not exceed $5,000.
[49] See rule 61B-76.006, F.A.C.

Section 719.104(4)(c)3., F.S., specifies the receipts by accounts and receipt classifications and the amount of expenses by accounts and expense classifications that must be disclosed in the report of cash receipts and expenditures.

Section 719.104(4)(d)., F.S., provides that, if at least 20 percent of the unit owners petition the board for a greater level of financial reporting than required under s. 719.104, F.S., the association must duly notice and hold a meeting of the members within 30 days after receipt of the petition. Upon approval by a majority of the voting interests present at the meeting, the association must prepare an amended budget or adopt a special assessment to pay for the financial report regardless of any provision to the contrary in the declaration or other recorded governing documents. Section 719.104(4)(d)., F.S., also requires that the association provide the following within 90 days after the meeting or the end of the fiscal year, whichever occurs later:

- Compiled, reviewed, or audited financial statements if the association is otherwise required to prepare a report of cash receipts and expenditures;
- Reviewed or audited financial statements if the association is otherwise required to prepare compiled financial statements; or
- Audited financial statements if the association is otherwise required to prepare reviewed financial statements.

Section 719.104(4)(e), F.S., provides that, if approved by a majority of voting interests present at a duly called meeting, an association may prepare or cause to be prepared:

- A report of cash receipts and expenditures in lieu of a compiled, reviewed or audited financial statement;
- A report of cash receipts and expenditures or a compiled financial statement in lieu of a reviewed or audited financial statement; or
- A report of cash receipts and expenditures, a compiled financial statement, or a reviewed financial statement in lieu of an audited financial statement.

Cooperatives – Officers and Directors

Section 719.106(1)(a)2., F.S., provides that a person who has been suspended or removed by the division under ch. 719. F.S.,[50] or who is delinquent in the payment of any monetary obligation due to the association, is not eligible to be a candidate for board membership and may not be listed on the ballot. Section 718.112(2)(d)2., F.S., provides a comparable provision for condominium associations in current law.

Section 719.106(1)(a)2., F.S., also provides that a director or officer charged by information or indictment with a felony theft or embezzlement offense involving the association's funds or property must be removed from office, creating a vacancy in the office to be filled according to law until the end of the period of the suspension or the end of the director's term of office, whichever occurs first.[51] While the criminal charge is pending, the officer or director may not be [50] Section 719.501(1)(d)6., F.S., authorizes the division to order the removal of an officer or board member who has willfully and knowingly violated a provision of ch. 719, F.S., adopted rule, or a final order of the division.

[51] Section 719.106(1)(d)6., F.S., provides for the filling of a vacancy, unless otherwise provided in the bylaws. If a vacancy occurs on the board before the expiration of a term, it may be filled by the affirmative vote of the majority of the remaining appointed or elected to a position as a director or officer. The director or officer must be reinstated for the remainder of his or her term of office, if any, if the charges are resolved without a finding of guilt. Section 718.112(2)(o), F.S., provides a comparable provision in current law for condominium associations.

This provision also provides that a person who has been convicted of any felony in this state or in a United States District or Territorial Court, or who has been convicted of any offense in another jurisdiction which would be considered a felony if committed in this state, is not eligible for board membership unless such felon's civil rights have been restored for at least five years as of the date such person seeks election to the board. The bill provides that the validity of an action by the board is not affected if it is later determined that a board member is ineligible for board membership due to having been convicted of a felony. Section 718.112(2)(d)2., F.S., provides a comparable provision in current law for condominium associations.

Emergency Powers for Cooperative Boards

Section 719.128, F.S., is created to authorize the boards of cooperative associations, to the extent allowed by law, to exercise certain emergency powers in response to the declaration of a state of emergency in accordance with s. 252.36(2), F.S.,[52] or a mandatory evacuation order issued by civil or law enforcement authorities.

The association's articles of incorporation or bylaws may specifically prohibit the exercise of the powers granted by the bill. The exercise of authority must also be consistent with the standards of s. 617.0830, F.S., which sets forth the general standards for directors of a corporation not for profit, including acting in good faith, acting with the care an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise under similar circumstances, and acting in a manner that he or she reasonably believes to be in the best interests of the corporation.

The bill authorizes the board to:

- Conduct board or membership meetings with notice of the meetings and the board's decisions by any means the board deems appropriate and practical under the circumstances;
- Cancel and reschedule any association meeting;
- Appoint persons to act as agents for or assist any director or officer due to incapacity or unavailability;
- Relocate the principal office or designate alternative principal offices;
- Provide notice of board meetings decisions by posted signs, mailed notice to members, internet postings, public service announcements, or any other means of communication which the board deems reasonable under the circumstances;
- Enter into agreements with counties and municipalities for debris removal;

directors, even if the remaining directors constitute less than a quorum, or by the sole remaining director. Alternatively, a board may hold an election to fill the vacancy. Unless otherwise provided in the bylaws, a board member appointed or elected under this subparagraph shall fill the vacancy for the unexpired term of the seat being filled.

[52] Section 252.36, F.S., provides emergency management powers to the Governor. Section 252.36(2), F.S., authorizes the Governor to declare a state of emergency by executive order or proclamation if she or he finds an emergency has occurred or is imminent.

- Implement a disaster plan prior to, or after, a catastrophic event, including shutting down elevators, electricity, water, sewer, security systems, or air conditioners for association buildings;
- Based on the advice of emergency management officials or licensed professionals retained by the board, declare any portion of the condominium property unavailable for entry or occupancy by unit owners, family members, tenants, guests, agents, or invitees in order to protect the health, safety, or welfare of such persons;
- Based on the advice of emergency management officials or licensed professionals retained by the board, determine whether the condominium property can be safely inhabited or occupied. However, such evaluation is not conclusive as to any determination of habitability pursuant to the declaration; and
- Require the evacuation of the property. The association is immune from liability for injury to persons or property arising from the failure to follow an evacuation required by the board.

It is unclear whether the disaster plan may include provisions related to shutting down elevators, electricity, water, sewer, security systems, or air conditioners for association buildings or will permit the disaster plan to include shutting down the electricity, water, and sewer systems for both members' units and for association buildings. A comparable provision for condominium associations is in s. 718.1265, F.S.

In response to damage caused by an event for which a state of emergency is declared in accordance with s. 252.36(2), F.S., the association may:

- Mitigate further damage, including preventing or eradicating fungus, mold, or mildew by removing wet drywall, insulation, carpet, cabinetry, or other fixtures, even if the unit owner is obligated by the declaration or law to insure or replace such items, and remove personal property from a unit;
- Contract, on behalf of the unit owner, for services which are necessary to prevent further damage to the cooperative property, including:
  - drying of units,
  - boarding of broken windows or doors, and
  - replacement of damaged air conditioners or air handlers to provide climate control in the units or other portions of the property.
- Levy special assessments without a vote of the owners; and
- Borrow money and pledge association assets as collateral without unit owner approval.

The bill provides that the grant of authority to condominium boards to borrow money is not intended to limit the general authority of the association to borrow money.

The bill provides that the use of the special powers authorized under this section is limited to those times and circumstances that are reasonably necessary to the health, safety, and welfare of persons, and to mitigate further damage and make emergency repairs.

Current law provides a comparable provision for condominium associations in s. 718.1265, F.S. The bill provides a comparable provision for cooperative associations in s. 720.316, F.S.

Homeowners' Associations – Official Records

Section 720.303(5)(c)5., F.S., provides unit owners may consent in writing to the disclosure of other contact information described in this subparagraph. The bill provides comparable provisions for condominium associations is s. 718.111(12)(c)5., F.S., and cooperative associations in s. 719.104(2)(c)5., F.S.

Homeowners' Associations – Amendments

Section 720.306(1)(b), F.S., provides that an association does not have to provide members with copies of an amendment to the governing documents after it is approved by the membership if a copy of the proposed amendment was previously provided to the members before the vote of the members on the amendment and the proposed amendment was not changed before the vote of the members. Instead, the association must provide notice that the amendment was adopted. The notice must provide the official book and page number or instrument number of the recorded amendment, and state that a copy of the amendment is available at no charge to the member upon written request to the association. The association may also provide the copies and notice electronically to those owners who have consented to receive notice electronically.

Emergency Powers for Homeowners' Association Boards

Section 720.316, F.S., authorizes the boards of homeowners' associations, to the extent allowed by law, to exercise the following emergency powers in response to the declaration of a state of emergency in accordance with s. 252.36(2), F.S.,[53] or a mandatory evacuation order is issued by civil or law enforcement authorities.

The association's articles of incorporation or bylaws may specifically prohibit the exercise of the powers granted by the bill. The exercise of authority must also be consistent with the standards of s. 617.0830, F.S., which sets forth the general standards for directors of a corporation not for profit, including acting in good faith, acting with the care an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise under similar circumstances, and acting in a manner that he or she reasonably believes to be in the best interests of the corporation.

The bill authorizes the board to:

- Conduct board meetings with notice given only to directors with whom it is practicable to communicate;
- Cancel and reschedule any association meeting;
- Appoint persons to act as agents for or assist any director or officer due to incapacity or unavailability;
- Relocate the principal office or designate alternative principal offices;
- Provide notice of board meetings decisions by posted signs, mailed notice to members, internet postings, public service announcements, or any other means of communication which the board deems reasonable under the circumstances;

[53] Section 252.36, F.S., provides emergency management powers to the Governor. Section 252.36(2), F.S., authorizes the Governor to declare a state of emergency by executive order or proclamation if she or he finds an emergency has occurred or is imminent.

- Enter into agreements with counties and municipalities for debris removal;

It is unclear whether the disaster plan may include provisions related to shutting down elevators, electricity, water, sewer, security systems, or air conditioners for association buildings or will permit the disaster plan to include shutting down the electricity, water, and sewer systems for both members' units and for association buildings.

In response to damage caused by an event for which a state of emergency is declared in accordance with s. 252.36(2), F.S., the association may:

- Mitigate further damage, including preventing or eradicating fungus, mold, or mildew by removing wet drywall, insulation, carpet, cabinetry, or other fixtures on or within association property;
- Levy special assessments without a vote of the owners; and
- Borrow money and pledge association assets as collateral without unit owner approval.

The bill provides that the grant of authority to homeowners' association boards to borrow money is not intended to limit the general authority of the association to borrow money.

(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS/CS by Appropriations on April 24, 2014:
The Committee Substitute:

- Removes a condition to determine when a unit is presumed to be abandoned and provides that a unit is presumed abandoned if "all tenants and the unit owner" (instead of "all tenants") have been absent from the unit for at least two consecutive months without notice to the association and the association is unable to contact the owner or determine the whereabouts of the owner after reasonable inquiry, unless the owner is current on all assessments or has notified the association of an intended absence. Provides for the collection of reasonable expenses incurred by the association.
- Amends s. 718.111(11)(j), F.S., to delete uninsured losses from the list of items which are a common expense of the association.
- Specifies that a unit owner in a condominium association is jointly and severally liable with the previous owner for all unpaid assessments; however the committee substitute removes additional liability that included interest, late charges, and reasonable costs and attorney fees incurred by the association incident to the collection process.

The committee substitute no longer exempts timeshare projects from the definition of "public lodging establishment." The committee substitute does not specify requirements for amendments to condominium documents affecting the rental of condominium units. The committee substitute repeals s. 718.50151, F.S., to eliminate the Community Association Living Study Council. The committee substitute deletes provisions revising the liabilities of a cooperative unit owner to include interest, late charges, and reasonable costs and attorney fees incurred by the association incident to the collection process. Additionally, the committee substitute does not alter the liabilities of a parcel owner in a homeowners' association for interest, late charges, and reasonable costs and attorney fees incurred by the association incident to the collection process.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Subsection (4) of section 509.013, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

509.013 Definitions.—As used in this chapter, the term:

(4)(a) "Public lodging establishment" includes a transient public lodging establishment as defined in subparagraph 1. and a nontransient public lodging establishment as defined in subparagraph 2.

1. "Transient public lodging establishment" means any unit, group of units, dwelling, building, or group of buildings within a single complex of buildings which is rented to guests more than three times in a calendar year for periods of less than 30 days or 1 calendar month, whichever is less, or which is advertised or held out to the public as a place regularly rented to guests.

2. "Nontransient public lodging establishment" means any unit, group of units, dwelling, building, or group of buildings within a single complex of buildings which is rented to guests for periods of at least 30 days or 1 calendar month, whichever is less, or which is advertised or held out to the public as a place regularly rented to guests for periods of at least 30 days or 1 calendar month.

License classifications of public lodging establishments, and the definitions therefor, are set out in s. 509.242. For the purpose of licensure, the term does not include condominium common elements as defined in s. 718.103.

(b) The following are excluded from the definitions in paragraph (a):

1. Any dormitory or other living or sleeping facility maintained by a public or private school, college, or university for the use of students, faculty, or visitors.

2. Any facility certified or licensed and regulated by the Agency for Health Care Administration or the Department of Children and Family Services or other similar place regulated under s. 381.0072.

3. Any place renting four rental units or less, unless the rental units are advertised or held out to the public to be places that are regularly rented to transients.

4. Any unit or group of units in a condominium, cooperative, or timeshare plan and any individually or collectively owned one-family, two-family, three-family, or four-family dwelling house or dwelling unit that is rented for periods of at least 30 days or 1 calendar month, whichever is less, and that is not advertised or held out to the public as a place regularly rented for periods of less than 1 calendar month, provided that no more than four rental units within a single complex of buildings are available for rent.

5. Any migrant labor camp or residential migrant housing permitted by the Department of Health under ss. 381.008-381.00895.

6. Any establishment inspected by the Department of Health and regulated by chapter 513.

8. Any apartment building inspected by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development or other entity acting on the department's behalf that is designated primarily as housing for persons at least 62 years of age. The division may require the operator of the apartment building to attest in writing that such building meets the criteria provided in this subparagraph. The division may adopt rules to implement this requirement.

9. Any roominghouse, boardinghouse, or other living or sleeping facility that may not be classified as a hotel, motel, timeshare project, vacation rental, nontransient apartment, bed and breakfast inn, or transient apartment under s. 509.242.

509.032 Duties.—

(2) INSPECTION OF PREMISES.—

(a) The division has responsibility and jurisdiction for all inspections required by this chapter. The division has responsibility for quality assurance. Each licensed establishment shall be inspected at least biannually, except for transient and nontransient apartments, which shall be inspected at least annually, and shall be inspected at such other times as the division determines is necessary to ensure the public's health, safety, and welfare. The division shall establish a system to determine inspection frequency. Public lodging units classified as vacation rentals or timeshare projects are not subject to this requirement but shall be made available to the division upon request. If, during the inspection of a public lodging establishment classified for renting to transient or nontransient tenants, an inspector identifies vulnerable adults who appear to be victims of neglect, as defined in s. 415.102, or, in the case of a building that is not equipped with automatic sprinkler systems, tenants or clients who may be unable to self-preserve in an emergency, the division shall convene meetings with the following agencies as appropriate to the individual situation: the Department of Health, the Department of Elderly Affairs, the area agency on aging, the local fire marshal, the landlord and affected tenants and clients, and other relevant organizations, to develop a plan which improves the prospects for safety of affected residents and, if necessary, identifies alternative living arrangements such as facilities licensed under part II of chapter 400 or under chapter 429.

Section 3. Subsection (9) of section 509.221, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

509.221 Sanitary regulations.—

(9) Subsections (2), (5), and (6) do not apply to any facility or unit classified as a vacation rental, ~~or~~ nontransient apartment, or timeshare project as described in s. 509.242(1)(c), ~~and~~ (d), and (g).

Section 4. Subsection (2) of section 509.241, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

509.241 Licenses required; exceptions.—

(2) APPLICATION FOR LICENSE.—Each person who plans to open a public lodging establishment or a public food service establishment shall apply for and receive a license from the division prior to the commencement of operation. A condominium association, as defined in s. 718.103, which does not own any units classified as vacation rentals or timeshare projects under s. 509.242(1)(c) or (g) is not required to apply for or receive a public lodging establishment license.

Section 5. Subsection (1) of section 509.242, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

509.242 Public lodging establishments; classifications.—

(1) A public lodging establishment shall be classified as a hotel, motel, nontransient apartment, transient apartment, bed and breakfast inn, timeshare project, or vacation rental if the establishment satisfies the following criteria:

(a) Hotel.—A hotel is any public lodging establishment containing sleeping room accommodations for 25 or more guests and providing the services generally provided by a hotel and recognized as a hotel in the community in which it is situated or by the industry.

(b) Motel.—A motel is any public lodging establishment which offers rental units with an exit to the outside of each rental unit, daily or weekly rates, offstreet parking for each unit, a central office on the property with specified hours of operation, a bathroom or connecting bathroom for each rental unit, and at least six rental units, and which is recognized as a motel in the community in which it is situated or by the industry.

(c) Vacation rental.—A vacation rental is any unit or group of units in a condominium or~~,~~ cooperative~~, or timeshare plan~~ or any individually or collectively owned single-family, two-family, three-family, or four-family house or dwelling unit that is also a transient public lodging establishment but that is not a timeshare project.

(d) Nontransient apartment.—A nontransient apartment is a building or complex of buildings in which 75 percent or more of the units are available for rent to nontransient tenants.

(e) Transient apartment.—A transient apartment is a building or complex of buildings in which more than 25 percent of the units are advertised or held out to the public as available for transient occupancy.

(g) Timeshare project.—A timeshare project is a timeshare property, as defined in chapter 721, which is located in this state and which is also a transient public lodging establishment.

Section 6. Subsection (1) of section 509.251, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

509.251 License fees.—

(1) The division shall adopt, by rule, a schedule of fees to be paid by each public lodging establishment as a prerequisite to issuance or renewal of a license. Such fees shall be based on the number of rental units in the establishment. The aggregate fee per establishment charged any public lodging establishment shall not exceed $1,000; however, the fees described in paragraphs (a) and (b) may not be included as part of the aggregate fee subject to this cap. Vacation rental units or timeshare projects within separate buildings or at separate locations but managed by one licensed agent may be combined in a single license application, and the division shall charge a license fee as if all units in the application are in a single licensed establishment. The fee schedule shall require an establishment which applies for an initial license to pay the full license fee if application is made during the annual renewal period or more than 6 months prior to the next such renewal period and one-half of the fee if application is made 6 months or less prior to such period. The fee schedule shall include fees collected for the purpose of funding the Hospitality Education Program, pursuant to s. 509.302, which are payable in full for each application regardless of when the application is submitted.

(a) Upon making initial application or an application for change of ownership, the applicant shall pay to the division a fee as prescribed by rule, not to exceed $50, in addition to any other fees required by law, which shall cover all costs associated with initiating regulation of the establishment.

(b) A license renewal filed with the division within 30 days after the expiration date shall be accompanied by a delinquent fee as prescribed by rule, not to exceed $50, in addition to the renewal fee and any other fees required by law. A license renewal filed with the division more than 30 but not more than 60 days after the expiration date shall be accompanied by a delinquent fee as prescribed by rule, not to exceed $100, in addition to the renewal fee and any other fees required by law.

Section 7. Subsection (1) of section 712.05, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

712.05 Effect of filing notice.—

(1) A ~~Any~~ person claiming an interest in land or a homeowners' association desiring to preserve a ~~any~~ covenant or restriction may preserve and protect the same from extinguishment by the operation of this act by filing for record, during the 30-year period immediately following the effective date of the root of title, a written notice~~, in writing,~~ in accordance with this chapter. Such ~~the provisions hereof, which~~ notice preserves ~~shall have the effect of so preserving~~ such claim of right or such covenant or restriction or portion of such covenant or restriction for up to ~~a period of not longer than~~ 30 years after filing the notice ~~same~~ unless the notice is filed again ~~filed~~ as required in this chapter ~~herein~~. A person's ~~No~~ disability or lack of knowledge of any kind may not ~~on the part of anyone shall~~ delay the commencement of or suspend the running of the ~~said~~ 30-year period. Such notice may be filed for record by the claimant or by any other person acting on behalf of a ~~any~~ claimant who is:

(a) Under a disability~~;~~,

(b) Unable to assert a claim on his or her behalf~~;~~, or

(c) One of a class, but whose identity cannot be established or is uncertain at the time of filing such notice of claim for record.

Such notice may be filed by a homeowners' association only if the preservation of such covenant or restriction or portion of such covenant or restriction is approved by at least two-thirds of the members of the board of directors of an incorporated homeowners' association at a meeting for which a notice, stating the meeting's time and place and containing the statement of marketable title action described in s. 712.06(1)(b), was mailed or hand delivered to members of the homeowners' association at least ~~not less than~~ 7 days before ~~prior to~~ such meeting. The homeowners' association or clerk of the circuit court is not required to provide additional notice pursuant to s. 712.06(3). The preceding sentence is intended to clarify existing law.

Section 8. Subsection (5), paragraph (j) of subsection (11), and paragraph (c) of subsection (12) of section 718.111, Florida Statutes, are amended, and paragraph (f) is added to subsection (12) of that section, to read:

718.111 The association.—

(5) RIGHT OF ACCESS TO UNITS.—

(a) The association has the irrevocable right of access to each unit during reasonable hours, when necessary for the maintenance, repair, or replacement of any common elements or of any portion of a unit to be maintained by the association pursuant to the declaration or as necessary to prevent damage to the common elements or to a unit ~~or units~~.

(b)1. In addition to the association's right of access in paragraph (a) and regardless of whether authority is provided in the declaration or other recorded condominium documents, an association, at the sole discretion of the board, may enter an abandoned unit to inspect the unit and adjoining common elements; make repairs to the unit or to the common elements serving the unit, as needed; repair the unit if mold or deterioration is present; turn on the utilities for the unit; or otherwise maintain, preserve, or protect the unit and adjoining common elements. For purposes of this paragraph, a unit is presumed to be abandoned if:

a. The unit is the subject of a foreclosure action and no tenant appears to have resided in the unit for at least 4 continuous weeks without prior written notice to the association; or

b. No tenant appears to have resided in the unit for 2 consecutive months without prior written notice to the association, and the association is unable to contact the owner or determine the whereabouts of the owner after reasonable inquiry.

2. Except in the case of an emergency, an association may not enter an abandoned unit until 2 days after notice of the association's intent to enter the unit has been mailed or hand-delivered to the owner at the address of the owner as reflected in the records of the association. The notice may be given by electronic transmission to unit owners who previously consented to receive notice by electronic transmission.

3. Any expense incurred by an association pursuant to this paragraph is chargeable to the unit owner and enforceable as an assessment pursuant to s. 718.116, and the association may use its lien authority provided by s. 718.116 to enforce collection of the expense.

4. The association may petition a court of competent jurisdiction to appoint a receiver and may lease out an abandoned unit for the benefit of the association to offset against the rental income the association's costs and expenses of maintaining, preserving, and protecting the unit and the adjoining common elements, including the costs of the receivership and all unpaid assessments, interest, administrative late fees, costs, and reasonable attorney fees.

(11) INSURANCE.—In order to protect the safety, health, and welfare of the people of the State of Florida and to ensure consistency in the provision of insurance coverage to condominiums and their unit owners, this subsection applies to every residential condominium in the state, regardless of the date of its declaration of condominium. It is the intent of the Legislature to encourage lower or stable insurance premiums for associations described in this subsection.

(j) Any portion of the condominium property that must be insured by the association against property loss pursuant to paragraph (f) which is damaged by an insurable event shall be reconstructed, repaired, or replaced as necessary by the association as a common expense. In the absence of an insurable event, the association or the unit owners shall be responsible for the reconstruction, repair, or replacement, as determined by the provisions of the declaration or bylaws. All property insurance deductibles, uninsured losses, and other damages in excess of property insurance coverage under the property insurance policies maintained by the association are a common expense of the condominium, except that:

1. A unit owner is responsible for the costs of repair or replacement of any portion of the condominium property not paid by insurance proceeds if such damage is caused by intentional conduct, negligence, or failure to comply with the terms of the declaration or the rules of the association by a unit owner, the members of his or her family, unit occupants, tenants, guests, or invitees, without compromise of the subrogation rights of the insurer.

2. The provisions of subparagraph 1. regarding the financial responsibility of a unit owner for the costs of repairing or replacing other portions of the condominium property also apply to the costs of repair or replacement of personal property of other unit owners or the association, as well as other property, whether real or personal, which the unit owners are required to insure.

3. To the extent the cost of repair or reconstruction for which the unit owner is responsible under this paragraph is reimbursed to the association by insurance proceeds, and the association has collected the cost of such repair or reconstruction from the unit owner, the association shall reimburse the unit owner without the waiver of any rights of subrogation.

4. The association is not obligated to pay for reconstruction or repairs of property losses as a common expense if the property losses were known or should have been known to a unit owner and were not reported to the association until after the insurance claim of the association for that property was settled or resolved with finality, or denied because it was untimely filed.

(12) OFFICIAL RECORDS.—

(c) The official records of the association are open to inspection by any association member or the authorized representative of such member at all reasonable times. The right to inspect the records includes the right to make or obtain copies, at the reasonable expense, if any, of the member. The association may adopt reasonable rules regarding the frequency, time, location, notice, and manner of record inspections and copying. The failure of an association to provide the records within 10 working days after receipt of a written request creates a rebuttable presumption that the association willfully failed to comply with this paragraph. A unit owner who is denied access to official records is entitled to the actual damages or minimum damages for the association's willful failure to comply. Minimum damages are $50 per calendar day for up to 10 days, beginning on the 11th working day after receipt of the written request. The failure to permit inspection entitles any person prevailing in an enforcement action to recover reasonable attorney fees from the person in control of the records who, directly or indirectly, knowingly denied access to the records. Any person who knowingly or intentionally defaces or destroys accounting records that are required by this chapter to be maintained during the period for which such records are required to be maintained, or who knowingly or intentionally fails to create or maintain accounting records that are required to be created or maintained, with the intent of causing harm to the association or one or more of its members, is personally subject to a civil penalty pursuant to s. 718.501(1)(d). The association shall maintain an adequate number of copies of the declaration, articles of incorporation, bylaws, and rules, and all amendments to each of the foregoing, as well as the question and answer sheet as described in s. 718.504 and year-end financial information required under this section, on the condominium property to ensure their availability to unit owners and prospective purchasers, and may charge its actual costs for preparing and furnishing these documents to those requesting the documents. An association shall allow a member or his or her authorized representative to use a portable device, including a smartphone, tablet, portable scanner, or any other technology capable of scanning or taking photographs, to make an electronic copy of the official records in lieu of the association's providing the member or his or her authorized representative with a copy of such records. The association may not charge a member or his or her authorized representative for the use of a portable device. Notwithstanding this paragraph, the following records are not accessible to unit owners:

1. Any record protected by the lawyer-client privilege as described in s. 90.502 and any record protected by the work-product privilege, including a record prepared by an association attorney or prepared at the attorney's express direction, which reflects a mental impression, conclusion, litigation strategy, or legal theory of the attorney or the association, and which was prepared exclusively for civil or criminal litigation or for adversarial administrative proceedings, or which was prepared in anticipation of such litigation or proceedings until the conclusion of the litigation or proceedings.

2. Information obtained by an association in connection with the approval of the lease, sale, or other transfer of a unit.

3. Personnel records of association or management company employees, including, but not limited to, disciplinary, payroll, health, and insurance records. For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "personnel records" does not include written employment agreements with an association employee or management company, or budgetary or financial records that indicate the compensation paid to an association employee.

4. Medical records of unit owners.

5. Social security numbers, driver's license numbers, credit card numbers, e-mail addresses, telephone numbers, facsimile numbers, emergency contact information, addresses of a unit owner other than as provided to fulfill the association's notice requirements, and other personal identifying information of any person, excluding the person's name, unit designation, mailing address, property address, and any address, e-mail address, or facsimile number provided to the association to fulfill the association's notice requirements. Notwithstanding the restrictions in this subparagraph, an association may print and distribute to parcel owners a directory containing the name, parcel address, and all telephone numbers ~~number~~ of each parcel owner. However, an owner may exclude his or her telephone numbers ~~number~~ from the directory by so requesting in writing to the association. An owner may consent in writing to the disclosure of other contact information described in this subparagraph. The association is not liable for the inadvertent disclosure of information that is protected under this subparagraph if the information is included in an official record of the association and is voluntarily provided by an owner and not requested by the association.

6. Electronic security measures that are used by the association to safeguard data, including passwords.

7. The software and operating system used by the association which allow the manipulation of data, even if the owner owns a copy of the same software used by the association. The data is part of the official records of the association.

(f) An outgoing board or committee member must relinquish all official records and property of the association in his or her possession or under his or her control to the incoming board within 5 days after the election. The division shall impose a civil penalty as set forth in s. 718.501(1)(d)6. against an outgoing board or committee member who willfully and knowingly fails to relinquish such records and property.

Section 9. Paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (2) of section 718.112, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

718.112 Bylaws.—

(2) REQUIRED PROVISIONS.—The bylaws shall provide for the following and, if they do not do so, shall be deemed to include the following:

(b) Quorum; voting requirements; proxies.—

1. Unless a lower number is provided in the bylaws, the percentage of voting interests required to constitute a quorum at a meeting of the members is a majority of the voting interests. Unless otherwise provided in this chapter or in the declaration, articles of incorporation, or bylaws, and except as provided in subparagraph (d)4., decisions shall be made by a majority of the voting interests represented at a meeting at which a quorum is present.

2. Except as specifically otherwise provided herein, unit owners may not vote by general proxy, but may vote by limited proxies substantially conforming to a limited proxy form adopted by the division. A voting interest or consent right allocated to a unit owned by the association may not be exercised or considered for any purpose, whether for a quorum, an election, or otherwise. Limited proxies and general proxies may be used to establish a quorum. Limited proxies shall be used for votes taken to waive or reduce reserves in accordance with subparagraph (f)2.; for votes taken to waive the financial reporting requirements of s. 718.111(13); for votes taken to amend the declaration pursuant to s. 718.110; for votes taken to amend the articles of incorporation or bylaws pursuant to this section; and for any other matter for which this chapter requires or permits a vote of the unit owners. Except as provided in paragraph (d), a proxy, limited or general, may not be used in the election of board members. General proxies may be used for other matters for which limited proxies are not required, and may be used in voting for nonsubstantive changes to items for which a limited proxy is required and given. Notwithstanding this subparagraph, unit owners may vote in person at unit owner meetings. This subparagraph does not limit the use of general proxies or require the use of limited proxies for any agenda item or election at any meeting of a timeshare condominium association.

3. Any proxy given is effective only for the specific meeting for which originally given and any lawfully adjourned meetings thereof. A proxy is not valid longer than 90 days after the date of the first meeting for which it was given and may be revoked~~. Every proxy is revocable~~ at any time at the pleasure of the unit owner executing it.

4. A member of the board of administration or a committee may submit in writing his or her agreement or disagreement with any action taken at a meeting that the member did not attend. This agreement or disagreement may not be used as a vote for or against the action taken or to create a quorum.

5. A ~~If any of the~~ board or committee member's participation in a meeting via telephone, real-time videoconferencing, or similar real-time electronic or video communication counts toward a quorum, and such member may vote as if physically present ~~members meet by telephone conference, those board or committee members may be counted toward obtaining a quorum and may vote by telephone~~. A ~~telephone~~ speaker must be used so that the conversation of such ~~those~~ members may be heard by the board or committee members attending in person as well as by any unit owners present at a meeting.

(c) Board of administration meetings.—Meetings of the board of administration at which a quorum of the members is present are open to all unit owners. Members of the board of administration may use e-mail as a means of communication but may not cast a vote on an association matter via e-mail. A unit owner may tape record or videotape the meetings. The right to attend such meetings includes the right to speak at such meetings with reference to all designated agenda items. The division shall adopt reasonable rules governing the tape recording and videotaping of the meeting. The association may adopt written reasonable rules governing the frequency, duration, and manner of unit owner statements.

1. Adequate notice of all board meetings, which must specifically identify all agenda items, must be posted conspicuously on the condominium property at least 48 continuous hours before the meeting except in an emergency. If 20 percent of the voting interests petition the board to address an item of business, the board, within 60 days after receipt of the petition, shall place the item on the agenda at its next regular board meeting or at a special meeting called for that purpose ~~of the board, but not later than 60 days after the receipt of the~~

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

~~petition, shall place the item on the agenda~~. An ~~Any~~ item not included on the notice may be taken up on an emergency basis by a vote of at least a majority plus one of the board members. Such emergency action must be noticed and ratified at the next regular board meeting. However, written notice of a ~~any~~ meeting at which a nonemergency special assessment ~~assessments,~~ or an ~~at which~~ amendment to rules regarding unit use~~,~~ will be considered must be mailed, delivered, or electronically transmitted to the unit owners and posted conspicuously on the condominium property at least 14 days before the meeting. Evidence of compliance with this 14-day notice requirement must be made by an affidavit executed by the person providing the notice and filed with the official records of the association. Upon notice to the unit owners, the board shall, by duly adopted rule, designate a specific location on the condominium or association property where all notices of board meetings must ~~are to~~ be posted. If there is no condominium property or association property where notices can be posted, notices shall be mailed, delivered, or electronically transmitted to each unit owner at least 14 days before the meeting ~~to the owner of each unit~~. In lieu of or in addition to the physical posting of the notice on the condominium property, the association may, by reasonable rule, adopt a procedure for conspicuously posting and repeatedly broadcasting the notice and the agenda on a closed-circuit cable television system serving the condominium association. However, if broadcast notice is used in lieu of a notice physically posted on condominium property, the notice and agenda must be broadcast at least four times every broadcast hour of each day that a posted notice is otherwise required under this section.

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

If broadcast notice is provided, the notice and agenda must be broadcast in a manner and for a sufficient continuous length of time so as to allow an average reader to observe the notice and read and comprehend the entire content of the notice and the agenda. Notice of any meeting in which regular or special assessments against unit owners are to be considered ~~for any reason~~ must specifically state that assessments will be considered and provide the nature, estimated cost, and description of the purposes for such assessments.

2. Meetings of a committee to take final action on behalf of the board or make recommendations to the board regarding the association budget are subject to this paragraph. Meetings of a committee that does not take final action on behalf of the board or make recommendations to the board regarding the association budget are subject to this section, unless those meetings are exempted from this section by the bylaws of the association.

3. Notwithstanding any other law, the requirement that board meetings and committee meetings be open to the unit owners does not apply to:

a. Meetings between the board or a committee and the association's attorney, with respect to proposed or pending litigation, if the meeting is held for the purpose of seeking or rendering legal advice; or

b. Board meetings held for the purpose of discussing personnel matters.

Section 10. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section 718.116, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

718.116 Assessments; liability; lien and priority; interest; collection.—

(1)(a) A unit owner, regardless of how his or her title has been acquired, including by purchase at a foreclosure sale or by deed in lieu of foreclosure, is liable for all assessments which come due while he or she is the unit owner. Additionally, a unit owner is jointly and severally liable with the previous owner for all unpaid assessments that came due up to the time of transfer of title, as well as interest, late charges, and reasonable costs and attorney fees incurred by the association incident to the collection process, except that in the case of a foreclosure sale, the interest, late charges, and reasonable attorney fees and costs may not exceed 10 percent of the winning bid amount. This liability is without prejudice to any right the owner may have to recover from the previous owner the amounts paid by the owner. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term "previous owner" does not include an association that acquires title to a delinquent property through foreclosure or by deed in lieu of foreclosure. The present unit owner's liability for unpaid assessments, interest, late charges, and reasonable costs and attorney fees incurred by the association incident to the collection process is limited to those amounts that accrued before the association acquired title to the delinquent property through foreclosure or by deed in lieu of foreclosure. This paragraph does not affect the liability of a first mortgagee or its successor or assignees as provided in paragraph (b).

Section 11. Section 718.50151, Florida Statutes, is repealed.

Section 12. Section 718.707, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

718.707 Time limitation for classification as bulk assignee or bulk buyer.—A person acquiring condominium parcels may not be classified as a bulk assignee or bulk buyer unless the condominium parcels were acquired on or after July 1, 2010, but before July 1, 2016 ~~2015~~. The date of such acquisition shall be determined by the date of recording a deed or other instrument of conveyance for such parcels in the public records of the county in which the condominium is located, or by the date of issuing a certificate of title in a foreclosure proceeding with respect to such condominium parcels.

Section 13. Paragraph (c) of subsection (2) and subsection (4) of section 719.104, Florida Statutes, are amended, and paragraph (e) is added to subsection (2) of that section, to read:

719.104 Cooperatives; access to units; records; financial reports; assessments; purchase of leases.—

(2) OFFICIAL RECORDS.—

willful failure to comply. The minimum damages are $50 per calendar day for up to 10 days, beginning on the 11th working day after receipt of the written request. The failure to permit inspection entitles any person prevailing in an enforcement action to recover reasonable attorney fees from the person in control of the records who, directly or indirectly, knowingly denied access to the records. Any person who knowingly or intentionally defaces or destroys accounting records that are required by this chapter to be maintained during the period for which such records are required to be maintained, or who knowingly or intentionally fails to create or maintain accounting records that are required to be created or maintained, with the intent of causing harm to the association or one or more of its members, is personally subject to a civil penalty pursuant to s. 719.501(1)(d). The association shall maintain an adequate number of copies of the declaration, articles of incorporation, bylaws, and rules, and all amendments to each of the foregoing, as well as the question and answer sheet as described in s. 719.504 and year-end financial information required by the department, on the cooperative property to ensure their availability to unit owners and prospective purchasers, and may charge its actual costs for preparing and furnishing these documents to those requesting the same. An association shall allow a member or his or her authorized representative to use a portable device, including a smartphone, tablet, portable scanner, or any other technology capable of scanning or taking photographs, to make an electronic copy of the official records in lieu of the association providing the member or his or her authorized representative with a copy of such records. The association may not charge a member or his or her authorized representative for the use of a portable device. Notwithstanding this paragraph, the following records shall not be accessible to unit owners:

1. Any record protected by the lawyer-client privilege as described in s. 90.502 and any record protected by the work-product privilege, including any record prepared by an association attorney or prepared at the attorney's express direction which reflects a mental impression, conclusion, litigation strategy, or legal theory of the attorney or the association, and which was prepared exclusively for civil or criminal litigation or for adversarial administrative proceedings, or which was prepared in anticipation of such litigation or proceedings until the conclusion of the litigation or proceedings.

2. Information obtained by an association in connection with the approval of the lease, sale, or other transfer of a unit.

3. Personnel records of association or management company employees, including, but not limited to, disciplinary, payroll, health, and insurance records. For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "personnel records" does not include written employment agreements with an association employee or management company, or budgetary or financial records that indicate the compensation paid to an association employee.

4. Medical records of unit owners.

5. Social security numbers, driver license numbers, credit card numbers, e-mail addresses, telephone numbers, facsimile numbers, emergency contact information, addresses of a unit owner other than as provided to fulfill the association's notice requirements, and other personal identifying information of any person, excluding the person's name, unit designation, mailing address, property address, and any address, e-mail address, or facsimile number provided to the association to fulfill the association's notice requirements. Notwithstanding the restrictions in this subparagraph, an association may print and distribute to parcel owners a directory containing the name, parcel address, and all telephone numbers ~~number~~ of each parcel owner. However, an owner may exclude his or her telephone numbers ~~number~~ from the directory by so requesting in writing to the association. An owner may consent in writing to the disclosure of other contact information described in this subparagraph. The association is not liable for the inadvertent disclosure of information that is protected under this subparagraph if the information is included in an official record of the association and is voluntarily provided by an owner and not requested by the association.

6. Electronic security measures that are used by the association to safeguard data, including passwords.

7. The software and operating system used by the association which allow the manipulation of data, even if the owner owns a copy of the same software used by the association. The data is part of the official records of the association.

(e) An outgoing board or committee member must relinquish all official records and property of the association in his or her possession or under his or her control to the incoming board within 5 days after the election. The division shall impose a civil penalty as set forth in s. 719.501(1)(d) against an outgoing board or committee member who willfully and knowingly fails to relinquish such records and property.

(4) FINANCIAL REPORT.—

(a) Within 90 ~~60~~ days following the end of the fiscal or calendar year or annually on such date as ~~is otherwise~~ provided in the bylaws of the association, the board of administration ~~of the association~~ shall prepare and complete, or contract with a third party to prepare and complete, a financial report covering the preceding fiscal or calendar year. Within 21 days after the financial report is completed by the association or received from the third party, but no later than 120 days after the end of the fiscal year, calendar year, or other date provided in the bylaws, the association shall provide each member with a copy of the annual financial report or a written notice that a copy of the financial report is available upon request at no charge to the member. The division shall adopt rules setting forth uniform accounting principles, standards, and reporting requirements ~~mail or furnish by personal delivery to each unit owner a complete financial report of actual receipts and expenditures for the previous 12 months, or a complete set of financial statements for the preceding fiscal year prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting procedures~~. ~~The report shall show the amounts of receipts by accounts and receipt classifications and shall show the amounts of expenses by accounts and expense classifications including, if applicable, but not limited to, the following:~~

~~1. Costs for security;~~

~~2. Professional and management fees and expenses;~~

~~3. Taxes;~~

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

~~4. Costs for recreation facilities;~~

~~5. Expenses for refuse collection and utility services;~~

~~6. Expenses for lawn care;~~

~~7. Costs for building maintenance and repair;~~

~~8. Insurance costs;~~

~~9. Administrative and salary expenses; and~~

~~10. Reserves for capital expenditures, deferred maintenance, and any other category for which the association maintains a reserve account or accounts.~~

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (c), an association whose total annual revenues meet the criteria of this paragraph shall prepare or cause to be prepared a complete set of financial statements according to the generally accepted accounting principles adopted by the Board of Accountancy. The financial statements shall be as follows:

1. An association with total annual revenues between $150,000 and $299,999 shall prepare a compiled financial statement.

2. An association with total annual revenues between $300,000 and $499,999 shall prepare a reviewed financial statement.

3. An association with total annual revenues of $500,000 or more shall prepare an audited financial statement ~~The division shall adopt rules that may require that the association deliver to the unit owners, in lieu of the financial report required by this section, a complete set of financial statements for the preceding fiscal year~~. ~~The financial statements shall be delivered within 90 days following the end of the previous fiscal year or annually on such other date as provided in the~~

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

~~bylaws. The rules of the division may require that the financial statements be compiled, reviewed, or audited, and the rules shall take into consideration the criteria set forth in s. 719.501(1)(j).~~

4. The requirement to have the financial statement~~s~~ compiled, reviewed, or audited does not apply to an association ~~associations~~ if a majority of the voting interests of the association present at a duly called meeting of the association have voted ~~determined for a fiscal year~~ to waive this requirement for the fiscal year. In an association in which turnover of control by the developer has not occurred, the developer may vote to waive the audit requirement for the first 2 years of ~~the~~ operation of the association, after which time waiver of an applicable audit requirement shall be by a majority of voting interests other than the developer. The meeting shall be held prior to the end of the fiscal year, and the waiver shall be effective for only one fiscal year. An association may not waive the financial reporting requirements of this section for more than 3 consecutive years ~~This subsection does not apply to a cooperative that consists of 50 or fewer units~~.

(c)1. An association with total annual revenues of less than $150,000 shall prepare a report of cash receipts and expenditures.

2. An association in a community of fewer than 50 units, regardless of the association's annual revenues, shall prepare a report of cash receipts and expenditures in lieu of the financial statements required by paragraph (b), unless the declaration or other recorded governing documents provide otherwise.

3. A report of cash receipts and expenditures must disclose the amount of receipts by accounts and receipt classifications and the amount of expenses by accounts and expense classifications, including the following, as applicable: costs for security, professional, and management fees and expenses; taxes; costs for recreation facilities; expenses for refuse collection and utility services; expenses for lawn care; costs for building maintenance and repair; insurance costs; administration and salary expenses; and reserves, if maintained by the association.

(d) If at least 20 percent of the unit owners petition the board for a greater level of financial reporting than that required by this section, the association shall duly notice and hold a membership meeting within 30 days after receipt of the petition to vote on raising the level of reporting for that fiscal year. Upon approval by a majority of the voting interests represented at a meeting at which a quorum of unit owners is present, the association shall prepare an amended budget or shall adopt a special assessment to pay for the financial report regardless of any provision to the contrary in the declaration or other recorded governing documents. In addition, the association shall provide within 90 days after the meeting or the end of the fiscal year, whichever occurs later:

1. Compiled, reviewed, or audited financial statements, if the association is otherwise required to prepare a report of cash receipts and expenditures;

2. Reviewed or audited financial statements, if the association is otherwise required to prepare compiled financial statements; or

3. Audited financial statements, if the association is otherwise required to prepare reviewed financial statements.

(e) If approved by a majority of the voting interests present at a properly called meeting of the association, an association may prepare or cause to be prepared:

1. A report of cash receipts and expenditures in lieu of a compiled, reviewed, or audited financial statement;

2. A report of cash receipts and expenditures or a compiled financial statement in lieu of a reviewed or audited financial statement; or

3. A report of cash receipts and expenditures, a compiled financial statement, or a reviewed financial statement in lieu of an audited financial statement.

Section 14. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section 719.106, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

719.106 Bylaws; cooperative ownership.—

(1) MANDATORY PROVISIONS.—The bylaws or other cooperative documents shall provide for the following, and if they do not, they shall be deemed to include the following:

(a) Administration.—

1. The form of administration of the association shall be described, indicating the titles of the officers and board of administration and specifying the powers, duties, manner of selection and removal, and compensation, if any, of officers and board members. In the absence of such a provision, the board of administration shall be composed of five members, except in the case of cooperatives having five or fewer units, in which case in not-for-profit corporations, the board shall consist of not fewer than three members. In the absence of provisions to the contrary, the board of administration shall have a president, a secretary, and a treasurer, who shall perform the duties of those offices customarily performed by officers of corporations. Unless prohibited in the bylaws, the board of administration may appoint other officers and grant them those duties it deems appropriate. Unless otherwise provided in the bylaws, the officers shall serve without compensation and at the pleasure of the board. Unless otherwise provided in the bylaws, the members of the board shall serve without compensation.

2. A person who has been suspended or removed by the division under this chapter, or who is delinquent in the payment of any monetary obligation due to the association, is not eligible to be a candidate for board membership and may not be listed on the ballot. A director or officer charged by information or indictment with a felony theft or embezzlement offense involving the association's funds or property is suspended from office. The board shall fill the vacancy according to general law until the end of the period of the suspension or the end of the director's term of office, whichever occurs first. However, if the charges are resolved without a finding of guilt or without acceptance of a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, the director or officer shall be reinstated for any remainder of his or her term of office. A member who has such criminal charges pending may not be appointed or elected to a position as a director or officer. A person who has been convicted of any felony in this state or in any United States District Court, or who has been convicted of any offense in another jurisdiction which would be considered a felony if committed in this state, is not eligible for board membership unless such felon's civil rights have been restored for at least 5 years as of the date such person seeks election to the board. The validity of an action by the board is not affected if it is later determined that a board member is ineligible for board membership due to having been convicted of a felony.

3.~~2.~~ When a unit owner files a written inquiry by certified mail with the board of administration, the board shall respond in writing to the unit owner within 30 days of receipt of the inquiry. The board's response shall either give a substantive response to the inquirer, notify the inquirer that a legal opinion has been requested, or notify the inquirer that advice has been requested from the division. If the board requests advice from the division, the board shall, within 10 days of its receipt of the advice, provide in writing a substantive response to the inquirer. If a legal opinion is requested, the board shall, within 60 days after the receipt of the inquiry, provide in writing a substantive response to the inquirer. The failure to provide a substantive response to the inquirer as provided herein precludes the board from recovering attorney's fees and costs in any subsequent litigation, administrative proceeding, or arbitration arising out of the inquiry. The association may, through its board of administration, adopt reasonable rules and regulations regarding the frequency and manner of responding to the unit owners' inquiries, one of which may be that the association is obligated to respond to only one written inquiry per unit in any given 30-day period. In such case, any additional inquiry or inquiries must be responded to in the subsequent 30-day period, or periods, as applicable.

Section 15. Section 719.128, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

719.128 Association emergency powers.—

(1) To the extent allowed by law, unless specifically prohibited by the cooperative documents, and consistent with s. 617.0830, the board of administration, in response to damage caused by an event for which a state of emergency is declared pursuant to s. 252.36 in the area encompassed by the cooperative, may exercise the following powers:

(a) Conduct board or membership meetings after notice of the meetings and board decisions is provided in as practicable a manner as possible, including via publication, radio, United States mail, the Internet, public service announcements, conspicuous posting on the cooperative property, or any other means the board deems appropriate under the circumstances.

(b) Cancel and reschedule an association meeting.

(c) Designate assistant officers who are not directors. If the executive officer is incapacitated or unavailable, the assistant officer has the same authority during the state of emergency as the executive officer he or she assists.

(d) Relocate the association's principal office or designate an alternative principal office.

(e) Enter into agreements with counties and municipalities to assist counties and municipalities with debris removal.

(f) Implement a disaster plan before or immediately following the event for which a state of emergency is declared, which may include turning on or shutting off elevators; electricity; water, sewer, or security systems; or air conditioners for association buildings.

(g) Based upon the advice of emergency management officials or upon the advice of licensed professionals retained by the board of administration, determine any portion of the cooperative property unavailable for entry or occupancy by unit owners or their family members, tenants, guests, agents, or invitees to protect their health, safety, or welfare.

(h) Based upon the advice of emergency management officials or upon the advice of licensed professionals retained by the board of administration, determine whether the cooperative property can be safely inhabited or occupied. However, such determination is not conclusive as to any determination of habitability pursuant to the declaration.

(i) Require the evacuation of the cooperative property in the event of a mandatory evacuation order in the area where the cooperative is located. If a unit owner or other occupant of a cooperative fails to evacuate the cooperative property for which the board has required evacuation, the association is immune from liability for injury to persons or property arising from such failure.

(j) Mitigate further damage, including taking action to contract for the removal of debris and to prevent or mitigate the spread of fungus, including mold or mildew, by removing and disposing of wet drywall, insulation, carpet, cabinetry, or other fixtures on or within the cooperative property, regardless of whether the unit owner is obligated by the declaration or law to insure or replace those fixtures and to remove personal property from a unit.

(k) Contract, on behalf of a unit owner, for items or services for which the owner is otherwise individually responsible, but which are necessary to prevent further damage to the cooperative property. In such event, the unit owner on whose behalf the board has contracted is responsible for reimbursing the association for the actual costs of the items or services, and the association may use its lien authority provided by s. 719.108 to enforce collection of the charges. Such items or services may include the drying of the unit, the boarding of broken windows or doors, and the replacement of a damaged air conditioner or air handler to provide climate control in the unit or other portions of the property.

(l) Notwithstanding a provision to the contrary, and regardless of whether such authority does not specifically appear in the cooperative documents, levy special assessments without a vote of the owners.

(m) Without unit owners' approval, borrow money and pledge association assets as collateral to fund emergency repairs and carry out the duties of the association if operating funds are insufficient. This paragraph does not limit the general authority of the association to borrow money, subject to such restrictions contained in the cooperative documents.

(2) The authority granted under subsection (1) is limited to that time reasonably necessary to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the association and the unit owners and their family members, tenants, guests, agents, or invitees, and to mitigate further damage and make emergency repairs.

Section 16. Paragraph (c) of subsection (5) of section 720.303, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

720.303 Association powers and duties; meetings of board; official records; budgets; financial reporting; association funds; recalls.—

(5) INSPECTION AND COPYING OF RECORDS.—The official records shall be maintained within the state for at least 7 years and shall be made available to a parcel owner for inspection or photocopying within 45 miles of the community or within the county in which the association is located within 10 business days after receipt by the board or its designee of a written request. This subsection may be complied with by having a copy of the official records available for inspection or copying in the community or, at the option of the association, by making the records available to a parcel owner electronically via the Internet or by allowing the records to be viewed in electronic format on a computer screen and printed upon request. If the association has a photocopy machine available where the records are maintained, it must provide parcel owners with copies on request during the inspection if the entire request is limited to no more than 25 pages. An association shall allow a member or his or her authorized representative to use a portable device, including a smartphone, tablet, portable scanner, or any other technology capable of scanning or taking photographs, to make an electronic copy of the official records in lieu of the association's providing the member or his or her authorized representative with a copy of such records. The association may not charge a fee to a member or his or her authorized representative for the use of a portable device.

(c) The association may adopt reasonable written rules governing the frequency, time, location, notice, records to be inspected, and manner of inspections, but may not require a parcel owner to demonstrate any proper purpose for the inspection, state any reason for the inspection, or limit a parcel owner's right to inspect records to less than one 8-hour business day per month. The association may impose fees to cover the costs of providing copies of the official records, including the costs of copying and the costs required for personnel to retrieve and copy the records if the time spent retrieving and copying the records exceeds one-half hour and if the personnel costs do not exceed $20 per hour. Personnel costs may not be charged for records requests that result in the copying of 25 or fewer pages. The association may charge up to 25 cents per page for copies made on the association's photocopier. If the association does not have a photocopy machine available where the records are kept, or if the records requested to be copied exceed 25 pages in length, the association may have copies made by an outside duplicating service and may charge the actual cost of copying, as supported by the vendor invoice. The association shall maintain an adequate number of copies of the recorded governing documents, to ensure their availability to members and prospective members. Notwithstanding this paragraph, the following records are not accessible to members or parcel owners:

1. Any record protected by the lawyer-client privilege as described in s. 90.502 and any record protected by the work-product privilege, including, but not limited to, a record prepared by an association attorney or prepared at the attorney's express direction which reflects a mental impression, conclusion, litigation strategy, or legal theory of the attorney or the association and which was prepared exclusively for civil or criminal litigation or for adversarial administrative proceedings or which was prepared in anticipation of such litigation or proceedings until the conclusion of the litigation or proceedings.

2. Information obtained by an association in connection with the approval of the lease, sale, or other transfer of a parcel.

3. Personnel records of association or management company employees, including, but not limited to, disciplinary, payroll, health, and insurance records. For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "personnel records" does not include written employment agreements with an association or management company employee or budgetary or financial records that indicate the compensation paid to an association or management company employee.

4. Medical records of parcel owners or community residents.

Within 30 days after recording an amendment to the governing documents, the association shall provide copies of the amendment to the members. Section 18. Section 720.316, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

720.316 Association emergency powers.—

(1) To the extent allowed by law, unless specifically prohibited by the declaration or other recorded governing documents, and consistent with s. 617.0830, the board of directors, in response to damage caused by an event for which a state of emergency is declared pursuant to s. 252.36 in the area encompassed by the association, may exercise the following powers:

(a) Conduct board or membership meetings after notice of the meetings and board decisions is provided in as practicable a manner as possible, including via publication, radio, United States mail, the Internet, public service announcements, conspicuous posting on the association property, or any other means the board deems appropriate under the circumstances.

(b) Cancel and reschedule an association meeting.

(c) Designate assistant officers who are not directors. If the executive officer is incapacitated or unavailable, the assistant officer has the same authority during the state of emergency as the executive officer he or she assists.

(d) Relocate the association's principal office or designate an alternative principal office.

(e) Enter into agreements with counties and municipalities to assist counties and municipalities with debris removal.

(f) Implement a disaster plan before or immediately following the event for which a state of emergency is declared, which may include, but is not limited to, turning on or shutting off elevators; electricity; water, sewer, or security systems; or air conditioners for association buildings.

(g) Based upon the advice of emergency management officials or upon the advice of licensed professionals retained by the board, determine any portion of the association property unavailable for entry or occupancy by owners or their family members, tenants, guests, agents, or invitees to protect their health, safety, or welfare.

(h) Based upon the advice of emergency management officials or upon the advice of licensed professionals retained by the board, determine whether the association property can be safely inhabited or occupied. However, such determination is not conclusive as to any determination of habitability pursuant to the declaration.

(i) Mitigate further damage, including taking action to contract for the removal of debris and to prevent or mitigate the spread of fungus, including mold or mildew, by removing and disposing of wet drywall, insulation, carpet, cabinetry, or other fixtures on or within the association property.

(j) Notwithstanding a provision to the contrary, and regardless of whether such authority does not specifically appear in the declaration or other recorded governing documents, levy special assessments without a vote of the owners.

(k) Without owners' approval, borrow money and pledge association assets as collateral to fund emergency repairs and carry out the duties of the association if operating funds are insufficient. This paragraph does not limit the general authority of the association to borrow money, subject to such restrictions contained in the declaration or other recorded governing documents.

(2) The authority granted under subsection (1) is limited to that time reasonably necessary to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the association and the parcel owners and their family members, tenants, guests, agents, or invitees, and to mitigate further damage and make emergency repairs.

Section 19. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 810 relates to pugilistic exhibitions, such as boxing, kickboxing, and the martial arts, which are regulated by the Florida State Boxing Commission (commission) within the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (department). The significant policy changes include:

- Eliminating requirements that a promoter provide the commission with gross price charged for broadcast rights to an event if the promoter pays the commission the maximum tax of $40,000 on the broadcast rights.
- Exempting from the five percent gross receipts tax the face value of tickets to an event which are given away free of charge and which generally may not exceed five percent of the tickets to the event.
- Authorizing the commission to exempt complimentary tickets from the gross receipts tax exceeding five percent of the tickets to an event if those tickets are given to military servicemembers, veterans, or nonprofit organizations.
- Exempting the proceeds from the sale of souvenirs and programs from a five percent gross receipts tax.
- Clarifying the commission has exclusive jurisdiction over amateur mixed martial arts matches held in the state.
- Eliminating the requirement of licensure for concessionaires, booking agents, and foreign co-promoters.

- Requiring an event promoter to maintain records relating to its payments of the gross receipts tax and authorizing the commission to audit those records.
- Expressly providing that disciplinary action by the commission must comply with the Administrative Procedure Act.

The bill appropriates $111,000 in recurring funds from the General Revenue Fund to the department for the implementation of this Act.

II. Present Situation:

Florida State Boxing Commission

Chapter 548, F.S., provides for the regulation of professional and amateur boxing, kickboxing, and mixed martial arts by the Florida State Boxing Commission (commission) within the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (department). Section 548.006(3), F.S., provides the commission with exclusive jurisdiction over every professional boxing match and professional mixed martial arts and kickboxing matches. Professional matches held Florida must meet the requirements for holding the match included in ch. 548, F.S., and the rules adopted by the commission.

The commission's jurisdiction over amateur matches is limited to the approval, disapproval, suspension of approval, and revocation of approval, of all amateur sanctioning organizations for boxing and kickboxing matches held in the state.[1] Amateur sanctioning organizations are business entities organized for sanctioning and supervising matches involving amateurs.[2] This jurisdiction does not extend to amateur sanctioning organizations for mixed martial arts.

According to the department, the commission's primary duty is to ensure all matches comply with the laws and rules and the matches are competitive and physically safe for the participants. For the most recent periods for which data is available, the commission licensed 1,224 professionals in Fiscal Year 2011-2012 and processed 51 live event permits.[3] According to the department, it licensed 1,056 professionals and processed 39 live permits in Fiscal Year 2012-2013.

In addition to its processing of applications for licensure and the approval or denial of live event permits, the commission coordinates live event schedules and evaluates proposed fight cards. It also evaluates the assignment of officials (referees, judges, physicians) and event staff (event coordinator, chief inspector, inspectors, and timekeeper).

A department representative or commission representative is assigned to attend each official weigh-in and live event. This person attends the official weigh-in during which the application is processed, license fees are collected, the results of participant medical examinations are verified, pre-fight physicals are conducted by physicians, the promoter/participant contracts are collected, participants' weights are recorded, officials' (referee, judges, and physicians) pay from the promoter is collected, and the required accidental death and health insurance for each of the participants is verified. The department or commission representative is also accompanied to the event by the department's OPS event staff; i.e., the event coordinator, timekeeper, and inspector. The OPS event staff and the representative from the department or commission also inspect the ring for safety standards, verify that emergency medical personnel and an ambulance are on-site, assign inspectors to each of the fighters, conduct match timekeeping, verify assigned officials are present, distribute officials' pay following the event, and conduct participant drug tests, if necessary.

Definitions

Section 548.002(3), F.S., defines the term "boxing" to mean "to compete with the fists."

> …any person or business entity not licensed as a promoter which receives revenues or other compensation from the sale of tickets or from the sale of souvenirs, programs, broadcast rights, or any other concessions in conjunction with the promotion of a match.

Section 548.002(6), F.S., defines the term "contest" to mean "a boxing, kickboxing, or mixed martial arts engagement in which persons participating strive earnestly to win using, but not necessarily being limited to, strikes and blows to the head."

Section 548.002(9), F.S., defines the term "exhibition" to mean:

> …a boxing, kickboxing, or mixed martial arts engagement in which persons participating show or display their skill without necessarily striving to win using, but not necessarily being limited to, strikes and blows to the head.

Section 548.002(10), F.S., defines the term "foreign copromoter" to mean "a promotor who has no place of business within this state."

Section 548.006(19), F.S., defines the term "professional" to mean:

> …a person who has received or competed for any purse or other article of a value greater than $50, either for the expenses of training or for participating in any match.

Section 548.002(20), F.S., defines the term "promoter" to mean:

> …any person, and includes any officer, director, employee, or stockholder of a corporate promoter, who produces, arranges, or stages any match involving a professional.

Section 548.002(21), F.S., defines the term "purse" to mean:

> …the financial guarantee or other remuneration for which a professional is participating in a match and includes the professional's share of any payment received for radio broadcasting, television, and motion picture rights.

Executive Director

Section 548.004(1), F.S., requires the department, with the approval of the commission, to employ an executive director. The duties and responsibilities of the executive director include:

- Keeping a record of all proceedings of the commission;
- Preserving all books, papers, and documents pertaining to the business of the commission;
- Preparing any notices and papers required;
- Appointing judges, referees, and other officials as delegated by the commission and pursuant to ch. 548, F.S., and the rules of the commission; and
- Performing any other duties as the department or commission directs.

Recording of Commission Proceedings

Section 548.004(2), F.S., requires the commission to electronically record all of its scheduled proceedings. Section 455.203(7), F.S., also requires the department to electronically record all of its proceedings.

Licenses

Several professions are licensed by the commission. A license is required to be the promoter of a match.[4] Before acting in any capacity in a match, a license is required to be a participant, manager, trainer, second, timekeeper, referee, judge, announcer, physician, matchmaker, concessionaire, or booking agent or representative of a booking agent.[5] Prior to working as the ringside physician, a physician must be licensed under ch. 458, F.S., or ch. 459, F.S., must maintain an unencumbered license in good standing, and must demonstrate satisfactory medical training or experience in boxing, or a combination of both, to the executive director. The commission also licenses the concessionaires.[6]

[5] Section 548.017, F.S.

Exceptions

The commission's jurisdiction does not extend to:

- A match conducted or sponsored by a bona fide non-profit school or education program whose primary purpose is instruction in martial arts, boxing, or kickboxing if the match is held in conjunction with the instruction, and is limited to amateur participants who are students of the school or instructional program;
- A match conducted or sponsored by any company or detachment of the Florida National Guard, if the match is limited to participants who are members of the Florida National Guard; or
- A match conducted or sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Police, if the match is limited to amateur participants and is held in conjunction with a charitable event.[7]

Revocation and Suspension of a License

Section 548.046(3)(c), F.S., provides that the failure or refusal to provide a urine sample, immediately upon request, results in the revocation of the participant's license.

Withholding of Purses

Section 548.054, F.S., provides the procedure for the withholding of prize purses. A member of the commission, a commission representative, or the referee may order a promoter to surrender any purse or other funds payable to a participant, or to withhold the share of any manager, if it appears that:

- The participant is not competing honestly, or is intentionally not competing to the best of his or her ability and skill in a match represented to be a contest; or
- The participant, his or her manager, or any of the participant's seconds has violated ch. 548, F.S.[8]

In the event a purse is withheld, the purse must be delivered to the commission by the promoter.[9] Within ten days after the match, the person from whom the purse was withheld may apply, in writing, to the commission for a hearing.[10] Upon receipt of the application, the commission must set the date for a hearing. Within ten days after the hearing or after ten days following the match, if no application for a hearing is filed, the commission is required to meet and determine the disposition of the withheld purse.[11] If the commission finds the charges sufficient, it may decide that all or a part of the funds be forfeited.[12] Conversely, if the commission does not find the charges sufficient, it must distribute the withheld funds immediately.[13]

Reporting and Tax Requirement

Within 72 hours after a match, the promoter of that match must file a written report with the commission.[14] The report must include information about the number of tickets sold, the amount of gross receipts, and any other facts that the commission requires.[15] Chapter 548, F.S., does not require the promoter to retain a copy of the written report.

The term "gross receipts" includes:

- The gross price charged for the sale or lease of broadcasting, television, and motion picture rights without any deductions for commissions, brokerage fees, distribution fees, advertising or other expenses or charges;
- The portion of the receipts from the sale of souvenirs, programs, and other concessions received by the promoter;
- The face value of all tickets sold and complimentary tickets issued, provided, or given; and
- The face value of any seat or seating issued, provided, or given in exchange for advertising sponsorships, or anything of value to the promotion of an event.[16]

According to the department, the current definition of "gross receipts" has led to some confusion in the industry because licensees are not sure whether to include state and federal taxes within the face value of a ticket.

Promoters include persons who have rights to telecast a match or matches held in this state under the supervision of the Florida State Boxing Commission. Such persons must be licensed as a promoter, and must, within 72 hours after the sale, transfer, or extension of such rights in whole or in part, file with the commission a written report that includes the number of tickets sold, the amount of gross receipts, and any other facts the commission may require.[17]

Concessionaire must also file with the commission, within 72 hours after the match, a written report that includes the number of tickets sold, the amount of gross receipts, and any other facts the commission may require.[18]

Any written report required to be filed with the commission must be postmarked within 72 hours after the conclusion of the match; an additional five days is allowed for mailing.[19] According to the department, the report is required to enable the commission to verify the accuracy of the post-event tax payment for both tickets sold and broadcasting/television rights.

Section 548.015, F.S., requires that a concessionaire must file a surety bond, cash deposit, or other security in an amount determined by the commission. The security is required before licensure, license renewal, or before a match.

These written reports must be accompanied with a tax payment in the amount of five percent of the total gross receipts exclusive of any federal taxes. The tax payment for the sale or lease of broadcasting, television, and motion picture rights cannot exceed $40,000 for any single event.[20]

Commission Hearings

Notwithstanding, the provisions of ch. 120, F.S., the Administrative Procedures Act, any member of the commission may conduct a hearing.[21] Before any adjudication is rendered, a majority of the commission must examine the record and approve the adjudication and order.

Emergency Suspensions

Section 120.60(6), F.S., permits agencies to order the emergency suspension, restriction, or limitation of a license upon a finding of immediate serious danger to the public health, safety, or welfare. An agency may take such action by any procedure that is fair under the circumstances if:

> (a) The procedure provides at least the same procedural protection as is given by other statutes, the State Constitution, or the United States Constitution;
> (b) The agency takes only that action necessary to protect the public interest under the emergency procedure; and
> (c) The agency states in writing at the time of, or prior to, its action the specific facts and reasons for finding an immediate danger to the public health, safety, or welfare and its reasons for concluding that the procedure used is fair under the circumstances. The agency's findings of immediate danger, necessity, and procedural fairness are judicially reviewable. Summary suspension, restriction, or limitation may be ordered, but a suspension or revocation proceeding pursuant to ss. 120.569 and 120.57 shall also be promptly instituted and acted upon.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This bill revises the laws relating to pugilistic exhibitions, such as boxing, kickboxing, and the martial arts, administered by the commission.

Section 1 amends s. 548.002, F.S., to provide definitions or redefine terms to clarify legislative intent, ensure the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (department) is able to enforce ch 548, F.S., and to conform the chapter to current industry standards. This section:

- Amends the definition of "boxing" to mean the unarmed combat sport of fighting by striking with fists.

[20] Section 548.06(5), F.S.
[21] Section 548.073, F.S.

- Repeals the definition of "concessionaire."
- Amends the definition of "contest" and "exhibition" to include the participants' use of other full-contact maneuvers.
- Creates a definition of the term "face value" to mean the dollar value which is equal to what the customer is required to pay, or would be required to pay, if it is a complimentary ticket. Taxes are not included in the face value if the ticket specifies the amount of admission charges attributable to state or federal taxes.
- Creates a definition of the term "full contact" to mean the use of strikes and blows during a match in which the strikes and blows are intended to break the plane of the participant's body, are delivered to the head, face, neck, or body of the receiving participant's body, or cause the receiving participant to move in response to the strikes and blows.
- Repeals the definition of "foreign copromoter."
- Amends the definition of "judge" to provide that the judge is licensed by the Florida State Boxing Commission (commission) and scores a match using a designated scoring system.
- Amends the definition of "kickboxing" to include the act, activity, or sport of fighting with the use of fists, hands, feet, legs or any combination thereof in a roped ring. It provides that the term does not include any form of ground fighting techniques.[22]
- Amends the definition of "mixed martial arts" to mean the act, activity, or sport of unarmed combat involving the use of a combination of techniques, including, but not limited to, wrestling, grappling, kicking, and striking, and other techniques from different disciplines of the martial arts. The term may include, but is not limited to, boxing, kickboxing, Muay Thai,[23] jujitsu, and wrestling.
- Amends the definition of "physician" to mean a person licensed to practice medicine under ch. 458, F.S, or ch. 459, F.S., whose license is unencumbered and in good standing.
- Amends the definition of "promoter" to include "any entity" in addition to "any person" in current law. It also amends the definition to include the trustee or partner of a corporate partner or any promoter partnership. Current law does not reference promoter partnerships.
- Amends the definition of "purse" to include the professional's share of any payment from pay-per-view or closed circuit. Current law is limited to payment from radio broadcasts and television.
- Amends the definition of "second" or cornerman" to mean a person who assists a participant in preparing for a match and between rounds. Current law limits the definition to a person who assists the match participant between rounds.
- Creates a definition of "unarmed combat" in s. 548.002(24), F.S., to mean a form of competition in which a strike or blow is struck which may reasonable be expected to inflict injury.

Section 2 amends s. 548.004(1), F.S., modify the duties and responsibilities to be performed by the executive director of the commission, as set forth by the commission. Pursuant to the bill, the executive director must:

- Conduct the functions of the commission office.

- Perform other duties as the department or commission deems necessary to fulfill the duties of the position.

The bill authorizes the executive director to issue subpoenas and administer oaths to witnesses, permitholders, record custodians, and licensees.

In addition, the bill repeals the requirement that the commission require electronic recording of all its scheduled proceedings. Section 455.203(7), F.S., also requires all proceedings conducted by the department be electronically recorded.

Section 3 amends s. 548.006(3), F.S., to clarify the commission's existing jurisdiction over professional and amateur boxing, kickboxing, and mixed martial arts matches as well as amateur mixed martial arts matches held in the state.

As with boxing and kickboxing, these changes clarify that the commission has oversight over the approval, disapproval, suspension of approval, and revocation of approval of all amateur sanctioning organizations for mixed martial arts matches held in Florida. Nothing in the bill affects the commission's exclusive jurisdiction over amateur sanctioning organizations for amateur boxing and kickboxing matches held within the state.

Section 4 amends s. 548.007, F.S., clarify existing exemptions to ch. 548, F.S., as well as create new exemptions from ch. 548, F.S. The exemptions include:

- A match that does not allow full contact, if the match is limited to amateurs.
- A match conducted or sponsored by a company or detachment of the Florida National Guard or the United States Armed Forces, if the match is limited to amateurs who are members of a company or detachment of the Florida National Guard or United States Armed Forces.
- A match conducted or sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Police, if the match is limited to amateurs and is held in conjunction with a charitable event.
- A match conducted by or between a public postsecondary education institution or public K-12 school as defined in s. 1000.04, F.S., if the match is limited to amateurs who are members of a school-sponsored club or team.
- A match conducted by the International Olympic Committee, the International Paralympic Committee, the Special Olympics, or the Junior Olympics, if the match is limited to amateurs who are competing in or attempting to qualify for the Olympics, Paralympics, Special Olympics, or Junior Olympics.
- A professional or amateur "martial arts activity." As used in this exemption, the term "martial arts" means one of the traditional forms of self-defense or unarmed combat involving the use of physical skill and coordination, including, but not limited to, karate, aikido, judo, and kung fu; however the term does not include mixed martial arts.

The bill eliminates the existing exemption found in s. 548.007(1), F.S., for a bona fide non-profit school or education program whose primary purpose is instruction in the martial arts, boxing, or kickboxing, if the match held, in conjunction with the instruction, is limited to amateur participants who are students of the school or instructional program. Instead, that exemption is replaced by s. 548.007(6), F.S., which encompasses a larger group of businesses and individuals.

Section 5 repeals s. 548.013, F.S., to eliminate the requirement that foreign copromoters be licensed by the commission. Foreign copromoters are promoters with their licenses located outside of the state of Florida. The commission issues licenses to promoters, regardless of the location of their licensure, and therefore has no licensed foreign copromoters. The also deletes the definition for the term "foreign copromoter" in s. 548.002(10), F.S.

Section 6 amends s. 548.014, F.S., to delete references to the term "foreign copromoters."

Section 7 repeals s. 548.015, F.S., which authorizes the commission to require that concessionaires file a surety bond as a condition for a license.

Section 8 amends s. 548.017, F.S., to delete the requirement that concessionaires must be licensed by the commission. Additionally, the bill adds promoters to the list of individuals or entities who directly or indirectly act in specific capacities in connection with any match involving a participant and who are required to obtain a license under s. 548.017, F.S.

Section 9 amends s. 548.046(3)(c), F.S., to provide that a participant's failure or refusal to provide a urine sample immediately upon request constitutes an immediate, serious danger to the health, safety, and welfare of the person's opponent. This results in the immediate suspension of the participant's license, rather than a revocation of that license under current law.

The bill also deletes provisions that provide that the loser of a match who subsequently does not provide a urine sample forfeits his or her share of the purse. The bill provides that the decision shall be changed to a no decision result, which under current law requires the distribution of the purse as though the participant who failed to provide a urine sample had lost the match.

The bill creates s. 548.046(3)(d), F.S., to provide that, if a participant tests positive for any substance prohibited by commission rule,[24] the participant shall be considered an immediate, serious danger to the health, safety, and welfare of the public and his or her opponent. The participants shall be immediate suspended under s. 120.60(6), F.S., and subject to additional disciplinary action.

Section 10 amends s. 548.052, F.S., to delete references to the term "foreign copromoter."

The bill also amends this section to permit the commission or the executive director, or his or her designee, to give prior written consent to a promoter to pay, lend, or give a participant an advance against her or his purse before a contest.

Section 11 amends s. 548.054(2), F.S., to provide that, within 10 days after the match, a person who has had a purse withheld is entitled to submit a petition for a hearing to the commission pursuant to s. 120.569, F.S. Additionally, the bill requires the commission to hold the hearing pursuant to ss. 120.569 and 120.57, F.S.

[24] See rule 61K1-1.0043, F.A.C.

