FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

The mission of Florida's K-20 education system is to "allow its students to increase their proficiency by allowing them the opportunity to expand their knowledge and skills through rigorous and relevant learning opportunities."¹ Civic literacy and preparing students to become civically engaged and knowledgeable adults who positively contribute to their communities is a priority of Florida's K-20 education system.²

Florida law requires each school board to provide instruction regarding the history, significance and principles of the Declaration of the Independence and the Constitution of the United States, flag education, and civil government.³ The law also requires districts to provide a character-development program in kindergarten through grade 12. Each school district must develop or adopt a curriculum for its K-12 character-development program and submit it to the Department of Education (DOE) for approval.⁴ The character development curriculum must "stress the qualities of patriotism; responsibility; citizenship; kindness; respect for authority, life, liberty, and personal property; honesty; charity; self-control; racial, ethnic, and religious tolerance; and cooperation."⁵

Currently, Florida's Next Generation Sunshine State Standards for social studies include civics content in kindergarten through grade 8 and in grades 9 through 12.⁶ In the middle grades, a student must successfully complete three middle school or higher courses in social studies in order to be promoted to high school.⁷ One of the three courses must be in civics.⁸ The course curriculum must include the roles and responsibilities of federal, state, and local governments; the structures and functions of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches; the meaning and significance of documents such as the Articles of Confederation, Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution of the United States.⁹

Students must take the civics statewide end-of-course (EOC) assessment, which counts toward 30 percent of the student's course grade.¹⁰ Results from the assessment are included in the school grades calculation for middle schools.¹¹

DOE's 2018 statewide assessment results, shown in the figure below, found that student performance on the civics EOC has increased by 2 percentage points (from 69% to 71%) from 2017 to 2018 and 10 percentage points from its inception in 2014 (from 61% to 71%).¹² Achieving a Level 3 is considered a passing score on the assessment.¹³

Instructional Materials Adoption

In Florida, specific courses within selected subject areas and grade levels are called for adoption on a rotating basis.¹⁴ Subject areas for the current adoption year and the adoption schedule are posted on the Florida Department of Education Instructional Materials (FDOEIM) website.¹⁵ The instructional materials evaluation process and how the submitted instructional materials for adoption will be evaluated, are governed by rules of the State Board.¹⁶

District school boards or a consortium of school boards may also implement an instructional material program to review, recommend, adopt and purchase instructional materials.¹⁷ For a district school board that chooses to perform its own instructional materials program, by March 31 of each year the district school superintendent must certify to DOE that all instructional materials for core courses used by the district are aligned with state standards.¹⁸

Florida Joint Center for Citizenship

The Florida Joint Center for Citizenship (Center) is a partnership between the Lou Frey Institute of Politics and Government at the University of Central Florida and the Bob Graham Center for Public Service at the University of Florida.¹⁹ The Center offers K-12 curricular resources to support effective civics instruction, provides Civics360, an online student learning tool for middle school civics, and
