I. Summary:

Committee Substitute for Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 1208 reopens the Florida Comprehensive Health Association (FCHA) for enrollment on January 1, 2002, and coverage would be effective on or after April 1, 2002. The FCHA provides health insurance to individuals who, due to their health status or inability to afford coverage, are unable to obtain health insurance coverage in the private market. The bill caps new enrollment in the association at 500 for calendar year 2002 and allows an additional 1,500 members, effective January 1, 2003. If an individual is denied participation solely on the basis of such a determination, the individual must be granted priority for enrollment in the succeeding period in which the association is reopened for enrollment. Individuals who have been rejected for coverage by 2 insurers or have been offered coverage with a material underwriting restriction would be eligible for coverage. Also, individuals with 18 months of creditable coverage, who do not have access to other specified health insurance, and who do not have more than a 63-day gap in coverage would automatically be eligible for coverage, unless the association ceased accepting new enrollees. An individual would be required to be a resident of Florida for the previous 6 months to be eligible for enrollment.

The composition of the FCHA board of directors is revised and expanded from 3 to 5 members, consisting of the Insurance Commissioner or his designee as the chair, and 4 other members who must be residents of Florida. One of the members must be a representative of a health insurer or health maintenance organization.

The powers and duties of the board include: the appointment of an executive director to serve as the chief administrative and operational officer of the association; the adoption and submission of a plan of operation to the Department of Insurance for review and approval on an annual basis; the establishment of separate accounts and recordkeeping for policyholders; the establishment of coverage limits, including a lifetime benefit limit of $500,000, with grandfathering of policies prior to 1992 at January 1, 2002, benefit levels; implementation of a sliding fee schedule for premiums based upon an individual's income, with premiums of 150, 250, or 300 percent of the standard risk rate, with the Department of Insurance establishing the standard risk rate and approving the premiums; administration of the association in a fiscally responsible manner to ensure that expenses are reasonable and that financial resources are adequate; engagement of an actuary to conduct an annual evaluation of the actuarial soundness of the association, including the feasibility of enrolling new members; and restriction at any time of the number of participants in the association if determined that revenues would not be adequate to fund new enrollees.

In addition to premiums, the funding for individuals provided coverage through FCHA on or after April 1, 2002, would be provided through a 25 cent per month assessment on insurers for each individual policy or covered group subscriber, not including dependents insured in Florida, as of December 31 of each year. The assessment would include plans administered by third-party administrators and insurers for administrative-services-only contracts. Supplemental policies and limited benefit policies are not subject to the assessment. Self-insured, employee welfare benefit plans that are not regulated by the Florida Insurance Code pursuant to the Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 are excluded from the assessment. Multiple employee welfare arrangements would be subject to the assessment.

The first payment is due April 1, 2002, for the period of October 1, 2001, through December 31, 2001. Thereafter, payments for the prior calendar year are due April 1 of the following year. Effective October 1, 2001, the insurer may charge the fee directly to each policyholder, insured member, or subscriber. Nonpayment of the fee would be considered nonpayment of the premium and would be grounds for cancellation of the policy or contract. The assessment is not subject to the insurance premium tax.

This bill amends sections 627.6482, 627.6486, 627.6487, 627.6488, 627.649, 627.6492, and 627.6498, Florida Statutes, and repeals section 627.6484, Florida Statutes. The bill creates two undesignated sections of law.

II. Present Situation:

In recent years, many states have created health insurance risk pools to address the needs of the under-insured and uninsured. As of last year, 28 states had established high-risk pools.[1] Seven of these risk pools have created low-income premium subsidy programs for their state plans (Colorado, Connecticut, New Mexico, Oregon, Tennessee, Washington and Wisconsin). High-risk pools provide a safety net for otherwise uninsurable individuals; however, they typically enroll a relatively small number of individuals. Reasons for low enrollment include: limited funding, lack of public awareness, and the relatively high expense.