Section 12 amends s. 548.06(1)(a), F.S., to provide that promoters must report and pay the five percent tax on gross receipts within 72 hours after a match except as provided in s. 548.06(4), F.S. The bill also amends s. 548.06, F.S., to use the term "gross receipts" instead of "total gross receipts."

The bill deletes the requirement in s. 548.06(1)(b), F.S., that the promoter report and pay the five percent tax on gross receipts based on the portion of the receipts from the sale of souvenirs, programs, and other concessions received by the promoter.

The bill amends s. 548.06(1)(b), F.S., to provide that the amount of gross receipts reported to the commission must include the face value of all tickets sold and complimentary tickets issued, provided, or given above five percent of the seats in the house designated for use in the event and not authorized by the commission pursuant to subsection (2).

The bill creates s. 548.06(2), F.S., to provide for the authorization of complimentary tickets by the commission. It permits promoters to issue, provide, or give, complimentary tickets for up to five percent of the seats in the house designated for use in the event, equally distributed between or among the price categories for which they were issued, without the commission's written authorization. Promoters do not have to include the face value of these complimentary tickets when calculating the gross receipts tax in s. 548.06(4), F.S. The bill permits a promoter to also not include the face value of complimentary tickets for more than five percent of the seats in the house when calculating the gross receipts tax if the promoter obtains written authorization from the commission or the executive director, or his or her designee.

The bill creates s. 548.06(2)(a), F.S., to provide that the commission may not consider the complimentary tickets that it authorizes as part of the gross receipts from admission fees.

The bill creates s. 548.06(2)(b), F.S., to permit a promoter to give complimentary tickets for more than five percent of the seats in the house without written authorization. However, the promoter must include the face value of such tickets when calculating the gross receipts tax.

The bill creates s. 548.06(2)(c), F.S., to provide the classes of persons to whom the commission may authorize promoters to give complimentary tickets. If authorized by the commission, complimentary tickets provided to reserve or active members of the United States Armed Forces and the National Guard, military veterans, and not for profit organizations would not be included in the calculation of the gross receipts tax.

The bill creates s. 548.06(2)(d), F.S., to provide the process for promoters to follow to obtain the written authorization from the commission for giving "more than 5 percent complimentary tickets". A promoter must submit an application, on a form adopted by the commission, no later than two business days before the date of the professional event. The bill requires that the application must include, at a minimum, the date, time, and location of the event, the number of complimentary tickets being requested, the percentage of total tickets issued for the seats in the house designated for use in the event being requested as complimentary tickets, and which individuals or entities will receive the complimentary tickets.

Section 548.06(2)(d)2., F.S., requires that the promoter maintain the documentation that evidences that the tickets were given to individuals or entities that fall into the categories listed in s. 548.06(2)(c), F.S., and provides that the commission may audit these records, as provided in s. 548.06(7), F.S.

Section 548.06(2)(e), F.S., requires that the commission, executive director, or his or her designee, must deny or approve the application. The commission, executive director, or his or her designee may set limitations on the approval and may approve all or a portion of the requested percentage above five percent. The bill's only criteria for the commission's authorization of complimentary tickets are the limitation that complimentary tickets may not exceed five percent of the seats in the house and the requirement that the complimentary tickets are specified in ss. 548.06(2)(a)-(c), F.S. The bill does not provide a clear delegation of authority, beyond the requirements of ss. 548.06(2)(a)-(c), F.S., for setting limits on complimentary tickets or determining which portion of the requested percentage above five percent it may authorize.

The bill requires that the commission, executive director, or his or her designee must provide the decision in writing to the promoter at least one business day before the start of the event, with an explanation for the denial, approval, or any limitation on the approval. A promoter remains responsible for complying with other reporting and taxation requirements as set forth in ch. 548, F.S.

The bill deletes the provision in s. 548.06(2), F.S., that classifies promoters as the persons who have rights to telecast a match or matches held in this state, that requires that they must be licensed as a promoter, and requires that they file with the commission a written report of the number of tickets sold, the amount of gross receipts within 72 hours after the sale, transfer, or extension of such rights in whole or in part.

The bill deletes the provision in s. 548.06(3), F.S., that requires concessionaires to file with the commission, within 72 hours after the match, a written report that includes the number of tickets sold, the amount of gross receipts, and any other facts the commission may require.

The bill amends s. 548.06(4), F.S., to include pay-per-view rights in place of motion picture rights. It also limits the provision to matches occurring within the state. The bill provides that, if a promoter remits the maximum tax amount of $40,000 for the sale or lease of broadcasting, television, or pay-per-view rights of any single event pursuant to this subsection, the promoter is only required to indicate that the amount of $40,000 has been remitted for such taxes on a form provided by the commission. The bill provides that the promoter remains responsible for complying with other reporting and taxation requirements related to other gross receipts as set forth in this chapter.

The bill creates s. 548.06(6), F.S., to require the promoter to keep a copy of certain records for one year, including records necessary to justify and support the reports submitted to the commission, copies of independently prepared ticket manifests, and records to verify compliance with the complimentary tickets requirements. It is not clear if one year is sufficient for the commission to be able to conduct audits of the records. Current law does not require promoters to retain records relating to the reporting of gross receipts under s. 548.06, F.S.

The bill creates s. 548.06(7), F.S., to provide that compliance with the reporting requirements in s. 548.06, F.S., is subject to verification by department or commission audit. The commission is authorized to audit a promoter's books and records relating to the promoter's operations upon reasonable notice.

The bill creates s. 548.06(8), F.S., to direct the commission to adopt rules establishing a procedure for auditing a promoter's records, for resolving any inconsistencies revealed in the audit, and imposing a late fee if taxes are owed.[25]

Section 13 amends s. 548.07, F.S., to provide an emergency license suspension procedure. The bill authorizes the commission, any commissioner, the executive director or his or her designee, or any commission designee to issue an emergency suspension of a licensee's license when the licensee poses an immediate and serious danger to the health, safety, and welfare of the public, a licensee, or a participant.

In addition, the bill requires the general counsel of the department to review the grounds for each emergency suspension order and to file an administrative complaint against the licensee within 21 days after issuance of an emergency suspension order. The bill repeals the current suspension procedure, including the requirement that the commission must hold a hearing within ten days after the date on which the license or permit is suspended.

The disciplinary process would proceed under ch. 120, F.S., after the administrative complaint is served on the licensee as provided in s. 455.275, F.S.[26]

Section 14 amends s. 548.073, F.S., to provide the hearing held under ch. 548, F.S., must be held in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (ch. 120, F.S.). The bill repeals the provision authorizing any member of the commission to hold a hearing and the requirement that, before any adjudication is rendered, a majority of the members of the commission must examine the record and approve the adjudication and order.

Section 15 provides an appropriation of $111,000 in recurring funds from the General Revenue Fund to the department for the implementation of the act during the 2014-2015 fiscal year.

Section 16 provides bill takes effect on July 1, 2014.

[25] Section 548.075(1), F.S., authorizes the commission to impose a fine of not more than $5,000 for any violation of ch. 548, F.S., in lieu of or in addition to any other punishment provided for such violation.

[26] Section 455.275, F.S., provides the procedure for service of a compliant on a licensee of the department. For administrative complaints, s. 455.275(3), F.S., the department is required to serve the licensee by regular mail to the licensee's last known address of record, by certified mail to the last known address of record, and, if possible, by e-mail. If the department is unable to serve the license by these methods, the department must call the last known telephone number of record and cause a short, plain notice to the licensee to be posted on the front page of the department's website and must also send notice via e-mail to all newspapers of general circulation and all news departments of broadcast network affiliates in the county of the licensee's last known address of record.

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

D. Other Constitutional Issues:

In section 12 of the bill, s. 548.06(2), F.S., is amended to allow promoters to issue complimentary tickets for up to five percent of the seats in the house for an event. If the promoter wants to give or issue additional complimentary tickets, the commission, executive director, or his or her designee must approve any amount in excess of the five percent threshold. The bill's only criteria for the commission's authorization of additional complimentary tickets are for those classes of persons specified in ss. 548.06(2 (c), F.S. The bill does not provide a clear delegation of authority, beyond the requirements of ss. 548.06(2)(a)-(c), F.S., for the setting of limits on the number or percentage of complimentary tickets or to determine which portion of the requested percentage above five percent that may be authorized. To the extent that this paragraph authorizes the commission to set limitations on complimentary tickets or approve or deny issuance of complimentary tickets other than as specified in ss. 548.06(2)(a)-(c), F.S., the authority may constitute an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority.

An invalid delegation of authority violates the principle of separation of powers in Article II, s. 3, Florida Constitution.[27] When assigning to an agency a regulatory responsibility, the legislature must provide the agency with adequate standards and guidelines when delegating the duties.[28] The executive branch must be limited and guided by an appropriately detailed legislative statement of the standards and policies to be followed.[29] The bill may constitute and unconstitutional delegation of authority because it fails to provide the commission with any standards by which to judge the appropriateness of its actions.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

Under CS/SB 810, the deregulation of concessionaires and booking agents, and lower post-event tax payments is anticipated to reduce the commission's revenues by $95,750.[30] That revenue, in part, currently supports the commission's operations. Any additional revenues from late fees on post-event taxes and pay-per-view taxes are indeterminate, but expected to be insignificant.

Late Fees

The bill directs the commission to adopt a rule imposing a late fee on taxes owed the commission. Any revenue collections based on imposing a late fee on post-event taxes are expected to be insignificant. The commission estimated in 2013 that had a late fee been imposed in Fiscal Year 2011-2012, the fee revenues collected would have been approximately $6,915.[31] The fee revenue estimate is based on total post-event taxes collected of $115,258, a 10 percent penalty imposed, with 60 percent of estimated tax reports being filed late. The commission indicated with the implementation of accountability measures in 2013, the amount of post-event tax collections which are received late will likely decline in future years, thereby reducing any late fee revenues from the estimated Fiscal Year 2011-2012 collection amount.

Pay-Per-View Tax

The bill provides that gross receipts includes the gross price charged for the sale or lease of broadcasting, television, and pay-per-view rights of any match occurring within the state of Florida. The bill effectively reinstates part of the "pay-per-view tax" for in-state matches, which was eliminated in 2012. However, the bill only reinstates the tax on matches held within the state of Florida, not the tax on pay-per-view for matches held outside of Florida.

The commission indicated that pay-per-view matches occurring within the state of Florida generated $1,484 in Fiscal Year 2009-2010 and $2,138 in Fiscal Year 2010-2011.[32] The expected fiscal impact of this tax reinstatement is positive, but indeterminate at this time.

Deregulation of Booking Agents

The bill provides that booking agents and concessionaires would no longer need to obtain licensure from the Commission in order to practice in their field. The department estimates a reduction in revenue from loss of licensure fees for booking agents to be approximately $150 per year.[33]

Concessions

The bill eliminates receipts from concessions from the calculation of gross receipts for the promoters' tax liability purposes. Additionally, the bill deregulates concessionaires. The department estimates a reduction to post-event taxes related to concessions of approximately $55,000 per year.[34] Furthermore, the department estimates a reduction in revenue from loss of licensure fees for concessionaires to total approximately $600 per year.[35]

Complimentary Tickets

The bill provides that complimentary tickets for up to five percent of the seating capacity of the house are not included in gross receipts or the corresponding post-event taxes. The department estimates, based on a review of prior year data, that the commission would collect $40,000 less in post-event taxes related to the issuance of complimentary tickets.[36] The department's estimate is based on the assumption that promoters would not issue complimentary tickets in excess of that percentage. The department did not provide an estimate to cover any complimentary tickets granted over the five percent, if the promoter obtains authorization from the commission to issue more.

Promoters often issue complimentary tickets when the tickets have not sold prior to the event in order to recoup some cost through the sales of concessions to the individuals who receive the complimentary tickets. Often the complimentary tickets issued would never have sold prior to the event date. The commission would not have included the unsold tickets in the gross receipts and would not have received the five percent post-event tax for the sale of the tickets.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The bill deletes the licensure requirements for concessionaires and booking agents. The current license fee for concessionaires is $100; the fee is $75 for booking agents. Concessionaires would also not be required to report and pay taxes on gross receipts.

Additionally, permitting five percent of seats in a house be issued as complimentary tickets without being included in gross receipts or paying post-event taxes on the tickets lowers the costs of holding events in the state of Florida.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The department anticipates a loss in taxation and licensure fee revenue of $95,750.[37] In addition, as a result of the estimated $95,750 reduction in taxes and license fees, there will be a $7,660 annual reduction in the service charge paid to the General Revenue Fund.[38] The bill appropriates $111,000 in recurring funds from the General Revenue Fund to the department for the implementation of this act during the 2014-2015 fiscal year in order to offset this expected revenue loss.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 872 makes a number of changes related to Alzheimer's disease that implement recommendations of the Purple Ribbon Task Force that was created by the Legislature in 2012.

The bill requires the Division of Emergency Management (DEM), in coordination with local emergency management agencies, to maintain a registry of persons with special needs using an electronic registration form and database. The bill requires memory disorder clinics and aging and disability resource centers, and authorizes licensed physicians and pharmacies, to provide information and assistance to individuals with special needs and their caregivers regarding special needs shelter registration.

The bill requires county health departments to staff special needs shelters with a person who is familiar with the needs of persons with Alzheimer's disease and requires that all special needs shelters establish sheltering areas for persons with Alzheimer's disease or related dementia.

The bill creates the Ed and Ethel Moore Alzheimer's Disease Research Program (Moore program) to fund research for the prevention and cure of Alzheimer's disease. The bill requires the Department of Elder Affairs to develop performance standards for memory disorder clinics and to condition contract funding on compliance with the standards.

The Department of Health would experience a negative fiscal impact of approximately $140,000 in recurring general revenue to implement the Moore program; however, the bill provides that implementation of the Moore program is subject to legislative appropriation. See Section V.

II. Present Situation:

Alzheimer's Disease

Alzheimer's disease is a progressive, degenerative disorder that attacks the brain's nerve cells and results in loss of memory, loss of cognitive and language skills, and behavioral changes.[1] Alzheimer's disease was named after Dr. Alois Alzheimer, a German physician who, in the early 1900's, cared for a 51-year-old woman suffering from severe dementia. Upon the woman's death, Dr. Alzheimer conducted a brain autopsy and found bundles of neurofibers and plaques in her brain which are distinguishing characteristics of what we call Alzheimer's disease today.[2]

More than five million Americans currently live with Alzheimer's disease, and that number is projected to rise to 16 million by 2050.[3] As the life expectancy for Americans has continued to rise, so has the number of new cases of Alzheimer's disease. For instance, in 2000 there were an estimated 411,000 new cases of Alzheimer's disease in the United States, and in 2010 that number was estimated to be 454,000 – a 10 percent increase.[4] The number is expected to rise to 959,000 new cases of Alzheimer's disease by 2050, a 130 percent increase from 2000.[5] Specifically in Florida, approximately 360,000 people age 65 or older had Alzheimer's disease in 2000, and in 2010 that number had risen to 450,000.[6]

As the number of people with Alzheimer's disease increases, so does the cost of caring for these individuals. In 2013, the aggregate cost for health care, long-term care, and hospice for persons with Alzheimer's and other dementia was estimated to be $203 billion. That number is projected to be $1.2 trillion by 2050.[7] A major contributing factor to the cost of care for persons with Alzheimer's disease is the fact that these individuals have more hospital stays, skilled nursing home stays, and home health care visits than older persons who do not have Alzheimer's disease. Research shows that 29 percent of individuals with Alzheimer's disease who have Medicare also have Medicaid coverage, which pays for nursing home care and other long-term care services.[8] The total Medicaid spending for people with Alzheimer's disease and other dementia in 2013 is projected to be $37 billion.[9]

In addition to the cost of health care, there is a significant cost associated with unpaid caregivers. An unpaid caregiver is primarily a family member but can also be other relatives or friends. These caregivers often provide assistance with daily activities, such as shopping for groceries, preparing meals, bathing, dressing, grooming, assisting with mobility, helping the person take medications, making arrangements for medical care, and performing other household chores. In 2012, 15.4 million unpaid caregivers provided an estimated 17.5 billion hours of unpaid care, valued at $216.4 billion.[10] In 2010, there were 1,015,000 million caregivers in Florida who provided an estimated value of unpaid care reaching nearly $14.3 million.[11]

Florida Purple Ribbon Task Force

In 2012, the Legislature established the Purple Ribbon Task Force (task force) within the Department of Elder Affairs (DOEA) to submit a report to the governor, the president of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives on a comprehensive set of issues related to Alzheimer's disease and related forms of dementia. Specifically, the task force was required to: [12]

- Submit an interim study on state trends on persons with Alzheimer's disease and their needs;
- Assess the current and future impact of Alzheimer's disease and related forms of dementia on the state;
- Examine the existing industries, services, and resources addressing the needs of persons with Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia and their family caregivers;
- Examine the needs of persons of all cultural backgrounds having Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia and how their lives are affected by the disease from younger-onset, through mid-stage, to late-stage;
- Develop a strategy to mobilize a state response to Alzheimer's disease; and
- Hold public meetings and employ technological means to gather feedback on the recommendations submitted by persons having Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia and their family caregivers and by the general public.

Other issues required to be addressed by the task force included:

- The role of the state in providing community-based care, long-term care, family caregiver support, and assistance to persons who are in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease, who have younger-onset Alzheimer's disease, or who have a related form of dementia;
- The development of state policy with respect to persons having Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia;
- Surveillance of persons having Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia for the purpose of accurately estimating the number of such persons in the state;
- Existing services, resources, and capacity; including:
  - The type, cost, and availability of dementia services in the state;
  - Policy requirements and effectiveness for dementia-specific training for professionals providing care;
  - Quality care measures employed by providers of care;

[10] This number was established by using an average of 21.9 hours of care a week with a value of $12.33 per hour. (Id. at 30).

- The adequacy and appropriateness of geriatric-psychiatric units for persons having behavior disorders associated with Alzheimer's disease or other dementia;
- Residential assisted living options for persons having Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia;
- The level of preparedness of service providers before, during, and after a catastrophic emergency involving a person having Alzheimer's disease or a related form of dementia; and
- Needed state policies or responses.

As its final responsibility, the task force was required to submit final, date-specific recommendations in the form of an Alzheimer's disease state plan to the governor and Legislature by August 1, 2013.

The task force has issued its final report and recommendations.[13] Pertinent to this bill are the following recommendations:

- To allocate $10 million annually to support Alzheimer's disease research through a peer-reviewed grant program;[14]
- To develop a well-coordinated and dementia-capable emergency management system, including reforms to the special needs shelter and registry function;[15] and
- To fund memory disorder clinics according to performance standards and benchmark goals related to base level and incentive funding.[16]

Alzheimer's Research Funding

The U.S. budget bill passed by Congress and signed into law by President Barack Obama on January 17, 2014, contains increased funding for Alzheimer's disease initiatives. The new federal funding includes a $100 million increase for the National Institute on Aging (NIA)[17] for Alzheimer's research, which will be added to what the National Institutes of Health (NIH) estimates will be $484 million in Alzheimer's research funding across NIH in the 2013 federal fiscal year.[18]

The NIA funds Alzheimer's Disease Centers (ADC) at major medical institutions with the goal of improving diagnosis and care and ultimately finding a way to cure and possibly prevent Alzheimer's disease. Although each center has its own unique area of emphasis, a common goal of the ADCs is to enhance research on Alzheimer's disease by providing a network for sharing new ideas and research results. Collaborative studies draw upon the expertise of scientists from many different disciplines. Currently, there are 29 NIA-funded centers, including one at the Mayo Clinic in Jacksonville.[19]

In 2002, the Legislature created the Florida Alzheimer's Center and Research Institute (institute) at the University of South Florida (USF).[20] The institute was governed by a not-for-profit corporation, acting as an instrumentality of the state, under the direction of its 16-member Board of Directors. Its mission related to research, education, treatment, prevention, and early detection of Alzheimer's disease.[21] In 2004, the Legislature renamed the institute the Johnnie B. Byrd, Sr. Alzheimer's Center and Research Institute (Byrd Institute) and funded it with a $15 million distribution from alcoholic beverage tax collections for the purposes of conducting research, developing and operating integrated data projects, and providing assistance to memory disorder clinics.[22] The 2006 Legislature replaced the automatic distribution with a recurring appropriation from general revenue and clarified that researchers from any university or established research institution were eligible for funding from the Byrd Institute.[23] The recurring appropriation was reduced to $13.5 million in 2007[24] and eliminated in 2008.[25] In 2009, the statute authorizing the Byrd Institute was substantially revised to establish the Institute as an entity within and operated by the USF and provided that its budget included any money specifically appropriated in the General Appropriations Act, or otherwise provided to it from private, local, state, or federal sources, or income generated by activities at the Byrd Institute.[26]

Section 430.501, F.S., creates the Alzheimer's Disease Advisory Committee, whose members are appointed by the governor, to advise the DOEA in the performance of its duties. The committee also has responsibility for awarding research grants to qualified entities from any funds made available to the DOEA through gifts, grants, or other sources.

Special Needs Shelters

The Comprehensive Emergency Management Plan (CEMP) is the master operations document for the state in responding to all catastrophic disasters and all emergencies, whether major or minor.[27] The CEMP, which is developed and maintained by the Division of Emergency Management (DEM), in coordination with local governments and agencies and organizations with emergency management responsibilities, defines the responsibilities of all levels of government and private, volunteer, and non-governmental organizations that make up the State Emergency Response Team. In general, the CEMP assumes that all emergencies and disasters are local, but local governments may require state assistance.[28]

The CEMP includes a shelter component which provides policy guidance for sheltering people with special needs.[29] Specifically, it states:[30]

> All shelters must meet physical and programmatic accessibility requirements as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act and Florida Accessibility Codes. Special Needs Shelters provide a higher level of attendant care than general population shelters. Any facility designated as a shelter must meet minimum safety requirements. To ensure consistency with state and national standards, guidelines and best practices, the Division has adopted the American Red Cross (ARC) 4496 Standards for Hurricane Evacuation Shelter Selection.[31]

Each local emergency management agency is required to maintain a registry of persons with special needs.[32] The information is used to identify people with special needs, people who may need assistance with transportation to the shelters, and to ensure that any area affected by an emergency or disaster has adequate special needs shelter capacity, staffing, equipment, and supplies.[33]

The DEM has lead responsibility for community outreach and education about registration and shelter stays.[34] However, community-based service providers, including home health agencies, hospices, nurse registries, and home medical equipment providers, and state agencies likely to serve individuals with special needs, including the Department of Children and Families, the Department of Health (DOH), the Agency for Health Care Administration, the Department of Education, the Agency for Persons with Disabilities, and the DOEA, are directed to provide registration information to all of their special needs clients and to collect registration information during the client intake process.[35]

The law further requires agencies that contract with providers for the care of people with disabilities or who are otherwise dependent on others for care, to include emergency and disaster planning conditions in their service contracts. Among other provisions, the contracts must include a requirement for the provider to have a procedure to help its clients register for special needs sheltering.[36]

The DOH, through county public health units, is tasked with lead responsibility, in coordination with the local emergency management agency, to recruit and staff special needs shelters with appropriate health care personnel, pursuant to a staffing plan developed at the local level.[37] Designation and operation of the shelter, however, remains the responsibility of the local emergency management agency, [38] although subject to operational standards established by rule of the DOH.[39]

Admission to a special needs shelter is subject to an assessment of the person's eligibility. A person is eligible if he or she:[40]

- Has special needs;
- Has care needs that exceed basic first aid that is available at the general emergency shelters; and
- Has impairments that are medically stable and do not exceed the capacity, staffing, and equipment of the shelter.

A shelter may accept someone whose needs exceed the eligibility criteria. Decisions related to shelter capacity, both available skills and equipment, are made by the local emergency management agency and the county public health department.[41]

Alzheimer's Disease Initiative

In 1985, the Florida Legislature created the Alzheimer's Disease Initiative (ADI) to provide a continuum of services to individuals with Alzheimer's disease and their families.[42] The ADI has four objectives: (1) to provide supportive services; (2) to establish memory disorder clinics; (3) to provide model day care programs to test new care alternatives; and (4) to establish a research database and brain bank to support research.[43] There are 15 memory disorder clinics throughout the state, 13 of which are state-funded.[44] The purpose of these clinics is to conduct research related to diagnostic technique, therapeutic interventions, and supportive services for persons with Alzheimer's disease and to develop caregiver-training materials.[45] According to the ADI, the memory disorder clinics are required to:

- Provide services to persons suspected of having Alzheimer's disease or other related dementia;
- Provide four hours of in-service training during the contract year to all ADI respite and model day care service providers and develop and disseminate training models to service providers and the DOEA;
- Develop training materials and educational opportunities for caregivers and provide specialized training for caregivers and caregiver organizations;
- Conduct service-related applied research;
- Establish a minimum of one annual contact with each respite care and model day care service provider to discuss, plan, develop, and conduct service-related research projects; and
- Plan for the public dissemination of research findings through professional papers and to the general public.[46]

Individuals diagnosed with or suspected of having Alzheimer's disease are eligible for memory disorder clinic services. In Fiscal Year 2012-2013, Florida's memory disorder clinics received nearly $3 million in state funds and served an estimated 6,722 clients.[47]

Model day care programs have been established in conjunction with memory disorder clinics to test therapeutic models and provide day care services. These programs provide a safe environment where Alzheimer's patients can socialize with each other and receive therapeutic interventions designed to maintain or improve their cognitive functioning. Model day care programs also provide training for health care and social service personnel in the care of individuals with Alzheimer's disease or related memory disorders. There are currently four model day care programs in the state.[48]

The ADI also includes respite care services, which includes in-home, facility-based, emergency and extended care respite for caregivers who serve individuals with memory disorders.[49] In addition to respite care services, caregivers and consumers may receive supportive services essential to maintaining individuals with Alzheimer's disease or related dementia in their own homes. The supportive services may include caregiver training and support groups, counseling, consumable medical supplies, and nutritional supplements. Services are authorized by a case manager based on a comprehensive assessment. Alzheimer's Respite Care programs are established in all of Florida's 67 counties.[50]

Statutory Creation of Advisory Bodies, Commissions, or Boards

The statutory creation of any collegial body to serve as an adjunct to an executive agency is subject to certain provisions in s. 20.052, F.S. Such a body may only be created when it is found to be necessary and beneficial to the furtherance of a public purpose, and it must be terminated by the Legislature when it no longer fulfills such a purpose. The Legislature and the public must be kept informed of the numbers, purposes, memberships, activities, and expenses of any collegial or advisory bodies.

Private citizen members of any advisory body (with exceptions for members of commissions or boards of trustees) may be appointed only by the governor, the head of the executive agency to which the advisory body is adjunct, the executive director of the agency, or a cabinet officer. Private citizen members of a commission or a board of trustees may be appointed only by the governor, must be confirmed by the Senate, and are subject to the dual-office-holding prohibition of section 5(a) of Article II of the State Constitution.

Members of agency advisory bodies serve four-year staggered terms and are ineligible for any compensation other than travel expenses, unless expressly provided otherwise in the State Constitution. Unless an exemption is specified by law, all meetings are public, and records of minutes and votes must be maintained.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 requires the Division of Emergency Management (DEM) to develop a special needs shelter registration program by January 1, 2015, and to fully implement the program by March 1, 2015. The bill shifts responsibility for maintaining a special needs registry from the local emergency management agencies to the DEM, working in coordination with the local agencies. In effect, the bill centralizes the registry at the state level, although still providing access for local emergency management agencies. The bill directs the DEM to develop a uniform electronic registration form and database that may be used by local agencies to upload registration information they receive. The DEM is directed to develop and post on its website a brochure describing the registration procedures.

The bill adds memory disorder clinics and aging and disability resource centers to the existing list of providers and agencies that are required to: give registration information to their special needs clients; and assist emergency management by collecting registration information for persons with special needs during their program intake procedures and establishing education programs for their clients about the registration process and disaster preparedness. These duties are expanded under the bill to require the providers and agencies to also provide registration information to client caregivers and to register their special needs clients annually. The bill specifies that physicians and pharmacies may, but are not required to, perform all of these same duties.

Section 2 requires county health departments to ensure that special needs shelters are staffed with a person who is familiar with the needs of persons with Alzheimer's disease. In addition, the bill requires that all special needs shelters designate areas within the shelter for persons with Alzheimer's disease or related dementia in order to maximize their normal routines to the greatest extent possible. The bill specifies that the DOH must work in conjunction with the DEM to adopt rules related to the special needs shelters and includes forms within the scope of the DOH's rulemaking authority.

Section 3 creates the Ed and Ethel Moore Alzheimer's Disease Research Program (Moore program) within the DOH to fund research leading to prevention of or a cure for Alzheimer's disease. Long-term goals of the Moore program are to:

- Enhance the health of Floridians by researching improved prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and cure of Alzheimer's disease;
- Expand the foundation of knowledge relating to the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and cure of Alzheimer's disease; and
- Stimulate activity in the state related to Alzheimer's disease research.

The program is modeled after the James and Esther King Biomedical Research Program that is established in s. 215.5602, F.S.

The bill specifies that:

- Moore program funds may be used only for grants and fellowships awarded through a competitive process and expenses related to program administration. Grants will be awarded by the state surgeon general on the basis of scientific merit.
- Funding applications may be submitted from any university or established research institute[51] in the state. Qualified investigators, regardless of institution, will have equal access to competitive funding.
- Implementation of the program is contingent upon a legislative appropriation.

In addition, the bill creates the 11-member Alzheimer's Disease Research Grant Advisory Board (board) within the DOH, as follows:

- The board consists of two gerontologists, two geriatric psychiatrists, two geriatricians, two neuroscientists, and three neurologists appointed by the state surgeon general to four-year terms, except that five of the initial appointees shall serve two-year terms. Initial appointments must be made by October 1, 2014. Appointees must have experience in Alzheimer's disease or related biomedical research. The board chair is elected by the members to serve as chair for two years. No board member may serve on the board more than two consecutive terms.
- The board must adopt internal organization procedures, as necessary, for its organization and establish and follow guidelines for ethical conduct to avoid conflicts of interest. A member may not participate in any discussion or decision related to a research proposal by any entity with which the member has a relationship, whether as governing board member, employee, or contracted party.
- Members of the board serve without compensation.
- The DOH must provide staff to the board.
- The board's role is to:
    - Advise the state surgeon general on the scope of the program and proposals to be funded;

[51] Currently, the DOH defines an "established research institute" as an organization that is any Florida nonprofit or foreign nonprofit covered under ch. 617, F.S., with a physical location in Florida, whose stated purpose and powers are scientific, biomedical or biotechnological research and/or development and is legally registered with the Florida Department of State, Division of Corporations. This includes federal government and non-profit medical and surgical hospitals including Veteran's Administration hospitals.   - Advise on program priorities and emphases;
  - Assist in the development of appropriate linkages to nonacademic entities; and
  - Develop and provide oversight of mechanisms for disseminating research results.
- The board must submit a fiscal year progress report to the governor, the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Representatives, and the state surgeon general by February 15 annually that includes:
  - A list of funded projects;
  - A list of funded researchers;
  - A list of publications in peer-reviewed journals involving research supported by grants or fellowships awarded under the Moore program;
  - The state ranking and total amount of Alzheimer's disease research funding received from the National Institutes of Health;
  - New grants for Alzheimer's disease research which were based on research funded by the Moore program;
  - Progress toward the goals of the Moore program; and,
  - Recommendations to further the mission of the Moore program.
- The activities of the board are exempt from ch. 120, F.S., the Administrative Procedure Act.
- The DOH is given rulemaking authority to implement the Moore program.

Section 4 changes the name of the memory disorder clinic operating in Brevard County from "The Memory Disorder Clinic, Inc." to "a memory disorder clinic operated by Health First."

The bill directs the DOEA to develop performance standards for memory disorder clinics; to include the standards as a condition of each clinic's funding contract; and to measure and score each clinic based on the standards.

Base-level funding standards must address, at a minimum, quality of care, comprehensiveness of services, and access to services.

Standards for incentive funding beyond base-level funding, subject to legislative appropriation, include:
- A significant increase in the volume of clinical services;
- A significant increase in public outreach to low-income and minority populations;
- A significant increase in the acceptance of Medicaid and commercial insurance policies; and
- Significant institutional financial commitments.

Section 5 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The research program created by CS/CS/SB 872, if funded, will have a positive fiscal impact on any private institutions or researchers who are awarded grants or fellowships under the program.

It is not clear, however, whether incentive funding for the memory disorder clinics, as contemplated by the bill, would be the result of a supplemental appropriation for the program or a redistribution of the existing appropriations.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Division of Emergency Management (DEM) estimates the nonrecurring cost to develop, test, and implement the electronic registry at $400,000, and the recurring cost to maintain and house the system also at $400,000. The DEM has identified federal grant funding that will cover these costs.[52]

Local governments may incur costs related to facilities they now designate as special needs shelters due to the requirement to provide dedicated space at each for persons with Alzheimer's disease. Not all facilities may be able to accommodate the dedicated space requirement. The DOH suggests that the requirement may be addressed in those shelters that cannot provide dedicated secure shelter space that would prevent wandering and elopement, by providing increased security. The DOH estimates the cost at $480 per 24-hour period for each point of egress.[53]

The bill requires a minimum of one staff person at each special needs shelter who is familiar with the needs of patients with Alzheimer's disease. The DOH indicates that appropriate staffing would mean at least one nurse per facility and possibly a nurse's aide for any person who presents without a caregiver. Those county health departments whose special needs shelter personnel lack the expertise in Alzheimer's disease may need to contract for services through a nurse staffing company. The DOH estimates the cost per shelter for a 24-hour period at $1,560 for nurse coverage and an additional $432 for a nurse's aide to assist with any unaccompanied patients. Currently, there are 127 special needs shelters statewide.[54] It is not possible to estimate how many shelters would be activated or for how long in any given year.

The Ed and Ethel Moore Alzheimer's Disease Research Program (Moore program) created under the bill, if funded, will have a positive fiscal impact on any public institutions or researchers employed at public institutions who are awarded grants or fellowships under the program.

The DOH anticipates recurring costs related to contract management, peer review, and support of the board under the Moore program. Total projected expenses are $129,503 in Fiscal Year 2014-2015 and $142,448 in Fiscal Year 2015-2016. Costs include two full-time equivalent positions and related expenses; peer review honoraria; and board support expenses.[55]

The bill provides that implementation of the Moore program is subject to legislative appropriation. The Senate has not included Moore program funding in its proposed budget bill[56] for Fiscal Year 2014-2015. The House of Representative included in its proposed budget bill[57] for Fiscal Year 2014-2015 an appropriation of $3 million from the General Revenue Fund for the Moore program, contingent on HB 709 or similar legislation becoming law.[58]

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

BILL:	CS/SB 876

SUBJECT:	Motor Vehicle Crash Reports

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 876 relates to motor vehicle crash reports, and requires a sworn statement from the requestor for each individual crash report which is requested within the 60-day confidential and exempt period.

The bill has no fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Traffic Crash Reports

A Florida Traffic Crash Report Long Form must be completed and submitted to the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles (DHSMV) within ten days after law enforcement completes an investigation of a motor vehicle crash that:

- Resulted in death, personal injury or any indication of pain or discomfort of any passengers involved in the crash;
- Resulted in damage to a vehicle or other property;[1]
- Resulted in a driving under the influence violation;[2]
- Rendered a vehicle inoperable to a degree that required a wrecker to remove it from the crash scene; or

[1] Section 316.061(1)(a), Florida Statutes.
[2] Section 316.193, Florida Statutes.

- Involved a commercial motor vehicle.

If the circumstances of the crash, as described above, do not require completion of the long form crash report, the law enforcement officer is required to complete a short-form crash report or provide a driver exchange-of-information form. The driver exchange-of-information form is completed by all drivers and passengers involved in the crash and requires the identification of each vehicle involved in the incident.

The information included on a crash report (both long and short form) must include:
- Date, time, and location of crash;
- Description of vehicles involved;
- Names and addresses of parties involved, including all drivers and passengers, and the identification of vehicles;
- Names and addresses of witnesses;
- Name, badge number, and law enforcement agency of the investigating officer; and
- Respective parties insurance companies;

Both long and short form crash reports prepared by a law enforcement officer must be submitted to the DHSMV and may be maintained by the law enforcement officer's agency.

Section 316.066, (2)(a), F.S., provides that crash reports revealing identity, home or employment telephone number or home or employment address of, or other personal information concerning the parties involved in the crash and held by any agency regularly receiving or preparing information from or concerning parties to motor vehicle crashes are confidential and exempt from s. 119.07(1), F.S., and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution, for a period of 60 days after the date the report is filed.

Crash reports held by an agency may be made immediately available to parties involved in the crash, their legal representatives, their licensed insurance agents, their insurers or insurers to which they have applied for coverage, persons under contract with such insurers to provide claims or underwriting information, prosecutorial authorities, law enforcement agencies, the Department of Transportation, county traffic operations, victim services programs, radio and television stations licensed by the Federal Communications Commission, newspapers qualified to publish legal notices under ss. 50.11 and 50.031, F.S.,[3],[4] and free newspapers of general circulation, published once a week or more often, available and of interest to the public generally for the dissemination of news.

Any local, state, or federal agency that is authorized to have access to crash reports by any provision of law shall be granted such access in the furtherance of the agency's statutory duties.

A person attempting to access a crash report within the 60 days after the date the report was filed must present a valid driver license or other photographic identification, proof of status, or identification that demonstrates his or her qualifications to access, and file a written sworn statement with the state or local agency in possession of the information stating that information from a crash report made confidential and exempt by this section will not be used for any commercial solicitation of accident victims, or knowingly disclosed to any third party during the time that information remains confidential and exempt. In lieu of requiring a written sworn statement, an agency may provide crash reports by electronic means to third-party vendors under contract with one or more insurers, but only when such a contract states that information from a crash report made confidential and exempt will not be used for commercial solicitation of accident victims by the vendors, or knowingly disclosed by the vendors to any third party for the purpose of such solicitation, during the period of time the information remains confidential and exempt, and only when a copy of such contract is furnished to the agency as proof of the vendor's claimed status.

[3] http://www.flsenate.gov/Laws/Statutes/2013/50.011

The primary policy reason for closing access to crash reports for 60 days to persons or entities not specifically listed appears to be protection for crash victims and their families from illegal solicitation by attorneys. In its 2000 report on insurance fraud relating to personal injury protection coverage, the Fifteenth Statewide Grand Jury found that individuals called "runners" would pick up copies of crash reports filed with law enforcement agencies. The reports would then be used to solicit people involved in motor vehicle accidents. The Grand Jury found a strong correlation between illegal solicitations and the commission of a variety of frauds, including insurance fraud.

According to the Attorney General's Second Interim Report of the Fifteenth Statewide Grand Jury:

> probably the single biggest factor contributing to the high level of illegal solicitations is the ready access to public accident reports in bulk by runners. These reports provide runners, and the lawyers and medical professionals who use them, the ability to contact large numbers of potential clients at little cost and with almost no effort. As a result, virtually anyone involved in a car accident in Florida is fair game to the intrusive and harassing tactics of solicitors. Such conduct can be emotionally, physically, and ultimately, financially destructive.

The Grand Jury found the access to crash reports, which provide individuals with the ability to contact large numbers of potential clients, is a violation of Florida's prohibition of crash report use for commercial solicitation purposes. According to the Grand Jury, virtually anyone involved in a car accident in the state is fair game to the intrusive and harassing tactics of solicitors.[5]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 316.066, F.S., to require a person who accesses a crash report within the required 60-day confidential and exempt period to file a written sworn statement with the state or local agency in possession of the requested information for each individual crash report that is being requested.

Section 2 provides that the bill shall be effective July 1, 2014.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	SB 886
INTRODUCER:	Senator Montford
SUBJECT:	Florida Teachers Classroom Supply Assistance Program
DATE:	April 24, 2014 REVISED:

	ANALYST	STAFF DIRECTOR	REFERENCE	ACTION
1.	Letarte	Klebacha	ED	Favorable
2.	Sikes	Elwell	AED	Favorable
3.	Elwell	Kynoch	AP	Favorable

I. Summary:

SB 886 revises provisions of the Florida Teachers Classroom Supply Assistance Program (Program) and provides flexibility for school districts to distribute funds to classroom teachers sooner for the purchase of supplemental materials and supplies.

The bill requires school districts to calculate an identical amount from the funds available to the school districts for the program for each classroom teacher to be employed by the district or a charter school in the district on September 1st of each year. The district school board and each charter school board may provide a classroom teacher his or her proportional share of program funds by August 1st, if determined eligible for program funds by July 1st. A teacher determined eligible for Program funds after July 1st must be provided with his or her proportional share of Program funds by September 30th. At present, program funds must be disbursed by September 30th.

This bill does not affect the total funds allocated for the Program and does not have a fiscal impact to the state.

The bill takes effect on July 1, 2014.

II. Present Situation:

The Florida Teachers Classroom Supply Assistance Program

The Florida Teachers Classroom Supply Assistance Program (Program) provides funds for classroom teachers to purchase supplemental materials and supplies for public school students assigned to them.[1] Program funds are appropriated by the Legislature in the General

[1] Section 1012.71, F.S.

Appropriations Act and distributed to each school district by the Commissioner of Education based on each district's unweighted full-time equivalent student enrollment.[2] The district school board calculates and distributes each classroom teacher's proportionate share of funds by September 30th of each year.[3]

A signed statement acknowledging receipt of the funds is required of each classroom teacher.[4] Additionally, a teacher must keep receipts for at least four years to show that funds were spent in accordance with Program requirements.[5] Any unused funds must be returned to the district school board at the end of the school year.[6]

Senate Bill 2500, the 2014-2015 proposed General Appropriations Bill, appropriates $45,286,750 to the Program, which is the same as the 2013-2014 fiscal year appropriation.[7]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill revises provisions of the Florida Teachers Classroom Supply Assistance Program to allow school districts to have the flexibility to distribute funds to classroom teachers sooner for the purchase of supplemental materials and supplies for public school students assigned to them.

The bill requires school districts to calculate an identical amount from the funds available to the school districts for the program for each classroom teacher who will be employed by the district or a charter school in the district on September 1st. As of July 1st, if a teacher is expected to be employed by a school district or a charter school in the district on September 1st, the district school board and each charter school board may provide the teacher with the teacher's proportionate share of funds by August 1st. If a teacher's expected employment is determined after July 1st, the district school board and each charter school board must provide the teacher with the teacher's proportionate share of funds by September 30th. At present, funds from the Florida Teachers Classroom Supply Assistance Program must be distributed by September 30th.

The bill takes effect on July 1, 2014.

A job-share classroom teacher may receive a prorated share of the amount provided to a full-time classroom teacher. For a classroom teacher determined eligible on July 1, the district school board and each charter school board may provide the teacher with his or her total proportionate share by August 1 based on the estimate of the number of teachers who will be employed on September 1. Any classroom teacher may decline receipt of or return the funds without explanation or cause.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	PCS/CS/CS/SB 898 (933800)
INTRODUCER:	Appropriations Committee (Recommended by Appropriations Subcommittee on Finance and Tax); Commerce and Tourism Committee; Communications, Energy, and Public Utilities Committee; and Senators Abruzzo and Soto
SUBJECT:	Communications Services Tax

Please see Section IX. for Additional Information:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/CS/CS/SB 898 excludes certain data processing services delivered by electronic transmission from the communications services tax by including such services in the definition of "information services." Information services are not included within the definition of "communication services," and are not subject to communications services tax.

The bill states that "the amendments made by this act to s. 202.11, Florida Statutes, are remedial in nature and apply retroactively, but do not provide a basis for the assessment of any tax not paid or create a right to a refund or credit of any tax paid before the effective date of this act.".

The bill has no revenue impact because the change is a clarification that aligns the statutes with current administrative practice.

II. Present Situation:

Chapter 202, F.S., imposes a communications services tax on "retail sales of communications services which originate and terminate in Florida, or originate or terminate in Florida and are billed to a Florida address."[1] Communication services include telecommunications, cable, direct-to-home satellite, and related services.[2] The communication services tax includes a state tax rate of 6.65 percent and a gross receipts tax rate of 2.52 percent for a combined rate of 9.17 percent.[3] In addition, local governments impose a local tax rate of up to 7.12 percent.[4]

The communications services tax is applied to the retail sales price of each taxable communications service.[5] The definition of "communications services" specifically excludes "information services" and therefore they are not subject to the communication services tax.[6] "Information services" are defined as "the offering of a capability for generating, acquiring, storing, transforming, processing, retrieving, using, or making available information via communications services."[7] Information services include electronic publishing, web-hosting services, and end-user 900 number services.

The state taxes collected are deposited into the General Revenue Fund and a portion is distributed to local governments.[8] Gross receipts tax collections are deposited into the Public Education Capital Outlay and Debt Service Trust Fund and are used to fund public schools', community colleges', and universities' capital projects. The Department of Revenue provides tax collection services for local governments, and local communication services taxes are distributed to local governments.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill specifically excludes certain data processing services delivered by electronic transmission from the communications services tax by including such services in the definition of "information services."

Section 1 amends s. 202.11(5), F.S., to include in the definition of "information services" data processing and other services that allow data to be generated, acquired, stored, processed, or retrieved and delivered by an electronic transmission to a purchaser where the purchaser's primary purpose for the underlying transaction is the data or information.

Section 2 states that "the amendments made by this act to s. 202.11, Florida Statutes, are remedial in nature and apply retroactively, but do not provide a basis for the assessment of any tax not paid or create a right to a refund or credit of any tax paid before the effective date of this act."

Section 3 provides an effective date of upon becoming law.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

Recommended CS/CS/CS by Appropriations Subcommittee on Finance and Tax on April 2, 2014:
The committee substitute clarifies that "the amendments made by this act to s. 202.11, Florida Statutes, are remedial in nature and apply retroactively, but do not provide a basis for the assessment of any tax not paid or create a right to a refund or credit of any tax paid before the effective date of this act."

CS/CS by Commerce and Tourism on March 24, 2014:
The committee substitute amends the definition of "information services" to include certain data processing services. This change excludes such services from the communications services tax, because information services are not communication services subject to the tax.

The bill previously had excluded from the definition of "sales price" for the communications services tax the sale of communications services between a franchisor and its franchisee, which excluded such services from the communications services tax.

CS by Communications, Energy, and Public Utilities on March 4, 2014:
The committee substitute completely rewrites the proposed exemption from the term "sales tax" for purposes of the Communications Services Tax. It exempts the sale of communications services between a franchisor and its franchisee, defining the term "franchisee" to mean any entity, including a related company, using the franchisor's service mark, whether by license, management agreement, or by a subsidiary or affiliate of the franchisor.

The bill also states that it is a clarification of existing law, and a tax may not be assessed or collected with respect to any charge or portion thereof described in s. 202.11(13)(b), F.S., as amended by this act, for periods before or after the effective date of this act.

B. Amendments:

None.

CS/CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The committee substitute clarifies that "the amendments made by this act to s. 202.11, Florida Statutes, are remedial in nature and apply retroactively, but do not provide a basis for the assessment of any tax not paid or create a right to a refund or credit of any tax paid before the effective date of this act."

CS/CS by Commerce and Tourism on March 24, 2014:
The committee substitute amends the definition of "information services" to include certain data processing services. This change excludes such services from the communications services tax, because information services are not communication services subject to the tax.

The bill previously had excluded from the definition of "sales price" for the communications services tax the sale of communications services between a franchisor and its franchisee, which excluded such services from the communications services tax.

CS by Communications, Energy, and Public Utilities on March 4, 2014:
The committee substitute completely rewrites the proposed exemption from the term "sales tax" for purposes of the Communications Services Tax. It exempts the sale of communications services between a franchisor and its franchisee, defining the term "franchisee" to mean any entity, including a related company, using the franchisor's service mark, whether by license, management agreement, or by a subsidiary or affiliate of the franchisor.

The bill also states that it is a clarification of existing law, and a tax may not be assessed or collected with respect to any charge or portion thereof described in s. 202.11(13)(b), F.S., as amended by this act, for periods before or after the effective date of this act.

B. Amendments:

None.

A bill to be entitled

An act relating to the communications services tax; amending s. 202.11, F.S.; revising the definition of the term "information services" to include certain data processing and other services; providing applicability; providing an effective date.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. Subsection (5) of section 202.11, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

202.11 Definitions.—As used in this chapter, the term:

(5) "Information service" means the offering of a capability for generating, acquiring, storing, transforming, processing, retrieving, using, or making available information via communications services, including, but not limited to, electronic publishing, web-hosting service, and end-user 900 number service. The term includes data processing and other services that allow data to be generated, acquired, stored, processed, or retrieved and delivered by an electronic transmission to a purchaser where such purchaser's primary purpose for the underlying transaction is the processed data or information. The term does not include video service.

Section 2. This act is a clarification of existing law, and no tax may be assessed or collected with respect to any charge or portion thereof described in s. 202.11(5), Florida Statutes, as amended by this act, for periods before or after the effective date of this act.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	SB 914
INTRODUCER:	Senator Latvala
SUBJECT:	State Contracting
DATE:	April 23, 2014
REVISED:

	ANALYST	STAFF DIRECTOR	REFERENCE	ACTION
1.	McKay	McVaney	GO	Favorable
2.	Betta	DeLoach	AGG	Favorable
3.	Betta	Kynoch	AP	Favorable

I. Summary:

SB 914 requires state agencies to consider the prior relevant experience of a vendor when evaluating the responses to a request for proposal or invitation to negotiate. Currently, state agencies may consider prior relevant experience but are not required by law to do so.

The bill does not have a fiscal impact on the state.

II. Present Situation:

State Procurement of and Contracts for Personal Property and Services

Chapter 287, F.S., regulates state agency[1] procurement of personal property[2] and services.[3] The Department of Management Services (DMS) is responsible for overseeing state purchasing activity including professional and contractual services as well as commodities needed to support agency activities, such as office supplies, vehicles, and information technology.[4] The Division of

[1] As defined in s. 287.012(1), F.S., "agency" means any of the various state officers, departments, boards, commissions, divisions, bureaus, and councils and any other unit of organization, however designated, of the executive branch of state government. "Agency" does not include the university and college boards of trustees or the state universities and colleges.

[2] Personal property" is not independently defined for purposes of ch. 287, F.S., but the chapter title for Chapter 287, F.S., is "Procurement of Personal Property and Services." Additionally, the definition of "commodity" in s. 287.012(5), F.S., is "any of the various supplies, materials, goods, merchandise, food, equipment, information technology, and other personal property, including a mobile home, trailer, or other portable structure that has less than 5,000 square feet of floor space, purchased, leased, or otherwise contracted for by the state and its agencies." This definition is used in Part I of Ch. 287, F.S., "Commodities, Insurance, and Contractual Services."

[3] Local governments are not subject to the provisions of ch. 287, F.S. Local governmental units may look to the chapter for guidance in the procurement of goods and services, but many have local policies or ordinances to address competitive solicitations.

[4] See ss. 287.032 and 287.042, F.S.

State Purchasing in the DMS establishes statewide purchasing rules and negotiates contracts and purchasing agreements that are intended to leverage the state's buying power.

Agencies may use a variety of procurement methods, depending on the cost and characteristics of the needed good or service, the complexity of the procurement, and the number of available vendors. These include the following:

- Single source contracts, which are used when an agency determines that only one vendor is available to provide a commodity or service at the time of purchase;
- Invitations to bid, which are used when an agency determines that standard services or goods will meet needs, wide competition is available, and the vendor's experience will not greatly influence the agency's results;
- Requests for proposals (RFP), which are used when the procurement requirements allow for consideration of various solutions and the agency believes more than two or three vendors exist who can provide the required goods or services; and
- Invitations to negotiate (ITN), which are used when negotiations are determined to be necessary to obtain the best value and involve a request for high complexity, customized, mission-critical services, by an agency dealing with a limited number of vendors.[5]

Criteria used to evaluate proposals received pursuant to a request for proposals must include, but are not limited to:

- Price;
- Renewal price, if renewal is contemplated; and
- Consideration of the total cost for each year of the contract, including renewal years, as submitted by the vendor.[6]

In invitations to negotiate, the criteria to be used in determining the acceptability of the reply and guiding the selection of the vendors with which the agency will negotiate must be specified in the ITN.[7]

Contracts for commodities or contractual services in excess of $35,000 must be procured utilizing a competitive solicitation process.[8] However, specified contractual services and commodities are not subject to competitive solicitation requirements.[9]

The chapter establishes a process by which a person may file an action protesting a decision or intended decision pertaining to contracts administered by the DMS, a water management district, or certain other agencies.[10]

[5] See ss. 287.012(6) and 287.057, F.S.
[6] Section 287.057(1)(b)3., F.S.
[7] Section 287.057(1)(c)3., F.S.
[8] Section 287.057(1), F.S., requires all projects that exceed the Category Two ($35,000) threshold contained in s. 287.017, F.S., to be competitively bid. As defined in s. 287.012(6), F.S., "competitive solicitation" means the process of requesting and receiving two or more sealed bids, proposals, or replies submitted by responsive vendors in accordance with the terms of a competitive process, regardless of the method of procurement.
[9] See s. 287.057(3)(f), F.S.
[10] See s. 287.042(2)(c), F.S.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill amends the existing agency competitive procurement law in ch. 287, F.S., to require agencies to consider the prior relevant experience of a vendor when evaluating responses to a request for proposal or invitation to negotiate. Currently, agencies may consider prior relevant experience of a vendor but are not required by law to do so.

1. Before issuing an invitation to negotiate, the head of an agency must determine and specify in writing the reasons that procurement by an invitation to bid or a request for proposal is not practicable.

2. The invitation to negotiate must describe the questions being explored, the facts being sought, and the specific goals or problems that are the subject of the solicitation.

3. The criteria that will be used for determining the acceptability of the reply and guiding the selection of the vendors with which the agency will negotiate must be specified. The evaluation criteria must include consideration of prior relevant experience of the vendor.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 948 modifies the Protecting Florida's Investments Act (PFIA), which requires the State Board of Administration (SBA) to identify and divest assets in foreign companies doing business in Iran and Sudan, by providing that SBA investment in exchange-traded funds will not be subject to the divestiture requirements. The bill also makes terminology changes to reflect that South Sudan is now an independent nation.

The bill allows the SBA to invest up to 50 percent of any of its funds in foreign corporate securities and obligations, an increase from the current maximum of 35 percent.

The bill also provides that a domestic insurer with investments in a company included on the Iran and Sudan scrutinized company lists must report such investments quarterly to the Office of Insurance Regulation.

The fiscal impact of the bill is indeterminate.

II. Present Situation:

State Board of Administration Investing Duties

The State Board of Administration (SBA) is created in Article IV, s. 4(e) of the Florida Constitution. Its members are the Governor, the Chief Financial Officer, and the Attorney General. The board derives its powers to oversee state funds from Article XII, s. 9 of the Florida Constitution.

The SBA has responsibility for oversight of the Florida Retirement System (FRS) Pension Plan and the FRS Investment Plan, which represent approximately $151 billion, or 88 percent, of the $173 billion in assets managed by the SBA, as of November 30, 2013. The Pension Plan is a defined benefit plan and the Investment Plan is a defined contribution plan that employees may choose in lieu of the Pension Plan. The SBA also manages over 30 other investment portfolios, with combined assets of $22 billion, including the Florida Hurricane Catastrophe Fund, the Florida Lottery Fund, the Florida Prepaid College Plan, and various debt-service accounts for state bond issues.[1]

In investing assets, the SBA follows the Florida Statutes' fiduciary standards of care, subject to certain limitations.[2] Pursuant to s. 215.444, F.S., a nine-member Investment Advisory Council provides recommendations on investment policy, strategy, and procedures. The SBA's ability to invest the FRS assets is governed by s. 215.47, F.S., which provides for a "legal list" of the types of investments and for how much of the total fund may be invested in each investment type. Some of the key guidelines in the "legal list" specific to the investment of FRS Pension Plan assets include:

- No more than 80 percent of assets may be invested in domestic common stocks.
- No more than 75 percent of assets may be invested in internally managed common stocks.
- No more than 3 percent of equity assets may be invested in the equity securities of any one corporation, except when the securities of that corporation are included in any broad equity index or with approval of the Board; and in such case, no more than 10 percent of equity assets may be invested in the equity securities of any one corporation.
- No more than 80 percent of assets may be placed in corporate fixed income securities.
- No more than 25 percent of assets may be invested in notes secured by FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed first mortgages on Florida real property, or foreign government general obligations with a 25-year default-free history.
- No more than 35 percent of assets may be invested in foreign corporate or commercial securities or obligations[3].

[1] State Board of Administration "Monthly Performance Report to the Trustees" as of November 30, 2013, issued January 13, 2014.
[2] Section 215.44, F.S.
[3] This provision in s. 215.47(20), F.S., permitting the SBA to invest up to 35 percent of any fund in foreign securities or bonds is an SBA-specific exception to the general requirement in s. 215.47(5), F.S., that no more than 25 percent of any fund may be invested in foreign securities or bonds. The SBA exception is located in s. 215.47(20), F.S., because s. 112.661(5)(a), F.S., subjects local retirement systems and plans to the limitations in s. 215.47(5), F.S.

- No more than 10 percent[4] of assets may be invested in alternative investments,[5] alternative investment vehicles,[6] and other non-publicly-traded investments.

Exchange-Traded Funds

Exchange-traded funds (ETFs) are a type of exchange-traded investment product. Investors use ETFs as a way to pool their money in a fund that makes investments in stocks, bonds, or other assets and, in return, to receive an interest in that investment pool. Unlike mutual funds, however, ETF shares are traded on a national stock exchange and at market prices that may or may not be the same as the net asset value of the shares. ETFs were initially designed to track the performance of specific U.S. equity indexes; those types of index-based ETFs continue to be the predominant type of ETF offered and sold in the United States. Newer ETFs, however, also seek to track indexes of fixed-income instruments and foreign securities.[7]

The SBA does not currently invest in ETFs, and ch. 215, F.S., does not address the use of ETFs by the SBA.

Protecting Florida Investments Act

In 2007, the Legislature enacted[8] the Protecting Florida's Investments Act (PFIA). The PFIA requires the SBA, acting on behalf of the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund (FRSTF), to assemble and publish a list of "Scrutinized Companies" that have prohibited business operations in Sudan and Iran. Once placed on the list of Scrutinized Companies, the SBA and its investment managers are prohibited from acquiring those companies' securities[9] and are required to divest those securities if the companies[10] do not cease the prohibited activities or take certain compensating actions. The implementation of the PFIA by the SBA does not affect any FRSTF investments in U.S. companies; the PFIA affects foreign companies with certain business operations in Sudan and Iran involving the petroleum or energy sector, oil or mineral extraction, power production, or military support activities.

The definition of "company" for purposes of the PFIA includes all wholly-owned subsidiaries, majority-owned subsidiaries, parent companies, or affiliates of entities or business associations.

According to staff of the SBA, the PFIA imposes the following reporting, engagement, and investment requirements on the SBA:

[4] The cap on alternative investments was last changed in 2008, when it was raised from 5% to 10% by Ch. 2008-31, L.O.F.
[5] An "alternative investment" is defined in s. 215.4401(3)(a)1., F.S., as "an investment by the State Board of Administration in a private equity fund, venture fund, hedge fund, or distress fund or a direct investment in a portfolio company through an investment manager."
[6] An "alternative investment vehicle" is defined in s. 215.4401(3)(a)2., F.S., as the "limited partnership, limited liability company, or similar legal structure or investment manager through which the State Board of Administration invests in a portfolio company."
[7] All of the information in this paragraph is from a Securities and Exchange Commission Investor Bulletin available at: https://www.sec.gov/investor/alerts/etfs.pdf, last visited on March 26, 2014.
[8] Chapter 2007-88, L.O.F.; Senate Bill 2142.
[9] Section 215.473(3)(c), F.S.
[10] Section 215.473(3)(b), F.S.

- Quarterly reporting to the Board of Trustees of every equity security in which the SBA has invested for the quarter, along with its industry category. This report is posted on the SBA website.
- Quarterly presentation to the Trustees of a "Scrutinized Companies" list for both Sudan and Iran for their approval. Scrutinized Company lists are available on the SBA's website[11], along with information on the FRSTF direct and indirect holdings of Scrutinized Companies.
- Written notice to external investment managers of all PFIA requirements. Letters request that the managers of actively managed commingled vehicles (i.e., those with FRSTF and other clients' assets) consider removing Scrutinized Companies from the product or create a similar actively managed product that excludes such companies. Similar written requests must be provided to relevant investment managers within the Investment Plan.
- Written notice to any company with inactive business operations in Sudan or Iran, informing the company of the PFIA and encouraging it to continue to refrain from reinitiating active business operations. Such correspondence continues semiannually.
- Written notice to any Scrutinized Company with active business operations, informing the company of its Scrutinized Company status and that it may become subject to divestment. The written notice must inform the company of the opportunity to clarify its Sudan-related or Iran-related activities and encourage the company, within 90 days, to cease its scrutinized business operations or convert such operations to inactive status.
- A prohibition on further investment on behalf of the FRSTF in any Scrutinized Company once the Sudan and Iran scrutinized lists have been approved by the Trustees. All publicly traded securities of Scrutinized Companies must be divested within 12 months after the company's initial (and continued) appearance on the Scrutinized Companies list. Divestment does not apply to indirect holdings in actively managed commingled investment funds—i.e., where the SBA is not the sole investor in the fund. Private equity funds are considered to be actively managed.
- Reporting to each member of the Board of Trustees, President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of Scrutinized Company lists within 30 days of creation, and public disclosure of each list.
- Quarterly reporting to each member of the Board of Trustees, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the United States Presidential Special Envoy to Sudan, and the United States Presidential Special Envoy to Iran.[12] The report must include the following:
  - A summary of correspondence with engaged companies;
  - A listing of all investments sold, redeemed, divested, or withdrawn;
  - A listing of all prohibited investments;
  - A description of any progress related to external managers offering PFIA compliant funds; and
  - A list of all publicly traded securities held directly by the state.
- Adoption and incorporation into the FRSTF Investment Policy Statement (IPS) of SBA actions taken in accordance with the PFIA. Changes to the IPS are reviewed by the Investment Advisory Council (IAC) and approved by the Trustees.

[11] The quarterly reports are available at http://www.sbafla.com/fsb/FundsWeManage/FRSPensionPlan/PFIA/2013QuarterlyReports/tabid/1483/Default.aspx
[12] Section 215.473(4)(b), F.S.

- Relevant Sudan or Iran portions of the PFIA are discontinued if the Congress or President of the United States passes legislation, executive order, or other written certification that:
  - Darfur genocide has been halted for at least 12 months;
  - Sanctions imposed against the Government of Sudan are revoked;
  - Government of Sudan honors its commitments to cease attacks on civilians, demobilize and demilitarize the Janjaweed and associated militias, grant free and unfettered access for deliveries of humanitarian assistance, and allow for the safe and voluntary return of refugees and internally displaced persons;
  - Government of Iran has ceased to acquire weapons of mass destruction and support international terrorism;
  - Sanctions imposed against the government of Iran are revoked; or
  - Mandatory divestment of the type provided for by the PFIA interferes with the conduct of U.S. foreign policy.
- Cessation of divestment and/or reinvestment into previously divested companies may occur if the value of all FRSTF assets under management decreases by 50 basis points (0.5 percent) or more as a result of divestment. If cessation of divestment is triggered, the SBA is required to provide a written report to each member of the Board of Trustees, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives prior to initial reinvestment. Such condition is required to be updated semiannually.

Sudan and South Sudan

Previous to the enactment of the PFIA in 2007, Sudan had been embroiled in a north-south civil war, until a Comprehensive Peace Agreement was signed in 2005. Southern Sudan was granted a six-year period of autonomy to be followed by a referendum on independence. That referendum was held in January 2011, and resulted in an overwhelming vote in favor of succession from Sudan. The southern Sudan region attained independence on July 9, 2011, as South Sudan.[13]

The PFIA in s. 215.473, F.S., contains references to Sudan that are now outdated and inaccurate, including details about the government structures of Sudan and the southern Sudan region as they existed in 2007.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

SBA Investments in Foreign Securities

Section 1 amends s. 215.47, F.S., to allow the SBA to invest up to 50 percent of any of its funds in foreign corporate securities and obligations, up from the current maximum of 35 percent.

Section 2 amends s. 215.473, F.S., by amending the definition of "indirect holdings" to clarify that the securities included are held in a commingled fund or other collective instrument, whether managed by an SBA employee or not. The bill also changes references in s. 215.473, F.S., to Sudan and South Sudan, to reflect current geopolitical reality, makes corresponding corrections to cross-references, and makes technical and grammatical changes.

Assets of Insurers

Section 3 creates s. 624.449, F.S., related to assets of insurers invested in companies doing business in Iran and Sudan. The bill provides that a domestic insurer must provide to the Office of Insurance Regulation, annually, a list of all investments that the insurer has in the companies included on the "Scrutinized Companies with Activities in Sudan List" and "Scrutinized Companies with Activities in the Iran Petroleum Energy Sector List." The list must include the name of the issuer of the stock, bond, security, and other evidence of indebtedness.

Severability Clause and Effective Date

The bill provides that the invalidation of any one provision of the act does not affect other provisions that could still be given legal effect.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

D. Other Constitutional Issues:

Article III, s. 6 of the Florida Constitution provides that "[e]very law shall embrace but one subject and matter properly connected therewith, and the subject shall be briefly expressed in the title." The single subject clause contains three requirements: that each law embrace only one subject, that the law may include any matter that is properly connected with the subject, and that the subject be briefly expressed in the title.[14] The single subject of an act is to be derived from the short title.[15] "A connection between a provision [in an act] and the subject is proper (1) if the connection is natural or logical, or (2) if there is a reasonable explanation for how the provision is (a) necessary to the subject or (b) tends to make effective or promote the objects and purposes of legislation included in the subject."[16]

The short title of this bill is "[a]n act relating to foreign investments," and the bill contains provisions relating to the proportion of funds the SBA may invest in foreign securities, restrictions on SBA's ability to invest in scrutinized foreign companies doing business in Iran and Sudan, and regulatory and divestiture requirements for insurers with investments in scrutinized foreign companies. If this bill were challenged under the single subject provision of the constitution, a court would apply a highly deferential standard of review.[17]

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/CS/CS/SB 948 requires insurers with investments in companies on the "Scrutinized Companies with Activities in Sudan List" and "Scrutinized Companies with Activities in the Iran Petroleum Energy Sector List" to report such investments, quarterly, to the Office of Insurance Regulation.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The fiscal impact is indeterminate.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 215.47 and 215.473.

This bill creates section 624.449 of the Florida Statutes.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The CS provides that reports of insurers to the Office of Insurance Regulation on all investments the insurer has in companies on the "Scrutinized Companies with activities in Sudan List" and the "Scrutinized Companies with activities in the Iran Petroleum Energy Sector List" must be filed annually, rather than quarterly.

CS/CS by Banking and Insurance on March 25, 2014:
The CS removes the requirement that domestic insurers must, within 36 months, divest any investments in a company that is included on the Iran and Sudan scrutinized company lists.

CS by Governmental Oversight and Accountability on March 6, 2014:
The CS removes a definitional change that allows an affiliate or wholly owned subsidiary doing business in Sudan or Iran to not impact the scrutinized company status of the parent company. Current law will therefore be retained, which requires the actions of affiliates and subsidiaries to impact the parent company's scrutinized company status.

The CS also removes language unnecessary to the implementation of the insurer divestment provisions.

B. Amendments:

None.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/CS/SB 950 revises the requirements for instructional personnel who supervise or direct educator preparation students during field experience courses or internships. The bill also revises the K-12 educator certification requirements to authorize the use of additional assessment options, align competencies across preparation program types, and provide flexibility for training and inservice requirements.

The bill authorizes the State Board of Education to adopt rules regarding additional examinations that may be used by teacher certification applicants to demonstrate mastery of general knowledge and subject area knowledge and educator preparation programs that may be used to demonstrate professional preparation and education competence.

Under the bill, applicants with teaching experience in a Florida College System institution, state university, or private college or university must meet additional requirements to demonstrate mastery of professional preparation and education competence. The applicant must have taught on a full-time basis and must achieve a passing score on the professional education competency examination required by State Board of Education rule.

The bill requires that scientifically based reading instruction must be included in a district competency-based professional development certification program.

With respect to renewal of a professional certificate, the bill provides that an applicant may renew a subject area specialization by passing a State Board of Education approved subject area test or another standardized examination in lieu of college course credit or inservice points.

In addition, the bill requires the State Board of Education to adopt rules that would expand training for renewal of professional certificates for educators who must complete training in teaching students with disabilities.

The bill permits the assignment of newly hired instructional personnel to a school that has earned a grade of "F" in the previous year or any combination of three consecutive grades of "D" or "F" in the previous three years pursuant to s. 1008.34, F.S., if they meet specific requirements related to training, teaching experience, performance, and certification.

The bill also allows a consortium of charter schools to develop a professional development system and repeals a longitudinal study that compared the performance of Florida educators who met certification requirements through different mechanisms.

This bill does not have a fiscal impact on the state.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

An expired professional certificate may be reinstated if the applicant:[42]

- Submits an application for reinstatement;
- Submits to fingerprinting and background screening; and
- In the five years immediately preceding the application for reinstatement, completes the college credit and inservice point requirements for renewal and passes the subject area exam for each subject area to be reinstated.

Postsecondary Educator Preparation Programs

Florida provides several pathways to meet professional teacher certification requirements, including traditional teacher preparation programs provided by universities and colleges for individuals seeking a degree.[43] The Educator Preparation Institutes (EPI) and school district competency-based professional development certification programs provide individuals who already have baccalaureate degrees with professional training on the competencies needed for professional certification.[44]

The law provides special requirements for peer mentors and postsecondary instructors and school district personnel who instruct and supervise students during their clinical experiences.[45] During field experience courses or internships, all school district personnel and instructional personnel who supervise or direct teacher preparation students in traditional teacher preparation programs and educator preparation institutes must:

- Have evidence of "clinical educator" training;
- Hold a valid state-issued professional certificate;
- Have at least three years of teaching experience in prekindergarten through grade 12; and
- Have earned an "effective" or "highly effective" rating on the prior year's performance evaluation or be a peer evaluator under the district's approved evaluation system.[46]

Educator Performance Evaluations

Components of the each school district's instructional personnel and school administrator performance evaluation system are divided into three parts: performance of students; instructional practice or leadership; (for instructional or administrative personnel, respectively); and professional responsibilities.[47] Florida's educator evaluation system differentiates among four levels: highly effective; effective; needs improvement; or, for instructional personnel in the first three years of employment who need improvement, developing;[48] and unsatisfactory.[49]

Assignment of Classroom Teachers to Schools Graded "D" or "F"

Current law prohibits school districts from assigning a higher percentage than the school district average of temporarily certified teachers, teachers in need of improvement, or out-of-field teachers to schools graded "D" or "F".[50] Each school district must annually certify to the Commissioner of Education that this requirement has been met.[51] If the Commissioner determines that a school district is not in compliance with this provision, the State Board of Education must be notified and must take action pursuant to s. 1008.32, F.S., to require compliance.[52]

School Grades

Current law provides that the criteria for designating school performance grades for elementary schools, middle schools, and high schools, are based on a combination of student achievement, student learning gains, the improvement of the lowest 25th percentile of students in the school in Reading or English Language Arts and Mathematics, as measured by standardized statewide assessments, unless these students are exhibiting satisfactory performance.[53] For middle schools and high schools, there are additional criteria for participation and performance in accelerated courses.[54] Additionally, high school criteria include graduation rates, postsecondary readiness, performance on statewide, standardized end-of-course assessments, and the growth or decline in specific high school data components.[55]

The law specifies the letter grades used to designate school performance: "A," schools making excellent progress; "B," schools making above average progress; "C," schools making satisfactory progress; "D," schools making less than satisfactory progress; and "F," schools failing to make adequate progress.[56] competencies across preparation program types, and provide flexibility for training and inservice requirements.

The bill deletes reference to the obsolete CLAST test that was used as a way to demonstrate mastery of general knowledge. According to the DOE, more than a decade has passed since this provision was enacted to provide a transition period for educator certification applicants who earned a passing score on the CLAST prior to July 1, 2002.[57]

The bill establishes requirements for instructional personnel who supervise or direct teacher preparation students during field experience courses or internships in another state or on a U.S. military base outside the U.S. through a Florida online or distance program. Instructional personnel in another state must have received clinical educator training or its equivalent in that state, hold a valid professional certificate issued by that state, and have at least three years of teaching experience in prekindergarten through grade 12. Similarly, instructional personnel on a U.S. military base outside the U.S. must have received clinical educator training or its equivalent; hold a valid professional certificate issued by a state, U.S. territory, or the Department of Defense; and have at least three years teaching experience in prekindergarten through grade 12.

The bill permits an applicant for an educator certificate to demonstrate mastery of general knowledge by passing a national or international examination that assesses comparable content and relevant standards in verbal, analytical writing, and quantitative reasoning skills.[58] This includes the verbal, analytical writing, and quantitative reasoning portions of the Graduate Record Examination. Passing scores identified in State Board of Education rule must be at approximately the same level of rigor as is required to pass the general knowledge examination.

The bill authorizes the State Board of Education to adopt by rule additional examinations that may be used by applicants to demonstrate mastery of subject area knowledge.[59] The board may adopt not only the world language exams administered by ACTFL, but also standardized subject area examinations for which Florida has no examinations.

Applicants with teaching experience in a Florida College System institution, state university, or private college or university must meet additional requirements to demonstrate mastery of professional preparation and education competence. Currently, applicants must document two semesters of successful teaching. Under the bill, applicants must also have taught on a full-time basis and must achieve a passing score on the professional education competency examination required by State Board of Education rule.

The bill permits the State Board of Education to adopt rules to approve specific educator preparation programs that may be used by an applicant to demonstrate mastery of professional preparation and education competence.

[58] This provision is effective July1, 2015.
[59] Id.

The bill requires that scientifically based reading instruction must be included in a district competency-based professional development program. According to the DOE, this provision aligns the program with the competencies required in other educator preparation programs approved by the department.[60]

With respect to renewal of a professional certificate, the bill provides that an applicant may renew a subject area specialization by passing a subject area test approved by the State Board of Education or another standardized examination in lieu of college course credit or inservice points.

In addition, the bill requires the State Board of Education to adopt rules that would expand training for renewal of professional certificates for educators who must complete training in teaching students with disabilities.[61] This will allow a teacher who holds a professional certificate to use college credits or inservice points earned through training in teaching students with disabilities, in excess of six semester hours during one certificate-validity period, toward renewal of the professional certificate during subsequent validity periods. For a teacher with a temporary certificate, the rules must allow college credits or inservice points earned through training in teaching of such students to be used toward renewal of the teacher's first professional certificate.

The bill requires the State Board of Education to adopt rules that would require an applicant for reinstatement of an expired professional certificate to earn a minimum of one college credit, or the equivalent inservice points, in the area of instruction for teaching students with disabilities. The credit may be included as one of the six college credits or equivalent inservice points the applicant must earn during the five years immediately preceding reinstatement of the expired certificate.

