(NP) SR 678

By Senator Perry

in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825, the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and		8-01784A-19 2019678
 Marion County and recognizing March 25, 2019, as Marion County Day" in Florida. WHEREAS, when the United States Government acquired Florida in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825, the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse 	1	Senate Resolution
⁴ "Marion County Day" in Florida. ⁵ ⁶ WHEREAS, when the United States Government acquired Florida ⁷ in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825, ⁸ the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the ⁹ Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and ¹⁰ WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military ¹¹ outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian ¹² reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and ¹³ WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, ¹⁴ which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers ¹⁵ migrated to present-day Marion County, and ¹⁶ WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a ¹⁷ part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough ¹⁸ Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a ¹⁹ difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted ²⁰ a new county, represented Alachua County when he ²¹ introduced a bill to create the new county, and ²⁴ WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the ²⁵ formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third ²⁶ territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and ²⁷ WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now ²⁸ boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	2	A resolution commemorating the 175th anniversary of
56WHEREAS, when the United States Government acquired Florida7in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825,8the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the99Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and10WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military11outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian12reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and13WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842,14which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers15migrated to present-day Marion County, and16WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a17part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough18Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a19difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted2021WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator222324WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the2536373839393030303132333434353536363738	3	Marion County and recognizing March 25, 2019, as
6WHEREAS, when the United States Government acquired Florida7in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825,8the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the9Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and10WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military11outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian12reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and13WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842,14which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers15migrated to present-day Marion County, and16WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a17part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough18Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a20difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted21WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator22from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he23introduced a bill to create the new county, and24WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the25formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third26territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and27WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now28boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	4	"Marion County Day" in Florida.
in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825, the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now 8 boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	5
the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	6	WHEREAS, when the United States Government acquired Florida
Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	7	in 1821, scouts were sent to survey the peninsula, and in 1825, WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	8	the government created the Seminole Agency to oversee the outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	9	Seminole Nation in what would become Marion County, and reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	10	WHEREAS, the United States Army established a military WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	11	outpost to protect the northern boundary of the Seminole Indian which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	12	reservation and in 1827, erected a site called Fort King, and migrated to present-day Marion County, and WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	13	WHEREAS, as a result of the Armed Occupation Act of 1842, WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	14	which offered free land if certain conditions were met, pioneers part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	15	migrated to present-day Marion County, and 18 Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a 19 difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted 20 a new county, and 21 WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator 22 from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he 23 introduced a bill to create the new county, and 24 WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the 25 formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third 26 territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and 27 WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now 28 boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	16	WHEREAS, between 1842 and 1844, Marion County was still a difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	17	part of Alachua, Mosquito, now known as Orange, and Hillsborough a new county, and WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	18	Counties, and the closest county seat was in Alachua County, a 21 WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator 22 from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he 23 introduced a bill to create the new county, and 24 WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the 25 formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third 26 territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and 27 WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now 28 boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	19	difficult 50 miles from Fort King, and so early settlers wanted from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	20	a new county, and introduced a bill to create the new county, and WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	21	WHEREAS, Gabriel L. Priest, Sr., the first State Senator
24 WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the 25 formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third 26 territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and 27 WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now 28 boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	22	from Marion County, represented Alachua County when he formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	23	introduced a bill to create the new county, and 26 territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and 27 WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now 28 boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	24	WHEREAS, the territorial legislative council authorized the
 WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse 	25	formation of Marion County, and Richard Keith Call, the third
28 boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse	26	territorial Governor, signed the law on March 25, 1844, and
	27	WHEREAS, Marion County has grown substantially and now
29 Capital of the World, and	28	boasts significant economic development and the title of Horse
	29	Capital of the World, and

Page 1 of 2

CODING: Words stricken are deletions; words underlined are additions.

(NP) SR 678

	8-01784A-19 2019678
30	WHEREAS, the people and natural landmarks of Marion County
31	have contributed greatly to the history of the State of Florida, 32	and
33	WHEREAS, March 25, 2019, marks the 175th anniversary of
34	Marion County's creation, NOW, THEREFORE,
35
36	Be It Resolved by the Senate of the State of Florida:
37
38	That March 25, 2019, is designated as "Marion County Day"
39	in Florida, and that all Marion County residents, past and 40	present, are thanked for their significant contributions to the 41	state.
42

Page 2 of 2

CODING: Words stricken are deletions; words underlined are additions.