[1] Comprehensive Health Insurance for High-Risk Individuals, 2000, Communicating by Agriculture.

As enacted under chapters 82-243 and 82-386, Laws of Florida, the FCHA[2] provides health insurance to individuals who, due to their health status or inability to afford coverage, are unable to obtain health insurance coverage in the private market. The FCHA was created as a nonprofit, legal entity subject to the supervision of a three-member board of directors, appointed by the Insurance Commissioner. The board includes the chairman, who is the Insurance Commissioner or a designee, 1 representative of policyholders, and 1 representative of insurers. Presently, an independent agent serves as a representative of the insurers, as compared to a representative of an insurer selected in the past.

Throughout the early years of the program, enrollment and insurance fund losses were low; however, by 1989, enrollment and losses had increased substantially. Legislation was enacted to prohibit the FCHA from issuing policies to new applicants after July 1, 1991. The FCHA currently provides coverage for 702 individuals. According to representatives of FCHA, enrollment is declining at a rate of approximately 15 percent per year.

Some uninsured individuals in Florida voluntarily elect to not maintain health insurance coverage. However, a significant segment of the medically uninsured desire coverage, and would be willing to pay higher premiums, if coverage were at all available.[3] The FCHA notes that 34 percent of the current association enrollees have a household income of $40,000 or more, indicating that the cost of premiums may not be the sole barrier to entry. The FCHA estimates potential new enrollees in the association at 3,700 - 6,200 individuals.[4]

FCHA Eligibility, Benefits, and Premiums

Effective July 1, 1990, the FCHA was amended to require the FCHA to pattern its coverage after the state group health insurance program including benefits, exclusions, and other limitations, except as otherwise provided by law. The major medical expense coverage under FCHA includes a $500,000 lifetime limit per covered life. The FCHA provides for an annual deductible in the amount of $1,000 or more, as approved by the Department of Insurance. The FCHA provides for a 12-month exclusion of insurance coverage with respect to a condition that manifested itself within 6 months of the effective date of the coverage or medical advice or treatment recommended or received within a period of 6 months before the effective date of the coverage.

A precondition for FCHA eligibility is that the applicant be rejected by at least 2 insurers offering coverage substantially similar to the FCHA's coverage and the market assistance plan has been unsuccessful in finding an insurer to accept the application. Rejection is defined as an offer of coverage with a material underwriting restriction or an offer of coverage at a rate greater than the FCHA's rate. Therefore, the rejection may or may not be due to a determination that an applicant is literally uninsurable.

Legislative changes in 1990 required the FCHA board or administrator to verify the residency of an applicant and to prohibit the enrollment of a person who is eligible for Medicaid, unless: such person has an illness or disease that requires supplies or medication that are covered by the FCHA, but that are not covered by the Medicaid program; or the person is not receiving benefits under Medicaid. In addition, the law was clarified to allow FCHA to terminate an enrollee immediately if the enrollee ceases to meet the eligibility requirements.

The Department of Insurance annually establishes the standard risk rate that is used for determining premiums for the FCHA under s. 627.6498(4)(a), F.S. Under s. 627.6675, F.S., the department uses reasonable actuarial techniques and standards adopted by rule. As currently provided, the maximum rates for the FCHA are 200 percent, 225 percent, and 250 percent of this standard risk rate for low, medium, and high-risk individuals, respectively.

According to the FCHA, the standard risk rate that is established by the department is compared to the rates approved by the FCHA and the FCHA actuary recommends whether adjustments are necessary. The FCHA submitted its last rate filing with the department in 2000 and that rate filing was effective January 1, 2001. The FCHA currently has no rate filing pending.

Assessments

As a condition of doing business in Florida, health insurers are required to pay assessments to fund the deficits of the FCHA. Companies subject to the assessment include all health insurance companies, health maintenance organizations, fraternal benefit societies, multiple employer welfare arrangements, and prepaid health clinics. Self-funded employers and governmental entities are not subject to the assessment.

