BILL #: CS/HB 1737

RELATING TO: Secretary of Barbecue

SPONSOR(S): Committee on Governmental Operations and Representative Albright

TIED BILL(S):

ORIGINATING COMMITTEE(S)/COMMITTEE(S) OF REFERENCE:

- (1) GOVERNMENTAL OPERATIONS YEAS 4 NAYS 1
 - (2) TOURISM
 - (3)
 - (4)
 - (5)

I. SUMMARY:

Under current Florida law, there is no Secretary of Barbecue in Florida. Also, there are no ceremonial officers under the Executive Office of Governor.

This bill creates an unnumbered section of the Florida Statutes, authorizing the Governor to appoint a new position called the Secretary of Barbecue. This position would be a ceremonial position with no rulemaking or policy-making authority, or compensation. The bill states that no state funds will be used to support the Secretary.

The Secretary of Barbecue would serve as a representative of the Governor at functions promoting barbecue. The Secretary may also designate a representative if the Secretary cannot attend a particular function.

Under paragraph (1) of s. 112.313, F.S., the Secretary of Barbecue as an appointed position would be included in the definition of "public officer," however, because the position does not have any influence by vote, official action or judgement, the position seems to be exempt from the prohibition against the acceptance of gifts (s.112.313(2), F.S.) or unauthorized compensation (s. 112.313(4), F.S.). The position would be exempt from post-employment restrictions as an "appointed state officer" does not include officers whose authority is solely advisory; and the position is not an "employee" as the Secretary would not receive compensation, (s. 112.313(9), F.S.).

This bill is effective upon becoming a law.

B. PRESENT SITUATION:

Under current Florida law, there is no Secretary of Barbecue in Florida. Also, there are no ceremonial officers under the Executive Office of Governor.

There are many annual barbecue festivals and competitions in Florida. Nationally, there are over 200 regular annual competitions. The largest (1990 Guinness Book of World Records record-holder for the largest pork cooking contest) is called the Memphis in May festival, with the World Championship Barbeque Cooking Contest. Over 97,000 people attended the Championship in 1999. (<http://memphisite.com/memphisinmay/bbq.fest.html>) This Championship was founded in 1977. To compete in the Championship, the teams must participate in some of the sanctioned contests, three of which are located in Florida. There are also twelve official barbecue associations throughout the U.S., including the N.B.B.Q.A. (National Barbecue Association) located in Kansas City, Missouri.

C. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

This bill creates an unnumbered section of the Florida Statutes, authorizing the Governor to appoint a new position called the Secretary of Barbecue. This position would be a ceremonial position with no rulemaking or policy-making authority, or compensation. The bill states that no state funds will be used to support the Secretary.

The Secretary of Barbecue would serve as a representative of the Governor at functions promoting barbecue and the diversity of barbecue created by the many cultures represented in Florida. The Secretary may designate a representative of the Secretary of Barbecue if the Secretary is not able to attend a particular function.

Under paragraph (1) of s. 112.313, F.S., the Secretary of Barbecue as an appointed position would be included in the definition of "public officer," however, because the position does not have any influence by vote, official action or judgement, the position seems to be exempt from the prohibition against the acceptance of gifts (s.112.313(2), F.S.) or unauthorized compensation (s. 112.313(4), F.S.). The position would be exempt from post-employment restrictions as "appointed state officer" does not include officers whose authority is solely advisory; and the position is not an "employee" as the Secretary would not receive compensation, (s. 112.313(9), F.S.).

This bill is effective upon becoming a law.

VI. AMENDMENTS OR COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES:

On March 30, 2000, the Committee on Governmental Operations heard this bill and adopted two amendments. The first amendment authorizes the Secretary of Barbecue to designate a representative if the Secretary is unable to attend a particular event. The second amendment expressly states that no state funds shall be used to support the position.

The Committee on Governmental Operations reported the bill favorably as a committee substitute.
