I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Empower families and safeguard individual liberty—This bill will allow the victim of domestic, repeat, sexual, or dating violence who has received exclusive possession of a residence to terminate a rental agreement after providing the landlord with a copy of a permanent injunction issued within the past fifteen days. The provisions of this bill apply to all residential lease agreements and cannot be waived by the parties.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Termination of Lease Agreements

A tenant may terminate a rental agreement when the landlord materially fails to comply with s. 83.51(1), F.S.,¹ or material provisions of the rental agreement within seven days of notice from the tenant specifying the noncompliance and indicating the tenant's intent to terminate the rental agreement. If the landlord does not complete the work necessary to make the dwelling unit tenantable, and the tenant then vacates the unit, the tenant will not be liable for rent during the time the dwelling unit remains uninhabitable.²

If a landlord fails to fulfill an expressly assumed obligation to repair and maintain the premises, the tenant may withhold rent after notifying the landlord, and shall give the landlord a written notice declaring the premises to be wholly untenable.³ The landlord shall have at least twenty days to make the repair or maintenance, and the tenant may withhold rent until the repair or maintenance has been performed.⁴ If the landlord does not complete the repair within the specified time, the tenant has the option of abandoning the premises, retaining the withheld rent, terminating the lease, and avoiding liability for future rent or charges under the lease.⁵ The tenant may exercise the remedy provided by this section in addition to any other existing remedies.⁶

A tenancy at will may be terminated by either party upon giving notice of a time period specified by statute and based upon the length of the periodic tenancy, whether it is a tenancy from year to year, quarter to quarter, month to month, or week to week.⁷ When a tenancy created by a written instrument has expired and the tenant continues to retain possession of the premises without renewing the lease, the holdover shall be construed to be a tenancy at sufferance.⁸ If the tenancy continues with the written consent of the lessor, then the tenancy becomes a tenancy at will.⁹

Injunctions against Domestic, Repeat, Dating, or Sexual Violence

Section 741.30(1)(a), F.S., creates a cause of action for an injunction for protection against domestic violence, and provides that a person who is the victim of domestic violence, as defined in s. 741.28,

¹ Section 83.51(1) requires a landlord to comply with all applicable building, housing, and health codes, and maintain all structural components and plumbing in good repair.

F.S.,¹⁰ or who has reasonable cause to believe that he or she is in imminent danger of becoming a victim of domestic violence, has standing to seek an injunction against domestic violence. A domestic violence injunction may be sought by family or household members, and “[n]o person shall be precluded from seeking injunctive relief pursuant to this chapter solely on the basis that such person is not a spouse.”¹¹

Courts have adopted a two-pronged test for determining whether a relationship is such that the court can properly issue a domestic violence injunction against one of the parties.¹² First, the petitioner must have a familial or domestic relationship with the respondent that falls within the range of relationships listed in the statute, and second, the parties must have resided together, either in the past or present, as a family or household in the same dwelling unit.¹³ An action for an injunction does not affect the title to any real estate.¹⁴

Section 784.046, F.S., defines violence, repeat violence, sexual violence, and dating violence, and creates separate causes of action for repeat, sexual, and dating violence. Any person who is the victim of repeat violence,¹⁵ or the parent of a minor child who lives at home and is the victim of repeat violence, has standing to file a sworn petition for an injunction against repeat violence.¹⁶ “Dating violence” is defined as “violence between individuals who have or have had a continuing and significant relationship of a romantic or intimate nature.”¹⁷ Any person who has reasonable cause to believe that he or she is in imminent danger of becoming the victim of an act of dating violence, or who is the victim of dating violence and has reasonable cause to fear imminent future dating violence, or who is the parent of a minor child living at home and is in need of protection from dating violence, may file a petition for an injunction to protect against dating violence.¹⁸

A person who is the victim of sexual violence,¹⁹ or the parent of any minor child living at home who is the victim of sexual violence, has standing to file a petition for a protective injunction against sexual violence if:

- The person has reported the sexual violence to a law enforcement agency and is cooperating with any criminal proceeding against the respondent; or
- The person who committed the sexual violence was sentenced to a term of imprisonment for the sexual violence, and such sentence expires or shall expire within 90 days of the filing of the petition.²⁰

The court is authorized to grant an injunction enjoining the respondent from committing any acts of violence and it is also given broad authority to order such other relief as is necessary to protect the victim.²¹ An order granting an injunction must be supported by competent, substantial evidence.²²

²¹ Id. at (6)(a), (7)(a)-(b).

