I. Summary:

SB 1144 establishes the Florida Veterans' Care Coordination Program within the Department of Children and Families (DCF) to provide veterans and their families with behavioral health information and referral services. The new program will model the proof-of-concept pilot program conducted in 2014 by the Crisis Center of Tampa Bay and the Florida Department of Veterans' Affairs and will be delivered through the Florida 211 Network. The bill appropriates $2 million of recurring funds from general revenue for the program and has an effective date of July 1, 2015.

II. Present Situation:

Florida 211

Section 408.918, F.S., establishes the Florida 211 Network, authorizing the planning, development, and implementation of a statewide network to serve as the single point of coordination for information and referral for health and human services.

A 211 network is a telephone-based service offered by nonprofit and public agencies throughout Florida and the United States that provide free, confidential information and referral services 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The network helps callers identify and connect with health and human service programs that can meet a variety of needs, including food, housing, employment, health care, crisis counseling and more.¹ In Florida, services are available statewide through any cell phone provider as well as through landlines in all 67 counties by dialing 2-1-1.² In order to participate in the Florida 211 Network, a 211 provider must be fully accredited by the National

Veterans and Mental Health

Depression and Suicide Among Veterans

According to a 2008 study, between 5 and 15 percent of veterans who served in Iraq and Afghanistan returned with Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), and an additional 2 to 14 percent returned with major depression.⁴ PTSD attributed to combat has affected between 2 and 17 percent of all U.S. military veterans since the Vietnam War.⁵ In 2012, the United States Department of Veterans Affairs (USDVA) released a report detailing veteran deaths from suicide from 1999 to 2009.⁶ Over that ten-year span, veterans comprised approximately 22.2% of all suicides. In 2010, on average, 22 veterans committed suicide per day.⁷ In response to these trends, the federal government, through the USDVA, established programs to connect veterans to mental health services.

Mental Health Services for Veterans

For the purposes of USDVA health benefits and services, a person who served in the active military service and who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable is a veteran and may qualify for USDVA health care benefits.⁸ Current and former reservists and National Guard members may also qualify for USDVA health care benefits if they were called to active duty by a federal order and completed the full period for which they were called or ordered to active duty.⁹

The USDVA provides specialty inpatient and outpatient mental health services at its medical centers and community-based outpatient clinics, in addition, readjustment counseling services may be available at veteran centers across the nation.¹⁰ The goal is to support recovery and enable veterans who experience mental health problems to live meaningful lives in their communities and to achieve their full potential.

The Veterans Crisis Line (VCL) is a resource for veterans developed by the USDVA to connect veterans and current service members in crisis and their families and friends with information from qualified responders through a confidential, toll-free hotline, online chat, and text messaging service.¹¹ The VCL was launched in 2007 and over the course of the program has answered more than 1.6 million calls, engaged in more than 207,700 online chats, responded to more than 32,300 texts, and made more than 45,000 lifesaving rescues.¹² Over the span of the program the number of repeat callers has steadily increased, either reflecting a change in the type of help individuals are seeking or the expanding role the VCL is playing in the provision of mental health care for veterans.¹³

The Crisis Center of Tampa Bay Pilot Project

In 2014, the Legislature appropriated $150,000 to the Florida Department of Veterans' Affairs (FDVA) to create a pilot project expanding existing Florida 211 services to veterans in Hillsborough, Pasco, Pinellas, Polk and Manatee counties.¹⁴ In August 2014, the Crisis Center of Tampa Bay (CCTB) expanded services to veterans and to date has served 98 veterans through care coordination.¹⁵ Veterans in care coordination receive ongoing suicide assessment, continuous safety planning, and support for an extended period of time. The program aims to ensure veterans are not only receiving information on available services, but are also enrolled, accepted, and attending USDVA funded and other community based services. From the inception of the program in November 2014 through March 2015, the CCTB pilot project has handled 477 total calls; of those, 217 calls were referred to care coordination services.¹⁶

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill creates s. 394.9087, F.S. to establish the Florida Veterans' Care Coordination Program (program) within the Department of Children and Families (DCF). The program must provide to veterans and their families behavioral healthcare referral services and model the proof-of-concept pilot program conducted in 2014 by the CCTB and the FDVA. Behavioral health includes services for both mental health and substance abuse. The bill sets out the goals for the program to include:

- Prevent suicides among veterans;
- Increase the use of services; and
- Increase the level of USDVA funding.

The bill requires the DCF to establish care coordination teams to implement the program and provide information and referral services by expanding the services provided by the Florida 211 Network. The program must also meet the requirements specified in s. 408.913, F.S. The services must include:

- Peer support, crisis intervention and information and referral;
- Treatment coordination, including follow up care;

- Suicide assessment;
- Promotion of safety and wellness;
- Coordination of resources available to veterans; and
- Needs assessments, including safety planning.

The program must maintain records on the number of requests for services. The bill requires the program to follow up with veterans to see if they have acted on referrals for service and if they have received assistance. The program is required to develop communication strategies to inform veterans and their families of available services.

The bill appropriates $2 million in recurring general revenue funds to the DCF to implement the Veterans' Care Coordination Program.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2015.
