ANALYSIS – LOCAL LEGISLATION

BILL #: HB 843

RELATING TO: Coral Springs/Corporate Limits (Broward County)

SPONSOR(S): Representative Ritter

TIED BILL(S): None

I. SUMMARY:

This bill extends and enlarges the corporate limits of the City of Coral Springs to include specified lands located within unincorporated Broward County.

This bill designates the area being annexed as “Commercial” on the City of Coral Springs Land Use Plan Map, which is consistent with the Broward County Land Use Plan Map. The area being annexed is also zoned to the B-3 zoning category of the City of Coral Springs. The City of Coral Springs is not required to submit a comprehensive plan amendment or rezone the area.

Pursuant to House Rule 5.6(b), a local bill providing an exemption from general law may not be placed on the Special Order Calendar for expedited consideration. The provisions of House Rule 5.6(b) appear to apply to this bill. (See II.C. “EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:” section.)

On April 19, 2001], the Committee on Local Government & Veterans Affairs considered HB 843, adopted 1 amendment, and passed the bill. The amendment, which is traveling with the bill, is explained in this bill analysis. (See section V. “AMENDMENTS OR COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES:”.) This amendment removes a significant exemption from general law. Even with this amendment, this bill still appears to provide an exemption from general law. However, this bill complies with chapter 96-542, Laws of Florida, which exempts Broward County from the general law provisions of chapter 171, Florida Statutes.

SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS:

B. PRESENT SITUATION:

Annexation

Constitutional/Statutory Provisions

Section 2(c), article VIII of the State Constitution authorizes the Legislature to annex unincorporated property into a municipality by special act. It also authorizes the Legislature to establish procedures in general law for the annexation of property by local action.

The Legislature established local annexation procedures by general law in 1974, with the enactment of chapter 171, Florida Statutes. Chapter 171, Florida Statutes, named the "Municipal Annexation or Contraction Act," describes the ways that property can be annexed or de-annexed by cities without passage of an act by the Legislature. There are two types of annexations in Florida, voluntary and involuntary. With voluntary annexations, all property owners in the area proposed for annexation formally seek the annexation by petition. For an involuntary annexation to occur, at least a majority of the electors in the area proposed for annexation must vote in favor of the annexation. In addition, for the annexation to be valid under Chapter 171, Florida Statutes, the annexation must take place within the boundaries of a single county.

There is a twofold purpose of the Florida annexation laws: 1) to set forth local annexation/contraction procedures, and 2) to establish prerequisites for achieving the legislative goals of sound urban development, uniform legislative standards, and efficient provision of urban services.

Statutory Requirements That Must Be Met Before Annexation May Occur

Before local annexation procedures may begin, the governing body of the annexing municipality must prepare a report containing the city's plans for providing urban services to the proposed area to be annexed. A copy of the report must be filed with the board of county commissioners where the municipality is located. This report must include appropriate maps, timetables, and financing methodologies. It must certify that the area proposed to be annexed is appropriate for annexation because it meets the following standards and requirements:

- The area to be annexed must be an unincorporated area that is contiguous to the boundary of the annexing municipality. This means that a substantial part of the boundary of the area to be annexed has a common boundary with the municipality. The specified exceptions are where the area is separated from the city's boundary by a publicly owned county park, right-of-way, or body of water.

- The area to be annexed must be reasonably compact.
- No part of the area to be annexed may fall within the boundary of another municipality.
- The majority of the land to be annexed must be developed for urban purposes. Urban purposes are defined as:
 - Having a resident population of at least two persons per acre;
 - If 60 percent of the subdivided lots are one acre or less, having a density of one person (resident) per acre;
 - Having at least 60 percent of the subdivided lots used for urban purposes; or
 - Having at least 60 percent of the total urban residential acreage divided into lots of 5 acres or less.
- Alternatively, if the proposed area is not developed for urban purposes, it can either border at least 60 percent of a developed area, or provide a necessary bridge between two urban areas.

Annexed areas are declared to be subject to taxation (and existing indebtedness) for the current year on the effective date of the annexation, unless the annexation takes place after the municipal governing body levies such tax for that year. In the case of municipal contractions, the city and county must reach agreement on the transfer of indebtedness or property--the amount to be assumed, its fair value, and the manner of transfer and financing.

