I. Summary:

SB 1070 authorizes the Secretary of State to enter into information sharing agreements with other states for the purpose of maintaining the statewide voter registration system. The bill directs the Secretary to use that data to identify registered voters or applications for voter registration that would be potentially ineligible to vote.

The bill also provides that the Secretary must maintain the confidentiality of information or data given as part of the agreement, if that information or data was confidential in its state of origin. However, the bill does allow this confidential information to be provided to persons or organizations responsible for the maintenance of the voter registration system.

SB 1070, along with its public records counterpart SB 1072, will provide the statutory authorization for Florida to join the Electronic Registration Information Center (ERIC), a private, non-profit, interstate consortium designed to help states improve the accuracy of their voter rolls through data match identification of problematic registrations and to increase access to voter registration for all eligible citizens.

The bill has a minor fiscal impact.

SB 1070 will take effect on July 1, 2017.

II. Present Situation:

No complete national system currently exists to identify duplicate voter registrations across state lines. While there is no criminal or civil penalty for being registered in two states simultaneously, it is important to identify voters registered in multiple jurisdictions to ensure the accuracy of the voter rolls. Currently, the process in Florida relies upon either the voter voluntarily notifying Florida election officials that they have moved and registered to vote in a new state or, another state's voting officials notifying Florida election officials that the elector has registered there. In the event that Florida election officials receive notice from another state's election officials that one of its electors has registered in another state, the law requires that notification to be treated as a request from the voter to have his or her name removed from the Florida Voter Registration System.<sup>1</sup>

If Florida election officials do not receive notice that the elector has moved, a voter who has moved out of state will eventually be put into an inactive status pursuant to the county supervisors of elections biennial voter list maintenance efforts and culled from the state's rolls by the second subsequent general election, as provided by federal law.<sup>2</sup> That means that a voter who has moved can remain on Florida's voter rolls for up to 4 years. It does not mean, however, that such a voter is casting ballots in two states in the same election; which would be a felony under Florida law.<sup>3</sup>

Florida Voter List Maintenance Information<sup>4</sup>

The Secretary of State, as the chief election officer of the State, is responsible for the operation and maintenance of the statewide voter registration system implemented as part of the Help America Vote Act of 2002.<sup>5</sup> The 67 county Supervisors of Elections are primarily responsible for the registration of voters under section 98.045, F.S., and records maintenance activities including removal of voters pursuant to sections 98.065 and 98.075, F.S., Supervisors of Elections are the only election officials with authority to register and remove voters from the registration rolls.

These ongoing records maintenance activities are conducted to protect the integrity of the electoral process through current and accurate records and to ensure only eligible voters are registered in the statewide voter registration system. By law, any maintenance program or activity must be uniform, nondiscriminatory, and in compliance with the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the National Voter Registration Act of 1993, and the Help America Vote Act of 2002.

As part of maintenance activities, the Florida Department of State's Division of Elections and county supervisor of elections offices may receive and use information from a variety of credible and reliable sources, including other Florida state and local agencies, federal government, and other states' elections officials, that may be useful in ensuring the accuracy of the registration system. Currently, information as to whether a voter has registered elsewhere is contingent upon the voter voluntarily indicating on a voter registration application that he or she was previously registered elsewhere. A voter may provide that information at the time he or she first registers or in subsequent registration record updates. There is no requirement that a registered voter must notify a state that he or she has moved out of the state and may have registered elsewhere.

If a registered voter indicates a prior state of registration, Florida will notify the other State within two weeks of registration to take appropriate action, and other States reciprocate with similar information.<sup>6</sup> If the Division of Elections is notified that a Florida registered voter may have registered elsewhere the information is processed and forwarded to the county Supervisor of Elections to take appropriate action to remove the voter. Sometimes the out-of-state cancellation information is forwarded directly to the county Supervisor of Elections. As noted above, a notice from another state election official that a voter has registered there is to be processed as if it were a direct request by the voter to be removed from rolls.<sup>7</sup>

Voter registration information once submitted to a governmental agency is public record pursuant to chapter 119, F.S., but a few exceptions exist. The social security number, the driver license number or state identification card number, where the voter submitted his or her registration information, and whether the voter declined to register or update voter registration information are exempt from public disclosure.<sup>8</sup> Additionally, while a voter's signature can be viewed or inspected, it cannot be copied.<sup>9</sup> Further, the law allows voters who fall into a number of high-risk professional classes to request that certain information such as their address and phone numbers and dates of birth be exempt for themselves and their spouses and children.<sup>10</sup> Finally, the "voter stalking exemption" that the Legislature adopted in 2010 exempts the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of actual or threatened victims who participate in the Attorney General's Address Confidentiality Program for Victims of Domestic Violence.<sup>11</sup>

Electronic Registration Information Center (ERIC)

The Florida State Association of Supervisors of Elections has made joining ERIC one of its two priority legislative issues for the 2017 session.<sup>12</sup> This bill, along with its linked public records bill SB 1072, provides the Secretary of State the necessary legal authorization to do so.

ERIC represents the best available, though admittedly only a partial, solution to identifying interstate duplicate voter registrations.