The board assesses each insurer annually a portion of incurred operating losses of the FCHA, based on the insurer's market share in Florida as measured by premium volume. The total of all assessments per participating insurer is capped at 1 percent of such insurer's health insurance premium earned in Florida during the calendar year preceding the year for which the assessment is levied.

Closure of the FCHA

The FCHA ceased accepting applications on July 1, 1991, under s. 627.6484(1), F.S., due to the Legislature's concern over mounting financial losses. At that time, 2 actuarial firms estimated the 1992 deficit of the FCHA to be between $48 and $56 million, as compared to the maximum $27 million that could be assessed against insurers under the funding formula enacted in 1990. In 1991, legislation revised the funding formula providing for maximum assessments against the insurers of 1 percent of health insurance premiums written in Florida under s. 627.6492(1)(b), F.S.

In the Summary of Plan Activities, 1997-98, the FCHA offered the following solutions to provide coverage for the uninsured:

- Open enrollment for the state's high-risk pool, the FCHA;
- Guarantee issue by individual insurers and health maintenance organizations;
- Expansion of the small group market guarantee-issue requirement;
- Allow uninsurable individuals access to the State Employee Health Insurance Plan;
- Allow access to Medicaid, regardless of income status; or
- Allow alternative sources of funding for FCHA.

The report "strongly recommended" that, if the FCHA were to be reopened, funding would need to be addressed to effectively finance the high-risk pool. The report suggested the following funding options:

- Appropriate General Revenue monies;
- Create another business tax;
- Increase sales tax;
- Provide premium tax offset for assessment;
- Raise risk-pool premiums;
- Tax hospital revenues;
- Place service charge on hospitals and surgical centers;
- Assess health insurance policyholders; or
- Increase taxes on cigarettes, alcohol or other products.

Twenty states fund risk pools by assessing association members.[5] Other states provide funding through one or more sources, such as: state income tax, tobacco tax, general revenue, and tobacco settlement funds (California, Colorado, Louisiana, Kentucky, Utah, and Wisconsin). Louisiana appropriates funds from general revenue and imposes a service charge on hospital admissions and outpatient procedures.

While it is an industry standard that premiums will cover only about 50 percent of costs in a high-risk insurance pool,[6] the FCHA premium as a percentage of total expenses ranged from 29 - 77 percent during the period of 1990 - 2000 (estimated). For 6 years of the 11-year period the average premium covered less than 50 percent of the average total expenses per enrollee. The average total assessment per enrollee, premium paid by enrollee, and average expense per enrollee for fiscal years 1990-98 is depicted in the following chart:

Fiscal Year	Average Number of Enrollees	Total Assessments Against Insurers (millions)	Avg. Cost To Insurers (Amt. Assessed per member)	Average Premium Paid by Enrollee	Average Total Expenses Per Enrollee	Average Premium as a Percentage of Average Expenses

Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA)

In 1996, Congress enacted the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA)[7], which requires insurers issuing individual health insurance policies to guarantee the issuance of coverage to persons who previously were covered for at least 18 months and meet other eligibility criteria. The act allowed each state to craft alternative methods of guaranteeing availability of coverage. HIPAA allows each state the option to enact and enforce the federal provisions or rely upon federal enforcement. The act specifies that the federal provisions pertaining to health insurers in the individual markets generally do not preempt state regulation of individual insurers. However, if the state's statutory provisions prevent the application of a federal requirement, HIPAA preempts the statutes and the federal requirements prevail. At a minimum, each state must ensure that its provisions comport with HIPAA and do not diminish the federal requirements. However, each state is permitted to adopt provisions that expand or provide more favorable treatment for the individual.

