I. Summary:

This bill is the result of the Banking and Insurance Committee’s Open Government Sunset Review of the public records exemption for social security numbers and other property identifiers or descriptors used to identify the property holder of any unclaimed or abandoned property held by the Department of Financial Services (DFS). Property identifiers could include bank account numbers, credit card numbers, or insurance policy numbers.

This bill removes the scheduled repeal date of October 2, 2012, for this exemption. The bill expands the current public records exemption by removing language allowing social security numbers to be released to a person registered under Chapter 717, F.S. with DFS who is an attorney, Florida-certified public accountant, private investigator duly licensed in Florida, or a private investigative agency licensed under Chapter 493, F.S., for the limited purpose of locating owners of abandoned or unclaimed property. As this bill expands the current exemption, it is subject to the Open Government Sunset Review Act and will expire on October 2, 2017, unless reviewed and saved from repeal by the Legislature.

This bill substantially amends section 717.117 of the Florida Statutes.

II. Present Situation:

Public Records Law

The State of Florida has a long history of providing public access to governmental records. The Florida Legislature enacted the first public records law in 1892.¹ One hundred years later, Floridians adopted an amendment to the State Constitution that raised the statutory right of access to public records to a constitutional level.² Article I, s. 24 of the State Constitution, provides that:

Every person has the right to inspect or copy any public record made or received in connection with the official business of any public body, officer, or employee of the state, or persons acting on their behalf, except with respect to records exempted pursuant to this section or specifically made confidential by this Constitution. This section specifically includes the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of government and each agency or department created thereunder; counties, municipalities, and districts; and each constitutional officer, board, and commission, or entity created pursuant to law or this Constitution.

In addition to the State Constitution, the Public Records Act,³ which pre-dates public records provision of the State Constitution, specifies conditions under which public access must be provided to records of an agency.⁴ Section 119.07(1)(a), F.S., states:

- (a) Every person who has custody of a public record shall permit the record to be inspected and examined by any person desiring to do so, at any reasonable time, under reasonable conditions, and under supervision by the custodian of the public record.

Unless specifically exempted, all agency records are available for public inspection. The term “public record” is broadly defined to mean:

. . . all documents, papers, letters, maps, books, tapes, photographs, films, sound recordings, data processing software, or other material, regardless of the physical form, characteristics, or means of transmission, made or received pursuant to law or ordinance or in connection with the transaction of official business by any agency.⁵

The Florida Supreme Court has interpreted this definition to encompass all materials made or received by an agency in connection with official business which are used to perpetuate,

² Article I, s. 24, Fla. Constitution.

³ Chapter 119, F.S.

⁴ The word “agency” is defined in s. 119.011(2), F.S., to mean “. . . any state, county, district, authority, or municipal officer, department, division, board, bureau, commission, or other separate unit of government created or established by law including, for the purposes of this chapter, the Commission on Ethics, the Public Service Commission, and the Office of Public Counsel, and any other public or private agency, person, partnership, corporation, or business entity acting on behalf of any public agency.” The Florida Constitution also establishes a right of access to any public record made or received in connection with the official business of any public body, officer, or employee of the state, or persons acting on their behalf, except those records exempted by law or the state constitution.

communicate, or formalize knowledge.⁶ All such materials, regardless of whether they are in final form, are open for public inspection unless made exempt.⁷

Only the Legislature is authorized to create exemptions to open government requirements.⁸ Exemptions must be created by general law and such law must specifically state the public necessity justifying the exemption. Further, the exemption must be no broader than necessary to accomplish the stated purpose of the law.⁹ A bill enacting an exemption¹⁰ may not contain other substantive provisions, although it may contain multiple exemptions that relate to one subject.¹¹

There is a difference between records that the Legislature has made exempt from public inspection and those that are confidential and exempt. If the Legislature makes a record confidential and exempt, such information may not be released by an agency to anyone other than to the persons or entities designated in the statute.¹² If a record is simply made exempt from disclosure requirements then an agency is not prohibited from disclosing the record in all circumstances.¹³

Open Government Sunset Review Act

The Open Government Sunset Review Act (Act)¹⁴ provides for the systematic review, through a 5-year cycle ending October 2 of the 5th year following enactment, of an exemption from the Public Records Act or the Public Meetings Law. Each year, by June 1, the Division of Statutory Revision of the Office of Legislative Services is required to certify to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives the language and statutory citation of each exemption scheduled for repeal the following year.¹⁵

The Act states that an exemption may be created or expanded only if it serves an identifiable public purpose and if the exemption is no broader than necessary to meet the public purpose it serves. An identifiable public purpose is served if the exemption meets one of three specified criteria and if the Legislature finds that the purpose is sufficiently compelling to override the strong public policy of open government and cannot be accomplished without the exemption. An exemption meets the three statutory criteria if it:

- Allows the state or its political subdivisions to effectively and efficiently administer a governmental program, whose administration would be significantly impaired without the exemption;

¹⁵ Section 119.15(5)(a), F.S.

