Section 17. Subsection (9) of section 101.151, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

101.151 Specifications for ballots.—

(9)(a) The Department of State shall adopt rules prescribing a uniform primary and general election ballot for each certified voting system. The rules shall incorporate the requirements set forth in this section and shall prescribe additional matters and forms that include, without limitation:

1. The ballot title followed by clear and unambiguous ballot instructions and directions limited to a single location on the ballot, either:

- a. Centered across the top of the ballot; or
- b. In the leftmost column, with no individual races in that column unless it is the only column on the ballot;
2. Individual race layout; and
3. Overall ballot layout; ~~and~~
4. ~~Oval vote targets as the only permissible type of vote target, except as provided in s. 101.56075.~~

(b) The rules must graphically depict a sample uniform primary and general election ballot form for each certified voting system.

Section 18. Paragraph (a) of subsection (4) and subsection (8) of section 101.5614, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

101.5614 Canvass of returns.—

(4)(a) If any vote-by-mail ballot is physically damaged so that it cannot properly be counted by the voting system’s automatic tabulating equipment, a true duplicate copy shall be made of the damaged ballot in an open and accessible room in the presence of witnesses and substituted for the damaged ballot. Likewise, a duplicate ballot shall be made of a vote-by-mail ballot containing an overvoted race if there is a clear indication on the ballot that the voter has made a definite choice in the overvoted race or ballot measure. A duplicate shall include all valid votes as determined by the canvassing board based on rules adopted by the division pursuant to s. 102.166(4). A duplicate may be made of a ballot containing an undervoted race or ballot measure if there is a clear indication on the ballot that the voter has made a definite choice in the undervoted race or ballot measure. A duplicate may not include a vote if the voter’s intent in such race or on such measure is not clear. Upon request, a physically present candidate, a political party official, a political committee official, or an authorized designee thereof, must be allowed to observe the duplication of ballots upon signing an affidavit affirming his or her acknowledgment that disclosure of election results discerned from observing the ballot duplication process while the election is ongoing is a felony, as provided under subsection (8). The observer must be allowed to observe the duplication of ballots in such a way that the observer is able to see the markings on each ballot and the duplication taking place. All duplicate ballots must be clearly labeled “duplicate,” bear a serial number which shall be recorded on the defective ballot, and be counted in lieu of the defective ballot. The duplication of ballots must happen in the presence of at least one canvassing board member. After a ballot has been duplicated, the defective ballot shall be placed in an envelope provided for that purpose, and the duplicate ballot shall be tallied with the other ballots for that precinct. If any observer makes a reasonable objection to a duplicate of a ballot, the ballot must be presented to the canvassing board for a determination of the validity of the duplicate. The canvassing board must document the serial number of the ballot in the canvassing board’s minutes. The canvassing board must decide whether the duplication is valid. If the duplicate ballot is determined to be valid, the duplicate ballot must be counted. If the duplicate ballot is determined to be invalid, the duplicate ballot must be rejected and a proper duplicate ballot must be made and counted in lieu of the original.

(8) Any supervisor of elections, deputy supervisor of elections, canvassing board member, election board member, ~~or~~ election employee, or other person authorized to observe, review, or inspect ballot materials or observe canvassing who releases any information about votes cast for or against any candidate or ballot measure or any ~~the~~ results of any election before ~~prior to~~ the closing of the polls in that county on election day commits a felony of the third degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

Section 19. Subsections (1) and (6) of section 101.6103, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

101.6103 Mail ballot election procedure.—

(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (7), the supervisor of elections shall mail all official ballots with a secrecy envelope, a return mailing envelope, and instructions sufficient to describe the voting process to each elector entitled to vote in the election within the time-frames specified in s. 101.62(4) not sooner than the 20th day before the election and not later than the 10th day before the date of the election. All such ballots shall be mailed by first-class mail. Ballots shall be addressed to each elector at the address appearing in the registration records and placed in an envelope which is prominently marked “Do Not Forward.”

(6) The canvassing board may begin the canvassing of mail ballots as provided by s. 101.68(2)(a). The criminal penalty specified in that paragraph for the release of results before 7 p.m. on election day is also applicable to canvassing conducted under this act at 7 a.m. on the sixth day before the election, including processing the ballots through the tabulating equipment. However, results may not be released until after 7 p.m. on election day. Any canvassing board member or election employee who releases any result before 7 p.m. on election day commits a felony of the third degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082, s. 775.083, or s. 775.084.

