SUMMARY ANALYSIS

Florida is one of the nation's top ten most productive agricultural states. However, according to research, the overall number of farms is declining.

The bill creates within DACS the Florida Young Farmer and Rancher Advisory Council. The council is to consist of 12 members appointed by the Commissioner of Agriculture. The bill authorizes the council to submit annually to the commissioner findings and recommendations for mitigating challenges facing aspiring farmers and ranchers in the early stages of their careers, and to examine issues that include, but are not limited to, access to land, availability of credit and capital, and access to business skills training.

The bill requires DACS to establish on its website a clearinghouse for resources available to young and beginning farmers and ranchers, including, but not limited to, local, state, federal, and private sources of grants, loans, and scholarships, as well as general resources on finance and business planning. The bill requires the clearinghouse to include resources available to beginning agricultural producers who are defined as veterans under s. 1.01, F.S.

The bill will have an insignificant negative fiscal impact on state government that can be absorbed within existing resources. See Fiscal Analysis and Economic Impact Statement.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2018.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Present Situation

Florida Agriculture

Florida had 47,100 commercial farms in 2016, using approximately 9.41 million acres of farmland. There were 5,600 farms with sales exceeding $100,000, and the average farm size was 200 acres. Florida ranks 18th among all states in number of farms and 30th in land in farms.¹

Florida is one of the nation's top ten most productive agricultural states.² However, the number of farms is declining throughout the state.³ In the 1990s, the agricultural economy increased only five percent compared to 25 percent and 50 percent in previous decades.⁴

There are no grant programs or councils administered by DACS to assist young farmers and ranchers.