In 1997, Florida enacted the Florida Health Insurance Coverage Continuation Act (FHICCA)[8] to conform state law to HIPAA, which included an alternative mechanism that was deemed to be acceptable by the federal Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA). In order to be eligible for guaranteed-issuance of individual coverage under HIPAA and Florida's conforming legislation, an individual must have had prior creditable coverage for at least 18 months, without a break in coverage of more than 63 days, and not be eligible for any other group coverage, Medicare or Medicaid. Under federal law, the individual's most recent prior coverage must have been under a group plan, a governmental plan, or church plan. However, in 1998, Florida expanded the eligibility criteria under state law to also include persons whose most recent coverage was under an individual plan if the prior insurance coverage is terminated due to the insurer becoming insolvent or discontinuing all policies in the state, or due to the individual no longer living in the service area of the insurer. In 2000, this provision was limited to prior individual coverage issued in Florida.

The Florida law provides 2 mechanisms for guaranteeing access to individual coverage to persons who lose their eligibility for health insurance coverage. These mechanisms apply after exhaustion of the group coverage continued under the federal COBRA[9] law or Florida's COBRA derivative, FHICCA, generally up to 18 months. One method requires the insurer that issued the group health plan to offer at least 2 conversion policy options (one of which must be the standard benefit plan required of small group carriers for small employers). The maximum premium that may be charged for any conversion policy is limited to 200 percent of the standard risk rate, which is a statewide average rate computed annually by the Department of Insurance, calculated separately for indemnity policies, exclusive/preferred provider policies, and health maintenance organization (HMO) contracts.

Florida's second method of guaranteeing access to individual coverage is by allowing eligible individuals to purchase an individual policy from any insurer issuing individual coverage in the state. The policy must be offered on a "guaranteed-issue" basis – regardless of the health condition of the individual. The insurer must offer each of their two most popular policy forms, based on statewide premium volume. Under Florida law, this method applies to persons who meet the eligibility criteria but who are not entitled to a conversion policy.[10] This generally includes persons who were previously covered under a self-insured employer's plan or who move outside of a service area of an HMO. It also applies to persons whose previous coverage was under an individual plan that was terminated for specified reasons.

The requirement under Florida law that insurers and HMOs offer conversion policies does not apply to self-insured employers due to federal ERISA[11] preemption. However, a self-insured employer may offer conversion coverage that, under certain conditions, will disqualify a person from obtaining coverage from an individual carrier on a guaranteed-issue basis.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1. Amends s. 627.6482, F.S., to delete obsolete portions of the definition of the term "Premium" for the FCHA. The bill defines the term "Federal Poverty Level" as the most current federal poverty guidelines as established by the federal Department of Health and Human Services and published in the Federal Register, and in effect on the date of the policy and its annual renewal. The term "Family income" is defined as the adjusted gross income, as defined in s. 62 of the United States Internal Revenue Code, of all members of a household.

Section 2. Amends s. 627.6486, F.S., to revise eligibility requirements for the FCHA and delete obsolete language. The amendments require a person to have maintained residency in the state for the previous 6 months to be eligible for benefits. Residency may be demonstrated by purchasing a home and using it as a primary residence for 6 months, or otherwise establishing a domicile in the state for 6 months under s. 222.17, F.S.

Children lose eligibility upon ceasing to be a dependent of the insured. The bill clarifies that a person is no longer eligible if FCHA has paid out the lifetime maximum benefit currently being offered by the association of $500,000 for that person. A person is not eligible for FCHA if the person is eligible for substantially similar coverage under another contract or policy, unless otherwise provided for under s. 627.6692, F.S.

Persons eligible for Medicare are not eligible for coverage under the plan, unless insured by the FCHA and enrolled in Medicare on July 1, 2001. Persons whose premiums are paid for or reimbursed by any government-sponsored program or health care provider are ineligible for coverage under the plan. Persons who are eligible for guaranteed-issuance of coverage under s. 627.2487, F.S. (the Florida law conforming to the federal HIPAA law), would be automatically eligible for coverage in the FCHA unless the association has ceased accepting new enrollees due to enrollment caps. If the FCHA has ceased accepting new enrollees, the eligible individual would revert to the coverage rights in s. 627.6487, F.S., which would entitle the person to obtain an individual health insurer.

