B. PRESENT SITUATION:

Windley Key was sold in 1908, by the Russell family to the Florida East Coast Railway. The key's quarries were used to supply rock in the construction of the Flagler's Overseas Railroad. In 1912, after the railway's completion, "Keystone" was quarried at Windley Key until the 1960s. Windley Key is the highest of the chain of islands formed of Key Largo Limestone. The state maintains this site located in the Village of Islamorada so that visitors may study this ancient fossilized, coral reef formation and view the historic remains of the quarrying activities.
