I. Summary:

Senate Bill 378 permits absent military or overseas voters to use the Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB) to vote in any federal, state, or local election.

This bill substantially amends section 101.6952 of the Florida Statutes.

II. Present Situation:

Currently, there are three different general election ballots that an absent uniformed services or overseas Florida voter can use for various federal, state, and local elections: the state write-in ballot, the official absentee ballot, and the federal write-in absentee ballot. The official absentee ballot is the only one that an elector can use in a primary election.

BALLOTS

Official Florida Absentee Ballot

An absent uniformed services or overseas voter who requests¹ an official Florida write-in absentee ballot may vote in any federal, state, or local primary election or general election --- including multi-candidate races, judicial retention elections, and state constitutional amendment/local referendum elections. The form of the ballot is the familiar one that voters going to the polls or voting early receive. It contains the name of offices, candidate names, political party abbreviations, and either a bubble or arrow to be filled-in by the voter to designate choices. This is by far the most commonly-used ballot.

Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB)

Federal law provides that an absent uniformed services or overseas voter who timely requests but does not receive an official state absentee ballot may use the federal write-in absentee ballot (FWAB) to vote for candidates in federal general elections only.² Electors may fill in either the candidate's name or the name of a political party under headings designated as:

- PRESIDENT/VICE PRESIDENT
- U.S. SENATOR
- U.S. REPRESENTATIVE/DELEGATE/RESIDENT COMMISSIONER

Absent specific state authorization, the FWAB may not be used for state or local elections. Other southern states, including Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, and neighboring Georgia,³ have authorized the use of the FWAB in certain state and local elections: Florida has not. While most military and overseas Florida voters utilize either the official absentee ballot or the state write-in absentee ballot, eligible electors have used the FWABs as a ballot of last resort in recent elections.⁴

Electors use the FWAB "ADDENDUM" to designate choices in state and local candidate races. The elector must write-in the name of each office for which he or she wishes to vote, along with the corresponding candidate's name or political party preference for the office. The form of the addendum is essentially as follows:

⁴ FWABs have been received in recent elections in military-rich Escambia and Okaloosa Counties. Escambia County received 34 FWABs in the 2010 general election. Okaloosa County received 162 FWABs in 2008 and 101 FWABs in 2010. Regarding the 2010 FWABs received by Okaloosa County, 63 of the 101 were not counted because their official absentee ballot arrived after (or in some cases before) the FWAB was received. ADDENDUM

Some states allow the Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot to be used by military and overseas civilian voters in elections other than general elections or for offices other than Federal offices. Consult your state section in the Voting Assistance Guide to determine your state’s policy. If you are eligible to use this ballot to vote for offices/candidates other than those listed above, please indicate in the spaces provided below, the office for which you wish to vote (for example: Governor, Attorney General, Mayor, State Senator, etc.) and the name and/or party affiliation of the candidate for whom you wish to vote.

State Write-In Absentee Ballot

An overseas voter who states that, due to military or other contingencies that preclude normal mail delivery, he or she cannot vote an absentee ballot during the normal absentee voting period may request a “state write-in absentee ballot” not earlier than 180 days before a general election.⁵ The state write-in absentee ballot may not be used in a primary election. The state write-in ballot contains all offices --- federal, state, and local --- for which the elector would otherwise be entitled to vote, including judicial retention elections; the elector, however, cannot use the ballot to vote in state constitutional amendment or local referendum elections.

The form of the state write-in absentee ballot includes the printed name of the office to be voted, along with a corresponding line for the elector to designate a candidate’s name or political party preference for that office.⁶ The judicial retention questions are also printed on the form, including the names of the appellate justices or judges scheduled to be on the ballot for retention.

BACKGROUND

Military/Overseas Voting in Florida Elections

Florida has had a somewhat troubled past with respect to accommodating military and overseas voters, due primarily to the existence of the historical second primary election — which hindered the timely delivery of absentee ballots to overseas voters. The existence of the second primary meant that Florida had to conduct three elections in a 9-week period, with the first primary being held nine weeks prior to the general election and the second primary (or “runoff”) held five weeks prior to the general election.⁷ Many of these problems, however, have been overcome by: eliminating the second primary;⁸ mandating that official absentee ballots be provided to uniformed services and overseas voters at least 45 days before each primary and general election where requests have been received; and, providing for the electronic (e-mail) delivery of unvoted ballots, as mandated by the federal Military and Overseas Voter Empowerment (MOVE) Act.

