FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Promote Personal Responsibility and Empower Families – Providing time and appropriate pre- and post-disaster information and improving the availability of services should enable the state's residents to make choices that will enhance the safety and well-being of themselves and their families.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Current situation

Florida's geographical location makes this state vulnerable to a variety of natural disasters, and other non-natural disasters are possible as well. Various state agencies coordinate with local and federal governments, interstate organizations, and the private sector to prepare residents and visitors before disasters to help protect them during such events, and assist with recovery afterward.

Florida's regulatory guidelines regarding disaster response are outlined in several documents. Chapter 252, F.S., mandates the development of the Florida Comprehensive Emergency Management Plan (the Plan). The Plan establishes the framework to ensure that Florida is prepared to deal with the aftermath of any one of several hazards that threaten our communities, businesses, and the environment. The Plan coordinates response and recovery activities with federal, state, local, and volunteer entities and organizations. The Plan unifies the efforts of these groups to ensure a comprehensive approach to reducing and mitigating the effects of an emergency or disaster.

The Plan is divided into three sections:

- The Basic Plan – this section outlines in general terms how Florida will assist counties in responding to, recovering from, and mitigating the impact of a disaster.
- The Emergency Support Function Appendices – this section organizes state agencies into 17 emergency support functions and is patterned after the Federal Response Plan. The appendices outline the responsibilities of the primary and support agencies that aid local governments.
- The Hazard Specific Annexes – this section addresses special circumstances and situations including radiological incidents, terrorists, wildfire incidents, and repatriation processes.

Section 252.35(2)(a)2., F.S., requires the Plan to set forth policy guidelines for sheltering people with special needs.

Additionally, laws relating to health care providers, including ancillary services, provide that certain rules be developed and enforced to establish reasonable and consistent quality of care to persons prior, during, and after a disaster. The Plan emphasizes consistency of providing care and services through federal, county, and state agencies and community organizations.

A significant number of Florida's citizens are considered vulnerable in the event of natural disasters such as hurricanes:

- More than 76% of Florida's total population (12,816,041 persons) reside in the 35 coastal counties.
- Eight percent of the state's total population (1,333,969 persons) reside in mobile homes.
- More than 18% of the state's total population (3,051,453 persons) is 65 years of age or older, with the highest number in Miami-Dade (314,497), Palm Beach (278,868), Broward (315,470), Pinellas (229,763) and Hillsborough (139,341) counties.¹
- Florida has made significant strides in reducing the deficit of safe hurricane shelter space in the past five years. Approximately 50% of the deficit has been eliminated. However, between 2004 and 2009, the vulnerable population in Florida is projected to increase by nearly 900,000, with as many as 16% possibly seeking safety in public shelters.²

- There are 746 nursing homes with 81,986 licensed beds in the state.
- There are an estimated 333,492 citizens that may be considered “frail elderly” (about 2% of the Florida’s population).

Most recently, the challenges of the four hurricanes that struck Florida within weeks of each other during the 2004 hurricane season provided the opportunity to identify needed improvements related to disaster services, especially regarding special needs shelter operations related to health care services. Examples of problems the state experienced include:

- an unexpectedly large demand for special needs shelter services.
- a lack of placements for persons with special needs whose homes or facilities were uninhabitable after the disasters.
- an inadequate number of caregivers and medical personnel at special needs shelters.

Proposed changes

The bill amends certain sections of chapter 252, F. S., and other chapters addressing pre- and post-disaster planning to address services to persons with special needs before, during, and after disasters. The bill assigns lead responsibility for certain functions to specific state agencies and establishes a multiagency emergency special needs shelter response team to assist local areas impacted by natural or manmade disasters that require the use of special needs shelters. The bill also provides certain pre- and post disaster facility use and licensure flexibility. The effect of these provisions should be to provide increased coordination among federal, state and local entities and timely and appropriate use of facilities to serve the special needs population.

The bill:

- Includes individuals with cognitive impairments among persons considered to have special needs.
- Designates the Department of Community Affairs as the lead agency responsible for community education and outreach and requires the department to coordinate with certain other entities in those efforts.
- Designates Children’s Medical Services as the lead agency for coordinating local medical and health care providers for the staffing and management of pediatric special needs shelters.
- Establishes a multiagency emergency special needs shelter response team.
- Directs the Department of Elder Affairs to convene the multiagency emergency special needs shelter response team as necessary to assist local areas impacted by a natural or manmade disaster.
- Directs local county governments to assist with recruiting health care practitioners and staffing special needs shelters.
- Allows hospitals to request reimbursement for sheltering persons with special needs.
- Directs the Special Needs Shelter Interagency Committee to develop and submit to the Legislature a series of recommendations, and expands the committee to include the Florida Association of Aging Services Providers, and Florida AARP.
- Requires the Department of Health to adopt rules regarding minimum standards for special needs shelters.
- Directs the Special Needs Shelter Interagency Committee to recommend to the Legislature as necessary:
 - definition of “special needs shelter”.
 - definition of “special needs client”.
 - developing a uniform registration form for special needs clients.
 - improving the registration process public awareness.

