4. Project/Program Description

The Center for Creative Education's goal is to eliminate elementary illiteracy through creativity and the arts. Several years ago, CCE opened The Foundations School, an innovative, independent elementary school, which serves many of the poorest areas in Palm Beach County, at little to no cost to the families which attend. 100% of third grade students at The Foundations School that have attended since kindergarten are reading at grade level. This compared to a statewide average of 55%, and in the high poverty communities served by The Foundations School, only 24% of third grade students can read. Illiteracy is a pipeline to prison, homelessness, unemployment, and multi-generational poverty -- CCE is breaking that barrier through transformative approaches. Critically, literacy is the foundational pillar for all future learning. The need to admit more students to this unique, school choice experience is staggering, and requires more space, necessitating a new 35,000 sq/ft. building.

The requested funds will enable the Center for Creative Education (CCE) and The Foundations School to expand space needed to add more students who are struggling academically and living in poverty. With a transformative education through creativity and the arts, our students are thriving; 100% of our third grade students that have been with us since kindergarten are reading on or above grade level. The need is overwhelming for this unique, independent school choice experience.

b. What activities and services will be provided to meet the intended purpose of these funds?

The goal of The Foundations School is to enroll the maximum number of students to increase the positive impact on the community. CCE is currently using much of its classroom space for activities and functions that will be relocated to the new building once finished. This will allow The Foundations School to double its capacity and expand its offerings to students on its four acre campus in West Palm Beach.

c. What direct services will be provided to citizens by the appropriation project?

Students and families currently enrolled in The Foundations School will utilize the new space for art, STEM education (science, technology, engineering and math), and media arts education, as well as gallery space for student exhibits and performances. In addition, the facility will be available for the Center for Creative Education's many Palm Beach County-wide after school programs. The completion of the new space will also enable The Foundations School to double its enrollment by freeing up existing space for much needed (and highly demanded) additional classrooms.

d. Who is the target population served by this project? How many individuals are expected to be served?

CCE and The Foundations School serve students who are behind academically, living in poverty, and are zoned to attend public schools in northern Palm Beach County which are chronically poor performers on state standardized tests. Once this building project is complete, The Foundations School will double in size to serve 180 students and 360 family members. CCE currently serves an additional 200 students enrolled in after school programs, and 400 family members, as well as 2,000 donors and community members supporting our programs and events. Finally, CCE has collaborations with The School District of Palm Beach County, Florida Atlantic University, Palm Beach Atlantic University and Palm Beach State College.

e. What is the expected benefit or outcome of this project? What is the methodology by which this outcome will be measured?

The Center for Creative Education is at the forefront of educational innovation, reform, and school choice. We understand that every child is unique and not all students learn by the same methods of teaching. At the Foundations School, individualized assessments therefore drive instruction. Our goal is that 90% of all students attending our school will continue to perform at grade level or above in reading, math, and science. CCE also has an actionable plan for recruiting after school students for programming, and there will be opportunities to engage the wider community with student projects (art galleries, films, shows, etc...).

f. What are the suggested penalties that the contracting agency may consider in addition to its standard penalties for failing to meet deliverables or performance measures provided for in the contract?

Failure to meet deliverables without notification of good reasoning, will result in penalties as described in contract.

14. Is this project related to mitigation, response, or recovery from a natural disaster? No