Types of Annexations

Voluntary Annexation

If the property owners of a particular unincorporated area desire annexation into a contiguous municipality, they can initiate voluntary annexation proceedings. The following procedures govern voluntary annexations in every county, except for those counties with charters providing an exclusive method for municipal annexation:

- Submission to the municipal governing body of a petition seeking annexation, signed by all property owners in the area proposed to be annexed.
- Adoption of an ordinance by the governing body of the annexing municipality to annex the property after publication of notice at least once a week for 2 consecutive weeks, setting forth the proposed ordinance in full.

In addition, the annexation must not create enclaves. An enclave is:

- (a) Any unincorporated, improved or developed area that is enclosed within and bounded on all sides by a single municipality; or

(b) Any unincorporated, improved or developed area that is enclosed within and bounded by a single municipality and a natural or manmade obstacle that allows the passage of vehicular traffic to that unincorporated area only through the municipality.

Upon publishing notice of the ordinance, the governing body of the municipality must provide a copy to the board of county commissioners of the county where the municipality is located.

Involuntary Annexations

A municipality may annex property where the property owners have not petitioned for annexation pursuant to section 171.0413, Florida Statutes. This process is called involuntary annexation. In general, the requirements for an involuntary annexation are:

- The adoption of an annexation ordinance of a "reasonably compact" area by the annexing municipality's governing body.
- Prior to the adoption of an annexation ordinance, the governing body of the municipality must hold at least two advertised public hearings, with the first meeting being held on a weekday at least seven days after the first advertisement and the second meeting being held on a weekday at least five days after the first advertisement. (This new requirement was passed by the 1999 Legislature).
- Submission of the ordinance to a vote of the registered electors of the area proposed to be annexed once the governing body has adopted the ordinance. The registered electors of the annexing municipality may vote on the annexation if the governing body chooses to submit it to a vote. However, this vote is not required.

In 1999, the Florida Legislature removed the requirement of a dual referendum in specific circumstances. Previously, in addition to a vote by the electors in the proposed annexed area, the annexation ordinance was submitted to a separate vote of the registered electors of the annexing municipality if the total area annexed by a municipality during any one calendar year period cumulatively exceeded more than five percent of the total land area of the municipality or cumulatively exceeded more than five percent of the municipal population. The holding of a dual referendum is now at the discretion of the governing body of the annexing municipality. There is no requirement that the electors in the municipality approve an annexation ordinance regardless of the cumulative effect of such annexation.

If there is a majority vote in favor of annexation in the area proposed to be annexed, the area becomes a part of the city. If there is no majority vote, that area cannot be made the subject of another annexation proposal for two years from the date of the referendum.

Annexation of Enclaves

With the passage of chapter 93-206, Laws of Florida, (now found in section 171.046, Florida Statutes), the Legislature recognized that enclaves can create significant problems in planning, growth management, and service delivery. An enclave is (a) any unincorporated, improved or developed area that is enclosed within and bounded on all sides by a single municipality; or (b) any unincorporated, improved or developed area that is enclosed within and bounded by a single municipality and a natural or manmade obstacle that allows the passage of vehicular traffic to that unincorporated area only through the municipality.

In 1993, the Legislature recognized that enclaves can create significant problems in planning, growth management, and service delivery. The intent of the legislation was to make it easier to eliminate enclaves of small land areas. A separate process for annexing enclaves of 10 acres or less was created. Using this process, a municipality may annex an enclave by interlocal agreement with the county having jurisdiction of the enclave. It may also annex an enclave with fewer than 25 registered voters by municipal ordinance, when the annexation is approved in a referendum by at least 60 percent of the voters in the enclave. These procedures do not apply to undeveloped or unimproved real property.

Annexation by Special Act

Subsection 171.044(4), Florida Statutes, provides that the procedures for voluntary annexation shall be "supplemental to any other procedure provided by general law or special law." There are a number of special annexation laws that exist in Florida, and hence special laws should always be checked prior to beginning annexation procedures. The Legislature may allow municipalities to annex property by passage of a special act and are empowered to waive any and all statutory requirements.

