I. Summary:

This bill provides for a public records exemption granting requested anonymity to donors or prospective donors to a direct-support organization assisting the Department of Veterans' Affairs. Such records of the organization, however, shall be made available to the department and to the Auditor General upon request.

The provisions of this bill are subject to the Open Government Sunset Review Act.

The bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact.

This bill creates section 292.075 (10) of the Florida Statutes (F.S.).

II. Present Situation:

Public Records – Florida has a long history of providing public access to government records. The Legislature enacted the first public records law in 1892.¹ The Florida Supreme Court has noted that ch. 119, F.S., the Public Records Act, was enacted

. . . to promote public awareness and knowledge of government actions in order to ensure that governmental officials and agencies remain accountable to the people.²

² Forsberg v. Housing Authority of the City of Miami Beach, 455 So.2d 373, 378 (Fla. 1984).

In 1992, Floridians adopted an amendment to the State Constitution that raised the statutory right of access to public records to a constitutional level.³ Article I, s. 24 of the State Constitution, provides that:

(a) Every person⁴ has the right to inspect or copy any public record made or received in connection with the official business of any public body, officer, or employee of the state, or persons acting on their behalf, except with respect to records exempted pursuant to this section or specifically made confidential by this Constitution. . . .

Unless specifically exempted, all agency⁵ records are available for public inspection. The term “public record” is broadly defined to mean:

All documents, papers, letters, maps, books, tapes, photographs, films, sound recordings, data processing software, or other material, regardless of the physical form, characteristics, or means of transmission, made or received pursuant to law or ordinance or in connection with the transaction of official business by any agency.⁶

The Florida Supreme Court has interpreted this definition to encompass all materials made or received by an agency in connection with official business which are used to perpetuate, communicate or formalize knowledge.⁷ All such materials, regardless of whether they are in final form, are open for public inspection unless made exempt.⁸

Only the Legislature is authorized to create exemptions to open government requirements.⁹ Exemptions must be created by general law and such law must specifically state the public necessity justifying the exemption. Further, the exemption must be no broader than necessary to accomplish the stated purpose of the law.¹⁰ A bill enacting an exemption¹¹ may not contain other substantive provisions, although it may contain multiple exemptions that relate to one subject.¹² A bill creating an exemption must be passed by a two-thirds vote of both houses.¹³

³ Article I, s. 24 of the State Constitution.

⁴ Section 1.01(3), F.S., defines “person” to include individuals, children, firms, associations, joint adventures, partnerships, estates, trusts, business trusts, syndicates, fiduciaries, corporations, and all other groups or combinations.

⁵ The word “agency” is defined in s. 119.011(2), F.S., to mean “. . . any state, county, district, authority, or municipal officer, department, division, board, bureau, commission, or other separate unit of government created or established by law including, for the purposes of this chapter, the Commission on Ethics, the Public Service Commission, and the Office of Public Counsel, and any other public or private agency, person, partnership, corporation, or business entity acting on behalf of any public agency.”

⁷ Shevin v. Byron, Harless, Schaffer, Reid and Associates, Inc., 379 So.2d 633, 640 (Fla. 1980).

⁸ Wait v. Florida Power & Light Company, 372 So.2d 420 (Fla. 1979).

⁹ Article I, s. 24(c) of the State Constitution.

¹⁰ Memorial Hospital-West Volusia v. News-Journal Corporation, 729 So.2d 373, 380 (Fla. 1999); Halifax Hospital Medical Center v. News-Journal Corporation, 724 So.2d 567 (Fla. 1999).

¹¹ Under s. 119.15, F.S., an existing exemption may be considered a new exemption if the exemption is expanded to cover additional records.

¹² Art. I, s. 24(c) of the State Constitution.

The Public Records Act¹⁴ specifies conditions under which public access must be provided to records of the executive branch and other agencies. Section 119.07(1) (a), F.S., states:

Every person who has custody of a public record shall permit the record to be inspected and examined by any person desiring to do so, at any reasonable time, under reasonable conditions, and under supervision by the custodian of the public record.

If a record has been made exempt, the agency must redact the exempt portions of the record prior to releasing the remainder of the record.¹⁵ If requested, the records custodian must state the basis for the exemption, in writing.¹⁶

There is a difference between records that the Legislature has made exempt from public inspection and those that are confidential and exempt.¹⁷ If the Legislature makes a record confidential and exempt, such information may not be released by an agency to anyone other than to the persons or entities designated in the statute.¹⁸ If a record is simply made exempt from disclosure requirements, an agency is not prohibited from disclosing the record in all circumstances.¹⁹

In Ragsdale v. State,²⁰ the Florida Supreme Court held that the applicability of a particular exemption is determined by the document being withheld, not by the identity of the agency possessing the record. Quoting from City of Riviera Beach v. Barfield,²¹ a case in which documents were given from one agency to another during an active criminal investigation, the Ragsdale court refuted the proposition that inter-agency transfer of a document nullifies the exempt status of a record:

“We conclude that when a criminal justice agency transfers protected information to another criminal justice agency, the information retains its exempt status. We believe that such a conclusion fosters the underlying purpose of section 119.07(3)(d), which is to prevent premature public disclosure of criminal investigative information since disclosure could impede an ongoing investigation or allow a suspect to avoid apprehension or escape detection. In determining whether or not to compel disclosure of active criminal investigative or intelligence information, the primary focus must be on the statutory classification of the information sought rather than upon in whose hands the information rests. Had the legislature intended the exemption for active criminal investigative information to evaporate upon the sharing of that information with another criminal justice agency, it would have expressly provided so in the statute.” Although the information sought in this case is not information currently being used in an active criminal investigation, the rationale is the same; that is, that the focus in determining whether a document has lost its status as a public record must be on the policy behind the exemption and not on the simple fact that the information has changed agency hands. Thus, if the State has access to information that is exempt from public records disclosure due to confidentiality or other public policy concerns, that information does not lose its exempt status simply because it was provided to the State during the course of its criminal investigation.²²

It should be noted that the definition of “agency” provided in the Public Records Law includes the phrase “and any other public or private agency, person, partnership, corporation, or business entity acting on behalf of any public agency” (emphasis added). Agencies are often authorized, and in some instances are required, to “outsource” certain functions. Under the current case law standard, agencies are not required to have explicit statutory authority to release public records in their control to their agents. Their agents, however, are required to comply with the same public records custodial requirements with which the agency must comply.

