ORIGINATING COMMITTEE(S)/COMMITTEE(S) OF REFERENCE:

I. SUMMARY:

Pursuant to express authority provided in Section 6(f), Article VII, of the Florida Constitution, this bill allows counties and municipalities, through adoption of an ordinance, to grant an additional homestead tax exemption of up to $25,000 to resident homeowners who are at least 65 years of age and whose household income does not exceed $20,000.

This bill defines the terms "household" and "income", and sets forth the requirements a county or municipality must follow in adopting an ordinance regarding the additional homestead exemption.

See the "Comments" section of this analysis regarding substantive and technical concerns regarding this bill.

This bill will have an insignificant fiscal impact upon the Department of Revenue. However, it will have an indeterminate negative fiscal impact on those local governments that choose to grant the additional exemption.

II. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS:

A. PRESENT SITUATION:

Section 4, Article VII, of the Florida Constitution requires that all property be assessed at just value for ad valorem tax purposes. Just value has been interpreted to mean fair market value.

Agricultural land, land producing high water recharge to Florida's aquifers, and land used exclusively for non-commercial recreational purposes are exceptions that may be assessed solely on the basis of their character or use. Also, tangible personal property held for sale as stock in trade and livestock may be assessed at a specified percentage of its value or totally exempted.

In addition, effective January 1, 1994, subsection (c) of Section 4, Article VII, of the Florida Constitution provides a limitation to the extent that assessments for homesteads may be changed annually on January 1 of each year. Changes in assessment may not exceed the lower of 3 percent of the assessment for the prior year or the percent change in the Consumer Price Index.

Section 6, Article VII, of the Florida Constitution authorizes an exemption from ad valorem taxation for homestead property used by taxpayers as their permanent residence, as follows:

- Subsection (a) provides a basic $5,000 exemption to all qualified homeowners.
- Subsection (b) prohibits the granting of more than one exemption to any one person or the granting of an exemption that is in excess of the total assessed value of the property.
- Subsection (c) increases the exemption to $25,000 for school district levies for all qualified homestead owners and to $10,000 for all other ad valorem tax levies if the homestead owner has attained age 65 or is totally and permanently disabled and is not entitled to the exemption provided in subsection (d).
- Subsection (d) increases the exemption to $25,000 for non-school district levies. This subsection further provides that the increase is not applicable upon the effective date of any amendment to Article VII, Section 4 of the Florida Constitution that would authorize the assessment of homestead property at a specified percentage of its just value. A third provision of subsection (d) disallows the increased exemption in counties in which the tax roll has not been certified as in compliance with Article VII, Section 4 of the Florida Constitution.
- Subsection (e) authorizes the Legislature to give ad valorem tax relief to renters.

Section 196.031, F.S., primarily implements homestead exemption, although other statutory sections provide specific procedures and conditions, e.g, procedures for application for the exemption (s. 196.011, F.S.), the extent of the exemption (s. 196.041, F.S.), and the effect of renting homestead property. Additionally, three sections of Chapter 196, F.S., provide for additional homestead exemptions as follows:

- Section 196.081, F.S., exempts the homesteads of certain permanently and totally disabled veterans and surviving spouses of certain veterans;
- Section 196.091, F.S., exempts the homesteads of disabled veterans confined to wheelchairs; and
- Section 196.101, F.S., exempts the homestead of certain totally and permanently disabled persons.

Section 197.242, F.S., establishes the "Homestead Property Tax Deferral Act." Section 197.252, F.S., provides for deferral of ad valorem taxes for qualified individuals. Ad valorem tax deferral is available to any homeowner whose tax burden is greater than five percent of household income, and homeowners over 70 years of age whose tax burden is greater than three percent of household income. Social security income is not included in this calculation. Participation in the tax deferral plan varies by county.

According to a Senate analysis of a similar bill last year, the National Conference of State Legislatures identified four states that currently provide, by general law, for local option ad valorem exemptions or deferrals for seniors:

- Delaware authorizes municipalities to exempt, by local ordinance, the realty of persons 65 or older.
- Virginia authorizes local governments to exempt the homesteads of persons 65 or older whose income does not exceed the greater of either $30,000 or the HUD income limit by family size for qualifying for federal housing assistance, excluding the first $6,500 of any relative of the owner, other than a spouse, and whose combined net worth does not exceed $75,000.
- New York authorizes cities to grant persons 65 or older an exemption not to exceed 50 percent of the assessed value of homestead property, and allows the municipality to set an income limitation between $3,000 and $17,500.
- Utah authorizes counties to defer or abate up to $300 (but not more than 50 percent of the total tax assessed for the current year) of the property taxes of persons age 65 or older whose total household income does not exceed the maximum income certified for the homeowner's property tax credit.
Cooper, Senate Staff Analysis and Economic Impact Statement, ca03.ca, Nov. 20, 1998.

