Pasco-Hernando Community College, which is also a FCS institution and serves Hernando and Pasco Counties,<sup>5</sup> was established in 1967.<sup>6</sup>

A FCS institution is authorized to change the institution's name, with the approval of that FCS institution's district board of trustees, and use the designation "college" or "state college" if the institution:<sup>7</sup>

- Is authorized to grant baccalaureate degrees in accordance with current law<sup>8</sup>; and
- Is accredited as a baccalaureate-degree-granting institution by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

A FCS institution's district board of trustees that approves a change to the institution's name must seek statutory codification of such name change in law<sup>9</sup> during the next regular legislative session.<sup>10</sup>

Edison State College meets the criteria, required under current law, for approval of the name change:

- On April 19, 2005, Edison College (currently named Edison State College) received approval from the State Board of Education (SBE) to grant a Bachelor of Applied Science degree in Public Safety Management.<sup>11</sup>
- On December 10, 2007, Edison College received from SACS, accreditation as a baccalaureate-degree-granting institution.<sup>12</sup>

- On September 24, 2013, Edison State College’s district board of trustees approved the name change from Edison State College to Florida SouthWestern State College.<sup>13</sup>

Pasco-Hernando Community College also meets the criteria, required under current law, for approval of the name change:

- On June 18, 2013, Pasco-Hernando Community College received approval from the SBE to grant a Bachelor of Applied Science in Supervision and Management and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing.<sup>14</sup>
- On December 9, 2013, Pasco-Hernando Community College received from SACS, accreditation as a baccalaureate-degree-granting institution.<sup>15</sup>
- On April 16, 2013, Pasco-Hernando Community College’s district board of trustees approved the name change from Pasco-Hernando Community College to Pasco-Hernando State College.<sup>16</sup>

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

CS/SB 236 codifies the names of Florida SouthWestern State College and Pasco-Hernando State College.

As a result of the name change from Edison State College to Florida SouthWestern State College, Florida SouthWestern State College, could avoid potential challenges, from other institutions, regarding using the name “Edison” as part of its name.

The Florida Department of Education (DOE) reported that at least two higher education institutions, which are not related to Edison State College, use the name “Edison” as part of their name:<sup>17</sup>

- Edison Community College located in Ohio<sup>18</sup> and
- Thomas Edison State College located in New Jersey.<sup>19</sup>

DOE reported that both Edison Community College and Thomas Edison State College, which were founded in the 1970s, may have superior legal rights to use the name "Edison" in certain areas of the United States. According to DOE, to the extent that Edison State College advertises or promotes its educational services or provides educational services through a distance learning program in other states, Edison State College runs a risk of violating the trademark rights of the other institutions that use the name "Edison" as part of their name. In addition, Thomas Edison State College owns a federal registration for the trademark THOMAS EDISON STATE COLLEGE, which was granted prior to 2008. Edison State College faces substantial limits in using the mark EDISON STATE COLLEGE because the district board of trustees for Edison State College did not approve the name Edison State College until 2008<sup>20, 21</sup>

Currently, 15 of the 28 FCS institutions use the designation "state college." The name change from Pasco-Hernando Community College to Pasco-Hernando State College would result in 16 FCS institutions using the designation "state college":<sup>22</sup>

1. Daytona State College
2. Eastern Florida State College
3. Edison State College
4. Florida State College at Jacksonville
5. Gulf Coast State College
6. Indian River State College
7. Lake-Sumter State College
8. Northwest Florida State College
9. Palm Beach State College
10. Pensacola State College
11. Polk State College
12. Seminole State College of Florida
13. South Florida State College
14. St. Johns River State College
15. State College of Florida, Manatee-Sarasota

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

Four FCS institutions (i.e., Florida Keys Community College, Hillsborough Community College, North Florida Community College, and Tallahassee Community College) are not accredited as baccalaureate-degree granting institutions by SACS and have not changed name to use the designation "state college" or "college."
