SUMMARY ANALYSIS

CS/CS/HB 405 passed the House on April 30, 2013, as CS/SB 592. The bill changes the law relating to garnishment of wages and exemptions from garnishment.

Garnishment is a creditor's means to collect a monetary judgment through seizure of the debtor's property held by a third party. Current law provides that certain property is exempt from creditor claims.

If a debtor claims that garnished property is exempt from creditors' claims, the creditor has 3 business days to respond if the claim of exemption is delivered by hand or 8 business days to respond if the claim of exemption is mailed. If there is no timely response, the garnishment fails and the debtor keeps the property. The bill increases the number of business days for a judgment creditor to respond from 3 to 8 days for a hand delivered claim and from 8 to 14 days for a mailed claim of exemption.

Current law requires forms applicable to garnishment to be delivered directly to parties, which is contrary to normal legal practice. This bill allows for delivery to a party's attorney.

While current law requires the debtor to certify under oath and penalty of perjury to the facts underlying the claim of exemption, the statutory form does not include the oath. This bill corrects the statutory form for use by a debtor.

The bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state or local governments.

The bill was approved by the Governor on June 28, 2013, ch. 2013-233, L.O.F., and will become effective on July 1, 2013.

I. SUBSTANTIVE INFORMATION

A. EFFECT OF CHANGES:

Background

When a litigant obtains a judgment against another litigant, it can sometimes be difficult to collect the judgment. Garnishment is a method to do so, created by statute and unknown to common law.¹ The party to whom the judgment is owed is known as the "creditor" or "judgment creditor," while the party against whom the judgment will be garnished is known as the "garnishee" or the "debtor."²

Garnishment is a statutory remedy, controlled by ch. 77, F.S., and ch. 222, F.S. Section 222.12, F.S., was originally passed into law in 1875,³ while s. 77.041, F.S., was originally passed into law in 2000.⁴ A writ of garnishment is generally filed after a judgment has been entered against the debtor.⁵ However, there is a procedure for issuance of a garnishment prior to judgment⁶ in cases other than a tort action.⁷ For a debtor without assets to satisfy the judgment, the creditor may file a continuing writ of garnishment against salary or wages.⁸ A garnishment may also be filed against any tangible or intangible personal property of the defendant.⁹

As in other remedies available to a creditor, there are limits to collection. State constitutional and statutory law, as well as federal law (such as the Bankruptcy Code), provide that certain property of a debtor is exempt from creditor claims. Exemptions include, usually with qualification, but are not limited to:

- Homestead real property;¹⁰
- Personal property to a value of $1000;¹¹
- Head of family wages;¹²
- Firefighters' pensions;¹³
- Medical savings accounts;¹⁴
- One motor vehicle of up to $1000 in value;¹⁵
- Pension benefits;¹⁶
- Veterans' benefits;¹⁷ and
- Workers' compensation payments.¹⁸

² While it may be easier to think of the creditor as the plaintiff in the lawsuit and the debtor as the defendant, there are circumstances where the defendant wins the case and receives a judgment against the plaintiff. Accordingly, it is more accurate to refer to creditor and debtor.

¹⁸ Section 443.051, F.S.

Section 77.041, F.S., provides a form for the notice that the clerk of the court must furnish to an individual debtor upon the creditor's application for a writ of garnishment. The notice informs the debtor that he or she may have certain assets that are exempt from garnishment. The exemptions are not automatic and must be timely and affirmatively asserted by the debtor. If the debtor fails to timely claim an exemption, the creditor is entitled to a default judgment (and is entitled to the property garnished).¹⁹

The clerk is also required to furnish the debtor with a statutory form for a claim of exemption. The statutory form lists some common exemptions that the defendant may check, along with a request for a hearing and a signature line for the debtor.²⁰ While s. 222.12, F.S., requires that a claim of exemption be filed under oath, the statutory form in s. 77.041(1), F.S., does not contain the legal language necessary to effectuate a sworn statement.

Section 77.041(2), F.S., provides that if a claim of exemption is timely filed by the debtor, the creditor has 3 business days to file an objection to the claim of exemption if the defendant hand delivers the form and 8 business days if the defendant mails the form. Section 222.12, F.S., however, provides that the creditor's objection must be filed within 2 business days. If the creditor does not timely respond to the claim of exemption, the clerk must automatically dissolve the writ of garnishment.²¹

Upon the filing by a debtor of a claim of exemption, and the timely filing of an objection by the creditor, a hearing will be held as soon as practicable to determine the validity of the exemptions claimed.²²

It is unclear why there are conflicting statutes regarding claims of exemption. The passage of s. 77.041, F.S., may have been intended to replace s. 222.12, F.S., but the courts have not interpreted it that way.²³ A trial court decision dissolved a writ of garnishment because the plaintiff's answers to the defendant's claims of exemption were not sufficient under s. 77.041(3), F.S., to "contest" the claims because the plaintiff's answers were general denials, rather than specific to each claim. The appellate court reversed, claiming that the trial court erred by narrowly focusing on the word "contest" in s. 77.041(3), F.S., and that the procedure in s. 77.041, F.S., supplements, rather than replaces s. 222.12, F.S.²⁴

Effect of the Bill

This bill amends s. 77.041, F.S., to extend the time that a creditor or creditor's attorney has to file an objection to a defendant's exemption request to 8 business days for a hand-delivered form and 14 business days for a mailed form.

The bill allows delivery of documents to the plaintiff's or defendant's attorney, rather than requiring direct delivery to the plaintiff or defendant.

The bill also modifies the statutory form to include certification under oath and penalty of perjury that the debtor mailed the form on the date stated and that the statements made in the claim of exemption are true to the best of the debtor's knowledge and belief.

The bill provides for the requirement of a sworn claim of exemption in s. 77.041, F.S., and repeals s. 222.12, F.S., the 1875 statute relating to proceedings for exemption.