In November 1998, the electors of Florida approved Amendment 3, to the Florida Constitution. This amendment (creating subsection (f), of Section 6, of Article VII) authorizes the Legislature to enact a general law to allow counties or municipalities the authority to grant an additional homestead exemption of up to $25,000 to persons 65 years old or older whose total household income does not exceed $20,000.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Pursuant to express authority provided in Section 6(f), Article VII, of the Florida Constitution, this bill allows counties and municipalities, through adoption of an ordinance, to grant an additional homestead tax exemption of up to $25,000 to resident homeowners who have legal or equitable title to the real estate who are at least 65 years of age and whose household income does not exceed $20,000.

More specifically, HB 291 defines "household" to expressly exclude persons boarding or renting. Persons living together in a room or group of rooms as a housing unit meet the definition of "household". Marital or relational status is not considered. Accordingly, all "household" members' income will be considered.

"Income" is defined to mean the adjusted gross income, as defined in s. 62 of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code,¹ of all members of a household.

Additionally, HB 291 sets forth the requirements counties and municipalities must comply with in establishing, by ordinance, this additional homestead exemption. The ordinance must

- be adopted pursuant to the procedures for adoption of a nonemergency ordinance;
- specify that the exemption applies only to taxes levied by the unit of government granting the exemption;
- specify the amount of the exemption, which cannot exceed $25,000;
- provide for an annual adjustment on January 1 of the income limitation pursuant to one of two methodologies, as provided;
- require a taxpayer claiming the exemption to annually submit to the property appraiser, not later than March 1, a sworn statement of household income a form prescribed by the Department of Revenue. The department shall require by rule that the filing of such statement be accompanied by copies of federal income tax returns for the prior year, wage and earnings statements (W-2 forms), and other documents it deems necessary, for each member of the household; and
- take effect on January 1.

¹ According to Section 62, "Adjusted gross income" means, in the case of an individual, gross income minus the following deductions: trade and business deductions; certain trade and business deductions of employees; losses from sale or exchange of property; deductions attributable to rents and royalties; certain deductions of life tenants and income beneficiaries of property; pension, profit-sharing, and annuity plans of self-employed individuals; retirement savings; certain portion of lump-sum distributions from certain pension plans; penalties forfeited because of premature withdrawal of funds from time saving accounts or deposits; alimony; reforestation expenses; and certain required repayments of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits.

Finally, HB 291 provides that the board of county commissioners or municipal governing authority must notify the property appraiser of the adoption of an ordinance no later than December 1 of the year prior to the year the exemption will take effect. If the ordinance is repealed, the board of county commissioners or municipal governing authority must notify the property appraiser no later than December 1 of the year prior to the year the exemption expires.

C. APPLICATION OF PRINCIPLES:

1. Less Government:

a. Does the bill create, increase or reduce, either directly or indirectly:

(1) any authority to make rules or adjudicate disputes?

This bill provides that the Department of Revenue must require by rule that the filing of a sworn statement regarding household income be accompanied by copies of federal income tax returns for the prior year, wage and earnings statements, and other documents necessary, for each member of the household.

(2) any new responsibilities, obligations or work for other governmental or private organizations or individuals?

In those counties and municipalities where this additional exemption is granted by local ordinance, the local property appraiser will incur new and additional responsibilities. The property appraiser will be responsible for receiving applications for the new exemption, evaluating the applications and their supporting documentation, informing citizens if their application was accepted or rejected, and applying the exemption to the tax roll.

(3) any entitlement to a government service or benefit?

No.

b. If an agency or program is eliminated or reduced:

An agency or program is not eliminated or reduced.

(1) what responsibilities, costs and powers are passed on to another program, agency, level of government, or private entity?

N/A

(2) what is the cost of such responsibility at the new level/agency?

N/A

(3) how is the new agency accountable to the people governed?

N/A

2. Lower Taxes:

a. Does the bill increase anyone's taxes?

This bill does not increase taxes directly. However, if a local government implements this additional homestead exemption and otherwise needs to keep its revenues constant, a need will arise to shift the tax burden to other taxpayers who are not eligible for this exemption.

b. Does the bill require or authorize an increase in any fees?

No.

c. Does the bill reduce total taxes, both rates and revenues?

If implemented by a local government, an additional homestead exemption of up to $25,000 would be granted to real property owners who are 65 years or older and who have a household income of less than $20,000.

d. Does the bill reduce total fees, both rates and revenues?

No.

e. Does the bill authorize any fee or tax increase by any local government?

No.

3. Personal Responsibility:

a. Does the bill reduce or eliminate an entitlement to government services or subsidy?

No.

b. Do the beneficiaries of the legislation directly pay any portion of the cost of implementation and operation?

