I. Summary:

The bill expands the revenue sources that can be claimed as tax credits and donated to a scholarship funding organization under the Corporate Income Tax Credit Scholarship Program (CTC) to fund scholarships for certain disadvantaged students. The additional revenue source is the premium tax under s. 624.509, F.S. The maximum amount of tax credits that may be granted each state fiscal year under the CTC program remains at $118 million. The bill provides that the $118 million cap applies to all tax credits (the corporate income tax and the insurance premium tax combined). Insurers receiving an insurance premium tax credit under this program are not able to receive a similar corporate income tax credit under the program.

The bill also defines a “direct certification list” to mean a certified list of children who qualify for the Food Stamp Program, the Temporary Assistance to Needy Families Program, or the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations. This list is provided to the Department of Education by the Department of Children and Family Services pursuant to a memorandum of understanding. Children on the certification list would be eligible to receive a scholarship under the CTC Program.

Finally, the bill renames the CTC program the Florida Tax Credit Scholarship Program.

This bill substantially amends ss. 220.186, 220.187, 1002.20, 1002.23, 1002.39, and 1002.421, and creates s. 624.51055 of the Florida Statutes.

II. Present Situation:

Corporate Income Tax Credit Scholarship Program (CTC program)

Under the CTC program, tax credit scholarships were created to encourage private, voluntary contributions from corporate donors to nonprofit scholarship-funding organizations.¹ A corporation can receive a dollar for dollar tax credit toward up to 75 percent of its state income tax liability for donations to private nonprofit scholarship-funding organizations (SFOs).

Eligible Private Schools and Students

Private schools participating in the CTC program must provide documentation of financial stability and comply with federal antidiscrimination law and all state laws regulating private schools.²

Under the program, SFOs provide a scholarship to a student who qualifies for free or reduced-price school lunches under the National School Lunch Act³ and who:

- Was counted as a full-time equivalent student during the previous state fiscal year for purposes of state per-student funding;
- Is eligible to enter kindergarten or the first grade;
- Received a scholarship under the CTC program or from the state the previous school year; or
- Is placed, or during the previous state fiscal year was placed in foster care.

Contingent upon available funds, a student would not lose his or her scholarship due to a change in the economic status of the student's parents unless the parent's economic status exceeds 200 percent of the federal poverty guidelines.⁴ A sibling of a scholarship student who continues to participate in the program and resides in the same household as the student is considered to be a first-time CTC scholarship recipient, as long as the student's and the sibling's household income level does not exceed 200 percent of the federal poverty level.

The amount of the scholarship provided to any child for any single school year by any eligible SFO may not exceed the following limits:

- $3,950 for a scholarship awarded to a student for tuition and fees; or
- $500 for a scholarship awarded to a student for transportation to a Florida public school that is located outside the district in which the student resides.

Student Assessment

For the CTC program, scholarship students must take one of the nationally norm-referenced tests identified by the DOE, with the exception of students with disabilities for whom the test is inappropriate.⁵ The DOE approved 19 norm-referenced tests for participating private schools to administer to scholarship students in the 2008-2009 school year.⁶

Participating private schools are tasked with annually administering or making provisions for scholarship students to take one of the nationally norm-referenced tests identified by the DOE. Additionally, the law requires the test scores to be reported to an independent research organization for evaluation. This entity must report to the DOE the year-to-year improvement of participating students.⁷ However, student performance data cannot disclose the academic performance of individual students or of individual schools.

In September 2007, the DOE entered into a 2-year contract with the University of Florida to evaluate CTC scholarship student performance, to compare student learning gains for program participants to otherwise similar non-participants, study differential family satisfaction between program participants and non-participants, and measure the degree to which the CTC program affects public school performance.⁸ Baseline data from the 2006-2007 school year will be compared to data from the 2007-2008 school year to measure learning gains.⁹ According to the DOE, this report is expected to be released in late spring of 2009.

Scholarship Funding Organizations

An SFO must be a charitable organization exempt from federal income tax pursuant to s. 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and, if it has been in operation for three years and does not have any negative financial findings, the SFO may retain up to three percent of the taxpayer's contributions for reasonable and necessary administrative expenses. Scholarships must be provided for eligible students on a first-come, first-served basis, unless the student qualifies for priority consideration. An SFO may not restrict or reserve scholarships for use at a particular private school or for the child of an operator or owner of a private school or SFO. A taxpayer making the contribution may not designate a specific child or group of children as the beneficiaries of the scholarship.