Other

The bill repeals a longitudinal study that compared the performance of Florida educators who met the certification requirements through different mechanisms (e.g., graduating from a Florida teacher preparation program or holding a professional certificate from another state).

The bill also allows a consortium of charter schools that meet specific statutory requirements[62] to develop a professional development system that includes a master plan for inservice activities.

Assignment of Classroom Teachers to Schools Graded "D" or "F"

The law also provides that this requirement may not add to the total hours required by the DOE for continuing education or inservice training. This requirement is effective beginning July 1, 2014. COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 950 revises the requirements for instructional personnel who supervise or direct educator preparation students during field experience courses or internships. The bill also revises the K-12 educator certification requirements to authorize the use of additional assessment options, align competencies across preparation program types, and provide flexibility for training and inservice requirements.

The bill authorizes the State Board of Education to adopt rules regarding additional examinations that may be used by teacher certification applicants to demonstrate mastery of general knowledge and subject area knowledge and educator preparation programs that may be used to demonstrate professional preparation and education competence.

Under the bill, applicants with teaching experience in a Florida College System institution, state university, or private college or university must meet additional requirements to demonstrate mastery of professional preparation and education competence. The applicant must have taught on a full-time basis and must achieve a passing score on the professional education competency examination required by State Board of Education rule.

The bill requires that scientifically based reading instruction must be included in a district competency-based professional development certification program.

With respect to renewal of a professional certificate, the bill provides that an applicant may renew a subject area specialization by passing a State Board of Education approved subject area test or another standardized examination in lieu of college course credit or inservice points.

In addition, the bill requires the State Board of Education to adopt rules that would expand training for renewal of professional certificates for educators who must complete training in teaching students with disabilities.

The bill permits the assignment of newly hired instructional personnel to a school that has earned a grade of "F" in the previous year or any combination of three consecutive grades of "D" or "F" in the previous three years pursuant to s. 1008.34, F.S., if they meet specific requirements related to training, teaching experience, performance, and certification.

The bill also allows a consortium of charter schools to develop a professional development system and repeals a longitudinal study that compared the performance of Florida educators who met certification requirements through different mechanisms.

This bill does not have a fiscal impact on the state.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

Components of the each school district's instructional personnel and school administrator performance evaluation system are divided into three parts: performance of students; instructional practice or leadership; (for instructional or administrative personnel, respectively); and professional responsibilities.[47] Florida's educator evaluation system differentiates among four

Assignment of Classroom Teachers to Schools Graded "D" or "F"

Current law prohibits school districts from assigning a higher percentage than the school district average of temporarily certified teachers, teachers in need of improvement, or out-of-field teachers to schools graded "D" or "F".[50] Each school district must annually certify to the Commissioner of Education that this requirement has been met.[51] If the Commissioner determines that a school district is not in compliance with this provision, the State Board of Education must be notified and must take action pursuant to s. 1008.32, F.S., to require compliance.[52]

School Grades

Current law provides that the criteria for designating school performance grades for elementary schools, middle schools, and high schools, are based on a combination of student achievement, student learning gains, the improvement of the lowest 25th percentile of students in the school in Reading or English Language Arts and Mathematics, as measured by standardized statewide assessments, unless these students are exhibiting satisfactory performance.[53] For middle schools and high schools, there are additional criteria for participation and performance in accelerated courses.[54] Additionally, high school criteria include graduation rates, postsecondary readiness, performance on statewide, standardized end-of-course assessments, and the growth or decline in specific high school data components.[55]

The law specifies the letter grades used to designate school performance: "A," schools making excellent progress; "B," schools making above average progress; "C," schools making satisfactory progress; "D," schools making less than satisfactory progress; and "F," schools failing to make adequate progress.[56] competencies across preparation program types, and provide flexibility for training and inservice requirements.

The bill deletes reference to the obsolete CLAST test that was used as a way to demonstrate mastery of general knowledge. According to the DOE, more than a decade has passed since this provision was enacted to provide a transition period for educator certification applicants who earned a passing score on the CLAST prior to July 1, 2002.[57]

The bill establishes requirements for instructional personnel who supervise or direct teacher preparation students during field experience courses or internships in another state or on a U.S. military base outside the U.S. through a Florida online or distance program. Instructional personnel in another state must have received clinical educator training or its equivalent in that state, hold a valid professional certificate issued by that state, and have at least three years of teaching experience in prekindergarten through grade 12. Similarly, instructional personnel on a U.S. military base outside the U.S. must have received clinical educator training or its equivalent; hold a valid professional certificate issued by a state, U.S. territory, or the Department of Defense; and have at least three years teaching experience in prekindergarten through grade 12.

The bill permits an applicant for an educator certificate to demonstrate mastery of general knowledge by passing a national or international examination that assesses comparable content and relevant standards in verbal, analytical writing, and quantitative reasoning skills.[58] This includes the verbal, analytical writing, and quantitative reasoning portions of the Graduate Record Examination. Passing scores identified in State Board of Education rule must be at approximately the same level of rigor as is required to pass the general knowledge examination.

The bill authorizes the State Board of Education to adopt by rule additional examinations that may be used by applicants to demonstrate mastery of subject area knowledge.[59] The board may adopt not only the world language exams administered by ACTFL, but also standardized subject area examinations for which Florida has no examinations.

Applicants with teaching experience in a Florida College System institution, state university, or private college or university must meet additional requirements to demonstrate mastery of professional preparation and education competence. Currently, applicants must document two semesters of successful teaching. Under the bill, applicants must also have taught on a full-time basis and must achieve a passing score on the professional education competency examination required by State Board of Education rule.

The bill permits the State Board of Education to adopt rules to approve specific educator preparation programs that may be used by an applicant to demonstrate mastery of professional preparation and education competence.

[58] This provision is effective July1, 2015.
[59] Id.

The bill requires that scientifically based reading instruction must be included in a district competency-based professional development program. According to the DOE, this provision aligns the program with the competencies required in other educator preparation programs approved by the department.[60]

With respect to renewal of a professional certificate, the bill provides that an applicant may renew a subject area specialization by passing a subject area test approved by the State Board of Education or another standardized examination in lieu of college course credit or inservice points.

In addition, the bill requires the State Board of Education to adopt rules that would expand training for renewal of professional certificates for educators who must complete training in teaching students with disabilities.[61] This will allow a teacher who holds a professional certificate to use college credits or inservice points earned through training in teaching students with disabilities, in excess of six semester hours during one certificate-validity period, toward renewal of the professional certificate during subsequent validity periods. For a teacher with a temporary certificate, the rules must allow college credits or inservice points earned through training in teaching of such students to be used toward renewal of the teacher's first professional certificate.

The bill requires the State Board of Education to adopt rules that would require an applicant for reinstatement of an expired professional certificate to earn a minimum of one college credit, or the equivalent inservice points, in the area of instruction for teaching students with disabilities. The credit may be included as one of the six college credits or equivalent inservice points the applicant must earn during the five years immediately preceding reinstatement of the expired certificate.

Other

The bill repeals a longitudinal study that compared the performance of Florida educators who met the certification requirements through different mechanisms (e.g., graduating from a Florida teacher preparation program or holding a professional certificate from another state).

The bill also allows a consortium of charter schools that meet specific statutory requirements[62] to develop a professional development system that includes a master plan for inservice activities.

The law also provides that this requirement may not add to the total hours required by the DOE for continuing education or inservice training. This requirement is effective beginning July 1, 2014. Rule 6A-4.0051(6) and (7)(e), F.A.C., specifies how an educator may satisfy the one credit or 20 inservice points required for renewal of the certificate.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 956 extends the expiration date by two years for any environmental resource permit issued by the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) or a Water Management District (WMD) with an expiration date from January 1, 2014, through January 1, 2016. The bill limits the permit time extension to four years.

The bill authorizes the DEP to grant areawide and general permits for coastal construction activities. With respect to area-wide permits, the DEP must consult with the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) for each areawide permit proposed. The bill requires the DEP to adopt rules to establish the criteria and guidelines for areawide and general permits.

The bill allows the DEP to receive gifts and donations for the administration, development, improvement, promotion, and maintenance of aquatic preserves, as well as for the future acquisition or development of aquatic preserves. In addition, the bill allows the DEP to promote the public use of aquatic preserves by authorizing privileges or concessions for visitor accommodations. The bill provides for transparency and public input regarding privileges and concessions.

The bill prohibits DEP from granting new concession agreements after May 1, 2014, in state parks that provide beach access and contain less than 7,000 linear feet of shoreline and the concession is available within 1,500 feet of the park's boundaries.

The DEP estimates a reduction in revenue from reduced permit fees of approximately $66,000 in the Permit Fee Trust Fund. Since the fund currently collects over $12 million annually, this reduction is insignificant. The state should realize an indeterminate positive fiscal impact from promoting the public use of aquatic preserves. The DEP will need additional resources for this purpose. See Section V. Fiscal Impact Statement.

II. Present Situation:

In 2009, the Legislature passed SB 360, providing a retroactive two-year extension and renewal from the date of expiration for:

- Any permit issued by the DEP or a WMD pursuant to Part IV of ch. 373, F.S.;
- Any development order issued by the Department of Community Affairs pursuant to s. 380.06, F.S.; and
- Any development order, building permit, or other land use approval issued by a local government that expired on or after September 1, 2008, but before January 1, 2012.[1]

The extension applied to phase, commencement, and buildout dates, including a buildout date extension previously granted under s. 380.016(19)(c), F.S., for development orders and land use approvals, including but not limited to certificates of concurrency and development agreements.

Those requesting an extension were required to notify the authorizing agency in writing. The notification was required to specify which permit was intended to be extended and the timeframe for acting on the authorization. Requests were due no later than December 31, 2009.[2]

The extension did not apply to a permit or authorization:

- Under a programmatic or regional general permit issued by the United States Army Corps of Engineers;
- For owners and operators who are determined to be in significant noncompliance with the conditions of a permit eligible for an extension; or
- That would delay or prevent compliance with a court order if extended.

The rules in place at the time the initial permit or authorization was issued applied to the extension. Modifications to the permits and authorizations were also governed by rules in place at the time the permit or authorization was issued; however, a modification could not extend the time limit beyond two years.[3]

In 2010, the Legislature passed SB 1752, which reauthorized the two-year time extension granted in 2009 because the underlying law was being challenged in court.[4] Entities requesting an extension and renewal of the permit were required to notify the authorizing agency in writing.[5]

The law also extended and renewed the expiration date for permits that expired between September 1, 2008, and January 1, 2012. This extension was in addition to the extension granted in 2009 and applied to the same types of permits. The permittee was required to request the extension in writing from the DEP no later than December 31, 2010. The request had to include the authorization the permittee intended to use the extension for and the timeframe for acting on the authorization.[6]

In 2011, the Legislature extended and renewed the permits that were previously extended in 2009 and 2010 for an additional two years. The permittee was required to request the extension in writing from the DEP no later than December 31, 2011. The request had to include the authorization the permittee intended to use the extension for and the timeframe for acting on the authorization.[7]

In 2011, the Legislature passed HB 7207, to extend and renew a building permit or environmental resource permit that had an expiration date of January 1, 2012, through January 1, 2014. The extension included any development order or building permit issued by a local government, including certificates or levels of services. The extension was in addition to any existing permit extension. Development of regional impact order extensions under s. 380.06(19)(c)2., F.S., were not eligible for this extension and any permit that received a cumulative extension of four years due to previous extension was not eligible for this extension.[8]

Coastal Construction Control Line

Florida's coastline spans more than 1,260 miles; 825 miles of which are considered sandy beaches fronting the Atlantic Ocean, the Gulf of Mexico and the Straits of Florida.[9] Florida's beach and dune system are vital components of the delicate coastal ecosystem, providing habitat to hundreds of species of plants and animals. The beach and dune system is also critical in protecting uplands and coastal development during storm events.[10] Florida's beaches are a primary tourist destination, attracting 38 million visitors in 2012 and providing $55 billion in sales to the state's economy.[11]

[4] Chapter 2009-96, Laws of Fla., was being challenged in court, see City of Weston v. Crist, Case No. 09-CA-2639 (Fla. 2d Cir. Ct. 2010); therefore, the Legislature reauthorized the permit extension granted in ch. 2009-96, Laws of Fla., in order to protect those who relied on the extension.

In 1965, the Legislature enacted the Florida Beaches and Shores Preservation Act (Act). The Act authorized the former Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to regulate construction and physical activity on or seaward of the state's beaches and required individuals, municipalities, and counties to obtain a permit for any coastal construction seaward of the mean high water line.[12]

In 1970, the Legislature established a setback line for coastal construction and excavation. The coastal construction setback line prohibited coastal construction and excavation within 50 feet of the mean high water line at any riparian coastal location fronting the Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic Ocean. The law provided waivers and variances for the setback requirement and provided an exemption for shore protection structures.[13]

Section 161.053, F.S., enacted in 1971, required setback lines on a county by county basis along the sandy beaches of the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. The DNR was required to conduct a comprehensive engineering study and topographic survey to establish the setback lines necessary for the protection of upland properties and to control coastal erosion. The law required that a public hearing be held for each setback line established and that the established setback lines be recorded in the public records of the county and municipality affected.[14]

In 1978, s. 161.052, F.S., was amended to change the construction setback lines to Coastal Construction Control Lines (CCCL) and provided the DNR with authority to issue permits for construction activities that previously required a waiver or variance.

The CCCL requirements, established in s. 161.053, F.S., were significantly amended in 1996, to exempt proposed construction located seaward of the CCCL and landward of existing armoring from specific siting and design criteria. The law also allowed the DEP to grant areawide permits to local governments, governmental agencies, and utilities for specific activities, including, but not limited to, road repairs, utility repairs and replacements, beach cleaning, and emergency response. To qualify for an areawide permit, the statute requires that the activities "will not cause measureable interference with the natural functioning of the beach dune system or with marine turtles or their nesting sites."[15] The DEP is authorized to establish rules and criteria to administer this section; however, rules have not been adopted for areawide permits.

Section 161.053, F.S., also provides the DEP with the authority to issue general permits. General permits may be issued where a general permit line has been established and the activity "will not cause measureable interference with the natural functioning of the beach dune system or with marine turtles or their nesting sites."[16] Activities that may be authorized under a general permit include: dune walkovers, decks, fences, landscaping, sidewalks, driveways, pool resurfacing, minor pool repairs, and other nonhabitable structures. A single-family habitable structure may qualify for a general permit as long as it does not advance the existing line of construction and satisfies all siting and design requirements. Multi-family habitable structures do not qualify for a general permit. The DEP adopted Rule 62B-34, F.A.C., to establish the criteria and guidelines for the issuance of a general permit.

Florida State Parks

The DEP Division of Recreation and Parks (division) manages Florida's 161 state parks and 10 state trails that encompass approximately 800,000 acres and 100 miles of sandy white beaches. Florida's state parks provide valuable resources based recreational activities including fishing, diving, swimming, camping, and hiking. During Fiscal Year 2012-2013, more than 25 million people visited the state parks, providing over $55 million in state revenue.[17]

Section 258.007(3), F.S., provides the division authority to grant privileges, leases, concessions, and permits for the use of state parks for the accommodation of visitors. Currently the division has entered into 86 concession agreements that generate approximately $31.4 million in gross revenue, of which approximately $4 million is paid to the state.[18] Concession operations provide services such as merchandise sales, passenger ferry services, boat and land tours, food and beverage services, recreational equipment rentals, pier operations, campground operations, and recreational skills instruction.[19]

Aquatic Preserves

The Florida Aquatic Preserve Act was enacted in 1975 to set aside and protect state-owned submerged lands that have "exceptional biological, aesthetic, and scientific value."[20] There are 41 aquatic preserves protecting approximately 2.2 million acres in Florida.[21]

Aquatic preserves serve many valuable ecological and economic functions. The aquatic preserves provide nurseries for juvenile fish and other aquatic life, maintain water quality, and provide habitat for shorebirds. The aquatic preserves are also valuable tourist destinations, providing a host of outdoor activities such as fishing, diving, snorkeling, swimming, bird watching, and boating.[22]

The DEP is responsible for managing the state's aquatic preserves by maintaining a healthy balance of resource protection and promoting public access to the preserves.[23] The DEP adopted Rule Chapters 18-18 and 18-20, F.A.C., which specify the additional resource protections, management criteria, and regulations related to human activity that are permitted within an aquatic preserve.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 creates an undesignated section of Florida law to extend and renew the permit extensions from previous years. The bill extends the expiration date by two years for any environmental resource permit issued by the DEP or a WMD with an expiration date from January 1, 2014, through January 1, 2016. The extension includes local government-issued development orders or building permits, including certificates of level of service. The bill does not prohibit the conversion from the construction phase to the operation phase upon completion of construction. The extension is in addition to any existing permit extensions; however, the total permit extension time for this bill and the 2009, 2010, and 2011 extensions cannot exceed four years.

The bill extends the dates for commencement and completion for any required mitigation associated with a phased construction project. The extension does not apply to:

- A permit or authorization under a programmatic or regional permit issued by the United States Army Corps of Engineers;
- A permit or authorization held by an owner or operator determined to be in significant noncompliance with the conditions of the permit or authorization; or
- A permit or authorization that would be out of compliance with a court order if extended.

The bill requires that permit extensions are subject to the rules in effect at the time the permit was issued, unless the rules would create an immediate threat to public safety or health. This provision applies to any modification of the plans, terms, and conditions of the permit. A modification cannot extend the time limit beyond two additional years.

The bill authorizes a county or municipality to require a property owner that has requested an extension to maintain and secure the property in a safe and sanitary condition in compliance with applicable laws.

Section 2 amends s. 258.007, F.S., to prohibit the division from granting new concession agreements after May 1, 2014, in a state park that provides beach access and contains less than 7,000 linear feet of shoreline if the concession is available within 1,500 feet of the park's boundaries. The bill specifies that the provision does not apply to concession agreements for accommodations offered on or before May 1, 2014.

Section 3 amends s. 161.053, F.S., to require the DEP to adopt rules for areawide and general permits. The bill expands the types of activities allowed under each type of permit.

For areawide permits, the bill authorizes construction of minor structures and specifies dune restoration and on-grade walkovers qualify under this type of permit. The DEP must consult with the FWC for each proposed areawide permit.[24]

[24] Currently, the FWC is responsible for reviewing and commenting on administrative permits for coastal construction activities and reviewing beach lighting ordinances. This provision of the bill allows FWC to retain their involvement in the permitting process, which is of particular relevance with respect to swimming pools associated with single-family homes that produce an illuminating artificial light that may interfere with sea turtle nesting.

For general permits, the bill expands the types of activities to include dune restoration, construction of swimming pools associated with single-family habitable structures that do not advance the existing line of construction and comply with siting and design requirements, and minor reconstruction of existing coastal armoring structures.

Section 4 creates s. 258.435, F.S., promoting the use of aquatic preserves and their associated uplands. The bill allows the DEP to receive gifts and donations in order to promote the use of aquatic preserves. The funds received are to be deposited into the Land Acquisition Trust Fund for the administration, development, improvement, promotion, and maintenance of the preserves and their associated uplands. The gifts and donations may also be used for future acquisitions or development of aquatic preserves and their associated uplands.

The bill authorizes the DEP to grant a privilege or concession for the accommodation of visitors to an aquatic preserve as long as the privilege or concession does not interfere with the public's access to the preserve and is compatible with the preserve's management plan. It specifies that, in granting a concession, the DEP must base their decision on business plans, qualifications, approach, and specified expectations or criteria. A privilege or concession may not be assigned or transferred by the recipient without consent from the DEP. The public is afforded transparency and input measures, as the bill requires the DEP website to display proposed concession agreements, and allows for the public to comment on proposed concession agreements prior to execution of an agreement.

Section 5 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under CS/CS/CS/SB 956, developers or other entities holding a development permit or other authorization may realize a positive fiscal impact from permits that are extended or renewed for two years.

The bill may reduce the number of individual permits needed by the private sector for coastal construction projects, which may result in lower permitting costs for such projects.[25]

Private entities that enter into agreements with the DEP to provide vending services, accommodations, and recreational opportunities within an aquatic preserve will experience an indeterminate positive fiscal impact.[26]

C. Government Sector Impact:

The DEP and other governmental entities that issue permits subject to the extensions authorized in this bill may experience a negative fiscal impact due to the loss of permit renewal fees.

The bill will reduce revenues from permit fees within the Permit Fee Trust Fund. Activities that currently require administrative permits may now qualify for general permits or areawide permits. The DEP estimates approximately $66,000 in reduced revenues based on the number of permit applications and permit application fees from 2013.[27]

Conversely, local governments that apply for coastal construction permits will realize a cost savings as the number of required individual permits will decrease.

The DEP will need additional funding to promote the public use of Florida's aquatic preserves. The department has requested $250,000 in the agency's Fiscal Year 2014-2015 Legislative Budget Request to implement a targeted and creative ecotourism and marketing initiative. This issue has been included in both the Senate (SB 2500, as introduced) and House (HB 5001, as introduced) general appropriation bills.

The state will realize an indeterminate, positive fiscal impact from promoting the public use of aquatic preserves and their associated uplands. The DEP agency analysis includes examples of revenue generated from agreements with private entities. For example, at Little St. George Island, the DEP contracts with a concessionaire to provide an "all inclusive" primitive camping experience. The five year agreement allows the state to receive 13 percent of all gross receipts, excluding sales tax, providing approximately $148,000 over five years. At St. Joseph Bay Aquatic Preserve, the DEP contracts with a private entity to provide kayak and paddle boat excursions. The five year agreement allows for the state to receive 10 percent of gross revenue per year, providing approximately $50,000 over the next five years.[28]

[27] Id.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

The bill authorizes the DEP to grant areawide permits for construction of minor structures, including dune restoration and on-grade dune walkovers, which expands the allowable activities under an areawide permit. The statute states an areawide permit may be granted to local governments, governmental agencies, and utility companies as long as the activity does "not cause measureable interference with the natural functioning of the beach dune system or with marine turtles or their nesting sites." The DEP has not defined "dune restoration" in statute or rule; therefore, it is unclear if this type of activity will cause measureable interference with the beach dune system and marine turtles. The bill requires the DEP to adopt rules to establish the criteria and guidelines for areawide permit applications, which may resolve this issue.

The bill allows swimming pools to be permitted under a general permit as long as they do not advance the existing line of construction and "will not cause measureable interference with the natural functioning of the beach dune system or with marine turtles or their nesting sites." Rule 62B-33.002(60)(c) F.A.C., specifies a structure is considered a "major structure" if "as a result of design, location, or size [it] could cause an adverse impact to the beach and dune system." Rule 62B-33.002(60)(c)1, F.A.C., clarifies a swimming pool is considered a "nonhabitable major structure." The swimming pool provision in the bill could necessitate changes be made to the swimming pool criteria established in rule.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 161.053 and 258.007.

This bill creates section 258.435 of the Florida Statutes.

The bill creates an undesignated section of Florida Law.

WMD with an expiration date from January 1, 2014, through January 1, 2016. The bill limits permit extensions to four years.

- Prohibits the division from granting new concession agreements after May 1, 2014, in a state park that provides beach access and contains less than 7,000 linear feet of shoreline if the concession is available within 1,500 feet of the park's boundaries. The bill specifies that the provision does not apply to concession agreements for accommodations offered on or before May 1, 2014.

CS/CS by Community Affairs on March 25, 2014:
Requires the DEP to consult with FWC on each proposed areawide permit. With respect to the granting of concessions and privileges in aquatic preserves, the DEP would consider specified criteria, post proposed concession agreements on the DEP website, and ensure that the public has the opportunity for input.

CS by Environmental Preservation and Conservation on March 13, 2014:

- Requires the DEP to adopt rules to establish criteria and guidelines for areawide and general permits;
- Allows the DEP to issue a general permit for dune reconstruction, construction of swimming pools associated with single family habitable structures, and minor reconstruction of existing coastal armoring structures; and
- Deletes the term "lease" from the types of agreements the DEP may grant for visitor accommodations to aquatic preserves.

The Committee on Appropriations (Richter) recommended the following:

Senate Amendment (with title amendment)

Between lines 22 and 23 insert:
Section 1.
(1) Any building permit, and any permit issued by the Department of Environmental Protection or by a water management district pursuant to part IV of chapter 373, Florida Statutes, which has an expiration date from January 1, 2014, through January 1, 2016, is extended and renewed for a period of 2 years after its previously scheduled date of expiration. This extension includes any local government-issued development order or building permit including certificates of levels of service. This section does not prohibit conversion from the construction phase to the operation phase upon completion of construction. This extension is in addition to any existing permit extension. Extensions granted pursuant to this section; s. 14 of chapter 2009-96, Laws of Florida, as reauthorized by s. 47 of chapter 2010-147, Laws of Florida; s. 46 of chapter 2010-147, Laws of Florida; s. 73 or s. 79 of chapter 2011-139, Laws of Florida; or s. 24 of chapter 2012-205, Laws of Florida, may not exceed 4 years in total. Further, specific development order extensions granted pursuant to s. 380.06(19)(c)2., Florida Statutes, may not be further extended by this section.

(2) The commencement and completion dates for any required mitigation associated with a phased construction project are extended so that mitigation takes place in the same timeframe relative to the phase as originally permitted.

(3) The holder of a valid permit or other authorization that is eligible for the 2-year extension must notify the authorizing agency in writing by December 31, 2014, identifying the specific authorization for which the holder intends to use the extension and the anticipated timeframe for acting on the authorization.

(4) The extension provided in subsection (1) does not apply to:

(a) A permit or other authorization under any programmatic or regional general permit issued by the Army Corps of Engineers.

(b) A permit or other authorization held by an owner or operator determined to be in significant noncompliance with the conditions of the permit or authorization as established through the issuance of a warning letter or notice of violation, the initiation of formal enforcement, or other equivalent action by the authorizing agency.

(c) A permit or other authorization, if granted an extension that would delay or prevent compliance with a court order.

(5) Permits extended under this section shall continue to be governed by the rules in effect at the time the permit was issued unless it is demonstrated that the rules in effect at the time the permit was issued would create an immediate threat to public safety or health. This provision applies to any modification of the plans, terms, and conditions of the permit which lessens the environmental impact, except that any such modification does not extend the time limit beyond 2 additional years.

(6) This section does not impair the authority of a county or municipality to require the owner of a property who has notified the county or municipality of the owner's intent to receive the extension of time granted pursuant to this section to maintain and secure the property in a safe and sanitary condition in compliance with applicable laws and ordinances.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

BILL:	CS/CS/CS/SB 972
INTRODUCER:	Appropriations Committee; Judiciary Committee; Children, Families, and Elder Affairs Committee; and Senators Galvano and Bradley
SUBJECT:	Attorneys for Dependent Children with Special Needs
DATE:	April 24, 2014 REVISED:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 972 requires the court to appoint an attorney for any dependent children who have certain special needs.

A dependent child will qualify for an attorney if he or she:
- Already lives in, or is being considered for placement in a skilled nursing facility;
- Is prescribed a psychotropic medication but does not assent to take it;
- Has a developmental disability;
- Already lives in, or is being considered for placement in a residential treatment center; or
- Is a victim of human trafficking.

The bill requires the court to ask the statewide guardian ad litem office for a recommendation for an attorney willing to work without additional compensation, or pro bono, prior to the court appointing an attorney on a compensated basis. The attorney must be available for services within 15 days of the court's request. If, however, the statewide guardian ad litem does not make a recommendation within 15 days after the court's request, the court may appoint a compensated attorney. Any appointment by the court must be in writing.

The bill directs the attorney representing the child to provide the complete range of legal services from removal from the home or initial appointment through all appellate proceedings. With court permission, the attorney is authorized to arrange for supplemental or separate counsel to handle appellate matters.

The bill requires that, except for attorneys working pro bono, adequate compensation must be provided to attorneys appointed to represent dependent children with disabilities and access to funding for expert witnesses, depositions, and other costs of litigation. Payment of attorneys is subject to appropriation and to review by the Justice Administrative Commission (JAC) for reasonableness. Fees are capped at $1,000 per child per year. The bill requires the JAC to contract with all attorneys appointed by the court.

The bill requires the Department of Children and Families (DCF) to develop procedures for use in identifying a dependent child with qualifying special needs. The DCF is authorized to adopt rules for this purpose.

The bill preserves the power of the court to appoint an attorney for any dependent child under chapter 39, F.S.

The bill has a recurring fiscal impact of approximately $1.58 million a year based upon the Department of Children and Families' estimate of the number of dependent children who will qualify for an attorney pursuant to the bill's provisions.

II. Present Situation:

Dependent Children

A child that is determined by a court to be a dependent child, is a child who is dependent on the state for care and protection.[1] A child the court finds dependent is a child found:

- To have been abandoned, abused, or neglected by parents or legal custodians;
- To have been surrendered to the Department of Children & Family Services (DCF) or a licensed child-placing agency for adoption;
- To have been voluntarily placed with a licensed child-placing agency for adoption;
- To have been voluntarily placed with a licensed child-caring agency, a licensed child-placing agency, an adult relative, or the DCF, and after being placed a case plan expired and the parents or legal custodian failed to substantially comply with the plan;
- To have been voluntarily placed with a licensed child-placing agency for adoption and a parent or parents have signed a consent;
- To have no parent or legal custodians capable of providing supervision and care;
- To be at substantial risk of imminent abuse, abandonment or neglect by the parents or legal custodians; or
- To have been sexually exploited and to have no parent, legal custodian, or responsible adult relative currently known and capable of providing necessary and appropriate supervision and care.[2]

[1] See In re M.F., 770 So. 2d 1189, 1193 (Fla. 2000) (stating that the "purpose of a dependency proceeding is not to punish the offending parent but to protect and care for a child who has been neglected, abandoned, or abused").
[2] Section 39.01(15), F.S.

The dependency process in Florida begins with a call to the Florida Abuse Hotline (hotline).[3] If accepted by the hotline, the call is referred to a child protective investigator, who conducts an on-site investigation of the allegations of abuse, neglect, or abandonment.[4] If warranted, a dependency petition is filed with the court by DCF.[5] A child may be taken into custody and placed in a shelter without a prior hearing if there is probable cause of imminent danger or injury to the child, the parent or legal custodian, responsible adult relative has materially violated a condition of placement, or the child has no parent, legal custodian, or responsible adult relative immediately known and able to provide supervision and care.[6] In that instance, a judicial hearing must be held within 24 hours after removal of the child from the home.[7] A Guardian ad Litem must be appointed at the time of the shelter hearing.[8] If needed, an Attorney ad Litem may be appointed at this time as well.[9]

If a petition for dependency is filed, whether or not the child is taken into custody, the circuit court assigned to hear dependency cases (dependency court) will schedule an adjudicatory hearing to determine whether the child is dependent, based on a preponderance of the evidence.[10] If a court finds a child dependent, a disposition hearing is held to determine appropriate services and placement settings for the child.[11] At this hearing, the court also reviews and approves a case plan outlining services and desired goals for the child.[12]

The dependency court holds periodic judicial reviews to determine the child's status, progress in following the case plan, and the status of the goals and objectives of the case plan. These reviews will generally occur every six months.[13] If after 12 months, case plan goals have not been met, the court holds a permanency hearing to determine the child's permanent placement goal.[14]

Lawyers for Children in the Dependency System

While all parents in dependency court are entitled to counsel, and indigent parents are entitled to appointed counsel,[15] no provision in Florida law or rule requires appointment of counsel for dependent children, with a few exceptions, including children placed in a skilled nursing facility[16] and children facing involuntary commitment for mental health treatment under the

Baker Act.[17] Unlike parents, children have been found to have no constitutional right to representation by counsel in dependency court.[18]

In general, the federal and state approach to safeguarding the legal needs of children in the dependency system relies upon the appointment of guardians ad litem or attorneys ad litem. The Federal Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (CAPTA) requires states to document in their case plans provisions for appointing guardian ad litem to represent the child's best interest in every case of child abuse or neglect which results in a judicial proceeding.[19] The funds of the Florida guardian ad litem program support both lay volunteers who assist children in dependency proceedings and attorneys ad litem. The guardian ad litem program has succeeded in recruiting attorneys who wish to satisfy their pro bono expectations by representing children with various legal needs in dependency court.[20] When there are insufficient pro bono lawyers available and there are sufficient resources to do so, the guardian ad litem program may contract with legal aid, other programs, or private attorneys for the provision of these services.[21]

Florida law requires the appointment of a guardian ad litem for every child who is the subject of a dependency proceeding.[22] While the guardian ad litem program has requested funds to allow it to meet this mandate, the guardian ad litem indicates they have not been fully funded. As of November 2013, there were 29,285 dependent children under court supervision, of whom 22,281 (76 percent) had been appointed a guardian ad litem.[23] The guardian ad litem program also funds the current attorney ad litem program. The guardian ad litem attorney is required by program standards to request the appointment of an attorney ad litem in any case where doing so would further the best interests of the child. In addition, the court on its own motion or upon motion of any party, including the child, can appoint an attorney ad litem at any point in the dependency process.[24] Common reasons for seeking appointment of an attorney ad litem in dependency court include cases in which a child needs legal guardianship or where special expertise is needed in areas such as immigration law, disability law, or administrative forums. No statewide tracking mechanism exists for the appointment of attorneys ad litem for dependent children, because attorneys are appointed at the court circuit level. The budget for the guardian ad litem program in Fiscal Year 2012-2013 was $34.1 million dollars.[25] Last year, the guardian ad litem program spent approximately $360,000 in contracts for attorney ad litem services.[26] Each attorney ad litem is typically paid $500-$1,000 annually per child per year.[27]

[17] Section 394.467(4), F.S. requires the appointment of the Office of the Public Defender to represent any person for whom involuntary placement is sought pursuant to ch. 394, known as the Baker Act (s. 394.451, F.S.)

In addition to the services of the attorneys ad litem through the guardian ad litem program, other options exist for legal services for children. The Florida Bar Foundation provides grants to legal service providers, several law schools have clinics which serve children, and several Children's Councils[28] fund lawyers for children. Notable among efforts to provide legal services is the Foster Children's Project in Palm Beach County. This project, administered by the Legal Aid Society of Palm Beach County and funded by the Children's Services Council of Palm Beach County and the guardian ad litem program, provides every child in the foster care system between birth and 12 years of age, and their siblings, with an attorney to represent them in all court matters and to advocate for them to achieve permanency within 12 months. The project has recently been authorized to expand its representation to children zero to five years of age in relative placements.

The DCF estimates the number of children who would qualify for the appointment of attorneys under the provisions of this bill is 1,594.[29]

Dependent Children in Nursing Homes

The state is currently party to a lawsuit related to the placement of medically complex children in more restrictive settings such as nursing homes. The United States Department of Justice joined the lawsuit which alleges the state violated the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).[30] The Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) has worked with the families of over 200 children in nursing homes under the Medicaid program to ensure they are aware of and are provided in home health services. In addition, the DCF and the Agency for Persons (APD) with Disabilities have worked with medically complex children and their families to ensure the least restrictive placement.

The DCF reports that currently 11 dependent children reside in nursing homes.[31] According to the guardian ad litem program, counsel currently represent all of these children.

Dependent Children and Psychotropic Drugs

Florida law requires the DCF to obtain consent from parents or a court order before administering psychotropic drugs to a child, barring an emergency.[32] The statute directs, unless parental rights have been terminated, parents should be involved in decision-making regarding administration of these drugs. By rule, when a child of sufficient age, understanding, and [28] Florida Children's Councils, or Children's Services Councils, are locally established special taxing districts designed to provide services to children and families. Chapter 125, F.S., governs their creation and operation. The first Council was approved in 1946 in Pinellas County. There are currently Councils (with slight variances in names) in Broward, Duval, Hillsborough, Martin, Miami-Dade, Palm Beach, and St. Lucie counties. http://flchildrenscouncil.org/about-the-council/overview/ and http://flchildrenscouncil.org/about-cscs/member-cscs/ (last visited March 27, 2014).

Dependent Children and Residential Treatment Facilities

No information is available about the number of children being considered for placement in a residential treatment facility. Placement of a dependent child in a residential treatment facility is governed by the provisions of s. 39.407(6), F.S. This section provides placement must be the least restrictive alternative for the child and requires an immediate appointment of a guardian ad litem for the child if a guardian ad litem is not already provided. In addition, the Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure requires if a child does not agree with placement in a residential treatment facility, the court appoints an attorney for the child, if one has not already been appointed.[34]

Developmental Disabilities

A developmental disability is defined as a disorder or syndrome which manifests before the age of 18 and is due to intellectual disability, cerebral palsy, autism, spina bifida, or Prader-Willi syndrome, if the disability constitutes a substantial handicap reasonably expected to be permanent.[35]

Human Trafficking

The act of human trafficking is defined as transporting, soliciting, recruiting, harboring, providing, enticing, maintaining, or obtaining another person for the purpose of exploiting the person.[36]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill requires the court to appoint an attorney for any dependent child who has a qualifying special need. Neither Florida law, nor the courts, currently guarantee legal counsel for dependent children having special needs.

This bill applies to dependent children having special needs who:

- Already live in, or are being considered for placement in a skilled nursing facility;
- Are prescribed a psychotropic medication but do not assent to take it;
- Have a developmental disability as defined in s. 393.063, F.S.;
- Already live in, or are being considered for placement in a residential treatment center; or
- Are victims of human trafficking.

The bill requires the court to ask the statewide guardian ad litem office for a recommendation for an attorney willing to work without additional compensation, or pro bono, prior to the court appointing an attorney on a compensated basis. The pro bono attorney must be available for services within 15 days after the court's request. If, however, the statewide guardian ad litem does not make a recommendation within 15 days after the court's request, the court may appoint a compensated attorney. Any appointment by the court must be in writing. This provision prioritizes the use of pro bono attorneys or legal aid societies over other attorneys.

The bill directs the attorney representing the child to provide the complete range of legal services from removal from the home or initial appointment through all appellate proceedings. With court permission, the attorney is authorized to arrange for supplemental or separate counsel to handle appellate matters.

The bill requires, except for attorneys working pro bono or without additional compensation, adequate compensation be provided to attorneys appointed to represent dependent children with disabilities along with funding for expert witnesses, depositions, and other costs of litigation. Payment of attorneys is subject to appropriation and to review by the Justice Administrative Commission (JAC) for reasonableness. Fees are capped at $1,000 per child per year. The bill requires the JAC to contract with all attorneys appointed by the court. Therefore, all payments and distributions of legal fees will go through the JAC.

The bill requires the Department of Children and Families (DCF) to develop procedures for use in identifying a dependent child with qualifying special needs. The DCF is authorized to adopt rules for this purpose.

The bill preserves the power of the court to appoint an attorney for any dependent child under ch. 39, F.S.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

C. Government Sector Impact:

CS/CS/SB 972 provides that the cost to the state for attorneys appointed to represent a dependent child will be limited to the amount specifically appropriated for this purpose and attorney fees may not exceed $1,000 per child per year. However, the state's experience in paying for court-appointed counsel in criminal cases, dependency cases, and for capital collateral counsel has shown costs are difficult to control. While the Legislature may set rates to pay private attorneys and even require private attorneys to sign contracts agreeing to certain payment levels, the attorney can argue to the court their individual case warrants higher reimbursement. Courts have in some instances awarded higher fees. The Florida Supreme Court has held attorneys' fees and costs for court appointed counsel can exceed statutory limits in certain circumstances.[37]

The number of children in the dependency system that will qualify for appointed attorneys under the bill is unknown. However, based on the Department of Children and Families' estimates, approximately 1,594 children would be entitled to an attorney at a cost of $1.58 million for attorney fees. The fiscal impact of the bill may be reduced if pro bono attorneys are willing to represent some of these children; however, the number of cases that would be handled by pro bono attorneys is unknown. The DCF may incur costs in developing procedures to identify qualifying dependent children and in adopting rules.

The Office of State Courts Administrator (OSCA) indicates that fiscal impact cannot accurately be determined as insufficient data is available to quantify the increase in judicial workload. Still the OSCA expects an increase in workload from:

- The entry of orders of appointment or discharge;
- Longer hearings due to participation of attorneys;
- Additional motions and other filings from attorneys; and
- Hearings to determine a child's eligibility for counsel.[38]

VII. Related Issues:

The bill is unclear as to whether organizations who agree to represent a child without additional compensation can receive funds for expert witnesses, and other litigation costs.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill creates section 39.01305 of the Florida Statutes.

590-03522-14 2014972c2

A bill to be entitled

An act relating to attorneys for dependent children with special needs; providing legislative findings and intent; creating s. 39.01305, F.S.; requiring appointment of an attorney to represent a dependent child who meets one or more specified criteria; requiring that, if one is available, an attorney who is willing to represent a child without additional compensation be appointed; requiring that the appointment be in writing; requiring that the appointment continue in effect until the attorney is allowed to withdraw or is discharged by the court or until the case is dismissed; requiring that an attorney not acting in a pro bono capacity be adequately compensated for his or her services and have access to funding for certain costs; providing for financial oversight by the Justice Administrative Commission; providing a limit on attorney fees; requiring the Department of Children and Families to develop procedures to identify dependent children who qualify for an attorney; authorizing the department to adopt rules; providing applicability; providing an effective date.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. (1)(a) The Legislature finds that:

1. All children in proceedings under chapter 39, Florida Statutes, have important interests at stake, such as health, safety, and well-being and the need to obtain permanency.

2. A dependent child who has certain special needs has a particular need for an attorney to represent the dependent child in proceedings under chapter 39, Florida Statutes, as well as in fair hearings and appellate proceedings, so that the attorney may address the child's medical and related needs and the services and supports necessary for the child to live successfully in the community.

(b) The Legislature recognizes the existence of organizations that provide attorney representation to children in certain jurisdictions throughout the state. Further, the statewide guardian ad litem program provides best interest representation for dependent children in every jurisdiction in accordance with state and federal law. The Legislature, therefore, does not intend that funding provided for representation under this act supplant proven and existing organizations representing children. Instead, the Legislature intends that funding provided for representation under this act be an additional resource for the representation of more children in these jurisdictions, to the extent necessary to meet the requirements of chapter 39, Florida Statutes, with the cooperation of existing local organizations or through the expansion of those organizations. The Legislature encourages the expansion of pro bono representation for children. This act is not intended to limit the ability of a pro bono attorney to appear on behalf of a child.

Section 2. Section 39.01305, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

39.01305 Appointment of an attorney for a dependent child

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

with certain special needs.—

(1) An attorney shall be appointed for a dependent child who:

(a) Resides in a skilled nursing facility or is being considered for placement in a skilled nursing home;

(b) Is prescribed a psychotropic medication but declines to assent to the psychotropic medication;

(c) Has a diagnosis of developmental disability as defined in s. 393.063;

(d) Is being placed in a residential treatment center or being considered for placement in a residential treatment center; or

(e) Is a victim of human trafficking as defined in s. 787.06(2)(d).

(2)(a) Before a court may appoint an attorney who may be compensated pursuant to this section, the court must request a recommendation from the statewide guardian ad litem office for an attorney who is willing to represent a child without additional compensation. If such an attorney is available within 15 days after the court's request, the court must appoint that attorney. However, the court may appoint a compensated attorney within the 15-day period if the statewide guardian ad litem office informs the court that it will not be able to recommend an attorney in that time period.

(b) After an attorney is appointed, the appointment continues in effect until the attorney is allowed to withdraw or is discharged by the court or until the case is dismissed. An attorney who is appointed under this section to represent the child shall provide the complete range of legal services, from the removal from home or from the initial appointment through all available appellate proceedings. With the permission of the court, the attorney for the dependent child may arrange for supplemental or separate counsel to represent the child in appellate proceedings. A court order appointing an attorney under this section must be in writing.

(3) Except if the attorney has agreed to provide pro bono services, an appointed attorney or organization must be adequately compensated and provided with access to funding for expert witnesses, depositions, and other costs of litigation. Payment to an attorney is subject to appropriations and subject to review by the Justice Administrative Commission for reasonableness. The Justice Administrative Commission shall contract with attorneys appointed by the court. Attorney fees may not exceed $3,000 per child per year.

(4) The department shall develop procedures to identify a dependent child who has a special need specified under subsection (1) and to request that a court appoint an attorney for the child. The department may adopt rules to administer this section.

(5) This section does not limit the authority of the court to appoint an attorney for a dependent child in a proceeding under this chapter.

(6) Implementation of this section is subject to appropriations expressly made for that purpose.

Section 3. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Technical Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 1006 requires "control persons" of consumer collection agencies (CCAs) to submit to state and federal criminal background checks, and subjects these persons to disqualifying periods based on the severity and recency of a criminal conviction. The bill enhances the authority of the Office of Financial Regulation (OFR) to register, investigate, examine, and bring enforcement actions against consumer collection agencies. The bill requires CCA registrants to report criminal convictions, changes from the initial application, and changes to the controlling persons of a CCA agency.

This bill is estimated to have an insignificant fiscal impact on state expenditures. See Section V.

II. Present Situation:

Consumer debt covers non-business debt such as mortgages, credit cards, medical debts, and other debts mainly for personal, family, or household purposes. Depending on the terms of the loan, a grace period may be provided before a debt becomes delinquent. Generally, most credit issuers will attempt to collect on a delinquent debt between 120-180 days after delinquency, before it is deemed uncollectible and is "charged off" corporate records. Typically, the charged-off debt is then either assigned or sold as part of a portfolio to a third-party collection agency or collection law firm, which in turn may use a variety of collection methods and judgment remedies to recover the asset, subject to applicable statutes of limitations. These remedies enable creditors to minimize losses due to non-repayment by borrowers, and help ensure the availability and affordability of consumer credit.

State and Federal Regulation

State and federal debt collection laws provide consumer protections against deceptive, unfair, or abusive collection practices that may occur before the debtor is sued, as well as during the litigation process.

The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA) is primarily enforced by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. The FTC has received more consumer complaints about the debt collection industry than any other specific industry, and these complaints have constituted around 25 percent of the total number of complaints received by the FTC over the past three years.

At the state level, part VI of ch. 559, F.S., is the Florida Consumer Collection Practices Act (Act), and was enacted in 1972. The Act prohibits many of the same debt collection practices prohibited by the FDCPA, and gives regulatory oversight authority to the Florida Office of Financial Regulation (OFR). The Act defines "consumer collection agency" as "any debt collector or business entity engaged in the business of soliciting consumer debts for collection or of collecting consumer debts, and which is not otherwise expressly exempted from the Act." The OFR received 1,261 consumer complaints regarding consumer collection agencies in the past fiscal year.[1]

A debt collector is generally defined as any person who uses any instrumentality of interstate commerce in any business with the principal purpose of the collection of debts, or who regularly collects or attempts to collect debts owed or due or asserted to be owed or due another.[2] Both acts define "debt collector" narrowly, and exclude persons such as original creditors and their in-house collectors and persons serving legal process in connection with the judicial enforcement of any debt. Both acts also provide private civil remedies to debtors for violations, and the consumer may recover actual and statutory damages and attorney's fees and costs. If the court finds that the suit fails to raise a justiciable issue of law or fact, the consumer is liable for court costs and reasonable attorney's fees incurred by the defendant.

In terms of the FDCPA's relation to state law, both acts were designed to work harmoniously, except to the extent state law conflicts with the FDCPA. The Act also provides that in the event of an inconsistency with the FDCPA, the provision which is more protective for the consumer or debtor shall prevail.

Registration of Consumer Collection Agencies in Florida

The OFR is responsible for the registration of consumer collection agencies that are not otherwise exempted by the Act. The Act exempts from registration, original creditors, Florida

[1] Email from the OFR (dated January 8, 2014), on file with the Subcommittee on General Government Appropriations staff.

Bar members, financial institutions authorized to do business in Florida and their wholly owned subsidiaries and affiliates, and insurance companies authorized to do business in this state.

According to the OFR, there are currently 1,344 registered consumer collection agencies in Florida. During the 2012-2013 fiscal year, the OFR received 408 CCA applications. During the same fiscal year, the OFR approved 372 and denied 60 applications, and 25 applications were withdrawn.[3] Once registered, CCAs must renew their registration between October 1 and December 31 of every year.[4]

A consumer collection agency must meet minimal requirements to register with the OFR and is "entitled to be registered when registration information is complete on its face and the $200 registration fee has been paid."[5] Unlike other regulatory programs administered by the OFR, the Act gives the OFR very limited statutory authority to deny registration of consumer collection agencies. Currently, the OFR cannot deny registration to any applicant, even if its control persons have been convicted of felony financial crimes or the applicant has been subject to serious regulatory sanctions. Currently, the Act only permits the OFR to reject a registration if the applicant or any principal of the applicant previously held any professional license or state registration that was the subject of any suspension or revocation which has not been explained by the applicant to the satisfaction of the office either in the initial application or upon written request of the OFR. As written, the OFR presumably would have to grant registration after a satisfactory explanation of a disciplinary proceeding from an applicant, regardless of the egregiousness of the underlying facts.

Other regulatory programs administered by the OFR provide statutory and rule authority to deny licensure or registration based on applicants' civil, criminal, and regulatory history, which provides important public protections in light of the nature of industries regulated by the OFR and their access to consumers' financial information. With regard to criminal actions, other chapters authorize denial based on the severity and recency of a criminal plea or conviction of individuals or "control or relevant persons" listed on an application for licensure or registration. Specifically, these chapters impose disqualifying periods during which an applicant is ineligible for licensure until expiration of the disqualifying period and allow for aggravating and mitigating factors. These programs are statutorily authorized to require electronic fingerprints from applicants for state and national criminal background checks. These fingerprints are also retained by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) to enable rapid notification to the OFR if a licensee is arrested and/or becomes subject to a criminal prosecution.

The following table illustrates disqualifying periods for these other licenses under the OFR's jurisdiction. These disqualifying periods are explained in further detail through commission rule.[6]

Industry/License Type	Felonies involving fraud, dishonesty, breach of trust, money laundering, or other acts of moral turpitude	All other felonies	Misdemeanors involving fraud, dishonesty, or other acts of moral turpitude

Unregistered Activity

The Act provides that it is a first-degree misdemeanor to collect debts in this state without first registering with the OFR or to seek registration through fraud, misrepresentation, or concealment.[11] Additionally, unregistered out-of-state consumer debt collectors can be subject to administrative fines of up to $10,000 and enforcement actions by the Office of the Attorney General.[12]

However, the OFR is limited in its enforcement authority over unregistered in-state collection agencies. As written, it only authorizes the OFR to issue cease and desist orders over any person if it has any reason to believe the person has violated the Act, but authorizes the OFR to impose administrative fines only on registrants.[13]

[6] Pursuant to s. 20.121(3)(a), F.S., the Financial Services Commission (the Governor and Cabinet) serves as the agency head for purposes of rulemaking and appoints the OFR's Commissioner, who serves as the agency head for purposes of final agency action for all areas within the OFR's regulatory authority.
[7] See Chapter 69V-40, Fla. Admin. Code (Mortgage Brokerage).
[8] The permanent bar for the more severe felonies in the mortgage industry is required by federal law. In 2008, Congress enacted the Secure and Fair Enforcement for Mortgage Licensing Act of 2008, which requires states to implement minimum licensing standards for the mortgage industry. In 2009, the Florida Legislature enacted ch. 2009-241, L.O.F., to reflect these federal requirements. In subsequent legislative sessions, the Florida Legislature enacted similar licensing bars for the two other industries described (ch. 560 and ch. 517, F.S.).

Enforcement

In 2010, the Legislature enacted several amendments to the Act to enhance the OFR's oversight of the debt collection industry. Specifically, the 2010 amendments to the Act:

- Required registrants to maintain and produce certain books and records for at least three years after a transaction, and provided rulemaking authority to determine the content, retention, and destruction of the required records;[14]
- Designated the OFR, not the Department of Financial Services, as the agency responsible for handling and investigating consumer complaints regarding debt collection;
- Simplified the complaint statute, required consumer complaints to be subject to the penalty for perjury, and required registrants to respond to the OFR's inquiries regarding consumer complaints;
- Authorized the OFR to issue and enforce investigative subpoenas;
- Authorized the OFR to impose fines of up to $10,000 per violation, suspensions or revocations on registrants, and cease-and-desist orders against any person.[15]

The OFR is required to notify the appropriate state attorney or the Attorney General of any determination by the OFR that an unregistered CCA has violated the Act.[16]

However, the Act limits the OFR's authority to examine the books and records of only registrants to determine compliance with the Act, and the OFR's investigative authority is limited to instances when a consumer complaint has been filed against a CCA.[17]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill expands the OFR's registration and enforcement authority under the Act. The bill creates two new definitions in s. 559.55, F.S. These include:

- "Commission" is defined as the Financial Services Commission. This relates to the bill's grant of rulemaking authority in a new s. 559.554, F.S., which will authorize the Commission to require the electronic submission of forms, documents, and fees required by the Act, and to adopt five-year, seven-year, and 15-year disqualifying periods from registration based on applicants' criminal histories.
- "Control person" is defined as an individual, partnership, corporation or trust or organization that possesses the power, directly or indirectly, to direct the management or policies of a company and includes certain specified persons as to each type of entity.

The bill repeals provisions in the registration statute, s. 559.553, F.S., that provide the current sole basis for denying registration, and creates new requirements in s. 559.555, F.S., for applicants, including a completed application form, a nonrefundable application fee of $200, and criminal background checks. Control persons of applicants must submit live-scan fingerprints for processing by the FDLE for state criminal background checks and by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) for national criminal background checks to enable the OFR to determine applicants' fitness for registration. The costs of fingerprint processing and retaining the fingerprints are borne by the persons subject to the background check. The OFR will pay an annual fee to FDLE for the retention of fingerprints. Based on information provided by the OFR, the average cost to process live-scan fingerprints from an approved service provider is $65 per control person, and the annual retention fee is $6.[18] CCAs who become registered before the bill's effective date of October 1, 2014, must have control persons submit live-scan fingerprints prior to the expiration of their registration on December 31, 2014 (i.e. before the next renewal cycle).

The bill subjects registrants to reporting requirements in a new s. 559.5551, F.S. This section requires registrants to notify the OFR when control persons are convicted or plead nolo contendere to certain offenses, when changes occur in the information contained in the initial application (such as a new business address), and of changes in the registrant's business organization (such as a new control person). The bill provides that the OFR may bring an administrative action to ensure compliance with the Act in order to deter registrants from adding an unqualified control person without regulatory approval. Registrants must submit a nonrefundable $200 renewal fee and fingerprint retention fee of $6 at renewal time.

The bill creates s. 559.5541, F.S., to authorize the OFR to make unannounced examinations and investigations to determine whether a person (as opposed to only registrants) has violated the Act or related rules, regardless of whether a consumer complaint has been filed against the CCA. The Act also permits the OFR to enter into joint or concurrent examinations with a state or federal regulatory agency, as long as the other regulator abides with the confidentiality provisions of ch. 119, F.S., and the Act.[19]

The bill provides additional grounds for administrative action in s. 559.730, F.S., such as unregistered activity, material misstatements on a registration application, regulatory actions and certain civil judgments, failure to maintain books and records, and acts of fraud and misrepresentation. These acts can subject an applicant or registrant to the denial, suspension, revocation of registration, and administrative fines. The bill provides that the OFR may impose an administrative fine of up to $1,000 per day for each day that a consumer collection agency acts without a valid registration.

The bill authorizes the OFR to summarily suspend registrations pursuant to s. 120.60(6), F.S., based on the arrest for specified crimes of the registrant or control person, and provides that such arrests are deemed sufficient to constitute an immediate danger to the public's health, safety, and welfare. The OFR has similar or identical summary suspension authority in chs. 494 and 517, F.S.

The bill also allows the OFR to deny requests to terminate a registration or to withdraw a registration application if the OFR believes there are grounds for denial, suspension, restriction, or revocation.

[19] Senate Bill 1004 is the public records bill linked to this bill that will make certain information related to investigations and examinations of consumer collection agencies confidential and exempt from public records disclosure.

The bill provides an effective date of October 1, 2014.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/SB 1006 requires control persons of non-exempt collection agencies to submit electronic/live-scan fingerprints to live-scan vendors (who in turn submit fees to the FDLE for the background checks). Each control person will incur an average live-scan cost of $65.[20] The $65 average live-scan cost consists of the vendor's cost of providing the services as well as the $40.50 fee that is charged by the FDLE, which is apportioned as:

- $24 for a state background check, which is deposited into the FDLE Operating Trust Fund, and
- $16.50 for a national background check, which is forwarded to the FBI.[21]

In addition, the bill requires the live-scan fingerprints of control persons to be retained. The cost to retain fingerprints at the state level is $6 per control person, which will be collected by the OFR annually upon renewal and paid to the FDLE.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The bill will have an insignificant fiscal impact on state expenditures by the OFR due to the fingerprint retention fees collected by the OFR at time of registration renewal that will be passed on to the FDLE. Total estimated revenue deposited with the FDLE for state background checks is anticipated to be $76,272 for the 2014-2015 fiscal year and [20] According to the OFR, the average cost to process electronic fingerprints through a live-scan vendor is $65, which is inclusive of the $40.50 charge by FDLE and a cost added by the vendor to cover their services. E-mail from the OFR on file with Banking & Insurance staff.

[21] FDLE's bill analysis of SB 1006 on file with Banking & Insurance staff.

$34,980 (including fingerprint retention fees) for subsequent fiscal years. This revenue estimate is based on the following[22]:

- The OFR estimates 408 initial consumer collection agency applications each fiscal year, with an average of two control persons per applicant to be fingerprinted. This results in 816 new CCA control person registrants x $24 (state background check) for each fiscal year = $19,584. (However, due to the bill's October 1, 2014 effective date, the 2014-2015 fiscal year estimated fiscal impact is $14,688).[23]
- The bill authorizes full fingerprinting at renewal time for those registrants renewing by December 31, 2014 that were approved before October 1, 2014. Accordingly, Fiscal Year 2014-2015 includes: 2,566 control persons fingerprinted by their December 31, 2014, renewal x $24 (state background check) totaling $61,584.
- Beginning in Fiscal Year 2015-2016 and subsequent years, the estimated annual revenues for fingerprint retention fees would be $15,396, which would be passed from the OFR to the FDLE as a journal transfer from non-operating expenses.[24]

The OFR indicated that while the bill may result in a slight increase in investigations and examinations, existing staff and resources should be sufficient.[25] In addition, the bill grants rulemaking authority to the Financial Services Commission to require electronic submission of required forms, documents, and fees, and to establish disqualifying periods from registration based on applicants' criminal histories. Rules 69V-180.030 to 69V-180.100, Fla. Admin. Code, will need to be amended to implement these requirements. According to the OFR, these costs can be absorbed within existing resources.[26]

The FDLE has indicated that this bill does not necessitate additional FTE or other resources.[27]

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 559.55, 559.553, 559.555, 559.565, and 559.730.

The office may compel the production of all relevant books, records, and other documents and materials relative to an examination or investigation. Examinations may not be made more often than once during a 48-month period unless the office has reason to believe a person has violated or will violate this part or related rules.

(2) In order to reduce the burden on persons subject to this part, the office may conduct a joint or concurrent examination with a state or federal regulatory agency and may furnish a copy of all examinations to an appropriate regulator if the regulator agrees to abide by the confidentiality provisions in chapter 119 and this part. (2) A conviction of, or plea of nolo contendere to, regardless of adjudication, a felony committed by the registrant or any control person within 30 days after the date of conviction or the date the plea of nolo contendere is entered.

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

(3) A change to the information contained in an initial application form or an amendment to the application within 30 days after the change is effective.

(4) An addition or subtraction of a control person or a change in the form of business organization. A control person added by a registrant is subject to this part and must submit fingerprints in accordance with s. 559.555 and the rules of the commission. The office may bring an administrative action in accordance with s. 559.730 to enforce this part if the added control person fails to meet registration requirements or comply with any other provision of this part.

Section 7. Section 559.565, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

559.565 Enforcement action against out-of-state consumer debt collector.— The remedies of this section are cumulative to other sanctions and enforcement provisions of this part for any violation by an out-of-state consumer debt collector, as defined in s. 559.55(11) ~~s. 559.55(8)~~.

(2) A ~~Any~~ person, whether or not exempt from registration under this part, who violates s. 559.72 is subject to sanctions the same as any other consumer debt collector, including imposition of an administrative fine. The registration of a duly registered out-of-state consumer debt collector is subject to revocation or suspension in the same manner as the registration of any other registrant under this part.

(3) In order to effectuate this section and enforce the requirements of this part as it relates to out-of-state consumer debt collectors, the Attorney General is expressly authorized to initiate such action on behalf of the state as he or she deems appropriate in any state or federal court of competent jurisdiction.

Section 8. Section 559.730, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

(n) Failure to timely pay a fee, charge, or fine imposed or assessed pursuant to this part and the rules of the commission.

(a) Issuance of a reprimand.

(b) Suspension of a registration, subject to reinstatement upon satisfying all reasonable conditions imposed by the office.

(c) Revocation of a registration.

(d) Denial of a registration.

(f) An administrative fine of up to $1,000 per day for each day that a person engages as a consumer collection agency without a valid registration issued under this part.

~~(1) The office may impose an administrative fine against, or revoke or suspend the registration of, a registrant under this part who has committed a violation of s. 559.72. Final action to fine, suspend, or revoke the registration of a registrant is subject to review in accordance with chapter 120.~~

(3) ~~(2)~~ The office may impose suspension rather than revocation of a registration if circumstances warrant that one or the other should be imposed and the registrant demonstrates that the registrant has taken affirmative steps that can be expected to effectively eliminate the violations and that the registrant's registration has never been previously suspended.

(4) A consumer collection agency is subject to the disciplinary actions specified in subsection (2) for a violation of subsection (1) by a control person of the consumer collection agency.

(5) Pursuant to s. 120.60(6), the office may summarily suspend the registration of a consumer collection agency if the office has reason to believe that a registrant poses an immediate, serious danger to the public's health, safety, or welfare. The arrest of the registrant, or the consumer collection agency's control person, for any felony or any crime involving fraud, dishonesty, breach of trust, money laundering, or any other act of moral turpitude is deemed sufficient to constitute an immediate danger to the public's health, safety, or welfare. Any proceeding for the summary suspension of a registration must be conducted by the commissioner of the office, or designee, who shall issue the final summary order.

(6) The office may deny a request to terminate a registration or withdraw a registration application if the office believes that an act that would be a ground for registration denial, suspension, restriction, or revocation under this part has been committed.

(7) ~~(3) In addition to, or in lieu of suspension or revocation of a registration, the office may impose an administrative fine of up to $10,000 per violation against a registrant for violations of s. 559.72.~~ The ~~Financial Services~~ commission shall adopt rules establishing guidelines for imposing administrative penalties.

(8) ~~(4)~~ This part does not preclude any person from pursuing remedies available under the Federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act for any violation of such act.

Section 9. This act shall take effect October 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1012 amends provisions of the Financial Institutions Codes (codes). The Office of Financial Regulation (OFR) regulates state-chartered banks, trust companies, credit unions, and other financial institutions pursuant to the codes. The OFR ensures that Florida-chartered financial institutions comply with state and federal requirements for safety and soundness. This bill provides the following changes to the codes:

- Updates provisions of the Florida Control of Money Laundering in Financial Institutions Act to codify the requirements of the Federal USA PATRIOT Act and the Office of Foreign Asset Control.
- Clarifies permissible activities for out of state trust companies and business trusts.
- Expands the scope of persons subject to prohibited acts and practices to include affiliates and related interests.
- Authorizes the OFR to issue immediate cease and desist orders for persons using misleading banking-related names to perpetrate fraud on Florida consumers.
- Expands competitive equality for Florida-chartered financial institutions by clarifying that the par value requirement only applies to the settlement of checks between financial institutions, and provides that such institutions may charge fees to cash checks.
- Expands competitive equality to Florida-chartered credit unions by authorizing employee benefit plans and specified types of insurance coverage that is consistent with regulations governing federal credit unions.

- Provides a general rule of preemption to the state for financial or lending activities, and requires financial institutions to report any administrative or civil proceedings or civil investigations initiated by a county or municipality to the OFR;
- Provides that a financial institution is not civilly liable for the actions or operations of a borrower solely by virtue of extending a loan or a line of credit to such borrower; and,
- The bill repeals the $2,000 annual assessment imposed on each international representative office, international administrative office and international trust company.

The OFR indicates that it expects the provisions of the bill to have a negligible fiscal impact. The Office of the State Courts Administrator expects the bill to result in an increase in workload for the court system, but is unable to estimate the extent or cost of the increase.

II. Present Situation:

The "dual banking system" refers to the parallel state and federal banking systems that co-exist in the United States. The federal system is based on a federal bank charter, powers defined under federal law, the National Bank Act,[1] operation under federal regulations, and oversight by the primary federal regulator, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC) within the U.S. Department of the Treasury. The state system is characterized by state chartering, bank powers established under state law, and operation under state standards, including oversight by state supervisors. The primary federal regulator for state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve is the Federal Reserve. The primary federal regulator for non-members is the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

National banks are subject to state laws concerning their daily course of business, such as their acquisition and transfer of property, their right to collect their debts and their liability to be sued for debts, contracts, usury, and trust powers.[2] However, while states are generally free to legislate on matters not controlled by federal regulation, the application of state laws to national banks is subject to the preemption doctrine. By operation of the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution, federal regulation of a particular subject preempts state regulation related to the same subject. For instance, the United States Supreme Court held that a federal statute granting small town banks the authority to sell insurance preempted a Florida statute that prohibited such sales.[3] The federal Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 codified the test for "conflict preemption" articulated in the Barnett Bank decision. The conflict preemption test asks whether the state law prevents or significantly interferes with the exercise of a national bank's powers.

Federal Oversight

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) insures deposits in banks and thrift institutions for at least $250,000 and identifies, monitors, and addresses risks to deposit

[1] The National Bank Act of 1964 (12 U.S.C. s. 24) gives enumerated powers and "all such incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking" to nationally chartered banks. To prevent inconsistent or intrusive state regulation from impairing the national system, Congress provided "No national bank shall be subject to any visitorial powers except as authorized by Federal law." insurance funds. The FDIC Rules and Regulations require an annual, comprehensive on-site examination of every insured state nonmember bank at least once during each 12-month period, with exceptions.

Anti-Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Provisions

The Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) within the U.S. Department of the Treasury is charged with safeguarding the U.S. financial system from the abuses of money laundering, terrorist financing, and other financial crimes. It exercises regulatory functions primarily under the Currency and Financial Transactions Reporting Act of 1970, as amended by Title III of the USA PATRIOT Act of 2001[4] and other legislation, which is known as the "Bank Secrecy Act" (BSA). The Secretary of the Treasury has delegated to the Director of FinCEN the authority to implement, administer, and enforce compliance with the BSA and associated regulations. These regulations include requiring banks and other financial institutions to take a number of precautions against financial crime, including the establishment of anti-money laundering (AML) programs, maintaining certain records, and the filing of reports.

The Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) within the U.S. Department of the Treasury administers and enforces economic and trade sanctions programs primarily against countries and groups of individuals, such as terrorists and narcotics traffickers. Prohibited transactions can include trade or financial transactions and other dealings in which U.S. persons may not engage unless authorized by the OFAC or expressly exempted by statute.[5]

State Oversight

The Office of Financial Regulation (OFR) ensures Florida-chartered financial institutions comply with state and federal requirements for safety and soundness. The codes define the term, "financial institution," to include banks, trust business, credit unions, international banks, savings banks and other entities.[6]

Enforcement Authority

Section 655.041, F.S., allows the OFR to initiate administrative proceedings to impose a fine against persons that have violated the financial institutions codes, a cease and desist order of the OFR, or any written agreement with the OFR. Section 655.041, F.S., provides that a person must receive written notice of a violation and be offered a reasonable period to cure the violation before the accrual of any fines or the initiation of any administrative proceedings to impose a fine.

Lending Limits and Related Interests

According to the OCC regulations for national banks, lending limits ensure the safety and soundness of national banks by preventing excessive loans to one person or to related persons that are financially dependent. These limits promote diversification of loans and help ensure equitable access to banking services.[7] The lending limits apply to all loans and extensions of credit made by national banks and their domestic operating subsidiaries. If the state lending limits are lower than those provided by Regulation O for state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System, Regulation O provides that the state lending limits control.

Florida-chartered banks are also subject to lending limits. Generally, a bank may extend unsecured credit to any person up to 15 percent of its capital accounts, and up to 25 percent of its capital accounts for secured credit. For the latter, the codes specify that the 25 percent limitation must include the borrower's "related interests."[8] If the bank's total extension of credit to any person (including his or her related interests) exceeds 15 percent of the bank's capital accounts, a majority of the bank's board of directors must approve the loan in advance. A bank is prohibited from extending credit of more than $25,000 to any of its executive officers and directors (and their related interests) unless the majority of the board of directors have approved the loan in advance.

Currently, s. 655.005(1)(t), F.S., defines "related interest" as:

> [W]ith respect to any person, the person's spouse, partner, sibling, parent, child, or other individual residing in the same household as the person. With respect to any person, the term means a company, partnership, corporation, or other business organization controlled by the person. A person has control if the person:
> - Owns, controls, or has the power to vote 25 percent or more of any class of voting securities of the organization;
> - Controls in any manner the election of a majority of the directors of the organization; or
> - Has the power to exercise a controlling influence over the management or policies of the organization.

The 2011 Legislature amended the definition of "related interest."[9] Prior to 2011, the term, "related interest," was defined within the context of credit unions' loan powers and lending limits for state banks, and was limited to only any partnership, corporation, or other business organization controlled by a person. Because of the 2011 legislation, "related interest" was moved to s. 655.005(1)(t), F.S., as a general definition and was amended to include specified family and household members of a person. The purpose of this change was to stop circumvention of lending limits by executives and stockholders, who used relatives to obtain loans and other financial benefits.

Regulation O contains a similar prohibition for loans to executive officers, directors, and principal shareholders of state and national banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System.[10] Regulation O provides that a principal shareholder is a person with 10 percent or more of a bank's voting securities, and accounts for shares owned by that person's "immediate family." However, Regulation O only considers an individual's spouse, minor children, and the individual's children residing in the same household, while the Florida provision also includes partners, siblings, parents, or other individuals residing in the same household.

Settlement of Checks and Par Value

Section 655.85, F.S., requires banks to settle checks "at par," or at face value. This means that if a person presented a check made out to her or him for $500 to any bank in Florida, the bank is required to provide $500 in funds. In the past several years, this provision has generated significant litigation in both state and federal courts by consumers who were charged fees to have checks cashed at banks at which they were not account holders. These cases generally involved federal preemption and applicability of the fee limitations to bank-to-bank transactions or to the cashing of personal checks.

Vida Baptista ("Baptista"), sought to cash a check at a Florida branch of JPMorgan Chase, a national bank. While a Chase account holder wrote the check, Baptista was not a Chase account holder, and was charged a $6 fee by Chase to cash the check immediately. Baptista brought a class action lawsuit against Chase in federal court, asserting the fee violated s. 655.85, F.S. The federal court held that s. 655.85, F.S., applied to fees on personal checks presented by the payee in person. However, in applying the Barnett Bank/Dodd-Frank preemption test described above, the federal district and appellate courts ruled in favor of Chase, finding that s. 655.85, F.S., was preempted by the National Bank Act, which allows banks to exercise a range of incidental powers necessary to carry on the business of banking.[11]

Baptista also brought a separate class action lawsuit against PNC Bank, a North Carolina state-chartered bank, in a Florida state court, based on grounds similar to those raised in her lawsuit against Chase. Baptista did not hold an account at PNC Bank and was charged a $5 check-cashing fee to cash a check at a Florida branch. The Fifth District Court of Appeal found that a statute was not preempted. The court held that a North Carolina state-chartered bank was not permitted to charge check-cashing fees under the statute. Finding that the statute was not ambiguous, the Fifth DCA found that the statute did not apply only to bank-to-bank transactions.[12] In an earlier decision, the Fifth DCA had ruled in favor of Bank of America (a national bank) by holding that s. 655.85, F.S., was preempted by federal law.[13]

On January 2, 2013, a federal district court in Florida ruled in favor of Regions Bank (an Alabama state-chartered bank) in a class action lawsuit similar to both Baptista cases.[14] Following the 11th Circuit Court of Appeal's decision in Baptista v. JPMorgan Chase Bank, the federal district court found that s. 655.85, F.S., was preempted, and thus inapplicable to both national banks and out-of-state state-chartered banks. However, the federal court did not address the issue of whether the statute applied only to bank-to-bank transactions or to the cashing of personal checks. These decisions do not affect the statute's prohibition on Florida-chartered banks to charge check-cashing fees, because banks must follow the laws and regulations of their chartering authority.

Competitive Equality

States have enacted competitive equality or parity statutes to address the competitive advantages granted to national banks through their "incidental banking powers" under the federal National Bank Act. In Florida, if a state law places a Florida institution at a competitive disadvantage with a national institution, the OFR may grant a Florida institution the authority to make any loan or investment or exercise any power that it could make or exercise if it was a federally chartered financial institution, and provide entitlement to the same privileges and protections granted to a federally chartered or regulated institution.[15] In addition, the office or commission must consider the importance of maintaining a competitive dual system of financial institutions, and whether issuing such an order or rule is in the public interest.[16]

Local Government Powers and Legislative Preemption

The Florida Constitution grants counties or municipalities broad home rule authority. Specifically, non-charter county governments may exercise those powers of self-government that are authorized by federal or special law. Those counties operating under a county charter have all powers of self-government not inconsistent with general law.[17] Section 125.01, F.S., enumerates the powers and duties of all county governments, which may be exercised to the extent not inconsistent with general or special law. Section 166.021, F.S., provides that municipalities have those governmental, corporate, and proprietary powers that enable them to conduct municipal government, perform municipal functions and render municipal services, and may exercise any power for municipal purposes, except when expressly prohibited by law.

Under its broad home rule powers, a municipality or a charter county may legislate concurrently with the Legislature on any subject that has not been expressly preempted to the state. A county or municipality may not forbid what the legislature has expressly licensed, authorized or required, nor may it authorize what the legislature has expressly forbidden.[18]

In 2002, the Florida Legislature enacted the Florida Fair Lending Act (part IV, ch. 494, F.S.) to impose similar or more stringent restrictions on high-cost home loans than those found in the federal Home Ownership and Equity Protection Act (HOEPA) at the time of enactment. The Florida Fair Lending Act is administratively enforced by the OFR. In addition, several states and cities had enacted laws restricting or prohibiting the use of certain credit provisions commonly associated with predatory lending. Lenders have expressed concerns with compliance with a multitude of varying state and local requirements across different jurisdictions, and have argued for a national standard such as HOEPA. In response to these concerns, s. 494.00797, F.S., was enacted prohibiting counties and municipalities from enacting and enforcing local laws regulating financial or lending activities upon certain persons or entities, subject to the regulatory jurisdiction of the OFR, enumerated federal banking regulators, or authorized by Congress to engage in secondary market mortgage transactions.

