SUMMARY ANALYSIS

In Florida, minority populations experience higher rates of illness and death from health conditions such as heart disease, stroke, specific cancers, diabetes, HIV/AIDS, mental health, asthma, and obesity. The Office of Minority Health and Health Equity (Office), housed within the Department of Health (DOH), is responsible for helping to improve health and healthcare outcomes for racial and ethnic minority communities by developing or advancing policies, programs, and practices that address health, social, economic, environmental, and other factors which impact health. Under current law, the Office is required to be headed by a Senior Health Equity Officer. The responsibilities of the Senior Health Equity Officer include, but are not limited to, administering the Closing the Gap grant program in a manner that maximizes the impact of the grants in achieving health equity.

CS/HB 183 requires the Office to develop and promote the statewide implementation of policies, programs, and practices that increase health equity for racial and ethnic minority populations in Florida. The bill requires the Office to work with other state agencies, organizations, and providers to improve the health of racial and ethnic minority populations through data analysis and the development of health policies and programs that will help eliminate health disparities.

The bill requires one representative from each county health department to serve as a minority health liaison (MHL) and requires MHLs to assist the Office in the implementation of the bill. The bill also authorizes the Office to serve as a liaison to and assist the federal Offices of Minority Health and Regional Health Operations, as appropriate.

The bill has an insignificant, negative fiscal impact on the DOH, which current resources are adequate to absorb, and no fiscal impact on local governments.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2021.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

The Present Situation

Health disparities—inequities in the quality of health, health care and health outcomes experienced by groups based on social, racial, ethnic, economic and environmental characteristics—persist nationwide.¹

In Florida, minority populations experience higher rates of illness and death from health conditions such as heart disease, stroke, specific cancers, diabetes, HIV/AIDS, mental health, asthma, and obesity.² Poor health outcomes for Blacks, Hispanic Americans, American Indians, Alaska Natives, Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders are also apparent when comparing their health indicators to Florida's general population.³

The Office of Minority Health and Health Equity

In 2004, the Florida Legislature established the Office of Minority Health to serve as the coordinating office within the DOH for consultative services and training in the areas of cultural and linguistic competency, coordination, partnership building, program development and implementation, and other related comprehensive efforts to address the health needs of Florida's minority and underrepresented populations statewide.⁴

In 2016, the Florida Legislature renamed the office the Office of Minority Health and Health Equity (Office).⁵ The Office is responsible for helping to improve health and healthcare outcomes for racial and ethnic minority communities by developing or advancing policies, programs, and practices that address health, social, economic, environmental, and other factors which impact health.⁶

The DOH currently gathers, analyzes, and publishes data regarding disparities in health status and access to health care services on its Florida Health Community Health Assessment Resource Tool Set (FLHealthCHARTS) website, but not on quality of health care.⁷ However, the federal Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality does publish data on the quality of health care and provides a list of measures and supporting data that can be viewed by race and ethnicity at the state level.⁸

Under current law, the Office is not required to develop and promote statewide implementation of any policies, programs, and practices that may increase health equity for racial and ethnic minority populations in Florida. The Office is also not required to work with other state agencies, organizations, and providers or the federal government to improve the health of racial and ethnic minority populations through data analysis and the development of health policies and programs that will help eliminate health disparities. Rather, the Office is statutorily required to be headed by a Senior Health Equity Officer.⁹

Minority Health Initiatives

Closing the Gap Grant Program

The Office administers multiple health promotion programs including the “Closing the Gap” (CTG) grant program.¹⁰ In 2000, the Legislature created the CTG grant program to improve health outcomes and eliminate racial and ethnic health disparities in Florida by providing grants to increase community-based health and disease prevention activities.¹¹

Grants are awarded for one year through a proposal process and may be renewed annually subject to the availability of funds and the grantee’s achievement of quality standards, objectives, and outcomes.¹² Proposals for grants must include:¹³

- The purpose and objectives of the proposed project, including the particular racial or ethnic disparity the project will address from one or more of the following priority areas:
 - Increasing adult and child immunization rates in certain racial and ethnic populations;
 - Improving neighborhood social determinates of health, such as transportation, safety, and food access, as outlined by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), or
 - Decreasing racial and ethnic disparities in:
 - Maternal and infant mortality rates;
 - Morbidity and mortality rates relating to cancer;
 - Morbidity and mortality rates relating to HIV/AIDS;
 - Morbidity and mortality rates relating to cardiovascular disease;
 - Morbidity and mortality rates relating to diabetes;
 - Morbidity and mortality rates relating to sickle cell disease;
 - Morbidity and mortality rates relating to Lupus; or
 - Oral health care.
- The target population and its relevance;
- Methods for obtaining baseline health status data and assessment of community health needs;
- Mechanisms for mobilizing community resources and gaining local commitment;
- Development and implementation of health promotion and disease prevention interventions;
- Mechanisms and strategies for evaluating the project’s objectives, procedures, and outcomes;
- A proposed work plan, including a timeline for implementing the project; and
- The likelihood that project activities will occur and continue in the absence of funding.¹⁴

As the head of the Office, the Senior Health Equity Officer is required to:¹⁵

- Administer the CTG grant program in a manner that maximizes the impact of the grants in achieving health equity;
- Evaluate the awarded grants to assess the effectiveness and efficiency of the use of funds and to determine best practices;
- Disseminate information on best practices to stakeholders; and
- Ensure that the assessments inform future grant award decisions.

- Publicizing the availability of funds and establishing an application process for submitting a grant proposal.
- Providing technical assistance and training, including a statewide meeting promoting best practice programs, as requested, to grant recipients.
- Developing uniform data reporting requirements for the purpose of evaluating the performance of the grant recipients and demonstrating improved health outcomes.
- Developing a monitoring process to evaluate progress toward meeting grant objectives.
- Coordinating with existing community-based programs, such as chronic disease community intervention programs, cancer prevention and control programs, diabetes control programs, the Healthy Start program, the Florida Kidcare Program, the HIV/AIDS program, immunization programs, and other related programs at the state and local levels, to avoid duplication of effort and promote consistency.

Implementation of the CTG grant program is subject to a specific appropriation provided in the General Appropriations Act.¹⁷

Minority Health Liaisons

The Office relies on county health departments and other programs within the DOH to achieve its goals.¹⁸ The minority health liaisons (MHLs), comprised of a representative from each of the 67 county health departments, are the link between local communities and the Office.¹⁹

The objective of the Office and the MHLs is to improve the health of all residents and visitors across Florida, primarily through increasing public awareness of the importance of minority health and partnering initiatives focused on minority health issues statewide.²⁰ The Office helps to facilitate these partnerships by coordinating with county health departments, central office divisions/bureaus, and statewide stakeholders, and providing technical assistance to the MHLs on issues related to minority health, health disparities, and other health issues within the state.²¹

Key components of the Office-MHL partnership include:²²

- Sharing information on minority health and health disparities;
- Coordinating events, such as Take a Loved One to the Doctor Day, National Minority Health Month, and other nationally recognized observances;
- Promoting state and local activities and events to raise awareness of programs and services available to minorities and the underserved populations; and
- Helping meet the mission of the DOH by achieving its primary responsibilities in eliminating health disparities.

The Office's Website

Currently, there are no statutory requirements relating to the maintenance of the Office's website, including what information should be maintained on it or how often it should be updated.

- Required the Office to promote, rather than conduct, develop, or implement, specified activities;
- Removed Office requirements that are outside of the Department of Health's (DOH) statutory authority; and
