I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

The bill does not appear to implicate any House principles.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Section 5 of Article XI of the Florida Constitution provides that proposed amendments to the constitution are to be submitted to the electors at a general election. However, pursuant to a law enacted by the affirmative vote of three-fourths of the membership of each house, the Legislature may submit a proposed amendment to the voters at a special election held no sooner than 90 days after the proposed amendment is filed with the custodian of state records. The next general election is scheduled for November 4, 2008. There is a presidential preference primary scheduled for January 29, 2008.

The bill provides for a special election to be held on January 29, 2008 to submit to the electors SJR 2-D or HJR 7001D.

The proposed HJR includes:

- Increasing the homestead exemption;
- Save Our Homes portability;
- An exemption for First-time Homesteaders;
- An exemption for Low-Income Seniors;
- Assessments at less than just value for affordable housing;
- Assessments at less than just value for working waterfronts;
- An exemption for tangible personal property;
- Election of all property appraisers; and.
- A mandate to the legislature to limit increases in property taxes.

The Department of State reports the cost of advertising an amendment to be $800 per word. The ballot summary for HJR 7001D is 825 words. Thus, the estimated cost of advertising the constitutional amendment in HJR 7001D is $660,000. The bill provides a non-recurring appropriation of $640,000 to cover this cost.