Section 20. Section 101.65, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

101.65 Instructions to absent electors.—The supervisor shall enclose with each vote-by-mail ballot separate printed instructions in substantially the following form; however, where the instructions appear in capitalized text, the text of the printed instructions must be in bold font:

READ THESE INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY BEFORE MARKING BALLOT.

1. VERY IMPORTANT. In order to ensure that your vote-by-mail ballot will be counted, it should be completed and returned as soon as possible so that it can reach the supervisor of elections of the county in which your precinct is located no later than 7 p.m. on the day of the election. However, if you are an overseas voter casting a ballot in a presidential preference primary or general election, your vote-by-mail ballot must be postmarked or dated no later than the date of the election and received by the supervisor of elections of the county in which you are registered to vote no later than 10 days after the date of the election. Note that the later you return your ballot, the less time you will have to cure any signature deficiencies, which is authorized until 5 p.m. on the 2nd day after the election.

2. Mark your ballot in secret as instructed on the ballot. You must mark your own ballot unless you are unable to do so because of blindness, disability, or inability to read or write.

3. Mark only the number of candidates or issue choices for a race as indicated on the ballot. If you are allowed to “Vote for One” candidate and you vote for more than one candidate, your vote in that race will not be counted.

4. Place your marked ballot in the enclosed secrecy envelope.

5. Insert the secrecy envelope into the enclosed mailing envelope which is addressed to the supervisor.

6. Seal the mailing envelope and completely fill out the Voter’s Certificate on the back of the mailing envelope.

7. VERY IMPORTANT. In order for your vote-by-mail ballot to be counted, you must sign your name on the line above (Voter’s Signature). A vote-by-mail ballot will be considered illegal and not be counted if the signature on the voter’s certificate does not match the signature on record. The signature on file at the time the supervisor of elections in the county in which your precinct is located receives your vote-by-mail ballot is the signature that will be used to verify your signature on the voter’s certificate. If you need to update your signature for this election, send your signature update on a voter registration application to your supervisor of elections so that it is received before your vote-by-mail ballot is received.

8. VERY IMPORTANT. If you are an overseas voter, you must include the date you signed the Voter’s Certificate on the line above (Date) or your ballot may not be counted.

9. Mail, deliver, or have delivered the completed mailing envelope. Be sure there is sufficient postage if mailed. THE COMPLETED MAILING ENVELOPE CAN BE DELIVERED TO THE OFFICE OF THE SUPERVISOR OF ELECTIONS OF THE COUNTY IN WHICH YOUR PRECINCT IS LOCATED OR DROPPED OFF AT AN AUTHORIZED SECURE BALLOT INTAKE STATION DROP BOX, AVAILABLE AT EACH EARLY VOTING LOCATION.

10. FELONY NOTICE. It is a felony under Florida law to accept any gift, payment, or gratuity in exchange for your vote for a candidate. It is also a felony under Florida law to vote in an election using a false identity or false address, or under any other circumstances making your ballot false or fraudulent.

Section 21. Subsection (1) of section 101.655, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

101.655 Supervised voting by absent electors in certain facilities.—

(1) The supervisor of elections of a county shall provide supervised voting for absent electors residing in any assisted living facility, as defined in s. 429.02, or nursing home facility, as defined in s. 400.021, within that county at the request of any administrator of such a facility. Such request for supervised voting in the facility shall be made by submitting a written request to the supervisor of elections no later than 28 ~~21~~ days prior to the election for which that request is submitted. The request shall specify the name and address of the facility and the name of the electors who wish to vote by mail in that election. If the request contains the names of fewer than five voters, the supervisor of elections is not required to provide supervised voting.

Section 22. Subsections (2) and (3) of section 101.69, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

101.69 Voting in person; return of vote-by-mail ballot.—

(2)(a) The supervisor shall allow an elector who has received a vote-by-mail ballot to physically return a voted vote-by-mail ballot to the supervisor by placing the return mail envelope containing his or her marked ballot in a secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~. Secure ballot intake stations ~~drop-boxes~~ shall be placed at the main office of the supervisor, at each permanent branch office of the supervisor, and at each early voting site. Secure ballot intake stations ~~drop-boxes~~ may also be placed at any other site that would otherwise qualify as an early voting site under s. 101.657(1). Secure ballot intake stations ~~Drop-boxes~~ must be geographically located so as to provide all voters in the county with an equal opportunity to cast a ballot, insofar as is practicable. Except for secure ballot intake stations ~~drop-boxes~~ at an office of the supervisor, a secure ballot intake station at an early voting site ~~drop-box~~ may only be used during the county's early voting hours of operation and must be monitored in person by an employee of the supervisor's office. A secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ at an office of the supervisor must be continuously monitored in person by an employee of the supervisor's office when the secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ is accessible for deposit of ballots.