Either party may move to have the injunction modified or dissolved at any time, and the terms of the injunction remain in effect until modified or dissolved.²³

The court may use a civil or criminal contempt proceeding to enforce a protective injunction.²⁴

HB 1517

This bill creates s. 83.683, F.S., entitled "Termination of rental agreement by a victim of domestic violence, repeat violence, sexual violence, or dating violence." The bill defines "permanent injunction" as an injunction against domestic violence, pursuant to s. 741.30(6), F.S., or an injunction against repeat violence, sexual violence, or dating violence, pursuant to s. 784.046(7), regardless of whether the injunctive order is or may be appealed or reheard.

The bill defines "victim" as an adult, or the parent or guardian of a minor, who has been granted a permanent injunction against domestic violence, sexual violence, dating violence, or repeat violence, and who has been granted exclusive possession of a dwelling unit otherwise subject to regulation under the Florida law governing residential tenancies.

The bill provides that a victim may choose to terminate a rental agreement and vacate a dwelling unit if the victim provides the landlord with a copy of the permanent injunction, within 15 days of the issuance of the injunction, and written notice of the victim's intent to terminate the lease. The victim must vacate the rental unit on the date the lease expires by its own terms, the date the lease terminates by operation of law, or 30 days after giving notice to the landlord, whichever occurs first. The victim's obligations under the lease will end 30 days after giving notice to the landlord or when the lease expires on its own terms, whichever occurs first. The landlord is to give notice to each tenant pursuant to s. 83.49,²⁵ although the lease or tenancy shall continue in all respects subject with regard to all tenants except the victim, and all tenants including the victim are responsible for damage to the property that exceeds normal wear and tear.

Furthermore, if the respondent or any other tenant fails to retake possession of the premises 15 days after the victim gives notice of intent to vacate, and the rent is unpaid, the premises are deemed abandoned and the landlord may retake possession, including disposal of any abandoned property remaining in the dwelling unit.

The victim and respondent may not agree to waive or modify the provisions of this section. This section shall apply to all rental agreements subject to this part and entered on or after July 1, 2005.

The bill also amends s. 83.59, F.S., adding subsection (3)(d), to allow a landlord to retake possession of a dwelling unit 45 days after the death of a tenant, when the rent is unpaid and the landlord has not been notified of the existence of a probate estate or personal representative. Currently, s. 83.59(3)(a)-(c), F.S., provides that a landlord may only recover possession of a dwelling unit following a civil action where the right of possession is at issue, when the tenant has surrendered possession of the dwelling unit to the landlord, or when the tenant has abandoned the dwelling unit.

This bill shall take effect on July 1, 2005.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

²² Forrest v. Wilson, 889 So. 2d 124, 124-25 (Fla. 1st DCA 2004) (citations omitted).

²³ Section 784.046(7)(c); (10).

²⁴ Id. at (9)(a).

²⁵ Section 83.49(3)(a), F.S., provides that:

Upon the vacating of the premises for termination of the lease, if the landlord does not intend to impose a claim on the security deposit, the landlord shall have 15 days to return the security deposit together with interest if otherwise required, or the landlord shall have 30 days to give the tenant written notice by certified mail to the tenant's last known mailing address of his or her intention to impose a claim on the deposit and the reason for imposing the claim.

Section 1. Creates s. 83.683, F.S., allowing a person who has obtained a permanent protective injunction and who has been granted exclusive possession of a dwelling unit to terminate the lease within 15 days of issuance of the injunction, after giving written notice to the landlord.

Section 2. Amends s. 83.59, F.S., to allow a landlord to regain possession of a dwelling unit 45 days after the death of a tenant when certain conditions are met.

Section 3. Establishes an effective date of July 1, 2005.
