I. Summary:

SB 976 creates the Care for Retired Law Enforcement Dogs Program. The program will provide reimbursement for up to $1,500 of annual veterinary costs associated with caring for a retired law enforcement dog by the former handler or adopter who incurs the costs.

The bill provides legislative findings and definitions. The bill requires valid documentation of the dog's retirement from the law enforcement agency the dog served and a valid paid invoice from the veterinarian for veterinary care for reimbursement of costs to occur.

The program will be administered and managed by a not-for-profit corporation in a contractual arrangement with the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) after a competitive grant award process.

The bill includes an appropriation of $300,000 in recurring General Revenue Funds for the purpose of implementing and administering the program.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2019.

II. Present Situation:

Law enforcement dogs have become an integral part of many law enforcement efforts statewide, including suspect apprehension through tracking and searching, evidence location, drug and bomb detection, and search and rescue operations.¹ Law enforcement dogs cannot work forever and are faced with natural aging conditions and may have sustained injuries in the line of duty. When it is time for a law enforcement dog to retire the dog typically lives with their law enforcement officer partner. However, retired law enforcement dogs can experience costly medical expenses that the owner is unable to handle.²

The Pembroke Pines Police Department retired two law enforcement dogs in 2015, one having been on the job for 9 years as a patrol and narcotics detecting dog, the other working for 6 years as a patrol and explosive detecting dog.³ Similarly, in 2017, two dogs who had both served the Flagler County Sheriff's Office for 8 years retired from duty in apprehending suspects and sniffing for narcotics, with a combined 190 deployments.⁴ All four of the dogs were to stay at home with their handlers as pets.⁵

Just one example of a law enforcement dog's ultimate service is Cigo, who worked at the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office. On December 24, 2018, Cigo was shot and killed while assisting in the apprehension of an attempted-murder suspect at the Wellington Green Mall. Cigo was only 3 years old at the time he was killed by the suspect.⁶

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill creates the Care for Retired Law Enforcement Dogs Program (program) within the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE). The program is created within the FDLE to provide a stable funding source for veterinary care for retired law enforcement dogs.

The program will provide up to $1,500 annually to any former handler or adopter of a retired law enforcement dog for reimbursement of veterinary care for the dog if the agency from which the dog retired provides verification of the dog's service. The former handler or adopter must submit a valid invoice from a veterinarian for care provided in Florida and proof of payment for reimbursement to occur. The former handler or adopter may not accumulate unused funds for the current year for use in a future year. When the annual funding for the program is depleted, reimbursements must be discontinued for the remainder of the year.

"Retired law enforcement dog" is defined as a dog who has been in the service of or employed by a law enforcement agency in this state for the principle purpose of aiding in the detection of criminal activity, enforcement of laws, or apprehension of offenders. The retired law
