I. SUMMARY:

HB 463 requires that each district school board, community college district board of trustees, and university board of trustees establish, by rule and pursuant to guidelines of the Florida Board of Education, policies regarding currently enrolled students who are called to, or enlist in, active military service. The bill requires that the policies provide that no student enrolled in a postsecondary course or courses at an area technical center, a public community college, a public college, or a state university, suffer academic or financial penalties because he or she is performing military service on behalf of our country.

Currently, state universities and community college district boards of trustees must adopt rules regarding refunds. However, there is no standard refund policy in the K-20 system relating to the treatment of students who are called to, or enlist in, active military service.

The bill provides rule making authority for district school boards, community college district boards of trustees, and university boards of trustees.

The bill requires that each institution provide students who are called to, or enlist in, active military service a full refund or allow the student to complete the course or courses at a later date without penalty. The exact number of students who may withdraw and subsequently require a refund is not known. It is anticipated that the number of students requiring a refund under this provision will be small. The fiscal impact is expected to be minimal.

The effective date of the bill is upon becoming law.

B. PRESENT SITUATION:

Currently, community college district boards of trustees and state universities must adopt rules regarding refunds. However, there is currently no standard refund policy in the K-20 system relating to the treatment of students who are called to, or enlist in, active military service.

Rule 6C-7.002(9), F.A.C., directs each university to establish, by rule, procedures for the refund or release of liability of tuition assessed and paid pursuant to the rule. The rule also prescribes specific conditions under which such refund must be made. A 100 percent refund of the tuition assessed, adjusted for waivers, is to be provided for if a student withdraws or drops one or more credit courses due to circumstances determined by the university to be exceptional and beyond the control of the student, including but not limited to the following:

- Illness of a student of such severity or duration, as confirmed in writing by a physician, to preclude completion of the course(s);
- Death of the student or death in the immediate family (parent, step-parents, spouse, child, sibling, or grandparents);
- Involuntary call to active military duty; or
- A situation in which the university is in error.

Rule 6A-14.0541, F.A.C., directs each community college board of trustees to establish a rule for the refunding of tuition, matriculation, and fees. The rule must include the criteria for refunds when a student drops a course due to circumstances determined by the college to be exceptional and beyond the control of the student. Such circumstances may include involuntary call to active duty or other emergency circumstances or extraordinary situations identified by college rule.

C. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

The bill appears to codify rules already in existence in the Community College System and the State University System and requires that those rules protect from financial harm not only those withdrawing due to "involuntary" call to active military service but also those who voluntarily opt to enlist in active military service. Additionally, the bill provides for consistent policies by public postsecondary institutions with regard to the treatment of such students.

The bill requires that each district school board, community college district board of trustees, and university board of trustees establish, by rule and pursuant to guidelines of the Florida Board of Education, policies regarding currently enrolled students who are called to, or enlist in, active military service.

The bill requires that the policies provide that no student, enrolled in a postsecondary course or courses at an area technical center, a public community college, a public college, or a state university, suffer academic or financial penalties because the student is performing military service on behalf of our country.

The bill requires that the policies provide that a student who is called to, or enlists in, active military service be allowed at least the following two options:

- complete the course or courses at a later date without penalty; or
- withdraw from the course or courses with a full refund of any fees that have been paid. If the student chooses the latter option, the student's record must reflect that the withdrawal is due to the student's active military service.