[10] Under ss. 627.6675 or 641.3921, F.S.
[11] Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 29 USC s. 1161, et seq.

A person's coverage ceases: when residency ceases; upon the person's request for termination; upon the death of the covered person; upon any requirement under state law that coverage cease; or 60 days after the person receives an inquiry from the association regarding residency to which the person fails to respond.

All eligible persons must, upon application or renewal, agree to be placed in a case-management system when the association and case manager find that such a system would be cost-effective and provide quality of care to the individual.

Persons may apply for coverage beginning January 1, 2002, for coverage effective April 1, 2002, except for persons insured by the plan as of December 31, 2001, who renew.

Section 3. Amends s. 627.6487, F.S., to revise the definition of a HIPAA "eligible individual" to exclude persons who are eligible for coverage under the association, unless the association is not accepting new enrollees. If the association is accepting new enrollees, the 63-day period specified in s. 627.6561(6), F.S., is tolled from the time the association receives the application from an individual until such time as the association notifies the individual that it is not accepting and issuing coverage to that individual.

Section 4. Amends s. 627.6488, F.S., to revise the composition of the FCHA's board and to revise the powers and duties of the board. The board is expanded from 3 to 5 members, consisting of the Insurance Commissioner or his designee and 4 other members who must be residents of Florida. One of the members must be a representative of a health insurer or HMO. The Insurance Commissioner or his designee shall serve as the chairperson.

Members and employees of the board are reimbursed, as provided in s. 112.061, F.S., for incurred expenses in carrying out their duties.

The board is responsible for adopting a plan of operation and submitting it to the Department of Insurance for review and approval on an annual basis. The board is also required to adopt internal controls for the operation of the association and provide for an annual audit by an independent certified public accountant licensed under chapter 473, F.S.

It is a requirement of the board to establish a grievance procedure as provided for in ss. 409.7056 and 641.31(5), F.S., for individuals receiving care from an HMO.

The section eliminates the provision currently requiring the board to contract with preferred provider organizations and HMOs and to give consideration to the organizations that contract with the state group health insurance program.

Reporting requirements for the association are revised to coincide with the fiscal year of the association. Reports to the Legislature are to be submitted on March 1 instead of October 1 of each year for the prior fiscal year.

The association is authorized to place an individual with a plan case manager, if it is cost-effective and available in the county where the policyholder resides.

The board is charged specifically with the responsibility of administering the association in a fiscally responsible manner to ensure that the expenses are reasonable in relation to the services provided and that the financial resources are adequate to meet obligations. To assist the board in meeting this objective, the board is required to engage an actuary to conduct an annual evaluation of the actuarial soundness of the association. This evaluation would be conducted at least annually, but no more often than quarterly. The actuary must determine the feasibility of enrolling new members, based upon the projected revenues and expenses of the association.

The board is given the authority to restrict, at any time, the number of participants in the association, if determined that the revenues will not be adequate to fund new enrollees. If an individual is denied participation solely on the basis of such a determination, the individual must be granted priority for enrollment in the succeeding period in which the association is reopened for enrollment. For calendar year 2002, enrollment in the association is capped at 500. For calendar year 2003, the association may enroll an additional 1,500 persons. Except as provided in s. 627.6486(2)(j), F.S., applications for enrollment must be processed on a first-in, first-out basis.

Procedures must be established by the board to maintain separate accounts and recordkeeping for policyholders prior to January 1, 2002, and those policyholders issued coverage after that date. The board must appoint an executive director to serve as the chief administrative and operational officer of the association. The association must continue to levy assessments for costs and expenses associated with policyholders insured with the association prior to January 1, 2002.

