I. Summary:

SB 350 creates s. 782.41, F.S., to require law enforcement agencies to review certain cold cases upon receiving a written application from a designated person if the murder occurred on or after January 1, 1970. The bill provides definitions for terms used in this section such as “cold case,” “designated person,” and “probative lead.”

The bill provides criteria for the review of a cold case, and requires a law enforcement agency to conduct a full reinvestigation if the review concludes that a reinvestigation may result in previously unidentified probative leads or in the identification of a likely perpetrator.

The bill requires each law enforcement agency to develop a written application. The head of each law enforcement agency must adopt procedures by July 1, 2025. Law enforcement employees and officers must be trained on the procedures. The bill requires the law enforcement agency to issue a confirmation of receipt of the written application. A cold case that does not meet the specifications must be denied and a written explanation be given to the designated person.

A review must take place no later than 1 year after receipt of a written application but allows a one-time only 6 month extension if the law enforcement agency finds that the number of cases to review makes compliance with this time limit impracticable without diverting resources from other law enforcement activities.

The bill requires each law enforcement agency to submit a report by October 1, 2025, and at least quarterly thereafter to the Global Forensic and Justice Center at Florida International University. The bill requires the Global Forensic and Justice Center to establish and maintain a case tracking system and provides criteria for such system.

The bill requires law enforcement agencies to coordinate a review or reinvestigation if more than one agency conducted the initial investigation of a cold case, and prohibits a full reinvestigation to be conducted solely by the person who previously investigated the murder. The bill provides limitations to reinvestigations.

The bill is titled the “Decker-Backmann Act.”

The bill may have an indeterminate fiscal impact. See Section V. Fiscal Impact Statement.

The bill is effective July 1, 2025.

II. Present Situation:

Experience has shown that cold case programs can solve a substantial number of violent crime cold cases. Advances in DNA technologies have substantially increased the successful DNA analysis of aged, degraded, limited, or otherwise compromised biological evidence. As a result, crime scene samples once thought to be unsuitable for testing may now yield DNA profiles.¹

The Cold Case Advisory Commission, under the Florida Sheriff’s Association, meets quarterly to discuss strategies and hear cold case murder presentations from submitting law enforcement agencies. When cases are presented, advice regarding investigative steps and legal strategy may be offered to the case officer.²

The Commission is comprised of the following members:

- A Chair, who is a sheriff, appointed by the president;
- Two Vice-Chairs, who are sheriffs, appointed by the Chair;
- A medical examiner;
- A medical examiner investigator;
- A DNA scientist;
- 12 homicide investigators, crime scene techs, and other specialists;
- An assistant statewide prosecutor;
- A state attorney;
- A representative from the Attorney General’s Office;
- An FDLE Missing and Endangered Persons Information Clearinghouse representative;
- A Florida Department of Corrections representative;
- An FDLE Florida Fusion Center representative;
- A forensic anthropologist;
- A judge;
- A legal advisor;
- An FDLE Office of Statewide Intelligence representative; and
- A citizen.³

Currently there is no state-wide procedure in statute regarding cold cases.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill creates s. 782.41, F.S., to require law enforcement agencies to review certain cold cases upon receiving a written application from a designated person if the murder occurred on or after January 1, 1970.

The bill provides definitions for cold case,⁴ designated person,⁵ immediate family member,⁶ law enforcement agency,⁷ murder,⁸ probative lead,⁹ and victim.¹⁰

The bill provides criteria for the review of a cold case. A law enforcement agency must conduct a full reinvestigation if the review concludes that a reinvestigation may result in previously unidentified probative leads or in the identification of a likely perpetrator.

A review must include:

- An analysis of any investigative procedures that may have been absent or missed in the initial investigation;
- An assessment of whether witnesses should be interviewed or reinterviewed;
- An examination of physical evidence to determine whether all appropriate forensic testing and analyses were performed in the initial investigation and whether additional testing might produce relevant information; and,
- An update of the case file using the most current investigative standards, if such standards may help develop probative leads.

The bill prohibits a full reinvestigation to be conducted solely by the person who previously investigated the murder, and limits reinvestigations to only one full reinvestigation undertaken at any time with respect to the same victim. If a full reinvestigation is completed and a likely perpetrator is not identified, an additional review or full investigation may not be undertaken for a period of 5 years beginning from the date of the conclusion of the reinvestigation, unless materially significant evidence is discovered.

⁴ “Cold case” means a murder for which no likely perpetrator has been identified and was committed more than 5 years before the date of the application requesting a review submitted by a designated person, that was previously investigated by a law enforcement agency, and for which all probative leads have been exhausted.

⁵ “Designated person” means an immediate family member or an immediate family member’s designated legal representative, which representative must be a member in good standing of The Florida Bar.

⁷ “Law enforcement agency” means a law enforcement agency with the jurisdiction to engage in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of a cold case.

⁸ “Murder” means any criminal offense provided under s. 782.04, s. 782.071, or s. 782.072, F.S.

⁹ “Probative lead” means evidence that is sufficiently useful to prove an element of the crime and that was not identified or determined as part of the previous investigation by a law enforcement agency.

¹⁰ “Victim” means an individual who was murdered and whose case has been designated as a cold case.

The bill requires each law enforcement agency to develop a written application. The head of each law enforcement agency must adopt procedures by July 1, 2025. The bill requires law enforcement employees and officers to be trained on the procedures.

The law enforcement agency must issue a confirmation of receipt of the written application.¹¹ A cold case that does not meet the specifications must be denied and a written explanation be given to the designated person.

The bill provides a review must take place no later than 1 year after receipt of a written application but allows a one-time only 6 month extension if the law enforcement agency finds that the number of cases to review makes compliance with this time limit impracticable without diverting resources from other law enforcement activities. If extended, the agency must provide notice and explanation of its reasoning for the extension to the designated person.

Each law enforcement agency must submit a report by October 1, 2025, and at least quarterly thereafter to the Global Forensic and Justice Center at Florida International University. The bill requires the Global Forensic and Justice Center to establish and maintain a case tracking system and provides criteria for such system.

The bill requires law enforcement agencies to coordinate a review or reinvestigation if more than one agency conducted the initial investigation of a cold case.

The bill provides the operation of such is subject to the availability of funds specifically appropriated by the Legislature or other relevant political subdivision of this state.

The bill allows for a medical examiner to issue a death certificate with a nonspecific cause of death and manner of murder if determined that the release of such information would not hinder the murder investigation.

The bill is titled the “Decker-Backmann Act.”

The bill is effective July 1, 2025.
