465 8. The exempt status of a home address contained in the

494 Section 2. The Legislature finds that it is a public 495 necessity that the home addresses, telephone numbers, dates of 496 birth, and photographs of current and former private 497 investigators licensed by the Department of Agriculture and 498 Consumer Services; the names, home addresses, telephone numbers, 499 dates of birth, and places of employment of the spouses and 500 children of current and former private investigators licensed by 501 the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services; and the 502 names and locations of schools and day care facilities attended
503 by the children of current and former private investigators
504 licensed by the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services
505 be made exempt from s. 119.07(1), Florida Statutes, and s.
506 24(a), Article I of the State Constitution. Private 507 investigators routinely engage in sensitive work that may 508 involve uncovering fraud, locating missing persons, or assisting 509 in criminal and civil matters. In the course of their duties, 510 private investigators often interact with individuals who have 511 strong motives to retaliate or cause harm. Public access to a
512 private investigator's home address or personal information
513 could expose private investigators and their families to 514 threats, harassment, stalking, or physical violence. Protecting 515 this information does not diminish transparency or 516 accountability in government but instead balances the public's 517 right to access records with this state's compelling interest in 518 safeguarding the personal safety of those who provide critical 519 private investigative services. Therefore, exempting such 520 information from public records requirements is a reasonable and 521 necessary measure to ensure the security and privacy of private 522 investigators and their families while preserving the integrity

13-00633-26

523 of this state's public records system.

524 Section 3. This act shall take effect July 1, 2026.
