SUBJECT OVERVIEW:

Local Business Tax

The local business tax authorized in Chapter 205, F.S., represents the fees charged and the method by which a local government authority grants the privilege of engaging in or managing any business, profession, or occupation within its jurisdiction.² Counties and municipalities may levy a business tax, and the tax proceeds are treated as general revenue for the local government.³ This tax does not refer to any regulatory fee or license paid to any board, commission, or officer for permits, registration, examination, or inspection.⁴

Local business taxes are sometimes colloquially referred to as “business tax receipts.”⁵ The term “receipt” refers to the document issued by the local governing authority that bears the words “Local Business Tax Receipt” and evidences that the person in whose name the document is issued has complied with the provisions of Chapter 205, F.S., relating to the business tax.⁶ The taxes are due and payable on or before September 30 of each year, and the receipts expire on September 30 of the succeeding year.⁷

A business may owe local business taxes at both the county and municipal level. Section 205.065, F.S. limits other local governments from levying a business tax when a business regulated by the Department of Business and Professional Regulation is performing a temporary or transitory work of service and that business has paid business tax in the county or municipality in which it has a permanent location.

History of Local Business Taxes

Prior to 1972, the state imposed an occupational license tax and shared the revenues with the counties.⁸ Municipalities levied their own occupational license taxes pursuant to local ordinances or resolutions. Counties had no authority to levy an occupational license tax until October 1, 1972, when Chapter 72-306, L.O.F., repealed the state tax and authorized both counties and cities to impose an occupational tax at the state or city rate then in effect. This system was codified under what was then known as the Local Occupational License Act. Chapter 2006-152, L.O.F., renamed the “Local Occupational License Tax Act” to the “Local Business Tax Act,” to clarify that the tax is purely a revenue measure and does not certify professional qualifications.

Local Business Tax Revenues

The revenues derived from the business tax imposed by county governments, exclusive of the costs of collection and any credit given for municipal business taxes, are apportioned between the county’s unincorporated area and the incorporated municipalities located within the county by a ratio derived by dividing each jurisdiction’s population by the county’s total population.⁹ Within 15 days following the month of receipt, the apportioned revenues are sent to each governing authority; however, this provision does not apply to counties that have established a new rate structure pursuant to s. 205.0535, F.S.¹⁰

The tax proceeds are considered general revenue for the county or municipality. Additionally, county business tax proceeds may be used to oversee and implement a comprehensive economic development strategy through advertising, promotional activities, and other sales and marketing techniques.¹¹

In Local Fiscal Year 2023-24, the most recent year for which preliminary data is available, counties collected a total of $27.5 million of local business tax revenue.¹² In that same Local Fiscal Year, municipalities (excluding Panama City and Panama City Beach) collected a total of $139.0 million of local business tax revenue. In Local Fiscal Year 2023-24, 255 municipalities and 35 counties reported collecting local business tax.¹³

Panama City and Panama City Beach Local Business Taxes

The cities of Panama City and Panama City Beach levy separate local business taxes on the gross sales of all retail and wholesale merchants within the municipal jurisdiction.¹⁴ These municipalities are the only local governments in Florida that levy a local business tax on the gross receipts of retail and wholesale merchants.

For retail merchants, the City of Panama City imposes a tax of $10 for each $1,000 (i.e. 1 percent) of gross sales with a minimum tax of $1.50 per month. The tax imposed on wholesale merchants is $0.50 for each $1,000 of gross sales, or major fraction thereof (i.e. 0.05 percent) with a minimum tax of $1.50 per month. The tax only applies to the first $5,000 collected by a merchant for any single item of merchandise. Panama City reported collecting $13.1 million in revenue Local Fiscal Year 2023-24.¹⁵

The City of Panama City Beach imposes a tax of $10 for each $1,000 (i.e. 1 percent) of gross sales with a minimum tax of $50 per year for retail merchants. The tax imposed on wholesale merchants is $1.50 for each $1,000 of gross sales, or major fraction thereof (i.e. 0.15 percent) with a minimum tax of $50 per year.¹⁶ Panama City Beach reported collecting $20.5 million in revenue Local Fiscal Year 2023-24.¹⁷