The board is granted the authority to: appear on its own behalf before governmental agencies; solicit and accept gifts, grants, loans, and other aid; require and collect administrative fees and charges and penalties in connection with transactions; obtain insurance against losses; and contract for necessary goods and services.

Section 5. Amends s. 627.649, F.S., to require agents who are used by FCHA to be licensed by the Department of Insurance to sell health insurance in Florida.

Section 6. Amends s. 627.6492, F.S., to provide that insurers are subject to the current assessment only for those costs and expenses associated with policyholders insured with the association prior to January 1, 2002, including the renewal of coverage for such participants after that date. Obsolete language is eliminated.

For the costs and expenses associated with persons whose coverage begins after January 1, 2002, every insurer is required to pay 25 cents per month for each individual policy or covered group subscriber insured in this state, not including covered dependents, under a health insurance policy, certificate, or other evidence of coverage that is issued for a resident of Florida.

The section defines insurer, for purposes of this provision, to exclude limited-benefit policies, or other types of supplemental policies designed to fill gaps in underlying coverage, personal injury protection coverage provided in a motor vehicle policy, and workers' compensation. The term, insurer, includes third-party administrators and any insurer who provides only administrative services under s. 627.6482(7), F.S. The definition of insurer does not include self-insured employee welfare benefit plans that are not regulated by the Florida Insurance Code under ERISA. The definition of insurer would include multiple employer welfare arrangements as provided for in ERISA. Each covered group subscriber, without regard to covered dependents of the subscriber, would be counted only once with respect to any assessment. The board is required to allow an insurer to exclude from its number of covered group subscribers those individuals who have been counted by any primary insurer providing coverage pursuant to s. 624.603, F.S.

The calculation of the fee shall be determined as of December 31 of each year and will include all polices and covered subscribers, excluding dependents, insured during any time of the year. The payment is due no later than April 1 of the subsequent year. The first payment is due April 1, 2002, for the period of October 1, 2001, through December 31, 2001. The insurer is required to submit a form with the payment that identifies the number of covered lives for the different insurance products and the number of covered months.

Effective October 1, 2001, the fee may be charged directly by the insurer to each policyholder, insured member, or subscriber and is not part of the premium subject to the department's review and approval. Nonpayment of the fee would be considered nonpayment of premium for purposes of s. 627.6043, F.S.

Section 7. Amends s. 627.6498, F.S., to require the association to offer an annual, rather than a semi-annual, renewable policy. The section provides that the plan must offer coverage to every eligible person, subject to limitations set by the association, and must pay an eligible enrollee's covered expenses, subject to plan limitations. Only the premium, deductible and coinsurance amounts may be modified, as determined by the board. Holders of association policies issued prior to 1992 are entitled to continued coverage at the benefit level established prior to January 1, 2002. Obsolete and redundant language in the section is deleted.

If the coverage is being offered to a HIPAA-eligible individual, as defined in s. 627.6487, F.S., the individual may select the standard or basic benefit plan, as established in s. 627.6699, F.S. The section eliminates the requirement that the coverage offered by the association must be patterned after the state group health insurance program.

Rates are subject to approval by the department under ss. 627.410 and 627.411, F.S., except as provided by this section. The board is required to revise premium schedules annually, effective January 2002.

The board must establish 3 premium schedules, based upon an individual's income. Schedule A would be applicable to an individual whose family income exceeds the allowable amount for determining eligibility under the Medicaid program, up to and including 200 percent of the Federal Poverty Level. Premiums for a person under this schedule may not exceed 150 percent of the standard risk rate. Schedule B is applicable to an individual whose family income exceeds 200 percent but is less than 300 percent of the Federal Poverty Level. Premiums for a person under this schedule may not exceed 250 percent of the standard risk rate. Schedule C is applicable to an individual whose income is equal to or greater than 300 percent of the Federal Poverty Level. Premiums for a person under this schedule may not exceed 300 percent of the standard risk rate. The department must determine the standard risk rate and the rate would be adjusted for benefit differences.