No.

4. Individual Freedom:

- a. Does the bill increase the allowable options of individuals or private organizations/associations to conduct their own affairs?

No.

- b. Does the bill prohibit, or create new government interference with, any presently lawful activity?

No.

5. Family Empowerment:

- a. If the bill purports to provide services to families or children:

This bill does not purport to provide services to families or children.

- (1) Who evaluates the family's needs?

N/A

This bill does not create or change a program providing services to families or children.

(1) parents and guardians?

N/A

(2) service providers?

N/A

(3) government employees/agencies?

E. SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS:

See "Effect of Proposed Changes".

III. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT:

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE AGENCIES/STATE FUNDS:

1. Non-recurring Effects:

The Department of Revenue would incur insignificant costs in developing and implementing new rules, which are required by this bill, and in developing new forms as needed.

2. Recurring Effects:

None.

3. Long Run Effects Other Than Normal Growth:

None.

4. Total Revenues and Expenditures:

None.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS AS A WHOLE:

1. Non-recurring Effects:

Indeterminate.

2. Recurring Effects:

If the additional homestead exemption is implemented by local ordinance, it will have an impact on participating counties and municipalities. To the extent that a county or municipality passes an ordinance to grant the additional exemption and is not levying the maximum millage allowed by the tax cap, this bill would reduce the tax base and may result in a tax shift to taxpayers who would not be entitled to the additional exemption. If the county or municipality that passes an ordinance to grant the additional exemption has already reached the millage tax cap, the local government would experience a reduction in revenue.

According to a 1998 Revenue Estimating Conference, the maximum possible revenue losses for local governments for fiscal year 2001-02 would be $102.4 million.

This estimate is for information purposes only and is based on the following assumptions:

- The full $25,000 is adopted by all cities and counties.
- Of those homeowners, the percent meeting the $20,000 threshold of income will be the percent of households with a member 65 and up where household income is $20,000 or less from the 1990 Census, after adjusting the income to reflect inflation.

3. Long Run Effects Other Than Normal Growth:

Indeterminate.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

1. Direct Private Sector Costs:

If millage rates are raised in certain areas by local taxing authorities to compensate for the decreasing tax base that will result if an ordinance is passed which is in compliance with this bill's provisions, the tax burden would be shifted from those owning homes who are 65 and older and meet the income requirement, to other home owners or to other types of property.

2. Direct Private Sector Benefits:

Elderly homeowners whose annual income is less than $20,000, and who reside in a locality where the increased exemption is adopted will benefit from reduced ad valorem taxes.

3. Effects on Competition, Private Enterprise and Employment Markets:

None.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

None.

IV. CONSEQUENCES OF ARTICLE VII, SECTION 18 OF THE FLORIDA CONSTITUTION:

A. APPLICABILITY OF THE MANDATES PROVISION:

This bill does not require counties or municipalities to spend funds or to take an action requiring the expenditure of funds.

B. REDUCTION OF REVENUE RAISING AUTHORITY:

This bill does not reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenues in the aggregate.

C. REDUCTION OF STATE TAX SHARED WITH COUNTIES AND MUNICIPALITIES:

This bill does not reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with counties or municipalities.

V. COMMENTS:

On February 4, 1999, the Finance and Taxation Committee unanimously passed PCB FT 99-02, that also deals with homestead exemption. PCB FT 99-02 differs from HB 291 in that it:

- specifies precisely how the income limitation will be adjusted annually;
- provides that “unless otherwise specified by the county or municipality” the exemption will apply to all tax levies of the county or municipality granting the exemption, including dependant special districts and municipal service taxing units;
- requires that if a different exemption amount is set forth for dependent special districts or municipal service taxing units, the exemption amount must be uniform in all dependent special districts or municipal service taxing units within the county or municipality;

- requires that the taxpayer's statement of household income attest to the accuracy of supporting documentation required to be submitted therewith; and, prohibits the property appraiser from granting the exemption without the required documentation;
- entitles those persons who are entitled to homestead exemption in s. 196.031, F.S., to the additional exemption authorized in this bill;
- clarifies that where title is held jointly with right of survivorship, the person residing on the property, who otherwise qualifies, may receive the entire amount of any additional homestead exemption; and
- provides an effective date of July 1, 1999.

The sponsor of this bill intends to file an amendment to HB 291 to reflect the provisions in PCB FT 99-02.

Additionally a question has arisen as to whether the Truth in Millage (TRIM) notice requirements set forth in s. 200.069, F.S.,² should be amended to reflect any additional homestead exemption that may result from the passage of this bill and adoption of a lawful ordinance. The amendment to be filed by the sponsor will address the TRIM issue.

Finally, Section 2 of this bill is technically defective in that it provides an incorrect effective date. The sponsor's amendment will correct this error.
