COMPANION BILLS:	CS/SB 1692	GOVERNOR'S ACTION:	Approved

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

CS/HB 821 passed the House on February 24, 2016, and subsequently passed the Senate on March 11, 2016. The bill prohibits persons from collecting or attempting to collect a certain fee from a veteran.

The Department of Veterans Affairs has a process for an individual to become an "accredited representative." These representatives assist a claimant (a veteran) in applying for veterans benefits or appealing a denial of such benefits. If successful, the department may withhold and pay to the accredited representative the representative's fee. The department assesses and deducts an administrative fee from the representative's fee equal to the lesser of 5% of the representation fee or $100. The representative is prohibited from directly or indirectly charging the veteran for this administrative fee.

This bill provides that it is a second degree misdemeanor for any accredited representative to request, receive or obtain reimbursement of the administrative fee from the veteran.

The bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state or local governments.

The bill was approved by the Governor on April 14, 2016, ch. 2016-228, L.O.F., and will become effective October 1, 2016.

I. SUBSTANTIVE INFORMATION

A. EFFECT OF CHANGES:

Background

The United States Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) provides our veterans with various benefits, including disability, pension, health care, and life insurance benefits. Since the VA is an agency of the Federal government, disputes as to a veteran's entitlement to benefits are resolved through an administrative process rather than a judicial process. The VA determines who is qualified to represent or assist veterans in their claim for benefits. Therefore, a person must apply and be approved by the VA in order to assist or advise a person who is considering bringing a claim for benefits before the VA.¹ A representative does not need to be an attorney, though the accreditation requirements for attorneys and non-attorneys are different. Any non-attorney who meets certain character and fitness requirements, passes a written examination, and shows that he or she "is qualified to render valuable assistance to claimants, and is otherwise competent to advise and assist claimants in the preparation, presentation, and prosecution of their claim(s) before the Department" can be approved to assist veterans with claims.² The VA refers to an approved attorney or approved claim agent as an "accredited representative."³

An accredited representative may charge and collect a fee for his or her work representing a veteran, but that fee must be reasonable.⁴ A fee is presumed to be reasonable if the fee is under 20% and presumed to be unreasonable if it's over 33 1/3% of the past due benefits.⁵ The fee agreement between the veteran and the representative may provide for the VA to pay the representation fee directly to the accredited representative out of the benefit award if the fee is 20% or less of the total benefit award.⁶ For making a direct payment of the representative's fee, the VA charges the accredited representative an assessment⁷ equal to the lesser of 5% of the fee award or $100.⁸ Federal law prohibits an accredited representative from directly or indirectly charging the claimant for this assessment.⁹

The statute also provides that "[w]hoever wrongfully withholds from any claimant or beneficiary any part of a benefit or claim allowed and due to the claimant or beneficiary, shall be fined as provided in title 18,¹⁰ or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."¹¹ It is possible that the action of an accredited representative in collecting a reimbursement of the representative's administrative fee would be a criminal offense under federal law.

Effect of the Bill

The bill provides that it is a second degree misdemeanor for any accredited person to request, receive or obtain reimbursement of the administrative fee from the veteran. A second degree misdemeanor is punishable by up to 60 days in jail or a $500 fine or both.¹²