The association is required to exclude from policy coverage during the 12 months following the effective date, any preexisting condition that manifested itself within 6 months prior to the effective date, or for which medical advice or treatment was recommended or received within that 6 months. The preexisting condition provision does not apply to a HIPAA-eligible individual under s. 627.6487, F.S.

The section provides that the FCHA does not provide an individual with an entitlement to health care services or health insurance. A cause of action does not arise against the state, the board or the association for failure to make health services or insurance available under the FCHA.

Section 8. States that the Legislature finds that the provisions of this act fulfill an important state interest.

Section 9. Provides that the amendments in this act to s. 627.6487, F.S., will not take effect unless HCFA approves this act as providing an acceptable alternative mechanism, as provided in the Public Health Services Act.

Section 10. Repeals s. 627.6484, F.S., relating to the closure of the FCHA and the Marketing Assistance Program, effective January 1, 2002.

Section 11. Provides that this act is effective July 1, 2001, except as otherwise provided.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

Article VII, s. 18 of the Florida Constitution provides that counties and municipalities are not bound by general laws that require them to spend funds or to take an action that requires the expenditure of funds unless the Legislature determines that the law fulfills an important state interest or meets other select exceptions, such as an insignificant fiscal impact. Section 8 provides that the provisions of the act fulfill an important state interest.

There will likely be a fiscal impact, although indeterminate, on cities and counties, unless a city or county administers their own self-insured plan.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

The provisions of this bill have no impact on public records or open meetings issues under the requirements of Art. I, s. 24(a) and (b) of the Florida Constitution.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

The provisions of this bill have no impact on the trust fund restrictions under the requirements of Art. III, s. 19(f) of the Florida Constitution.

V. Economic Impact and Fiscal Note:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

Private health insurers and enrollees of private health insurance plans will be subject to an assessment of 25 cents per month for each individual policy or covered group subscriber insured in Florida.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The opening of the FCHA would allow HIPPA eligibles and individuals who otherwise are not be able to obtain insurance coverage, due to a determination that they are medically uninsurable, an opportunity to obtain coverage, subject to funding limitations that would limit enrollment, as determined by the board. (See the chart, below, for the estimated number of enrollees.)

C. Government Sector Impact:

According to the Department of Insurance there are 8,572,000 individuals presently insured through employer-sponsored insurance, employer sponsored self-insurance, public sector (federal, state, local government) employer sponsored insurance, self-insurance (administered by a third-party administrator) or non-employer sponsored insurance in Florida. This number was adjusted (divided) by 2.5 percent to determine the estimated number of policies that would be subject to the assessment, to arrive at 3,428,800 policies that would be subject to the assessment. However, the department was unable to provide an estimate of the number of federal employer sponsored insurance or self-insured plans that would not be subject to this assessment.

The first payment of the assessment would be received by the FCHA in April 1, 2002, for the period of October 2001 through December 2001. This three-month period would generate an estimated $10.3 million (or $2.6 million per month) in revenues for the FCHA. On annual basis, it is estimated that the assessment would generate $10,286,400 for the association and provide coverage for an estimated 1,743 - 1,837 individuals.

Assuming that the current trends of the FCHA continue and the unfunded/assessed amount remains relatively stable, each additional member would require an estimated $5600 - $5900 in assessment funding per year. (This assessed amount would fund the difference between premium revenues received and the costs and expense of new enrollees of the FCHA.)

Number Of Enrollees	Estimated Costs (Assessment Funding) 3 Months	Estimated Costs (Assessment Funding) 1 Year	Estimated Revenues 3 Months	Estimated Revenues 1 Year
500	$700,000 - 737,500	$2,800,000 - 2,950,000
1500	$2,100,000 - 2,212,500	$8,400,000 - 8,850,000
2000	$2,800,000 - 2,950,000	$11,200,000 - 11,800,000	$2,571,600	$10,286,400
