SUMMARY ANALYSIS

House bill 149 expands the existing standards and requirements for student participation in interscholastic extracurricular activities to include all extracurricular activities. This bill sets an effective date of July 1, 2005.

Substantive Impact

Current law sets the standards and regulates student participation in interscholastic extracurricular student activities. This bill expands the scope of the standards and requirements to include all extracurricular student activities. The bill clarifies that students shall not be precluded from receiving tutoring, performing community service, or attending school athletic, social, and academic functions. However, a student who does not meet the statutory requirements shall not perform at school functions or travel with a school team, band, club, or other organizations to any event where the group is to compete or perform.

Fiscal Impact

The bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Promote personal responsibility – The bill requires students to earn a 2.0 grade point average to participate in any extracurricular activities.

Empower families – Families will be able to use this provision to encourage the academic performance of their students.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Current law provides for the standards and regulation of interscholastic extracurricular student activities. The bill would remove the restriction of applying only to interscholastic extracurricular student activities and apply the standards and regulations to all extracurricular student activities. The bill adds provisions allowing a student to be tutored, perform community service, and attend school athletic, social, and academic functions. However, a student who is not eligible to participate in extracurricular activities shall not perform at school functions or travel with a school team, band, club, or other organization to any event where the group is to compete or perform.

The standards established in current law are a 2.0 average in the previous semester, or a 2.0 average in required courses. Freshmen and sophomores must enter into an academic contract if their grade point average falls below a 2.0 in required courses, including attendance in summer school. Juniors and seniors must maintain a 2.0 in required courses. All students must maintain satisfactory conduct. These requirements also apply to charter school and home education students.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1: Amends s.1006.15, F.S., to include all extracurricular activities.

Section 2: Amends s. 1002.33, F.S. to include charter schools in requirements for participating in extracurricular activities.

Section 3: Amends s. 1002.41, F.S., to include home education students in requirements for participating in extracurricular activities.

Section 4: Sets an effective date of July 1, 2005.