Annexation by Charter

Also provided in subsection 171.044(4), Florida Statutes, voluntary annexation procedures do not apply to municipalities and counties with charters that provide for an exclusive method of municipal annexation.

Effect of Annexation on an Area

Immediately upon being annexed, an area becomes subject to all laws, ordinances, and regulations applicable to other city residents. An exception is that applicable county land use and zoning regulations continue in effect until the annexing municipality adopts a comprehensive plan amendment and rezones the area, pursuant to section 171.062(2), Florida Statutes. Also, the county land use plan, and zoning or subdivision regulations of the unincorporated area remain in effect (after the annexation has been approved) until the annexing municipality adopts a local comprehensive plan amendment to include the new area. In contractions, excluded territory is immediately subject to laws, ordinances, and regulations in effect in the county.

Affected persons who believe they will suffer material injury because of the failure of the city to comply with annexation or contraction laws as they apply to their property can appeal the annexation ordinance. They may file a petition within 30 days following the passage of the ordinance with the circuit court for the county in which the municipality is located seeking the court's review by certiorari. If the appeal is won, the petitioner is entitled to reasonable costs and attorney's fees.

Finally, any changes in municipal boundaries require revision of the boundary section of the municipality's charter. Such changes must be filed as a charter revision with the Department of State within 30 days of the annexation or contraction.

Solid Waste Collection

Florida law provides for continuing any exclusive franchised solid waste collection services that have been in effect for six months or longer. They are to continue to the newly annexed area for either 5 years or for the remainder of the franchise term, whichever is shorter. The municipality may allow the franchisee to continue servicing the area under the present franchise agreements, or the city may terminate the agreements if the franchisee does not agree to comply with certain statutory provisions relating to the quality of services or the costs of providing such services. In 2000, the Legislature adopted a provision which provides that a solid waste collection contract in effect at least 6 months prior to the annexation, may continue to provide services to the annexed area for 5 years or the remainder of the contract, whichever is shorter. The solid waste collection provider must provide written evidence of the contract duration, excluding any automatic renewals or "ever-green" provisions, within a reasonable time of a written request. This does not apply to single-family residential properties in specified enclaves.

Broward County Annexations

Broward County is located on Florida's South Atlantic coast and consists of nearly 1,200 square miles and a population of approximately 1.3 million residents. Broward County currently contains 31 municipalities, the majority of which achieved their current corporate boundaries through a multitude of annexations.

In 1996, in cooperation with the Broward County Commission, the Broward County Legislative Delegation created the Ad Hoc Committee on Annexation Policy. The delegation charged the committee with the responsibility of developing and recommending policy to the Broward Legislative Delegation regarding the terms under which it would consider future annexations. The committee recommended that annexation of all the remaining unincorporated areas of Broward County should be encouraged to occur by the year 2010 and unincorporated areas remaining after 2010 will be subject to required annexation by the Florida Legislature.

The 1996 Florida Legislature adopted a special act (chapter 96-542, Laws of Florida, as amended by chapter 99-447, Laws of Florida), which exempts Broward County from the general law provision in chapter 171, Florida Statutes. This provision requires a referendum of the electors of an annexing municipality where the total area annexed by a municipality during a calendar year cumulatively exceeds more than 5 percent of the total land area of the municipality or cumulatively exceeds more than 5 percent of the municipal population.

In addition, the special act requires that any annexation of unincorporated property within Broward County proposed to be accomplished pursuant to general law first must be considered at a public hearing conducted by the Broward County Legislative Delegation, pursuant to its adopted rules. The annexation is not effective until the fifteenth day of September following adjournment sine die of the next regular legislative session following the accomplishment of all procedures necessary for annexation.

Annexations may also occur by special act of the Legislature. The Broward County Legislative Delegation sponsors several local bills each year to accomplish some annexations.