- Protects information of a sensitive, personal nature concerning individuals, the release of which would be defamatory or cause unwarranted damage to the good name or reputation of such individuals, or would jeopardize their safety; or
- Protects information of a confidential nature concerning entities, including, but not limited to, a formula, pattern, device, combination of devices, or compilation of information that is used to protect or further a business advantage over those who do not know or use it, the disclosure of which would injure the affected entity in the marketplace.¹⁶

The Act also requires consideration of the following:

- What specific records or meetings are affected by the exemption?
- Whom does the exemption uniquely affect, as opposed to the general public?
- What is the identifiable public purpose or goal of the exemption?
- Can the information contained in the records or discussed in the meeting be readily obtained by alternative means? If so, how?
- Is the record or meeting protected by another exemption?
- Are there multiple exemptions for the same type of record or meeting that it would be appropriate to merge?

Public Records Exemption in Section 717.117(8), F.S.

The Department of Financial Services (DFS) Bureau of Unclaimed Property (Bureau) administers the Florida Disposition of Unclaimed Property Act (Ch. 717, F.S.), which establishes the statutory procedure for the reversion and disposition of presumed abandoned, real or personal, property to the state. Under s. 717.119, F.S., the holders, including banks and insurance companies, of property that has not been claimed for a certain period of time are required to submit the unclaimed property to DFS. The proceeds from property that remains unclaimed is then deposited into the Department of Education School Trust Fund, except for $15 million that is retained in a separate account for the prompt payment of verified claims.¹⁷ The Bureau utilizes multiple means to fulfill the state's obligation under s. 717.118, F.S., to notify owners of unclaimed property accounts valued over $250 in a cost-effective manner.

Section 717.1400, F.S., mandates attorneys, public accountants, private investigators, or private investigative agencies to be certified or licensed within Florida in order to act as a claimant's representative, acquire ownership or entitlement to unclaimed property, and receive a distribution of fees and costs from DFS. A claimant's representative will attempt to locate the owner of unclaimed property and, through a power-of-attorney agreement, offer assistance in recovering the property in exchange for a fee. In order to identify the owner of unclaimed property, claimants' representatives will utilize the information contained in the unclaimed property reports filed with the Bureau.

Under the exemption in s. 717.117(8)(b), F.S., social security numbers and property identifiers contained in unclaimed property reports are confidential and exempt from public disclosure. In 2007, legislation was enacted that replaced the phrase "financial account numbers" with "property identifiers," defined as a "descriptor used by the holder to identify the unclaimed property.”¹⁸ Property identifiers contained within property reports could include bank account numbers, credit card numbers, or insurance policy numbers. The parties affected by this exemption include owners of unclaimed property, registered claimants’ representatives, and other non-registered third parties. The purpose of the exemption is to protect owners of unclaimed property from identity theft and related crimes.

¹⁶ Section 119.15(4)(b), F.S.

Section 717.117(8)(c), F.S., allows the disclosure of property reports, containing social security numbers of unclaimed property owners along with descriptions of the property, for the limited purpose of locating the owners. The property reports can be obtained by registered claimants’ representatives from the Bureau’s website or compact discs produced by the Bureau. Representatives of the Bureau indicate that social security numbers and property identifiers utilized within the unclaimed property reports are not readily available through other means. However, access to an individual’s social security number can result in exploitation of that individual’s financial, educational, medical, or familial records or forgery of documents.

The general exemption in s. 119.071, F.S., applies to each state agency and exempts from public records social security numbers, bank account numbers, debit or charge card numbers, and credit card numbers. The exemption in s. 717.117(8), F.S., for social security numbers contained in unclaimed property reports is meant to be stronger than the general exemption, since the reports are only released to registered claimants’ representatives for the sole purpose of locating the owners of the unclaimed property. However, there have been reports that unregistered persons have received the Bureau’s compact discs containing the social security numbers of unclaimed property owners, which are often listed as a Federal Employee Identification Number. This poses a significant threat to the personal and financial information of unclaimed property owners.

Banking and Insurance Committee’s Open Government Sunset Review

Based on an Open Government Sunset Review of this exemption, Senate professional staff of the Banking and Insurance Committee recommended that the Legislature retain the public records exemption established in s. 717.117(8), F.S., which makes social security numbers and property identifiers contained in unclaimed property reports confidential and exempt from public disclosure.

This recommendation was made in light of the information gathered for the Open Government Sunset Review, which indicated that a public necessity continues to exist in maintaining the confidential nature of social security numbers and property identifiers contained in unclaimed property reports. Additionally, the Sunset Review offered findings that the public records exemption be expanded due to unregistered persons’ access to the social security numbers of unclaimed property owners. Section 717.117(8)(c) currently restricts the release of social security numbers to persons registered with DFS as an attorney, a Florida-certified public accountant, private investigator, or a private investigative agency. Due to the risk of unclaimed property being fraudulently obtained and identity theft, the requisite public necessity exists to expand the public records exemption.

¹⁸ Section 717.117(8)(a), F.S.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 717.117, F.S., saving from repeal the public records exemption for social security numbers and other property identifiers in unclaimed property reports held by the Department of Financial Services; expanding the public records exemption to provide that all social security numbers and other property identifiers in unclaimed property reports are confidential and exempt; subjecting the expanded public records exemption to the Open Government Sunset Review Act.

Section 2 provides a public necessity statement as required by the State Constitution. It provides that expanding the public records exemption serves a public necessity as it guards against identity theft and unclaimed property being fraudulently obtained.

Section 3 provides an effective date of October 1, 2012.