Lender Liability and Third-party Litigation against Financial Institutions

Lender liability law generally requires lenders to treat their borrowers fairly, and subjects lending institutions to civil liability for losses and injuries sustained because of the lender's actions. In addition, the express terms of contracts governed by the Uniform Commercial Code are subject to the obligation of good faith.[19] In some cases, courts may infer a fiduciary relationship between the lender and the borrower if the facts indicate a relationship of trust.[20] Lenders can be subject to a number of legal claims by borrowers, most commonly under contract and tort theories of breach of contract, bad faith, fraud or misrepresentation, negligence, and tortious interference. Other lender liability claims may include labor violations, environmental violations, wrongful foreclosures, or a variety of civil remedies under federal regulatory statutes such as the Truth in Lending Act.

However, case law provides that lenders are generally not legally responsible for the operations and actions of its borrowers that cause harm to third parties.[21] Some exceptions include a joint venture between the borrower and lender or where a lender actively controls the borrower's business (especially as to the election of directors and the influence of day-to-day business affairs and decisions).[22]

In a number of recent medical negligence lawsuits filed against nursing homes in Florida courts, the plaintiffs have named large financial institutions as co-defendants, or have sought to collect a final money judgment against these banks when the plaintiffs were unable to collect from the nursing homes. The plaintiffs alleged that the lenders "colluded to pull money out of nursing home operations."[23] These lenders generally provided commercial loans to the nursing homes to finance a variety of operations, such as facility acquisitions. Plaintiffs have variously alleged in the different cases that the lender was related to the nursing home as a private equity investor, controlling owner, or through involvement with the nursing facilities through the financial institution's clinical performance division.[24] In two cases resulting in multi-million dollar jury verdicts on behalf of the estates of nursing home patients, the bank asserted that it did not have control over patient care and should not be held liable for the medical negligence claim.[25]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Settlement of Checks and Par Value (Sections 12 and 13)

The bill provides that financial institutions must settle checks between institutions at par. The bill clarifies that banks are not prohibited from charging fees to cash checks presented by payees in person, thereby providing consistency with the federal decisions discussed in the Present Situation above. The bill provides a statement of legislative intent indicating that the changes clarify the relevant portions of the codes relating to the fees imposed by financial institutions.

Enforcement Authority

Related Interests (Section 1)

The bill amends the definition of "related interest" under s. 655.005, F.S. The bill removes a person's partner, sibling, or other individual residing in the same household as the person from the definition. The revised definition provides that the term "related interest" applies to an individual, company, partnership, corporation, or other business organization that engages in a common business enterprise with that person.

State Preemption and the Regulation of Financial Institutions (Sections 2 and 16)

This bill creates s. 655.017, F.S., which prohibits counties and municipalities from enacting and enforcing ordinances, resolutions or rules regulating financial or lending activities of persons who are subject to the jurisdiction of the OFR pursuant to the codes; persons who are subject to the jurisdiction of any one of specified federal agencies that regulate financial and lending activities; persons who originate, purchase, sell, assign, secure, or service property interests or obligations created by financial transactions or loans made by such persons; entities chartered by the U.S. Congress to engage in secondary market mortgage transactions; or persons acting on behalf of the Florida Housing Finance Corporation.

Subsection (1) is substantially similar to s. 414.0797, F.S. The bill excludes the Office of Thrift Supervision (formerly the primary federal regulator for savings banks and savings and loan association) as a federal banking regulator, since it was merged into other federal banking agencies in July 2011, by operation of the Dodd-Frank Act. The bill also includes the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System as a federal banking regulator.

Subsection (2) provides that counties and municipalities are not prevented from engaging in civil investigations or initiating civil or administrative proceedings to enforce any non-preempted state or local laws, rules, and ordinances. However, the bill provides that the OFR has sole and exclusive jurisdiction to initiate appropriate proceedings, if the OFR determines a local investigation or proceeding is based on a local law that is preempted, or "directly and specifically regulates the manner, content, or terms and conditions of any financial transaction or account related thereto, as may be authorized for financial institutions to engage in, or prevents, significantly interferes with, or alters the exercise of powers granted to a financial institution under the financial institutions codes or by any applicable federal law or regulation." This preemption standard is similar to the Barnett Bank federal standard, as codified in the Dodd-Frank Act, for preempting state consumer financial laws.[26]

Additionally, subsection (3) provides that new s. 655.017, F.S., does not limit or restrict the powers of the Department of Legal Affairs or law enforcement agencies in Florida to commence criminal proceedings or of the Department of Legal Affairs to bring a civil action. This preserves the police powers of these entities and reinforces the fact that the OFR does not have jurisdiction over criminal proceedings.

The bill also amends s. 655.948, F.S., the notice of significant events statute, to require financial institutions to notify the OFR within 30 days of any civil investigation or any civil or administrative proceeding initiated by counties or municipalities against the financial institution or its subsidiary or service corporation. The bill provides a safe harbor for reporting entities that make a good faith effort to fulfill this disclosure requirement.

Prohibited Acts (Section 3)

The bill amends s. 655.0322, F.S., to expand the scope of prohibited acts and practices to include affiliates and related interests. The codes define "affiliate" as "a holding company of a financial institution established pursuant to state or federal law, a subsidiary or service corporation of such holding company, or a subsidiary or a service corporation of a financial institution."[27]

Administrative Authority and Fines (Section 7)

The bill amends s. 655.041, F.S., to revise the OFR's authority by providing that a violation of any rules adopted under the codes is also grounds for the OFR to impose administrative fines. The bill provides that a violation of any OFR order is a basis for administrative fines. Under current law, the OFR may initiate a proceeding if a person has violated the codes, a cease and desist order, or a written agreement with the OFR. The bill expands the scope of the section to apply to affiliates and persons regulated by the OFR pursuant to s. 655.0391, F.S. The bill provides that if there is a violation of an OFR order or written agreement, fines begin accruing immediately upon the service of a complaint. Such fines will continue until the violation is corrected.

Injunctions (Section 4)

The bill provides that a violation of a "formal enforcement action" would allow the circuit court to have jurisdiction to hear the complaint. The bill defines a "formal enforcement action." The bill provides that the circuit court has jurisdiction to issue an injunction in order to protect the interests of the depositors, members, creditors, or stockholders or the public's interest in the safety and soundness of the financial institution system. Currently, the codes authorize the OFR to pursue injunctive relief in circuit court whenever a "threatened and impending" violation of the codes "will cause substantial injury to a state financial institution or its depositors, members, creditors, or stockholders."

[26] 12 U.S.C. § 25b(b); Barnett Bank, 517 U.S. 25.

[27] Violation of subsection (2), (3), or (4) is a third degree felony, punishable by imprisonment for a term of up to five years and a fine of up to $5,000. Violation of subsection (4) or (5) is a second degree felony, punishable by imprisonment for a term of up to 15 years and a fine of up to $10,000.

Approval of Directors and Executive Officers (Sections 6 and 19)

The bill creates a new subsection in s. 655.0385, F.S., to prohibit a director or executive officer of a state financial institution or affiliate from concurrently serving as a director or officer in a nonaffiliated financial institution or affiliate in the same geographical area or the same major business market area, unless this prohibition is waived by the OFR. The OFR may waive this prohibition if the person can demonstrate that the proposed concurrent service does not present a conflict of interest and neither institution is disadvantaged in the common market area. The bill amends s. 657.028, F.S., to provide that an individual may not serve as a director, officer, or committee member of a credit union if he or she had defaulted on a debt or obligation to a financial institution that resulted in a material loss to the financial institution and allows for exceptions with the prior approval of the OFR. The same criteria already applies to individuals serving at other financial institutions.

Unauthorized Banking (Section 15)

The bill amends s. 655.922, F.S., to expand the list of terms, names, words, symbols, etc., which are limited for use by a financial institution authorized to do business in Florida. The bill prohibits a financial institution, affiliate, subsidiary, or service corporation from conducting business in Florida using a name, trademark, Internet address or logo that may mislead consumers or cause confusion as to the identification of the proper legal business or the nature of the institution's business. The bill enhances the OFR's enforcement authority by authorizing the OFR to seek a circuit court order for the annulment or dissolution of a corporation found violating any provision of this section, and to issue and serve an emergency cease and desist order. The bill provides that the OFR is not required to determine the consequences that a violation of this section may cause. Currently, the codes prohibit any person, other than an authorized state or federal financial institution, from engaging in the business of soliciting or receiving funds for deposit, issuing certificates of deposit, or paying checks. A violation of this provision is a third-degree felony.

Examinations, Records, and Reports

Examinations (Sections 8, 9, and 26)

The bill amends s. 655.045, F.S., to clarify that the OFR is required to conduct an examination of each state financial institution at least once every 18 months. Beginning July 1, 2014, the bill provides that during each 36-month period, the OFR is required to conduct an examination of each state financial institution in a manner that allows the preparation of a complete examination report not subject to the right of a federal or other non-Florida entity to limit access to the information. Under current law, the OFR may accept an examination made by an appropriate federal regulatory agency or may conduct a joint or concurrent examination with the federal agency.

The bill amends s. 655.057, F.S., to provide that any information provided to the OFR by any person pursuant to an investigation or other supervisory activity of the OFR is not considered a waiver of any privilege or other legal proceeding in which the office is not a party. It also clarifies who has the right to copy membership and shareholder records.

Trade Secrets (Section 10)

Currently, the codes do not provide a public records exemption for trade secret documents held by the OFR. Senate Bill 1278, if enacted, creates a public records exemption for certain examination documents containing proprietary business information that is a trade secret. The bill creates s. 655.0591, F.S., to specify requirements for submission of a document or other information to the OFR in order for a person to claim that the information is a trade secret. The failure to file a notice of trade secret with the OFR constitutes a waiver of any claim by such person that the information is a trade secret. The requirements include labeling each page or portion as a trade secret and separating the trade secret documents from the non-trade secret material. The bill requires the submitting party to include an affidavit certifying certain information as to the trade secret status of the documents. If the OFR receives a public records request for information that is marked and certified as confidential, the OFR must immediately notify the person that certified the information as a trade secret. The bill requires the OFR to inform such person that, in order to avoid disclosure of the trade secret; the person must file an action in circuit court within 30 days seeking declaratory judgment that the document contains trade secrets and an order barring disclosure. The owner of the information is required to provide written notice to the OFR that the action was filed and the OFR may not release the documents pending the outcome of legal action. The failure to file an action within 30 days constitutes a waiver of any claim of confidentiality. The bill allows the OFR to disclose a trade secret to an employee or officer of another governmental agency whose use of the trade secret is within the scope of their employment.

Florida Control of Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing (Sections 5, 11, 22, 23, 25, 28, 30, 31, 33, and 34)

The bill updates current recordkeeping and reporting provisions to conform to the USA PATRIOT Act and the Office of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC) requirements. The bill amends s. 655.50, F.S., to require each financial institution to designate and retain a BSA/AML compliance officer and provides that the board of directors is responsible for establishing the institution's BSA/AML and OFAC policies and compliance. The bill also amends s. 655.50, F.S., to define the term "suspicious activity," and requires a financial institution to maintain specified records and report financial transactions that the institution reasonably believes is suspicious activity. It also provides that a suspicious activity report is entitled to the same confidentiality provided under 31 C.F.R. s. 1020.320.

Out of State Trust, Business Trust, and Trust Business (Sections 14 and 21)

The bill amends s. 655.921, F.S., to provide that the codes do not prohibit a financial institution or business trust which has its principal place of business outside of Florida from filing suit in Florida to collect any debt or foreclose on any security interest in collateral securing a debt. The intent of this language is to clarify permissible activities for out-of-state trust companies and business trusts. It also provides that an out-of-state business trust which own pools of mortgages and is pursuing foreclosure actions is not considered to be engaging in trust business in Florida.

The bill revises the definition of "trust business" in s. 658.12, F.S., to include a business that receives compensation that is not deemed de minimis by the OFR. The OFR indicates that it routinely receives inquiries on behalf of individuals engaging in estate planning activities that involves the use of trusts, which provide for the appointment of trustees that are not family members and are not otherwise subject to a structure of regulatory oversight. These trusts often provide for de minimis compensation and expense reimbursement. Further, the individuals are not engaging in business as professional fiduciaries.

Liability of Financial Institutions (Section 17).

The bill creates a new section in the codes, s. 655.955, F.S., to provide that a financial institution is not civilly liable to a third party for the actions or operations of a borrower, solely by virtue of extending a loan or a line of credit to such borrower.

The bill provides this limited immunity to "financial institutions," which the codes define as a state or federal savings or thrift association, bank, savings bank, trust company, international bank agency, international banking corporation, international branch, international representative office, international administrative office, international trust company representative office, credit union, or an agreement corporation or Edge Act corporation organized pursuant to the Federal Reserve Act.

To the extent third-party litigation is pending against financial institutions in this state at the time of the bill's effective date, legislation is presumed only to operate prospectively, especially when retroactive application would impair existing rights.[28]

Credit Unions and Competitive Equality (Sections 18 and 20)

The bill revises the application process and approval criteria for new branch applications and relocations by state-chartered credit unions and codifies a 2008 Order of General Application (OGA) issued by the OFR which allows a state credit union to maintain branches without requiring prior OFR examination and approval if certain conditions are met. Currently, s. 657.008, F.S., allows Florida credit unions to establish or relocate branch offices only if the credit union is operating in a safe and sound manner, its board has determined that such branches are reasonably necessary to furnish service to its members, and the credit union has provided 30 days' prior written notification to the OFR. Thus, Florida credit unions that do not meet this criterion cannot establish or relocate branch offices, even if the establishment or relocation of a branch would be in the best interests of the credit union and its members. This has placed Florida credit unions at a competitive disadvantage with their federally chartered counterparts, who are permitted under the Federal Credit Union Act and the National Credit Union Administration's (NCUA) regulations to establish or relocate branches if its directors determine that such action would be in the best interest of the federal credit union's members.

The bill amends s. 657.041, F.S., to authorize state credit unions to establish employee, officer, and director benefit plans, insurance, and investments consistent with NCUA rules for federal credit unions. This would codify the 2011 OGA currently in place to address competitive equality issues regarding a state credit union's ability to offer products that are permissible for a federal credit union.

Loans of $50,000 or Less (Sections 24, 25, 29, and 32)

Current law caps the interest rate on loans of $50,000 or less which are issued by state-chartered banks at 18 percent per year. The law allows two additional charges with exceptions. National banks are not subject to such lending restrictions, which raises a competitive equality issue for Florida-chartered banks. The bill repeals section 658.49, F.S., and makes technical and conforming changes.

Annual Assessments for International Offices (Section 27)

The bill repeals the $2,000 annual assessment that is imposed on each international representative office, international administrative office, and international trust company office by s. 663.12, F.S.

Effective Date (Section 35)

The bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

CS/CS/SB 1012 repeals the $2,000 annual assessment imposed on each international representative office, international administrative office and international trust company.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The bill codifies current federal credit union regulations relating to branches, and employee benefit plans, which would place state credit unions at parity with federal credit unions.

The bill clarifies that institutions may charge customers a fee to cash checks. This will provide consistency with the federal laws permitting national banks and out-of-state state-chartered banks operating in Florida to charge check-cashing fees, and will place Florida-chartered banks at parity with national and other state-chartered banks.

C. Government Sector Impact:

According to the OFR, the fiscal impact of repealing the $2,000 annual assessment fee for each international representative office, international administrative office or international trust company office is $18,000 on annual basis. The OFR considers this fiscal impact to be negligible.

The Office of the State Courts Administrator indicates that it expects some increase in workload as a result of the expanded authority to issue injunctions, new provisions regarding public records and trade secrets, and new authorization for the OFR and out-of-state financial institutions and business trust to engage in litigation. However, the extent and cost of the increase in workload cannot be determined.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 655.005, 655.0322, 655.034, 655.037, 655.0385, 655.041, 655.045, 655.057, 655.50, 655.85, 655.921, 655.922, 655.948, 657.008, 657.028, 657.041, 658.12, 658.21, 658.235, 663.02, 663.09, 663.12, 663.306, 665.013, 665.033, 665.034, 667.003, 667.006, and 667.008.

This bill creates sections 655.17, 655.0591, and 655.955 of the Florida Statutes.

This bill repeals section 658.49 of the Florida Statutes.

The bill creates an undesignated section of Florida law.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1018 modifies several regulatory programs and activities under the jurisdiction of the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS or department). Specifically, the bill:

- Eliminates the requirement that a private investigative, private security, or recovery service applicant obtain a letter from a fingerprinting technician or physician when a legible set of fingerprints cannot be obtained after two attempts.
- Revises recertification training requirements for Class "G" firearms licensees.
- Permits a Class "G" licensee to carry a .40 caliber handgun or a .45 caliber automatic colt pistol (ACP) handgun while on duty.
- Permits a Class "D" private security guard holding a Class "G" license to carry a concealed weapon while in plain clothes under certain circumstances.
- Permits the Division of Licensing within DACS to access sealed criminal histories for applicants of a concealed weapon license to determine eligibility.
- Standardizes regulations and procedures by which a consumer can pursue a claim against the bond or other security of a health studio, telemarketer, pawnbroker, or seller of travel.
- Prohibits a person soliciting contributions on behalf of a charity from calling donors who have previously communicated to them that they do not wish to receive any more calls.
- Prohibits a telemarketer from accepting novelty payments, such as remotely created checks or payment orders, cash-to-cash money transfers, and cash reload mechanisms.
- Provides that antifreeze and brake fluid registrations expire one year from the date of issuance.

- Clarifies inconsistent language regarding administrative fines for noncompliant petroleum products.
- Requires the department to adopt quality standards and labeling requirements for motor oils.

The modifications to the department's regulatory activities provided in this bill have a minimal impact on state revenues and expenditures. The bill provides $35,745 in nonrecurring funds to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement for costs associated with sealed criminal history records.

II. Present Situation:

The mission of the department is to safeguard the public and support Florida's agricultural economy. The Division of Consumer Services in the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (department) is responsible for protecting consumers from unsafe or defective products and deceptive business practices and is tasked with receiving the consumer complaints. This division is also responsible for overseeing and regulating a broad range of business and non-profit activities and entities. These include commercial weight loss practices, telephone solicitations, dance studios, pawnshops, health studios, sellers of travel, and telemarketers. In addition, the division is responsible for protecting consumers from unfair and unsafe business practices across a wide range of products, including petroleum products, brake fluid, antifreeze, lubricating oil, and weighing and measuring devices.

The Division of Licensing in the department regulates and licenses private security, private investigative, and recovery services, as well as issuing concealed weapon and firearm licenses.

The present situation for the relevant provisions of the bill is discussed in the Effect of Proposed Changes section of this bill analysis.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Division of Licensing

Fingerprint Requirements

Currently, any person who applies for a private investigative, private security, or recovery service license must undergo a background check, which includes an examination of fingerprint records and criminal records.[1] Section 493.6108(1)(a)2., F.S., provides that after a second unsuccessful attempt for legible fingerprints, as determined by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) or the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (department) may bypass a fingerprint background check and determine eligibility for licensure by doing a criminal history background check based on the applicant's name. This bypass is only permitted if a written statement signed by a fingerprint technician or a licensed physician affirming that the fingerprints are the best that could be provided, or that a physical condition precluded submittal of a legible set of prints, must be supplied by the applicant.

[1] Section 493.6108(1), F.S.

Section 1 amends s. 493.6108, F.S., to repeal the requirement that a written statement from the applicant, signed by the fingerprint technician or licensed physician, be provided in the event of two illegible fingerprints before the department may determine eligibility for licensure using a name-based criminal history background check conducted by the FBI. According to the department, "removing this requirement saves the applicant time by removing the requirement to consult a physician, thereby speeding up the application process."[2] Additionally, "[t]he written statement did not provide the department with any additional information pertinent to issuing a license."[3]

Annual Firearms Recertification Training

Currently, s. 493.6113(3)(b), F.S., requires holders of a Class "G"[4] statewide firearms license to annually complete four hours of firearms recertification training.[5] Upon completion of annual training, the licensee must submit proof of such training to the department. If documentation of the training is not submitted by the end of the first year of the two-year term of the license, the license is automatically suspended until proof of the training is submitted. If the documentation is not submitted by the end of the second year of the two-year term of the license, the license may not be renewed unless the applicant completes the minimum number of hours of range and classroom training required at the time of initial licensure.[6]

Section 2 amends s. 493.6113, F.S., to clarify that a Class "G" licensee must complete 28 hours of training before they are initially licensed by the department. After initial licensure, a licensee must complete four hours of firearm recertification training by the end of the first or second year of the two-year license.

Permitted Firearms

Currently, s. 493.6115(6), F.S., allows a Class "G" licensee to carry a .38 caliber revolver, a .38 caliber or 9 millimeter semi-automatic pistol, or a .357 caliber revolver with .38 caliber ammunition while performing his or her duties authorized under ch. 493, F.S.

According to the department, over the past 10 to 15 years, a significant number of law enforcement agencies have transitioned away from the standard .38 caliber revolver and the 9 millimeter semi-automatic pistol in favor of the .40 caliber or .45 caliber ACP round. Since 2001, a limited number of security agencies guarding critical infrastructure, such as deep-water ports and power plants, have requested and received waivers to carry these calibers. Currently, there are 74 firearms waivers on file with the department. According to a department analysis, in at least one of the granted waivers, the primary reason for the request was that all of the law enforcement agencies in the area carried .40 caliber semi-automatic pistols and that if a situation developed, the ability to interchange ammunition could prove crucial.[7]

[4] A Class "G" licensee permits Class "C," "CC," "D," "M," "MA," or "MB" licensees to bear a firearm. Section 493.6115(2), F.S.
[5] The DACS may waive the annual firearms recertification training for certain applicants, such as state and federal law enforcement officers and correctional officers. Section 6113(3)(b)1.-3., F.S.
[6] Initial licensure requires a minimum of 28 hours of range and classroom training, of which no more than 8 hours may be range training. Section 493.6105(5), F.S.
[7] DACS, Agency Analysis at 2.

Section 3 amends s. 493.6115, F.S., to allow a Class "G" licensee to carry a .40 caliber handgun or a .45 ACP handgun while performing his or her duties authorized under ch. 493, F.S. The department states that "[t]his change brings the authorized firearm caliber to a caliber level more consistent with what law enforcement agencies have been using for many years."[8] Additionally, "[t]his would be beneficial in the event of an emergency situation where licensees need to work with law enforcement."[9]

Security Officer Uniforms and Clothing

Under s. 493.6305, F.S., which governs uniform requirements for private security officers, a private security officer that has a Class "G" statewide firearms license is only allowed to carry a concealed firearm in plainclothes while performing limited, special assignment duties. Because private security officers regulated under ch. 493, F.S., also includes bodyguards[10] who generally perform their duties while armed and in plain clothes rather than in uniform, the current limitation on carrying a concealed weapon while in plainclothes for limited, special assignment duties is impractical.[11] According to the department, "this restricts the ability of security officers to work as bodyguards because most people needing bodyguards want those bodyguards to be armed and in plain clothes."[12]

Section 4 amends s. 493.6305, F.S., to permit a Class "D" private security officer who holds a Class "G" statewide firearms license and who is performing bodyguard or executive protection services to carry a concealed firearm in plainclothes as needed to provided contracted services to the client.

Sealed Criminal History Records

Currently, under s. 943.059(4), F.S., a person who has had his or her criminal history record sealed may deny or fail to acknowledge the arrests covered in the sealed record unless specific conditions apply. Section 943.059(4), F.S., also specifies what agencies or entities have access to sealed records "for their respective licensing, access authorization, and employment purposes." Currently, the department is not included in the list of agencies or entities.

Section 18 amends s. 943.059, F.S., to prohibit a person seeking a concealed weapon license from the department pursuant to s. 790.06, F.S., from denying or failing to acknowledge any arrest covered in a sealed record. The bill also allows the department to access a sealed record for the purpose of determining an applicant's eligibility for licensure to carry a concealed weapon pursuant to s. 790.06, F.S. Section 20 takes effect January 1, 2015.

Division of Consumer Services

Bond Requirements

Currently, health studios, telemarketers, pawnbrokers, and sellers of travel are generally required to obtain a bond, certificate of deposit, or letter of credit in amounts ranging from $25,000 to $300,000.[13] The security is intended to compensate consumers for future violations of the provisions of the respective regulating statutes or other consumer complaints, such as fraud, misrepresentation, or breach of contract.[14] According to the department, ss. 501.016, 501.611, 539.001(4), and 559.929, F.S., were enacted separately and thus inconsistencies exist regarding how the respective bond programs are administered, especially with regard to how a consumer pursues a claim against the bond or other security.[15]

Sections 5, 9, 16, and 17 amend ss. 501.016, 501.611, 539.001, and 559.929, F.S., respectively, to provide standardized regulations and procedures by which a consumer can pursue a claim against the bond or other security of a health studio, telemarketer, pawnbroker, or seller of travel. Although liability for an injury to a consumer may be determined by an administrative proceeding or through a civil action, claims against the bond or other security may only be paid by order of the department in an administrative proceeding pursuant to ch. 120, F.S.

In order for a consumer to file a claim against the bond or other security, he or she must do so through the department on an approved affidavit within 120 days of the injury or discovery of the injury, or a judgment being entered. Proceedings on the claim must be conducted in accordance with ch. 120, F.S., with the department acting only as a nominal party.

The health studio, telemarketer, pawnbroker, or seller of travel must pay any indebtedness due the consumer as determined by the department within 30 days of a final order being entered. If the business fails to pay within 30 days, the department must make demand upon the surety. If a surety fails to comply with a demand for payment, the department may file an action in circuit court to recover payment up to the amount of the bond or other security. If the court affirms the demand for payment from the surety, the department will be awarded court costs and reasonable attorney fees.

The bill also requires that a bond or other permitted security be filed on a form adopted by the department. Lastly, it requires that a bond or other security provided by a telemarketer be in favor of the department for the use and benefit of any consumer injured by the fraud, misrepresentation, breach of contract, financial failure, or violation of the Florida Telemarketing Act[16] by the telemarketer.

According to the department, these changes will allow more efficient administration of these bond programs.[17]

Do Not Call Program/Telephone Solicitations

Under s. 501.059(5), F.S., of the Florida Do Not Call program, a telephone solicitor is prohibited from calling a consumer who has previously communicated to the solicitor that he or she does not wish to receive a telephone call:

- Made by or on behalf of the seller whose goods or services are being offered; or
- Made on behalf of a charity for which a charitable contribution is being solicited.

Because the definition of a "telephone solicitor" does not include a person soliciting charitable contributions, there is nothing in current law to prohibit people soliciting contributions on behalf of a charity via telephone from calling donors who have previously communicated to them that they do not wish to receive any more solicitation calls.[18]

Section 6 amends s. 501.059, F.S., to prohibit any person soliciting contributions on behalf of a charity via telephone from calling donors who have previously communicated to them that they do not wish to receive any more charitable contribution solicitation calls.

Dance Studio Act

The Dance Studio Act, s. 501.143, F.S., regulates ball room dance studios that provide dance lessons or services in Florida. Regulations under the act include:

- Registration with the department;[19]
- Requirements that every contract with a customer include certain provisions, such as the customer's total payment obligations and cancellation provisions;[20]
- Bond or other similar security requirements;[21] and
- Prohibited practices, such as coercive or misleading sales practices.

The department can seek an injunction or civil penalties for any violation of the act, and violations are generally misdemeanors. The act also permits a consumer to bring an action for treble damages for fraudulent violations of the act.[22]

Ballroom dance studios are the only dance studios currently regulated by the department. According to the department, during the last three fiscal years, it has received 23 complaints related to dance studios and has recovered $23,025 for consumers under its authority to conduct informal mediation processes. Additionally, the department notes that there has not been a bond payout under this program in the last three fiscal years.[23]

[18] DACS, Agency Analysis at 4. "Telephone solicitor" is defined as "any natural person, firm, organization, partnership, association, or corporation, or a subsidiary or affiliate thereof, doing business in this state, who makes or causes to be made a telephonic sales call, including, but not limited to, calls made by use of automated dialing or recorded message devices." [21] Id. at (5).

Section 7 repeals s. 501.143, F.S., the Dance Studio Act, thus deregulating the industry in Florida. According to the department, complaints related to dance studious would be handled through its non-regulated complaints section.[24]

Telemarketing Payment Methods

There are two major categories of noncash retail payment methods used in telemarketing: conventional payment methods and novelty payment methods.[25] Conventional payment methods include credit cards, debit cards, and other types of electronic fund transfers processed electronically through networks that are monitored for fraud. These payment methods are subject to federal laws that require error resolution procedures and limit a consumer's liability for certain disputed transactions.[26]

Novelty payment methods refers to four types of noncash payments. These methods are remotely created checks and payment orders, cash-to-cash money transfers (such as Western Union and Moneygram), and cash reload mechanisms (such as MoneyPak or ReloadIt).[27] Unlike conventional payment methods, novelty payment methods "are cleared via check clearing and money transfer networks that provide little or no systematic monitoring to detect or deter fraud."[28] Additionally, novelty payment methods do not provide consumers with sufficient recourse when unauthorized transactions or telemarketing fraud occurs.

Due to the lack of adequate consumer protections for novelty payment methods, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has found that unscrupulous telemarketers exploit these payment methods to defraud consumers. Schemes employed by fraudulent telemarketers to exploit the weaknesses in novelty payment methods include phony offers such as fake medical discount plans, soliciting for bogus charities, mystery shopper scams, and work at home opportunities.[29] Due to the significant fraudulent activity associated with novelty payment methods, the FTC has proposed an amendment to its Telemarketing Sales Rule that will prohibit telemarketers from accepting novelty payment methods.[30] Currently, the Florida Telemarketing Act,[31] contains no restrictions on payment methods for telemarketers. However, the act prohibits a telephone salesperson from requiring that a customer pay by credit card or expressing a preference of such method of payment.[32]

Sections 8 and 10 amend ss. 501.603 and 501.616, F.S., respectively, to prohibit a telemarketer from accepting novelty payments either directly or indirectly as payment for goods or services.

[32] Section 501.616(1), F.S.

"Novelty payment" is defined in the bill as a payment method that does not provide a means of systematic monitoring to detect and deter fraud, and it includes the following payment devices:

- A remotely created check, which is a check that is not created by the paying bank and that does not bear the signature of the person on whose account the check is drawn.
- A remotely created payment order, which is a payment instruction or order drawn on a person's account which is initiated or created by the payee and does not bear the signature of the person on whose account the order is drawn and is cleared through the check clearing system.
- A cash-to-cash money transfer, which is the electronic transfer of the value of cash received from one person to another, in a different location, that is sent by a money transfer provider[33] and received in the form of cash.
- A cash reload mechanism,[34] which is a system that makes it possible to convert cash into an electronic form that a person can use to add money to a prepaid card or an online account with a payment intermediary.[35]

The department will also have the discretion to further define novelty payment in rule to identify the ever-changing forms of unsystematic, fraud-prone payment methods.[36] Additionally, the bill repeals the prohibition against a telephone salesperson requiring a customer to pay by credit card or expressing a preference for such method of payment.

Antifreeze and Brake Fluid Registration

Currently, the Division of Consumer Services requires antifreeze and brake fluid distributed in Florida to be registered with the department. Section 501.913(1), F.S., requires each brand of antifreeze to be registered no later than July 1 of each year. Pursuant to s. 526.51, F.S., each brand of brake fluid must be re-registered by June 30 of each year.[37] According to the department, since Fiscal Year 2010-2011, the number of antifreeze applications has increased more than 15 percent and the number of brake fluid applications has increased more than 30 percent.[38]

Sections 11 and 15 amend ss. 501.913 and 526.51, F.S., and Section 14 repeals s. 526.50, F.S., to provide that antifreeze and brake fluid registrations expire one year from the date of issuance. According to the department, distributing application cycles throughout the year will prevent large backlogs of registrations. The reduced processing time will allow applicants to bring [33] The term "money transfer provider" is defined in the bill to mean "a person or financial institution that provides cash-to-cash money transfers for a person in the normal course of business, regardless of whether the person holds an account with such person or financial institution."

[34] The term "mechanism" is defined in the bill to mean "a system that is purchased by a person on a prepaid basis, that enables access to the funds via an authorization code or other security measure, and that is not directly used as a general-use prepaid card."

products to market without delays and will benefit from having a full year's registration before having to renew.[39]

Petroleum Product Inspections

Pursuant to ch. 525, F.S., the department regularly conducts inspections on the petroleum distribution system and analyzes samples of petroleum products to ensure the quality and fairness of those products.[40] If a petroleum product fails to meet any standard adopted pursuant to ch. 525, F.S., the department may impose a number of penalties, including levying fines and placing a stop-sale order on the product.[41] For second violations or repeat offenders, the department may impose greater fines, taking into consideration the violator's compliance records. If a new violation of ch. 525, F.S., occurs more than three years after the last-stop order was issued, and during that three-year period no other violation has occurred at the same location, then all previous fines must be disregarded by the department.

Section 12 amends s. 525.16, F.S., to clarify inconsistent language regarding when a previous fine for violating ch. 525, F.S., may be disregarded when administering a fine for a new violation. According to the department, this change makes the language in s. 525.16(1)(a) and (b), F.S., consistent.[42]

Lubricating Oil Standards and Labeling

Pursuant to part I of ch. 526, F.S., the department regulates liquid fuels, lubricating oils, and other similar products. The majority of the requirements of ch. 526, F.S., are designed to prevent deceptive labeling that may mislead consumers as to the nature, quality, or quantity of the product for sale.[43] If labeling requirements are violated, the product is placed under an administrative stop-sale order until it is properly labeled.[44] If the product is not properly labeled within 30 days of the stop-sale order being issued, it must be disposed. Although part I of ch. 526, F.S., permits the department to regulate labeling of lubricating oils, it does not permit the department to establish quality standards for lubricating oils, such as those established by the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE).[45]

Section 13 creates s. 526.015, F.S., to permit the department to adopt quality standards and labeling requirements specifically for lubricating oils. Quality standards adopted by the department must be comparable to those established by the Society of Automotive Engineers or other similar standard, and labeling requirements must be designed to prevent deceptive or misleading practices. The bill prohibits a person from selling or distributing a lubricating oil that fails to meet standard or labeling requirements adopted by the department. A product that fails to meet such requirements must be placed under a stop-sale order and the lot number of the product must be identified and tagged by the department to prevent its sale. A product that has been placed under a stop-sale order may not be sold or distributed or offered for sale or distribution.

Once a product conforms to standard and labeling requirements or is removed from the premises in a manner approved by the department, a release order is issued.

Sections 19 and 20 amend ss. 205.1969 and 501.015, F.S., to conform cross-references and delete obsolete cross-references.

Section 21 provides an appropriation of $35,745 in nonrecurring funds to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement from the Operating Trust Fund for costs associated with sealed criminal history records. Funds will be transferred from the Division of Licensing Trust Fund within the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services to support this appropriation.

Section 22 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014, except as otherwise provided in the act.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/CS/SB 1018 repeals s. 501.143, F.S., removing the requirement for dance studios to register with the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (department). Dance studios will no longer be required to pay a $300 registration fee.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The modifications to the department's regulatory activities provided in the bill have a minimal fiscal impact on state revenues and expenditures. The department estimates the repeal of the Dance Studio Act will reduce recurring revenues by $58,200 and expenditures by $17,455 in the General Inspection Trust Fund. Additionally, there will be an indeterminate reduction in revenues due to the infrequency of litigation relating to standardizing the bond requirements for health studios, telemarketers, pawnbrokers, and sellers of travel.

The bill appropriates $35,745 in nonrecurring funds to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement from the Operating Trust Fund for costs associated with sealed criminal history records. Funds will be transferred from the Division of Licensing Trust Fund within the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services to support this appropriation.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

(4) The health studio shall pay to the department for distribution to the consumer any indebtedness determined by final order of the department within 30 days after the order is entered. If the health studio fails to make timely payment, the department shall make demand upon the surety, which may include an institution issuing a letter of credit or depository on a certificate of deposit. If a surety fails to comply with a demand for payment issued pursuant to a final order, the department may file an action in circuit court pursuant to s. 120.69 to recover payment up to the amount of the bond or other form of security. If the court affirms the department's demand for payment from the surety, the department shall be awarded court costs and reasonable attorney fees.

(5) ~~(3)~~ A health studio that ~~which~~ sells contracts for future health studio services and ~~which~~ collects direct payment on a monthly basis for those services is ~~shall be~~ exempt from the security requirements of subsections (1) and (2) if ~~provided that~~ any service fee charged is ~~a~~ reasonable and fair ~~service~~

However, at any time the aggregate dollar amount of such contracts exceeds $5,000, the health studio shall ~~so~~ notify the department and shall ~~thereupon~~ provide the bond or other documentation as required in subsections (1) and (2). Health studios whose bonds have been reduced shall ~~must~~ provide the department with an annually updated list of members. ~~Failure to file an annual report will result in~~ The department shall increase ~~raising~~ the security requirement to $25,000 for a health studio that fails to file an annual report.

(7)~~(5)~~ Each health studio shall furnish the department with a copy of the escrow account which would contain all funds received for future consumer services, whether provided under ~~by~~ contract or otherwise, sold before ~~prior to~~ the business location's full operation and specify a date certain for opening, if such an escrow account is established.

As used in this subsection, the term "satisfactory consumer complaint history" means that there are no unresolved consumer complaints regarding the health studio ~~are~~ on file with the department. A consumer complaint is unresolved if a health studio has not responded to the department's efforts to mediate the complaint or if there has been an adjudication that the health studio has violated ss. 501.012-501.019 or the rules adopted thereunder. Such exemption extends to all current and future business locations of an exempt health studio.

(9)~~(7)~~ This section does not apply to a business, otherwise defined as a health studio, which sells a single contract of 30 days or less to a ~~any~~ member without any option for renewal or any other condition that ~~which~~ establishes any right in the member beyond the term of such contract ~~is exempt from the provisions of this section~~. (b) Made on behalf of a charitable organization for which a charitable contribution is being solicited.

Section 9. Section 501.143, Florida Statutes, is repealed.

Section 10. Present subsections (8) through (11) of section 501.603, Florida Statutes, are redesignated as subsections (9) through (12), respectively, a new subsection (8) is added to that section, and subsection (2) of that section is amended, to read:

501.603 Definitions.—As used in this part, unless the context otherwise requires, the term:

The term ~~A commercial telephone seller does not include a salesperson as defined in subsection (10). A commercial telephone seller~~ includes, but is not limited to, owners, operators, officers, directors, partners, or other individuals engaged in the management activities of a business entity pursuant to this part.

Section 20. Effective January 1, 2015, paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 943.059, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

943.059 Court-ordered sealing of criminal history records.—The courts of this state shall continue to have jurisdiction over their own procedures, including the maintenance, sealing, and correction of judicial records containing criminal history information to the extent such procedures are not inconsistent with the conditions, responsibilities, and duties established by this section. Any court of competent jurisdiction may order a criminal justice agency to seal the criminal history record of a minor or an adult who complies with the requirements of this section. The court shall not order a criminal justice agency to seal a criminal history record until the person seeking to seal a criminal history record has applied for and received a certificate of eligibility for sealing pursuant to subsection (2). A criminal history record that relates to a violation of s. 393.135, s. 394.4593, s. 787.025, chapter 794, s. 796.03, s. 800.04, s. 810.14, s. 817.034, s. 825.1025, s. 827.071, chapter 839, s. 847.0133, s. 847.0135, s. 847.0145, s. 893.135, s. 916.1075, a violation enumerated in s. 907.041, or any violation specified as a predicate offense for registration as a sexual predator pursuant to s. 775.21, without regard to whether that offense alone is sufficient to require such registration, or for registration as a sexual offender pursuant to s. 943.0435, may not be sealed, without regard to whether adjudication was withheld, if the defendant was found guilty of or pled guilty or nolo contendere to the offense, or if the defendant, as a minor, was found to have committed or pled guilty or nolo contendere to committing the offense as a delinquent act. The court may only order sealing of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity, except as provided in this section. The court may, at its sole discretion, order the sealing of a criminal history record pertaining to more than one arrest if the additional arrests directly relate to the original arrest. If the court intends to order the sealing of records pertaining to such additional arrests, such intent must be specified in the order. A criminal justice agency may not seal any record pertaining to such additional arrests if the order to seal does not articulate the intention of the court to seal records pertaining to more than one arrest. This section does not prevent the court from ordering the sealing of only a portion of a criminal history record pertaining to one arrest or one incident of alleged criminal activity. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, a criminal justice agency may comply with laws, court orders, and official requests of other jurisdictions relating to sealing, correction, or confidential handling of criminal history records or information derived therefrom. This section does not confer any right to the sealing of any criminal history record, and any request for sealing a criminal history record may be denied at the sole discretion of the court.

(4) EFFECT OF CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORD SEALING.—A criminal history record of a minor or an adult which is ordered sealed by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to this section is confidential and exempt from the provisions of s. 119.07(1) and s. 24(a), Art. I of the State Constitution and is available only to the person who is the subject of the record, to the subject's attorney, to criminal justice agencies for their respective criminal justice purposes, which include conducting a criminal history background check for approval of firearms purchases or transfers as authorized by state or federal law, to judges in the state courts system for the purpose of assisting them in their case-related decisionmaking responsibilities, as set forth in s. 943.053(5), or to those entities set forth in subparagraphs (a)1., 4., 5., 6., and 8. for their respective licensing, access authorization, and employment purposes.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1030 creates s. 456.60, F.S., in order to allow the compassionate use of low-THC cannabis. The bill allows certain patients whose Florida-licensed physician registers them with the Department of Health (DOH) to use low-THC cannabis under limited circumstances. The bill defines low-THC cannabis as containing no more than 0.8 percent of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) and at least 10 percent of cannabidiol (CBD).

The bill provides for patients who receive an order for low-THC cannabis by their physician to be added to a registry that is created and maintained by the DOH and to receive an identification card. Such a patient may purchase or acquire low-THC cannabis in an amount no greater than the physician's order and only from a dispensing organization that is approved by the DOH.

The bill exempts patients and their legal representatives from the legal restrictions on the purchase, acquisition, possession, and medical use of low-THC cannabis. Approved dispensing organizations, including owners, managers, and employees, are exempted from similar restrictions under certain parameters.

The bill encourages state universities with both medical and agricultural programs to develop or participate in Federal Food and Drug Administration-approved research on low-THC cannabis.

The bill has an indeterminate fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Treatment of Marijuana in Florida

Florida law defines cannabis as "all parts of any plant of the genus Cannabis, whether growing or not; the seeds thereof; the resin extracted from any part of the plant; and every compound, manufacture, salt, derivative, mixture, or preparation of the plant or its seeds or resin"[1] and places it, along with other sources of THC, on the list of Schedule 1 controlled substances.[2] Schedule 1 controlled substances are substances that have a high potential for abuse and no currently accepted medical use in the United States. As a Schedule 1 controlled substance, possession and trafficking in cannabis carry criminal penalties that vary from a first degree misdemeanor[3] up to a first degree felony with a mandatory minimum sentence of 15 years in state prison and a $200,000 fine.[4] Paraphernalia[5] that is sold, manufactured, used, or possessed with the intent to be used to plant, propagate, cultivate, grow, harvest, manufacture, compound, convert, produce, process, prepare, test, analyze, pack, repack, store, contain, conceal, inject, ingest, inhale, or otherwise introduce into the human body a controlled substance, is also prohibited and carries criminal penalties ranging from a first degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony.[6]

Medical Marijuana in Florida: The Necessity Defense

Despite the fact that the use, possession, and sale of marijuana are prohibited by state law, Florida courts have found that circumstances can necessitate medical use of marijuana and circumvent the application of criminal penalties. The necessity defense was successfully applied in a marijuana possession case in Jenks v. State[7] where the First District Court of Appeal found that "section 893.03 does not preclude the defense of medical necessity" for the use of marijuana if the defendant:

- Did not intentionally bring about the circumstance which precipitated the unlawful act;
- Could not accomplish the same objective using a less offensive alternative available; and
- The evil sought to be avoided was more heinous than the unlawful act.

In the cited case, the defendants, a married couple, were suffering from uncontrollable nausea due to AIDS treatment and had testimony from their physician that he could find no effective alternative treatment. Under these facts, the First District found that the Jenks met the criteria for the necessity defense and ordered an acquittal of the charges of cultivating cannabis and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Medical Marijuana Laws in Other States

Currently, 20 states and the District of Columbia[8] have some form of law that permits the use of marijuana for medicinal purposes. These laws vary widely in detail but most are similar in that they touch on several recurring themes. Most state laws include the following in some form:

- A list of medical conditions for which a practitioner can recommend the use of medical marijuana to a patient.
  - Nearly every state that permits the use of marijuana for medicinal purposes has a list of applicable medical conditions, though the particular conditions vary from state to state. Most states also include a way to expand the list either by allowing a state agency or board to add medical conditions to the list or by including a "catch-all" phrase.[9] Most states require that the patient receive certification from at least one, but often two, physicians designating that the patient has a qualifying condition before the patient may be issued an identification card needed for the acquisition of medical marijuana.
- Provisions for the patient to designate one or more caregivers who can possess the medical marijuana and assist the patient in preparing and using the medical marijuana.
  - The number of caregivers allowed and the qualifications to become a caregiver vary from state to state. Most states allow one or two caregivers and require that they be at least 21 years of age and, typically, cannot be the patient's physician. Caregivers are generally allowed to purchase or grow marijuana for the patient, be in possession of the allowed quantity of marijuana, and aid the patient in using the marijuana, but are strictly prohibited from using the marijuana themselves.
- A required identification card for the patient, caregiver, or both that is typically issued by a state agency.
- A registry of people who have been issued an identification card.
- A method for registered patients and caregivers to obtain medical marijuana.
  - There are two general methods by which patients can obtain medical marijuana. They must either self-cultivate the marijuana in their homes or the state allows specified marijuana points-of-sale or dispensaries. The regulations governing such dispensaries vary widely.
- General restrictions on where medical marijuana may be used.
  - Typically, medical marijuana may not be used in public places, such as parks and on buses, or in areas where there are more stringent restrictions placed on the use of drugs, such as in or around schools or in prisons.

State Medical Marijuana Laws and Their Interaction with the Federal Government

The Federal Controlled Substances Act lists Marijuana as a schedule 1 drug with no accepted medical uses. Under federal law possession, manufacturing, and distribution of marijuana is a [8] These states include Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois (effective 2014), Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Washington. California was the first to establish a medical marijuana program in 1996 and Illinois was the most recent state to pass medical marijuana legislation in August of 2013. Illinois legislation became effective in January, 2014. See http://www.ncsl.org/issues-research/health/state-medical-marijuana-laws.aspx. (last visited on March 19, 2014).

[9] An example is California's law that includes "any other chronic or persistent medical symptom that either: Substantially limits the ability of the person to conduct one or more major life activities as defined in the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, or if not alleviated, may cause serious harm to the patient's safety or physical or mental health."

crime.[10] Although a state's medical marijuana laws protect patients from prosecution for the legitimate use of marijuana under the guidelines established in that state, such laws do not protect individuals from prosecution under federal law if the federal government enforces those laws.

In August of 2013, the United States Justice Department (USDOJ) issued a publication entitled "Smart on Crime: Reforming the Criminal Justice System for the 21st Century."[11] This document details the federal government's current stance on low-level drug crimes and contains the following passage:

> … the Attorney General is announcing a change in Department of Justice charging policies so that certain people who have committed low-level, nonviolent drug offenses, who have no ties to large-scale organizations, gangs, or cartels, will no longer be charged with offenses that impose draconian mandatory minimum sentences. Under the revised policy, these people would instead receive sentences better suited to their individual conduct rather than excessive prison terms more appropriate for violent criminals or drug kingpins.

In addition, the USDOJ published on August 29, 2013, a memorandum with the subject "Guidance regarding Marijuana Enforcement." This memorandum makes clear that the USDOJ considers small-scale marijuana use to be a state matter which states may choose to punish or not, and, while larger operations would fall into the purview of the USDOJ, those operations that adhere to state laws legalizing marijuana in conjunction with robust regulatory systems would be far less likely to come under federal scrutiny.[12] These announcements generally indicate the USDOJ's current unwillingness to prosecute such cases and its inclination to leave such prosecutions largely up to state authorities.

Tetrahydrocannabinol

Tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) is the major psychoactive constituent of marijuana. The potency of marijuana, in terms of psychoactivity, is dependent on THC concentration and is usually expressed as percent of THC per dry weight of material.

Average THC concentration in marijuana is 1 - 5 percent and the form of marijuana known as sinsemilla is derived from the unpollinated female cannabis plant and is preferred for its high THC content (up to 17 percent THC). Recreational doses are highly variable and users often titer their own dose. A single intake of smoke from a pipe or joint is called a hit (approximately 1/20th of a gram). The lower the potency or THC content the more hits are needed to achieve the desired effects.[13]

Marinol is a currently-approved drug[14] that consists of a man-made form of THC known as dornabinol.[15] Marinol is used to treat anorexia associated with weight loss in patients with AIDS and nausea and vomiting associated with cancer chemotherapy in patients who have failed to adequately respond to conventional antiemetic treatments. Marinol has a variety of side-effects including a cannabinoid dose-related "high."[16]

Cannabidiol

Cannabidiol (CBD) is another cannabinoid that is found in marijuana and, although THC has psychoactive effects, CBD and other cannabinoids are not known to cause intoxication.[17] Some evidence shows that CBD is effective in treating seizure disorders,[18,19] although much of this evidence is anecdotal. Currently, the drug Epidiolex, which is a liquid form of highly purified CBD extract, was approved by the FDA in November 2013, as an orphan drug[20] that may be used to treat Dravet syndrome.[21,22]

Dravet Syndrome

Also known as Severe Myoclonic Epilepsy of Infancy (SMEI), Dravet syndrome is a rare form of intractable epilepsy that begins in infancy.[23] Initial seizures are most often prolonged events and, in the second year of life, other seizure types begin to emerge. Individuals with Dravet syndrome face a higher incidence of SUDEP (sudden unexplained death in epilepsy) and typically have associated conditions that also need to be properly treated and managed. These conditions include:

- Behavioral and developmental delays;
- Movement and balance issues;
- Orthopedic conditions;
- Delayed language and speech issues;
- Growth and nutrition issues;
- Sleeping difficulties;
- Chronic infections;
- Sensory integration disorders; and

- Disruptions of the autonomic nervous system (which regulates bodily functions such as temperature regulation and sweating).

Individuals with Dravet syndrome do not outgrow the condition. Current treatment options are extremely limited and constant care and supervision are typically required.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 creates s. 456.60, F.S., to allow the compassionate use of low-THC cannabis. The bill:

- Defines the terms:
  - "Dispensing organization" to mean an organization approved by the Department of Health (DOH) to cultivate, process, and dispense low-THC cannabis;
  - "Low-THC cannabis" to mean a substance that contains no more than 0.8 percent of any THC and at least 10 percent of CBD and which is dispensed from a dispensing organization;
  - "Medical use" to mean the administration of the ordered amount of low-THC cannabis with the exception of possession, use, or administration by smoking and the transfer of low-THC cannabis to a person other than the qualified patient or his or her legal representative;
  - "Qualified patient" to mean a Florida resident who has been added to the compassionate use registry by a Florida-licensed physician; and
  - "Smoking" to mean burning or igniting a substance and inhaling the smoke. The term smoking does not include the use of a vaporizer.
- Effective January 1, 2015, allows Florida-licensed physicians to order low-THC cannabis for a patient suffering from a physical medical condition, or treatment for a medical condition, that chronically produces symptoms of seizure or severe and persistent muscle spasms. The physician may only order low-THC cannabis if:
  - The patient is a permanent resident of Florida;
  - The physician has treated the patient for his or her symptoms for at least two months;
  - The physician, along with a second physician for patients under the age of 18, determines the risk of ordering low-THC cannabis are reasonable;
  - The physician registers as the orderer for the named patient on the registry, updates the registry with the order's contents, and deactivates the patient's registration when treatment is discontinued;
  - The physician maintains a patient treatment plan that includes the dose, route of administration, planned duration, and monitoring of the patient's symptoms and other indicators of tolerance or reaction to the low-THC cannabis; and
  - The physician submits the treatment plan quarterly to the University of Florida's College of Pharmacy for research on the safety and efficacy of low-THC cannabis.
- Requires physicians to undergo eight hours of education, including passing an examination, offered by the Florida Medical Association relating to clinical indications, appropriate delivery mechanisms, contraindications, and relevant state and federal laws governing ordering, dispensing, and possessing low-THC cannabis. The bill requires the first course and examination to be presented by October 1, 2014, and at least annually thereafter, allows subsequent courses to be used to satisfy eight hours of continuing medical education. The bill allows the coursework to be offered in a distance learning format.

- Requires the DOH, by January 1, 2015, to:
  - Create a secure, electronic, and online registry for the registration of physicians and patients which must be able to be accessed by law enforcement and the dispensing organization in order to verify patient orders. The dispensing organization must be able to record the low-THC cannabis dispensed, and the registry must prevent an active registration of a patient by multiple physicians.
  - Authorize at least one, but no more than four, dispensing organizations to ensure reasonable statewide accessibility and availability of low-THC cannabis as necessary. The DOH must develop an application form and impose initial and biennial renewal fees that are sufficient to cover the costs of administering their responsibilities. An applicant for approval as a dispensing organization must be able to demonstrate:
    - The technical and technological ability to cultivate and produce low-THC cannabis;
    - The ability to secure the premises, resources, and personnel necessary to operate;
    - The ability to maintain accountability of all cannabis-related products and to prevent diversion of those substances;
    - An infrastructure reasonably located to dispense low-THC cannabis statewide or regionally as determined by the DOH;
    - The financial ability to maintain operations for the duration of the two-year licensure cycle;
    - That all owners, managers, and employees have been fingerprinted and passed a level II background screening;
    - Any additional criteria determined by the DOH as necessary to safely function as a dispensary; and
    - Monitor physician registration and ordering of low-THC cannabis in order to take disciplinary action as needed.
  - Implement a process for issuing identification cards to patients registered in the compassionate use registry which expire one year after the date issued. Once expired, a patient who continues to be registered and is being treated with low-THC cannabis may be issued a new card.
- Requires the DOH to monitor and inspect the activities of each approved dispensing organization for compliance with the requirements of this section of law.
- Allows the DOH to adopt rules pertaining to submission of patient information to the compassionate use registry for the issuance of identification cards and recordkeeping requirements in order to demonstrate compliance with the section. Specifically, the recordkeeping requirements must include production and finished product testing for quality.
- Requires a dispensing organization to maintain compliance with all listed criteria for approval at all times and to verify before dispensing any low-THC cannabis that a patient has an active registration and that the patient's order matches the one recorded on the registry and has not already been filled. When the dispensing organization dispenses any low-THC cannabis, it must record the date, time, quantity, and form of the cannabis dispensed. A dispensing organization must also make records, premises, resources, products, and vehicles available for inspection by the DOH and law enforcement agencies.

- Creates exceptions from all other sections of law to provide that:
  - Qualified patients and their legal representatives may purchase, acquire, and possess for that patient's medical use up to the ordered amount of low-THC cannabis; and
  - Dispensing organizations, including their owners, managers, and employees, may acquire, possess, cultivate, and dispose of excess product in reasonable quantities to produce low-THC cannabis and possess, process, and dispense low-THC cannabis.
- Provides that dispensing organizations and their owners, managers, and employees are not subject to licensure and regulation under ch. 465, F.S., relating to pharmacies.
- Requires the DOH to establish an Office of Compassionate Use under the deputy state health officer to administer the act, including access to the compassionate use registry.

Section 2 creates s. 385.30, F.S., to encourage state universities with both medical and agricultural research programs to develop or participate in Federal Food and Drug Administration-approved studies and clinical research treatment plans using low-THC cannabis which are directed toward refractory or intractable epilepsy relief in pediatric patients. A participating university may request from the DOH a grant of up $100,000 annually. In order to be eligible for the grant, the participating university's medical college or medical school must submit a report to the DOH by January 1 of each year which contains, at minimum, the gender and age of each participating patient, the names of the participating physicians, and the level of seizure reduction in each participating patient. The bill exempts the DOH's grant award decisions from the requirements of ch. 120, F.S.

Section 3 creates s. 1004.441, F.S., to exempt universities conducting research on low-THC cannabis from the prohibitions in ch. 893, F.S. The bill specifies that the research may include, but is not limited to, the agricultural development, production, clinical research, and use of liquid medical derivatives of low-THC cannabis for the treatment for refractory or intractable epilepsy and allows current state and privately obtained research funds to be used to support such research.

Section 4 allows the DOH to submit a budget amendment request using excess funds from the Biomedical Research Trust Fund to implement the act during fiscal year 2014-2015.

Section 5 establishes an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/CS/SB 1030 may have a positive fiscal impact on private sector organizations that are approved by the DOH to become dispensing organizations.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Department of Health (DOH)

The DOH indicates the need for $120,000 to fund the creation of the compassionate use registry and will require further funds to maintain the registry, as well as to approve and monitor the dispensing organizations.[24] However, these costs should be fully offset by the revenue generated through initial license fees and renewal fees charged to the dispensing organizations.

The DOH will incur a recurring increase in workload associated with monitoring physician registration and ordering of low-THC cannabis. The impact is indeterminate.

The DOH may experience a recurring increase in workload associated with enforcement and regulation duties under the bill. The impact is indeterminate.

The DOH may experience an indeterminate negative fiscal impact to establish an Office of Compassionate Use.

The DOH will incur nonrecurring costs for rulemaking, which current budget authority is adequate to absorb.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) and County Crime Labs

Section 1 of the bill may generate additional revenue for the FDLE due to an increase in the number of criminal history checks performed. The current cost for a state record check is $24.[25] The number of additional criminal history record checks is indeterminate.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

[24] Analysis of SB 1030 (July 1, 2014), Florida Department of Health (on file with Senate Committee on Health Policy and the Senate Committee on Criminal Justice). All information in the "Fiscal Impact" section of this analysis relevant to the DOH is from the DOH analysis.

[25] The cost for a state and national criminal history record check is $40.50 ($24 goes into the FDLE Operating Trust Fund and $16.50 from each request is forwarded to the Federal Bureau of Investigation).

VII. Related Issues:

Unless exempted from public records, the personal identifying information placed into the compassionate use registry will be available to the general public. SB 1700 creates that public records exemption.

Regarding the bill's requirements for fingerprints and background screening for owners, managers, and employees of dispensing organizations, the FDLE recommends participation in the state and federal fingerprint retention program to ensure that all arrests of individuals screened which occur after the initial criminal history screening, are made known to the DOH. Under that program, after the bill becomes effective, both the FDLE and the Federal Bureau of Investigation will retain the fingerprints, search the fingerprints against incoming arrests, and notify the DOH if the retained fingerprints match an incoming arrest.[26]

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill creates the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 456.60, 385.30, and 1004.441.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The CS:

- Changes the name of "low-THC marijuana" to "low-THC cannabis" throughout the bill;

The Committee on Appropriations (Bradley) recommended the following:

Senate Amendment (with title amendment)

Delete everything after the enacting clause and insert:

Section 1. Section 456.60, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

456.60 Compassionate use of low-THC cannabis.—

(1) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section, the term:

(a) "Dispensing organization" means an organization approved by the department to cultivate, process, and dispense low-THC cannabis pursuant to this section.

(b) "Low-THC cannabis" means a substance that contains no more than 0.8 percent of any tetrahydrocannabinol and at least 10 percent cannabidiol and that is dispensed only from a dispensing organization.

(c) "Medical use" means administration of the ordered amount of low-THC cannabis. The term does not include the possession, use, or administration by smoking. The term also does not include the transfer of low-THC cannabis to a person other than the qualified patient for whom it was ordered or the qualified patient's legal representative on behalf of the qualified patient.

(d) "Qualified patient" means a resident of this state who has been added to the compassionate use registry by a physician licensed under chapter 458 or chapter 459 to receive low-THC cannabis from a dispensing organization.

(e) "Smoking" means burning or igniting a substance and inhaling the smoke. Smoking does not include the use of a vaporizer.

(2) PHYSICIAN ORDERING.—Effective January 1, 2015, a physician licensed under chapter 458 or chapter 459 who has examined and treated a patient suffering from a physical medical condition, or from treatment for a medical condition, which chronically produces symptoms of seizures or severe and persistent muscle spasms may order for the patient's medical use low-THC cannabis to treat or alleviate such symptoms if all of the following conditions apply:

(a) The patient is a permanent resident of this state.

(b) The physician has treated the patient for his or her symptoms or a medical condition in which his or her symptoms were present for at least 2 months.

(c) The physician determines the risks of ordering low-THC cannabis are reasonable in light of the potential benefit for that patient. If a patient is younger than 18 years of age, a second physician must concur with this determination, and such determination must be documented in the patient's medical record.

(d) The physician registers as the orderer of low-THC cannabis for the named patient on the compassionate use registry maintained by the department and updates the registry to reflect the contents of the order. The physician shall inactivate the patient's registration when treatment is discontinued.

(e) The physician maintains a patient treatment plan that includes the dose, route of administration, planned duration, and monitoring of the patient's symptoms and other indicators of tolerance or reaction to the low-THC cannabis.

(f) The physician submits the patient treatment plan quarterly to the University of Florida College of Pharmacy for research on the safety and efficacy of low-THC cannabis on patients with such symptoms.

(3) PHYSICIAN EDUCATION.—Before ordering low-THC cannabis for use by a patient in this state, the appropriate board shall require the ordering physician licensed under chapter 458 or chapter 459 to successfully complete an 8-hour course and subsequent examination offered by the Florida Medical Association which must encompass the clinical indications for the appropriate use of low-THC cannabis, the appropriate delivery mechanisms, the contraindications for such use, as well as the relevant state and federal laws governing the ordering, dispensing, and possessing of such substance. The first course and examination shall be presented by October 1, 2014, and shall be administered at least annually thereafter. Successful completion of the course may be used by a physician to satisfy 8 hours of the continuing medical education requirements required by his or her respective board for licensure renewal. The course may be offered in a distance learning format.

(4) DUTIES OF THE DEPARTMENT.—

(a) By January 1, 2015, the department shall:

1. Create a secure, electronic, and online compassionate use registry for the registration of physicians and patients as provided under this section. The registry must be accessible to law enforcement agencies and to a dispensing organization in order to verify patient authorization for low-THC cannabis and record the low-THC cannabis dispensed. The registry must prevent an active registration of a patient by multiple physicians.

2. Authorize at least one, but no more than four, dispensing organizations, to ensure reasonable statewide accessibility and availability as necessary for patients registered in the compassionate use registry and who are ordered low-THC cannabis under this section. The department shall develop an application form and impose an initial application and biennial renewal fee that is sufficient to cover the costs of administering this section. An applicant for approval as a dispensing organization must be able to demonstrate:

a. The technical and technological ability to cultivate and produce low-THC cannabis.

b. The ability to secure the premises, resources, and personnel necessary to operate as a dispensing organization.

c. The ability to maintain accountability of all raw materials, finished product, and any byproducts to prevent diversion or unlawful access to or possession of these substances.

d. An infrastructure reasonably located to dispense low-THC cannabis to registered patients statewide or regionally as determined by the department.

e. The financial ability to maintain operations for the duration of the 2-year approval cycle.

f. That all owners, managers, and employees have been fingerprinted and successfully passed background screening pursuant to s. 435.04.

3. Implement a process for timely issuing identification cards to patients registered in the compassionate use registry. The identification card expires 1 year after the date issued. A new identification card may be issued to a patient for whom a physician continues registration and treatment with low-THC cannabis.

(b) The department shall monitor physician registration and the ordering of low-THC cannabis for ordering practices that could facilitate unlawful diversion or misuse of low-THC cannabis, and take disciplinary action as indicated.

(c) The department shall monitor and inspect the activities of each approved dispensing organization for compliance with this section.

(d) The department may adopt rules pertaining to:

1. The submission of relevant information to the compassionate use registry in order to issue patient identification cards; and

2. Recordkeeping requirements to demonstrate compliance with this section, including maintaining records for the production and finished product testing of low-THC cannabis.

(e) The department shall establish the Office of Compassionate Use under the direction of the Deputy State Health Officer to administer this section, including access to the compassionate use registry under ss. 385.30 and 456.61.

(5) DISPENSING ORGANIZATION.—

(a) An approved dispensing organization shall:

1. Maintain compliance with the criteria demonstrated for selection and approval under subparagraph (4)(a)2. as a dispensing organization at all times;

2. Maintain and make records available for inspection and desk review by the department and law enforcement agencies; and

3. Make all premises, resources, raw materials, finished product, byproducts, and vehicles available for inspection by the department and law enforcement agencies.

(b) Before dispensing low-THC cannabis to a qualified patient, the dispensing organization shall verify that the patient has an active registration in the compassionate use registry, the order presented matches the order contents as recorded in the registry, and the order has not already been filled. Upon dispensing the low-THC cannabis, the dispensing organization shall record in the registry the date, time, quantity, and form of low-THC cannabis dispensed.

(6) EXCEPTIONS TO OTHER SECTIONS OF LAW.—

(a) Notwithstanding any other section of law, but subject to the requirements of this section, a qualified patient and the qualified patient's legal representative may purchase, acquire, and possess for the patient's medical use up to the amount of low-THC cannabis ordered to the patient.

(b) Notwithstanding any other section of law, but subject to the requirements of this section, an approved dispensing organization and its owners, managers, and employees may acquire, possess, cultivate, and lawfully dispose of excess product in reasonable quantities to produce low-THC cannabis and possess, process, and dispense low-THC cannabis.

(c) An approved dispensing organization is not subject to licensure and regulation under chapter 465, and the owners, managers, and employees of a dispensing organization are not subject to licensure and regulation for the practice of pharmacy under chapter 465.

Section 2. Section 385.30, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

385.30 State university participation in approved studies and clinical treatment plans.—

(1) All state universities with both medical and agricultural research programs, including those that have satellite campuses or research agreements with other similar institutions, are encouraged to develop or participate in Federal Drug Administration-approved studies and clinical research treatment plans using low-THC cannabis as defined in s. 456.60 which are directed toward refractory or intractable epilepsy relief in pediatric patients as authorized by s. 1004.441.

(2) Each state university that is selected to participate in a Federal Drug Administration-approved study or clinical treatment plan described in subsection (1) may request from the Department of Health a grant of up to $100,000 annually.

(3) To be eligible for the annual grant, the participating medical college or medical school must submit a report to the Department of Health by January 1 of each year which contains, at a minimum:

(a) The gender and age of each patient participating in the study or clinical treatment plan during the calendar year;

(b) The names of participating physicians; and

(c) The level of seizure reduction in each participating patient during the calendar year.

(4) The grant award decisions of the Department of Health pursuant to this section are not subject to chapter 120.

Section 3. Section 1004.441, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

1004.441 Refractory and intractable epilepsy treatment and research.—Notwithstanding chapter 893, state universities with both medical and agricultural research programs, including those that have satellite campuses or research agreements with other similar institutions, may conduct research on low-THC cannabis as defined in s. 456.60. This research may include, but is not limited to, the agricultural development, production, clinical research, and use of liquid medical derivatives of low-THC cannabis for the treatment for refractory or intractable epilepsy. Current state or privately obtained research funds may be used to support the activities authorized by this section.

Section 4. The Department of Health may submit a budget amendment request using excess funds from the Biomedical Research Trust Fund to implement this act during the 2014-2015 state fiscal year.

Section 5. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	CS/CS/SB 1032
INTRODUCER:	Appropriations Committee; Criminal Justice Committee; and Senator Latvala
SUBJECT:	Subsurface Rights
DATE:	April 23, 2014 REVISED:

Please see Section IX. for Additional Information:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1032 requires sellers of residential property to provide prospective purchasers with a subsurface rights disclosure summary when selling residential property. It provides a form for the disclosure summary to be included in the contract for sale or incorporated by reference. It defines the terms "seller" and "subsurface rights."

This bill has no fiscal impact on state government.

II. Present Situation:

In February 2014, the Florida Attorney General sent a News Release to approximately 18,000 homeowners who had purchased real property without knowledge that the mineral rights to the property had been severed. The Attorney General notified the homeowners they had the option to receive those mineral rights by completing a certification form. The seller agreed to cease the practice of reserving mineral rights until the Florida Legislature provided guidance on the issue.[1]

Generally in real estate transactions the landowner is entitled to the surface of the property and all that is below it if the deed does not contain a reservation limiting the estate.[2] An express reservation to sever the mineral rights generally creates two separate estates with the mineral estate being the dominate estate. The owner of the mineral estate has the right of ingress and egress to explore for, locate, and remove the minerals but may not abuse the surface estate.[3] Without a reference to the mineral rights on the face of the deed, homeowners may be unaware the seller has retained those rights.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill requires sellers of residential property to provide prospective purchasers with a disclosure summary at or before the execution of the contract for sale if any of the subsurface rights or right of re-entry are or will be severed or retained by the seller.

The bill provides the disclosure summary must be must be conspicuous, in boldface type, and in a form substantially similar to the language provided in the bill. If the disclosure summary is not included in the contract for sale, the contract must refer to and incorporate by reference the disclosure summary and must include, in prominent language, a statement that the potential purchaser should not execute the contract until he or she has read the disclosure summary.

The bill defines "subsurface rights" as all minerals, mineral fuels, and other resources, including but not limited to, oil, gas, coal, oil shale, uranium, metals, and phosphate, whether or not it may be mixed with any other substance, found, or located beneath the surface of the earth.

The bill defines "seller" as any seller of real property which, at the time of sale, is zoned for residential use and where a new dwelling is being constructed, is to be constructed, or has been constructed since the last transfer of property.

The bill provides an effective date of October 1, 2014.

- Authorizes the department to post information on its website relating to alternative fueling stations and electric vehicle charging stations that are available to the public and
- Adds a representative of the Office of Energy within the department to the Florida Building Commission.

In addition, the bill:

- Gives local government the option of requiring a return receipt request when sending notices by certified mail to alleged violators of local codes and ordinances.
- Reduces the proof of experience required to obtain a license as a water well contractor.

- Provides that proof of worker's compensation may be presented electronically when an employer applies for a building permit, and that such proof may be submitted and retained electronically.
- Authorizes the Department of Health (DOH) to grant variances from the Florida Building Code relating to public swimming pools and public bathing places and requires building officials to recognize and enforce these variance orders.
- Requires an application to DOH for an operating permit for a public swimming pool before an application may be filed for a building permit.
- Specifies inspection criteria for construction or modification of manufactured buildings or building modules.
- Prohibits an agency or local government from requiring that existing mechanical equipment located on or above the surface of a roof be installed in compliance with the requirements of the Florida Building Code, except when the equipment is being replaced or moved during reroofing.
- Provides that make-up air is not required for range hood exhaust systems meeting specified criteria, in a single family dwelling.
- Authorizes building officials, local enforcement agencies, and the Florida Building Commission to interpret the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction and provides specific procedures for those interpretations.
- Allows site plans or building permits to be maintained at the worksite in the original form or in the form of an electronic copy.
- Revises education and training requirements for the Florida Building Code Compliance and Mitigation Program.
- Provides an additional fire safety alarm option for homeowners making renovations.
- Revises the requirements for a building energy-efficiency rating system.
- Exempts certain tents from the Florida Fire Prevention Code.

- Allows an owner of improved real property and the insurer of that property to explicitly agree in writing to make payment on any claim to a third party instead of the insured named in the policy.
- Provides an effective date of July 1, 2014, unless otherwise provided.

The bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state revenues or expenditures.

II. Present Situation:

Office of Energy

The Office of Energy is the state entity primarily responsible for non-regulatory energy matters, including coordinating with federal entities on energy issues, administering federal energy programs delegated to the state, and administering state energy rebate programs. The Office of Energy, currently located in the DACS, has been located in the Executive Office of the Governor, the Department of Community Affairs, and the Department of Environmental Protection.

Section 377.6015, F.S., provides the department's primary powers and duties relating to energy resources, including:

- Administering the Florida Renewable Energy and Energy-Efficient Technologies Grants Program;
- Developing policy for requiring grantees to provide royalty-sharing or licensing agreements with state government for commercialized products developed under a state grant;
- Administering the Florida Green Government Grants Act and setting annual priorities for grants;
- Administering specified information gathering and reporting functions;
- Administering the provisions of the Florida Energy and Climate Protection Act;
- Advocating for energy and climate change issues and provide educational outreach and technical assistance in cooperation with the state's academic institutions;
- Participating in the Public Service Commission's Florida Energy Efficiency and Conservation Act proceedings to adopt goals; and
- Adopting rules in order to implement these powers and duties.

Section 377.703, F.S., sets forth the following additional functions of the DACS relating to energy:

- Submission of an annual report to the Governor and Legislature reflecting its activities, which must include recommendations for energy conservation programs for the state;
- Promoting the development and use of renewable energy resources by:
  - Establishing goals and strategies for increasing the use of solar energy in this state;
  - Aiding and promoting the commercialization of solar energy technology, in cooperation with the Florida Solar Energy Center and other agencies;
  - Identifying barriers to greater use of solar energy systems in this state; and
  - In cooperation with specified entities, investigating opportunities for solar electric vehicles and other solar energy manufacturing, distribution, installation, and financing efforts which will enhance this state's position as the leader in solar energy research, development, and use; and
- Promoting energy conservation in all energy use sectors throughout the state.

Southern States Energy Compact

Section 377.711, F.S., establishes Florida as a member of the Southern States Energy Compact. The compact is performed by the Southern States Energy Board (SSEB or board). The SSEB is a non-profit interstate compact organization created by state law in 1960 and consented to by Congress[1] with a broad mandate to contribute to the economic and community well-being of the southern region.[2] Its mission is to enhance economic development and the quality of life through innovations in energy and environmental policies, programs, and technologies. The board's membership includes sixteen southern states and two territories: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Puerto Rico, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, U.S. Virgin Islands, Virginia, and West Virginia. Each jurisdiction is represented by the Governor and a legislator from the House and Senate. A [1] Public Laws 87-563 and 92-440.

[2] http://www.sseb.org/about/ last accessed 2/20/2014.

Governor serves as the chair and legislators serve as vice-chair and treasurer. Ex-officio non-voting board members include a federal representative appointed by the President of the United States, the Southern Legislative Conference Energy and Environment Committee Chair, and the SSEB's executive director, who serves as secretary.

The SSEB pursues its mission through the creation of programs in the fields of energy and environmental policy research, development and implementation, science and technology exploration, and related areas of concern. The SSEB serves its members directly by providing assistance designed to develop effective energy and environmental policies and programs and represents its members before governmental agencies at all levels. The board's long-term goals are to:

- Perform essential services that provide direct scientific and technical assistance to state governments;
- Develop, promote, and recommend policies and programs on energy, environment, and economic development that encourage sustainable development;
- Provide technical assistance to executive and legislative policy-makers and the private sector in order to achieve synthesis of energy, environment, and economic issues that ensure energy security and supply;
- Facilitate the implementation of energy and environmental policies between federal, state, and local governments and the private sector;
- Sustain business development throughout the region by eliminating barriers to the use of efficient energy and environmental technologies; and
- Support improved energy efficient technologies that pollute less and contribute to a clean global environment while protecting indigenous natural resources for future generations.