Comprehensive Plan Amendment Process

Under chapter 163, Florida Statutes, the process for the adoption of a comprehensive plan and comprehensive plan amendments is essentially the same. A local government or property owner initiates the process by proposing an amendment to the designated local planning agency (LPA). After holding at least one public hearing, the LPA makes recommendations to the governing body regarding the amendments. The governing body then holds a transmittal public hearing at which the proposed amendment must be voted on affirmatively by a majority of the members of the governing body of the local government. Following the public hearing, the local government must transmit the amendment to the department, the appropriate regional planning council and water management district, the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) and any other local government or state agency that has requested a copy of the amendment.

Next, the decision is made whether or not to review the proposed amendment. If the local government does not request a review, the department requests that the appropriate water management districts, FDOT and the DEP advise the department as to whether or not the amendment should be reviewed within 21 days after transmittal of the amendment by the local government. Based on this information, the department decides whether to review the amendment. The department must review the proposed amendment within 30 days after transmittal of the amendment if the local government transmitting the amendment, a regional planning council or an "affected person" requests review. Finally, even if a request by one of the above parties is not made, the department may elect to review the amendment by giving the local government notice of its intention to review the amendment within 30 days after receipt of the amendment.

If review is not requested by the local government, the regional planning council, or any affected person, and the department decides not to review it, the local government is notified that it may proceed immediately to adopt the amendment. If, however, review of the amendment is initiated, the department next transmits, pursuant to Rule 9J-1.009, Florida Administrative Code, a copy of the amendment to: the Department of State; the Fish & Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWCC) ; the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Affairs, Division of Forestry for county amendments; and the appropriate land planning agency. In addition, the department may circulate a copy of the amendment to other government agencies, as appropriate. Commenting agencies have 30 days from receipt of the proposed amendment to provide written comments to the department. In addition, written comments submitted by the public within 30 days after notice of transmittal by the local government are considered by the department as if they were submitted by governmental agencies.

Upon receipt of the comments described above, the department has 30 days to send its Objections, Recommendations and Comments report to the local government body (commonly referred to as the "ORC Report"). In its review, the department considers whether the amendment is consistent with the requirements of the Act, Rule 9J-5, Florida Administrative Code, the State Comprehensive Plan, and the appropriate regional policy plan.

After receiving the ORC report from the department, the local government has 60 days (120 days for amendments based on Evaluation and Appraisal "EAR" Reports or compliance agreements) to adopt the amendment, adopt the amendment with changes, or decide that it will not adopt the amendment. The decision must be made at a public hearing. Within 10 days after adoption, the local government transmits the adopted plan amendment to the department, the commenting agencies, the regional planning council and anyone else who has requested notice of the adoption.

Upon receipt of a local government's adopted comprehensive plan amendment, the department has 45 days (30 days for amendments based on compliance agreements) to determine whether the plan or plan amendment is in compliance with the Local Government Comprehensive Planning and Land Development Regulation Act. This compliance determination is also required when the department has not reviewed the amendment under section 163.3184(6), Florida Statutes. During this time period, the department issues a notice of intent to find the plan amendment in compliance or not in compliance with the requirements of the Act. The notice of intent is mailed to the local government and the department is required to publish the notice of intent in a newspaper that has been designated by the local government.

If the department finds the comprehensive plan amendment in compliance with the Act, any affected person may file a petition for administrative hearing pursuant to sections 120.569 and 120.57, Florida Statutes, within 21 days after publication of the notice of intent. An administrative hearing is conducted by the Division of Administrative Hearings where the legal standard of review is that the plan amendment will be determined to be in compliance if the local government's determination of compliance is fairly debatable. The hearing officer submits a recommended order to the department. If the department determines that the plan amendment is in compliance, it issues a final order. If the department determines that the amendment is not in compliance, it submits the recommended order to the Administration Commission (the Governor and Cabinet) for final agency action.

If the department issues a notice of intent to find the comprehensive plan amendment not in compliance, the notice of intent is forwarded directly to the Division of Administrative Hearing in order to hold a sections 120.569 and 120.57, Florida Statutes, administrative proceeding. The parties to the administrative proceeding include: the department; the affected local government; and any affected person who intervenes. In the administrative hearing, the decision of the local government of the comprehensive plan amendment's compliance is presumed to be correct and must be sustained unless it is shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the comprehensive plan amendment is not in compliance.

The administrative law judge submits his decision directly to the Administration Commission for final agency action. If the Administration Commission determines that the plan amendment is not in compliance with the Act, it must specify remedial actions to bring the plan amendment into compliance.