The Open Government Sunset Review Act - The Open Government Sunset Review Act²³ provides for the systematic review of an exemption five years after its enactment. Each year, by June 1, the Division of Statutory Revision of the Joint Legislative Management Committee is required to certify to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives the language and statutory citation of each exemption scheduled for repeal the following year.

The act states that an exemption may be created or expanded only if it serves an identifiable public purpose and if the exemption is no broader than necessary to meet the public purpose it serves. An identifiable public purpose is served if the exemption meets one of three specified criteria and if the Legislature finds that the purpose is sufficiently compelling to override the strong public policy of open government and cannot be accomplished without the exemption. An identifiable public purpose is served if the exemption:

- [a]llows the state or its political subdivisions to effectively and efficiently administer a governmental program, which administration would be significantly impaired without the exemption;
- [p]rotects information of a sensitive personal nature concerning individuals, the release of which would be defamatory or cause unwarranted damage to the good name or reputation of such individuals, or would jeopardize their safety; or
- [p]rotects information of a confidential nature concerning entities, including, but not limited to, a formula, pattern, device, combination of devices, or compilation of information that is used to protect or further a business advantage over those who do not know or use it, the disclosure of which would injure the affected entity in the marketplace.²⁴

The act also requires consideration of the following:

²² Ragsdale, 720 So.2d at 206 (quoting City of Riviera Beach, 642 So. 2d at 1137) (second emphasis added by Ragsdale court).

²³ Section 119.15, F.S.

²⁴ Section 119.15(4) (b), F.S.

- What specific records or meetings are affected by the exemption?
- Whom does the exemption uniquely affect, as opposed to the general public?
- What is the identifiable public purpose or goal of the exemption?
- Can the information contained in the records or discussed in the meeting be readily obtained by alternative means? If yes, how?
- Is the record or meeting protected by another exemption?
- Are there multiple exemptions for the same type of record or meeting that it would be appropriate to merge?

While the standards in the Open Government Sunset Review Act may appear to limit the Legislature in the exemption review process, those aspects of the act that are only statutory as opposed to constitutional, do not limit the Legislature because one session of the Legislature cannot bind another.²⁵ The Legislature is only limited in its review process by constitutional requirements.

Further, s. 119.15(4) (e), F.S., makes explicit that:

... notwithstanding s. 768.28 or any other law, neither the state or its political subdivisions nor any other public body shall be made party to any suit in any court or incur any liability for the repeal or revival and reenactment of any exemption under this section. The failure of the Legislature to comply strictly with this section does not invalidate an otherwise valid reenactment.

Department of Veterans' Affairs Direct-support Organization – Separate legislation (SB 1462) provides for the establishment of a direct-support organization to assist the Department of Veterans' Affairs in performing its mission.

Florida Statutes provide for the establishment of direct-support organizations as a means to assist state agencies in accomplishing their missions. Direct-support organizations are established as a Florida corporation not for profit incorporated under Chapter 617, F.S., and approved by the Department of State. According to Florida Statutes, "The term "corporation not for profit" means a corporation no part of the income or profit of which is distributable to its members, directors, or officers."²⁶

Direct-support organizations perform a variety of services to state agencies including:

- Raising money;
- Submitting requests for and receiving grants from the federal government, the state or its political subdivisions;
- Receiving, holding, investing, and administering property; and
- Making expenditures for the benefit of the supported agency.²⁷

²⁷ Sections 39.0011, 250.115, 267.1732, 267.1736, 288.1226, 570.903, 744.7082, 944.802, 960.002, 985.672, 1001.453, 1004.28, 1004.70, and 1009.983, F.S.

Direct-support organizations have been established to support a wide array of services and agencies including child abuse prevention and adoption; tourism; public guardianship; victims of crime; universities, community colleges, and school districts; the Florida National Guard; the Departments of Corrections, Juvenile Justice, and Agriculture and Consumer Services; and the Florida Prepaid College Board.²⁸

Florida Statutes generally require direct-support organizations to:

- Operate under written contract with the supported agency;
- Be governed by a board of directors; and
- Operate for the benefit of and in a manner consistent with the goals of the agency and in the best interest of the state.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This bill provides for a public records exemption granting requested anonymity to donors or prospective donors to a direct-support organization assisting the Department of Veterans' Affairs. However, the bill requires that the records of the organization shall be made available to the department and to the Auditor General upon request.

The provisions of this bill are subject to the Open Government Sunset Review Act and shall stand repealed on October 2, 2013 unless reviewed and reenacted by the Legislature.

The bill provides a legislative finding that protecting the identity of donors and prospective donors to the direct-support organization authorized to assist the Department of Veterans' Affairs is a public necessity. The finding asserts that the exemption honors the request for anonymity by donors and prospective donors thereby assisting the direct-support organization in performing its fund raising mission.

The bill provides for an effective date of July 1, 2008 contingent upon SB 1462 or similar legislation passing during the same Legislative session and becoming a law.