Core funding for the board comes from the appropriations of its eighteen member jurisdictions. Each member's share of support is determined by a formula written into the original compact. The SSEB also is authorized to accept funds from any state, federal agency, interstate agency, institution, person, firm, or corporation provided those funds are used for the board's purposes and functions. In addition, the SSEB maintains an associate members program comprised of industry partners who provide an annual contribution to the board.

Section 377.712, F.S., provides for Florida's participation on the SSEB, including requiring the Governor, President of the Senate, and Speaker of the House of Representatives to each appoint one member to the SSEB.[3] The section also authorizes departments, agencies, and officers of the state and its subdivisions to cooperate with the SSEB if the activities have been approved by either the Governor or the Florida Department of Health.

Rebate Programs

Section 377.802, F.S., provides the purpose of the Florida Energy and Climate Protection Act. Among these purposes is providing incentives for the purchase of energy-efficient appliances and rebates for solar energy equipment installations for residential and commercial buildings.

[3] Currently the Florida members are Governor Rick Scott, Senator Anitere Flores, and Representative Jose Felix Diaz.

Section 377.806, F.S., creates the Solar Energy System Incentives Program. The program was created in 2006 and was administered by the Florida Energy Office within the Florida Energy and Climate Commission (FECC). The purpose of the program was to provide financial incentives (rebates on a portion of the purchase price) for the purchase and installation of solar energy systems that meet specified requirements. Rebates were available for both solar photovoltaic systems that produce electricity and solar thermal systems that produce heat. The amounts of the rebates were as follows:

- For a photovoltaic system, the rebate amount was $4 per watt based on the total wattage rating of the system, with the maximum amount per system installation of:
  - $20,000 for a residence and
  - $100,000 for a place of business, a publicly owned or operated facility, or a facility owned or operated by a private, not-for-profit organization, including condominiums or apartment buildings.
- For a solar thermal system:
  - $500 for a residence and
  - $15 per 1,000 Btu up to a maximum of $5,000 for a place of business, a publicly owned or operated facility, or a facility owned or operated by a private, not-for-profit organization, including condominiums or apartment buildings.
- For a solar thermal pool heater, the rebate amount was $100 per installation.

The rebate was available only for the purchase and installation between July 1, 2006, and June 30, 2010, for new solar energy systems of two kilowatts or larger for a solar photovoltaic system. A photovoltaic system is a solar energy system that provides at least 50 percent of a building's hot water consumption for a solar thermal system, or a solar thermal pool heater. Application for a rebate had to be made within 120 days after the purchase of the solar energy equipment.

The FECC was to determine and publish the amount of rebate funds remaining in each fiscal year. The total dollar amount of all rebates issued was subject to the appropriations in any fiscal year for this program.

The Legislature provided annual funding for the program, as follows:

- FY 2006-07 $2.5 million in general revenue
- FY 2007-08 $3.5 million in general revenue
- FY 2008-09 $5.0 million in general revenue
- FY 2009-10 $14.4 million in federal American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) 2009 funds

The program was more popular than anticipated. Additionally, the FECC did not announce that funds for the program had been depleted until several months after the fact. These factors contributed to a backlog of over 12,000 applications and approximately $49 million of rebate applications had accumulated as of October 2010. The rebate applications dated as far back as June 2009.[4]

[4] See http://freshfromflorida.s3.amazonaws.com/Office_of_Energy_Annual_Report_2011.pdf. (last visited Mar. 27, 2014).

Section 377.807, F.S., authorized the FECC to develop and administer a consumer rebate program for residential energy-efficient appliances consistent with federal law.[5] The Office of Energy applied for federal funds for this rebate program and received a U.S. Department of Energy (USDOE) ARRA Stimulus Grant of $17,585,000 to be used exclusively for ENERGY STAR appliance rebate programs. The rebate program consisted of two phases designed to focus on replacing appliances that provided savings in energy and water. In phase one, customers received a rebate for 20 percent of the value of their appliance. In addition, a bonus of $75 was provided to customers to recycle old appliances. At the conclusion of phase one, $2,531,143 million remained from the original grant. The USDOE suggested the Office of Energy use these funds and State Energy Program Grant funds to create a rebate program for air conditioning appliances. Phase two focused on residential central air conditioners and heat pumps. Customers received $1,500 for a combination of replacing appliances and having a home duct test completed. [6]

Florida Energy Systems Consortium

Section 1004.648, F.S., creates the Florida Energy Systems Consortium (FESC or consortium) to promote collaboration among experts in the State University System for the purposes of sharing energy-related expertise and assisting in the development and implementation of a comprehensive, long-term, environmentally compatible, sustainable, and efficient energy strategic plan for the state. The FESC is to focus on the research and development of innovative energy systems that will lead to alternative energy strategies, improved energy efficiencies, and expanded economic development for the state.

The FESC consists of all of the state universities and is administered by a director appointed by the president of the University of Florida. The director reports to the DACS. The consortium has an oversight board consisting of the vice president for research or other appropriate representative appointed by the university president of each member of the consortium. The oversight board is responsible for the technical performance and financial management of the FESC.

The goal of the FESC is to become a world leader in energy research, education, technology, and energy systems analysis through collaborative research and development across the State University System and the industry. In so doing, the FESC is to:

- Coordinate and initiate increased collaborative interdisciplinary energy research among the universities and the energy industry;
- Assist in the creation and development of a Florida-based energy technology industry through efforts that will expedite commercialization of innovative energy technologies by taking advantage of the energy expertise within the state university system, high-technology incubators, industrial parks, and industry-driven research centers;
- Provide a state resource for objective energy systems analysis;
- Develop education and outreach programs to prepare a qualified energy workforce and informed public; and

- Solicit and leverage state, federal, and private funds for the purpose of conducting education, research, and development in the area of sustainable energy.

The statute creates a steering committee that is responsible for ensuring the success of the consortium's mission. The steering committee consists of the university representatives included in the Centers of Excellence proposals for the FESC and the Center of Excellence in Ocean Energy Technology-Phase II; a university representative appointed by the president of Florida International University; and a representative of the DACS.

The FESC must, by November 1 of each year, submit an annual report to the Governor, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the DACS regarding its activities, including, but not limited to, education and research related to, and the development and deployment of, alternative energy technologies.

Florida Building Commission

Section 553.74, F.S., creates the Florida Building Commission (commission), which develops the Florida Building Code, including the Energy Efficiency Code for Building Construction. The commission approves products for statewide acceptance and administers the Building Code Training Program. The commission is composed of 26 members, appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by the Senate. The membership must be composed of:

Pool Construction and Operation in Florida

The DOH estimates that there are approximately 37,000 public pools in Florida.[10] A "public swimming pool" or "public pool" is defined as:

> A watertight structure of concrete, masonry, or other approved materials which is located either indoors or outdoors, used for bathing or swimming by humans, and filled with a filtered and disinfected water supply, together with buildings, appurtenances, and equipment used in connection therewith. This term includes a conventional pool, spa-type pool, wading pool, special purpose pool, or water recreation attraction, to which admission may be gained with or without payment of a fee and includes, but is not limited to, pools operated by or serving camps, churches, cities, counties, day care centers, group home facilities for eight or more clients, health spas, institutions, parks, state agencies, schools, subdivisions, or the cooperative living-type projects of five or more living units, such as apartments, boardinghouses, hotels, mobile home parks, motels, recreational vehicle parks, and townhouses.[11]

A "public bathing place" is defined as:

> A body of water, natural or modified by humans, for swimming, diving, and recreational bathing used by consent of the owner or owners and held out to the public by any person or public body, irrespective of whether a fee is charged for the use thereof. The bathing water areas of public bathing places include, but are not limited to, lakes, ponds, rivers, streams, artificial impoundments, and waters along the coastal and intracoastal beaches and shores of the state.[12]

In 2012, the Legislature determined that local building departments would have jurisdiction over permitting, plan reviews, and inspections of public swimming pools and public bathing places and that the DOH would continue to have jurisdiction over the operating permits for public swimming pools and public bathing places.[13] In order to operate or continue to operate a public swimming pool, a valid operating permit from DOH must be obtained. Application for an operating permit must include the following:

- Description of the source or sources of water supply, and the amount and quality of water available and intended to be used;
- Method and manner of water purification, treatment, disinfection, and heating;
- Safety equipment and standards to be used; and
- Any other pertinent information deemed necessary by the DOH.[14]

[14] Section 514.031(1), F.S.

If the DOH determines that the public swimming pool is, or may reasonably be expected to be, operated in compliance with state laws and departmental rules, the DOH will issue a permit. However, if the DOH determines that the pool is not in compliance with state laws and departmental rules, the DOH will deny the application for a permit. The denial must be in writing and must list the circumstances for the denial. Upon correction of those circumstances, the applicant may reapply for a permit.[15] The operating permit must be renewed annually and posted in a conspicuous place.[16]

Manufactured Buildings and Building Modules per the Florida Building Code

Section 553.72, F.S., provides that the Florida Building Code (code) is "a single set of documents that apply to the design, construction, erection, alteration, modification, repair, or demolition of public or private buildings, structures, or facilities in this state," and its enforcement "will allow effective and reasonable protection for public safety, health, and general welfare for all the people of Florida at the most reasonable cost to the consumer." The Florida Building Commission adopts requirements, within the Florida Building Code, for construction or modification of manufactured buildings and building modules, to address:[17]

- Submission to and approval by the department of manufacturers' drawings and specifications, including any amendments.
- Submission to and approval by the department of manufacturers' internal quality control procedures and manuals, including any amendments.
- Minimum inspection criteria.

"Manufactured building" or "modular building" means a closed structure, building assembly, or system of subassemblies, which may include structural, electrical, plumbing, heating, ventilating, or other service systems manufactured for installation or erection as a finished building or as part of a finished building, including, but not limited to, residential, commercial, institutional, storage, and industrial structures. The term includes buildings not intended for human habitation such as lawn storage buildings and storage sheds manufactured and assembled offsite by a manufacturer certified in conformance with this part, but does not include a mobile home.[18]

"Module" means a separately transported three-dimensional component of a manufactured building which contains all or a portion of structural systems, electrical systems, plumbing systems, mechanical systems, fire systems, and thermal systems.[19]

Florida Building Code Interpretation

Section 553.775, F.S., authorizes the Florida Building Code to be interpreted by building officials, local enforcement agencies, and the commission, and provides specific procedures to be used when interpreting the code.

The Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction (accessibility code), an element of the code, is adopted by the commission and prescribes requirements related to ensuring access for the disabled for new construction activity, including things such as ramps, door widths, and particular plumbing fixtures. The accessibility code combines requirements imposed by the federal regulations that implement the Americans with Disabilities Act and Florida-specific requirements described in part I of ch. 553, F.S.

In accordance with s. 120.565, F.S., the commission may render declaratory statements relating to the provisions of the accessibility code not attributable to the Americans with Disabilities Act Accessibility Guidelines. However, the accessibility code may not be interpreted by building officials, local enforcement agencies, and the commission.

Florida Building Code Compliance and Mitigation Program

The department administers the Florida Building Code Compliance and Mitigation Program, which was created to develop, coordinate, and maintain education and outreach to people who are required to comply with the Florida Building Code and ensure consistent education, training, and communication of the code's requirements, including, but not limited to, methods for mitigation of storm-related damage.[20] The program is geared toward persons licensed in the design and construction industries, but does not address those employed in the design and construction industries. The services and materials under the program must be provided by a private, nonprofit corporation under contract with department.[21]

Building Energy-Efficiency Rating System

In 1993, the Legislature enacted the Florida Building Energy-Efficiency Rating Act[22] in order to identify systems for rating the energy efficiency of buildings, and encourage the consideration of energy-efficiency rating systems in the market.[23] The current statutory definition of such a rating system specifically relies upon identification by "the Residential Energy Services Network, the Commercial Energy Services Network, the Building Performance Institute, or the Florida Solar Center."[24] Information about a building's energy-efficiency must be provided to a prospective purchaser of real property, if available. Prior to contracting for construction, renovation, or acquisition of a public building, the building must be rated pursuant to the system provided for in s. 553.995, F.S. Public bodies proposing to contract must consider energy-efficiency ratings when comparing contract alternatives.[25]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 162.12, F.S., to give local government the option of requiring a return receipt request when sending notices by certified mail to alleged violators of codes and ordinances.

[25] Section 553.997(1), F.S.

Section 2 amends s. 373.323, F.S., to reduce the proof of experience required to obtain a license as a water-well contractor.

Section 3 amends s. 377.6015, F.S., to remove language stating that the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS) is to represent Florida in the Southern Energy Compact.

Section 4 amends s. 377.703, F.S., regarding the additional duties of the DACS relating to energy by:

- Adding a requirement that the department's annual report to the Governor and the Legislature contain recommendations on energy efficiency as well as the current recommendations on energy conservation;
- Changing the requirements relating to the department's duties to promote solar energy to the promotion of renewable energy; and
- Adding the Florida Energy Systems Consortium to the list of entities the DACS is to cooperate with, in aiding and promoting the commercialization of renewable energy.

Section 5 amends s. 377.712, F.S., to authorize the Commissioner of Agriculture to appoint a member of the Southern States Energy Board, increasing the Florida membership to a total of four. Current law authorizes departments, agencies, and officers of this state, and its subdivisions to cooperate with the board in the furtherance of any of its activities pursuant to the compact, provided such proposed activities have been made known to and approved by either the Governor or the Department of Health. The bill changes the approval portion of this provision to approval by either the Governor or the Governor's appointee to the Board.

Section 6 amends s. 377.801, F.S., to change the designated sections of the statute that may be cited as the "Florida Energy and Climate Protection Act," conforming to the repeal of some sections previously included as part of that act.

Section 7 amends s. 377.802, F.S., to delete language that refers to the solar energy and energy-efficient appliance rebate programs as the existing statutes creating these rebates are repealed in section 9 of the bill.

Section 8 amends s. 377.803, F.S., to delete definitions contained in the Florida Energy and Climate Protection Act for the terms: "solar energy system," "solar photovoltaic system," and "solar thermal system."

Section 9 repeals sections 377.806 and 377.807, F. S., creating the solar energy and energy-efficient appliance rebate programs. These programs are no longer operational.

Section 10 creates s. 377.815, F.S., to authorize the DACS to post information on its website relating to alternative fueling stations and electric vehicle charging stations that are available to the public.

Section 11 amends s. 440.103, F.S., to allow proof that compensation has been secured for an employer's employees, which is required as a condition of applying for a building permit, to be shown electronically or physically. It also cross references s. 553.79(19), F.S., and states that site plans or building permits may be maintained at the worksite in the original form or in the form of an electronic copy.

Section 12 amends s. 514.0115, F.S., to allow the department, pursuant to procedures adopted in department rule, to grant variances from the provisions of the Florida Building Code relating to public swimming pools and bathing places when the owner establishes that compliance would be a hardship.

Section 13 amends s. 514.03, F.S., to require those desiring to construct, develop, or modify a public swimming pool to apply to the DOH for an operating permit before applying for a building permit. This section takes effect October 1, 2014.

Section 14 amends s. 514.031, F.S., to create additional requirements for an application for an operating permit for a public swimming pool. This section takes effect October 1, 2014.

Section 15 amends s. 553.37, F.S., to add inspection criteria that must be adopted by the Florida Building Commission within the Florida Building Code. The criteria require the approved inspection agency to do the following:

- Observe the first building built, or the first unit assembled with components, and all its subsystems, after certification of the manufacturer;
- Continue observation of the manufacturing process until the agency determines that the manufacturer's quality control program and the plans approved by the agency will result in a building and components that meet or exceed the applicable Florida Building Code requirements;
- Thereafter, with respect to manufactured buildings, inspect each module produced at least once during the manufacturing process and to inspect at least 75 percent of the subsystems of each module; and
- Inspect at least 75 percent of the manufactured building components or 20 percent of storage sheds that are not designed for human habitation and that have a floor area of 720 square feet or less.

Section 16 amends s. 553.721, F.S., to delete obsolete language.

Section 17 amends s. 553.73, F.S., to prohibit an agency or local government from requiring that existing mechanical equipment located on or above the surface of a roof comply with the requirements of the Florida Building Code relating to roof-mounted mechanical units except when the equipment is being replaced or is being removed during reroofing. The bill also provides that, in a single-family dwelling, make-up air is not required for range hood exhaust systems capable of exhausting either 400 cubic feet per minute or less or more than 400 cubic feet per minute but no more than 800 cubic feet per minute, if there are no gravity vent appliances within the conditioned living space of the structure.

Section 18 amends s. 553.74, F.S., to add one member to the Florida Building Commission who is a representative of the DACS' Office of Energy. The bill specifies the additional member be appointed by the Governor, and encourages the Commissioner of Agriculture to recommend a list of candidates for consideration.

Section 19 amends s. 553.77, F.S., to require building officials to recognize and enforce variance orders issued by Department of Health (DOH) relating to public swimming pools.

Section 20 amends 553.775, F.S., to authorize building officials, local enforcement agencies, and the commission to interpret the accessibility code and to remove language restricting declaratory statements to Florida-specific requirements of the accessibility code.

Section 21 amends s. 553.79, F.S., to allow site plans or building permits to be maintained at the worksite in the original form or in the form of an electronic copy. The section also prohibits a local enforcing agency from issuing a building permit to construct, develop, or modify a public swimming pool without proof of application, whether complete or incomplete, for an operating permit. A certificate of completion or occupancy may not be issued until the operating permit is issued. The local enforcing agency shall conduct their review of the building permit application upon filing and in accordance with this chapter. The local enforcing agency may confer with the DOH, if necessary, but may not delay the building permit application review while awaiting comment. This section takes effect October 1, 2014.

Section 22 amends s. 553.80, F.S., to make a technical change.

Section 23 amends s. 553.841, F.S., to revise education and training requirements of the Florida Building Code Compliance and Mitigation program. In addition to maintaining a thorough knowledge of the code, participants in the design and construction industry should have a thorough knowledge of:

- Code compliance and enforcement;
- Duties related to consumers;
- Project completion; and
- Compliance of design and construction to protect against consumer harm and storm damage.

The bill also contains a legislative finding that there is a need for the program to provide education and outreach concerning compliance with the Florida Fire Prevention Code, construction plan and permitting requirements, and construction liens. The bill further expands the program to include methods for design and construction compliance.

Section 24 amends s. 553.883, F.S., to provide that one-family and two-family dwellings and townhouses that are undergoing a repair may use smoke alarms with a non-removable, non-replaceable, 10-year battery, instead of hardwiring a smoke alarm into the electrical system. Effective January 15, 2015, a battery-powered smoke alarm that is newly installed or replaces an existing battery-powered smoke alarm must be powered by a nonremovable, nonreplaceable battery that powers the alarm for at least 10 years. All fire alarms, smoke detectors, smoke alarms, and ancillary components that are electronically connected to a system as part of an Underwriters Laboratories listed centrally-monitored fire alarm station are exempt from these battery requirements.

Section 25 amends s. 553.993, F.S., to revise the definition of the term "building energy-efficiency rating system" to require that the system include:

- The ability to provide reliable and scientifically-based analysis of a building's energy consumption or energy features;

- The ability to compare similar building types in similar climate zones;
- Use of standard calculations, formulas, and scoring methods;
- National applicability;
- Clearly defined and researched baselines or benchmarks;
- Ratings that are performed by qualified professionals;
- A labeling and recognition program with specific criteria or levels;
- Residential program benchmarks that must be consistent with national building standards and home energy rating standards; and
- At least one level of oversight performed by a group of professionals with subject matter expertise in energy efficiency, energy rating, and evaluation methods.

Section 26 amends s. 633.202, F.S., to exempt tents 30 feet by 30 feet or smaller from the Florida Fire Prevention Code.

Section 27 amends s. 633.212, F.S., to remove the requirement that a member of the Fire Code Interpretation Committee must notify the committee that he or she is unable to respond, before an alternate member can respond to a request for a nonbinding interpretation.

Section 28 amends s. 713.32, F.S., to allow an owner of improved real property and the insurer of that property to explicitly agree in writing to make payment on any claim to a third party. Currently, the insurer must pay the insured named in the policy.

Section 29 provides that, except as otherwise provided, this bill takes effect July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

D. Other Constitutional Issues:

Article III, section 6 of the Florida Constitution provides that "Every law shall embrace but one subject and matter properly connected therewith, and the subject shall be briefly expressed in the title." The title of CS/CS/CS/SB 1044 states the bill relates to "building construction policies." CS/CS/CS/SB 1044 includes items relating to both building construction and energy policy that may implicate the requirements of Article III, section 6 of the state constitution.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/CS/CS/SB 1044 provides that a building energy-efficient rating system require at least one level of oversight performed by an organized and balanced group of professionals with subject matter expertise in energy efficiency, energy rating, and evaluation methods. This new requirement may create jobs for some professionals, but may exclude others operating under the current rating system, resulting in business and job loss.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 162.12, 373.323, 377.6015, 377.703, 377.712, 377.801, 377.802, 377.803, 553.74, 440.103, 514.0115, 514.03, 514.031, 553.37, 553.721, 553.73, 553.74, 553.77, 553.775, 553.79, 553.80, 553.841, 553.883, 553.993, 633.202, 633.212, and 713.32.

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS/CS by Appropriations on April 24, 2014:
The Committee Substitute:

- Incorporates the provisions of CS/CS/SB 1106, relating to building construction, water well contractor licensing, public swimming pools, and payment of insurance proceeds on claims for damages to improved real property.

- Revises the method of appointment of a representative of the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services to the Florida Building Commission.
- Authorizes an appointee of the Governor to approve proposed activities relating to the Southern States Energy Compact.

CS/CS by Agriculture on March 31, 2014:

553.775 Interpretations.—

(1) It is the intent of the Legislature that the Florida Building Code and the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction be interpreted by building officials, local enforcement agencies, and the commission in a manner that protects the public safety, health, and welfare at the most reasonable cost to the consumer by ensuring uniform interpretations throughout the state and by providing processes for resolving disputes regarding interpretations of the Florida Building Code and the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction which are just and expeditious.

(2) Local enforcement agencies, local building officials, state agencies, and the commission shall interpret provisions of the Florida Building Code and the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction in a manner that is consistent with declaratory statements and interpretations entered by the commission, except that conflicts between the Florida Fire Prevention Code and the Florida Building Code shall be resolved in accordance with s. 553.73(11)(c) and (d).

(a) Upon written application by any substantially affected person or state agency or by a local enforcement agency, the commission shall issue declaratory statements pursuant to s.

120.565 relating to the enforcement or administration by local governments of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction.

(b) When requested in writing by any substantially affected person or state agency or by a local enforcement agency, the commission shall issue a declaratory statement pursuant to s. 120.565 relating to this part and ss. 515.25, 515.27, 515.29, and 515.37. Actions of the commission are subject to judicial review under s. 120.68.

(c) The commission shall review decisions of local building officials and local enforcement agencies regarding interpretations of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction after the local board of appeals has considered the decision, if such board exists, and if such appeals process is concluded within 25 business days.

1. The commission shall coordinate with the Building Officials Association of Florida, Inc., to designate panels composed of five members to hear requests to review decisions of local building officials. The members must be licensed as building code administrators under part XII of chapter 468 and must have experience interpreting and enforcing provisions of the Florida Building Code and the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction.

2. Requests to review a decision of a local building official interpreting provisions of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction may be initiated by any substantially affected person, including an owner or builder subject to a decision of a local building official or an association of owners or builders having members who are subject to a decision of a local building official. In order to initiate review, the substantially affected person must file a petition with the commission. The commission shall adopt a form for the petition, which shall be published on the Building Code Information System. The form shall, at a minimum, require the following:

a. The name and address of the county or municipality in which provisions of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction are being interpreted.

b. The name and address of the local building official who has made the interpretation being appealed.

c. The name, address, and telephone number of the petitioner; the name, address, and telephone number of the petitioner's representative, if any; and an explanation of how the petitioner's substantial interests are being affected by the local interpretation of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction.

d. A statement of the provisions of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction which are being interpreted by the local building official.

Construction and a statement supporting the petitioner's interpretation.

g. Space for the local building official to respond in writing. The space shall, at a minimum, require the local building official to respond by providing a statement admitting or denying the statements contained in the petition and a statement of the interpretation of the provisions of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction which the local jurisdiction or the local building official contends is correct, including the basis for the interpretation.

3. The petitioner shall submit the petition to the local building official, who shall place the date of receipt on the petition. The local building official shall respond to the petition in accordance with the form and shall return the petition along with his or her response to the petitioner within 5 days after receipt, exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. The petitioner may file the petition with the commission at any time after the local building official provides a response. If no response is provided by the local building official, the petitioner may file the petition with the commission 10 days after submission of the petition to the local building official and shall note that the local building official did not respond.

4. Upon receipt of a petition that meets the requirements of subparagraph 2., the commission shall immediately provide copies of the petition to a panel, and the commission shall publish the petition, including any response submitted by the local building official, on the Building Code Information System in a manner that allows interested persons to address the issues by posting comments.

5. The panel shall conduct proceedings as necessary to resolve the issues; shall give due regard to the petitions, the response, and to comments posed on the Building Code Information System; and shall issue an interpretation regarding the provisions of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction within 21 days after the filing of the petition. The panel shall render a determination based upon the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction or, if the code is ambiguous, the intent of the code. The panel's interpretation shall be provided to the commission, which shall publish the interpretation on the Building Code Information System and in the Florida Administrative Register. The interpretation shall be considered an interpretation entered by the commission, and shall be binding upon the parties and upon all jurisdictions subject to the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction, unless it is superseded by a declaratory statement issued by the Florida Building Commission or by a final order entered after an appeal proceeding conducted in accordance with subparagraph 7.

6. It is the intent of the Legislature that review proceedings be completed within 21 days after the date that a petition seeking review is filed with the commission, and the time periods set forth in this paragraph may be waived only upon consent of all parties.

7. Any substantially affected person may appeal an interpretation rendered by a hearing officer panel by filing a petition with the commission. Such appeals shall be initiated in accordance with chapter 120 and the uniform rules of procedure and must be filed within 30 days after publication of the interpretation on the Building Code Information System or in the Florida Administrative Register. Hearings shall be conducted pursuant to chapter 120 and the uniform rules of procedure. Decisions of the commission are subject to judicial review pursuant to s. 120.68. The final order of the commission is binding upon the parties and upon all jurisdictions subject to the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction.

8. The burden of proof in any proceeding initiated in accordance with subparagraph 7. is on the party who initiated the appeal.

9. In any review proceeding initiated in accordance with this paragraph, including any proceeding initiated in accordance with subparagraph 7., the fact that an owner or builder has proceeded with construction may not be grounds for determining an issue to be moot if the issue is one that is likely to arise in the future.

This paragraph provides the exclusive remedy for addressing requests to review local interpretations of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction and appeals from review proceedings.

(d) Upon written application by any substantially affected person, contractor, or designer, or a group representing a substantially affected person, contractor, or designer, the commission shall issue or cause to be issued a formal interpretation of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction as prescribed by paragraph (c).

(e) Local decisions declaring structures to be unsafe and subject to repair or demolition are not subject to review under this subsection and may not be appealed to the commission if the local governing body finds that there is an immediate danger to the health and safety of the public.

(f) Upon written application by any substantially affected person, the commission shall issue a declaratory statement pursuant to s. 120.565 relating to an agency's interpretation and enforcement of the specific provisions of the Florida Building Code or the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction which the agency is authorized to enforce. This subsection does not provide any powers, other than advisory, to the commission with respect to any decision of the State Fire Marshal made pursuant to chapter 633.

(g) The commission may designate a commission member who has demonstrated expertise in interpreting building plans to attend each meeting of the advisory council created in s. 553.512. The commission member may vary from meeting to meeting, shall serve on the council in a nonvoting capacity, and shall receive per diem and expenses as provided in s. 553.74(3).

(h) The commission shall by rule establish an informal process of rendering nonbinding interpretations of the Florida Building Code and the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction. The commission is specifically authorized to refer interpretive issues to organizations that represent those engaged in the construction industry. The commission shall immediately implement the process before completing formal rulemaking. It is the intent of the Legislature that the commission create a process to refer questions to a small, rotating group of individuals licensed under part XII of chapter 468, to which a party may pose questions regarding the interpretation of code provisions. It is the intent of the Legislature that the process provide for the expeditious resolution of the issues presented and publication of the resulting interpretation on the Building Code Information System. Such interpretations shall be advisory only and nonbinding on the parties and the commission.

(4) In order to administer this section, the commission may adopt by rule and impose a fee for filing requests for declaratory statements and binding and nonbinding interpretations to recoup the cost of the proceedings which may not exceed $125 for each request for a nonbinding interpretation and $250 for each request for a binding review or interpretation. For proceedings conducted by or in coordination with a third party, the rule may provide that payment be made directly to the third party, who shall remit to the department that portion of the fee necessary to cover the costs of the department.

~~(5) The commission may render declaratory statements in accordance with s. 120.565 relating to the provisions of the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction not attributable to the Americans with Disabilities Act Accessibility Guidelines. Notwithstanding the other provisions of this section, the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction and chapter 11 of the Florida Building Code may not~~

~~be interpreted by, and are not subject to review under, any of the procedures specified in this section. This subsection has no effect upon the commission's authority to waive the Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction as provided by s. 553.512.~~

Section 21. Effective October 1, 2014, present subsections (11) through (18) of section 553.79, Florida Statutes, are redesignated as subsections (12) through (19), respectively, a new subsection (11) is added to that section, and present subsection (18) is amended, to read:

553.79 Permits; applications; issuance; inspections.—

(11) The local enforcing agency may not issue a building permit to construct, develop, or modify a public swimming pool without proof of application, whether complete or incomplete, for an operating permit pursuant to s. 514.031. A certificate of completion or occupancy may not be issued until such operating permit is issued. The local enforcing agency shall conduct their review of the building permit application upon filing and in accordance with this chapter. The local enforcing agency may confer with the Department of Health, if necessary, but may not delay the building permit application review while awaiting comment from the Department of Health.

(19) ~~(18)~~ For the purpose of inspection and record retention, site plans or building permits ~~for a building~~ may be maintained in the original form or in the form of an electronic copy at the worksite. These plans and permits must be open to inspection by the building official or a duly authorized representative, as required by the Florida Building Code.

Section 22. Paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of section

553.80, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

553.80 Enforcement.—

(6) Notwithstanding any other law, state universities, community colleges, and public school districts shall be subject to enforcement of the Florida Building Code under this part.

(b) If a state university, state community college, or public school district elects to use a local government's code enforcement offices:

1. Fees charged by counties and municipalities for enforcement of the Florida Building Code on buildings, structures, and facilities of state universities, state colleges, and public school districts may not be more than the actual labor and administrative costs incurred for plans review and inspections to ensure compliance with the code.

2. Counties and municipalities shall expedite building construction permitting, building plans review, and inspections of projects of state universities, state community colleges, and public schools ~~school districts~~ that are subject to the Florida Building Code according to guidelines established by the Florida Building Commission.

3. A party substantially affected by an interpretation of the Florida Building Code by the local government's code enforcement offices may appeal the interpretation to the local government's board of adjustment and appeal or to the commission under s. 553.775 if no local board exists. The decision of a local board is reviewable in accordance with s. 553.775.

This part may not be construed to authorize counties, municipalities, or code enforcement districts to conduct any permitting, plans review, or inspections not covered by the Florida Building Code. Any actions by counties or municipalities not in compliance with this part may be appealed to the Florida Building Commission. The commission, upon a determination that actions not in compliance with this part have delayed permitting or construction, may suspend the authority of a county, municipality, or code enforcement district to enforce the Florida Building Code on the buildings, structures, or facilities of a state university, state community college, or public school district and provide for code enforcement at the expense of the state university, state community college, or public school district.

Section 23. Subsections (1) and (2) of section 553.841, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

553.841 Building code compliance and mitigation program.—

(1) The Legislature finds that knowledge and understanding by persons licensed or employed in the design and construction industries of the importance and need for complying with the Florida Building Code and related laws is vital to the public health, safety, and welfare of this state, especially for protecting consumers and mitigating damage caused by hurricanes to residents and visitors to the state. The Legislature further finds that the Florida Building Code can be effective only if all participants in the design and construction industries maintain a thorough knowledge of the code, code compliance and enforcement, duties related to consumers, and changes that ~~additions thereto which~~ improve construction standards, project completion, and compliance of design and construction to protect against consumer harm, storm damage, and other damage.

Consequently, the Legislature finds that there is a need for a program to provide ongoing education and outreach activities concerning compliance with the Florida Building Code, the Florida Fire Prevention Code, construction plan and permitting requirements, construction liens, and hurricane mitigation.

(2) The Department of Business and Professional Regulation shall administer a program, designated as the Florida Building Code Compliance and Mitigation Program, to develop, coordinate, and maintain education and outreach to persons required to comply with the Florida Building Code and related provisions as specified in subsection (1) and ensure consistent education, training, and communication of the code's requirements, including, but not limited to, methods for design and construction compliance and mitigation of storm-related damage. The program shall also operate a clearinghouse through which design, construction, and building code enforcement licensees, suppliers, and consumers in this state may find others in order to exchange information relating to mitigation and facilitate repairs in the aftermath of a natural disaster.

Section 24. Section 553.883, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

553.883 Smoke alarms in one-family and two-family dwellings and townhomes.—One-family and two-family dwellings and townhomes undergoing a repair, or a level 1 alteration as defined in the Florida Building Code, may use smoke alarms powered by 10-year nonremovable, nonreplaceable batteries in lieu of retrofitting such dwelling with smoke alarms powered by the dwelling's electrical system. Effective January 1, 2015, a battery-powered smoke alarm that is newly installed or replaces an existing battery-powered smoke alarm must be powered by a nonremovable, nonreplaceable battery that powers the alarm for at least 10 years. All fire alarms, smoke detectors, smoke alarms, and ancillary components that are electronically connected to a system as part of a UL Listed centrally-monitored fire alarm station are exempt from the battery requirements of this section.

Section 25. Subsection (3) of section 553.993, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

553.993 Definitions.—For purposes of this part:

(3) "Building energy-efficiency rating system" means a whole building energy evaluation system that provides a reliable and scientifically-based analysis of a building's energy consumption or energy features and allows a comparison to similar building types in similar climate zones where applicable. Specifically, the rating system shall use standard calculations, formulas, and scoring methods; be applicable nationally; compare a building to a clearly defined and researched baseline or benchmark; require qualified professionals to conduct the rating or assessment; and provide a labeling and recognition program with specific criteria or levels. Residential program benchmarks for new construction must be consistent with national building standards. Residential building program benchmarks for existing construction must be consistent with national home energy rating standards. The building energy-efficiency rating system shall require at least one level of oversight performed by an organized and balanced group of professionals with subject matter expertise in energy efficiency, energy rating, and evaluation methods ~~established by~~

~~the Residential Energy Services Network, the Commercial Energy Services Network, the Building Performance Institute, or the Florida Solar Energy Center~~.

Section 26. Subsection (15) of section 633.202, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

(16)(a)~~(b)~~ A structure, located on property that is classified for ad valorem purposes as agricultural, which is part of a farming or ranching operation, in which the occupancy is limited by the property owner to no more than 35 persons, and which is not used by the public for direct sales or as an educational outreach facility, is exempt from the Florida Fire Prevention Code, including the national codes and Life Safety Code incorporated by reference. This paragraph does not include structures used for residential or assembly occupancies, as defined in the Florida Fire Prevention Code.

(b) A tent up to 30 feet by 30 feet is exempt from the Florida Fire Prevention Code, including the national codes incorporated by reference.

Section 27. Subsection (1) of section 633.212, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

633.212 Legislative intent; informal interpretations of the Florida Fire Prevention Code.—It is the intent of the Legislature that the Florida Fire Prevention Code be interpreted by fire officials and local enforcement agencies in a manner that reasonably and cost-effectively protects the public safety, health, and welfare; ensures uniform interpretations throughout this state; and provides just and expeditious processes for resolving disputes regarding such interpretations. It is the further intent of the Legislature that such processes provide for the expeditious resolution of the issues presented and that the resulting interpretation of such issues be published on the website of the division.

(1) The division shall by rule establish an informal process of rendering nonbinding interpretations of the Florida Fire Prevention Code. The division may contract with and refer interpretive issues to a third party, selected based upon cost effectiveness, quality of services to be performed, and other performance-based criteria, which has experience in interpreting and enforcing the Florida Fire Prevention Code. It is the intent of the Legislature that the division establish a Fire Code Interpretation Committee composed of seven persons and seven alternates, equally representing each area of the state, to which a party can pose questions regarding the interpretation of the Florida Fire Prevention Code provisions. The alternate member may respond to a nonbinding interpretation if a ~~the~~ member ~~notifies the Fire Code Interpretation Committee that he or she~~ is unable to respond.

Section 28. Section 713.32, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

payable to the owner of improved real property or a lienor and actually received or to be received by him or her because of the damage, destruction, or removal by fire or other casualty of an improvement on which lienors have furnished labor or services or materials shall, after the owner or lienor, as the case may be, has been reimbursed therefrom for any premiums paid by him or her, be liable to liens or demands for payment provided by this part to the same extent and in the same manner, order of priority, and conditions as the real property or payments under a direct contract would have been, if the improvement had not been so damaged, destroyed, or removed. The insurer may only pay the proceeds of the policy of insurance to the insured named in the policy or to an entity that the owner and the insurer have explicitly agreed to in writing before payment and thereupon any liability of the insurer under this part shall cease. The named insured who receives any proceeds of the policy shall be deemed a trustee of the proceeds, and the proceeds shall be deemed trust funds for the purposes designated by this section for a period of 1 year from the date of receipt of the proceeds. COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 1068 requires applicants for licensure as a massage therapist and certain persons with ownership in or management responsibilities for a massage establishment to submit to background screening. The bill requires the Board of Massage Therapy (board) and the Department of Health (DOH) to deny an application for new or renewal licensure under ch. 480, F.S., if any person who is screened is determined to have been convicted of or entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere to specified criminal acts. The bill also requires the DOH to suspend the license of a massage therapist or massage establishment if it learns that the massage therapist or person who is subject to background screening for the massage establishment license has been convicted of or entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere to one of the specified criminal acts. The bill exempts specified physician-owned entities from the massage establishment licensure requirements.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) anticipates an increase in Operating Trust Fund revenue of approximately $3 million in Fiscal Year 2014-2015 under the bill and approximately $283,000 in subsequent years. The FDLE anticipates that additional workload created under the bill can be absorbed within existing FDLE spending authority.
The DOH anticipates that additional workload created under the bill can be absorbed within existing DOH spending authority.

II. Present Situation:

Florida Regulation of Massage Therapists and Massage Establishments

Massage therapists and massage establishments in Florida are regulated by the Board of Massage Therapy within the Department of Health (DOH) under the Massage Practice Act (ch. 480, F.S.). A person must be licensed as a massage therapist to practice massage for compensation, unless otherwise specifically exempted under the Massage Practice Act.[1] In order to be licensed as a massage therapist, an applicant must: [2]

- Be at least 18 years of age or have received a high school diploma or graduate equivalency diploma;
- Complete a course of study at a massage school approved by the board or apprenticeship program; and
- Pass an examination.

Licensed massage therapists may practice in a licensed massage establishment, at a client's residence or office, or at a sports event, convention, or trade show.[3] Sexual misconduct, defined as a violation of the professional relationship through the use of such relationship to engage or attempt to engage in sexual activity outside the scope of the profession, is prohibited.[4]

Section 480.43, F.S., provides that a massage establishment license is required at any facility where massage therapy services are offered by a licensed massage therapist. Massage establishment licenses may not be transferred to a new owner but may be transferred to a new location, subject to certain conditions. The board's rules address insurance, compliance with building codes, and safety and sanitary requirements,[5] and require that massage therapy establishments be inspected prior to initial licensure and annually thereafter.[6]

The next biennial renewal date for licenses issued under the Massage Practice Act is August 31, 2015.[7]

The Care Provider Background Screening Clearinghouse

In 2012, the Legislature created the Care Provider Background Screening Clearinghouse (clearinghouse). The clearinghouse establishes a single data source for background screening results of persons required to be screened by law for employment in positions that provide services to children, the elderly, and disabled individuals.[8] The clearinghouse also allows the results of criminal history checks to be shared among specified state agencies,[9] thereby reducing duplicative screenings for individuals requiring multiple screenings by multiple agencies.

Fingerprints submitted for inclusion in the clearinghouse are sent to the FDLE electronically as a scanned image and retained by the FDLE for five years, subject to further retention on a renewal basis.[10] The FDLE searches the retained prints against incoming Florida arrests and must report the results to the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) for inclusion in the clearinghouse, thus avoiding the need for future state screens and related fees. A digital photograph of the person screened is taken at the time the fingerprints are taken and retained by the FDLE in electronic format as well. This enables accurate identification of the person when he or she changes jobs or is otherwise presented with a situation requiring screening. Retained fingerprints must be resubmitted for a Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) national criminal history check every five years until such time as the FBI implements its own retention program. Once the FBI implements its retention program, the need for any future screening by the specified agencies of persons in the clearinghouse will be eliminated.[11]

The clearinghouse is in the process of being implemented by six designated state agencies. Currently, the clearinghouse is active and being used by the AHCA and the DOH.[12]

Health Practitioner Background Screening

Current law requires physicians, chiropractors, podiatrists, nurses, specified persons in connection with an application for a pharmacy permit, and persons licensed or registered under part XIV of ch. 468, F.S.,[13] to submit to background screening as a condition of licensure[14] and, in some cases, licensure renewal.[15] The fingerprints of all of these practitioners are currently entered into the clearinghouse.[16] In addition, some health care practitioners may be required to undergo background screening as a condition of employment or volunteer service in a facility or with an organization that provides care to children, the elderly, or persons with disabilities.[17]

Massage therapists and the owners or operators of massage establishments do not undergo a criminal background screening prior to licensure. Applicants are required to self-report criminal offenses on their applications,[18] and licensees must self-report subsequent violations to the DOH within 30 days after conviction.[19]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 456.0135, F.S., to add applicants for licensure as massage therapists or persons with specified interests or positions in a massage establishment under ch. 480, F.S., to the list of applicants required to provide electronic fingerprints to the FDLE for an FBI national

The DOH is not required to request that the FDLE forward retained prints of an applicant for renewal to the FBI if the fingerprints are already enrolled in the national program. The bill adds a specific requirement for the DOH to submit the fingerprints of all practitioners subject to this section to the clearinghouse.

Section 2 amends s. 456.074, F.S., to require the DOH to issue an emergency order suspending the license of a massage therapist or massage establishment when it learns that the massage therapist or person who is subject to background screening in connection with the massage establishment license has been convicted or found guilty of, or has entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere to, regardless of adjudication, a felony offense under any of the following Florida laws or similar provision in another jurisdiction:

Massage therapists licensed before July 1, 2014, must submit to background screening by January 31, 2015. The board is required to deny an application for licensure under the same circumstances and for the same crimes enumerated in Section 2 of the bill.

determined by DOH rule, of having more than $250,000 of business assets in Florida, the owner, officer, or individual directly involved in the management of the massage establishment must submit to background screening. The board is required to deny an application for new or renewal licensure if a person with an ownership interest in the massage establishment, or for a corporation that has more than $250,000 of business assets in this state, the owner, officer, or individual directly involved in the management of the massage establishment, has been convicted or found guilty of, or has entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere to, regardless of adjudication, a felony offense under any of the following Florida laws or similar provision in another jurisdiction:

- Section 847.0133, F.S., relating to the protection of minors;

- Section 847.0138, F.S., relating to the transmission of material harmful to minors to a minor by electronic device or equipment; or
- Section 847.0145, F.S., relating to the selling or buying of minors;

A person with an ownership interest in, or for a corporation that has more than $250,000 of business assets in this state, the owner, officer, or individual directly involved in the management of a massage establishment licensed before July 1, 2014, must submit to the background screening by January 1, 2015.

The bill exempts an entity wholly owned by one or more physicians licensed under ch. 458, F.S. (allopathic physicians), ch. 459, F.S. (osteopathic physicians), or ch. 460, F.S. (chiropractors), or by such physicians and the spouse, parent, child, or sibling of such physicians from the massage establishment licensure requirements. The term defines "entity wholly owned" as a proprietorship, group practice, partnership, or corporation that provides health care services rendered by licensed physicians and health care practitioners in which the licensed physicians or such physicians and the spouse, parent, child, or sibling of such physicians are the business owners in all aspects of the business entity, including, but not limited to, being reflected as the business owners on the title or lease of the physical facility, filing taxes as the business owners, being account holders on the entity's bank account, being listed as the principals on all incorporation documents required by this state, and having ultimate authority over all personnel and compensation decisions relating to the entity. This language parallels language used in ch. 627, F.S., relating to personal injury protection insurance requirements.

Section 5 amends s. 480.0465, F.S., to conform a cross-reference.

Section 6 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

CS/SB 1068 requires certain individuals to undergo background screening. The combined cost of a state and national background screening, five-year state fingerprint retention, and FBI enrollment totals $77.50 per individual.

B. Private Sector Impact:

All licensed massage therapists and specified persons associated with currently licensed massage establishments will be required to submit to background screening by January 1, 2015. The DOH estimates these numbers at 40,392 and 23,486, respectively. The DOH estimates the annual number of new applicants for massage therapy licenses or massage establishment licenses who will be subject to the requirement at 4,281 and 1,615, respectively. The combined cost of a state and national background screen, five-year state fingerprint retention, and FBI enrollment totals $77.50. Total private sector impact, therefore, is estimated at $4, 950,545 in the first year and $456,940 in subsequent fiscal years.[20] [20] Florida Department of Law Enforcement, SB 1086 Bill Analysis (March 6, 2014) (on file with the Senate Health Policy Committee).

Private physician offices or other physician-owned facilities that provide massage services, in addition to health care services, will no longer incur the cost of complying with the massage establishment licensure requirements.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The state's share of the fees collected (and described above) under the bill by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) is estimated at $3,066,144 in Fiscal Year 2014-2015 and $283,008 annually thereafter.[21] These fees are deposited into the FDLE's Operating Trust Fund.

The FDLE anticipates the additional workload to manage the fingerprint retention processing will require $59,747 of recurring funds and $3,773 of nonrecurring funds in Fiscal Year 2014-2015 from the Operating Trust Fund, which can be absorbed under current spending authority.

The DOH anticipates the background screening of current licensees will result in expenses associated with enforcement of $145,000 that can be absorbed under current spending authority.[22]

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 456.0135, 456.074, 480.041, 480.043, and 480.0465.

Dear Chair Negron:

I respectfully request that Senate Bill 1068/Licensed Massage Therapists be placed on the agenda of the Senate Committee on Appropriations at your earliest convenience. It was referred favorably by the Senate Committee on Health Policy on March 11, 2014.

This bill would require a background check and fingerprints of persons wishing to be licensed as massage therapists in Florida. It would allow an emergency suspension for therapists charged with certain offenses. The impetus for this bill was based on a Tampa Bay area licensed massage therapist who was charged with sexual battery.

If you have any questions regarding this legislation, please contact me. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Jack Latvala

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1114 makes the following changes to the Florida Retirement System (FRS), for members initially enrolled in the FRS on or after July 1, 2015:

- Mandates that members of the Elected Officers' Class, other than those members of the Judicial Officers Subclass, may only join the Investment Plan;
- Changes the default for members who do not affirmatively choose a plan from the Pension Plan to the Investment Plan;
- Closes the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program to new members; and
- Changes the vesting period in the Pension Plan from 8 to 10 years; and
- Changes the out of service disability retirement vesting period from eight to 10 years.

The bill creates a limited exception to the prohibition on renewed membership in the Florida Retirement System. A retiree of the Investment Plan, the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program (SMSOAP), the State University System Optional Retirement Program (SUSORP) or the State Community College System Optional Retirement Program (SCCSORP) who retired before July 1, 2010, has earned less than 10 years of creditable service, and is employed in a regularly established position with a covered employer on or after January 1, 2015, will be a renewed member in the FRS as follows:

- Investment Plan (all classes) → Investment Plan (Regular Class)
- SMSOAP → Investment Plan (Regular Class)
- SUSORP → SUSORP

- SCCSORP → SCCSORP
- Pension Plan (all classes) → Ineligible

Renewed members will have to meet the vesting requirements of the plans in which they become renewed members. Creditable service does not accrue for a retiree's employment in a regularly established position with a covered employer from July 1, 2010, through December 31, 2014, nor may employer or employee contributions be paid into a renewed member's Investment Plan account for employment with a covered employer during this time period.

Based on an actuarial study completed April 22, 2013, the fiscal impact on the FRS is expected to be insignificant in Fiscal Year 2014-2015. The actuarial impacts for later periods will be determined in the subsequent annual valuations of the FRS.

II. Present Situation:

The Florida Retirement System (FRS)

The FRS is the fourth largest public retirement system in the United States. It is a multi-employer, contributory plan, governed by the Florida Retirement System Act in ch. 121, F.S., and administered by the Department of Management Services (DMS).[1] The FRS was established in 1970 when the Legislature consolidated the Teachers' Retirement System, the State and County Officers and Employees' Retirement System, and the Highway Patrol Pension Fund. In 1972, the Judicial Retirement System was consolidated into the Pension Plan. In 2007, the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences Supplemental Retirement Program was consolidated under the Regular Class of the FRS as a closed group.[2]

The FRS consists of 1,008 total employers. It is the primary retirement plan for employees of state and county government agencies, district school boards, community colleges, and universities, and also includes the 185 cities and 259 special districts that have elected to join the system.[3] Members of the FRS are required to make employee contributions of three percent of their salary.[4] As of June 30, 2012, the FRS had 621,774 active members, 347,962 retired members and beneficiaries, and 38,724 active members of the Deferred Retirement Option Program (DROP).[5]

The membership of the FRS is divided into five membership classes:

- Regular Class[6] consists of 536,506 active members, plus 6,461 in renewed membership;
- Special Risk Class[7] includes 68,800 active members;

- Elected Officers' Class[9] has 2,094 active members, plus 152 in renewed membership; and

Each class is funded separately based upon the costs attributable to the members of that class.

Members of the FRS have two primary plan options available for participation:
- The defined benefit plan, also known as the Pension Plan; and
- The defined contribution plan, also known as the Investment Plan.

According to information provided by the SBA, approximately 45,000 new hires are processed each year for a retirement plan choice.[12] Historically, almost 26 percent have actively elected the Investment Plan, roughly 19 percent have actively elected the Pension Plan and over 55 percent have defaulted into the Pension Plan.

Certain members, as specified by law and position title, may, in lieu of FRS participation, participate in optional retirement plans.

Investment Plan

In 2000, the Legislature created the Public Employee Optional Retirement Program (Investment Plan), a defined contribution plan offered to eligible employees as an alternative to the FRS Pension Plan.

Benefits under the Investment Plan accrue in individual member accounts funded by both employee and employer contributions and earnings. Benefits are provided through employee-directed investments offered by approved investment providers.

[12] It is uncertain how many of these new hires stay for their full career.

A member vests immediately in all employee contributions paid to the Investment Plan.[13] With respect to the employer contributions, a member vests after completing one work year with an FRS employer.[14] Vested benefits are payable upon termination or death as a lump-sum distribution, direct rollover distribution, or periodic distribution.[15] The Investment Plan also provides disability coverage for both inline-of-duty and regular disability retirement benefits.[16] An FRS member who qualifies for disability while enrolled in the Investment Plan must apply for benefits as if the employee was a member of the Pension Plan. If approved for retirement disability benefits, the member is transferred to the Pension Plan.[17]

The State Board of Administration (SBA) is primarily responsible for administering the Investment Plan.[18] The trustees of the SBA are the Governor as chair, the Chief Financial Officer, and the Attorney General.[19] The SBA selects and contracts with a third-party administrator to provide administrative services.[20]

The contributions paid into the individual investment accounts and into the disability account on behalf of Investment Plan members are noted below. Note that the amount paid into the retirement account as a percentage of salary includes the employee contribution of three percent.

Pension Plan

The Pension Plan is administered by the secretary of the DMS through the Division of Retirement.[21] Investment management of plan assets is handled by the SBA. As of July 1, 2013, the actuarial funding level of the plan was at 85.9 percent.[22]

Any member initially enrolled in the Pension Plan before July 1, 2011, vests in the Pension Plan after completing six years of service with an FRS employer.[23] For members enrolled on or after July 1, 2011, the member vests in the Pension Plan after eight years of creditable service.[24] Benefits payable under the Pension Plan are calculated based on years of service multiplied by the annual accrual rate multiplied by the member's average final compensation.[25] For most members of the Pension Plan, normal retirement occurs at the earliest attainment of 30 years of service or age 62.[26] For public safety employees in the Special Risk and Special Risk Administrative Support Classes, normal retirement is the earliest of 25 years of service or age 55.[27] Members initially enrolled in the Pension Plan on or after July 1, 2011, have longer vesting requirements. For members initially enrolled after that date, the member must complete 33 years of service or attain age 65, and members in the Special Risk classes must complete 30 years of service or attain age 60.[28]

Benefits payable to a Pension Plan retiree are calculated using formulas that include the average final compensation. "Average final compensation" means the average of the five or eight highest fiscal years of compensation for creditable service prior to retirement, termination, or death. If a member enrolled in the FRS prior to July 1, 2011, his or her average final compensation will be determined based on five years. If a member enrolled in the FRS on or after July 1, 2011, his or her average final compensation will be determined based on eight years. The average final compensation includes accumulated annual leave payments, not to exceed 500 hours, and all payments defined as compensation in s. 121.021(22). The average final compensation does not include compensation paid to professional persons for special or particular services; payments for accumulated sick leave made due to retirement or termination; payments for accumulated annual leave in excess of 500 hours; bonuses as defined in s. 121.021(47); third party payments made on or after July 1, 1990; or fringe benefits such as automobile or housing allowances.[29]

"Compensation" means the monthly salary paid to a member by his or her employer for work performed arising from that employment. Compensation includes overtime payments paid from a salary fund; accumulated annual leave payments; payments in addition to the employee's base rate of pay if specified conditions apply; amounts withheld for tax sheltered annuities or deferred compensation programs, or any other type of salary reduction plan authorized under the Internal Revenue Code.[30]

Reemployment Restrictions

For the purposes of the Pension Plan, a "retiree" means a former member of the FRS or an existing system who has terminated employment and is receiving benefit payments from the system in which he or she was a member.[31] For the purposes of the Investment Plan, a "retiree" means a former member of the Investment Plan who has terminated employment and taken a distribution of vested employee or employer contributions, except for a mandatory distribution of a de minimis account authorized by the state board or a minimum required distribution provided the Internal Revenue Code.[32]

After retiring under the FRS, a retiree can work for any private employer, for any public employer not participating in the FRS, or for any employer in another state, without affecting their FRS benefits.

However, there are certain termination requirements and reemployment limitations that affect retirement benefits if a retiree is employed with an FRS-participating employer during the first 12 calendar months after the effective retirement date without DROP participation or after the Deferred Retirement Optional Program (DROP) termination date. If a retiree returns to work during the first six calendar months of retirement or after their DROP termination date, then their retirement application is voided and all retirement benefits, including any funds accumulated during DROP participation, must be repaid to the FRS Trust Fund. This restriction applies even if the particular position held is not covered by the FRS. A retiree cannot become a newly hired employee until after meeting the definition of termination by remaining unemployed for six calendar months.

A retiree may not receive both a salary from an FRS employer and a retirement benefit in the same month during the seventh through twelfth calendar months of retirement or after the DROP termination date. There are no exceptions to this reemployment limitation during this period. This restriction applies even if the particular position held is not covered by the FRS. A retiree must inform the division if they work for an FRS employer during the reemployment limitation period.

Suspended retirement benefits for the months a reemployed retiree is employed by an FRS employer during the reemployment limitation period will never be received by the retiree. The reemployed retiree and their employing agency are jointly and severally liable for repaying any retirement benefits the employee receives while working during this period.

There are no limits on working for an FRS employer after a retiree has been retired for 12 calendar months.

[31] Section 121.021(60), F.S.
[32] Section 121.4501(2)(k), F.S.

If a retiree is re-employed with an FRS participating employer, they will be required to sign a statement that their reemployment does not violate these provisions.[33]

Before July 1, 2010, there were various exceptions to employment with FRS-covered employers during the reemployment limitation period. All reemployment limitation exceptions that were not specific to educational institutions were closed by operation of HB 479, which also extended from one month to 12 months the exclusionary period immediately after retirement in which a retiree may not be reemployed with any FRS employer.[34]

Renewed Membership

Retirees of the FRS Pension Plan or the FRS Investment Plan who were initially re-employed in covered employment by June 30, 2010, renewed their membership in the FRS (Pension Plan or Investment Plan) or other state-administered retirement system and earn service credit toward a subsequent retirement benefit. Renewed members who retire again, including former DROP participants, are once more subject to reemployment limitations.

Renewed members are not eligible to participate in DROP or the Special Risk Class, and are not eligible for disability retirement. However, the surviving spouse and dependent children of a renewed member may qualify for survivor benefits.

Prior to July 1, 2010, retirees of a state-administered retirement system reemployed by an FRS-participating employer were eligible for renewed membership in the FRS. Currently, retirees initially re-employed in a regularly established position on or after July 1, 2010, are not eligible for renewed membership and will not earn creditable service toward a subsequent retirement benefit. This restriction from renewed membership includes retirees of the FRS Pension Plan, the FRS Investment Plan, the State University System Optional Retirement Program (SUSORP), the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program (SMSOAP), and the State Community College Optional Retirement Program (SCCSORP).[35]

Reemployed Retirees without Renewed Membership

Information provided by the DMS indicates that as of December of 2013, there were 5,703 employees who retired by June 30, 2010, and subsequently returned to FRS-covered employment, but are not permitted to be renewed members of the FRS. Of that number, 2,918 were retirees of the Pension Plan, and 2,616 were retirees of the Investment Plan. Anecdotal evidence suggests that some of these "retirees" were employees who took distributions from Investment Plan accounts prior to July 1, 2010, and rolled them into IRAs upon their termination from FRS-covered employment. The enactment on the bar to renewed membership means that anyone who took such a distribution is deemed retired, and cannot become a renewed member of the FRS.

Blended Employer Contribution Rates for the FRS for FY 2013-14

FRS employers are responsible for contributing a percentage of the member's monthly compensation based on membership class to the Division of Retirement to be distributed into the FRS Contributions Clearing Trust Fund. The employer contribution rate is a blended contribution rate set by statute, which is the same percentage regardless of whether the member participates in the Pension Plan or the Investment Plan.[36] In order to address unfunded actuarial liabilities (UAL) of the system, an employer contribution rate is set in statute. The rates are determined annually based on an actuarial study obtained by the DMS that calculates the necessary level of funding to support all of the benefit obligations under both FRS retirement plans.

Current Blended Employer Contribution Rates for Each Class:[37]

Membership Class	Normal Cost Rate	UAL Rate	Total Rate
Regular Class	3.53%	2.19%	5.72%
Special Risk Class	11.00%	6.83%	17.83%
Special Risk Administrative Support Class	4.17%	30.56%	34.73%
Elected Officer's Class
• Legislators, Governor, Lt. Governor, Cabinet Officers, State Attorneys, Public Defenders	6.52%	24.85%	31.37%
• Justices and Judges	10.05%	17.00%	27.05%
• County Officers	8.44%	23.36%	31.80%
Senior Management Service Class	4.81%	12.27%	17.08%
Deferred Retirement Option Program (DROP)	4.63%	7.01%	11.64%

For all membership classes, except DROP, employees contribute three percent of their compensation towards retirement.[38]

After employer and employee contributions are placed into the FRS Contributions Clearing Trust Fund, the allocations under the Investment Plan are transferred to third-party administrators to be placed in the employee's individual investment accounts, whereas contributions under the Pension Plan are transferred into the FRS Trust Fund.[39]

2013 FRS Valuation

Annually, the Department of Management Services contracts with the state actuary to complete an actuarial valuation of the FRS Pension Plan. The table below summarizes the market assets, actuarial assets, actuarial liabilities, the unfunded actuarial liabilities, and the funded status of the Pension Plan.[40] While the market value of the plan assets have fluctuated significantly upward

State University System Optional Retirement Program

On July 1, 1984, the State University Optional Retirement Program (SUSORP) was established as an optional program under the FRS for eligible State University faculty and administrators. The program was later expanded in 1988 to include the State University System Executive Service and in 1999 to include all administrative and professional personnel exempt from career service. As of June 30, 2013, there were 17,780 participants in the SUSORP.

Eligible employees are compulsory participants in SUSORP during their first 90 days of employment. If an eligible member fails to enroll in SUSORP and execute an investment contract with a provider company during this period, the member is deemed to have elected to participate in the FRS. During the next 90 days, the member may choose to participate in the Investment Plan of the FRS. If the member fails to make an election within the first six months of employment, the member is defaulted into the Pension Plan of the FRS.

The SUSORP is a defined contribution plan qualified under the provisions of section 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code that provides retirement and death benefits through contracts with designated investment providers[41]. The program was established to aid the university system in recruiting employees by offering more portability to employees who don't expect to remain in the State University System long enough to vest in the FRS Pension Plan (ten-year vesting when the SUSORP was created). It provides for full and immediate vesting of all contributions submitted to the participating companies on behalf of the participant upon signing an investment contract within 90 days of employment in an eligible position. Contributions, which are invested as directed by the participant, accumulate in individual participant accounts, together with investment earnings. At retirement, the accumulated benefits are payable to the participant or to his or her beneficiaries or estate.

The employer and employee contribute the percentage of the member's salary designated by law on the member's behalf. The member selects from among the investment products offered by the provider companies in which the employer contribution is invested; a total of 0.01 percent of the salary is retained in the SUSORP Trust Fund for administrative expenses. Effective July 1, 2012, the employer contribution rate is 5.14 percent. Also effective July 1, 2011, there is a mandatory employee contribution of three percent. The member may voluntarily contribute, by salary reduction, an amount not to exceed the percentage contributed by the employer to the member's account. The FRS has an unfunded actuarial liability so the employer also pays a 2.19 percent unfunded actuarial liability contribution to the FRS Trust Fund beginning July 1, 2013. The unfunded actuarial contribution rate is set in section 121.71(5), F.S.

State Community College System Optional Retirement Program

In 1995, the Florida Legislature enacted provisions[42] allowing faculty and certain administrators with a state community college in the FRS Regular Class to opt out of the FRS and enroll in an optional retirement program known as the State Community College System Optional Retirement Program (SCCORP). The board of trustees of the employing agency as authorized under section 1001.64, Florida Statutes, must implement this program either individually or in consortia with other community colleges. Effective July 1, 2012, the employer contribution rate is 5.15 percent. Also effective July 1, 2011, there is a mandatory employee contribution of three percent. The member is immediately vested upon signing an investment agreement with a provider company and may voluntarily contribute, by salary reduction, an amount not to exceed the percentage contributed by the employer to the member's account. The FRS has an unfunded actuarial liability so the employer also pays a 2.19 percent unfunded actuarial liability contribution to the FRS Trust Fund beginning July 1, 2013. The unfunded actuarial contribution rate is set in section 121.71(5), F.S.

In 2003, legislation[43] was enacted to give SCCORP participants an open-ended opportunity to transfer back to the FRS. If the employee elects to transfer to the Investment Plan, the employee's SCCORP account is retained and he/she starts anew under the Investment Plan. To transfer to the Pension Plan, the employee pays a specified amount[44] to receive service credit equal to his/her years of service under the SCCORP. No similar transfer opportunity is available for management-level (non-Regular Class) community college employees.

Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program

In 1986, the Florida Legislature enacted provisions[45] creating the Senior Management Service Class under the FRS and also a non-integrated optional defined contribution plan under the FRS called the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program (SMSOAP). The SMSOAP allows certain state senior managers within 90-days of appointment to an eligible position to opt out of the FRS and enroll in the SMSOAP which provides immediate vesting. These certain state senior managers include members in the Senior Management Service with the State of Florida, senior-level management positions with the Florida Legislature, senior-level management positions with the State Board of Administration, senior managers in the Judicial Branch, county health department administrators and directors within the Department of Health and judges and deputy chiefs judges of compensation claims in the Division of Administrative Hearings, as well as Elected Officials who opt to participate in the Senior Management Service Class in lieu of the Elected Officers' Class of the FRS.

[42] See chapter 95-392, Laws of Florida.
[43] See section 121.051(2)(c)3., Florida Statutes, enacted by chapter 2003-260, Laws of Florida.
[44] The cost for the transfer is a sum representing the present value of the member's accumulated benefit obligation for the affected period of service.
[45] See chapter 86-149, Laws of Florida.

The SMSOAP was created to aid state government in recruiting senior managers by offering more portability of retirement benefits to those who do not expect to remain in public service long enough to vest in the FRS Pension Plan (seven-year vesting for the Senior Management Service Class at the time the class was created). As of June 30, 2013, there were 31 participants in the SMSOAP.

Under the SMSOAP, retirement and death benefits are provided through contracts with designated investment providers. The state contributes on behalf of the participant a percentage of the participant's salary as required by law. Effective July 1, 2012, the employer contribution rate is 6.27 percent. Also effective July 1, 2011, there is a mandatory employee contribution of three percent. The member may voluntarily contribute, by salary reduction, an amount not to exceed the percentage contributed by the employer to the member's account. The FRS has an unfunded actuarial liability so the employer also pays a 12.27 percent unfunded actuarial liability contribution to the FRS Trust Fund beginning July 1, 2013. The unfunded actuarial liability contribution rate is set in section 121.71(5), F.S.

The SMSOAP is also available to state elected officials who are members of the Elected Officers' Class and who choose membership in the Senior Management Service Class rather than the Elected Officers' Class. The Senior Management Service Class election must be made within six months of assuming office. Elected state officers who transfer to the Senior Management Service Class may, within 90 days of becoming a member of the class, elect membership in the SMSOAP.[46]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Ten Year Vesting for New Members

Section 1 amends s. 121.021, F.S., to modify the definition of "vested" or "vesting" to require that members initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System (FRS) on or after July 1, 2015, vest in the Pension Plan after 10 years of creditable service rather than 8 years of creditable service.

Investment Plan Compulsory for Certain Elected Officer's Class members

Section 2 amends s. 121.051, F.S., to provide that employees initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, in positions covered by the Elected Officers' Class, other than positions included in the Judicial Officers Subclass, are compulsory members of the Investment Plan, are not permitted to become members of the Pension Plan, and are not eligible to use the 2nd election opportunity specified in s. 121.4501(4), F.S. Investment plan membership continues if there is subsequent employment in a position covered by another membership class. This section also makes editorial changes and corrects cross-references.

[46] Assistant state attorneys, assistant public defenders, assistant statewide prosecutors, assistant capital collateral regional counsels, and assistant attorneys general are not eligible to elect participation in the SMSOAP in lieu of the SMSC.

Section 3 amends s. 121.052, F.S., to make technical change in how the membership of the Elected Officers' Class is specified in statute. This change creates a sub-subparagraph enumerating the state level judicial officers included in the Elected Officers' Class.

Section 9 amends provisions in s. 121.4501(4), F.S., relating to the FRS Investment Plan, to provide that employees initially enrolled on or after July, 2015, in positions covered by the Elected Officers' Class, other than positions included in the Judicial Officers Subclass, are compulsory members of the Investment Plan.

The bill also amends the existing member plan choice education component, to provide that new Elected Officers' Class, other than positions included in the Judicial Officers Subclass, members need not be provided that education, since they will be mandatory members of the Investment Plan.

Prohibits New Elected Officers' Class Members from Joining the Senior Management Service Class or the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program

Section 3 amends s. 121.052, F.S., to prohibit any Elected Officers' Class members from joining the Senior Management Service Class after July 1, 2015.

Section 5 amends s. 121.055, F.S., to provide that on or after July 1, 2015, elected officers eligible for membership in the Elected Officer's Class may not be enrolled in the Senior Management Service Class or in the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program (SMSOAP), which is closed to all new members. Current members of the optional annuity program may retain their membership in the program.

Limited Renewed Membership

Section 4 amends s. 121.053, F.S., to allow limited renewed membership for certain elected officers who retired from the Investment Plan prior to July 1, 2010.

Section 5 also amends subparagraphs (1)(f)3. and (6)(c)6. of s. 121.055, F.S., to allow limited renewed membership for former members of the Senior Management Optional Annuity Program.

Section 7 amends s. 121.122, F.S., to provide that a retiree of the:

- Investment Plan,
- State University System Optional Retirement Program (SUSORP),
- Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program, or
- State Community College System Optional Retirement Program (SCCSORP), who retired before July 1, 2010, has completed less than 10 years of creditable service, and is employed in a regularly established position with a covered employer on or after January 1, 2015, will be a renewed member of the Regular Class of the Investment Plan, unless employed in a position eligible for participation in the SUSORP or the SCCSORP, in which case the retiree will become a renewed member of the SUSOPRP or SCCSORP. The renewed member must satisfy the vesting requirements of the plan (one year for the Investment Plan). Members who retired and returned to renewed membership before July 1, 2010, may continue membership in the plan they choose.

Creditable service (including credit toward the retiree health insurance subsidy) does not accrue for a retiree's employment in a regularly established position with a covered employer from July 1, 2010, through December 31, 2014. Nor may employer or employee contributions be paid into a renewed member's Investment Plan account for employment with a covered employer during this time period.

Section 9 amends paragraphs (2)(e) and (4)(e) of s. 121.4501, F.S., to address participation of certain retired members of the Investment Plan, SUSORP, SCCSORP, and the SMSOAP who have renewed membership as Investment Plan members.

Default to Investment Plan

Section 8 amends s. 121.35, F.S., to provide that if a member that is eligible to participate in the SUSORP fails to execute a program contract after July 1, 2015, within 90 days after the date of eligibility, the member is deemed to have elected membership in the FRS Investment Plan retroactive to the date of eligibility.

Section 9 amends s. 121.4501, F.S., to provide that an employee eligible to participate in the Investment Plan is initially enrolled in the Pension Plan, and has eight months to make an irrevocable election to participate in either the Pension Plan or the Investment Plan. If the employee fails to make an election, the employee is deemed to have elected the Investment Plan.

Out of Service Disability Retirement Benefit Vesting Period Increased

Sections 6 and 10 amends ss. 121.091, F.S., and 121.591, F.S., respectively, to provide that a member of the Pension Plan initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, who becomes totally and permanently disabled after completing 10 years of creditable service is entitled to a monthly disability benefit.

Regardless of amount of service, a member who becomes totally and permanently disabled in the line of duty is entitled to a monthly disability benefit.

Cross References

Sections 11 through 12 amend ss. 238.072 and 413.051, F.S., respectively, to change cross references consistent with the changes in this bill.

Qualified Tax Status of the Florida Retirement System

Section 13 directs the State Board of Administration (SBA) and Department of Management Services (DMS) to request a determination letter from the United States Internal Revenue Service regarding the qualified tax status of the FRS based on the changes made to the FRS by this act. SBA and DMS also are directed to seek guidance from the Internal Revenue Service regarding the potential consequences resulting from the FRS offering differential pretax employee contributions to members participating in the same membership class but in different plans.

Important State Interest

Section 14 makes a finding that the bill fulfills an important state interest.

Effective Date

The effective date of the bill is July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Because the Florida Retirement System (FRS) is a multi-employer Pension Plan, the effects of this bill extend to all member FRS government employers. To the extent this bill requires cities and counties to spend money or take action that requires the expenditure of money, the mandates provision of Art. VII, s. 18 of the State Constitution may apply. If those constitutional provisions do apply, in order for the law to be binding upon the cities and counties, the Legislature must find that the law fulfills an important state interest (included in section 13 of the bill), and one of the following relevant exceptions must be met:

- The expenditure is required to comply with a law that applies to all persons similarly situated; or
- The law must be approved by two-thirds of the membership of each house of the Legislature.

This bill contains a statement indicating that the bill fulfills an important state interest and the bill applies to similarly situated persons (all employers who participate in the FRS), so it appears that this exception would apply.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

D. Other Constitutional Issues:

Actuarial Requirements

Article X, s. 14 of the State Constitution requires that benefit improvements under public Pension Plans in the State of Florida be concurrently funded on a sound actuarial basis, as set forth below:

> SECTION 14. State retirement systems benefit changes.--A governmental unit responsible for any retirement or pension > system supported in whole or in part by public funds shall not after January 1, 1977, provide any increase in the benefits to the members or beneficiaries of such system unless such unit has made or concurrently makes provision for the funding of the increase in benefits on a sound actuarial basis.

Article X, s. 14 of the State Constitution is implemented by statute under part VII of ch. 112, F.S., the "Florida Protection of Public Employee Retirement Benefits Act" (Act). The Act establishes minimum standards for the operation and funding of public employee retirement systems and plans in the State of Florida. It prohibits the use of any procedure, methodology, or assumptions the effect of which is to transfer to future taxpayers any portion of the costs which may reasonably have been expected to be paid by the current taxpayers.

Contractual Obligations

Article I, s. 10 of the Florida Constitution prohibits any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts from being passed by the Florida Legislature.

The Florida Statutes provide that the rights of members of the FRS are of a contractual nature, entered into between the member and the state, and such rights are legally enforceable as valid contractual rights and may not be abridged in any way.[47] This "preservation of rights" provision[48] was established by the Florida Legislature with an effective date of July 1, 1974.

The Florida Supreme Court has held that the Florida Legislature may only alter the benefits structure of the FRS prospectively.[49] The prospective application would only alter future benefits. Those benefits previously earned or accrued by the member, under the previous benefit structure, remain untouched and the member continues to enjoy that level of benefit for the period of time up until the effective date of the proposed changes. Further, once the participating member reaches retirement status, the benefits under the terms of the FRS in effect at the time of the member's retirement vest.[50]

The Florida Supreme Court further held that the "preservation of rights" provision was not intended to bind future legislatures from prospectively altering benefits which accrue for future state service.[51] More recently, the Florida Supreme Court reaffirmed the previous holding, finding that the Legislature can alter the terms of the FRS, so long as the changes to the FRS are prospective.[52]

[47] Section 121.011(3)(d), F.S.
[48] The "preservation of rights" provision vests all rights and benefits already earned under the present retirement plan so the Legislature may now only alter the benefits prospectively. *Florida Sheriffs Association v. This bill does not change any benefits that a member earned prior to July 1, 2015.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

CS/CS/SB 1114 will pass along to all employer members of the FRS an adjustment to their statutory payroll costs in order to fund the proposed benefit changes. The amount of this change will not be known until the actuarial studies are completed.

B. Private Sector Impact:

None.