Pursuant to ch. 2008-142, L.O.F., the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT) NRT in Reading and Mathematics is no longer listed as a nationally norm-referenced test that may be administered to CTC students.

The Legislature initially capped the CTC program at $50 million in tax credits per state fiscal year, but subsequently expanded the cap to $88 million in 2003.¹⁰ Beginning with FY 2008-2009, the cap was increased by $30 million to $118 million.¹¹

Currently, there are 988 participating private schools and 23,259 students receiving scholarships from three SFOs: Florida P.R.I.D.E., Children First Florida, and the Carrie Meek Foundation, Inc.²¹ The following data represents the number of students receiving CTC scholarships, by SFO, for the current year: Florida P.R.I.D.E., 10,541 students; Children First Florida, 11,638 students; and the Carrie Meek Foundation, Inc., 1,080 students. Four SFOs no longer participate in the program: Faith Based Scholarship Foundation of Florida; FloridaChild; Silver Archer; and Academy Prep Foundation, Inc.

Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability (OPPAGA) Report²²

In 2008, the Legislature directed OPPAGA to review the use of credits for insurance premium taxes²³ as an additional source of funding for the scholarship program.²⁴ OPPAGA reported the following:

- Allowing insurance premium tax credits to be included in the scholarship program would broaden the base of companies likely to participate and increase the chance that higher caps set by the Legislature would be met.
- Currently, not all insurance companies in the state have an incentive to participate in the program and the ability of an insurance company to reduce their tax liability by participating in the program depends on their financial situation.
- Insurance companies must have a net corporate income tax liability greater than 65 percent of their insurance premium tax liability in order to reduce their tax liability by contributing to the scholarship program. Companies that do not have such a corporate income tax liability may contribute to the program, but would not receive a reduction in tax liability for doing so.
- Allowing insurance companies the flexibility of receiving tax credits against either their corporate income taxes or their insurance premium taxes would maximize the number of companies that would make contributions to scholarship-funding organizations. However, it would also complicate tax administration.

- Out-of-state insurance companies could face increased retaliatory taxes if they lowered their Florida insurance premium tax liability by taking credits for scholarship contributions. Establishing a provision that exempts these insurance companies from additional retaliatory taxes in Florida would help ensure that they have an incentive to participate in the program.
- Allowing the insurance premium tax credit for scholarship contributions to exceed the 65 percent credit limitation would provide more opportunity for companies to receive tax benefits than if it were included in the 65 percent credit limitation. However, including the scholarship credit in the 65 percent credit limitation would limit the tax revenue loss to the state.

The Capital Investment Program and the Community Contribution Tax Credit Program permit insurance companies to claim an insurance premium tax credit for certain activities. While the participating insurance companies may take tax credits, they are not assessed additional retaliatory taxes. Both the Capital Investment and Community Contribution tax credits are authorized to exceed the 65 percent credit limitation.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill renames the CTC program the Florida Tax Credit (FTC) Scholarship Program.

Tax Credits for Contributions to Eligible SFOs

Insurance Premium Tax Credit

The insurance premium tax is imposed on insurance premiums written in Florida and paid by insurance companies to the DOR.²⁵ The bill allows insurance companies to receive a credit of 100 percent of an eligible contribution to an eligible SFO against any net tax due for a taxable year under the provisions of the insurance premium tax. However, the credit may not exceed 75 percent of the net tax due. An insurer claiming a credit against premium tax liability is not required to pay any additional retaliatory tax levied under s. 624.5091, F.S., as a result of claiming the credit. The bill provides that s. 220.187, F.S., applies to these credits. However, it does not specify what provisions apply.

Credit Limits

The bill also provides that a taxpayer's use of the credit granted under the FTC program does not reduce the amount of the alternative minimum tax credits available under s. 220.186, F.S.²⁶ The bill provides that the $118 million cap applies to all tax credits (the corporate income tax and the insurance premium tax combined). Insurers receiving an insurance premium tax credit under this program are not able to receive a similar corporate income tax credit under the program.

²⁵ s. 624.509, F.S.

²⁶ The alternative minimum tax credit is the excess of the alternative minimum tax over the regular corporate income tax, after credits. DOR, March 26, 2009.

