Section 741.28(2), F.S., defines domestic violence as any assault, aggravated assault, battery, aggravated battery, sexual assault, sexual battery, stalking, aggravated stalking, kidnapping, false imprisonment, or any criminal offense resulting in physical injury or death of one family or household member by another family or household member. A family or household member includes:

- Persons who are presently residing together as if a family or who have resided together in the past as if a family in the same single family dwelling unit; and
- Persons who are parents of a child in common, regardless of whether they have been married.²

Criminal Penalties for Domestic Violence Offenses

Florida law requires certain mandatory penalties related to domestic violence offenses. Section 741.281, F.S., requires a court to sentence any person convicted³ of a domestic violence crime to a minimum term of one year probation with the condition that the person attend a batterer's intervention program.⁴

Section 741.325, F.S., requires batterer's intervention programs be based on a psychoeducational model that addresses tactics of power and control by one person over another. A batterer's intervention program must be at least 29 weeks in length and include 24 weekly sessions, and include appropriate intake, assessment, and orientation programming.⁵

In addition to the mandatory probation and the batterer's intervention program, certain domestic violence offenses require a defendant serve jail time. If a person is adjudicated guilty of a domestic violence offense and intentionally caused bodily harm to another person, a court must sentence the person to a minimum of five days in the county jail.⁶

Withholding Adjudication of Guilt

Section 775.08435, F.S., prohibits a court from withholding adjudication of guilt in certain felony cases. A court may not withhold adjudication of guilt for a defendant on:

- A capital, life, or first degree felony⁷ offense.

² The family or household members must be currently residing or have in the past resided together in the same single dwelling unit; this excludes persons who have a child in common. Section 741.28(3), F.S.

³ This provision applies to any person found guilty of, having an adjudication withheld on, or pleading nolo contendere to a crime of domestic violence. Section 741.281, F.S.

⁴ Section 741.281, F.S., allows a court to use its discretion to impose a batterer's intervention program if the court states on the record to why such a program would be inappropriate. ⁶ The court is not required to order five days in the county jail when the court orders an offender to a period of incarceration in a state correction facility. Section 741.283, F.S.

⁷ A first degree felony is punishable by up to 30 years imprisonment and up to a $10,000 fine. Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

 - The court makes written findings that a withhold of adjudication is reasonably justified based on the circumstances or mitigating factors in s. 921.0026, F.S.⁹
- A third degree felony¹⁰ offense if the defendant has a prior withholding of adjudication for a felony offense that did not arise from the same criminal episode as the current felony offense unless:
 - The state attorney requests in writing that adjudication be withheld; or
 - The court makes written findings that a withholding of adjudication is reasonably justified based on the circumstances or mitigating factors in s. 921.0026, F.S.¹¹

After reviewing the petition, if a court finds there is an immediate and present danger of domestic violence, the court may grant a temporary injunction, pending a full hearing.¹⁴ Following a hearing, if the court determines the petitioner is the victim of domestic violence or is in imminent danger of becoming a victim of domestic violence, the court may enter an injunction.¹⁵

Attorney's fees for Domestic Violence Injunction Hearings

Section 741.30, F.S., does not address the award of attorney's fees related to domestic violence injunction hearings. Florida courts are in conflict regarding whether s. 57.105, F.S., allows a court to order attorney fees incurred in domestic violence injunction proceedings.¹⁶ The Third
