I. Summary:

CS/SB 746 requires the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) to establish an online continued employment training component relating to diabetic emergencies. This component must include, at a minimum, recognition of symptoms of such an emergency, distinguishing such an emergency from alcohol intoxication or drug overdose, and appropriate first aid for such an emergency. Completion of the training component may count toward the 40 hours of instruction for continued employment or appointment as a law enforcement officer.

II. Present Situation:

The Criminal Justice Standards and Training Commission (CJSTC) within the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) establishes uniform minimum standards for the employment and training of full-time, part-time, and auxiliary law enforcement officers. Currently, every prospective officer must meet the minimum qualifications outlined in s. 943.13, F.S., successfully complete a CJSTC-developed basic recruit training program, and pass a statewide certification examination in order to receive their certification.

The CJSTC establishes basic skills training on a number of specific topics (e.g., domestic violence, interpersonal skills relating to diverse populations, and victim’s assistance and rights).<sup>1</sup> Basic skills training on diabetic emergencies is not specially required by current Florida law but the FDLE states that the topics described in the bill are taught in the basic recruit training program.<sup>2</sup>

In order to maintain their certification, law enforcement officers must satisfy the continuing training and education requirements of s. 943.135, F.S. Law enforcement officers receive periodic CJSTC-approved training or education at the rate of 40 hours every 4 years. The CJSTC establishes continued employment training relating to specific topics (e.g., community policing, sexual offender and victim investigations, and interpersonal skills relating to diverse populations).<sup>3</sup> This training counts toward the 40 hours of required instruction for continued employment. Current Florida law does not specifically require continued employment training relating to diabetic emergencies.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill creates s. 943.1726, F.S., which requires the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) to establish an online continued employment training component relating to diabetic emergencies. This component must include, at a minimum, recognition of symptoms of such an emergency, distinguishing such an emergency from alcohol intoxication or drug overdose, and appropriate first aid for such an emergency. Completion of the training component may count toward the 40 hours of instruction for continued employment or appointment as a law enforcement officer as required under s. 943.135, F.S.

The act may be cited as the “Arthur Green, Jr., Act.”

The bill takes effect on October 1, 2015.