"The Electronic Registration Information Center (ERIC) is a non-profit organization (corporation) with the sole mission of assisting states to improve the accuracy of America's voter rolls and increase access to voter registration for all eligible citizens. ERIC is governed and managed by states who choose to join, and was formed in 2012 with assistance from The Pew Charitable Trusts."<sup>13</sup> It is essentially a multistate, data-sharing partnership that uses modern technology to provide election officials with information to keep voter lists complete and current, and to increase voter registration by notifying qualified, unregistered voters.<sup>14</sup>

As of July 2016, ERIC has 20 state members plus the District of Columbia: Alabama, Alaska, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Illinois, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.<sup>15</sup>

ERIC is controlled by a Board of Directors with each State having a vote; however, only the first 20 states to join appoint a member of the Board of Directors.<sup>16</sup> Florida would be the 21st state to join ERIC.

By joining ERIC, each member state submits, at a minimum, its voter registration and motor vehicle licensee data (which it updates every 60 days), including voter names, addresses, dates of birth, and last four digits of social security numbers.<sup>17</sup> However, ERIC does not require information such as race, religion, political party affiliation, or other information that can be used for purposes of discrimination. Sensitive, private data is anonymized (or “one-way hashing”) and then transmitted to ERIC for use in the data matching process.<sup>18</sup> ERIC assures that all data received is collected, matched, and stored in an environment with state-of-the-art security.<sup>19</sup> The ERIC website offers a technical and security brief, for those seeking more information about privacy and technical concerns:

Using advanced algorithms, ERIC compares databases from its members and determines inaccuracies in states’ voting lists — who has moved interstate and intrastate, who has died, and who is eligible to vote, but is not yet registered.<sup>20</sup>

ERIC then makes a report available to the states so that: 1) supervisors of elections can confirm the eligibility of a voter and accuracy of the voter roll and, if necessary, either remove the voter or correct the inaccuracy on the roll, as appropriate (ERIC does not purge voters from individual states’ registration rolls); and, 2) the State can send voter registration forms to age-eligible voters before the voter registration closing date for the next federal election.<sup>21</sup>

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

SB 1070 authorizes the Secretary, as he or she deems necessary, to enter into agreements to share information or data with other states in order to maintain the statewide voter registration system. The bill directs the Secretary to use that data to identify registered voters or applications for voter registration that would be potentially ineligible to vote based on current law.

The bill also provides that the Secretary must maintain the confidentiality of information or data given as part of the agreement if that information or data was confidential in its state of origin. However, the bill does allow this confidential information to be provided to persons or organizations responsible for the maintenance of the system.

By enacting SB 1070, and its linked bill SB 1072, the Secretary of State will be authorized to join ERIC,<sup>22</sup> in order to: 1) better identify problem voter records in the statewide registration database that the supervisors of elections can either remove, if they are determined to be invalid, or correct; and 2) identify potential voters who the State can contact to register to vote.

Information provided to committee staff from ERIC on an initial set of Florida reports projects the following numbers:<sup>23</sup>

- Intrastate voters: 717,000 voters who have moved within Florida but haven't updated their voter records;
- Interstate voters: 233,000 interstate voters with out-of date records because the voter moved to another state;
- Deceased voters: 24,000 voters still on the rolls;
- Duplicates: 17,000 duplicate registrations in the statewide database; and,
- Potential Voter Registrants: 4.5 million eligible voters in the motor vehicles database to be contacted to register to vote.

ERIC caveats their numbers by stating that they are based on the “averages” of what other member states have experienced, but also indicates that their projections “have so far proven to be reliable predictors” of the number of records that show up on initial reports.

The bill is effective July 1, 2017.

IV. Constitutional Issues:

A. Municipality/County Mandates Restrictions:

None.

Mar. 20, 2017). It is important to note that when online voter registration “goes live” in October 2017, the Supervisors of Elections will not necessarily need to print and mail a Florida Voter Registration Application. The Supervisor could instead simply include the website address for the online voter registration system to potential voters.

<sup>22</sup> While most of the discussion concerning this legislation revolves around whether Florida will join ERIC, technically the bill will allow Florida to enter into other similar agreements with other states as well.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

None.

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

None.

C. Government Sector Impact:

Local Government/Expenditures

County supervisors of elections may incur expenses related to list maintenance activity triggered by the receipt of information from ERIC, especially if such information triggers a significant amount of activity that needs to be processed including outreach to voters to confirm addresses or eligibility. However, they may also incur downstream cost savings due to more efficient processes and reliable sources of data helping to maintain the voter rolls over the long term. The extent of the potential costs and savings is currently indeterminate.

State GovernmentExpenditures/non-recurring

ERIC charges a one-time membership fee of $25,000 to join,<sup>24</sup> which will likely be the responsibility of the Department of State.

Expenditures/recurring

In addition, each ERIC member pays annual dues which are determined by a formula set by the Board of Directors, with larger states paying a bit more than smaller states. While the precise amount of dues is indeterminate and will vary from year-to-year, this amount is likely to be no more than about $50,000-$75,000/year, based on ERIC's projected budget of $785,000 for FY 2016-17 (for the current 20 members).<sup>25</sup> It is also believed that, in the event that Florida joins ERIC, there will be several other states following suit which could affect the cost for dues. The Department may also alternatively incur expenses related to working with the data sets provided through participation with ERIC.