C. Government Sector Impact:

A number of the provisions of the bill will result in fiscal impacts on the FRS. This legislation impacts the FRS in the following ways:

- Requires new members of the FRS to make an active election to participate in the Pension Plan of the FRS; if no active election is made, the member is enrolled in the Investment Plan of the FRS.
- Requires members of the Elected Officers' Class, other than positions included in the Judicial Officers Subclass, initially enrolling on or after July 1, 2015, to participate in the Investment Plan of the FRS.
- Increases the service credit needed to vest in the Pension Plan of the FRS from 8 years to 10 years for all members initially enrolling in the Pension Plan on or after July 1, 2015.

Based on an actuarial study completed April 22, 2013, the fiscal impact on the FRS is expected to be insignificant in Fiscal Year 2014-2015. The actuarial impacts for later periods will be determined in the subsequent annual valuations of the FRS.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 121.021, 121.051, 121.052, 121.053, 121.055, 121.091, 121.122, 121.35, 121.4501, 121.591, 238.072, and 413.051.

The bill creates an undesignated section of Florida law.

IX. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The CS/CS differs from the CS in the following ways:

- Redefines compulsory members of the investment plan to exclude the Elected Officers of the judicial branch and the employees covered by the Senior Management Service Class. (Compulsory members will include elected state officers in the executive and legislative branches and county elected officers).
- Reestablishes the 3% employee contribution for investment plan members (the bill had reduced the employee contribution to 2% for all investment plan members beginning July 1, 2015).
- Directs the State Board of Administration (SBA) and Department of Management Services (DMS) to seek a determination letter from the IRS relating to the qualified tax status of the FRS.
- Directs the SBA and DMS to seek guidance from the IRS relating to the potential impact on the qualified tax status of the FRS if the pension plan and investment plan had differential employee contributions and the employees were permitted to choose which plan to participate.
- Makes numerous other technical and clarifying changes that are not intended to change the policies proposed in the underlying bill.

CS by Governmental Oversight and Accountability on April 10, 2014:
The CS makes the following changes to the Florida Retirement System (FRS), for members initially enrolled in the FRS on or after July 1, 2015:

- Mandates that Elected Officers' Class and Senior Management Service Class members may only join the Investment Plan;
- Changes the default for members who do not affirmatively choose a plan from the Pension Plan to the Investment Plan;
- Closes the Senior Management Service Optional Annuity Program to new members; and
- Changes the vesting period in the Pension Plan from 8 to 10 years;
- Changes the out of service disability retirement vesting period from 8 to 10 years.

The CS also lowers the employee's contribution rate from three percent to two percent for all members of the Investment Plan, beginning July 1, 2015. However, the overall amount transferred into the Investment Plan member's account remains the same – with an increase in the employer contribution being substituted for the decrease in employee contribution.

The CS also permits limited renewed membership for certain retirees of the Investment Plan and the optional retirement programs to participate as renewed members of the Investment Plan or the optional retirement programs.

Upon transfer, all service credit earned under the pension plan is nullified for purposes of entitlement to a future benefit under the pension plan. A member may not transfer the accumulated benefit obligation balance from the pension plan after the time period for enrolling in the investment plan has expired.

1. For purposes of this subsection, the present value of the member's accumulated benefit obligation is based upon the member's estimated creditable service and estimated average final compensation under the pension plan, subject to recomputation under subparagraph 2. For state employees, initial estimates shall be based upon creditable service and average final compensation as of midnight on June 30, 2002; for district school board employees, initial estimates shall be based upon creditable service and average final compensation as of midnight on September 30, 2002; and for local government employees, initial estimates shall be based upon creditable service and average final compensation as of midnight on December 31, 2002. b. A benefit commencement age, based on the member's estimated creditable service as of the estimate date.

c. Except as provided under sub-subparagraph d., for a member initially enrolled:

(I) Before July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 62; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed

938756

30 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

(II) On or after July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 65; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 33 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

d. For members of the Special Risk Class and for members of the Special Risk Administrative Support Class entitled to retain the special risk normal retirement date:

(I) Initially enrolled before July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 55; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 25 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

(II) Initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 60; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 30 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

e. The calculation must disregard vesting requirements and early retirement reduction factors that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

2. For each member who elects to transfer moneys from the pension plan to his or her account in the investment plan, the division shall recompute the amount transferred under subparagraph 1. within 60 days after the actual transfer of funds based upon the member's actual creditable service and actual final average compensation as of the initial date of participation in the investment plan. If the recomputed amount differs from the amount transferred by $10 or more, the division shall:

a. Transfer, or cause to be transferred, from the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund to the member's account the excess, if any, of the recomputed amount over the previously transferred amount together with interest from the initial date of transfer to the date of transfer under this subparagraph, based upon the effective annual interest equal to the assumed return on the actuarial investment which was used in the most recent actuarial valuation of the system, compounded annually.

b. Transfer, or cause to be transferred, from the member's account to the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund the excess, if any, of the previously transferred amount over the recomputed amount, together with interest from the initial date of transfer to the date of transfer under this subparagraph, based upon 6 percent effective annual interest, compounded annually, pro rata based on the member's allocation plan.

3. If contribution adjustments are made as a result of employer errors or corrections, including plan corrections, following recomputation of the amount transferred under subparagraph 1., the member is entitled to the additional contributions or is responsible for returning any excess contributions resulting from the correction. However, a ~~any~~ return of such erroneous excess pretax contribution by the plan must be made within the period allowed by the Internal Revenue Service. The present value of the member's accumulated benefit obligation may ~~shall~~ not be recalculated.

4. As directed by the member, the state board shall transfer or cause to be transferred the appropriate amounts to the designated accounts within 30 days after the effective date of the member's participation in the investment plan unless the major financial markets for securities available for a transfer are seriously disrupted by an unforeseen event that causes the suspension of trading on a ~~any~~ national securities exchange in the country where the securities were issued. In that event, the 30-day period may be extended by a resolution of the state board. Transfers are not commissionable or subject to other fees and may be in the form of securities or cash, as determined by the state board. Such securities are valued as of the date of receipt in the member's account.

5. If the state board or the division receives notification from the United States Internal Revenue Service that this paragraph or any portion of this paragraph will cause the retirement system, or a portion thereof, to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code, the portion that will cause the disqualification does not apply. Upon such notice, the state board and the division shall notify the presiding officers of the Legislature.

actuarial base independent of the reserve stabilization mechanism described ~~defined~~ in s. 121.031(3)(f). For the first 25 years, a direct amortization payment may not be calculated for this base. During this 25-year period, the separate base shall be used to offset the impact of employees exercising their second program election under this paragraph. The actuarial funded status of the pension plan will not be affected by such second program elections in any significant manner, after due recognition of the separate unfunded actuarial base. Following the initial 25-year period, any remaining balance of the original separate base shall be amortized over the remaining 5 years of the required 30-year amortization period.

5. If the employee chooses to transfer from the investment plan to the pension plan and retains an excess account balance in the investment plan after satisfying the buy-in requirements under this paragraph, the excess may not be distributed until the member retires from the pension plan. (c)1. In evaluating and selecting a third-party administrator, the state board shall establish criteria for evaluating the relative capabilities and qualifications of each proposed administrator. In developing such criteria, the state board shall consider:

f. Any other factor deemed necessary by the state board.

2. In evaluating and selecting an educational provider, the state board shall establish criteria under which it shall consider the relative capabilities and qualifications of each proposed educational provider. In developing such criteria, the state board shall consider:

a. Demonstrated experience in providing educational services to public or private sector retirement systems.

b. Ability and willingness to coordinate its activities with the employers, the state board, and the division, and to supply to such employers, the board, and the division the information and data they require, including, but not limited to, reports on educational contacts.

The state board, the third-party administrator, or a provider is not required to produce documentation or an audio recording to justify action taken with regard to a member if the action occurred 5 or more years before the complaint is submitted to the state board. It is presumed that all action taken 5 or more years before the complaint is submitted was taken at the request of the member and with the member's full knowledge and consent. (c) Except for compulsory members described in paragraph (4)(g), the state board, in coordination with the department, shall provide for an initial and ongoing transfer education component to provide system members with information necessary to make informed plan choice decisions. Section 9. Paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section 121.591, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

121.591 Payment of benefits.—Benefits may not be paid under the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan unless the member has terminated employment as provided in s. 121.021(39)(a) or is deceased and a proper application has been filed as prescribed by the state board or the department. Benefits, including employee contributions, are not payable under the investment plan for employee hardships, unforeseeable emergencies, loans, medical expenses, educational expenses, purchase of a principal residence, payments necessary to prevent eviction or foreclosure on an employee's principal residence, or any other reason except a requested distribution for retirement, a mandatory de minimis distribution authorized by the administrator, or a required minimum distribution provided pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code. The state board or department, as appropriate, may cancel an application for retirement benefits if the member or beneficiary fails to timely provide the information and documents required by this chapter and the rules of the state board and department. In accordance with their respective responsibilities, the state board and the department shall adopt rules establishing procedures for application for retirement benefits and for the cancellation of such application if the required information or documents are not received. The state board and the department, as appropriate, are authorized to cash out a de minimis account of a member who has been terminated from Florida Retirement System covered employment for a minimum of 6 calendar months. A de minimis account is an account

Such cash-out must be a complete lump-sum liquidation of the account balance, subject to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, or a lump-sum direct rollover distribution paid directly to the custodian of an eligible retirement plan, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, on behalf of the member. Any nonvested accumulations and associated service credit, including amounts transferred to the suspense account of the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund authorized under s. 121.4501(6), shall be forfeited upon payment of any vested benefit to a member or beneficiary, except for de minimis distributions or minimum required distributions as provided under this section. If any financial instrument issued for the payment of retirement benefits under this section is not presented for payment within 180 days after the last day of the month in which it was originally issued, the third-party administrator or other duly authorized agent of the state board shall cancel the instrument and credit the amount of the instrument to the suspense account of the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund authorized under s. 121.4501(6). Any amounts transferred to the suspense account are payable upon a proper application, not to include earnings thereon, as provided in this section, within 10 years after the last day of the month in which the instrument was originally issued, after which time such amounts and any earnings attributable to employer contributions shall be forfeited. Any forfeited amounts are assets of the trust fund and are not subject to chapter 717.

(2) DISABILITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS.—Benefits provided under this subsection are payable in lieu of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provisions of subsection (1). Such benefits must be funded from employer contributions made under s. 121.571, transferred employee contributions and funds accumulated pursuant to paragraph (a), and interest and earnings thereon.

(b) Disability retirement; entitlement.—

c. If the member elects to transfer to his or her member accounts a sum representing the present value of his or her retirement credit under the pension plan as provided under s. 121.4501(3), the period of service under the pension plan represented in the present value amounts transferred is ~~shall be~~ considered creditable service, except as provided in subparagraph d.

d. If a member has terminated employment and has taken distribution of his or her funds as provided in subsection (1), all creditable service represented by such distributed funds is forfeited for purposes of this subsection.

Section 10. Section 238.072, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

238.072 Special service provisions for extension personnel.—All state and county cooperative extension personnel holding appointments by the United States Department of Agriculture for extension work in agriculture and home economics in this state who are joint representatives of the University of Florida and the United States Department of Agriculture, as provided in s. 121.051(8) ~~s. 121.051(7)~~, who are members of the Teachers' Retirement System, chapter 238, and who are prohibited from transferring to and participating in the Florida Retirement System, chapter 121, may retire with full benefits upon completion of 30 years of creditable service and shall be considered to have attained normal retirement age under this chapter, any law to the contrary notwithstanding. However, if, at any time after July 1, 1996, sufficient funds are not paid by a blind licensee to cover the required contribution to the Florida Retirement System, that blind licensee shall become ineligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System on the last day of the first month for which no contribution is made or the amount contributed is insufficient to cover the required contribution. For any blind licensee who becomes ineligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System as described in this subsection, ~~no~~ creditable

However, ~~any~~ such person may participate in the Florida Retirement System in the future if employed by a participating employer in a covered position.

Section 12. (1) As soon as practicable, the State Board of Administration and the Department of Management Services shall request a determination letter from the United States Internal Revenue Service as to whether any portion of this act will cause the Florida Retirement System or a portion thereof to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code. If the Internal Revenue Service refuses to act upon a request for a determination letter, a legal opinion from a qualified tax attorney or firm may be substituted for the determination letter. If the board or the department receives notification from the Internal Revenue Service that this act or any portion of this act will cause the Florida Retirement System, or a portion thereof, to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code, that portion that will cause the disqualification does not apply. Upon receipt of such notice, the state board and the department shall notify the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

(2) The State Board of Administration and the Department of Management Services shall also seek guidance from the United States Internal Revenue Service regarding potential consequences to the qualified status of the Florida Retirement System if the pension plan and the investment plan were to offer different pretax employee contributions rates to members participating in the same membership class. Upon receipt of such guidance, the state board and the department shall notify the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

If the state board or the division receives notification from the United States Internal Revenue Service that this paragraph or any portion of this paragraph will cause the retirement system, or a portion thereof, to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code, the portion that will cause the disqualification does not apply. Upon such notice, the state board and the division shall notify the presiding officers of the Legislature.

This election is irrevocable, except as provided in paragraph (g). Upon making such election, the employee shall be enrolled as a participant of the investment plan, the employee's membership in the Florida Retirement System is governed by the provisions of this part, and the employee's membership in the pension plan terminates. The employee's enrollment in the investment plan is effective the first day of the month for which a full month's employer contribution is made to the investment plan.~~

~~b. Any such employee who fails to elect to participate in the investment plan within the prescribed time period is deemed to have elected to retain membership in the pension plan, and the employee's option to elect to participate in the investment plan is forfeited.~~

~~2. With respect to employees who become eligible to participate in the investment plan by reason of employment in a regularly established position with a local employer commencing after October 1, 2002:~~

~~a. Any such employee shall, by default, be enrolled in the pension plan at the commencement of employment, and may, by the last business day of the 5th month following the employee's month of hire, elect to participate in the investment plan. The employee's election must be made in writing or by electronic means and must be filed with the third-party administrator. The~~

~~election to participate in the investment plan is irrevocable, except as provided in paragraph (g).~~

~~b. If the employee files such election within the prescribed time period, enrollment in the investment plan is effective on the first day of employment. The employer retirement contributions paid through the month of the employee plan change shall be transferred to the investment plan, and, effective the first day of the next month, the employer shall pay the applicable contributions based on the employee membership class in the investment plan.~~

~~c. Any such employee who fails to elect to participate in the investment plan within the prescribed time period is deemed to have elected to retain membership in the pension plan, and the employee's option to elect to participate in the investment plan is forfeited.~~

~~3. For purposes of this paragraph, "local employer" means any employer not included in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b).~~

(c) ~~(d)~~ Contributions available for self-direction by a member who has not selected one or more specific investment products shall be allocated as prescribed by the state board. The third-party administrator shall notify the member at least quarterly that the member should take an affirmative action to make an asset allocation among the investment products.

(d) ~~(e)~~ On or after July 1, 2011, a member of the pension plan who obtains a refund of employee contributions retains his or her prior plan choice upon return to employment in a regularly established position with a participating employer.

(e) ~~(f)~~ A member of the investment plan who takes a distribution of any contributions from his or her investment plan account is considered a retiree. A member ~~retiree~~ who retires ~~is initially reemployed in a regularly established position~~ on or after July 1, 2010, is not eligible to be enrolled in renewed membership. A member who retired before July 1, 2010, and is employed on or after January 1, 2015, in a regularly established position shall be a renewed member as provided under s. 121.122. A retiree who returned to covered employment before July 1, 2010, shall continue membership in the plan as provided under s. 121.122.

(f) ~~(g)~~ After the period during which an eligible employee had the choice to elect the pension plan or the investment plan, or the month following the receipt of the eligible employee's plan election, if sooner, the employee shall have one opportunity, at the employee's discretion, to ~~choose to~~ move from the pension plan to the investment plan or from the investment plan to the pension plan. Eligible employees may elect to move between plans only if they are earning service credit in an employer-employee relationship consistent with s. 121.021(17)(b), excluding leaves of absence without pay. Effective July 1, 2005, such elections are effective on the first day of the month following the receipt of the election by the third-party administrator and are not subject to the requirements regarding an employer-employee relationship or receipt of contributions for the eligible employee in the effective month, except when the election is received by the third-party administrator. This paragraph is contingent upon approval by the Internal Revenue Service. This paragraph is not applicable to compulsory members of the investment plan described in paragraph (g).

1. If the employee chooses to move to the investment plan, ~~the provisions of~~ subsection (3) governs ~~govern~~ the transfer.

2. If the employee chooses to move to the pension plan, the employee must transfer from his or her investment plan account, and from other employee moneys as necessary, a sum representing the present value of that employee's accumulated benefit obligation immediately following the time of such movement, determined assuming that attained service equals the sum of service in the pension plan and service in the investment plan. Benefit commencement occurs on the first date the employee is eligible for unreduced benefits, using the discount rate and other relevant actuarial assumptions that were used to value the pension plan liabilities in the most recent actuarial valuation. For an ~~any~~ employee who, at the time of the second election, already maintains an accrued benefit amount in the pension plan, the then-present value of the accrued benefit is deemed part of the required transfer amount. The division must ensure that the transfer sum is prepared using a formula and methodology certified by an enrolled actuary. A refund of any employee contributions or additional member payments made which exceed the employee contributions that would have accrued had the member remained in the pension plan and not transferred to the investment plan is not permitted.

3. Notwithstanding subparagraph 2., an employee who chooses to move to the pension plan and who became eligible to participate in the investment plan by reason of employment in a regularly established position with a state employer after June 1, 2002; a district school board employer after September 1, 2002; or a local employer after December 1, 2002, must transfer from his or her investment plan account, and from other employee moneys as necessary, a sum representing the employee's actuarial accrued liability. A refund of any employee contributions or additional member ~~participant~~ payments made which exceed the employee contributions that would have accrued had the member remained in the pension plan and not transferred to the investment plan is not permitted.

4. An employee's ability to transfer from the pension plan to the investment plan pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) ~~(a)-(d)~~, and the ability of a current employee to have an option to later transfer back into the pension plan under subparagraph 2., shall be deemed a significant system amendment. Pursuant to s. 121.031(4), any resulting unfunded liability arising from actual original transfers from the pension plan to the investment plan must be amortized within 30 plan years as a separate unfunded actuarial base independent of the reserve stabilization mechanism described ~~defined~~ in s. 121.031(3)(f). For the first 25 years, a direct amortization payment may not be calculated for this base. During this 25-year period, the separate base shall be used to offset the impact of employees exercising their second program election under this paragraph. The actuarial funded status of the pension plan will not be affected by such second program elections in any significant manner, after due recognition of the separate unfunded actuarial base. Following the initial 25-year period, any remaining balance of the original separate base shall be amortized over the remaining 5 years of the required 30-year amortization period.

5. If the employee chooses to transfer from the investment plan to the pension plan and retains an excess account balance in the investment plan after satisfying the buy-in requirements under this paragraph, the excess may not be distributed until the member retires from the pension plan. The excess account balance may be rolled over to the pension plan and used to purchase service credit or upgrade creditable service in the pension plan.

(g) Except for members of the Elected Officers Class eligible to withdraw from the Florida Retirement System under s. 121.052(3)(d) or eligible for optional retirement programs under s. 121.051(1)(a), s. 121.051(2)(c), or s. 121.35, or described in s. 121.052(2)(a)2. or (2)(b), an employee initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System on or after July 1, 2015, and whose first employment in a regularly established position is covered by the Elected Officers' Class are compulsory members of the investment plan. Investment plan membership continues for a compulsory member even if the employee is subsequently employed in a position covered by another membership class. Membership in the pension plan by a compulsory member is not permitted except as provided in s. 121.591(2).

1. Employees initially enrolled in the system before July 1, 2015, may retain their membership in the pension plan or investment plan and are eligible to use the election opportunity specified in paragraph (f). Compulsory members are not eligible to use the election opportunity.

2. Employees eligible to withdraw from the system under s. 121.052(3)(d) may withdraw from the system or participate in the investment plan as provided under those provisions. Employees eligible for optional retirement programs under s. 121.051(2)(c) or s. 121.35 may participate in the optional retirement program or the investment plan as provided in those provisions. Eligible employees required to participate in the optional retirement program pursuant to s. 121.051(1)(a) as provided under s. 121.35 must participate in the investment plan if employed in a position not eligible for the optional retirement program.

3. The amount of retirement contributions paid by the employee and employer, as required under s. 121.72, shall be placed in a default fund designated by the state board, until an account is activated in the investment plan, at which time the member may move the contributions from the default fund to other funds provided in the investment plan.

(5) CONTRIBUTIONS.—

(c) The state board, acting as plan fiduciary, shall ~~must~~ ensure that all plan assets are held in a trust, pursuant to s. 401 of the Internal Revenue Code. The fiduciary shall ~~must~~ ensure that such contributions are allocated as follows:

1. The employer and employee contribution portion earmarked for member accounts shall be used to purchase interests in the appropriate investment vehicles as specified by the member, or in accordance with paragraph (4)(c) ~~(4)(d)~~.

2. The employer contribution portion earmarked for administrative and educational expenses shall be transferred to the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund.

3. The employer contribution portion earmarked for disability benefits shall be transferred to the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund.

(8) INVESTMENT PLAN ADMINISTRATION.—The investment plan shall be administered by the state board and affected employers. The state board may require oaths, by affidavit or otherwise,

An oath, by affidavit or otherwise, is ~~may~~ not ~~be~~ required of a member at the time of enrollment. Except for compulsory members described in paragraph (4)(g), acknowledgment of an employee's election to participate in the program may ~~shall~~ be no greater than necessary to confirm the employee's election. The state board shall adopt rules to carry out its statutory duties with respect to administering the investment plan, including establishing the roles and responsibilities of affected state, local government, and education-related employers, the state board, the department, and third-party contractors. The department shall adopt rules necessary to administer the investment plan in coordination with the pension plan and the disability benefits available under the investment plan.

(a)1. The state board shall select and contract with a third-party administrator to provide administrative services if those services cannot be competitively and contractually provided by the division. With the approval of the state board, the third-party administrator may subcontract to provide components of the administrative services. As a cost of administration, the state board may compensate ~~any~~ such contractor for its services, in accordance with the terms of the contract, as is deemed necessary or proper by the board. The third-party administrator may not be an approved provider or be affiliated with an approved provider.

2. These administrative services may include, but are not limited to, enrollment of eligible employees, collection of employer and employee contributions, disbursement of contributions to approved providers in accordance with the allocation directions of members; services relating to consolidated billing; individual and collective recordkeeping and accounting; asset purchase, control, and safekeeping; and direct disbursement of funds to and from the third-party administrator, the division, the state board, employers, members, approved providers, and beneficiaries. This section does not prevent or prohibit a bundled provider from providing any administrative or customer service, including accounting and administration of individual member benefits and contributions; individual member recordkeeping; asset purchase, control, and safekeeping; direct execution of the member's instructions as to asset and contribution allocation; calculation of daily net asset values; direct access to member account information; or periodic reporting to members, at least quarterly, on account balances and transactions, if these services are authorized by the state board as part of the contract.

(b)1. The state board shall select and contract with one or more organizations to provide educational services. With approval of the state board, the organizations may subcontract to provide components of the educational services. As a cost of administration, the state board may compensate any such contractor for its services in accordance with the terms of the contract, as is deemed necessary or proper by the board. The education organization may not be an approved provider or be affiliated with an approved provider.

2. Educational services shall be designed by the state board and department to assist employers, eligible employees, members, and beneficiaries in order to maintain compliance with United States Department of Labor regulations under s. 404(c) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and to assist employees in their choice of pension plan or investment plan retirement alternatives. Educational services include, but are not limited to, disseminating educational materials; providing retirement planning education; explaining the pension plan and the investment plan; and offering financial planning guidance on matters such as investment diversification, investment risks, investment costs, and asset allocation. An approved provider may also provide educational information, including retirement planning and investment allocation information concerning its products and services.

(c)1. In evaluating and selecting a third-party administrator, the state board shall establish criteria for evaluating the relative capabilities and qualifications of each proposed administrator. In developing such criteria, the state board shall consider:

a. The administrator’s demonstrated experience in providing administrative services to public or private sector retirement systems.

b. The administrator’s demonstrated experience in providing daily valued recordkeeping to defined contribution programs.

c. The administrator’s ability and willingness to coordinate its activities with employers, the state board, and the division, and to supply to such employers, the board, and the division the information and data they require, including, but not limited to, monthly management reports, quarterly member reports, and ad hoc reports requested by the department or state board.

d. The cost-effectiveness and levels of the administrative services provided.

e. The administrator's ability to interact with the members, the employers, the state board, the division, and the providers; the means by which members may access account information, direct investment of contributions, make changes to their accounts, transfer moneys between available investment vehicles, and transfer moneys between investment products; and any fees that apply to such activities.

f. Any other factor deemed necessary by the state board.

2. In evaluating and selecting an educational provider, the state board shall establish criteria under which it shall consider the relative capabilities and qualifications of each proposed educational provider. In developing such criteria, the state board shall consider:

a. Demonstrated experience in providing educational services to public or private sector retirement systems.

b. Ability and willingness to coordinate its activities with the employers, the state board, and the division, and to supply to such employers, the board, and the division the information and data they require, including, but not limited to, reports on educational contacts.

c. The cost-effectiveness and levels of the educational services provided.

d. Ability to provide educational services via different media, including, but not limited to, the Internet, personal contact, seminars, brochures, and newsletters.

e. Any other factor deemed necessary by the state board.

3. The establishment of the criteria shall be solely within the discretion of the state board.

(d) The state board shall develop the form and content of any contracts to be offered under the investment plan. In developing the contracts, the board shall consider:

1. The nature and extent of the rights and benefits to be afforded in relation to the contributions required under the plan.

2. The suitability of the rights and benefits provided and the interests of employers in the recruitment and retention of eligible employees.

(e)1. The state board may contract for professional services, including legal, consulting, accounting, and actuarial services, deemed necessary to implement and administer the investment plan. The state board may enter into a contract with one or more vendors to provide low-cost investment advice to members, supplemental to education provided by the third-party administrator. All fees under any such contract shall be paid by those members who choose to use the services of the vendor.

2. The department may contract for professional services, including legal, consulting, accounting, and actuarial services, deemed necessary to implement and administer the investment plan in coordination with the pension plan. The department, in coordination with the state board, may enter into a contract with the third-party administrator in order to coordinate services common to the various programs within the Florida Retirement System.

(f) The third-party administrator may not receive direct or indirect compensation from an approved provider, except as specifically provided ~~for~~ in the contract with the state board.

(g) The state board shall receive and resolve member complaints against the program, the third-party administrator, or any program vendor or provider; shall resolve any conflict between the third-party administrator and an approved provider if such conflict threatens the implementation or administration of the program or the quality of services to employees; and may resolve any other conflicts. The third-party administrator shall retain all member records for at least 5 years for use in resolving ~~any~~ member conflicts. The state board, the third-party administrator, or a provider is not required to produce documentation or an audio recording to justify action taken with regard to a member if the action occurred 5 or more years before the complaint is submitted to the state board. It is presumed that all action taken 5 or more years before the complaint is submitted was taken at the request of the member and with the member's full knowledge and consent. To overcome this presumption, the member must present documentary evidence or an audio recording demonstrating otherwise.

(10) EDUCATION COMPONENT.—

(a) The state board, in coordination with the department, shall provide ~~for~~ an education component for eligible employees ~~system members~~ in a manner consistent with ~~the provisions of~~ this subsection ~~section~~. ~~The education component must be available to eligible employees at least 90 days prior to the beginning date of the election period for the employees of the respective types of employers.~~

(b) Except for compulsory members described in paragraph (4)(g), the education component must provide system members with impartial and balanced information about plan choices. The education component must involve multimedia formats. Program comparisons must, to the greatest extent possible, be based upon the retirement income that different retirement programs may provide to the member. The state board shall monitor the performance of the contract to ensure that the program is conducted in accordance with the contract, applicable law, and the rules of the state board.

(c) Except for compulsory members described in paragraph (4)(g), the state board, in coordination with the department, shall provide for an initial and ongoing transfer education component to provide system members with information necessary to make informed plan choice decisions. The transfer education component must include, but is not limited to, information on:

2. The features of and differences between the pension plan and the defined contribution program, both generally and specifically, as those differences may affect the member.

3. The expected benefit available if the member were to retire under each of the retirement programs, based on appropriate alternative sets of assumptions.

4. The rate of return from investments in the defined contribution program and the period of time over which such rate of return must be achieved to equal or exceed the expected monthly benefit payable to the member under the pension plan.

5. The historical rates of return for the investment alternatives available in the defined contribution programs.

6. The benefits and historical rates of return on

Section 10. Paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section 121.591, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

121.591 Payment of benefits.—Benefits may not be paid under the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan unless the member has terminated employment as provided in s. 121.021(39)(a) or is deceased and a proper application has been filed as prescribed by the state board or the department. Benefits, including employee contributions, are not payable under the investment plan for employee hardships, unforeseeable emergencies, loans, medical expenses, educational expenses, purchase of a principal residence, payments necessary to prevent eviction or foreclosure on an employee’s principal residence, or any other reason except a requested distribution for retirement, a mandatory de minimis distribution authorized by the administrator, or a required minimum distribution provided pursuant to the Internal Revenue

Code. The state board or department, as appropriate, may cancel an application for retirement benefits if the member or beneficiary fails to timely provide the information and documents required by this chapter and the rules of the state board and department. In accordance with their respective responsibilities, the state board and the department shall adopt rules establishing procedures for application for retirement benefits and for the cancellation of such application if the required information or documents are not received. The state board and the department, as appropriate, are authorized to cash out a de minimis account of a member who has been terminated from Florida Retirement System covered employment for a minimum of 6 calendar months. A de minimis account is an account containing employer and employee contributions and accumulated earnings of not more than $5,000 made under the provisions of this chapter. Such cash-out must be a complete lump-sum liquidation of the account balance, subject to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, or a lump-sum direct rollover distribution paid directly to the custodian of an eligible retirement plan, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, on behalf of the member. Any nonvested accumulations and associated service credit, including amounts transferred to the suspense account of the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund authorized under s. 121.4501(6), shall be forfeited upon payment of any vested benefit to a member or beneficiary, except for de minimis distributions or minimum required distributions as provided under this section. If any financial instrument issued for the payment of retirement benefits under this section is not presented for payment within 180 days after the last day of the month in which it was originally issued, the third-party administrator or other duly authorized agent of the state board shall cancel the instrument and credit the amount of the instrument to the suspense account of the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund authorized under s. 121.4501(6). Any amounts transferred to the suspense account are payable upon a proper application, not to include earnings thereon, as provided in this section, within 10 years after the last day of the month in which the instrument was originally issued, after which time such amounts and any earnings attributable to employer contributions shall be forfeited. Any forfeited amounts are assets of the trust fund and are not subject to chapter 717.

(2) DISABILITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS.—Benefits provided under this subsection are payable in lieu of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provisions of subsection (1). Such benefits must be funded from employer contributions made under s. 121.571, transferred employee contributions and funds accumulated pursuant to paragraph (a), and interest and earnings thereon.

(b) Disability retirement; entitlement.—

1.a. A member of the investment plan initially enrolled before July 1, 2015, who becomes totally and permanently disabled, as defined in paragraph (d), after completing 8 years of creditable service, or a member who becomes totally and permanently disabled in the line of duty regardless of length of service, is entitled to a monthly disability benefit.

b. A member of the investment plan initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, who becomes totally and permanently disabled, as defined in paragraph (d), after completing 10 years of creditable service, or a member who becomes totally and permanently disabled in the line of duty regardless of service, is entitled to a monthly disability benefit.

2. In order for service to apply toward the ~~8~~ years of creditable service required for regular disability benefits, or toward the creditable service used in calculating a service-based benefit as provided under paragraph (g), the service must be creditable service as described below:

a. The member's period of service under the investment plan is ~~shall be~~ considered creditable service, except as provided in subparagraph d.

b. If the member has elected to retain credit for service under the pension plan as provided under s. 121.4501(3), all such service is ~~shall be~~ considered creditable service.

c. If the member elects to transfer to his or her member accounts a sum representing the present value of his or her retirement credit under the pension plan as provided under s. 121.4501(3), the period of service under the pension plan represented in the present value amounts transferred is ~~shall be~~ considered creditable service, except as provided in subparagraph d.

d. If a member has terminated employment and has taken distribution of his or her funds as provided in subsection (1), all creditable service represented by such distributed funds is forfeited for purposes of this subsection.

Section 11. Section 238.072, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

238.072 Special service provisions for extension personnel.—All state and county cooperative extension personnel holding appointments by the United States Department of Agriculture for extension work in agriculture and home economics in this state who are joint representatives of the University of Florida and the United States Department of Agriculture, as provided in s. 121.051(8) ~~s. 121.051(7)~~, who are members of the Teachers' Retirement System, chapter 238, and who are prohibited from transferring to and participating in the Florida Retirement System, chapter 121, may retire with full benefits upon completion of 30 years of creditable service and shall be considered to have attained normal retirement age under this chapter, any law to the contrary notwithstanding. In order to comply with ~~the provisions of~~ s. 14, Art. X of the State Constitution, any liability accruing to the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund as a result of ~~the provisions of~~ this section shall be paid on an annual basis from the General Revenue Fund.

Section 12. Subsection (11) of section 413.051, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

413.051 Eligible blind persons; operation of vending stands.—

(11) Effective July 1, 1996, blind licensees who remain members of the Florida Retirement System pursuant to s. 121.051(7)(b)1. ~~121.051(6)(b)1.~~ shall pay any unappropriated retirement costs from their net profits or from program income. Within 30 days after the effective date of this act, each blind licensee who is eligible to maintain membership in the Florida Retirement System under s. 121.051(7)(b)1. ~~121.051(6)(b)1.~~, but who elects to withdraw from the system as provided in s. 121.051(7)(b)3. ~~121.051(6)(b)3.~~, must, on or before July 31,

1996, notify the Division of Blind Services and the Department of Management Services in writing of his or her election to withdraw. Failure to timely notify the divisions shall be deemed a decision to remain a compulsory member of the Florida Retirement System. However, if, at any time after July 1, 1996, sufficient funds are not paid by a blind licensee to cover the required contribution to the Florida Retirement System, that blind licensee shall become ineligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System on the last day of the first month for which no contribution is made or the amount contributed is insufficient to cover the required contribution. For any blind licensee who becomes ineligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System as described in this subsection, ~~no~~ creditable service may not ~~shall~~ be earned under the Florida Retirement System for any period following the month that retirement contributions ceased to be reported. However, ~~any~~ such person may participate in the Florida Retirement System in the future if employed by a participating employer in a covered position.

Section 13. (1) As soon as practicable, the State Board of Administration and the Department of Management Services shall request a determination letter from the United States Internal Revenue Service as to whether any portion of this act will cause the Florida Retirement System or a portion thereof to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code. If the Internal Revenue Service refuses to act upon a request for a determination letter, a legal opinion from a qualified tax attorney or firm may be substituted for the determination letter. If the board or the department receives notification from the Internal Revenue Service that this act or any portion of this act will cause the Florida Retirement System, or a portion thereof, to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code, that portion that will cause the disqualification does not apply. Upon receipt of such notice, the state board and the department shall notify the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

(2) The State Board of Administration and the Department of Management Services shall also seek guidance from the United States Internal Revenue Service regarding potential consequences to the qualified status of the Florida Retirement System if the pension plan and the investment plan were to offer different pretax employee contributions rates to members participating in the same membership class. Upon receipt of such guidance, the state board and the department shall notify the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Section 1. Subsection (45) of section 121.021, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

121.021 Definitions.—The following words and phrases as used in this chapter have the respective meanings set forth unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context:

(45) "Vested" or "vesting" means the guarantee that a member is eligible to receive a future retirement benefit upon completion of the required years of creditable service for the employee's class of membership, even though the member may have terminated covered employment before reaching normal or early retirement date. Being vested does not entitle a member to a disability benefit. Provisions governing entitlement to disability benefits are set forth under s. 121.091(4).

(a) Effective July 1, 2001, through June 30, 2011, a 6-year vesting requirement shall be implemented for the Florida

Retirement System Pension Plan:

1. Any member employed in a regularly established position on July 1, 2001, who completes or has completed a total of 6 years of creditable service is considered vested.

2. Any member initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System before July 1, 2001, but not employed in a regularly established position on July 1, 2001, shall be deemed vested upon completion of 6 years of creditable service if such member is employed in a covered position for at least 1 work year after July 1, 2001. However, a member is not required to complete more years of creditable service than would have been required for that member to vest under retirement laws in effect before July 1, 2001.

3. Any member initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System on July 1, 2001, through June 30, 2011, shall be deemed vested upon completion of 6 years of creditable service.

(b) Any member initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System on ~~or after~~ July 1, 2011, through June 30, 2015, shall be vested in the pension plan upon completion of 8 years of creditable service.

(c) Any member initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System on or after July 1, 2015, shall be vested in the pension plan upon completion of 10 years of creditable service.

Section 2. Paragraph (c) of subsection (2) of section 121.051, Florida Statutes, is amended, present subsections (3) through (9) of that section are renumbered as subsections (4) through (10), respectively, and a new subsection (3) is added to that section, to read:

121.051 Participation in the system.—

CODING: Words ~~stricken~~ are deletions; words underlined are additions.

(2) OPTIONAL PARTICIPATION.—

(c) Employees of public community colleges or charter technical career centers sponsored by public community colleges, designated in s. 1000.21(3), who are members of the Regular Class of the Florida Retirement System and who comply with the criteria set forth in this paragraph and s. 1012.875 may, in lieu of participating in the Florida Retirement System, elect to withdraw from the system altogether and participate in the State Community College System Optional Retirement Program provided by the employing agency under s. 1012.875.

1.a. Through June 30, 2001, the cost to the employer for benefits under the optional retirement program is equal to ~~equals~~ the normal cost portion of the employer retirement contribution which would be required if the employee were a member of the pension plan's Regular Class, plus the portion of the contribution rate required by s. 112.363(8) which would otherwise be assigned to the Retiree Health Insurance Subsidy Trust Fund.

b. Effective July 1, 2001, through June 30, 2011, each employer shall contribute on behalf of each member of the optional program an amount equal to 10.43 percent of the employee's gross monthly compensation. The employer shall deduct an amount for the administration of the program.

c. Effective July 1, 2011, through June 30, 2012, each member shall contribute an amount equal to the employee contribution required under s. 121.71(3)(a). The employer shall contribute on behalf of each program member an amount equal to the difference between 10.43 percent of the employee's gross monthly compensation and the employee's required contribution based on the employee's gross monthly compensation.

d. Effective July 1, 2012, each member shall contribute an amount equal to the employee contribution required under s. 121.71(3)(a). The employer shall contribute on behalf of each program member an amount equal to the difference between 8.15 percent of the employee's gross monthly compensation and the employee's required contribution based on the employee's gross monthly compensation.

e. The employer shall contribute an additional amount to the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund equal to the unfunded actuarial accrued liability portion of the Regular Class contribution rate.

2. The decision to participate in the optional retirement program is irrevocable as long as the employee holds a position eligible for participation, except as provided in subparagraph 3. Any service creditable under the Florida Retirement System is retained after the member withdraws from the system; however, additional service credit in the system may not be earned while the employee is a member of the optional retirement program.

3. An employee who has elected to participate in the optional retirement program shall have one opportunity, at the employee's discretion, to transfer from the optional retirement program to the pension plan of the Florida Retirement System or to the investment plan established under part II of this chapter, subject to the terms of the applicable optional retirement program contracts.

a. If the employee chooses to move to the investment plan, any contributions, interest, and earnings creditable to the employee under the optional retirement program are retained by the employee in the optional retirement program, and the applicable provisions of s. 121.4501(4) govern the election.

b. If the employee chooses to move to the pension plan of the Florida Retirement System, the employee shall receive service credit equal to his or her years of service under the optional retirement program.

(I) The cost for such credit is the amount representing the present value of the employee's accumulated benefit obligation for the affected period of service. The cost shall be calculated as if the benefit commencement occurs on the first date the employee becomes eligible for unreduced benefits, using the discount rate and other relevant actuarial assumptions that were used to value the Florida Retirement System Pension Plan liabilities in the most recent actuarial valuation. The calculation must include any service already maintained under the pension plan in addition to the years under the optional retirement program. The present value of any service already maintained must be applied as a credit to total cost resulting from the calculation. The division must ensure that the transfer sum is prepared using a formula and methodology certified by an enrolled actuary.

(II) The employee must transfer from his or her optional retirement program account and from other employee moneys as necessary, a sum representing the present value of the employee's accumulated benefit obligation immediately following the time of such movement, determined assuming that attained service equals the sum of service in the pension plan and service in the optional retirement program.

4. Participation in the optional retirement program is limited to employees who satisfy the following eligibility criteria:

a. The employee is otherwise eligible for membership or renewed membership in the Regular Class of the Florida Retirement System, as provided in s. 121.021(11) and (12) or s. 121.122.

b. The employee is employed in a full-time position classified in the Accounting Manual for Florida's College System ~~Public Community Colleges~~ as:

c. The employee is employed in a position not included in the Senior Management Service Class of the Florida Retirement System as described in s. 121.055.

5. Members of the program are subject to the same reemployment limitations, renewed membership provisions, and forfeiture provisions applicable to regular members of the Florida Retirement System under ss. 121.091(9), 121.122, and 121.091(5), respectively. A member who receives a program distribution funded by employer and required employee contributions is deemed to be retired from a state-administered retirement system if the member is subsequently employed with an employer that participates in the Florida Retirement System.

6. Eligible community college employees are compulsory members of the Florida Retirement System until, pursuant to s. 1012.875, a written election to withdraw from the system and participate in the optional retirement program is filed with the program administrator and received by the division.

a. A community college employee whose program eligibility results from initial employment shall be enrolled in the optional retirement program retroactive to the first day of eligible employment. The employer and employee retirement contributions paid through the month of the employee plan change shall be transferred to the community college to the employee's optional program account, and, effective the first day of the next month, the employer shall pay the applicable contributions based upon subparagraph 1.

b. A community college employee whose program eligibility is due to the subsequent designation of the employee's position as one of those specified in subparagraph 4., or due to the employee's appointment, promotion, transfer, or reclassification to a position specified in subparagraph 4., must be enrolled in the program on the first day of the first full calendar month that such change in status becomes effective. The employer and employee retirement contributions paid from the effective date through the month of the employee plan change must be transferred to the community college to the employee's optional program account, and, effective the first day of the next month, the employer shall pay the applicable contributions based upon subparagraph 1.

7. Effective July 1, 2003, through December 31, 2008, a ~~any~~ member of the optional retirement program who has service credit in the pension plan of the Florida Retirement System for the period between his or her first eligibility to transfer from the pension plan to the optional retirement program and the actual date of transfer may, during employment, transfer to the optional retirement program a sum representing the present value of the accumulated benefit obligation under the defined benefit retirement program for the period of service credit. Upon transfer, all service credit previously earned under the pension plan during this period is nullified for purposes of entitlement to a future benefit under the pension plan.

(3) COMPULSORY INVESTMENT PLAN MEMBERSHIP.—

(a) Employees initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, in positions covered by the Elected Officers' Class or the Senior Management Service Class are compulsory members of the investment plan, except those eligible to withdraw from the system under s. 121.052(3)(d) or s. 121.055(1)(b)2., or those eligible for optional retirement programs under paragraph (1)(a), paragraph (2)(c), or s. 121.35. (i) "Member" or "employee" means an eligible employee who enrolls in or is defaulted into the investment plan as provided in subsection (4), a terminated Deferred Retirement Option Program member as described in subsection (21), or a beneficiary or alternate payee of a member or employee.

(3) RETIREMENT SERVICE CREDIT; TRANSFER OF BENEFITS.—

(b) Notwithstanding paragraph (a), an eligible employee who elects to participate in or is defaulted into the investment plan and establishes one or more individual member accounts may elect to transfer to the investment plan a sum representing the present value of the employee's accumulated benefit obligation under the pension plan, except as provided in paragraph (4)(b). Upon transfer, all service credit earned under the pension plan is nullified for purposes of entitlement to a future benefit under the pension plan. A member may not transfer the accumulated benefit obligation balance from the pension plan after the time period for enrolling in the investment plan has expired.

1. For purposes of this subsection, the present value of the member's accumulated benefit obligation is based upon the member's estimated creditable service and estimated average final compensation under the pension plan, subject to recomputation under subparagraph 2. For state employees, initial estimates shall be based upon creditable service and average final compensation as of midnight on June 30, 2002; for district school board employees, initial estimates shall be based upon creditable service and average final compensation as of midnight on September 30, 2002; and for local government employees, initial estimates shall be based upon creditable service and average final compensation as of midnight on December 31, 2002. The dates specified are the "estimate date" for these employees. The actuarial present value of the employee's accumulated benefit obligation shall be based on the following:

a. The discount rate and other relevant actuarial assumptions used to value the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund at the time the amount to be transferred is determined, consistent with the factors provided in sub-subparagraphs b. and c.

b. A benefit commencement age, based on the member's estimated creditable service as of the estimate date.

c. Except as provided under sub-subparagraph d., for a member initially enrolled:

(I) Before July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 62; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 30 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

(II) On or after July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 65; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 33 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

d. For members of the Special Risk Class and for members of the Special Risk Administrative Support Class entitled to retain the special risk normal retirement date:

(I) Initially enrolled before July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 55; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 25 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

(II) Initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2011, the benefit commencement age is the younger of the following, but may not be younger than the member's age as of the estimate date:

(A) Age 60; or

(B) The age the member would attain if the member completed 30 years of service with an employer, assuming the member worked continuously from the estimate date, and disregarding any vesting requirement that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

e. The calculation must disregard vesting requirements and early retirement reduction factors that would otherwise apply under the pension plan.

2. For each member who elects to transfer moneys from the pension plan to his or her account in the investment plan, the division shall recompute the amount transferred under subparagraph 1. within 60 days after the actual transfer of funds based upon the member's actual creditable service and actual final average compensation as of the initial date of participation in the investment plan. If the recomputed amount differs from the amount transferred by $10 or more, the division shall:

a. Transfer, or cause to be transferred, from the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund to the member's account the excess, if any, of the recomputed amount over the previously transferred amount together with interest from the initial date of transfer to the date of transfer under this subparagraph, based upon the effective annual interest equal to the assumed return on the actuarial investment which was used in the most recent actuarial valuation of the system, compounded annually.

b. Transfer, or cause to be transferred, from the member's account to the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund the excess, if any, of the previously transferred amount over the recomputed amount, together with interest from the initial date of transfer to the date of transfer under this subparagraph, based upon 6 percent effective annual interest, compounded annually, pro rata based on the member's allocation plan.

3. If contribution adjustments are made as a result of employer errors or corrections, including plan corrections, following recomputation of the amount transferred under subparagraph 1., the member is entitled to the additional contributions or is responsible for returning any excess contributions resulting from the correction. However, a ~~any~~ return of such erroneous excess pretax contribution by the plan must be made within the period allowed by the Internal Revenue Service. The present value of the member's accumulated benefit obligation may ~~shall~~ not be recalculated.

4. As directed by the member, the state board shall transfer or cause to be transferred the appropriate amounts to the designated accounts within 30 days after the effective date of the member's participation in the investment plan unless the major financial markets for securities available for a transfer are seriously disrupted by an unforeseen event that causes the suspension of trading on a ~~any~~ national securities exchange in the country where the securities were issued. In that event, the 30-day period may be extended by a resolution of the state board. Transfers are not commissionable or subject to other fees and may be in the form of securities or cash, as determined by the state board. Such securities are valued as of the date of receipt in the member's account.

5. If the state board or the division receives notification from the United States Internal Revenue Service that this paragraph or any portion of this paragraph will cause the retirement system, or a portion thereof, to be disqualified for tax purposes under the Internal Revenue Code, the portion that will cause the disqualification does not apply. Upon such notice, the state board and the division shall notify the presiding officers of the Legislature.

(4) PARTICIPATION; ENROLLMENT.—

3. Notwithstanding subparagraph 2., an employee who chooses to move to the pension plan and who became eligible to participate in the investment plan by reason of employment in a regularly established position with a state employer after June 1, 2002; a district school board employer after September 1, 2002; or a local employer after December 1, 2002, must transfer from his or her investment plan account, and from other employee moneys as necessary, a sum representing the employee's actuarial accrued liability. A refund of any employee contributions or additional member ~~participant~~ payments made which exceed the employee contributions that would have accrued had the member remained in the pension plan and not transferred to the investment plan is not permitted.

4. An employee's ability to transfer from the pension plan to the investment plan pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) ~~(a)-(d)~~, and the ability of a current employee to have an option to later transfer back into the pension plan under subparagraph 2.,

shall be deemed a significant system amendment. Pursuant to s. 121.031(4), any resulting unfunded liability arising from actual original transfers from the pension plan to the investment plan must be amortized within 30 plan years as a separate unfunded actuarial base independent of the reserve stabilization mechanism described ~~defined~~ in s. 121.031(3)(f). For the first 25 years, a direct amortization payment may not be calculated for this base. During this 25-year period, the separate base shall be used to offset the impact of employees exercising their second program election under this paragraph. The actuarial funded status of the pension plan will not be affected by such second program elections in any significant manner, after due recognition of the separate unfunded actuarial base. Following the initial 25-year period, any remaining balance of the original separate base shall be amortized over the remaining 5 years of the required 30-year amortization period.

5. If the employee chooses to transfer from the investment plan to the pension plan and retains an excess account balance in the investment plan after satisfying the buy-in requirements under this paragraph, the excess may not be distributed until the member retires from the pension plan. The excess account balance may be rolled over to the pension plan and used to purchase service credit or upgrade creditable service in the pension plan.

(g) All employees initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, in positions covered by the Elected Officers' Class or the Senior Management Service Class are compulsory members of the investment plan, except those eligible to withdraw from the system under s. 121.052(3)(d) or s. 121.055(1)(b)2., or those eligible for optional retirement programs under s. 121.051(1)(a), s. 121.051(2)(c), or s. 121.35. Employees eligible to withdraw from the system under s. 121.052(3)(d) or s. 121.055(1)(b)2. may withdraw from the system or participate in the investment plan as provided in those sections. Employees eligible for optional retirement programs under s. 121.051(2)(c) or s. 121.35, except as provided in s. 121.051(1)(a), may participate in the optional retirement program or the investment plan as provided in those sections. Investment plan membership continues if there is subsequent employment in a position covered by another membership class.

1. Membership in the pension plan is not permitted except as provided in s. 121.591(2). Employees initially enrolled in the Florida Retirement System before July 1, 2015, may retain their membership in the pension plan or investment plan and are eligible to use the election opportunity specified in paragraph (f).

2. Employees initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, may not use the election opportunity specified in paragraph (f).

3. The amount of retirement contributions paid by the employee and employer, as required under s. 121.72, shall be placed in a default fund as designated by the state board, until an account is activated in the investment plan, at which time the member may move the contributions from the default fund to other funds provided in the investment plan.

(5) CONTRIBUTIONS.—

(c) The state board, acting as plan fiduciary, shall ~~must~~ ensure that all plan assets are held in a trust, pursuant to s. 401 of the Internal Revenue Code. The fiduciary shall ~~must~~ ensure that such contributions are allocated as follows:

1. The employer and employee contribution portion earmarked for member accounts shall be used to purchase interests in the appropriate investment vehicles as specified by the member, or in accordance with paragraph (4)(c) ~~(4)(d)~~.

2. The employer contribution portion earmarked for administrative and educational expenses shall be transferred to the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund.

3. The employer contribution portion earmarked for disability benefits shall be transferred to the Florida Retirement System Trust Fund.

(8) INVESTMENT PLAN ADMINISTRATION.—The investment plan shall be administered by the state board and affected employers. The state board may require oaths, by affidavit or otherwise, and acknowledgments from persons in connection with the administration of its statutory duties and responsibilities for the investment plan. An oath, by affidavit or otherwise, is ~~may~~ not ~~be~~ required of a member at the time of enrollment. Acknowledgment of an employee's election to participate in the program may ~~shall~~ be no greater than necessary to confirm the employee's election except for members initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, as provided in paragraph (4)(g). The state board shall adopt rules to carry out its statutory duties with respect to administering the investment plan, including establishing the roles and responsibilities of affected state, local government, and education-related employers, the state board, the department, and third-party contractors. The department shall adopt rules necessary to administer the investment plan in coordination with the pension plan and the disability benefits available under the investment plan.

(a)1. The state board shall select and contract with a third-party administrator to provide administrative services if those services cannot be competitively and contractually provided by the division. With the approval of the state board, the third-party administrator may subcontract to provide components of the administrative services. As a cost of administration, the state board may compensate ~~any~~ such contractor for its services, in accordance with the terms of the contract, as is deemed necessary or proper by the board. The third-party administrator may not be an approved provider or be affiliated with an approved provider.

2. These administrative services may include, but are not limited to, enrollment of eligible employees, collection of employer and employee contributions, disbursement of contributions to approved providers in accordance with the allocation directions of members; services relating to consolidated billing; individual and collective recordkeeping and accounting; asset purchase, control, and safekeeping; and direct disbursement of funds to and from the third-party administrator, the division, the state board, employers, members, approved providers, and beneficiaries. This section does not prevent or prohibit a bundled provider from providing any administrative or customer service, including accounting and administration of individual member benefits and contributions; individual member recordkeeping; asset purchase, control, and safekeeping; direct execution of the member's instructions as to asset and contribution allocation; calculation of daily net asset values; direct access to member account information; or periodic reporting to members, at least quarterly, on account balances and transactions, if these services are authorized by the state board as part of the contract.

(b)1. The state board shall select and contract with one or more organizations to provide educational services. With approval of the state board, the organizations may subcontract to provide components of the educational services. As a cost of administration, the state board may compensate any such contractor for its services in accordance with the terms of the contract, as is deemed necessary or proper by the board. The education organization may not be an approved provider or be affiliated with an approved provider.

2. Educational services shall be designed by the state board and department to assist employers, eligible employees, members, and beneficiaries in order to maintain compliance with United States Department of Labor regulations under s. 404(c) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and to assist employees in their choice of pension plan or investment plan retirement alternatives. Educational services include, but are not limited to, disseminating educational materials; providing retirement planning education; explaining the pension plan and the investment plan; and offering financial planning guidance on matters such as investment diversification, investment risks, investment costs, and asset allocation. An approved provider may also provide educational information, including retirement planning and investment allocation information concerning its products and services.

(c)1. In evaluating and selecting a third-party administrator, the state board shall establish criteria for evaluating the relative capabilities and qualifications of each proposed administrator. In developing such criteria, the state board shall consider:

a. The administrator's demonstrated experience in providing administrative services to public or private sector retirement systems.

b. The administrator's demonstrated experience in providing daily valued recordkeeping to defined contribution programs.

c. The administrator's ability and willingness to coordinate its activities with employers, the state board, and the division, and to supply to such employers, the board, and the division the information and data they require, including, but not limited to, monthly management reports, quarterly member reports, and ad hoc reports requested by the department or state board.

d. The cost-effectiveness and levels of the administrative services provided.

e. The administrator's ability to interact with the members, the employers, the state board, the division, and the providers; the means by which members may access account information, direct investment of contributions, make changes to their accounts, transfer moneys between available investment vehicles, and transfer moneys between investment products; and any fees that apply to such activities.

f. Any other factor deemed necessary by the state board.

2. In evaluating and selecting an educational provider, the state board shall establish criteria under which it shall consider the relative capabilities and qualifications of each proposed educational provider. In developing such criteria, the state board shall consider:

a. Demonstrated experience in providing educational services to public or private sector retirement systems.

b. Ability and willingness to coordinate its activities with the employers, the state board, and the division, and to supply to such employers, the board, and the division the information and data they require, including, but not limited to, reports on educational contacts.

c. The cost-effectiveness and levels of the educational services provided.

d. Ability to provide educational services via different media, including, but not limited to, the Internet, personal contact, seminars, brochures, and newsletters.

e. Any other factor deemed necessary by the state board.

3. The establishment of the criteria shall be solely within the discretion of the state board.

(d) The state board shall develop the form and content of any contracts to be offered under the investment plan. In developing the contracts, the board shall consider:

1. The nature and extent of the rights and benefits to be afforded in relation to the contributions required under the plan.

2. The suitability of the rights and benefits provided and the interests of employers in the recruitment and retention of eligible employees.

(e)1. The state board may contract for professional services, including legal, consulting, accounting, and actuarial services, deemed necessary to implement and administer the investment plan. The state board may enter into a contract with one or more vendors to provide low-cost investment advice to members, supplemental to education provided by the third-party administrator. All fees under any such contract shall be paid by those members who choose to use the services of the vendor.

2. The department may contract for professional services, including legal, consulting, accounting, and actuarial services, deemed necessary to implement and administer the investment plan in coordination with the pension plan. The department, in coordination with the state board, may enter into a contract with the third-party administrator in order to coordinate services common to the various programs within the Florida Retirement System.

(f) The third-party administrator may not receive direct or indirect compensation from an approved provider, except as specifically provided ~~for~~ in the contract with the state board.

(g) The state board shall receive and resolve member complaints against the program, the third-party administrator, or any program vendor or provider; shall resolve any conflict between the third-party administrator and an approved provider if such conflict threatens the implementation or administration of the program or the quality of services to employees; and may resolve any other conflicts. The third-party administrator shall retain all member records for at least 5 years for use in resolving ~~any~~ member conflicts. The state board, the third-party administrator, or a provider is not required to produce documentation or an audio recording to justify action taken with regard to a member if the action occurred 5 or more years before the complaint is submitted to the state board. It is presumed that all action taken 5 or more years before the complaint is submitted was taken at the request of the member and with the member's full knowledge and consent. To overcome this presumption, the member must present documentary evidence or an audio recording demonstrating otherwise.

(10) EDUCATION COMPONENT.—

(a) The state board, in coordination with the department, shall provide ~~for~~ an education component for eligible employees ~~system members~~ in a manner consistent with ~~the provisions of~~ this subsection ~~section~~. ~~The education component must be available to eligible employees at least 90 days prior to the beginning date of the election period for the employees of the respective types of employers.~~

(b) Except for members initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, as provided in paragraph (4)(g), the education component must provide system members with impartial and balanced information about plan choices. The education component must involve multimedia formats. Program comparisons must, to the greatest extent possible, be based upon the retirement income that different retirement programs may provide to the member. The state board shall monitor the performance of the contract to ensure that the program is conducted in accordance with the contract, applicable law, and the rules of the state board.

(c) Except for members initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, as provided in paragraph (4)(g), the state board, in coordination with the department, shall provide for an initial and ongoing transfer education component to provide system members with information necessary to make informed plan choice decisions. The transfer education component must include, but is not limited to, information on:

1. The amount of money available to a member to transfer to the defined contribution program.

2. The features of and differences between the pension plan and the defined contribution program, both generally and specifically, as those differences may affect the member.

3. The expected benefit available if the member were to retire under each of the retirement programs, based on appropriate alternative sets of assumptions.

4. The rate of return from investments in the defined contribution program and the period of time over which such rate of return must be achieved to equal or exceed the expected monthly benefit payable to the member under the pension plan.

5. The historical rates of return for the investment alternatives available in the defined contribution programs.

6. The benefits and historical rates of return on investments available in a typical deferred compensation plan or a typical plan under s. 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code for which the employee may be eligible.

7. The program choices available to employees of the State University System and the comparative benefits of each available program, if applicable.

8. Payout options available in each of the retirement programs.

~~(h) Pursuant to subsection (8), all Florida Retirement System employers have an obligation to regularly communicate the existence of the two Florida Retirement System plans and the plan choice in the natural course of administering their personnel functions, using the educational materials supplied by~~

~~the state board and the Department of Management Services.~~

Section 10. Paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section 121.591, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

121.591 Payment of benefits.—Benefits may not be paid under the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan unless the member has terminated employment as provided in s. 121.021(39)(a) or is deceased and a proper application has been filed as prescribed by the state board or the department. Benefits, including employee contributions, are not payable under the investment plan for employee hardships, unforeseeable emergencies, loans, medical expenses, educational expenses, purchase of a principal residence, payments necessary to prevent eviction or foreclosure on an employee's principal residence, or any other reason except a requested distribution for retirement, a mandatory de minimis distribution authorized by the administrator, or a required minimum distribution provided pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code. The state board or department, as appropriate, may cancel an application for retirement benefits if the member or beneficiary fails to timely provide the information and documents required by this chapter and the rules of the state board and department. In accordance with their respective responsibilities, the state board and the department shall adopt rules establishing procedures for application for retirement benefits and for the cancellation of such application if the required information or documents are not received. The state board and the department, as appropriate, are authorized to cash out a de minimis account of a member who has been terminated from Florida Retirement System covered employment for a minimum of 6 calendar months. A de minimis account is an account containing employer and employee contributions and accumulated earnings of not more than $5,000 made under the provisions of this chapter. Such cash-out must be a complete lump-sum liquidation of the account balance, subject to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, or a lump-sum direct rollover distribution paid directly to the custodian of an eligible retirement plan, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, on behalf of the member. Any nonvested accumulations and associated service credit, including amounts transferred to the suspense account of the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund authorized under s. 121.4501(6), shall be forfeited upon payment of any vested benefit to a member or beneficiary, except for de minimis distributions or minimum required distributions as provided under this section. If any financial instrument issued for the payment of retirement benefits under this section is not presented for payment within 180 days after the last day of the month in which it was originally issued, the third-party administrator or other duly authorized agent of the state board shall cancel the instrument and credit the amount of the instrument to the suspense account of the Florida Retirement System Investment Plan Trust Fund authorized under s. 121.4501(6). Any amounts transferred to the suspense account are payable upon a proper application, not to include earnings thereon, as provided in this section, within 10 years after the last day of the month in which the instrument was originally issued, after which time such amounts and any earnings attributable to employer contributions shall be forfeited. Any forfeited amounts are assets of the trust fund and are not subject to chapter 717.

(2) DISABILITY RETIREMENT BENEFITS.—Benefits provided under this subsection are payable in lieu of the benefits that would otherwise be payable under the provisions of subsection (1). Such benefits must be funded from employer contributions made under s. 121.571, transferred employee contributions and funds accumulated pursuant to paragraph (a), and interest and earnings thereon.

(b) Disability retirement; entitlement.—

1.a. A member of the investment plan initially enrolled before July 1, 2015, who becomes totally and permanently disabled, as defined in paragraph (d), after completing 8 years of creditable service, or a member who becomes totally and permanently disabled in the line of duty regardless of length of service, is entitled to a monthly disability benefit.

b. A member of the investment plan initially enrolled on or after July 1, 2015, who becomes totally and permanently disabled, as defined in paragraph (d), after completing 10 years of creditable service, or a member who becomes totally and permanently disabled in the line of duty regardless of service, is entitled to a monthly disability benefit.

2. In order for service to apply toward the ~~8~~ years of creditable service required for regular disability benefits, or toward the creditable service used in calculating a service-based benefit as provided under paragraph (g), the service must be creditable service as described below:

a. The member's period of service under the investment plan shall be considered creditable service, except as provided in subparagraph d.

b. If the member has elected to retain credit for service under the pension plan as provided under s. 121.4501(3), all such service is ~~shall be~~ considered creditable service.

c. If the member elects to transfer to his or her member accounts a sum representing the present value of his or her retirement credit under the pension plan as provided under s. 121.4501(3), the period of service under the pension plan represented in the present value amounts transferred is ~~shall be~~ considered creditable service, except as provided in subparagraph d.

d. If a member has terminated employment and has taken distribution of his or her funds as provided in subsection (1), all creditable service represented by such distributed funds is forfeited for purposes of this subsection.

Section 11. Subsection (3) of section 121.71, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

Section 13. Subsection (11) of section 413.051, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

Within 30 days after the effective date of this act, each blind licensee who is eligible to maintain membership in the Florida Retirement System under s. 121.051(7)(b)1. ~~121.051(6)(b)1.~~, but who elects to withdraw from the system as provided in s. 121.051(7)(b)3. ~~121.051(6)(b)3.~~, must, on or before July 31, 1996, notify the Division of Blind Services and the Department of Management Services in writing of his or her election to withdraw. Failure to timely notify the divisions shall be deemed a decision to remain a compulsory member of the Florida Retirement System. However, if, at any time after July 1, 1996, sufficient funds are not paid by a blind licensee to cover the required contribution to the Florida Retirement System, that blind licensee shall become ineligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System on the last day of the first month for which no contribution is made or the amount contributed is insufficient to cover the required contribution. For any blind licensee who becomes ineligible to participate in the Florida Retirement System as described in this subsection, ~~no~~ creditable service may not ~~shall~~ be earned under the Florida Retirement System for any period following the month that retirement contributions ceased to be reported. However, ~~any~~ such person may participate in the Florida Retirement System in the future if employed by a participating employer in a covered position.

Section 14. Paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 1012.875, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

1012.875 State Community College System Optional Retirement Program.—Each Florida College System institution may implement an optional retirement program, if such program is established therefor pursuant to s. 1001.64(20), under which annuity or other contracts providing retirement and death benefits may be purchased by, and on behalf of, eligible employees who participate in the program, in accordance with s. 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	PCS/CS/SB 1122 (578150)

SUBJECT:	Emergency Allergy Treatment

Please see Section IX. for Additional Information:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

PCS/CS/SB 1122 renames the Insect Sting Emergency Treatment Act to the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act and expands the scope to include all emergency allergy reactions.

The educational training for certification of those who may administer epinephrine must be conducted by a nationally recognized organization or an individual or entity approved by the Department of Health (DOH), rather than a physician. Eligible persons include, but are not limited to, camp counselors, scout leaders, school teachers, forest rangers, tour guides, and chaperones who successfully complete the training program.

The bill replaces references to outdated epinephrine delivery devices and specifies the use and prescription of epinephrine auto-injectors.

The bill provides immunity from civil liability to certain persons who possess, administer, or store an epinephrine auto-injector in compliance with the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act under specified parameters.

The bill has an insignificant fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Anaphylaxis is a severe, whole-body allergic reaction to a chemical that has become an allergen.[1] The human body releases chemicals during anaphylaxis that can cause shock, resulting in a sudden drop in blood pressure and the release of histamines, which may restrict breathing.[2] Symptoms of anaphylaxis include rapid, weak pulse; skin rash; nausea; and vomiting.[3] Common causes include certain medications, some foods, insect bites or stings, and exposure to latex.[4] Food allergies alone affect approximately 3.8 percent of all United States children, and the prevalence of such allergies has increased by 18 percent from 1997 to 2007.[5] Food allergies are also the most common cause of anaphylaxis cases in hospital emergency rooms.[6]

Anaphylaxis is an emergency situation that requires immediate medical attention. If anaphylaxis is not treated, it will lead to unconsciousness and possible death. Symptoms can vary but can include hives, itching, flushing, swelling of the lips, tongue, and roof of the mouth, tightness of the throat and chest, dizziness, and headaches.

Initial treatment of anaphylaxis includes the administration of epinephrine, also known as adrenaline. Epinephrine is classified as a sympathomimetic drug, meaning its effects mimic those of the stimulated sympathetic nervous system, which stimulates the heart and narrows the blood vessels. It is available through a prescription from a physician.

Many individuals with severe allergies that have resulted in, or can result in, anaphylaxis carry a pre-filled, auto-injector that contains one dose of epinephrine such as an EpiPen or Twinject.[7] Epinephrine acts quickly by stimulating the heart to improve breathing, relaxing muscles in the airways, and tightening blood vessels to reduce swelling of the face, lips, and throat. The effects of epinephrine are rapid, but not long-lasting.[8] When injected, epinephrine eases the symptoms until professional medical treatment is obtained.

In 2012, the Legislature authorized pharmacists to administer – in the event of an allergic reaction – epinephrine using an auto-injection delivery system within the framework of an established protocol with a physician. This provision was included in legislation that expanded pharmacists' existing authority to administer certain vaccinations under a protocol with a supervising physician.[9] The legislation further required any participating pharmacist to complete a three-hour continuing education course as part of his or her re-licensure or recertification on the safe and effective administration of vaccines and epinephrine.[10]

For public and private schools, the 2013 Legislature authorized the purchase and maintenance of a supply of epinephrine auto-injectors in a secure, locked location on school premises for use if a student has an anaphylactic reaction.[11] Any participating school district or private school is required to adopt a protocol developed by a licensed physician for administration of the epinephrine by school personnel. The epinephrine auto-injectors may be administered by school personnel or self-administered by the student.

The state Board of Education's rule for the use of epinephrine auto-injectors is based solely on self-administration.[12] The rule provides that the auto-injector is a prescription medication in a specific dose-for-weight device that is packaged for self-delivery in the event of a life threatening allergic reaction. Written authorization is required from the physician and parent for the student to carry an epinephrine auto-injector and to self-administer epinephrine. The rule requires a school nurse to develop an annual child-specific action plan for an anticipated health emergency in the school setting.[13]

In November 2013, Congress passed and the President Barack Obama signed the School Access to Emergency Epinephrine Act.[14] The federal legislation provides a financial incentive for schools to maintain a supply of the medication and permit trained personnel to administer it. Participating schools will be given additional preference for receiving federal asthma-treatment grants. The federal act also requires that a state attorney general certify that the state's liability protections are adequate for school personnel. Currently, five states require or will require schools to stock epinephrine in the next school year.[15]

The marketer and distributer of the EpiPen, Mylan Specialty, offers four free auto-injectors to qualifying public and private kindergarten, elementary, middle, and high schools in the United States with a valid prescription.[16]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 381.88, F.S. This section, and newly created s. 381.885, F.S., may be cited as the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act. Section 381.88, F.S., was previously the Insect Sting Emergency Treatment Act. Definitions for the re-titled act are created for:

- Administrator
- Authorized entity

- Authorized health care practitioner
- Department
- Epinephrine auto-injector
- Self-administration

Under this section, references to "insect stings" are revised to "allergic" reactions to reflect the broader scope of the bill. References to the prescription or administration of epinephrine are clarified to specifically identify the epinephrine auto-injector.

Under the bill, the educational training program required for a layperson to obtain a certificate to obtain, produce, or administer epinephrine must be conducted by a nationally recognized organization with experience in training laypersons in emergency health treatment or an entity approved by the DOH, rather than a physician licensed in this state.

The list of eligible persons to whom a certificate of training under this section may be awarded is clarified to include, but not be limited to, a camp counselor, a scout leader, school teacher, forest ranger, tour guide, or chaperone who successfully completes the training program. The current list is an exclusive list of eligible entities.

Under the bill, a certificate holder is authorized to:
- Receive a prescription for epinephrine auto-injectors from either an authorized health care practitioner or the DOH;
- Possess the prescribed epinephrine auto-injector; and
- Administer the prescribed epinephrine auto-injector to a person experiencing a severe allergic reaction when a physician is not immediately available.

Section 2 creates s. 381.885, F.S., to permit an authorized health care practitioner to prescribe epinephrine auto-injectors to an authorized entity and authorizes pharmacists to dispense the prescription in the name of the authorized entity. The authorized entity is permitted to acquire and maintain a supply of epinephrine auto-injectors in accordance with the auto-injectors' instructions and any additional requirements established by the DOH. The authorized entity is also permitted to designate employees or agents who hold a certificate that is issued under s. 381.88, F.S., to be responsible for the storage, maintenance, and oversight of the epinephrine auto-injector supply.

The bill provides authorization for individuals who hold a certificate from the training program to use the epinephrine auto-injectors to:
- Provide to a person who the certified individual believes, in good faith, is experiencing a severe allergic reaction for that person's immediate self-administration; or
- Administer the epinephrine auto-injector to a person who the certified individual believes, in good faith, is experiencing a severe allergic reaction.

Use of the epinephrine auto-injector by the certified individual under either scenario may occur under the bill regardless of whether the affected person has a prescription or has been previously diagnosed with an allergy.

An authorized entity that acquires a stock supply of epinephrine auto-injectors via prescription from an authorized health care practitioner may also make the auto-injectors available to non-certified individuals. These non-certified individuals may administer the auto-injector in the following circumstances:

- Non-certified individual believes, in good faith, that a person is experiencing severe allergic reaction;
- The auto-injector is stored in a locked, secure container; and
- The auto-injectors can only be accessed upon remote authorization by an authorized health care provider after consultation with the authorized health care practitioner by audio, televideo, or other electronic communication. The bill provides that this consultation is not the practice of telemedicine or a violation of professional practice standards.

The administration of epinephrine auto-injectors under this section is specifically identified as not the practice of medicine.

The bill provides immunity from civil liability to any person, as defined in s. 1.01,[17] who possesses, administers, or stores an epinephrine auto-injectors under the bill, including:

- An authorized health care practitioner;
- A dispensing health care practitioner or pharmacist;
- Any person certified under the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act;
- Any non-certified individual who receives an epinephrine auto-injectors from an authorized entity for purposes of administering it to another person suffering from a severe allergic reaction; and
- A trainer who conducts an educational training program for recognizing the symptoms of a severe allergic reaction and administering an epinephrine auto-injectors.

The immunity granted under CS/CS/SB 1122 is, by reference, identical to the immunity provided under s. 768.13, F.S. This section is known as Florida's Good Samaritan Act and provides, in part:

> (2)(a) Any person, including those licensed to practice medicine, who gratuitously and in good faith renders emergency care or treatment either in direct response to emergency situations related to and arising out of a public health emergency declared pursuant to s. 381.00315, a state of emergency which has been declared pursuant to s. 252.36, or at the scene of an emergency outside of a hospital, doctor's office, or other place having proper medical equipment, without objection of the injured victim or victims thereof, shall not be held liable for any civil damages as a result of such care or treatment or as a result of any act or failure to act in providing or arranging further medical treatment where the person acts as an ordinary reasonably prudent person would have acted under the same or similar circumstances.
> (b)1. Any health care provider, including a hospital licensed under chapter 395, providing emergency services pursuant to obligations imposed by 42 U.S.C. s. 1395dd, s. 395.1041, s. 395.401, or s. 401.45

[17] Section 1.01, F.S., defines "person" to include individuals, children, firms, associations, joint adventures, partnerships, estates, trusts, business trusts, syndicates, fiduciaries, corporations, and all other groups or combinations.

shall not be held liable for any civil damages as a result of such medical care or treatment unless such damages result from providing, or failing to provide, medical care or treatment under circumstances demonstrating a reckless disregard for the consequences so as to affect the life or health of another.

Section 3 provides that the bill's effective date is July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under PCS/CS/SB 1122, private "authorized entities," such as restaurants, camps, youth sports, private schools, theme parks, and sports arenas could incur costs to stock and maintain the epinephrine auto-injectors. This is voluntary and the cost is indeterminate.

Immunity from civil liability has also been provided under the bill to certified organizations and certificate holders to encourage participation.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The DOH is required to establish rules and indicates that these costs can be absorbed within existing resources.