The former election schedule prompted the federal government to sue the State of Florida in the early 1980’s. The suit alleged that Florida’s system of conducting three elections in nine weeks disenfranchised military and overseas voters by not providing sufficient time for supervisors of elections to prepare absentee ballots, mail them to overseas voters, and have the voters return them by election day. To resolve the suit, Florida entered into a consent decree with the federal government, which ultimately required the State to count votes from such electors in the presidential preference primary and federal general election contests that are received up to 10 days after the date of the election.⁹ Florida is still bound by the terms of this consent decree, having never sought relief from the courts.

In 1989, the Legislature attempted to further accommodate absentee voting by military and overseas electors by adopting an advance ballot system.¹⁰ Under the advance ballot system, supervisors of elections mailed first primary absentee ballots to qualified overseas electors no later than 35 days before the primary.¹¹ Subsequently, the supervisors would mail advance ballots for the second primary and general election if the regular absentee ballots for the second primary and general election were not available 45 days before the respective elections.¹² Advance ballots for the second primary and general election could necessarily contain candidates who may have been eliminated in the prior election. In 2005, the Legislature permanently ended the second primary system but did not change the number of days in advance to send absentee ballots.¹³ Beginning in 2010, supervisors of elections were required to mail absentee ballots to absent uniformed services and overseas electors no later than 45 days before each election.¹⁴ The 45-day period currently required under Florida law is in compliance with the federal Military and Overseas Voter Empowerment (MOVE) Act.¹⁵

On a related note, there were numerous legal challenges to the validity of overseas military ballots in Florida during the 2000 presidential election.¹⁶ In response, the 2001 Legislature

⁸ The year 2000 was the last time Florida conducted a second primary. The second primary was suspended for the 2002 and 2004 election cycles, and permanently eliminated prior to the 2006 cycle.

In 2007, the Legislature again revised the ballot schedule to require absentee ballots to overseas voters to be mailed no later than 35 days prior to a primary election and no later than 45 days prior to a general election. created the state write-in absentee ballot system. Overseas voters who anticipate that they will not be able to vote an absentee ballot during the regular absentee ballot voting period may request a state write-in absentee ballot. A date line was also added to the absentee ballot return envelope, and a presumption was created in law that absentee ballots received from overseas electors were mailed on the date stated on the envelope — regardless of the absence of a postmark or a postmark which is dated later than the date of election.¹⁷

Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act (UOCAVA)

In 1986, Congress passed the Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act (UOCAVA).¹⁸ The Act created an emergency back-up ballot, the Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB), which can be cast by voters who make timely application for but do not receive an official absentee ballot.¹⁹ The Act covers citizens who are members of the Armed Forces and Merchant Marine, and their spouses and dependents, and citizens residing outside of the United States. Members of the Armed Forces and Merchant Marine and their spouses and dependents are allowed to vote absentee while away from their place of voting residence, wherever stationed, either within or outside the United States. Other U.S. citizens residing outside of the United States and its territories may vote in the state where they last resided prior to leaving the United States.

In addition, UOCAVA requires states to accept and canvass an FWAB from military and overseas voters under certain conditions. The voter:

- Must be absent from his or her voter residence;
- Must have applied for a regular ballot early enough so the request is received by the appropriate local election official not later than the state deadline;²⁰ and,
- Must not have received the requested regular absentee ballot from the State.

UOCAVA also allows overseas electors who have submitted an FWAB and later receive an official absentee ballot to submit the official absentee ballot.²¹ The FWAB is also required to clearly state that an overseas elector who submits an FWAB and later receives and submits an absentee ballot must make every reasonable effort to inform the appropriate election official that the elector has submitted more than one ballot.²² qualified electors overseas were considered valid only if the ballot were mailed with an APO, FPO, or foreign postmark. See also Bush v. Hillsborough County Canvassing Bd., 123 F.Supp.2d 1305 (N.D. Fla. 2000).

²⁰ Florida law provides that the supervisor must receive a request for an absentee ballot by 5 p.m. on the 6th day before an election. Section 101.62(2), F.S. While this used to be an impracticable deadline for overseas voters given mailing delays, the newly-authorized electronic transmission of unvoted absentee ballots makes this deadline applicable to absent military and overseas voters.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Senate Bill 378 allows for absent military or overseas voters to use the Official Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB) to vote in any federal, state, or local election; Florida law currently restricts the use of FWABs to federal general elections only.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2011.
