I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Present Situation

State

There are a number of provisions in Florida law which permit the state attorney to move the sentencing court to reduce or suspend the sentence of persons who provide "substantial assistance" in the identification, arrest, or conviction of accomplices, accessories, coconspirators, or principals.

Section 893.135(4), F.S. provides the state attorney may move the sentencing court to reduce or suspend the sentence of any person who is convicted of a violation of s. 893.135, F.S.¹ and who provides substantial assistance in the identification, arrest, or conviction of any of that person's accomplices, accessories, coconspirators, or principals or of any other person engaged in trafficking in controlled substances. The arresting agency shall be given an opportunity to be heard in aggravation or mitigation in reference to any such motion. Upon good cause shown, the motion may be filed and heard in camera². The judge hearing the motion may reduce or suspend the sentence if the judge finds that the defendant rendered such substantial assistance.

Section 790.165(3), F.S. provides the state attorney may move the sentencing court to reduce or suspend the sentence of any person who is convicted of a violation of this section³ who provides substantial assistance in the identification, arrest, or conviction of any of his or her accomplices, accessories, coconspirators, or principals.

Section 817.568(11), F.S. provides the prosecutor may move the sentencing court to reduce or suspend the sentence of any person who is convicted of a violation of this section⁴ and who provides substantial assistance in the identification, arrest, or conviction of any of that person's accomplices, accessories, coconspirators, or principals or of any other person engaged in fraudulent possession of use of personal identification information. The arresting agency shall be given an opportunity to be heard in aggravation or mitigation in reference to any such motion. Upon good cause shown, the motion may be filed and heard in camera⁵. The judge hearing the motion may reduce or suspend the sentence if the judge finds that the defendant rendered such substantial assistance.

² "In camera" means the motion may be heard in the privacy of the judge's chambers.

³ Section 790.165, F.S. relates to planting a "hoax bomb."

⁴ Section 817.568, F.S. relates to criminal use of personal identification.

⁵ "In camera" means the motion may be heard in the privacy of the judge's chambers.

Other examples where substantial assistance can be used to reduce or suspend a sentence include s. 790.163, F.S., relating false reports about planting a bomb, s. 790.164, F.S., relating to false reports regarding arson, s. 790.165, F.S., relating to planting of hoax bombs, s. 790.166, F.S., relating to weapons of mass destruction, and s. 817.568, F.S., relating to identity theft.

Section 16.56(3), F.S., provides that the statewide prosecutor may move the court to reduce the sentence of a person convicted of drug trafficking who provides substantial assistance.

Federal

Rule 35 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure provides the court authority to reduce the sentence of a defendant if the government makes a motion within one year of sentencing, if defendant provides substantial assistance in investigating or prosecuting another person. Rule 35 provides that the government may make a motion to reduce sentence more than one year after sentencing if the defendant's substantial assistance involves:

- Information not known to the defendant until one year or more after sentencing;
- Information provided by the defendant to the government within one year of sentencing, but which did not become useful to the government until one year after sentencing;
- Information the usefulness of which could not reasonably have been anticipated by the defendant until more than one year after sentencing and which was promptly provided to the government after its usefulness was reasonably apparent to the defendant.

Rule 35 provides that the court may consider substantial assistance rendered by the defendant before and after sentencing. Rule 35 provides the court authority to reduce the defendant's sentence to a level below federal statutory guidelines.