Other governmental agencies that may be impacted are any local municipalities or school boards that elect certification as an authorized entity for storage and maintenance of epinephrine auto-injectors. School districts, individual schools, parks, and recreation departments would likely be entities that participate in the program.

There is a cost to acquire the epinephrine auto-injectors and it is unclear who would bear the cost of the prescription. At least one distributor of the medication provides a limited, free supply of auto-injectors to schools.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

There are three other state statutes that address administration of epinephrine auto-injectors:

- Section 1002.20, F.S., relating to epinephrine supplies and authorization for student self-administration in public schools;
- Section 1002.42, F.S., relating to epinephrine supplies and authorization for student self-administration in private schools; and,
- Section 465.189, F.S.; relating to pharmacist administration of vaccines and epinephrine auto-injections.

All of these statutes require the third party (the school or the pharmacist) to have an approved protocol with a supervising physician prior to administration of epinephrine auto-injectors. The school-related statutes address only self-administered injections by a student authorized to self-administer, and by rule, the state Board of Education has required written authorization from the physician and the student's parent for the student to carry and self-administer epinephrine.

The bill describes a school as an authorized entity only for the purposes of s. 381.88(5), F.S., which refers to the bill's provisions for educational training programs. Section 1002.20(3)(i), F.S., already authorizes schools to purchase epinephrine auto-injectors from wholesale distributors and to maintain a supply of injectors in a secure, locked location for student use. It is unclear if the intent of the bill is to limit the role of the schools to only being an authorized entity for training and preclude them as sites for storage, administration, or distribution to certified individuals as created under this bill. A certificate of training may still be issued to a school teacher under the bill, yet the schools appear to be limited to student self-administration under s. 1002.20, F.S., since they are authorized entities only for training.

For pharmacists administering epinephrine auto-injectors, the bill also requires continuing education credit on the safe and effective administration of vaccines and epinephrine auto-injection as part of their biennial re-licensure or recertification. It is unclear whether a pharmacist – who is not precluded under the bill from being recognized as an authorized entity or certificate holder – would be required to complete both the continuing education requirements under s. 465.009(6)(a), F.S., and the education training program, or whether completion of one of the requirements would be sufficient.

In lines 123 to 127, the person who is believed to be suffering an adverse allergic reaction is not required to provide consent for treatment, if he or she is capable. The student self-administration requirements specifically require parental and physician authorization for the epinephrine auto-injector. In any other situation where medical care is rendered, authorization for medical treatment is required if the person who is believed to need treatment is capable.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends section 381.88 of the Florida Statutes.

This bill creates section 381.885 of the Florida Statutes.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1122 renames the Insect Sting Emergency Treatment Act to the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act and expands the scope to include all emergency allergy reactions.

The educational training for certification of those who may administer epinephrine must be conducted by a nationally recognized organization or an individual or entity approved by the Department of Health (DOH), rather than a physician. Eligible persons include, but are not limited to, camp counselors, scout leaders, school teachers, forest rangers, tour guides, and chaperones who successfully complete the training program.

The bill replaces references to outdated epinephrine delivery devices and specifies the use and prescription of epinephrine auto-injectors.

The bill provides immunity from civil liability to certain persons who possess, administer, or store an epinephrine auto-injector in compliance with the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act under specified parameters.

The bill has an insignificant fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Anaphylaxis is a severe, whole-body allergic reaction to a chemical that has become an allergen.[1] The human body releases chemicals during anaphylaxis that can cause shock, resulting in a sudden drop in blood pressure and the release of histamines, which may restrict breathing.[2] Symptoms of anaphylaxis include rapid, weak pulse; skin rash; nausea; and vomiting.[3] Common causes include certain medications, some foods, insect bites or stings, and exposure to latex.[4] Food allergies alone affect approximately 3.8 percent of all United States children, and the prevalence of such allergies has increased by 18 percent from 1997 to 2007.[5] Food allergies are also the most common cause of anaphylaxis cases in hospital emergency rooms.[6]

Anaphylaxis is an emergency situation that requires immediate medical attention. If anaphylaxis is not treated, it will lead to unconsciousness and possible death. Symptoms can vary but can include hives, itching, flushing, swelling of the lips, tongue, and roof of the mouth, tightness of the throat and chest, dizziness, and headaches.

Initial treatment of anaphylaxis includes the administration of epinephrine, also known as adrenaline. Epinephrine is classified as a sympathomimetic drug, meaning its effects mimic those of the stimulated sympathetic nervous system, which stimulates the heart and narrows the blood vessels. It is available through a prescription from a physician.

Many individuals with severe allergies that have resulted in, or can result in, anaphylaxis carry a pre-filled, auto-injector that contains one dose of epinephrine such as an EpiPen or Twinject.[7] Epinephrine acts quickly by stimulating the heart to improve breathing, relaxing muscles in the airways, and tightening blood vessels to reduce swelling of the face, lips, and throat. The effects of epinephrine are rapid, but not long-lasting.[8] When injected, epinephrine eases the symptoms until professional medical treatment is obtained.

In 2012, the Legislature authorized pharmacists to administer – in the event of an allergic reaction – epinephrine using an auto-injection delivery system within the framework of an established protocol with a physician. This provision was included in legislation that expanded pharmacists' existing authority to administer certain vaccinations under a protocol with a supervising physician.[9] The legislation further required any participating pharmacist to complete a three-hour continuing education course as part of his or her re-licensure or recertification on the safe and effective administration of vaccines and epinephrine.[10]

For public and private schools, the 2013 Legislature authorized the purchase and maintenance of a supply of epinephrine auto-injectors in a secure, locked location on school premises for use if a student has an anaphylactic reaction.[11] Any participating school district or private school is required to adopt a protocol developed by a licensed physician for administration of the epinephrine by school personnel. The epinephrine auto-injectors may be administered by school personnel or self-administered by the student.

The state Board of Education's rule for the use of epinephrine auto-injectors is based solely on self-administration.[12] The rule provides that the auto-injector is a prescription medication in a specific dose-for-weight device that is packaged for self-delivery in the event of a life threatening allergic reaction. Written authorization is required from the physician and parent for the student to carry an epinephrine auto-injector and to self-administer epinephrine. The rule requires a school nurse to develop an annual child-specific action plan for an anticipated health emergency in the school setting.[13]

In November 2013, Congress passed and the President Barack Obama signed the School Access to Emergency Epinephrine Act.[14] The federal legislation provides a financial incentive for schools to maintain a supply of the medication and permit trained personnel to administer it. Participating schools will be given additional preference for receiving federal asthma-treatment grants. The federal act also requires that a state attorney general certify that the state's liability protections are adequate for school personnel. Currently, five states require or will require schools to stock epinephrine in the next school year.[15]

The marketer and distributer of the EpiPen, Mylan Specialty, offers four free auto-injectors to qualifying public and private kindergarten, elementary, middle, and high schools in the United States with a valid prescription.[16]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 381.88, F.S. This section, and newly created s. 381.885, F.S., may be cited as the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act. Section 381.88, F.S., was previously the Insect Sting Emergency Treatment Act. Definitions for the re-titled act are created for:

- Authorized health care practitioner
- Department
- Epinephrine auto-injector
- Self-administration

Under this section, references to "insect stings" are revised to "allergic" reactions to reflect the broader scope of the bill. References to the prescription or administration of epinephrine are clarified to specifically identify the epinephrine auto-injector.

Under the bill, the educational training program required for a layperson to obtain a certificate to obtain, produce, or administer epinephrine must be conducted by a nationally recognized organization with experience in training laypersons in emergency health treatment or an entity approved by the DOH, rather than a physician licensed in this state.

The list of eligible persons to whom a certificate of training under this section may be awarded is clarified to include, but not be limited to, a camp counselor, a scout leader, school teacher, forest ranger, tour guide, or chaperone who successfully completes the training program. The current list is an exclusive list of eligible entities.

Under the bill, a certificate holder is authorized to:
- Receive a prescription for epinephrine auto-injectors from either an authorized health care practitioner or the DOH;
- Possess the prescribed epinephrine auto-injector; and
- Administer the prescribed epinephrine auto-injector to a person experiencing a severe allergic reaction when a physician is not immediately available.

Section 2 creates s. 381.885, F.S., to permit an authorized health care practitioner to prescribe epinephrine auto-injectors to an authorized entity and authorizes pharmacists to dispense the prescription in the name of the authorized entity. The authorized entity is permitted to acquire and maintain a supply of epinephrine auto-injectors in accordance with the auto-injectors' instructions and any additional requirements established by the DOH. The authorized entity is also permitted to designate employees or agents who hold a certificate that is issued under s. 381.88, F.S., to be responsible for the storage, maintenance, and oversight of the epinephrine auto-injector supply.

The bill provides authorization for individuals who hold a certificate from the training program to use the epinephrine auto-injectors to:
- Provide to a person who the certified individual believes, in good faith, is experiencing a severe allergic reaction for that person's immediate self-administration; or
- Administer the epinephrine auto-injector to a person who the certified individual believes, in good faith, is experiencing a severe allergic reaction.

Use of the epinephrine auto-injector by the certified individual under either scenario may occur under the bill regardless of whether the affected person has a prescription or has been previously diagnosed with an allergy.

An authorized entity that acquires a stock supply of epinephrine auto-injectors via prescription from an authorized health care practitioner may also make the auto-injectors available to non-certified individuals. These non-certified individuals may administer the auto-injector in the following circumstances:

- Non-certified individual believes, in good faith, that a person is experiencing severe allergic reaction;
- The auto-injector is stored in a locked, secure container; and
- The auto-injectors can only be accessed upon remote authorization by an authorized health care provider after consultation with the authorized health care practitioner by audio, televideo, or other electronic communication. The bill provides that this consultation is not the practice of telemedicine or a violation of professional practice standards.

The administration of epinephrine auto-injectors under this section is specifically identified as not the practice of medicine.

The bill provides immunity from civil liability to any person, as defined in s. 1.01,[17] who possesses, administers, or stores an epinephrine auto-injectors under the bill, including:

- An authorized health care practitioner;
- A dispensing health care practitioner or pharmacist;
- Any person certified under the Emergency Allergy Treatment Act;
- Any non-certified individual who receives an epinephrine auto-injectors from an authorized entity for purposes of administering it to another person suffering from a severe allergic reaction; and
- A trainer who conducts an educational training program for recognizing the symptoms of a severe allergic reaction and administering an epinephrine auto-injectors.

The immunity granted under CS/CS/SB 1122 is, by reference, identical to the immunity provided under s. 768.13, F.S. This section is known as Florida's Good Samaritan Act and provides, in part:

> (2)(a) Any person, including those licensed to practice medicine, who gratuitously and in good faith renders emergency care or treatment either in direct response to emergency situations related to and arising out of a public health emergency declared pursuant to s. 381.00315, a state of emergency which has been declared pursuant to s. 252.36, or at the scene of an emergency outside of a hospital, doctor's office, or other place having proper medical equipment, without objection of the injured victim or victims thereof, shall not be held liable for any civil damages as a result of such care or treatment or as a result of any act or failure to act in providing or arranging further medical treatment where the person acts as an ordinary reasonably prudent person would have acted under the same or similar circumstances.
> (b)1. Any health care provider, including a hospital licensed under chapter 395, providing emergency services pursuant to obligations imposed by 42 U.S.C. s. 1395dd, s. 395.1041, s. 395.401, or s. 401.45

[17] Section 1.01, F.S., defines "person" to include individuals, children, firms, associations, joint adventures, partnerships, estates, trusts, business trusts, syndicates, fiduciaries, corporations, and all other groups or combinations.

shall not be held liable for any civil damages as a result of such medical care or treatment unless such damages result from providing, or failing to provide, medical care or treatment under circumstances demonstrating a reckless disregard for the consequences so as to affect the life or health of another.

Section 3 provides that the bill's effective date is July 1, 2014.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Under CS/CS/SB 1122, private "authorized entities," such as restaurants, camps, youth sports, private schools, theme parks, and sports arenas could incur costs to stock and maintain the epinephrine auto-injectors. This is voluntary and the cost is indeterminate.

Immunity from civil liability has also been provided under the bill to certified organizations and certificate holders to encourage participation.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The DOH is required to establish rules and indicates that these costs can be absorbed within existing resources.

Other governmental agencies that may be impacted are any local municipalities or school boards that elect certification as an authorized entity for storage and maintenance of epinephrine auto-injectors. School districts, individual schools, parks, and recreation departments would likely be entities that participate in the program.

There is a cost to acquire the epinephrine auto-injectors and it is unclear who would bear the cost of the prescription. At least one distributor of the medication provides a limited, free supply of auto-injectors to schools.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

There are three other state statutes that address administration of epinephrine auto-injectors:

- Section 1002.20, F.S., relating to epinephrine supplies and authorization for student self-administration in public schools;
- Section 1002.42, F.S., relating to epinephrine supplies and authorization for student self-administration in private schools; and,
- Section 465.189, F.S.; relating to pharmacist administration of vaccines and epinephrine auto-injections.

All of these statutes require the third party (the school or the pharmacist) to have an approved protocol with a supervising physician prior to administration of epinephrine auto-injectors. The school-related statutes address only self-administered injections by a student authorized to self-administer, and by rule, the state Board of Education has required written authorization from the physician and the student's parent for the student to carry and self-administer epinephrine.

The bill describes a school as an authorized entity only for the purposes of s. 381.88(5), F.S., which refers to the bill's provisions for educational training programs. Section 1002.20(3)(i), F.S., already authorizes schools to purchase epinephrine auto-injectors from wholesale distributors and to maintain a supply of injectors in a secure, locked location for student use. It is unclear if the intent of the bill is to limit the role of the schools to only being an authorized entity for training and preclude them as sites for storage, administration, or distribution to certified individuals as created under this bill. A certificate of training may still be issued to a school teacher under the bill, yet the schools appear to be limited to student self-administration under s. 1002.20, F.S., since they are authorized entities only for training.

For pharmacists administering epinephrine auto-injectors, the bill also requires continuing education credit on the safe and effective administration of vaccines and epinephrine auto-injection as part of their biennial re-licensure or recertification. It is unclear whether a pharmacist – who is not precluded under the bill from being recognized as an authorized entity or certificate holder – would be required to complete both the continuing education requirements under s. 465.009(6)(a), F.S., and the education training program, or whether completion of one of the requirements would be sufficient.

In lines 123 to 127, the person who is believed to be suffering an adverse allergic reaction is not required to provide consent for treatment, if he or she is capable. The student self-administration requirements specifically require parental and physician authorization for the epinephrine auto-injector. In any other situation where medical care is rendered, authorization for medical treatment is required if the person who is believed to need treatment is capable.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends section 381.88 of the Florida Statutes.

This bill creates section 381.885 of the Florida Statutes.

An authorized entity shall designate employees or agents who hold a certificate issued pursuant to s. 381.88 to be responsible for the storage, maintenance, and general oversight of epinephrine auto-injectors acquired by the authorized entity.

(3) USE OF EPINEPHRINE AUTO-INJECTORS.—An individual who holds a certificate issued pursuant to s. 381.88 may, on the premises of or in connection with the authorized entity, use epinephrine auto-injectors prescribed pursuant to subsection (1) to:

(a) Provide an epinephrine auto-injector to a person who the certified individual in good faith believes is experiencing a severe allergic reaction for that person's immediate self-administration, regardless of whether the person has a prescription for an epinephrine auto-injector or has previously been diagnosed with an allergy.

(b) Administer an epinephrine auto-injector to a person who the certified individual in good faith believes is experiencing a severe allergic reaction, regardless of whether the person has a prescription for an epinephrine auto-injector or has previously been diagnosed with an allergy.

(4) EXPANDED AVAILABILITY.—An authorized entity that acquires a stock supply of epinephrine auto-injectors pursuant to a prescription issued by an authorized health care practitioner in accordance with this section may make the auto-injectors available to individuals other than certified individuals identified in subsection (3) who may administer the auto-injector to a person believed in good faith to be experiencing a severe allergic reaction if the epinephrine auto-injectors are stored in a locked, secure container and are made available only upon remote authorization by an authorized health care practitioner after consultation with the authorized health care practitioner by audio, televideo, or other similar means of electronic communication. Consultation with an authorized health care practitioner for this purpose is not considered the practice of telemedicine or otherwise construed as violating any law or rule regulating the authorized health care practitioner's professional practice.

(5) IMMUNITY FROM LIABILITY.—

(a) The administration of an epinephrine auto-injector in accordance with this section is not the practice of medicine.

(b) Any authorized health care practitioner who prescribes epinephrine auto-injectors to an authorized entity or to an individual that holds a certificate issued pursuant to s. 381.88; any authorized entity that possesses and makes available epinephrine auto-injectors; any individual who holds a certificate issued pursuant to s. 381.88; any noncertified individual under subsection (4); and any person that conducts the training under s. 381.88 is not liable for civil damages that result from the administration or self-administration of an epinephrine auto-injector, the failure to administer an epinephrine auto-injector, or any other act or omission committed, in good faith, pursuant to this section or s. 381.88.

(c) An authorized entity doing business in this state is not liable for injuries or related damages that result from the provision or administration of an epinephrine auto-injector by its employees or agents outside this state if the entity or its employees or agents would not have been liable for such injuries or related damages had the provision or administration occurred within this state, or would not have been liable under the law of the state in which such provision or administration occurred.

(d) This section does not eliminate, limit, or reduce any other immunity or defense that may be available under state law, including the immunity provided under s. 768.13.

Section 3. This act shall take effect July 1, 2014.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 1126 amends statutes relating to the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC). The bill:

- Requires boating law violators to complete a mandatory boating safety course in person or online;
- Extends the FWC's anchoring and mooring pilot program until July 1, 2017, and requires an updated report by Jan. 1, 2017;
- Expands uses of the Marine Resources Conservation Trust Fund to include additional boating-related projects;
- Repeals the fee the FWC is authorized to charge for hunting on areas subject to cooperative agreements between the FWC and the U.S. Forest Service (Forest Service);
- Repeals a provision permitting trawling for shrimp for personal use in the St. Johns River;
- Specifies that the annual military gold sportsman's license authorizes the same activities as the annual gold sportsman's license;
- Eliminates the Special Recreational Spiny Lobster license;
- Repeals the fees for the freshwater trawl seine gear license and the statewide freshwater haul seine gear license. It also repeals the ability to charge fees for the Lake Okeechobee haul and trawl seine permits; and
- Makes technical and conforming changes.

The bill has an insignificant negative fiscal impact on revenues relating to the repeal of fees on freshwater haul and trawl seines.

II. Present Situation:

The present situation for the relevant provisions of the bill is discussed in the Effect of Proposed Changes section of this bill analysis.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Boating Safety Education for Boating Law Violators (Sections 1 and 3):

Section 327.395(1), F.S., requires that, subject to exceptions listed in s. 327.395(6), F.S., a person born on or after January 1, 1988, may not operate a vessel powered by a motor of 10 horsepower or greater unless that person has a photographic identification and a boater safety identification card issued by the Fish and Wildlife Commission (FWC), which shows he or she has:

- Completed an FWC approved boater education course that meets the minimum eight-hour instruction requirement established by the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators;
- Passed a course equivalency examination approved by the FWC; or
- Passed a temporary certificate examination developed or approved by the FWC.

The boater safety education course covers a broad range of subjects designed to educate boaters on safe boating in Florida.[1] The boater safety education course may be taken in person, in a classroom, or online.[2] Failure to comply with the boating safety education requirement is a noncriminal infraction under s. 327.395(7), F.S., and is punishable with a $50 fine.

For violations of certain FWC rules related to boating, the boating safety education and/or a mandatory education for violators (MEV) course is required. These courses must be completed following the date of the violation that triggered the education requirement. The courses may not be taken online.[3]

The MEV course must, at a minimum, cover:

- Florida boating laws;
- Causes and prevention of boating accidents;
- The importance of wearing personal flotation devices;
- The use of common sense and common courtesy; and
- Operating defensively.[4]

If convicted of two non-criminal infractions within a 12-month period, the violator must take the boating safety course. If convicted of any criminal boating violation or convicted of any infraction that includes a reportable boating accident, the person must take the boating safety course and the MEV course.[5]

Criminal violations of ch. 327, F.S., include:

- Unlawfully leaving the scene of a boating accident;[6]
- Reckless operation of a vessel of personal watercraft;[7] or
- Boating under the influence of alcohol or drugs.[8]

Reportable boating accidents are accidents that involve:

- Personal injury requiring medical treatment beyond first aid;
- The death of a person;
- The disappearance of a person under circumstances that indicate the possibility of death or injury; or
- Damage to a vessel or other property totaling $2,000 or more.[9]

Section 327.355(5)(c), F.S., requires any person under the age of 21 who is convicted of being in control of a vessel with a breath-alcohol level of 0.02 or higher to enroll in, attend, and complete only the boater safety education course.[10]

Approximately 500 boaters are required to complete MEV courses each year.[11] The courses are not offered online. Section 327.731, F.S., authorizes the FWC to provide by rule for waivers of the attendance requirement for violators residing in areas where classroom presentation of the course is not available.[12]

When ss. 327.355[13] and 327.731, F.S.,[14] were adopted, boating safety education courses were available only in a classroom setting or through home study courses. The home study course consists of a booklet containing the course material, the test, and the test sheet. Home study students take the course and complete the test at their leisure and without any oversight. Section 327.731, F.S., was changed to require classroom attendance, in part because of a concern about a lack of supervision for the home study course.[15]

There were no online boating safety courses available in Florida when the requirement to attend courses for violations was instituted.[16] With advances in technology, online courses have been growing in availability and popularity, and classroom course offerings have been declining. Over sixty percent of students who take an approved basic boating safety course in Florida do so online.[17]

Of the 500 people required to complete the boater safety education courses each year, approximately 50 complaints are received concerning the difficulty people have in finding a course within a reasonable distance.[18]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 1 amends s. 327.355, F.S., providing that operators of vessels by persons under 21 years of age who have consumed alcoholic beverages must complete a boater safety education course at their own expense and may take the course in a classroom or online.

Section 3 amends s. 327.731, F.S., provides the option of taking the boater education safety course in a classroom or online. It also removes the FWC's rulemaking authority to waive the attendance requirement in areas where the class is not available. Lastly, it removes the exemption from taking the boater safety education course if the violator has previously taken a boater safety education course.

Anchoring and Mooring Pilot Program (Section 2):

Local governments face problems resolving issues with improperly stored, abandoned, and derelict boats. They must also interact with homeowners who dislike vessels anchored close to their residences and address property damage resulting from vessels breaking loose during weather events. These considerations present complex issues for local governments that want to regulate anchoring but have no legal means to do so outside properly permitted mooring fields.[19]

In 2009, the Florida Legislature directed the FWC, in consultation with the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, to establish a pilot program to explore potential options for regulating the anchoring or mooring of non-live-aboard vessels outside the marked boundaries of public mooring fields. This has come to be called the "Anchoring and Mooring Pilot Program."[20]

The purpose of establishing the pilot program in five locations is to test policies and regulatory schemes that:

- Promote the establishment and use of public mooring fields;
- Promote public access to the waters of the state;
- Enhance navigational safety;
- Protect maritime infrastructure;
- Protect the environment; and
- Deter improperly stored, abandoned, or derelict vessels.[21]

The State of Florida has jurisdiction over the anchoring or mooring of non-live-aboard vessels outside the marked boundaries of public mooring fields. Local governments have jurisdiction over the anchoring and mooring of live-aboard vessels and vessels within their permitted mooring fields. The program seeks to explore the question of how much authority local governments should have with respect to vessels anchoring within their jurisdictions.[22]

Multiple locations were chosen to allow for the study of different approaches to the issue. The locations chosen for the pilot program are the cities of St. Augustine, St. Petersburg, and Sarasota, and Martin, and Monroe counties.[23]

General provisions of the program in St. Augustine provide examples of some of the approaches being taken, including:

- Buffer zones preventing anchoring near marine infrastructure;
- Buffer zones around sensitive environmental resources such as shellfish harvesting areas;
- Check-in provisions requiring stored vessels to navigate to the city marina twice a year; and
- Provisions providing limits on the amount of time an occupied vessel may stay anchored before it has to either move out of the jurisdiction for one day or move to one of the city's mooring fields.[24]

The pilot program is set to expire on July 1, 2014.[25] The latest program status report states that an extension of the program is necessary to "more fully evaluate each of the pilot program locations and assess effectiveness through continued data collection and public input opportunities."[26]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 2 amends s. 327.4105, F.S., extending the Anchoring and Mooring Pilot Program to July 1, 2017, and requiring an updated report on January 1, 2017.

Use of Vessel Registration Fees (Section 4):

Section 328.72, F.S., relates to vessel registration fees. The section details fees for seven classifications of vessels and the fee for a dealer registration certificate.[27] It also specifies the portion of each fee that is remitted to the county in which the vessel is registered. The fee schedule is based on boat length:

- Class A-1 - Less than 12 feet in length, and all canoes to which propulsion motors have been attached, regardless of length: $5.50 for each 12-month period registered;
- Class A-2 - 12 feet or more and less than 16 feet in length: $16.25 for each 12-month period registered; County portion: $2.85 for each 12-month period registered;
- Class 1 - 16 feet or more and less than 26 feet in length: $28.75 for each 12-month period registered. County portion: $8.85 for each 12-month period registered;
- Class 2 - 26 feet or more and less than 40 feet in length: $78.25 for each 12-month period registered. County portion: $32.85 for each 12-month period registered;

- Class 3 - 40 feet or more and less than 65 feet in length: $127.75 for each 12-month period registered. County portion: $56.85 for each 12-month period registered;
- Class 4 - 65 feet or more and less than 110 feet in length: $152.75 for each 12-month period registered. County portion: $68.85 for each 12-month period registered; and
- Class 5 - 110 feet or more in length: $189.75 for each 12-month period registered. County portion: $86.85 for each 12-month period registered.[28]

There are restrictions on what the funds remitted to the county may be used for. Specifically, they can be spent to provide for:

- Recreational channel marking and other uniform water markers;
- Public boat ramps;
- Lifts and hoists;
- Marine railways and other public launching facilities;
- Derelict vessel removal; and
- Removal of vessels and floating structures deemed a hazard to public safety and health for failure to comply with s. 327.53, F.S., which concerns marine sanitation.[29]

These designated uses do not allow for any other uses of the registration fees remitted to the counties, even if they could also be used for other marine and boating related projects and uses, such as piers and docks.[30] It allows for the removal of derelict vessels, but does not allow for the removal of waterway debris, which may inhibit navigation.[31] The statute allows for construction of boat ramps, uniform waterway markers, and other boat access facilities but it does not provide for operation and maintenance of them.[32]

Counties must report yearly on how vessel registration fees are used.[33] The FWC reports that counties frequently ask the FWC if they may use the fees for the benefit of the boating community and in keeping with the spirit of the statute. However, any uses not specifically permitted by statute are not allowed.[34]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 4 amends s. 328.72, F.S., expanding the list of acceptable uses of county portions of vessel registration fees. This expansion:

- Provides for the maintenance and operation of channel markers, public boat ramps, lifts, hoists, marine railways, boat piers, docks, mooring buoys, and other public launching facilities, the removal of derelict vessels, and debris that impedes boat access;
- Adds boat piers, docks, and mooring buoys to the list of projects that may be funded by county vessel registration fees;
- Allows the removal of debris that impedes boat access; and
- Provides that the fees may not be used for dredging channels.

Cooperative Agreements between the FWC and the U.S. Forest Service (Forest Service) (Section 5):

The FWC is authorized to enter into cooperative agreements with the Forest Service to develop game bird, fish, reptile, or fur-bearing animal management and demonstration projects.[35] The law also provides that, in addition to the hunting license fees already required, the FWC may charge up to an additional $5 for every person 18 years of age or older using lands covered by the cooperative agreements, and up to an additional $2 for every person under the age of 18, using lands covered by the cooperative agreement.[36] Neither the FWC, nor its predecessor, the Game and Freshwater Fish Commission, has charged those fees since at least 1978.[37]

The FWC issues a management area permit to hunt on lands owned, leased, or managed by the FWC. The fee may not exceed $30 per year.[38] Currently, the annual management area permit costs $26.50.[39] Even if the additional fees were being charged, they would be much less than the current fee.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 5 repeals s. 379.2257(3), F.S., eliminating the ability to charge a fee in addition to the fee for a hunting license on land subject to cooperative agreements with the Forest Service.

Non-commercial Shrimp Trawling for Personal Food Use in the St. Johns River (Section 6):

Section 379.247(5), F.S., authorizes noncommercial trawling for shrimp in the St. Johns River for personal use as food. To do so, each person wanting to trawl for shrimp must obtain a permit, costing $50. All trawling is restricted to the St. Johns River north of the Acosta Bridge in Jacksonville, Florida, and none of the shrimp that are caught under the permit may be sold or offered for sale.[40]

In January 1996, the Marine Fisheries Commission (predecessor to the FWC) adopted a rule prohibiting the use of trawls in the recreational shrimp fishery.[41] Since then, no noncommercial permits have been issued.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 6 repeals s. 379.247(5), F.S., removing authorization for noncommercial shrimp trawling. The bill also amends s. 379.247(4)(d), F.S., making a conforming change by removing a prohibition on holding a commercial dead shrimp permit and a noncommercial dead shrimp

Recreational Hunting and Fishing License Exemptions (Section 7):

A person who wants to hunt or fish recreationally in Florida must obtain a recreational license, permit, or authorization number and pay the appropriate fee.[42] Section 379.353(2), F.S., exempts specified individuals from having to possess a recreational license while hunting or fishing. Section 379.353(2)(g), F.S., provides an exemption for any person fishing who has been accepted as a client for developmental disabilities services by the Department of Children and Family Service (DCF), provided the DCF furnishes the necessary proof.

In 2004, HB 1823 was signed into law, creating the Agency for Persons with Disabilities (APD) as an entity separate from the DCF.[43] The APD was subsequently tasked with serving the needs of Floridians with developmental disabilities. Consequently, s. 379.353(2)(g), F.S., has an incorrect statutory reference.

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 7 amends s. 379.353, F.S., to correct the incorrect reference to DCF. The bill correctly references the APD.

Resident Hunting and Fishing Licenses (Section 8):

There are several recreational hunting licenses offered by the FWC. The two licenses relevant to this analysis are the annual gold sportsman's license and the annual military gold sportsman's license. Both licenses include hunting, freshwater and saltwater fishing licenses; and wildlife management area, archery, muzzleloading gun, crossbow, deer, turkey, Florida waterfowl, snook, and lobster permits. The only difference between the two licenses is cost – $100 for the regular license and $20 for the military one.[44]

The annual military gold sportsman's license is available to:

- All active duty military personnel who can show military orders stating that they are stationed in Florida;
- Florida residents who are active duty military personnel, stationed anywhere, and who can show a current military identification card and a Florida driver license; and
- Resident retired military persons who can show a current red or blue military identification card and proof of Florida residency.

This license is not available to family members unless they are also active duty or retired.[45]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 8 amends s. 379.354, F.S., clarifying that the authorized activities granted by annual military gold sportsman's license are the same as the annual gold sportsman's license. The bill has no substantive effect because the authorized activities under each license are currently identical.

Repeal of the Special Recreational Spiny Lobster Permit (Section 9):

Spiny lobster may be harvested both commercially and recreationally. Spiny lobsters and stone crabs may be harvested recreationally by anyone who has a valid recreational saltwater fishing license and a spiny lobster permit.[46] The spiny lobster bag limit during the regular recreational spiny lobster season is six spiny lobsters per person per day. During the two-day sport season, the recreational bag limit is 12 spiny lobster per person per day, except in Monroe County, where the limit is six spiny lobsters per day. For commercial fishermen fishing during the commercial season, there is no bag limit when using traps.[47]

In order to harvest spiny lobster commercially, fishermen must possess a saltwater products license (SPL) and a restricted species (RS) and crawfish endorsement.

Florida offers three types of SPLs:[48]

- An individual SPL authorizes one individual person to engage in commercial fishing activities from the shore or a vessel. The Individual SPL is not tied to any one vessel and is issued in the individual's name.
- A crew SPL is also issued in an individual's name and authorizes the named individual to engage in commercial fishing activities from shore or a vessel. It also authorizes each person who is fishing with the named individual aboard a vessel to engage in such activities. This means the license holder can take a crew out on any vessel to harvest saltwater fish and the SPL covers the crew as well.
- A vessel SPL is issued to a valid commercial vessel registration number and authorizes each person aboard that registered vessel to engage in commercial saltwater fishing activities. Unlike the first two SPLs, the vessel SPL is tied to a vessel rather than a person.

The cost for each license:[49]

SPL Type	Florida Resident	Non-Resident	Alien
Individual	$50.00	$200.00	$300.00
Crew	$150.00	$600.00	$900.00
Vessel	$100.00	$400.00	$600.00

[48] Section 379.361(2)(e)1.-3., F.S.
[49] FWC, Commercial Saltwater Products License Fees, http://myfwc.com/license/saltwater/commercial-fishing/csl-fees/ (last visited Mar. 16, 2014).

In addition to an SPL, a restricted species endorsement (RS) is required to commercially harvest and sell the following species: amberjack, bluefish, cobia, dolphin, black drum, flounder, golden tilefish, most types of grouper, hogfish (hog snapper), jack, king and Spanish mackerel, mullet, permit fish, pompano, red porgy, rudderfish, sea bass, spotted seatrout, sheepshead, most types of snapper, tripletail, wahoo, blue crab, stone crab, spiny lobster, and most types of shrimp.[50]

There is no cost to acquire an RS. Licensed commercial fishermen must qualify by showing proof of landings (actual saltwater products harvested and brought to shore) reported under their SPLs that indicate either $5,000 or 25 percent of their total annual income during one of the previous three years was attributable to reported landings and sales of saltwater products to a Florida wholesale dealer unless the fisherman qualifies for an exemption.[51]

The spiny lobster was designated a restricted species in 1994.[52] That same year, the Florida Legislature created the special recreational spiny lobster license.[53] The license was available to any individual with a spiny lobster trap number who also had an SPL during the 1993-1994 license year.[54] People issued the license were precluded from having both the special recreational spiny lobster license and a trap number. They were required, however, to have a recreational spiny lobster license.[55] The total number of special recreational spiny lobster licenses is limited to the number of licenses issued during the 1994-1995 license year.[56]

Provisions for receiving a special recreational crawfish license are detailed in rule 68B-24.0035, Florida Administrative Code (F.A.C.). The rule specifies that beginning with the 2012-2013 license year and every year thereafter, no special recreational spiny recreational spiny lobster license are to be issued or renewed.[57] Rule 68B-24.004, F.A.C, established Special Recreational Spiny Lobster bag limits. Starting in the 2003-2004 permit year, the bag limit was 50 spiny lobsters. Every year thereafter, the bag limit was reduced by five. The current bag limit is less than the recreational harvest limit of six spiny lobsters per day.[58]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 9 repeals s. 379.355, F.S., eliminating the special recreational spiny lobster license, which is outdated and has no effect since the bag limit is now less than the recreational bag limit. By rule, no special recreational spiny lobster licenses are being issued as of the 2012-2013 license year.

Haul and Trawl Seine Annual Gear License Fees (Section 10):

All commercial fishermen permitted to fish in freshwaters with trawl seine nets (baglike nets that are pulled behind a boat to harvest fish) are required to pay a $50 annual gear license fee.[59] All commercial fishermen permitted to fish in freshwaters with haul seines (long nets pulled by boats to harvest fish) must pay a $100 annual gear license fee.[60] Both fees have remained unchanged since 1978.[61]

The FWC issues five freshwater haul seine annual gear licenses each year, which are limited for use in Polk County.[62] The number of permits that may be issued annually is five.[63] The FWC has not issued a statewide trawl seine license in more than 25 years.[64]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 10 repeals s. 379.363(h) and (i), F.S., removing the annual gear license fees for trawl and haul seine nets.

Haul and Trawl Seine Permits in Lake Okeechobee (Section 11):

The FWC is authorized to issue permits for the commercial use of haul or trawl seines on Lake Okeechobee.[65] The three permits that may be issued by the FWC and their fees are:

- Resident trawl seine permit: $50;
- Resident haul seine permit: $100; and
- Nonresident trawl or haul seine permit: $500.[66]

Currently, the FWC issues six resident haul seine permits for commercial activity on Lake Okeechobee. Permits for resident trawl seines for commercial activity have not been issued in over 30 years and nonresident trawl or haul seine permits have never been issued.[67]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Section 11 repeals s. 379.3635, F.S., eliminating the FWC's authority to charge fees for haul or trawl seines in Lake Okeechobee. The FWC may still issue permits under its constitutional authority. This only eliminates the ability to charge fees.

Sections 12-14 amend ss. 373.101, 379.208, and 379.401, F.S., respectively, making conforming and cross-reference changes.

Section 15 provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

Because the fees for mandatory education for violators (MEV) classroom courses tend to be higher than for online courses, there may be a negative effect on businesses offering those courses. However, these businesses may offer the online courses as well, so the impact will likely be minimal. The ability to take the MEV course online will benefit those who would otherwise have to travel a significant distance to take the course in person. The online course may also cost less.

Repealing permit fees for haul and trawl seines will have a positive effect on those using those permits to fish, but given the number of permits issued, the effect will be minimal.

C. Government Sector Impact:

According to the Fish and Wildlife Commission (FWC), the repeal of fees on freshwater haul and trawl seines will have a minimal negative effect on revenues. Currently, the FWC only collects $500 for freshwater haul seine annual gear licenses, and $600 for Lake Okeechobee haul seine permits on an annual basis. There is no negative revenue impact to the other fees being repealed as they are obsolete and are not currently being collected.

Expanding the uses of vessel registration funds distributed to counties for boating related activities will allow increased flexibility for county expenditures. The bill does not provide an increases in the distribution of vessel registration funds to counties.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 327.355, 327.4105, 327.731, 328.72, 379.101, 379.208, 379.247, 379.353, 379.354, and 379.401.

This bill repeals the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 379.2257(3), 379.355, 379.363(1)(h) and (i), and 379.3635.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 1206 establishes a process by which industry certifications for farm occupations are added to the list of certifications approved for funding in public schools and postsecondary institutions.

Specifically, the bill requires the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS), in cooperation with the University of Florida and Florida Agriculture and Mechanical University, to annually furnish to the State Board of Education (SBE) and the Department of Education (DOE) industry certifications for farm occupations to be placed on the Industry Certification Funding List and the Postsecondary Industry Certification Funding List.

Additionally, the bill requires that the SBE use the expertise of the DACS to develop and adopt rules for implementing an industry certification process. The list of industry certifications approved by Workforce Florida, Inc., the DACS, and the DOE must be published and updated annually.

The bill requires the DOE to include the DACS in the analysis of collected student achievement and performance data in industry-certified career education programs and career-themed courses.

This bill does not have a fiscal impact to the state.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

II. Present Situation:

Section 1003.492, F.S., requires the State Board of Education (SBE) to work with Workforce Florida, Inc., to establish and adopt rules for implementing an industry certification process. The Department of Economic Opportunity (DEO) must define industry certification based on the highest available national standards for specific industry certification to ensure student skill proficiency and to address emerging labor market and industry trends.[1] The DEO currently defines industry certification as "a voluntary process, through which individuals are assessed by an independent, third-party certifying entity using predetermined standards for knowledge, skills and competencies, resulting in the award of a time-limited credential that is nationally recognized and applicable to an occupation that is included in the workforce system's targeted occupation list or determined to be an occupation that is critical, emerging, or addresses a local need."[2]

The selection of industry certifications for academy courses and career-themed courses occurs in two phases. First, Workforce Florida, Inc., must determine industry certifications that meet the DEO definition and compile them into a list.[3] Second, the Department of Education (DOE) must:

- Review the list;[4]
- Identify certifications that are academically rigorous and at least 150 hours in length;[5]
- Compile a preliminary list of industry certifications that qualify for additional weighted funding;[6]
- Consider district requests that industry certifications be added to the approved list;[7] and
- Annually publish a final list.[8]

However, a regional workforce board or a school principal may apply to Workforce Florida, Inc., to request additions to the approved list of industry certification based on high-skill, high-wage, and high-demand job requirements in the regional economy.[9]

Workforce Florida, Inc.'s list includes 428 industry certifications.[10] From this list, the DOE has identified 201 industry certifications and 287 postsecondary industry certifications as eligible for funding in the 2013-2014 school year.[11] Most industry certifications require passage of a subject area examination and some combination of work experience, educational achievement, or on-the-job training. The DOE has approved industry certification in such career fields as information technology, automotive and aircraft mechanics, welding, and nursing. Certifying entities include Adobe System, Apple Computer, Inc., Hewlett-Packard, Microsoft Corporation, the National Institute for Automotive Services Excellence, the American Welding Society, the Federal Aviation Administration, and Florida Department of Health.[12]

Industry certifications on the final approved list are eligible for additional weighted funding through the Florida Education Finance Program (FEFP).[13] The list may include both industry certifications that are achievable in a secondary education program and those that have minimum age, grade-level, diploma or degree, post-graduation work experience of at least twelve months, or other requirements that make it impossible for the student to obtain full certification while in a public secondary school program. Funding industry certifications in which full certification cannot be achieved in a secondary program allows students to begin working toward these certifications while in high school, without having to fulfill all requirements before graduation.[14]

The DOE must also collect student achievement and performance data in industry-certified career education programs and career-themed courses and must work with Workforce Florida, Inc., in the analysis of collected data. The data collection and analyses must examine the performance of participating students over time. Performance factors must include, but are not limited to, graduation rates, retention rates, Florida Bright Futures Scholarship awards, additional educational attainment, employment records, earnings, industry certification, and employer satisfaction.[15]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill requires the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACS), in cooperation with the Institute of Food and Agricultural Science at the University of Florida and the College of Agriculture and Food Sciences at Florida Agriculture and Mechanical University, to annually provide to the State Board of Education (SBE) and the Department of Education (DOE) information and industry certifications for farm occupations to be considered for placement on the Industry Certification Funding List and the Postsecondary Industry Certification Funding List. The bill establishes that the process by which industry certifications for farm occupations are added to the list of certifications approved for funding in public schools and postsecondary institutions is identical to the current process in existing law for identifying industry certifications for placement on this list.[16]

The bill defines industry certification as a voluntary process through which students are assessed by an independent, third-party certifying entity using predetermined standards for knowledge, skills, and competencies, resulting in the award of a time-limited credential that is nationally recognized and must be at least one of the following:

- Within an industry that addresses a critical local or statewide economic need;

The bill requires the SBE to use the expertise of the DACS to develop and adopt rules for implementing an industry certification process. The list of industry certifications approved by Workforce Florida, Inc., the DACS, and the DOE must be published and updated annually.

The bill requires the DOE to include the DACS in the analysis of collected student achievement and performance data in industry-certified career education programs and career-themed courses.

BILL ANALYSIS AND FISCAL IMPACT STATEMENT

(This document is based on the provisions contained in the legislation as of the latest date listed below.)

Prepared By: The Professional Staff of the Committee on Appropriations

BILL:	CS/CS/SB 1208
INTRODUCER:	Health Policy Committee; Criminal Justice Committee; and Senator Latvala
SUBJECT:	Fraudulent Controlled Substance Prescriptions
DATE:	April 23, 2014 REVISED:

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1208 amends s. 893.13, F.S., to increase the penalty, from a first degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony, for a first time violation of the prohibition on a non-authorized person possessing a prescription form that has not been signed and completed by the practitioner whose name is printed on the prescription form.[1]

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference has found the bill will have an insignificant impact on the need for prison beds.

II. Present Situation:

Currently, s. 893.13(7)(a)7., F.S., prohibits any person from possessing a prescription form which has not been completed and signed by the practitioner whose name is printed on the form, unless the person possessing the form is the practitioner, the practitioner's agent, a pharmacist, or an authorized prescription form supplier. The first violation of this provision is punishable as a first degree misdemeanor[2] while second and subsequent violations are punishable as third degree felonies.[3]

[1] See s. 893.13(7)(a)7., F.S.

[2] A first degree misdemeanor is punishable with either or both of a prison sentence of up to one year and a fine of up to $1,000. See ss. 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

[3] A third degree felony is punishable with either or both of a prison sentence of up to five years and a fine of up to $5,000. If the person is a habitual felony offender, as defined in s. 775.084(1)(a), F.S., the court may increase the sentence to up to

Section 893.04(1)(b) and (c), F.S., requires that a written prescription must be dated and signed by the prescribing practitioner on the same day issued and the following information must appear on the face of the prescription:

- The full name and address for whom the controlled substance is dispensed, or the owner of the animal for which the prescription was written;
- The full names and address of the prescribing practitioner and the practitioner's federal controlled substance registry number;
- The species of animal for which the prescription was written, if written for an animal;
- The name of the controlled substance and the strength, quantity, and directions for use; and,
- The date.[4]

In addition, s. 456.42, F.S., requires the prescription be legibly written or typed and, if written for a controlled substance listed in ch. 893, F.S., the prescription must be on a standardized counterfeit-proof prescription pad produced by a vendor approved by the Department of Health (DOH).

Currently, 545 vendors are approved by the Department of Health (DOH) to sell counterfeit-proof prescription pads.[5] Vendors are required to apply to the DOH for approval and to produce counterfeit-proof prescription pads that adhere to the DOH's specifications.[6] Vendors are also responsible for the secure production and distribution of the pads and must adhere to the DOH's regulations including maintaining records and information about the production and distribution of the pads and submitting a monthly report to the DOH with details about each transaction they enter into.[7]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill amends s. 893.13, F.S., to increase the penalty for a first-time violation of the prohibition on a non-authorized person possessing a prescription that has not been completed and signed by the practitioner whose name is on the prescription form. The penalty is increased from a first degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony.[8] The bill also makes other technical changes to that section of law.

The bill establishes an effective date of July 1, 2014.

Dear Chairman Negron:

I respectfully request that Senate Bill 1208/Fraudulent Controlled Substance Prescriptions be placed on the agenda of the Senate Committee on Appropriations at your earliest convenience. The bill was favorably referred from the Senator Committee on Health Policy on March 19, 2014.

The current law is vague regarding the legality of possessing a fraudulent prescription that is partially completed. The result is that it is challenging for law enforcement to build a case against someone who fills in any portion of a fraudulently obtained script.

This bill would clarify that regardless of how much, or little, a fraudulent script is filled out, it is still against the law. It would also increase the penalty for possession of a fraudulent script from a 1st degree misdemeanor to a 3rd degree felony.

If you have any questions regarding this legislation, please contact me. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Jack Latvala

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 1212 creates chapter 470, Florida Statutes, entitled "Behavior Analysts," for the purpose of regulating the practice of applied behavior analysis. The bill provides definitions of terms used in the chapter and creates a seven-member Board of Applied Behavior Analysis (board), whose members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate.

The bill establishes eligibility criteria for initial or renewal licensure as a behavior analyst or assistant behavior analyst, both of which require board-certification and background screening. The bill contains a lengthy series of exemptions from licensure.

The bill creates specific actions that are grounds for denial of a license application or for disciplinary action. The board is authorized to adopt rules to implement the act, including rules defining standards of practice, supervision, fees, and continuing education. The Department of Health (DOH) is authorized to adopt rules related to procedures for initial and renewal licensure.

The DOH estimates that the bill will have a net positive fiscal impact for the Medical Quality Assurance Trust Fund. The bill is estimated to generate $810,000 in new fee revenue for the trust fund in the first two years of implementation, and the DOH estimates its costs for implementation to be approximately $270,000 on an annualized basis, which may be paid from the trust fund.

II. Present Situation:

Behavior Analysis

Behavior analysis grew out of the scientific study of principles of learning and behavior. It has two main branches: experimental and applied behavior analysis. The experimental analysis of behavior is the basic science which provides the scientific foundation for applied behavior analysis.[1] Florida law defines applied behavior analysis as "the design, implementation, and evaluation of environmental modifications, using behavioral stimuli and consequences, to produce socially significant improvement in human behavior, including, but not limited to, the use of direct observation, measurement, and functional analysis of the relations between environment and behavior."[2] Examples of applied behavior analysis practice include: building the skills and achievements of children in school settings and enhancing the development, abilities, and choices of children and adults with different kinds of emotional and behavioral disabilities.[3]

Certification of Behavior Analysts

The Behavior Analyst Certification Board (BACB) is the exclusive entity that certifies behavior analysts. The BACB is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) corporation located in Littleton, Colorado, that was established in 1998 based on the behavior analysis certification program developed in Florida. Similar programs were established in California, Texas, Pennsylvania, New York and Oklahoma. All of these programs have transferred their certification and credentialing responsibilities to the BACB and closed.[4]

As part of its credentialing program, the BACB has developed:[5]

- Eligibility standards;
- Renewal and recertification standards to maintain certification;
- Guidelines for responsible conduct;
- Professional disciplinary standards with appeal procedures;
- A certificant registry;
- A process to approve university course sequences and practica;
- Procedures to approve continuing education providers; and
- Certification examinations.

Currently, the BACB offers two certifications: Board Certified Behavior Analyst and Board Certified Assistant Behavior Analyst. The Board Certified Behavior Analyst conducts descriptive and systematic behavioral assessments, including functional analyses, and provides behavior analytic interpretations of the results.[6] The Board Certified Behavior Analyst also designs and supervises behavior analytic interventions.[7] To be eligible for certification as a behavior analyst, an applicant must have a master's degree in behavior analysis or other natural science, education, human services, engineering, medicine or a field related to behavior analysis approved by the BACB. In addition, the applicant must have 225 hours of graduate level instruction; must have completed a 1-year, full-time faculty appointment at a college or university with the responsibility of teaching behavior analysis; or must have completed a doctoral degree conferred 10 years prior to applying for certification and meet certain experience requirements.[8]

The Board Certified Assistant Behavior Analyst conducts descriptive behavioral assessments, interprets their results, and designs behavior analytic interventions under the supervision of a Board Certified Behavior Analyst.[9] To be eligible for certification as a Board Certified Assistant Behavior Analyst, an applicant must have a bachelor's degree and 135 hours of instruction and meet certain experience requirements.[10]

Currently, there are 1,821 behavior analysts or assistant behavior analysts in Florida who are board-certified by the BACB.[11]

Florida-Certified Behavior Analysts

Florida began training and certifying behavior analysts in 1983 through the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. In 2001, the Florida program was discontinued and all credentialing responsibilities were transferred to the BACB.[12] Behavior analysts certified through the Florida program are authorized to use only the designation Florida Certified Behavior Analyst. Recertification as a Florida Certified Behavior Analyst occurs every three years and requires 36 hours of continuing education.[13]

Recognition of Behavior Analysis in Florida Law

Although Florida does not license behavior analysts, its laws do recognize them in ways that may provide for some oversight. Specific references are as follows:

- Section 381.75, F.S., requires that transitional living facilities that provide services to patients in the brain and spinal cord injury program must offer behavior analysis services.

The law does not specify credentials, but the services must be provided under contract and by a facility that is subject to state licensure.

- Section 393.17, F.S., authorizes the Agency for Persons with Disabilities (APD) to establish a certification process for behavior analysts who serve its clients and requires the APD to recognize the certification "awarded by a nonprofit corporation that adheres to the national standards of boards that determine professional credentials and whose mission is to meet professional credentialing needs identified by behavior analysts, state governments, and consumers of behavior analysis services." This language describes the BACB.[14] The APD has opted not to create a separate certification process.[15]
- Section 393.18, F.S., requires a behavior analyst who provides services as part of a comprehensive transitional education program for persons with developmental disabilities to be certified as provided under s. 393.17, F.S.
- Section 409.906(26), F.S., authorizes the Agency for Health Care Administration to obtain federal approval to provide behavior analysis services to children five years old and younger who have a developmental disability, autism spectrum disorder, or Down syndrome through the Medicaid program.
- Sections 627.6686 and 641.31098, F.S., mandate coverage for autism spectrum disorder which includes applied behavior analysis services. The services must be provided by a person who is licensed under ch. 490 or 491, F.S., or certified pursuant to s. 393.17, F.S.
- Section 1002.66, F.S., includes applied behavioral analysis among the specialized instructional services a parent may select for a child with disabilities who is eligible for prekindergarten. As part of the exceptional student education legislation, the 2013 Legislature created a definition of private instructional personnel which includes persons certified under s. 393.17, F.S., or licensed under ch. 490 or 491, F.S., to provide behavior analysis.

Currently, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement does not perform criminal history record checks on persons seeking licensure as a behavior analyst.[16]

Regulation of Health Care Professions

The Department of Health (DOH) is responsible for licensing and regulating health care practitioners in order to preserve the health, safety, and welfare of the public.[17] General licensing provisions applicable to health care practitioners are contained in ch. 456, F.S., which also sets out in more detail the policy framework for regulation. Specifically, regulation is to occur when:[18]

- Unregulated practice can harm or endanger the health, safety, and welfare of the public, and the potential for harm outweighs the potentially anticompetitive effect of regulation;
- The public is not adequately protected by other means, including other statutes, federal law, or local ordinances; or
- Less restrictive means of regulation are not available.

The Division of Medical Quality Assurance (MQA) within the DOH has responsibility for licensing health care practitioners and certain facilities and businesses; enforcing health care practitioner standards; and providing licensure and disciplinary information to enable health care consumers to make more informed health care decisions.[19]

Regulation of some professions occurs under the purview of a board or council. A board is a statutorily-created entity that is authorized to exercise regulatory or rulemaking functions within the MQA.[20] In general, boards are responsible for approving or denying applications for licensure, establishing continuing education requirements, and disciplining practitioners for violations of their applicable practice act.[21] Currently, The MQA regulates seven types of facilities and 200-plus license types in 43 health care professions through coordination with 22 boards and six councils.[22]

The Sunrise Act

Section 11.62, F.S., "The Sunrise Act," sets forth policy and minimum requirements for legislative review of bills proposing regulation of an unregulated function. In general, the act states that regulation should not occur unless it is:

- Necessary to protect the public health, safety, or welfare from significant and discernible harm or damage;
- Exercised only to the extent necessary to prevent the harm; and
- Limited so as not to unnecessarily restrict entry into the practice of the profession or adversely affect public access to the professional services.

The act directs the Legislature to consider the following factors:

- Whether the unregulated practice of the profession or occupation will substantially harm or endanger the public health, safety, or welfare, and whether the potential for harm is recognizable and not remote;
- Whether the practice of the profession or occupation requires specialized skill or training and whether that skill or training is readily measurable or quantifiable so that examination or training requirements would reasonably assure initial and continuing professional or occupational ability;
- Whether the regulation will have an unreasonable effect on job creation or job retention in the state or will place unreasonable restrictions on the ability of individuals who seek to practice or who are practicing a given profession or occupation to find employment;
- Whether the public is or can be effectively protected by other means; and
- Whether the overall cost-effectiveness and economic impact of the proposed regulation, including the indirect costs to consumers, will be favorable.

The act requires proponents of legislation proposing new regulation to provide detailed information regarding the need and potential impact of the regulation. The Sunrise Questionnaire is used for that purpose.[23] The act also requires the agency that will be responsible for its implementation to assess the cost of implementation, the technical sufficiency of the proposal, and whether alternatives to regulation exist.

In determining whether to recommend regulation, the legislative committee reviewing the proposal is directed to assess whether the proposed regulation is:

- Justified based on the statutory criteria and the information provided by both the proponents of regulation and the agency responsible for its implementation;
- The least restrictive and most cost-effective regulatory scheme necessary to protect the public; and
- Technically sufficient and consistent with the regulation of other professions under existing law.

Statutory Creation of Advisory Bodies, Commissions, or Boards

The statutory creation of any collegial body to serve as an adjunct to an executive agency is subject to certain provisions in s. 20.052, F.S. Such a body may be created only when it is found to be necessary and beneficial to the furtherance of a public purpose, and it must be terminated by the Legislature when it no longer fulfills such a purpose. The Legislature and the public must be kept informed of the numbers, purposes, memberships, activities, and expenses of any collegial or advisory bodies.

A board of trustees is defined as "a board created by specific statutory enactment and appointed to function adjunctively to a department, the governor, or the Executive Office of the Governor to administer public property or a public program."[24] Private citizen members of a board of trustees may only be appointed by the governor, must be confirmed by the Senate, and are subject to the dual-office-holding prohibition of Art. II, s. 5(a) of the State Constitution.

Members of a board of trustees serve for 4-year staggered terms, unless expressly provided otherwise in the State Constitution, and are ineligible for any compensation other than travel expenses. Unless an exemption is specified by law, all meetings are public, and records of minutes and votes must be maintained.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill creates ch. 470, F.S., entitled "Behavior Analysts" for the purpose of regulating the practice of applied behavior analysis.

The bill creates the following definitions:

- "Applied behavior analysis" means the design, implementation, and evaluation of environmental modifications, using behavioral stimuli and consequences, to produce socially significant improvement in human behavior, including, but not limited to, the use of direct observation, measurement, and functional analysis of the relations between environment and behavior." The definition expressly excludes certain acts that are within the definition of "practice of psychology" in ch. 490, F.S. The definition, excluding the exception, is identical to the current definition in chs. 627 and 641, F.S., relating to health care coverage for persons with autism spectrum disorder.

- "Board" means the Board of Applied Behavior Analysis, as created by the bill, unless the term appears in the context of board certification.
- "Board-certified behavior analyst" and "Board-certified assistant behavior analyst" are practitioners certified by the BACB.
- "Department" is the Department of Health.
- "Licensed behavior analyst" and "licensed assistant behavior analyst" are practitioners licensed by the board created by the bill.

The bill creates the Board of Applied Behavior Analysis, which is a seven-member board whose members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. Three members must be board-certified behavior analysts, at least two of whom hold a doctoral level degree. One member must be a board-certified assistant behavior analyst. One member must be a psychologist or clinical social worker, marriage and family therapist, or mental health counselor whose practice primarily includes treatment of behavior disorders. The board must include two layperson members. The bill provides for staggered four-year terms and requires that subsequent appointees be licensed under the act. A person may not serve more than two consecutive terms.

The bill directs the board to adopt rules to implement the act, which must include rules related to:

- Standards of practice;
- Supervision, including the number of persons that a licensed behavior analyst or assistant behavior analyst may supervise;
- Continuing education; and,
- Fees, not to exceed $100 for an application and $300 for licensure. Fees must be based on the actual cost to regulate.

The bill authorizes the DOH to adopt rules to implement its duties under the act, including, rules related to initial and renewal licensure applications, processes, and fees.

The bill requires the DOH to license any person applying for initial or renewal licensure as a behavior analyst who:

- Submit a completed application;
- Be board-certified;
- Pay the licensure or renewal licensure fee; and
- Pass a criminal background check.

The bill requires a person applying for initial or renewal licensure as an assistant behavior analyst to:

- Submit a completed application;
- Be board-certified;
- Identify a licensed behavior analyst who is qualified to supervise the applicant;
- Pay the licensure or renewal licensure fee; and

- Pass a criminal background check.

The bill authorizes the board to renew a license when it receives proof of continued certification by the BACB; a completed renewal application and fee; and proof of compliance with required continuing education.

The bill creates specific actions that constitute grounds for the board to deny a license or to discipline licensees which are the disciplinary standards set forth in ch. 490, F.S., and which are applicable to psychologists.

The bill prohibits the practice of applied behavior analysis or the use of the titles without first obtaining a license under ch. 470, F.S. Unlicensed practice is a third degree felony and unauthorized use of the title is a second degree misdemeanor. Both violations are punishable as provided in ch. 775, F.S. A third degree felony is punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 or up to five years in prison. A second degree misdemeanor is punishable by a fine of up to $500 or up to 60 days in prison.

The bill contains a lengthy series of exemptions from licensure, including:
- Psychologists licensed under ch. 490, F.S.;
- A certified teacher, for behavior analysis services delivered in the course of employment as a teacher that are within the scope of the teacher's education, training, and experience, if the teacher does not hold himself or herself out as a behavior analyst; and a teaching assistant who is supervised by a qualified certified teacher;
- An applied behavior analyst or assistant behavior analyst who work with animals;
- A person who teaches behavior analysis or conducts related research not involving direct patient care;
- A college graduate or postdoctoral fellow, working under the direct supervision of a licensed behavior analyst or instructor in an accredited program, whose activities are part of a defined behavior analysis program of study or practicum approved by the BACB, subject to specified title restrictions;
- A person pursuing training experience required for board certification if supervised by a licensee who has been approved by the BACB to supervise;
- A family member of a patient who implements procedures if the family member does not hold himself or herself out as a behavior analyst;
- A behavior analyst or assistant behavior analyst who provides services to an organization and not to individuals;
- A physician licensed under ch. 458 or 459, F.S.;
- An occupational therapist licensed under ch. 468, F.S., if he or she does not hold himself or herself out as a behavior analyst;
- A clinical social worker, marriage and family therapist, or mental health counselor licensed under ch. 491, F.S.;
- An employee of a nonprofit organization that provides behavior analysis services to children at no charge, if the employee does not hold himself or herself out as a behavior analyst;
- A certified school psychologist who performs behavior analysis as an employee of a public or private school; and
- A member of the clergy acting within the scope of his or her religious duties.

Conforming provisions of the bill include amendments to:

- Section 20.43, F.S., which sets forth the organizational structure of the DOH, to add the Board of Applied Behavior Analysis;
- Section 456.0135, F.S., related to the general background screening procedures for certain health care practitioners, to add a reference to chapter 470; and
- The definition of "health care practitioner" in ch. 456, F.S., to add practitioners licensed under ch. 470, F.S.

The bill has an effective date of January 1, 2015.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

CS/CS/SB 1212 will have a negative impact on persons who are providing behavior analysis services but do not meet the bill's qualifications for licensure. Persons currently certified by the BACB will need to obtain a state license and pay the licensure fee to practice behavior analysis.

C. Government Sector Impact:

Revenue[25]
The DOH estimates it will receive 2,000 applications in the first two-year licensure cycle (biennium) that will be subject to an application fee of $100; a licensure fee of $300; and an unlicensed activity fee of $5,[26] for a total of $810,000 in fee collections. For the second biennium, the DOH estimates it will receive 2,000 licensure renewals that will be subject to the licensure fee of $300 and the unlicensed activity fee of $5, for a total of $610.000. Revenue from DOH fee collections is deposited into the DOH's Medical Quality Assurance Trust Fund.

Expenses[27]
The DOH estimates it will need 2.5 full-time equivalent positions (FTE) and one OPS position to implement the provisions of the bill.

The OPS position and one FTE can manage the licensing requirements. The requested expenses are one FTE regulatory specialist II, no travel ($48,078) and one OPS regulatory specialist II, no travel ($38,485) for a total cost of $86,563.

The DOH estimates it will receive 30 complaints filed against certified behavior analysts and assistant behavior analysts and 12 of those complaints will be deemed legally sufficient for investigation and prosecution. The DOH estimates the need for two half-time FTE for these enforcement functions: one half-time investigation specialist II, medium travel, and one half-time senior attorney, no travel, for a total of $87,281.

The DOH estimates it will receive approximately 1,200 additional telephone calls in the communication center under the bill and estimates the need for one half-time regulatory specialist II, no travel, in the communication center with a total cost of $29,228.

The DOH anticipates holding four 1.5 day meetings per year with seven board members and two staff. Total estimated meeting costs are $51,081 per year.

The DOH currently contracts for processing of initial and renewal applications and related fees. The cost of the contracted service is based on a $7.69 per application for the estimated 2,000 applications, for a total cost of $15,380.

The DOH will incur non-recurring costs for rulemaking, which current budget authority is adequate to absorb.

Consistent with adding any new profession, the DOH will update the Customer Oriented Medical Practitioner Administration System (COMPAS) to accommodate the new Certified Behavior Analyst and Assistant Behavior Analyst license, which current resources are adequate to absorb.

[26] Section 456.065(3), F.S.
[27] Supra, note 25.

The DOH will incur an increase in workload associated with the development and maintenance of a new website, online renewals, online applications, and related functions, which current resources are adequate to absorb.

The DOH's total estimated costs to implement the bill are $269,533 on an annualized basis, which may be paid from the Medical Quality Assurance Trust Fund. The biennial fees collected under the bill are estimated to be sufficient to offset these costs.

According to the Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE), the bill does not necessitate additional FTE or other resources because revenue generated by the fees for background screening and fingerprinting will offset the FDLE's costs.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

The Legislature may wish to consider whether to amend the existing statutes that mandate the provision of behavior analysis services to cross-reference and require compliance with ch. 470, F.S., and the licensing standards created by this bill.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

The bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 20.43, 456.001, and 456.0135.

This bill creates the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 470.40, 470.41, 470.415, 470.42, 470.43, 470.44, 470.45, 470.46, 470.47, and 470.48.

COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/CS/SB 1254 amends various sections of the Florida Statutes to delete unused, obsolete, and redundant rulemaking authority granted to the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) and the Department of Elder Affairs (DOEA) and make other technical and conforming changes. The bill also:

- Changes "certification" to "licensure" for organ, eye, and tissue procurement organizations and removes specified procurement groups in favor of allowing the AHCA to choose appropriate procurement groups on which to base organ procurement standards and guidelines;
- Moves Medicaid recipients under the age of 21 who are not receiving waiver services but who are authorized to reside in certain group home facilities from the mandatory enrollment group to the voluntary group for statewide Medicaid managed care;
- Allows all hospitals, rather than only specialty-licensed children's hospitals, that are authorized to provide certain pediatric cardiovascular services, to provide cardiovascular services to adults who the hospital treated as children for congenital heart disease; and
- Amends the parameters for certain reports made by a home health agency and exempts certain home health agencies from the requirement to obtain and maintain certification from an accrediting entity.

The bill has an indeterminate but likely insignificant fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

The Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) has a number of regulatory responsibilities, among these being the licensure of health care facilities, including abortion clinics, nursing homes, and clinical laboratories.

In recent years, many of the facilities licensed by the AHCA have come under increasing regulatory control of federal law relating to Medicaid and Medicare, with state laws providing greater specificity than previously provided. At the same time, frequent changes to many of these overlapping legal environments have made it difficult for the AHCA to maintain rules consistent with current law. Some of this difficulty has related to unnecessary rulemaking mandates, particularly relating to statutes that provide sufficient specificity to enforce without the need for rulemaking.

Rulemaking is required by Florida's Administrative Procedure Act (APA) whenever a government agency has express authority to make rules, and must resort to rulemaking in order to implement, interpret, or prescribe law, policy, or requirements, including mandatory forms.[1] Rulemaking is not discretionary under the APA.[2]

In 2009, and again in 2013, the Joint Administrative Procedures Committee held hearings focusing on 2007 legislation that, on its face, requires the AHCA to make rules that have yet to be finally adopted. In some cases, that legislation and similar legislation contemplated rulemaking that was either unnecessary under the APA or already promulgated under previously enacted law.

Statewide Medicaid Managed Care

Part IV of ch. 409, F.S., was created in 2011 by ch. 2011-134, L.O.F., and governs the Statewide Medicaid Managed Care program (SMMC). The program, authorized by a federal Medicaid waiver, is designed for the AHCA to issue invitations to negotiate[3] and competitively procure contracts with managed care plans in 11 regions of the state to provide comprehensive Medicaid coverage for most of the state's enrollees in the Medicaid program. SMMC has two components: managed medical assistance (MMA) and long-term care managed care (LTCMC).

The LTCMC component began enrolling Medicaid recipients in August 2013 and was scheduled to complete its statewide roll-out in March 2014.[4] The MMA component is scheduled to begin enrolling Medicaid recipients in May 2014 and finish its roll-out in August 2014.[5]

[1] Section 120.52(16), F.S., defines "rule" to mean "each agency statement of general applicability that implements, interprets, or prescribes law or policy or describes the procedure or practice requirements of an agency and includes any form which imposes any requirement or solicits any information not specifically required by statute…"

Group Home Facilities for Persons with Developmental Disabilities

The Agency for Persons with Disabilities (APD) is responsible for providing all services for persons with developmental disabilities that are provided under ch. 393, F.S., including the operation of all state-related institutional programs and the programmatic management of Medicaid waivers established to provide services to persons with developmental disabilities.[6] A person determined eligible by the APD to receive APD services is known as a "client,"[7] and the term includes persons receiving APD services and those on a waiting list to receive APD services.

The AHCA has been granted waiver authority from the federal Medicaid program for the state to implement a four-tiered system to serve eligible clients through a Developmental Disabilities Waiver (DD waiver). For the purpose of this waiver program, eligible clients include individuals with a diagnosis of Down syndrome or a developmental disability. The APD is required to assign all clients receiving services through this waiver to a tier, based on financial eligibility guidelines and APD assessments.[8]

Under the DD waiver, the APD operates four tier-based programs that provide home and community-based supports and services to clients living at home or in a home-like setting. DD waiver services are funded by state revenue and federal Medicaid matching dollars. APD operates the DD waiver under the authorization of the AHCA's Division of Medicaid.

The purpose of the DD waiver is to promote, maintain, and restore the health of APD clients; to minimize the effects of illness and disabilities through the provision of needed supports and services in order to delay or prevent institutionalization; and to foster the principles of self-determination as a foundation for services and supports. The intent of the waiver is to provide a viable choice of services that allow clients to live as independently as possible in their own home or in the community and to achieve productive lives as close to normal as possible, as opposed to residing in an institutional setting.[9]

Under ch. 393, F.S., the Legislature declared that all persons with developmental disabilities who live in licensed community homes will have a living environment comparable to other Floridians and that such residences will be considered and treated as a functional equivalent of a family unit and not as an institution, business, or boarding home.[10]

The APD regulates group home facilities for persons with developmental disabilities. A "group home facility" is an APD-licensed residential facility that provides a family living environment, including supervision and care necessary to meet the physical, emotional, and social needs of its residents. The capacity of a group home facility is limited to at least four but not more than 15 residents.[11] "Residential facilities" provide room and board and personal care for persons with developmental disabilities.[12] "Personal care services" are defined as individual assistance with or supervision of essential activities of daily living for self-care, including ambulation, bathing, dressing, eating, grooming, toileting, and other similar services that are incidental to the care furnished and essential to the health, safety, and welfare of a person with developmental disabilities if no one else is available to perform those services.[13]

Not all residents of APD-licensed group homes are APD clients. Some are private-pay residents. Some are eligible for Medicaid without being eligible for DD waiver services. The APD currently issues licenses to 1,661 group homes statewide in which approximately 8,000 persons with developmental disabilities reside. Approximately 250 of these residents are not APD clients while 7,673 APD clients in group home settings are enrolled in Medicaid for health care services. The number of group home residents who are not APD clients but are Medicaid-eligible is unknown.[14]

Under SMMC, all Medicaid recipients are required to receive covered Medicaid services through managed care plan enrollment, except for certain groups of individuals that are exempt from participation in SMMC.[15] Other Medicaid-eligible individuals are not required to enroll in managed care plans but may do so voluntarily, including Medicaid recipients who are receiving DD waiver services or are on a waiting list to receive DD waiver services,[16] which includes all APD clients. However, a resident of an APD-licensed group home who is not an APD client is not included in this "voluntary" category for managed care plan enrollment and is therefore required to join a Medicaid managed care plan under SMMC if he or she is Medicaid eligible and enrolls in Medicaid.

Organ Donations in Florida

Over 3,500 people in Florida are registered and waiting for organ transplants, and thousands more wait for tissue donations.[17] The most common types of organ transplants include the kidneys, liver, heart, lungs, and pancreas, but many other organs and tissues can be transplanted or used for various other medical procedures.[18] Nationwide, nearly 6,000 people die each year waiting for an organ donation.[19]

Four major organ and tissue procurement agencies operate in Florida to facilitate the process of organ donation. These agencies are certified by the U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and operate in Florida to increase the number of registered donors and coordinate the donation process when organs become available.[20] Each agency serves a different region of the state.[21] In addition to federal certification of organ procurement organizations, the AHCA also certifies these organ procurement organizations and other eye and tissue organizations.[22]

The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network (OPTN) is the unified network established by Congress in 1984. The OPTN is a public-private partnership of professionals involved in the donation and transplantation system. The main goals of the OPTN are to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of organ sharing, increase the equity of the national system of organ allocation, and increase the supply of donated organs.[23]

The Association of Organ Procurement Organizations (AOPO) is the national representative of the 58 federally-designated organ procurement organizations. The AOPO's main goal is to help member OPOs maximize the availability of organs and tissues for transplantation and enhance the quality, effectiveness, and integrity of the donation process. The AOPO also works closely with the OPTN and has two seats on the OPTN Board of Directors.[24]

The Eye Bank Association of America (EBAA) is the oldest transplant association in the United States. The EBAA is also a nationally-recognized accrediting body for eye banks, and the EBAA Medical Advisory Board develops standards to ensure consistently acceptable levels of quality, proficiency, and ethics in dealing with ocular tissue for transplantation and defines the minimum standards of practice in the recovery, preservation, storage, and distribution of eye tissue for transplantation and research, as determined by the ophthalmological medical community. The EBAA Medical Standards are reviewed semi-annually and are endorsed by the American Academy of Ophthalmology (AAO).[25]

Specialty-Licensed Children's Hospitals

Presently, s. 395.003, F.S., states that a specialty hospital may not provide any service or regularly serve any population group beyond those that are specified in its license, with an exception made for specialty-licensed children's hospitals to allow them to treat certain adult patients with cardiovascular issues who the hospital treated as children. The AHCA licenses all hospital types in the state of Florida either as a Class I general acute care hospital or as a Class II specialty hospital. The options for a class II specialty hospital are a women's hospital or a children's hospital. To offer services to the population as a whole, a hospital must be licensed as a class I general acute care hospital. A hospital must also obtain a Certificate of Need (CON) from the AHCA before offering specialized types of services, including routine adult cardiac surgery.

In addition to the three hospitals in Florida that qualify as specialty-licensed children's hospitals,[26] some Class I general acute care hospitals offer specialty services for children but are not technically considered specialty-licensed children's hospitals. One example of such an embedded children's hospital is the Palm Beach Children's Hospital located within St. Mary's Medical Center in West Palm Beach. Currently, St. Mary's Hospital is authorized to perform pediatric cardiac surgeries, including pediatric open heart surgery and pediatric cardiac catheterization. However, since St. Mary's Medical Center does not have a CON for routine adult cardiac surgery and since the present exception in s. 395.003, F.S., only applies to specialty-licensed children's hospitals, St. Mary's Medical Center may not continue to treat children for the same congenital heart conditions once they reach adulthood without obtaining a waiver from the AHCA for each instance.

Home Health Agencies

A home health agency (HHA) is an organization that provides home health services and staffing services.[27] Home health services provided by an HHA include health and medical services and medical equipment provided to an individual in his or her home, such as nursing care, physical and occupational therapy, and home health aide services.[28] Home health agencies are regulated by the AHCA under Part III of ch. 400, F.S.

