6 development ad valorem tax exemptions to new businesses and 7 expansions of existing businesses, as defined by general law.
8 Such an exemption may be granted only by ordinance of the 9 county or municipality, and only after the electors of the 10 county or municipality voting on such question in a referendum
11 authorize the county or municipality to adopt such ordinances.
12 An exemption so granted shall apply to improvements to real 13 property made by or for the use of a new business and 14 improvements to real property related to the expansion of an 15 existing business and shall also apply to tangible personal 16 property of such new business and tangible personal property

10 properties must be specified by general law. The period of 11 time for which this exemption may be granted to a property
12 owner shall be determined by general law.

14 specified therein, in addition to any other exemption granted
15 to tangible personal property pursuant to this section, all
16 tangible personal property in a county held by the same owner
17 may be exempted from ad valorem taxation up to a total 18 cumulative value of $5,000. This exemption does not apply if 19 the total cumulative value of all tangible personal property
20 in a county held by the owner that would qualify for this 21 exemption exceeds the amount of the exemption. The maximum 22 exempt value shall be adjusted to reflect inflation. This 23 exemption does not apply to tangible personal property held
