SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The Arthur G. Dozier School for Boys (Dozier School or school) was a reform school located in the panhandle town of Marianna that was operated by the state from January 1, 1900, to June 30, 2011. In recent years, men have come forward to tell stories of repeated physical abuse they were subjected to by staff members as a form of discipline. These men believe there may have been fellow students who died from the abuse and were buried at the school's cemetery.

In 2012, researchers from the University of South Florida (USF) began an investigation to determine the location of missing children buried at the school in order to excavate and repatriate the remains to their families. In January 2016, the researchers issued a report of their findings. The researchers analyzed historical records and determined that nearly 100 boys aged 6 to 18 died at the school between 1900 and 1973. During the investigation, the researchers excavated 55 graves and discovered 51 sets of human remains on the school grounds, only 13 of which were located in the school's cemetery. The researchers made 7 positive identifications and 14 presumptive identifications of the remains they discovered.

The bill requires any historical resource, record, archive, or artifact and any human remains that are recovered from Dozier School to be retained and preserved by USF until DOS requests custody.

The bill also directs DOS to reimburse the next of kin or pay directly to the provider up to $7,500 for funeral, reinterment, and grave marker expenses for each child whose body was buried and exhumed at Dozier School. DOS must contract with USF to identify and locate eligible next of kin of such children.

The bill establishes a task force under DOS to make recommendations to DOS regarding the creation and maintenance of a memorial and the location of a site for the reinterment of unidentified or unclaimed remains.

For Fiscal Year 2016-17, the bill appropriates $500,000 in nonrecurring funds from the General Revenue Fund to DOS to implement the bill's requirements. Any funds remaining unexpended or unencumbered as of July 1, 2017, shall revert and be appropriated for the same purpose for Fiscal Year 2017-18.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

Arthur G. Dozier School for Boys

The Arthur G. Dozier School for Boys (Dozier School or school) was a reform school located in the panhandle town of Marianna that was operated by the state from January 1, 1900, to June 30, 2011. The school was created by the Florida Legislature in 1897 to provide a place “where young offenders against the laws of our state might be separated from older more vicious associates.”¹ Children were initially committed to the school for criminal offenses, but the law was later amended to identify minor offenses, such as “incurability,” “truancy,” or “dependency” as reasons for a child to be sent there.² In the 1900s, hundreds of boys were sent to the school.

In recent years, men have come forward to tell stories of repeated physical abuse they were subjected to by staff members as a form of discipline.³ These men believe there may have been fellow students who died from the abuse and were buried at the school’s cemetery.⁴ As a result of these allegations, in 2008, former Governor Charlie Crist directed the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) to investigate 32 unmarked graves located on property surrounding Dozier School. FDLE reviewed and analyzed public records and official documents and identified 31 individuals who were purportedly buried at the school’s cemetery.⁵ FDLE was also directed to determine whether any crimes were committed, and if so, the perpetrators of those crimes.⁶ FDLE interviewed former students and former school staff, but concluded it could not find enough evidence to support the accusations.⁷

In 2012, researchers from the University of South Florida began an investigation to determine the location of missing children buried at the school in order to excavate and repatriate the remains to their families.⁸ In January 2016, the researchers issued a report of their findings. The researchers analyzed historical records and determined that nearly 100 boys aged 6 to 18 died at the school between 1900 and 1973.⁹ During the investigation, the researchers excavated 55 graves and discovered 51 sets of human remains on the school grounds, only 13 of which were located in the school’s cemetery.¹⁰ The researchers made 7 positive identifications and 14 presumptive identifications of the remains they discovered.¹¹

Department of State

The Department of State (DOS) has a variety of responsibilities, including collecting and preserving official state records and historically significant records, promoting arts and culture in the state, and facilitating cultural development and services in the state. The Division of Historical Resources, within DOS, is responsible for preserving and promoting Florida’s historical, archaeological, and folk culture resources.

Advisory Bodies

Section 20.052, F.S., provides that an advisory body created by specific statutory enactment as an adjunct to an executive agency must be established, evaluated, or maintained in accordance with certain requirements. An advisory body may be created only when it is found to be necessary and beneficial to the furtherance of a public purpose,¹² and it must be terminated by the Legislature when it is no longer necessary and beneficial to the furtherance of the public purpose.¹³ The private citizen members of an advisory body that is adjunct to an executive agency must be appointed by the Governor, the head of the department, the executive director of the department, or a Cabinet officer.¹⁴

Effect of Proposed Changes

This bill authorizes USF to retain custody of the following:

- historical resources, records, archives, or artifacts recovered from Dozier until the DOS requests custody; and
- human remains exhumed from Dozier until the remains are returned to the next of kin or reburied.

DOS is directed to contract with the USF for the university's continuing efforts to identify and locate the next of kin of the children whose remains were exhumed from Dozier.

The bill authorizes DOS to spend up to $7,500 for the cost of each child's funeral, reinterment, and grave marker. These expenditures may take the form of reimbursements to the next of kin, or payments made directly to a funeral home or other appropriate entity. The expenditures are to be made in accordance with current prompt payment laws. Charitable contributions made toward a burial are not eligible for reimbursement. DOS is required to submit a report to the Legislature by February 1, 2018 on the status of its expenditures.

The bill establishes an eight-member task force under DOS which is responsible for making a recommendation to DOS about the creation and maintenance of a memorial, and the location of a site for reinterment of unidentified or unclaimed remains. The bill designates the following task force members:

- the Secretary of State, or his or her designee, who shall serve as the chair;
- one person appointed by the President of the Florida State Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People;
- one representative of the Florida Council of Churches, appointed by the executive director of the council;

- one person appointed by the President of the Senate;
- one person appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives; and
- one person appointed by the Jackson County Board of County Commissioners.

Task force recommendations must be submitted to DOS by October 1, 2016. The task force recommendations are also required to be submitted to the Governor and Cabinet, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Minority Leaders of the Senate and the House of Representatives. The bill repeals the task force on December 31, 2016.