Local governments are limited in the number of times per year they may adopt comprehensive plan amendments. Section 163.3187, Florida Statutes, provides that local government comprehensive plan amendments may only be made twice in a calendar year unless the amendment falls under specific statutory exceptions which include, for example: amendments directly related to developments of regional impact; small scale development amendments; the designation of an urban infill and redevelopment area; and changes to the schedule of the capital improvements element.

C. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

This bill extends and enlarges the corporate limits of the City of Coral Springs to include specified lands located within unincorporated Broward County.

This bill provides that nothing in this act shall be construed to limit or affect the binding legal effect of a pre-annexation agreement entered into by specified parties relating to the annexation and development of Sawgrass Center. The area being annexed is designated as "Commercial" on the City of Coral Springs Land Use Plan Map, which is consistent with the Broward County Land Use Plan Map. The area being annexed is also zoned to the B-3 zoning category of the City of Coral Springs. The City of Coral Springs is not required to submit a comprehensive plan amendment or be required to rezone the area, thus exempting the City of Coral Springs from section 171.062(2) and chapter 163, Florida Statutes. In addition, the City of Coral Springs may amend its Land Use Plan Map and its zoning classification of the annexed area by ordinance. These provisions eliminate citizen access relating to plan and zoning changes and the state review process. The opportunity for substantially affected persons to file administrative challenges is also eliminated.

All public roads and public rights-of-way, within the annexed area, are transferred from the jurisdiction of Broward County to the jurisdiction of the City of Coral Springs, with the exception of Coral Ridge Drive. The bill provides that contracts that are in effect prior to the effective date of the annexation shall continue to be in full force and effect.

Pursuant to House Rule 5.6(b), a local bill providing an exemption from general law may not be placed on the Special Order Calendar for expedited consideration. The provisions of House Rule 5.6(b) appear to apply to this bill.

D. SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS:

Section 1: The bill extends and enlarges the corporate limits of the City of Coral Springs to include within its boundaries a new area and provides for such boundaries.

Section 2: The bill provides that all public roads and public rights of way within the annexed area are transferred from the jurisdiction of Broward County to the jurisdiction of the City of Coral Springs with the exception of Coral Ridge Drive. The City of Coral Springs is responsible for any transferred roads on September 15, 2001.

Section 3: The bill provides that nothing in this act shall be construed to limit or affect the binding legal effect of a pre-annexation agreement entered into by specified parties relating to the annexation and development of Sawgrass Center.

Section 4: The bill provides that on September 15, 2001, the annexed area is subject to the development regulations of the City of Coral Springs and the pre-annexation agreement referenced above. The area being annexed is designated as "Commercial" on the City of Coral Springs Land Use Plan Map, which is consistent with the Broward County Land Use Plan Map.

Section 5: The area being annexed is zoned to the B-3 zoning category of the City of Coral Springs. In addition, the bill provides that the City of Coral Springs is not required to submit a comprehensive plan amendment or be required to rezone the area.

Section 6: The bill allows the City of Coral Springs to amend its Land Use Plan Map and its zoning classification of the annexed area by ordinance.

Section 7: The bill provides that on September 15, 2001, the City of Coral Springs is responsible for all municipal powers granted in chapter 166, Florida Statutes, over the annexed territory.

Section 8: Nothing in this chapter impacts any existing contracts, which are in effect prior to the effective date of the annexation, between Broward County and a third party or between nongovernmental entities.

Section 9: The bill has an effective date of September 15, 2001.

IV. AMENDMENTS OR COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES:

The Committee on Local Government & Veterans Affairs, at its April 19, 2001 meeting, adopted an amendment, offered by Representative Ritter, which eliminates the provisions allowing the Future Land Use Map and zoning designations to become legally effective without amendment through adoption process provided in sections 163.3184 and 166.041, Florida Statutes. In addition, the amendment inserts language that appears in all Broward County annexation local bills which prohibits any current land use change by the annexing city and prohibits any annexation of this area by another prior to the annexation in this bill taking effect. This amendment removed a provision that provided an exemption from general law.
