- a. The recommendation of the department, through review and consideration of the recommendations of the department's caseworker.
- b. The probable cause as found in the report, affidavit, or complaint, including:
- (I) Whether the alleged offense was committed in an aggressive, violent, premeditated, or willful manner.
- (II) Whether the alleged offense was against persons or against property, with greater weight being given to offenses against persons, especially if personal injury resulted.
  - c. The sophistication and maturity of the child.
- 2. The record and previous history of the child, including:
- a. Previous contacts with the department, the Department of Corrections, other law enforcement agencies, and the courts.
  - b. Prior periods of probation.
- c. Prior adjudications that the child committed a delinquent act or violation of law, with greater weight being given if the child has previously been found by a court to have committed a delinquent act or violation of law involving violence to persons.

- d. Prior commitments to institutions of the department, the Department of Corrections, or agencies under contract with either department.
  - e. Patterns of criminality or patterns of escalation.
- 3. The prospects for adequate protection of the public and the likelihood of reasonable rehabilitation of the child, if the child is found to have committed the alleged offense, by the use of procedures, services, and facilities currently available to the juvenile court.
- 4. Cost-effective alternatives available to divert the child from the criminal and juvenile justice systems and offer rehabilitative services for the child.
- (b) If the state attorney files an information against a child under this section, the state attorney shall file with the court his or her written explanation, addressing the factors listed in paragraph (a), as to why the child should be transferred for criminal prosecution.
- (5) REVERSE WAIVER.—Any child over whom the adult court has obtained original jurisdiction may request, in writing, a hearing to determine whether the child shall remain in adult court. The adult court shall retain jurisdiction unless the child proves by a preponderance of evidence all of the following:
  - (a) The child could obtain services available in the