² State of Florida 2004 Statewide Emergency Shelter Plan, February 2004.

- improving overall communications with special needs clients pre- and post disaster.
- recommending the construction or designation of additional special needs shelters in underserved areas.
- recommending guidelines to establish a statewide database designed to collect and disseminate timely and appropriate special needs registration information.
- Specifies the Department of Community Affairs to include information about special needs shelter needs in its biennial statewide emergency shelter plan.
- Requires emergency management plans to address home health agency's functional staffing plan for shelters to ensure continuity of care and services for clients.
- Requires local emergency management agencies to inspect a shelter facility prior to activating that facility before a disaster.
- Encourages home health agencies, hospices, and durable medical equipment providers to develop links to emergency operations centers to determine a mechanism to approach disaster areas in order to reach clients, and directs home health care providers to provide continuity of care for their patients.
- Provides licensure and use flexibility to allow nursing homes, assisted living facilities, and other group care facilities to provide bed space for residents who may be unable to return home within 72 hours post-event and allows for an emergency status of skilled nursing beds at hospitals to ensure they can be reimbursed if beds are required to accommodate residents of nursing homes that have been so damaged that they must be closed.
- Requires the Agency for Health Care Administration to contact nursing homes during emergencies to determine if they are in need of services and supplies to adequately care for clients and to publish an emergency contact number for reporting requests for assistance.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

None.

2. Expenditures:

None.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

Undetermined. Counties are already involved in emergency management activities, and the bill does not appear to impose significant new responsibilities upon them. The fiscal impact, if any, on counties is nonexistent or insignificant. The bill does not appear to require a municipality to expend funds or to take actions requiring the expenditure of funds. This bill does not reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with counties or municipalities. This bill does not reduce the authority that municipalities have to raise revenue.

2. Other:

None.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

The Department of Health is required to promulgate certain rules.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

IV. AMENDMENTS/COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE & COMBINED BILL CHANGES

On March 23, 2005, the Health Care General Committee recommended a strike-everything amendment that changed the bill by identifying certain state agencies with lead pre and post disaster responsibilities and directing the Department of Health to establish a statewide data base to capture and disseminate special needs registration information. The Health Care General Committee adopted the amendment and reported the bill favorably with a committee substitute.

On April 6, 2005, the Governmental Operations Committee recommended a strike-everything amendment and reported the bill favorably with a committee substitute. The amendment:

- Specifies the Department of Community Affairs to coordinate outreach activities related to special needs shelters with specified state agencies and organizations.
- Clarifies lead agency responsibilities by type of special need.
- Provides for nursing homes, not just hospitals, used as shelters to request for reimbursement.
- Clarifies the local emergency management agencies to inspect shelters for readiness prior to activating them before a disaster.
- Requires the Division of Emergency Management of the Department of Community Affairs to include in their biennial plan information about special needs shelters.
- Requires minimum standards related to rules for special needs shelters to be adopted by the Department of Health, such as regarding the provision of electricity, transportation, and shelter location.
- Specifies that nurse registries, hospices, and durable medical equipment providers have responsibilities similar to home health care providers in how they plan to care for clients during a disaster.
- Specifies hospices, not just home health agencies to make a good faith effort to care for their clients at a shelter.
- Specifies home health agencies and nurse registries to provide continuity of care staffing plans for those in special needs shelters only for their clients who are on the special needs registries.
- Provides flexibility for nursing homes in meeting capacity regulations in emergency situations when it's being used for shelter.
- Requires the Agency for Health Care Administration to regularly contact nursing homes during emergencies on a daily basis to determine if they are in need of services and supplies to adequately care for clients and to publish an emergency contact number for reporting requests for assistance.

On April 15, 2005, the Transportation and Economic Development Appropriations Committee recommended a strike-everything amendment and reported the bill favorably with a committee substitute. The amendment:

- Removes certain lead agency responsibilities and instead creates a multiagency emergency special needs shelter response team.
- Directs the Department of Elder Affairs to activate the multiagency special needs shelter response team as necessary, to assist local areas impacted by a natural or manmade disaster.
- Removes language regarding the development of a statewide special needs registry data base and instead directs the Special Needs Shelter Interagency Committee to recommend guidelines to develop such a data base to the legislature.

The analysis is written to the committee substitute.