In 2008 the Florida Legislature passed ch. 2008-246, L.O.F., with anti-fraud measures, including the requirement for an HHA quarterly report to be submitted to the AHCA within 15 days following the end of each quarter. The Legislature passed ch. 2008-246, L.O.F., to combat an increase in Medicaid fraud in HHAs during the early to mid 2000s. In Fiscal Year 2004-2005, the AHCA's Bureau of Medicare Program Integrity (MPI) opened 47 investigations of HHAs for Medicaid fraud, 72 in Fiscal Year 2005-2006, and 144 in Fiscal Year 2006-2007.[29] Between 2004 and 2007, 19 HHAs were terminated from the Medicaid program in Miami-Dade County alone.[30]

Section 400.474(6)(f), F.S., enacted in ch. 2008-246, L.O.F., requires HHAs to report data as it existed on the last day of the quarter for four items that are markers for possible fraudulent activity. These items include:

- The number of insulin-dependent diabetic patients receiving insulin injection services;
- The number of patients receiving both home health services from the HHA and hospice services;
- The number of patients receiving HHA services; and
- Name and license number of nurses whose primary job responsibility is to provide home health services to patients and who received remuneration from the HHA in excess of $25,000 during the quarter.

The AHCA is required to impose a fine of $200 per day, up to $5,000 per reporting period, if the report is not submitted within the first 15 days following the close of the quarter. From January 1, 2009, through December 31, 2012, there were a total of 1,407 fines imposed.[31] For the 2012-2013 state fiscal year, fines of $932,750 were imposed by final order. Also, the number of HHAs that fail to submit the reports each quarter has decreased. For the quarter ending December 31, 2012, 42 of the 2,250 licensed HHAs failed to submit their reports.[32]

The AHCA uses the data on the number of patients on the last day of the quarter as an indicator of the number of patients when a home health agency is closing. In addition, the data on numbers of patients is used as an indicator that the home health agency may not be operational, along with other information. Failing to provide at least one service directly for a period of 60 days is grounds to deny or revoke a license under s. 400.474(1)(2)(e), F.S. The AHCA already collects the number of patients admitted over a 12-month period, from each home health agency on the biennial license renewal application as required by s. 400.471(2)(c), F.S.[33]

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 390.012, F.S., relating to the disposal of fetal remains, to repeal the requirement that the AHCA must adopt rules to require that abortion clinics be in compliance with s. 390.0111, F.S., relating to termination of pregnancies. This rule requirement is not necessary since abortion clinics must already comply with that section of law.

Section 2 amends s. 395.003, F.S., to allow all hospitals, rather than only specialty-licensed children's hospitals, that are authorized to provide pediatric cardiac catheterization and pediatric open-heart surgery to provide cardiovascular services to adults that the hospital treated as children for congenital heart disease. This change will allow St. Mary's Medical Center in West Palm Beach to continue to offer cardiac services to adult patients that were by the Medical Center treated for congenital cardiac disorders as children without obtaining a waiver from the AHCA.

Sections 3, 4, and 5 amend ss. 400.021, 400.0712, and 400.23, F.S., relating to the regulation of nursing homes, to repeal specific mandatory rule requirements and replace them with general authority allowing the AHCA to adopt rules to implement part II of ch.400, F.S.

Section 6 amends s. 400.471, F.S., to exempt home health agencies (HHAs) that are not Medicare or Medicaid certified and that do not provide skilled nursing care from the requirement to provide documentation of accreditation, or application for accreditation, from an accrediting organization recognized by the AHCA on the HHAs initial licensure application and from maintaining accreditation in order to maintain licensure.

Section 7 amends 400.474, F.S., to reduce the frequency of reports that HHAs are required to submit to the AHCA from quarterly to every 6 months, adjusting the remuneration amount required to be reported from $25,000 to $50,000 to account for the extended reporting period, and to require that the reports be submitted electronically. The bill also exempts from the reporting requirements HHAs that share a controlling interest with a licensee that bills Medicaid or Medicare so long as the HHA is not a Medicaid or Medicare provider itself.

Sections 8, 9, 10, and 11 amend ss. 400.487, 400.497, 400.506, and 400.509, F.S., relating to home health agencies, to repeal specific mandatory rule requirements and replace them with general authority allowing the AHCA to adopt rules to implement part III of ch. 400, F.S.

Sections 12, 22, and 23 amend ss. 400.6095, 429.255, and 429.73, F.S., respectively, to repeal the requirement to adopt rules to implement "do not resuscitate" orders under s. 401.45, F.S., in hospice, assisted living facilities, and adult family-care homes. These grants of rulemaking authority are unnecessary since s. 401.45, F.S., includes rulemaking authority.

Sections 13 and 14 amend s. 400.914, F.S., and create s. 400.9141, F.S., respectively, to substitute mandatory rulemaking with discretionary rulemaking authority as needed to administer part VI of ch. 400, F.S., relating to prescribed pediatric extended care centers. Section 400.9141, F.S., is created with language moved from s. 400.914, F.S., to make the conditions self-executing.

Sections 15 and 16 amend ss. 400.934 and 400.935, F.S., relating to home medical equipment providers, to repeal certain specific mandatory rule requirements and replace them with general authority allowing the AHCA to adopt rules to administer part VII of ch. 400, F.S. In addition s. 400.934, F.S., requires the comprehensive emergency management plan of a home medical equipment provider to include criteria for a patient's equipment and supply list to accompany a patient who is transported from his or her home.

Sections 17 and 18 amend ss. 400.962 and 400.967, F.S., relating to intermediate care facilities for developmentally disabled persons, to repeal specific mandatory rule requirements and replace them with general authority allowing the AHCA to adopt rules to administer part VIII of ch. 400, F.S.

Section 19 amends s. 400.980, F.S., relating to health care service pools, to repeal a mandate that the AHCA adopt rules for the registration of health care services pools.

Section 20 amends s. 409.912, F.S., relating to the cost-effective purchasing of health care in the Medicaid program, to repeal the requirement for the AHCA to adopt rules to administer subsection 409.912(43), F.S., related to provider lock-in programs. The subsection expires on October 1, 2014.

Section 21 amends s. 409.972, F.S., to exempt from mandatory enrollment in Medicaid managed care Medicaid recipients under the age of 21 who are not receiving waiver services but who are authorized by the Agency for Persons with Disabilities or the Department of Children and Families to reside in a group home facility, and instead make enrollment in Medicaid managed care voluntary.

Section 24 amends s. 440.102, F.S., to clarify the AHCA's rulemaking responsibilities pertaining to drug-free workplace laboratories.

Section 25 amends s. 483.245, F.S., to repeal the requirement that the AHCA adopt rules to assess administrative penalties for clinical laboratories that pay or receive kickbacks.

Sections 26 and 27 amend ss. 765.541 and 765.544, F.S., relating to organ and tissue procurement agencies, to repeal specific mandatory rule requirements and replace them with general authority allowing the AHCA to adopt rules to administer ss. 765.541 - 765.546, F.S. The bill also changes "certification" to "licensure" for organ, eye, and tissue procurement organizations and amends the procurement groups specified in statute. The AHCA must substantially base its procurement organizations licensure program on the standards and guidelines of one or more nationally recognized accreditation organizations or federally regulated networks determined by the AHCA to possess reasonable expertise in organ procurement.

The bill also makes technical, clarifying, and conforming changes as necessary throughout the sections of law amended by the bill.

Section 28 establishes an effective date of July 1, 2014.

CS/CS/CS by Appropriations on April 22, 2014:
The CS:

- Removes language that amends the definition of "provider service network" and requires the AHCA to terminate the contract of a Medicaid managed care plan if the plan was contracted as the only PSN in a region but no longer meets the definition of a PSN;
- Exempts home health agencies that are not Medicare or Medicaid certified and that do not provide skilled nursing care from the requirement to be accredited;
- Restores to current law several sections of the bill in which the requirement to comply with rules of the Department of Elder Affairs or the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) for "Do Not Resuscitate" orders was inadvertently struck; and
- Replaces the specified list of organ procurement groups in s. 765.451, F.S. with the requirement that the AHCA base its rules on the standards and guidelines of one or more nationally recognized accreditation organizations or federally regulated networks determined by the AHCA to possess reasonable expertise in organ procurement.

[34] According to a phone conversation with Josh Spagnola, Legislative Affairs Director for the AHCA.

CS/CS by Rules on April 2, 2014:
The CS:

- Allows all hospitals, rather than only specialty-licensed children's hospitals, that are authorized to provide pediatric cardiac catheterization and pediatric open-heart surgery to provide cardiovascular services to adults that the hospital treated as children for congenital heart disease; and
- Reduces the frequency of reports that HHAs are required to submit to the AHCA from quarterly to every 6 months and to require that the reports be submitted electronically. CS by Health Policy on March 25, 2014:
The CS:

- Reinstates some of the minimum standards the AHCA is required to adopt in rule to regulate home medical equipment providers;
- Changes certification to licensure for organ, eye, and tissue procurement organizations and amend which groups are specified in statute. The AHCA must substantially base its procurement organizations licensure program on the standards and guidelines of the specified organizations as well as federal and state laws;
- Makes technical changes to the rulemaking authority over nurse registries and drug-free workplace laboratories.
- Allows voluntary enrollment in statewide Medicaid managed care for Medicaid recipients under the age of 21 who are not receiving waiver services but who are authorized by the Agency for Persons with Disabilities or the Department of Children and Families to reside in a group home facility; and
- Amends the definition of "provider service network" and requires the AHCA to terminate the contract of a Medicaid managed care plan if the plan was contracted as the only PSN in a region but no longer meets the definition of a PSN. The AHCA must re-procure another PSN in such a region within 12 months after the first PSN no longer meets the definition of a PSN.

(7) The agency shall, at least every 15 months, evaluate all nursing home facilities and determine ~~make a determination as to~~ the degree of compliance by each licensee with the established rules adopted under this part as a basis for assigning a licensure status to a ~~that~~ facility. In addition to license categories authorized under part II of chapter 408, the agency shall assign a ~~licensure status of~~ standard or conditional licensure status to each nursing home.

(a) A standard licensure status means that a facility has no class I or class II deficiencies and has corrected all class III deficiencies within the time established by the agency.

Licensees receiving a conditional licensure status for a facility shall prepare, within 10 working days after receiving notice of deficiencies, a plan for correction of all deficiencies and ~~shall~~ submit the plan to the agency for approval.

(e) The agency shall ~~adopt rules that~~:

1. Establish uniform procedures for the evaluation of facilities.

~~part and part II of chapter 408 to provide~~ that, if ~~when~~ the criteria established under subsection (2) are not met, such deficiencies shall be classified according to the nature and the scope of the deficiency. The scope shall be cited as isolated, patterned, or widespread. An isolated deficiency is a deficiency affecting one or a very limited number of residents, or involving one or a very limited number of staff, or a situation that occurred only occasionally or in a very limited number of locations. A patterned deficiency is a deficiency in which ~~where~~ more than a very limited number of residents are affected, or more than a very limited number of staff are involved, or the situation has occurred in several locations, or the same resident or residents have been affected by repeated occurrences of the same deficient practice but the effect of the deficient practice is not found to be pervasive throughout the facility. A widespread deficiency is a deficiency in which the problems causing the deficiency are pervasive in the facility or represent systemic failure that has affected or has the potential to affect a large portion of the facility's residents. The agency shall indicate the classification on the face of the notice of deficiencies as follows:

(a) A class I deficiency is a deficiency that the agency determines presents a situation in which immediate corrective action is necessary because the facility's noncompliance has caused, or is likely to cause, serious injury, harm, impairment, or death to a resident receiving care in a facility. The condition or practice constituting a class I violation must ~~shall~~ be abated or eliminated immediately, unless a fixed period of time, as determined by the agency, is required for correction. A class I deficiency is subject to a civil penalty of $10,000 for an isolated deficiency, $12,500 for a patterned deficiency, and $15,000 for a widespread deficiency. The fine amount is ~~shall be~~ doubled for each deficiency if the facility was previously cited for one or more class I or class II deficiencies during the last licensure inspection or during an ~~any~~ inspection or complaint investigation since the last licensure inspection. A fine must be levied notwithstanding the correction of the deficiency.

(b) A class II deficiency is a deficiency that the agency determines has compromised a ~~the~~ resident's ability to maintain or reach his or her highest practicable physical, mental, and psychosocial well-being, as defined by an accurate and comprehensive resident assessment, plan of care, and provision of services. A class II deficiency is subject to a civil penalty of $2,500 for an isolated deficiency, $5,000 for a patterned deficiency, and $7,500 for a widespread deficiency. The fine amount is ~~shall be~~ doubled for each deficiency if the facility was previously cited for one or more class I or class II deficiencies during the last licensure inspection or an ~~any~~ inspection or complaint investigation since the last licensure inspection. A fine shall be levied notwithstanding the correction of the deficiency.

(c) A class III deficiency is a deficiency that the agency determines will result in no more than minimal physical, mental, or psychosocial discomfort to a ~~the~~ resident or has the potential to compromise a ~~the~~ resident's ability to maintain or reach his or her highest practical physical, mental, or psychosocial well-being, as defined by an accurate and comprehensive resident assessment, plan of care, and provision of services. A class III deficiency is subject to a civil penalty of $1,000 for an isolated deficiency, $2,000 for a patterned deficiency, and $3,000 for a widespread deficiency. The fine amount is ~~shall be~~ doubled for each deficiency if the facility was previously cited for one or more class I or class II deficiencies during the last licensure inspection or an ~~any~~ inspection or complaint investigation since the last licensure inspection. A citation for a class III deficiency must specify the time within which the deficiency is required to be corrected. If a class III deficiency is corrected within the time specified, a civil penalty may not be imposed.

(d) A class IV deficiency is a deficiency that the agency determines has the potential for causing no more than a minor negative impact on a ~~the~~ resident. If the class IV deficiency is isolated, no plan of correction is required.

(9) Civil penalties paid by a ~~any~~ licensee under subsection (8) shall be deposited in the Health Care Trust Fund and expended as provided in s. 400.063.

(10) Agency records, reports, ranking systems, Internet information, and publications must be promptly updated to reflect the most current agency actions.

Section 6. Subsection (7) of section 400.474, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

(7) A home health agency shall electronically submit to the agency~~, within 15 days after the end of each calendar quarter,~~ a ~~written~~ report for each 6-month period ending March 31 and September 30.

(a) Each report must include ~~that includes~~ the following data as it ~~they~~ existed on the last day of the reporting period ~~quarter~~:

Section 19. Subsection (43) of section 409.912, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

409.912 Cost-effective purchasing of health care.—The agency shall purchase goods and services for Medicaid recipients in the most cost-effective manner consistent with the delivery of quality medical care. To ensure that medical services are effectively utilized, the agency may, in any case, require a confirmation or second physician's opinion of the correct diagnosis for purposes of authorizing future services under the Medicaid program. This section does not restrict access to emergency services or poststabilization care services as defined in 42 C.F.R. part 438.114. Such confirmation or second opinion shall be rendered in a manner approved by the agency. The agency shall maximize the use of prepaid per capita and prepaid aggregate fixed-sum basis services when appropriate and other alternative service delivery and reimbursement methodologies, including competitive bidding pursuant to s. 287.057, designed to facilitate the cost-effective purchase of a case-managed continuum of care. The agency shall also require providers to minimize the exposure of recipients to the need for acute inpatient, custodial, and other institutional care and the inappropriate or unnecessary use of high-cost services. The agency shall contract with a vendor to monitor and evaluate the clinical practice patterns of providers in order to identify trends that are outside the normal practice patterns of a provider's professional peers or the national guidelines of a provider's professional association. The vendor must be able to provide information and counseling to a provider whose practice patterns are outside the norms, in consultation with the agency, to improve patient care and reduce inappropriate utilization. The agency may mandate prior authorization, drug therapy management, or disease management participation for certain populations of Medicaid beneficiaries, certain drug classes, or particular drugs to prevent fraud, abuse, overuse, and possible dangerous drug interactions. The Pharmaceutical and Therapeutics Committee shall make recommendations to the agency on drugs for which prior authorization is required. The agency shall inform the Pharmaceutical and Therapeutics Committee of its decisions regarding drugs subject to prior authorization. The agency is authorized to limit the entities it contracts with or enrolls as Medicaid providers by developing a provider network through provider credentialing. The agency may competitively bid single-source-provider contracts if procurement of goods or services results in demonstrated cost savings to the state without limiting access to care. The agency may limit its network based on the assessment of beneficiary access to care, provider availability, provider quality standards, time and distance standards for access to care, the cultural competence of the provider network, demographic characteristics of Medicaid beneficiaries, practice and provider-to-beneficiary standards, appointment wait times, beneficiary use of services, provider turnover, provider profiling, provider licensure history, previous program integrity investigations and findings, peer review, provider Medicaid policy and billing compliance records, clinical and medical record audits, and other factors. Providers are not entitled to enrollment in the Medicaid provider network. The agency shall determine instances in which allowing Medicaid beneficiaries to purchase durable medical equipment and other goods is less expensive to the Medicaid program than long-term rental of the equipment or goods. The agency may establish rules to facilitate purchases in lieu of long-term rentals in order to protect against fraud and abuse in the Medicaid program as defined in s. 409.913. The agency may seek federal waivers necessary to administer these policies.

(43) Subject to the availability of funds, the agency shall mandate a recipient's participation in a provider lock-in program, when appropriate, if a recipient is found by the agency to have used Medicaid goods or services at a frequency or amount not medically necessary, limiting the receipt of goods or services to medically necessary providers after the 21-day appeal process has ended, for at least ~~a period of not less than~~ 1 year. The lock-in programs must ~~shall~~ include, but are not limited to, pharmacies, medical doctors, and infusion clinics. The limitation does not apply to emergency services and care provided to the recipient in a hospital emergency department. The agency shall seek any federal waivers necessary to implement this subsection. ~~The agency shall adopt any rules necessary to~~ ~~comply with or administer this subsection.~~ This subsection expires October 1, 2014.

II. Present Situation:

Not-For-Profit Self-Insurance Funds

Section 624.4625, F.S., provides that two or more not-for-profit corporations located and organized under Florida law may form a self-insurance fund. The purpose of the self-insurance fund must be to pool and spread the property and casualty liabilities of group members. The fund must meet a number of requirements including:

- Annual normal premiums in excess of $5 million;
- Each participating member receiving at least 75 percent of its revenues from local, state, and federal governmental sources;
- Use of a qualified actuary to determine actuarially sound rates and adequate reserves;
- Maintaining excess insurance coverage;
- Submitting annually audited financial statements; and
- Other requirements set forth under the statute.

Licensing of Insurance Agents Selling Motor Vehicle Rental Insurance

In general, insurance agents transact insurance on behalf of an insurer or insurers. Agents must be licensed by the DFS to act as an agent for an insurer, and be appointed (i.e., given the authority by an insurance company to transact business on its behalf) by at least one insurer to act as the agent for that particular appointing insurer or insurers.[1]

Limited lines insurance agents are individuals, or in some cases entities, licensed as insurance agents but limited to selling one or more of the following forms of insurance (each requiring a separate license):

- Motor vehicle physical damage and mechanical breakdown insurance;
- Industrial fire or burglary;
- Travel insurance;
- Motor vehicle rental insurance;
- Credit insurance;
- Crop hail and multiple-peril crop insurance;
- In-transit and storage personal property insurance; and
- Portable electronics insurance.[2]

A limited lines insurance agent license generally has fewer requirements for licensing than other insurance agents. These licensees must, however, file an application with the DFS and be appointed by an insurance company.

Department of Financial Services

The DFS licenses insurance agencies and agents. The DFS Division of Agent and Agency Services receives licensing applications, issues licenses, and investigates violations of the

[1] s. 626.112, F.S.
[2] s. 626.321, F.S.

Insurance Code.[3] In order to transact insurance, a person must be licensed by the DFS and appointed by an insurer to transact insurance on its behalf.[4] If an agent fails to maintain an appointment during a four-year period, the agent's license expires and the agent must qualify as a first time applicant before transacting insurance.[5]

Section 624.310, F.S., gives the DFS the authority to initiate administrative proceedings to seek cease and desist orders, to seek the removal of affiliated parties, to impose administrative fines, and to suspend or revoke licenses. Any service of documents authorized or required by s. 624.310, F.S., must be made by certified mail, personal delivery, or by service of process in accordance with ch. 48, F.S. Section 624.310, F.S., does not allow for service by electronic mail.

Insurance Agency Licensure and Registration

The DFS is responsible for licensing insurance agencies in accordance with s. 626.172, F.S. An application for licensure must be signed by the owner of the agency.[6] Insurance agents who are sole proprietors and do not employ other insurance agents must be licensed as both an insurance agent and an insurance agency.[7]

Each place of business where an agent transacts insurance must have an agency license.[8] Section 626.747, F.S., requires a licensed insurance agent to be at each branch location where activities requiring licensure as an insurance agent occur. Such an agent is commonly referred to as the "agent in charge."

Section 626.112(7), F.S., provides that agencies existing prior to January 1, 2003, are allowed to file an application for registration in lieu of applying for licensure. A benefit of registration over licensing is that registrations do not expire, whereas licenses expire every three years.[9] The DFS staff indicates that Florida is the only state that registers insurance agencies in lieu of licensing them and that many registered agencies are seeking licensure.[10]

Insurance Agents

A "general lines agent" is an agent who transacts property insurance, casualty insurance, surety insurance, certain types of health insurance, and marine insurance.[11] A "customer representative" means an individual appointed by a general lines agent or agency to assist that agent or agency in transacting the business of insurance from the office of that agent or agency.[12] A "limited customer representative" is a customer representative appointed by a general lines agent or agency to assist that agent or agency in transacting only the business of private passenger motor vehicle insurance from the office of that agent or agency.[13]

Regulation of Navigators

In 2010, the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act became law. The act created "navigators" to aid consumers in selecting a health plan. Part XIII of ch. 626, F.S., requires navigators to register with the DFS and provides a registration process for navigators.[14] Section 626.9957, F.S., provides disciplinary rules for navigators and grounds for the denial of registration.

Alternative Dispute Resolution Programs

The DFS administers alternative dispute programs for various types of insurance and has mediation programs for property insurance[15] and automobile insurance[16] claims. The DFS has a neutral evaluation program, similar to mediation, for sinkhole insurance claims.[17] The DFS approves mediators used in the two mediation programs and certifies the neutral evaluators used in neutral evaluations for sinkhole insurance claims.[18]

To qualify as a mediator for the property or automobile mediation programs, a person must possess graduate level degrees in specified areas, be a member of the Florida Bar, be a licensed certified public accountant, or be a mediator for four years.[19] In addition, an applicant must complete a training program approved by the DFS.[20]

To qualify as a neutral evaluator for sinkhole insurance claims, a neutral evaluator must be a professional engineer or a professional geologist who has completed a course of study in alternative dispute resolution approved by the DFS and who is determined by the DFS to be fair and impartial.[21] According to an analysis provided by the DFS,[22] the number of reported mediations and neutral evaluations is:

	Fiscal Year 2010-2011	Fiscal Year 2011-2012	Fiscal Year 2012-2013
Mediations	3,489	3,323	3,966
Neutral Evaluations	2,245	2,681	1,867

Public Adjuster and Insurance Adjuster Notice Requirements for Residential Property Insurance Claims

Section 626.854, F.S., defines a public adjuster as any person[23] who is compensated for aiding an insured or third-party claimant to file an insurance claim or negotiate the settlement of an insurance claim.[24] Section 626.854(6), F.S., prohibits public adjusters from initiating contact or contracting with an insured or claimant regarding a residential property insurance claim until at least 48 hours after the event that is the basis of the claim occurs. The Florida Supreme Court, however, ruled the 48 hour prohibition an unconstitutional regulation of commercial speech in a 2012 decision.[25] Section 626.854(14), F.S., contains a corresponding requirement that adjusters, investigators and attorneys representing insurers must provide the claimant or claimant's representative at least 48 hours' notice prior to scheduling a meeting with the claimant or inspecting the insured property. This requirement remains effective under Florida law.

Insurance Administrators

An insurance administrator is any person who directly or indirectly solicits or effects coverage of, collects charges or premiums from, or adjusts or settles claims on residents of this state in connection with an insurance policy. To operate as an insurance administrator, a person must obtain a certificate of authority to act as an administrator from the Office of Insurance Regulation.[26] An insurer who utilizes an insurance administrator must at least semiannually conduct a review of the operations of an administrator that administers more than 100 certificateholders of that insurer.[27] An administrator must have a written agreement between itself and each insurer for which it performs administrative functions.[28] Administrators must also file an annual financial statement with the OIR containing the administrator's financial condition, transactions, and affairs no later than March 1 of each year.[29]

Surplus Lines Agent Affidavit

Surplus lines insurance refers to a category of insurance for which there is no market available through standard insurance carriers in the admitted market (insurance companies licensed to transact insurance in Florida). Surplus lines insurance is sold by surplus lines insurance agents. Before a surplus lines insurance agent can place insurance in the surplus lines market, s. 626.916, F.S., requires the insurance agent to make a diligent effort to procure the desired coverage from admitted insurers. Section 626.914, F.S., defines a diligent effort as seeking and being denied coverage from at least three authorized insurers in the admitted market unless the cost to replace the property insured is $1 million or more. In that case, diligent effort is seeking and being denied coverage from at least one authorized insurer in the admitted market.

Surplus lines insurance agents must report surplus lines insurance transactions to the Florida Surplus Lines Service Office (FSLSO or Office) within 30 days of the effective date of the transaction. They must also transmit service fees to the Office each month, and must transmit assessment and tax payments to the Office quarterly.

Current law also requires a surplus lines agent to file a quarterly affidavit with the FSLSO to document all surplus lines insurance transacted in the quarter it was submitted to the FSLSO. The affidavit also documents the efforts the agent made to place coverage with authorized insurers and the results of the efforts.

Hurricane Loss Projection Models

The Florida Commission on Hurricane Loss Projection Methodology (Commission) was established by the Legislature to serve as an independent body to provide expert evaluation of computer models that project hurricane losses.[30] The Commission is assigned to the State Board of Administration. The Commission adopts findings on the accuracy or reliability of the methods, standards, principles, models and other means used to project hurricane losses. Members of the Commission include:[31]

- The Insurance Consumer Advocate;
- The person responsible for FHCF operations;
- The Executive Director of Citizens Property Insurance Corporation;
- The Director of Emergency Management;
- An actuary member from the FHCF Advisory Council;
- An actuary employed by the OIR;
- An appointment by the state Chief Financial Officer who is an actuary employed with a property and casualty insurer;
- An appointment by the state Chief Financial Officer who is an insurance finance expert and who is a full-time faculty member in the State University System;
- An appointment by the state Chief Financial Officer who is a statistics expert in meteorology and who is a full-time faculty member in the State University System; and
- An appointment by the state Chief Financial Officer who is an expert in computer system design and who is a full-time faculty member in the State University System.

The Commission sets standards for loss projection methodology and examines the methods employed in hurricane loss models used by private insurers in setting rates to determine whether they meet the Commission's standards. Only hurricane loss models or methods that the Commission has found to be accurate can be used by insurers to estimate the hurricane losses that are used to set property insurance rates. After the Commission finds a model to be accurate, an insurer has 60 days to use the model to predict the insurer's probable maximum loss "with respect to a rate filing."[32]

Zip Codes and Rating Territories for Motor Vehicle Insurance

Section 627.062, F.S., is Florida's rating law. Among other requirements, it provides that insurance rates cannot be excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory. Insurer rate filings that comply with the law and are adequately supported by actuarial justification must be accepted by the OIR. Pursuant to s. 627.0651, F.S., the use of a single zip code as a rating territory for motor vehicle insurance rates is deemed unfairly discriminatory and is thus prohibited.

Premium Discounts for Motor Vehicle Insurance

Section 627.0653, F.S., sets forth motor vehicle insurance discounts that insurers must offer for specified motor vehicle equipment. Insurers are required to provide a premium discount for liability, personal injury protection (PIP), and collision coverages if the insured vehicle is equipped with factory-installed, four-wheel antilock brakes. A premium discount on comprehensive coverage must be provided for an antitheft device or vehicle recovery system that is factory installed or approved by the OIR. Discounts must be provided on PIP and medical payments coverage if a vehicle has one or more factory installed airbags. The statute also allows, but does not require, insurers to provide a discount on comprehensive coverage for permanent etching of the vehicle identification number on all windows of the vehicle. Section 627.0652, F.S., requires insurers to provide a discount to insureds age 55 years or older who successfully complete a motor vehicle accident prevention course approved by the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles.

Workers' Compensation Retrospective Rating Plans

Florida law requires every workers' compensation insurer to file with the OIR its rates and classifications that the insurer proposes to use.[33] Section 627.072, F.S., prescribes factors used in the determination of rates. Section 627.091(1), F.S., requires every insurer to file with the OIR every manual of classifications, rules, and rates, and every rating plan, which it proposes to use. Rate filings for workers' compensation are subject to approval by the OIR before they become effective. The standard for approving insurance rates in Florida and most states is that the rate may not be excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory.[34]

Current Florida law and the rating plans approved by OIR allow for various ways for insurers to compete in the market by varying or adjusting premiums, including retrospective (retro) rating plans that adjust the premium at the end of the policy period to reflect the actual loss experience of the employer. In a retro rating plan, the insurer and employer agree that the final premium paid will be based upon losses actually incurred in the policy period. The insurer and employer negotiate on certain expenses, charges, taxes, and assessments, based upon minimum and maximum premiums. Retrospective rating has been a component of workers' compensation [33] Section 627. 091(4), F.S., allows an insurer to satisfy this obligation by becoming a member of a licensed rating organization, which makes such filings on its behalf. The law expressly provides that an insurer is not required to be a member of any rating organization, but all workers' compensation insurers in Florida have chosen to do so. Currently, all workers' compensation insurers are members of the National Council on Compensation Insurance.

[34] Section 627.062, F.S.

rating for over 50 years in Florida and nationwide. The National Council on Compensation Insurance (NCCI) has filed actuarially sound rating plans.

In 1991, the NCCI filed the Large Risk Alternative Rating Option (LRARO) in Florida. The LRARO was described as providing greater flexibility of negotiation between an insurer and employer for risks with over $1,000,000 in standard premium." In 1991, the Department of Insurance (predecessor of the Office of Insurance Regulation) disapproved the use of the LRARO on the basis that it did not comply with s. 627.091(1), F.S., and that the LRARO was not a rating plan but an agreement to use any factors acceptable to both parties.[35] Subsequently, in 1993, an insurer filed its own version of the LRARO and the Department of Insurance disapproved it. The rejection of the plan was primarily on the basis that the use of the LRARO would not allow agency oversight as to the determination of premiums since it proposed to allow the insurer and prospective insureds to agree unilaterally on the components to be used in the rating process.[36] The insurer appealed the disapproval to the Division of Administrative Hearings (DOAH) and DOAH found that the Department of Insurance was justified in disapproving the plan.

Currently, the LRARO plans are available in the majority of the states. However, Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, and Nebraska do not allow its use.[37] The NCCI retro plan rule, which does not apply in Florida, provides that an insured is eligible for the LRARO if the estimated standard premium individually or in any combination with any other commercial casualty lines of insurance exceeds an annual standard premium eligibility threshold of $500,000 for the term of a retrospective rating plan. The following table provides examples of states with different annual standard premium eligibility thresholds for LRARO.[38]

LRARO Premium Eligibility Threshold
State	Annual Standard Premium
Arizona	$250,000
Kansas	$1,000,000
Minnesota	$250,000
Nevada	$250,000
New Hampshire	$250,000

Refunds to Insureds from the Workers' Compensation Joint Underwriting Association

The Florida Workers' Compensation Joint Underwriting Association (FWCJUA)[39] is the market of last resort for workers' compensation and employers' liability coverage. Only employers that cannot find coverage in the voluntary market are eligible for coverage in the FWCJUA. At the end of October 2013, the FWCJUA had 1,636 policies with corresponding premiums of $29.4 million.[40]

The FWCJUA has a three-tier rating plan. As a brief overview, Tier 1 is for employers with good loss experience; Tier 2 is for employers with moderate loss experience and non-rated new employers; and Tier 3 is for employers not eligible for Tiers 1 or 2.[41] As of January 1, 2014, the premium for Tier 1 is five percent above voluntary rates, Tier 2 is 20 percent above voluntary rates, and Tier 3[42] is 75 percent above voluntary rates. Additionally, all three tiers have a flat surcharge of $475. Tier 3 policies are also subject to assessment if premiums are not sufficient to cover losses and expenses.

Misrepresentations on Insurance Applications and Cancellation of Insurance Policies

Section 627.409, F.S., provides recovery under an insurance policy may be prevented if a misrepresentation, omission, concealment of fact, or incorrect statement on an application for insurance (1) is fraudulent or is material either to the acceptance of the risk or to the hazard assumed by the insurer or (2) if the true facts had been known to the insurer, the insurer would not have issued the policy, would not have issued it at the same premium rate, would not have issued a policy in as large an amount, or would not have provided coverage with respect to the hazard resulting in the loss. If an insurer discovers a misrepresentation or omission after issuing the policy, it may deny coverage after a claim is made. In Nationwide Mutual Fire Insurance Company v. Kramer,[43] an insurer refused to pay a claim for a stolen automobile because the insureds did not disclose a previous bankruptcy filing. In Kieser v. Old Line Insurance Company of America,[44] an insurance company refused to pay a life insurance policy because the insured failed to disclose certain health conditions and failed to disclose that he was shopping for other life insurance policies. In Universal Property and Casualty Insurance Company v. Johnson,[45] an insurance company refused to pay a property insurance claim because the insureds failed to disclose prior criminal history. A misrepresentation from or an omission in an insurance application need not be intentional in order for the insurance company to deny recovery.[46]

Section 627.4133(2), F.S., requires notice to the insured before an insurer can cancel, nonrenew, or terminate any personal lines or commercial residential property insurance policy. The timing of the notice ranges from ten days for nonpayment of premium to 120 days for certain policyholders.[47] After the policy has been in effect for 90 days, such a policy cannot be canceled unless there has been a material misstatement, a nonpayment of premium, a failure to comply with underwriting requirements within 90 days after the date of effectuation of coverage, or a substantial change in the risk covered by the policy.[48] According to the DFS, there are instances of insurance companies reviewing a policyholder's application for insurance after a claim has been filed and denying coverage based on misrepresentations about credit history.[49]

[39] The Florida Workers' Compensation Insurance Plan (FWCIP) was the residual market for Florida until the FWCJUA was created on January 1, 1994.

Notice of Cancellation or Nonrenewal

The requirements for an insurer to give notice of cancelling or nonrenewing a residential property insurance policy are contained in s. 627.4133(2), F.S. The specific notice depends on the particular circumstances of the policy being nonrenewed, as follows:

- Generally, an insurer must give the insured 100 days written notice of nonrenewal or cancellation;
- For any nonrenewal or cancellation that would be effective between June 1 and November 30 (hurricane season), an insurer must give notice by June 1, or 100 days, whichever is earlier;
- If the nonrenewal or cancellation would be effective between June 1 and November 30, but the reason is a revision in sinkhole coverage, the insurer must give the insured 100 days written notice of nonrenewal;
- If the nonrenewal or cancellation would be effective between June 1 and November 30, but the policy is to be nonrenewed by Citizens pursuant to an approved assumption plan by an authorized insurer, Citizens must give the insured 45 days written notice of nonrenewal;
- If the insured structure has been insured by the insurer or an affiliate for at least five years, the insurer must give 120 days' notice of nonrenewal or cancellation;
- If the cancellation is for nonpayment of premium, the insurer must give 10 days' notice of cancellation accompanied by the reason for the cancellation;
- If the OIR finds that the early cancellation is necessary to protect the best interests of the public or policyholders, the insurer must give the insured 45 days' written notice of cancellation or nonrenewal;
- If a policy covers both home and motor vehicle, the insurer must give the insured 100 days written notice of nonrenewal.

Required Disclosures by Liability Insurers

Under current law, a liability insurer must provide to a claimant a statement containing the following information within 30 days of a written request by the claimant:

- The name of the insurer;
- The name of each insured;
- The limits of the liability coverage;
- A statement of any policy or coverage defense which such insurer reasonably believes is available to the such insurer at the time of filing such statement; and

- A copy of the policy.

Further, the above statement must be under oath by a corporate officer or the insurer's claims manager or superintendent.

Delivery of Insurance Policies Electronically

Section 627.421, F.S., requires every insurance policy[50] to be mailed or delivered to the insured (policyholder) within 60 days after the insurance takes effect. Insurance policies are typically only delivered when the policy is issued and are not delivered each time the policy is renewed. The Federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (E-SIGN) applies to electronic transactions involving interstate commerce.[51] Insurance is specifically included in E-SIGN.[52] E-SIGN provides contracts formed using electronic signatures on electronic records will not be denied legal effect only because they are electronic. However, E-SIGN requires consumer disclosure and consent to electronic records in certain instances before electronic records will be given legal effect. Under E-SIGN, if a statute requires information to be provided or made available to a consumer in writing, the use of an electronic record to provide or make the information available to the consumer will satisfy the statute's requirement of writing if the consumer affirmatively consents to use of an electronic record. The consumer must also be provided with a statement notifying the consumer of the right to have the electronic information made available in a paper format and of the right to withdraw consent to electronic records, among other notifications.

In addition, s. 668.50, F.S., Florida's Uniform Electronic Transaction Act (UETA), is similar to the federal E-SIGN law. The UETA specifically applies to insurance and provides a requirement in statute that information that must be delivered in writing to another person can be satisfied by delivering the information electronically if the parties have agreed to conduct a transaction by electronic means.

In 2013, legislation[53] was enacted allowing all insurance policies to be electronically transmitted to the policyholder. The legislation also contained specific electronic delivery parameters for insurance covering commercial risks.

Change of Policy Terms in Insurance Policies

An insurer must give the policyholder written Notice of Change in Policy Terms with the policy renewal notice to make a change in the terms of a property and casualty insurance contract. Additionally, the notice must comply with current law, which requires insurers to give notice of renewal 45 days prior to the renewal date.[54] A policyholder is deemed to accept the policy term change if the renewal premium is paid. If the insurer does not provide the Notice of Change in Policy Terms to the policyholder, the terms of the insurance policy are not changed.

Mitigation Discount Verification for Citizens Property Insurance Corporation

Since 2003, insurers have been required to provide mitigation credits, discounts, other rate differentials, or reductions in deductibles (mitigation discounts) to reduce residential property insurance premiums for properties with mitigation features.[55] Section 627.711, F.S., requires insurers to clearly notify an applicant or policyholder of a personal lines residential property insurance policy of the availability and range of each premium discount, credit, other rate differential, or reduction in deductibles, for wind mitigation. The notice must be provided when the policy is issued and renewed.

Typically, policyholders are responsible for substantiating to their insurers that the insured property has mitigation features. Policyholders submit a completed uniform mitigation verification inspection form to the insurer to substantiate mitigation features. Insurers must accept mitigation forms prepared by home inspectors, building code inspectors, contractors, engineers, and architects and may accept forms prepared by persons determined to be qualified by the insurer to prepare the form.

Insurers can require mitigation forms provided to the insurer by mitigation inspectors or mitigation inspection companies be independently verified for quality assurance purposes before accepting the mitigation form as valid. The insurer must pay for the independent verification.[56] At their expense, insurers can also independently verify, for quality assurance purposes, mitigation forms submitted by policyholders or insurance agents.

Personal Injury Protection Insurance (PIP)

In 2012, the Legislature enacted HB 119,[57] making substantial changes to laws applying to Florida's PIP requirements. Among numerous other changes, the bill amended s. 627.736(5)(a)2., F.S., by establishing the date on which changes to the Medicare fee schedule or payment limitation are effective. The new provision states, in part:

> [T]he applicable fee schedule or payment limitation under Medicare is the fee schedule or payment limitation in effect on March 1 of the year in which the services, supplies, or care is rendered…and the applicable fee schedule or payment limitation applies throughout the remainder of that year….

The above language created uncertainty as to whether the Medicare fee schedule in place on March 1st applied just to the end of the calendar year or applied through the end of February of the following year. On November 6, 2012, the OIR issued Informational Memorandum OIR-12-06M,[58] stating that the plain language of the section requires the fee schedule in place on March 1, to apply throughout the following 365 days, or until March 1, of the following year.

Preinsurance Inspection of Private Passenger Motor Vehicles

Section 627.744, F.S., requires preinsurance inspections of private passenger motor vehicles, but lists various exemptions, including for new, used motor vehicles "purchased" from a licensed motor vehicle dealer or leasing company when the insurer is provided with the bill of sale, buyer's order, or copy of the title and certain other documentation. Despite the exemptions, an insurer may require a preinsurance inspection of any motor vehicle as a condition of issuance of physical damage coverage. Applicants for insurance may be required to pay the cost of the preinsurance inspection, not to exceed five dollars.

Title Insurance

In Florida, title insurers operate on a monoline basis, meaning that the insurer can only transact title insurance and cannot transact any other type of insurance. Pursuant to s. 627.782, F.S., the Financial Services Commission (FSC) is mandated to adopt a rule specifying the premium to be charged by title insurers for the respective types of title insurance contracts and, for policies issued through agents or agencies, the percentage of such premium required to be retained by the title insurer, which shall not be less than 30 percent. The FSC must review the premium not less than once every three years. Title insurers and title insurance agencies are required to submit to the Office of Insurance Regulation (OIR), on or before March 31st of each year, revenue, loss, and expense data for the most recently concluded year that are determined necessary to assist in the analysis of premium rates, title search costs, and the condition of the Florida title insurance industry.

Model Holding Company Act and Regulations

For years, the OIR's financial oversight authority has included a review of transactions among affiliates and members of insurance holding companies by adopting the National Association of Insurance Commissioners' (NAIC) Model Insurance Holding Company Act.

In response to the recent financial crisis, the NAIC's Solvency Modernization Initiative (SMI)[59] studied key group supervision issues for insurance holding company systems. In light of the 2008 liquidity crisis and collapse of American International Group, Inc., the SMI's efforts focused on the risks and activities of non-insurance entities within insurance holding companies, concluded there was a corresponding regulatory need to obtain affiliates' financial information, such as enterprise risk. The NAIC model act defines "enterprise risk" as:

> [A]ny activity, circumstance, event, or series of events involving one or more affiliates of an insurer that, if not remedied promptly, is likely to have a material adverse effect upon the financial condition or liquidity of the insurer of its insurance company as a whole, including, but not limited to, anything that would cause the insurer's risk-based capital as set forth in [state requirement] or would cause the insurer to be in a hazardous financial condition.[60]

[59] NAIC Solvency Modernization Initiative (last viewed February 3, 2014), at http://www.naic.org/index_smi.htm
[60] Section 1(F) of the NAIC Model Insurance Holding Company System Regulatory Act.

As a result, the NAIC adopted revisions to its Model Insurance Holding Company System Regulatory Act and Regulations in December 2010, which states must adopt as an accreditation component. These revisions include:

- Expansions to regulators' ability to evaluate any entity within an insurance holding company system;
- Enhancements to the regulator's rights to access books and records and to compel production of information;
- Establishment of expectation of funding with regard to regulator participation in supervisory colleges;
- Enhancements in corporate governance, such as board of directors and senior management responsibilities;
- The inclusion of financial statements as part of an affiliate's registration requirements; and
- Enterprise risk reporting requirements.

Currently, s. 628.461, F.S., provides that a person or affiliated person[61] must file a letter of notification and a statement for the OIR's approval before concluding a tender offer to acquire five percent or more of a domestic stock insurer or of a controlling company. The statute also sets forth the information required to be disclosed in the statement, which includes criminal and regulatory history information. Alternatively, a party acquiring less than 10 percent of the outstanding voting securities of an insurer may file a disclaimer of affiliation of control, and such disclaimer must fully disclose all material relationships and affiliation with the insurer, as well as the reason for such disclaimer (this disclaimer is mandatory for acquisitions of more than 10 percent).

During the pendency of the OIR's review of an acquisition filing, the insurer is not permitted to make a "material change" to its operation or management, unless the OIR has approved or been notified, respectively. A "material change" consists of a disposal or obligation of five percent or more of the insurer's capital and surplus, or a change in management involving a person who has the authority to dispose or obligate five percent of the insurer's capital and surplus.

Service Warranty Associations

A service warranty is generally defined as a contract to perform the repair or replacement of a consumer product for failure due to a defect.[62] A service warranty association is defined as any person, other than an authorized insurer, issuing service warranties.[63]

Section 634.406, F.S., establishes the financial requirements, ratios, and limitations on service warranty associations. A service warranty association can allow its premiums to exceed the ratio to net assets limitations of s. 634.406, F.S., only if the association meets all of the following:

- Maintains net assets of at least $750,000.
- Utilizes a contractual liability insurance policy approved by the office which:

[61] Currently, "affiliated person" is defined in s. 628.461(12)(a), F.S., to include spouses, parents and lineal descendants, and persons affiliated through 5 percent ownership, common control, or management.
[62] S. 634.401(13), F.S.
[63] S. 634.401(14), F.S.

- Reimburses the service warranty association for 100 percent of its claims liability and is issued by an insurer that maintains a policyholder surplus of at least $100 million; or
- Complies with the requirements of subsection (3)[64] and is issued by an insurer that maintains a policyholder surplus of at least $200 million.

- The insurer issuing the contractual liability insurance policy:
  - Maintains a policyholder surplus of at least $100 million.
  - Is rated "A" or higher by A.M. Best Company or an equivalent rating by another national rating service acceptable to the OIR.
  - Is in no way affiliated with the warranty association.
  - Provides a statement certifying the gross written premiums is covered under the contractual liability policy, whether or not it has been reported.

The statute further requires that a contractual liability policy must insure 100 percent of an association's claims exposure under all of the association's service warranty contracts, unless numerous specified conditions are met.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Unaffiliated Agents (Sections 2, 3, 8, and 42)

According to the DFS, some insurance agents act as advisors to clients for a fee. These agents provide advice and recommendations regarding, among other things, insurance products but do not sell the products. Section 3 defines in s. 626.015(18), F.S., a new type of insurance agent, an unaffiliated insurance agent, and Section 8 specifies the scope of the license in s. 626.311, F.S. This agent acts as an independent consultant in the business of analyzing or abstracting insurance policies, providing insurance advice or counseling, or making specific recommendations or comparisons of insurance products for a fee established in advance by a written contract signed by the parties. This bill defines this type of agent as a licensed insurance agent, except a limited lines agent, who is not appointed by or affiliated with any insurer, but is self-appointed. This bill prohibits an unaffiliated insurance agent from holding an appointment from an insurer, from transacting an insurance contract for an insurer, and from interfering with commissions from an appointed insurance agent. Unaffiliated insurance agents may continue to receive commissions on sales made before the date of appointment as an unaffiliated insurance agent as long as the agent discloses the receipt of commissions to the client when making recommendations or evaluating products of the entity from which commissions are received.

[64] Subsection (3) of s. 634.406, F.S., states that a warranty association need not establish an unearned premium reserve if it purchases contractual liability insurance that covers 100 percent of its claims liability from an authorized insurer. The terms of the policy must contain the following (a) state the insurer will pay losses and unearned premium refunds directly to a person making a claim under the warranty association contract in the event the services warranty association does not do so; (b) the insurer must assume full responsibility for administering claims if the warranty association cannot do so; (c) 60 days written notice must be given to the OIR prior to policy cancellation; (d) the policy must insure all service warranty contracts issued while the policy was in effect whether or not the premium has been remitted to the insurer; (e) If the insurer is fulfilling the service warranty covered by the policy and the service warranty holder cancels the warranty, the insurer must fully refund unearned premium, subject to a cancellation fee under s. 634.414, F.S.; and (f) a warranty association may not use an unearned premium reserve and contractual liability insurance policy simultaneously. However, the warranty association may have contractual liability coverage on service warranties previously sold and sell new service warranties covered by the unearned premium reserve, and the converse. The warranty association must be able to distinguish how each individual service warranty is covered.

The unaffiliated agent is not appointed by an insurer to sell insurance products. This can lead to a situation where an agent's license expires because the agent is not appointed during a four-year period.[65] This bill allows an unaffiliated agent to appoint himself or herself. Section 2 amends s. 624.501, F.S., to require unaffiliated insurance agents to pay the same agent appointment fees required under current law for agents appointed by insurers.

Section 42 creates s. 627.4553, F.S., to require insurance agents, insurers, or persons performing insurance agent activities under an exemption from licensure, who recommend that a consumer surrender an annuity or life insurance policy with a cash value, but who do not recommend that another such policy be purchased with the proceeds from the surrender, to provide the consumer with information relating to the product to be surrendered before execution of the surrender. The information must include that the amount of any surrender charge, tax consequences resulting from the transaction, and forfeited death benefit. The consumer must also be informed about the loss of any minimum interest rate guarantees and the value of any other investment performance guarantees that will be forfeited as a result of the transaction. This bill requires the DFS to adopt rules and forms so the required information can be provided.

Agent in Charge and Branch Agencies (Sections 4, 13, and 14)

Effective January 1, 2015, Section 4 creates s. 626.0428(4), F.S., which defines an agent in charge as the licensed and appointed agent responsible for the supervision of all individuals within an insurance agency location. Each business location established by an agent or insurance agency must be in the active full-time charge of a licensed and appointed agent holding the required licenses for the lines of insurance transacted at the location. The agent in charge of an insurance agency may be the agent in charge of additional branch locations if: (1) insurance activities requiring licensure as an insurance agent do not occur at the locations when an agent is not physically present, and (2) unlicensed employees at the locations do not engage in insurance activities that require licensure as an insurance agent or customer representative.

This bill requires each insurance agency and branch office to designate an agent in charge and to file the agent's name, license number, and physical address of the insurance agency location with the DFS at the DFS website. A change of the designated agent in charge must be reported to the DFS within 30 days, and becomes effective upon notification to the DFS.

This bill provides that an insurance agency location is precluded from conducting the business of insurance unless an agent in charge is designated by and providing services to the agency at all times. When the agent in charge ends his or her affiliation with the agency, the agency must designate another agent in charge within 30 days. If the agency fails to make such designation within 90 days after the designated agent has ended his or her affiliation with the agency, the agency license automatically expires 91 days after the designated agent ended his or her affiliation with the agency.

This bill provides that an agent in charge of an insurance agency is accountable for the wrongful acts, misconduct or violations committed by the licensee or agent or by any person under her or his supervision acting on behalf of the agency. However, the agent in charge is not criminally liable for the misconduct unless she or he personally committed the act or knew or should have known of the acts and of the facts that constitute the violation.

Section 13 repeals s. 626.747, F.S., relating to branch agencies, effective January 1, 2015. The section is incorporated and expanded in the new s. 624.0428(4), F.S.

Section 14 amends, s. 626.8411(1)(b), F.S., correcting a cross reference to properly cite the new branch agency requirements created by Section 7.

Not-For-Profit Self-Insurance Funds

Section 1 amends s. 624.4625(1)(b), F.S., to permit a publicly supported organization, as evidenced by the participating member's most recently filed Internal Revenue Service Form 990 or 990-EZ, Schedule A, to participate as a member of a not-for-profit self-insurance fund. This option is in addition to current law which provides that each member receive at least 75 percent of its revenues from local, state, or federal government sources.

Insurance Agency Licensing and Registration (Sections 5 and 6)

Section 5 amends s. 626.112, F.S., prohibiting the DFS from issuing limited customer service licenses, effective October 1, 2014.

Section 6 also amends s. 626.112, F.S., eliminating the insurance agency licensing requirement for agencies that are owned and operated by a single licensed agent who conducts business in her or his own name and does not employ or use other insurance licensees, effective January 1, 2015.

The bill provides that a branch place of business established by a licensed agency is considered a branch agency.[66] A branch agency is not required to be licensed if it: (1) transacts business under the same name and federal tax identification number as the licensed agency and has designated with the DFS a licensed agent in charge of the branch location; and (2) has submitted to the DFS for inclusion in the licensing record of the licensed agency the address and telephone number of the branch location within 30 days after insurance transactions began at the branch location.

This bill no longer allows certain insurance agencies to obtain a registration in lieu of a license and makes conforming changes due to this repeal. This bill converts all agency registrations to licenses effective October 1, 2015. Effective January 1, 2015, the bill also eliminates the three-year expiration of an agency license. Thus, an agency license will continue in force until canceled, suspended, revoked, or until it is otherwise terminated or it expires by operation of law.

Section 7 amends s. 626.172, F.S., allowing an owner, partner, officer, director, president, senior vice president, secretary, treasurer, and limited liability company member who directs or participates in the management and control of the agency, to complete and sign an insurance agency application. This bill also allows a third party to complete, submit, and sign an agency license application on the agency's behalf. However, the agency is responsible for ensuring that the information provided by the third party is true and correct and is accountable for any misstatements or misrepresentations.

This bill also requires additional information relating to an agency or branch agency to be provided on the agency license application. Such additional information includes the name, address, and e-mail address of the agency's registered agent or person authorized to accept service on the agency's behalf, the physical address of the branch location, including its name, e-mail address, and telephone number, the date that the branch office began transacting insurance, and the fingerprints of each individual required to be listed in the agency application.

Motor Vehicle Retail Insurance License

Section 9 amends s. 626.321(1), F.S., changing the limited license statute for motor vehicle rental insurance. Under current law, a limited license to sell motor vehicle rental insurance can be issued to a business that offers motor vehicles for rent or lease. A license issued to a rental business covers each office, branch office, or place of business associated with the rental business. The bill expands this coverage to include each employee working at the rental business. Thus, all employees would be covered by the rental business' license to sell rental insurance. According to DFS, the agency interprets the current law relating to rental insurance licensing to mean the license for the rental company business covers each branch office and each employee working at the rental business. Thus, the change made by the bill is clarifying and is consistent with the application of the current law by the DFS.

Continuation of Insurance Agency Licensure

Section 10 amends s. 626.382, F.S., to allow an insurance agency license to continue in force until it is cancelled, suspended, revoked, terminated, or expires by operation of law. Under current law, the license is issued for a three-year period and may be renewed.

Mediators, Navigators, and Neutral Evaluators (Sections 11, 43, 45, 46, 47, and 51)

Section 11 amends s. 626.601, F.S., to authorize the Department of Financial Services to inquire into alleged improper conduct of mediators, neutral evaluators, and navigators and subsequently initiate and conduct an investigation if reasonable cause exists of an insurance code violation.

Section 43 amends s. 627.7015(4)(b), F.S., to specify that the requirements for qualification as a mediator of liability claims under s. 627.745, F.S., are also the standards that the DFS applies for denial of application, suspension, revocation, and other penalties for mediators who participate in the DFS property insurance mediation program.

Section 45 amends s. 627.706(2)(c), F.S., to specify that a sinkhole neutral evaluator is a person who is not otherwise ineligible for certification as a neutral evaluator under s. 627.7074, F.S.

Sections 46 and 51 amend s. 627.7074, F.S., and s. 627.745, F.S., to require the DFS to deny an application or revoke its approval of a mediator or neutral evaluator for any of the following:

- Lack of one or more of the qualifications required for approval or certification.
- Material misstatement, misrepresentation, or fraud in obtaining or attempting to obtain approval or certification.
- Demonstrated lack of fitness or trustworthiness to act as a mediator or neutral evaluator.
- Fraudulent or dishonest practices in the conduct of mediation or neutral evaluation or in conducting business in the financial services industry.
- Violation of any provision of the Florida Insurance Code; a lawful order or rule of the DFS; or aiding, instructing, or encouraging another party to commit such a violation.

The bill grants rulemaking authority to administer these requirements.

Section 51 also changes the requirements for qualifying as a mediator under the motor vehicle insurance claim mediation program for personal injury claims of $10,000 or less, or for property damage claims of any amount. Under the bill, a mediator must possess an active certification as a Florida Circuit Court Mediator or be an appointed department mediator as of July 1, 2014, who has conducted at least one mediation on behalf of the DFS within four years prior to that date. This provision essentially grandfathers in current and active mediators so they can continue, even if they are not certified as a Florida Circuit Court Mediator. The bill eliminates the 40-hour mediation training program and test that all mediators currently must complete in order to be approved as a mediator under the program. In order to become certified as a Florida Circuit Court Mediator, one must fulfil education requirements set by the Florida Supreme Court, complete a mediation training program certified by the Florida Supreme Court, and observe and conduct mediations under the supervision of a certified mediator.[67]

Section 12 amends s. 626.621, F.S., to allow the DFS to deny an application for, suspend, revoke, or refuse to renew or continue a license or appointment of an agent, adjuster, customer representative, service representative, or managing general agent who directly or indirectly accepts any compensation, inducement, or reward from an inspector or inspection company for referring the owner of the property to the inspector or inspection company.

Insurance Company Adjusters – Notice Requirement

Section 15 repeals s. 626.854(16), F.S., which currently requires insurance company employee adjusters, independent adjusters, attorneys, investigators, or other persons acting on behalf of an insurer to provide at least 48 hours' notice to the insured, claimant, public adjuster, or legal representative before scheduling a meeting with the claimant or an onsite inspection of the insured property. A prohibition on public adjusters contacting or contracting with insureds and claimants within 48 hours of a loss in s. 626.854(6), F.S., was ruled unconstitutional by the Florida Supreme Court in 2012.

Insurance Administrators – Certificate of Authority Requirements

Section 16 amends s. 626.8805, F.S., changing the information that must be filed with the OIR or made available for OIR inspection as part of an application for a certificate of authority to act as an insurance administrator. The bill requires the applicant to provide the names, addresses, [67] See http://www.flcourts.org/core/fileparse.php/283/urlt/HowToBecomeMediator.pdf (last accessed February 7, 2014).

official positions, and professional qualifications of individuals who are employed or retained by the administrator and who are responsible for the conduct of the affairs of the administrator. Current law contains a broader standard, requiring information of any person who exercises control or influence over the affairs of the administrator.

Insurance Administrators – Oversight Responsibilities of Insurers

Sections 17-20 amend ss. 626.8817, 626.882, 626.883, and 626.884, F.S., to allow an insurer who uses the services of an administrator to contract with a qualified third party to conduct the required semiannual review of an administrator that administers benefits for more than 100 certificateholders on behalf of the insurer.

The bill also specifies that the written agreement between an insurer and an administrator that details the responsibilities of the insurer and administrator specifies the rights, duties, and obligations of the administrator and insurer. Any restrictions regarding the proprietary rights of the insurer and administrator related to continuing access to books and records maintained by the administrator are governed by the written agreement between the parties required under s. 626.8817, F.S.

Insurance Administrators – Annual Financial Statement

Section 21 amends s. 626.89, F.S., to change to April 1 date by which an administrator must file an annual financial statement with the OIR. The bill also allows the financial statement to cover the previous fiscal year, rather than a calendar year, if the administrator's accounting is on a fiscal year basis.

Repeal of Surplus Lines Agent Affidavit Requirement

Section 22 amends s. 626.931, F.S., to eliminate the requirement that each surplus lines agent must, on or before the 45th day following each calendar quarter, file with the Florida Surplus Lines Service Office (FSLSO) an affidavit stating that all surplus lines insurance he or she transacted during that calendar year has been submitted to the FSLSO and that includes efforts made to place coverage with authorized insurers and the results of those efforts. However, surplus lines agents must still file a copy of information on each surplus lines transaction with the FSLSO in accordance with the FSLSO's plan of operation.

Sections 23-25 amend ss. 626.932, 626.935, and 626.936, F.S., to conform to the elimination of the affidavit requirement in s. 626.89, F.S.

Insurance Discounts for Motor Vehicle Equipment

Section 30 amends s. 627.0653, F.S., to specify that the OIR, when reviewing a rate filing for liability, personal injury protection, and collision coverages for motor vehicle insurance policies, may approve a premium discount applicable to the rates for vehicles equipped with electronic vehicle crash avoidance technology that is factory installed or a retrofitted system that complies with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration standards.

Use of Hurricane Models in Rate Filings

Section 27 amends s. 627.062, F.S., to specify that the Office of Insurance Regulation, when reviewing a rate filing, must consider projections of hurricane losses estimated using a straight average of model results or output ranges independently found acceptable or reliable by the Florida Commission on Hurricane Loss Projection Methodology, and as further provided in s. 627.0628, F.S.[68]

Section 28 amends s. 627.0628, F.S., to increase from 60 days to 180 days the time an insurer is not required to use the newest version of a model approved by the Commission on Hurricane Loss Projection Methodology. This section also specifies that an insurer is not prohibited from using a straight average of model results or output ranges or using straight averages in a rate filing.

Motor Vehicle Insurance Rating

Section 31 amends s. 627.072, F.S., to permit new motor vehicle insurance rating programs or changes to existing programs that result in at least a single zip code as a rating territory for motor vehicle insurance rates. The bill will allow the use of such territories that are filed with the OIR if the territory incorporates sufficient loss data to be actuarially measurable and credible. The OIR would determine if the rates for such territories are excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory. Current law prohibits the use of a single zip code as a rating territory as being unfairly discriminatory.

Workers' Compensation Retrospective Rating Plans

Section 31 amends s. 627.0651, F.S., allowing an insurer and employer to negotiate the retrospective plan rating factors that can be used for calculating the premium when the employer has multistate exposure and an annual estimated countrywide standard premium of $750,000 or more for workers' compensation.

Section 32 requires the OIR, in consultation with the National Council on Compensation Insurance, to prepare a report analyzing the use of the negotiated workers' compensation premium provisions within retrospective rating plans. The report must be delivered by November 1, 2014, to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Section 33 provides a technical conforming cross reference in s. 627.281, F.S.

[68] Section 627.0628, F.S., tasks the Florida Commission on Hurricane Loss Projection Methodology with considering actuarial methods, principles, standards, models, or output ranges that have the potential for improving the accuracy or reliability of hurricane loss projections used in rate filing and probable maximum loss levels. Insurers are prohibited from using in a rate filing a modified or adjusted model, actuarial method, principle, standard, or output range that the commission has found accurate or reliable.

Florida Workers' Compensation Joint Underwriting Association (FWCJUA) Dividend and Premium Refunds

Section 34 amends s. 627.311(5)(h), F.S., authorizing the FWCJUA to retain for future use any dividends that cannot be paid to former insureds of the FWCJUA for reasons set forth in the declaration of the dividend. Currently, the FWCJUA reports the property[69] and owner's name, last known address, and other information to the Department of Financial Services, Bureau of Unclaimed Property. The owner can claim her or his property at no cost, any time, regardless of the amount.[70] The bill eliminates the ability of a person to recover unclaimed property that is left in possession of the FWCJUA at any time in the future. The FWCJUA will not report unclaimed property to the DFS and will ultimately use the unclaimed funds in its possession.

Repeal of Duplicative Citizens Property Insurance Corporation Report

Section 36 repeals 627.3519, F.S., because it requires a report that is duplicative of the report required under s. 627.35191, F.S.

Misrepresentations on Insurance Applications and Cancellation of Insurance Policies

Section 37 amends s. 627.409, F.S. The bill provides that if a residential property insurance policy or contract has been in effect for more than 90 days, a claim filed by the insured cannot be denied based on credit information available in the public record. The bill does not change the law relating to other types of insurance or other types of misrepresentations (such as a misrepresentation regarding health or criminal history).

Section 38 amends s. 627.4133(2)(b), F.S., to provide that after a policy or contract has been in effect for more than 90 days, the insurer may not cancel or terminate the policy or contract based on credit information available in public records.

Residential Property Insurance Notice of Cancellation Requirements

Section 38 amends s. 627.4133(2)(b), F.S., to reduce to 120 days the advance written notice of nonrenewal, cancellation, or termination an insurer must give the first-named insured of a personal lines or commercial residential property insurance policy.

Section 35 provides a technical conforming cross reference in s. 627.3518, F.S.

Insurer Sworn Statement Detailing Liability Coverage and Alleged Defenses

Section 39 amends s. 627.4137, F.S., to authorize the licensed company adjuster of an insurer that provides liability insurance coverage to provide the sworn statement required by current law setting forth the name of the insurer, the name of each insured, the limits of liability coverage, a statement of each policy defense the insurer reasonably believes is available, and a copy of the policy. Current law allows the sworn statement to be provided by only the insurer's claims manager or superintendent, or a corporate officer of the insurer.

[69] Over the past 5 years, the FWCJUA has reported unclaimed property totaling $279,499.06 to the DFS. The amount for each year follows: $16,388.32 (2009); $87,813.27 (2010); $63,552.52 (2011); $73,631.27 (2012); $38,113.68 (2013).

Electronic Delivery of Personal Lines Insurance Policies

Section 40 amends s. 627.421, F.S., allowing insurers to deliver insurance policies by electronic means in lieu of delivery by mail if the policyholder affirmatively elects electronic delivery. The bill does not likely implicate E-SIGN or UETA because it requires the affirmative consent of the policyholder before the electronic delivery of insurance policy documents.

Notice of Change in Policy Terms Delivered Separately from Notice of Renewal Premium

Section 41 amends s. 627.43141(2), F.S., to allow the Notice of Change in Policy Terms to be sent separately from the Notice of Renewal Premium. If a separate notice is used, it must comply with the nonrenewal mailing time requirement for that particular line of business. Insurers must also provide or make available electronically the Notice of Change in Policy Terms to the insured's insurance agent before or at the same time the notice is given to the insured.

Information Required With the Surrender of Life Insurance or Annuity

Section 42 creates s. 627.4553, F.S., to require insurance agents, insurers, or persons performing insurance agent activities under an exemption from licensure, who recommend that a consumer surrender an annuity or life insurance policy with a cash value, but who do not recommend that another such policy be purchased with the proceeds from the surrender, to provide the consumer with information relating to the product to be surrendered before execution of the surrender. The information must include that the amount of any surrender charge, tax consequences resulting from the transaction, and forfeited death benefit. The consumer must also be informed about the loss of any minimum interest rate guarantees and the value of any other investment performance guarantees that will be forfeited as a result of the transaction. This bill requires the DFS to adopt rules and forms so the required information can be provided.

Conflict of Interest Standards for Residential Property Insurance Appraisal Umpires

Section 44 creates s. 627.70151, F.S., to only allow a residential property insurer or policyholder to challenge the impartiality of an appraisal umpire if:

- A familial relationship within the third degree exists between the umpire and a party or a representative of a party;
- The umpire previously professionally represented a party or party representative in the same or a substantially related matter;
- The umpire has represented another person in a professional capacity on the same claim or a substantially related claim whose interests are materially adverse to the interests of any party; or
- The umpire has been an employer or employee of a party within the preceding five years.

Notice to Policyholder of Availability of Sinkhole Neutral Evaluation

Section 46 amends s. 627.7074(3), F.S., to limit the circumstances when an insurer must notify a policyholder of the right to participate in neutral evaluation of a sinkhole claim. The insurer must provide the notice only if there is sinkhole coverage on the damaged property and if the sinkhole claim was submitted within the statute of limitations period which is two years after the policyholder knew or reasonably should have known about the sinkhole loss. There are no parameters under current law about notification of neutral evaluation. Thus, insurers are required to notify a policyholder about neutral evaluation in cases where there is no sinkhole coverage or when the sinkhole claim is untimely filed.

Section 47 amends s. 627.711(8), F.S., to provide an exception to the mitigation form independent verification process for Citizens only. The bill does not allow independent verification of mitigation discount forms submitted to Citizens if a quality assurance program approved by Citizens reviewed and verified the form when it was submitted. In addition, Citizens is not allowed to reinspect a property to confirm mitigation features if the mitigation form was reviewed and verified by a quality assurance program approved by them.

Return of Motor Vehicle Insurance Premiums

Section 48 amends s. 627.7283, F.S., to allow the insurer to electronically transfer unearned premium to a policyholder who cancels a motor vehicle insurance policy. The insurer may also deliver the unearned premium by mail. Current law is retained requiring the insurer to refund the unearned premium within 30 days of the later of the policy cancellation date or the date the insurer receives notice of the cancellation.

Section 26 amends s. 626.9541(1)(q) , F.S., the unfair insurance practices act, to specify that insurers and agents that utilize a credit card facility or seek to insure credit card holders may provide refunds of unearned premium by mail or electronic transfer.

Personal Injury Protection Medical Fee Schedule Clarification

Section 49 amends s. 627.736(5)(a), F.S., to clarify that the Personal Injury Protection medical fee schedule that is effective on March 1 of each year applies until the last day of the following February.

Exemptions to the Preinsurance Inspection of Private Passenger Motor Vehicles

Section 50 amends s. 627.744, F.S., to exempt from preinsurance inspection new, unused motor vehicles that are leased from a licensed motor vehicle dealer or leasing company, if the insurer is provided with a lease agreement that contains a full description of the motor vehicle or a copy of the registration and a copy of the window sticker. In addition, this section deletes the preinsurance inspection exemption for new, unused motor vehicles purchased if the following conditions apply:

- If the bill of sale or buyer’s order contains a full description of all options and accessories, or
- If the dealer invoice showing the itemized options, equipment, and total retail price is submitted as documentation.

Title Insurance Data Submission to the OIR

Section 52 amends s. 627.782, F.S., to extend the date by which title insurers and title insurance agencies must annually submit data on the title insurance industry to the OIR for the most recently concluded year from March 31 to May 31.

Requirements Related to Acquisition of Controlling Stock

Section 53 amends s. 628.461, F.S., relating to acquisition of controlling stock of a domestic stock insurer or a controlling company. The bill increases from five percent to 10 percent the amount of stock that is considered "controlling stock" of an insurer or controlling company. Currently, s. 628.461, F.S., provides that a person or affiliated person must file a letter of notification and a statement for the OIR's approval before concluding a tender offer to acquire five percent or more of a domestic stock insurer or of a controlling company. The statement must contain certain criminal, employment, and regulatory history information.

The bill provides that a person may rebut a presumption of control by filing a disclaimer of control on a form prescribed by the OFR or by providing a copy of a Schedule 13G on file with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. After a disclaimer is filed, the insurer is relieved of any further duty to register or report under s. 628.461, F.S., unless the OIR disallows the disclaimer. Under current law, a party acquiring less than 10 percent of the outstanding voting securities of an insurer may file a disclaimer of affiliation of control, and such disclaimer must fully disclose all material relationships and affiliation with the insurer, as well as the reason for such disclaimer (this disclaimer is mandatory for acquisitions of more than 10 percent).

The section deletes the definition of "affiliated person" from the statute.

Florida Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association (FLHIGA) – Obligation to Pay Claims

Section 54 amends s. 631.717(11), F.S., deleting language stating that the FLHIGA not being subject to statutory bad faith claims under s. 624.155, F.S., does not affect its obligation to pay valid policy or contract claims.

Section 55 amends s. 631.737, F.S., stating that the FLHIGA is obligated to pay valid claims. The amendments to these sections do not affect the obligation of the FLHIGA to pay valid policy or contract claims and will continue to not be subject to the provisions of s. 631.717(11), F.S.

Service Warranty Association Financial Requirements

Section 56 amends s. 634.406, F.S., to revise the requirement that if a service warranty association's premiums exceed the statutorily required 7-to-1 ratio of gross written premium to net assets, it must maintain net assets of $750,000 and maintain a contractual liability insurance policy that reimburses the service warranty association for 100 percent of its claims liability and is approved by the OIR. Under the bill, the contractual liability policy may be issued by an affiliate of the warranty association. Additionally, the insurer issuing the policy must either maintain at least a $100 million policyholder surplus or maintain a policyholder surplus of at least $200 million and issue a policy that complies with the provisions of subsection (3).[71]

Effective Date:

Section 57 provides that except as otherwise expressly provided, the bill is effective July 1, 2014.

PCS/CS/SB 1260 allows workers' compensation insurers and larger employers greater flexibility in negotiating retrospective rating plans by allowing the parties to determine the rating factors used to calculate premiums. This change may result in a reduction in premiums for such employers.

The Florida Workers' Compensation Joint Underwriting Association (FWCJUA) declares dividends to its policyholders generally after the expiration of a seven-year look back [71] Subsection (3) of s. 634.406, F.S., states that a warranty association need not establish an unearned premium reserve if it purchases contractual liability insurance that covers 100 percent of its claims liability from an authorized insurer. The terms of the policy must contain the following (a) state the insurer will pay losses and unearned premium refunds directly to a person making a claim under the warranty association contract in the event the services warranty association does not do so; (b) the insurer must assume full responsibility for administering claims if the warranty association cannot do so; (c) 60 days written notice must be given to the OIR prior to policy cancellation; (d) the policy must insure all service warranty contracts issued while the policy was in effect whether or not the premium has been remitted to the insurer; (e) If the insurer is fulfilling the service warranty covered by the policy and the service warranty holder cancels the warranty, the insurer must fully refund unearned premium, subject to a cancellation fee under s. 634.414, F.S.; and (f) a warranty association may not use an unearned premium reserve and contractual liability insurance policy simultaneously. However, the warranty association may have contractual liability coverage on service warranties previously sold and sell new service warranties covered by the unearned premium reserve, and the converse. The warranty association must be able to distinguish how each individual service warranty is covered.

period. Thus, the 2006 policyholder dividend would likely be declared in 2013. If FWCJUA is unable to pay a former policyholder, it must submit the funds to the Bureau of Unclaimed Property where they can be claimed by the policyholder. The bill will allow the FWCJUA to retain those funds pursuant to the terms set forth in the dividend.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

Section 53 deletes the definition of "affiliated person" from s. 628.461, F.S. The definition helps determine when a person, in conjunction with an affiliated person, has acquired controlling stock. Deletion of this definition may create ambiguity within the statute.

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 624.4625, 624.501, 626.015, 626.0428, 626.112, 626.172, 626.311, 626.321, 626.382, 626.601, 626.621, 626.8411, 626.854, 626.8805, 626.8817, 626.882, 626.883, 626.884, 626.89, 626.931, 626.932, 626.935, 626.936, 626.9541, 627.062, 627.0628, 627.0651, 627.0653, 627.072, 627.281, 627.311, 627.3518, 627.409, 627.4133, 627.4137, 627.421, 627.43141, 627.4553, 627.7015, 627.706, 627.7074, 627.711, 627.7283, 627.736, 627.744, 627.745, 627.782, 628.461, 631.717, 631.734, and 634.406.

This bill creates the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 627.4553 and 627.70151.

(2) A retrospective rating plan may contain a provision that allows for the negotiation of premium between the employer and the insurer for employers having exposure in more than one state, an estimated annual standard premium in this state of $100,000 or more for workers' compensation, and an estimated annual countrywide standard premium of $750,000 or more for workers' compensation. Provisions within a retrospective rating plan which authorize negotiated premiums are exempt from subsection (1). Such plans and associated forms must be filed by a rating organization and approved by the office. However, a premium negotiated between the employer and the insurer pursuant to an approved retrospective rating plan is not subject to this part. (2) An employee or authorized representative located at a designated branch of an agent or agency may not bind insurance coverage unless licensed and appointed as an agent or customer representative.

(3) An employee or authorized representative of an agent or agency may not initiate contact with any person for the purpose of soliciting insurance unless licensed and appointed as an agent or customer representative. and unlicensed employees at the location do not engage in insurance activities requiring licensure as an insurance agent or customer representative.

(c) An insurance agency and each branch place of business of an insurance agency shall designate an agent in charge and file the name and license number of the agent in charge and the physical address of the insurance agency location with the department and the department's website.
