a ceremonial or education purpose, promoting public recognition or awareness rather than the closure of public offices or suspension of activities, as may occur with legal⁶ or paid holidays.⁷

For example, November 7 of each year is designated as “Victims of Communism Day,” a special observance during which high school students must receive 45 minutes of instruction on the suffering endured by victims of communist regimes.⁸ By contrast, “Gasparilla Day” is a legal holiday observed only in Hillsborough County during which all city, county, and state offices, and banking institutions may remain closed at their discretion.⁹

There are currently 37 special observances¹⁰ and 26 legal holidays¹¹ established in law. The state recognizes nine paid holidays that are observed by all state branches and agencies.¹²
