B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Currently, 5 members serve on the Civil Service Board of the City of Jacksonville. None of the members are appointed by the JEA. The JEA is the authority that owns, operates and manages the electric system established by the City of Jacksonville in 1895. The board annually elects a Chair. No member can be employed by the City of Jacksonville or be connected with the city administration. Current legislation provides for ex parte communications.

The bill amends the City of Jacksonville Charter (Charter) to:

- expand the membership of the Civil Service Board by 2 members (both Mayoral appointees);
- to reduce the School Board’s appointees from 3 to 2;
- to give the JEA the authority to appoint 1 member; and
- to provide for a transition mechanism from the current to the new appointment method.

The bill provides for the board to elect a vice-chair and provides that non-attendance by a board member at 3 consecutive meetings or 50% of the meetings in a calendar year provides grounds for a declaration by the Mayor that the member’s seat is vacant and is to be refilled by the appropriate appointing authority.

The bill also provides that the City Council may remove members of the Civil Service Board for cause under due process of law.

The bill further provides that no member of the Civil Service Board shall be an agent of or employed by the City, the JEA, the School Board, or any collective bargaining organization representing employees of those entities.

Finally, the bill prohibits any ex parte communication regarding the business of the board and requires disclosure of any ex parte communications that may take place before voting on the matter to which it relates.

According to information provided by a representative of the Duval Delegation Office, the bill was requested by the Mayor’s Office to deal with quorum and attendance problems.¹