Eligible Students

Students who are on a direct certification list are eligible to receive a scholarship, which the bill defines as a list of children who qualify for the Food Stamp Program, the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families Program, or the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations. Since any child on the direct certification list is eligible to participate in the National School Lunch Program, it appears unnecessary to make this distinction.²⁷

At the request of a scholarship-funding organization that is eligible to use eligible contributions for administrative expenses,²⁸ school districts must inform all households participating in the National School Lunch Program that they are eligible to apply for a tax credit scholarship. School districts must include the information in any normal correspondence with an eligible household. Once a year an SFO may request a special communication from the district to each household and the SFO must reimburse the district for postal expenses.

The DOE is currently tasked with developing a framework for a parent guide to successful achievement which describes how parents can help their child to succeed in school.²⁹ The framework must include information related to the scholarship program. Similarly, districts are expected to fully cooperate in a program that helps parents to effectively participate in the child's education. It is unclear as to the necessity for this specific communication.

Under the bill, the DOE is required to match the direct certification list with scholarship applicant data submitted by an SFO that is eligible to use eligible contributions for administrative expenses. The bill is silent on how the matched data will be used. Under a Memorandum of Understanding, the DOE receives direct certification lists from the Department of Children and Families (DCF) that includes student names and social security numbers.³⁰ Any disclosure of this information to a third party raises significant concerns about the privacy afforded to the children. The DOE notes that federal and state laws provide individuals receiving public assistance the right of confidentiality and limit the disclosure of the information.³¹ The DOE notes that upon receipt of the direct certification list, it would be confidential and protected from disclosure by the National School Lunch Act.³² According to the DOE, it does not appear that disclosure to an SFO would be allowed under federal regulations.

²⁷ Student eligibility for free meals is determined by application or by direct certification. Children from households that receive benefits under the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP – formerly the Food Stamp Program), Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), or the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations (FDPIR), are deemed “categorically eligible” for free school meals, thereby eliminating the need for households to submit an application for meal benefits. Direct Certification in the National School Lunch Program: State Progress in Implementation, Report to Congress – Summary, U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), December 2008.

³² 42 U.S.C. § 1758 (6)(A) specifies the parties to whom information may be disclosed and the criminal penalties and fines for unlawful disclosure.

Additionally, the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) protects the privacy of student education records.³³ The law applies to any public or private educational agency or institution that receives funds under any program administered by the U.S. Department of Education (U.S. DOE).³⁴ Parents have specific rights with respect to their children's education records, including the right to inspect and review education records, to seek to have education records amended in certain circumstances, and to consent to the disclosure of education records.³⁵ These rights transfer to the student when he or she reaches the age of 18 or attends a school beyond the high school level. The direct certification information maintained by the DOE may be considered to be an education record and, as such could not be disclosed without the consent of the parent.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

The Revenue Estimating Conference has not finalized its review of the bill.

B. Private Sector Impact:

The bill allows insurance companies to receive a credit against insurance premium taxes for contributions to an SFO.

C. Government Sector Impact:

According to the DOE, if the increase in the potential sources of tax credits results in an expansion of the program to its limit of $118 million, school districts would lose state revenue for any increase in the number of private school students who otherwise would have attended public schools.³⁶

³³ 20 U.S.C. § 1232g and 34 CFR Part 99. Education records are those records that are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution.

³⁵ 20 U.S.C. § 1232g

³⁶ DOE Bill analysis, March 24, 2009.

If the increase in the potential sources of tax credits results in an expansion of the program to its limit of $118 million, school district expenditures would decrease relative to any reduction in services for students who attend private schools.³⁷

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

None.

VII. Related Issues:

None.

VIII. Additional Information:

A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:

(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS by Education Pre-K-12 on March 26, 2009:

The committee substitute:

- Deletes the provision allowing a tax credit against sales and use tax for contributions made to an eligible SFO for scholarships;
- Provides that the $118 million cap applies to all tax credits (the corporate income tax and the insurance premium tax combined);
- Requires school districts rather than the DOE to notify households whose children receive free or reduced-price meals regarding scholarship eligibility and allows districts to be compensated for special communications;
- Deletes the requirement that an SFO be provided with the direct certification list;
- Requires the DOE to establish a process to match the direct certification list with scholarship applicant data;
- Provides that insurers receiving an insurance premium tax credit under this program are not able to receive a similar corporate income tax credit under the program; and
- Contains a severability clause.

B. Amendments:

None.

This Senate Bill Analysis does not reflect the intent or official position of the bill's introducer or the Florida Senate.