(b) A supervisor shall designate each secure ballot intake station location ~~drop-box site~~ at least 30 days before an election. The supervisor shall provide the address of each secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ location to the division at least 30 days before an election. After a secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ location has been designated, it may not be moved or changed except as approved by the division to correct a violation of this subsection.

(c)1. On each day of early voting, all secure ballot intake stations ~~drop-boxes~~ must be emptied at the end of early voting hours and all ballots retrieved from the secure ballot intake stations ~~drop-boxes~~ must be returned to the supervisor's office.

2. For secure ballot intake stations ~~drop-boxes~~ located at an office of the supervisor, all ballots must be retrieved before the secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ is no longer monitored by an employee of the supervisor.

3. Employees of the supervisor must comply with procedures for the chain of custody of ballots as required by s. 101.015(4).

(3) If any secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ is left accessible for ballot receipt other than as authorized by this section, the supervisor is subject to a civil penalty of $25,000. The division is authorized to enforce this provision.

Section 23. Paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of section 102.031, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

102.031 Maintenance of good order at polls; authorities; persons allowed in polling rooms and early voting areas; unlawful solicitation of voters.—

(4)(a) No person, political committee, or other group or organization may solicit voters inside the polling place or within 150 feet of a secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ or the entrance to any polling place, a polling room where the polling place is also a polling room, an early voting site, or an office of the supervisor where vote-by-mail ballots are requested and printed on demand for the convenience of electors who appear in person to request them. Before the opening of a secure ballot intake station ~~drop-box~~ location, a polling place, or an early voting site, the clerk or supervisor shall designate the no-solicitation zone and mark the boundaries.

Section 24. Section 102.091, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

102.091 Duty of sheriff to watch for violations; appointment of special officers.—

(1) The sheriff shall exercise strict vigilance in the detection of any violations of the election laws and in apprehending the violators.

(2) The Governor, in consultation with the executive director of the Department of Law Enforcement, shall ~~may~~ appoint special officers to investigate alleged violations of the election laws, ~~when it is deemed necessary~~ to see that violators of the election laws are apprehended and punished. A special officer must be a sworn special agent employed by the Department of Law Enforcement. At least one special officer must be designated in each operational region of the Department of Law Enforcement to serve as a dedicated investigator of alleged violations of the election laws. Appointment as a special officer does not preclude a sworn special agent from conducting other investigations of alleged violations of law, provided that such other investigations do not hinder or interfere with the individual's ability to investigate alleged violations of the election laws.

Section 25. Section 102.101, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

Senator Gruters moved the following substitute amendment which was adopted:

Substitute Amendment 2 (536442) (with title amendment)—Delete lines 252-485 and insert:

~~(4) For purposes of determining alimony, there is a rebuttable presumption that a short term marriage is a marriage having a duration of less than 7 years, a moderate term marriage is a marriage having a duration of greater than 7 years but less than 17 years, and long term marriage is a marriage having a duration of 17 years or greater. The length of a marriage is the period of time from the date of marriage until the date of filing of an action for dissolution of marriage.~~

(5) Bridge-the-gap alimony may be awarded to assist a party by providing support to allow the party to make a transition from being married to being single. Bridge-the-gap alimony is designed to assist a party with legitimate identifiable short-term needs, and the length of an award of bridge-the-gap alimony may not exceed 2 years. An award of bridge-the-gap alimony terminates upon the death of either party or upon the remarriage of the party receiving alimony. An award of bridge-the-gap alimony ~~is shall~~ not be modifiable in amount or duration.

(6)(a) Rehabilitative alimony may be awarded to assist a party in establishing the capacity for self-support through either:

1. The redevelopment of previous skills or credentials; or
2. The acquisition of education, training, or work experience necessary to develop appropriate employment skills or credentials.

(b) In order to award rehabilitative alimony, there must be a specific and defined rehabilitative plan which shall be included as a part of any order awarding rehabilitative alimony.

(c) The length of an award of rehabilitative alimony may not exceed 5 years.

(d) An award of rehabilitative alimony may be modified or terminated in accordance with s. 61.14 based upon a substantial change in circumstances, upon noncompliance with the rehabilitative plan, or upon completion of the rehabilitative plan if the plan is completed before the length of the award of rehabilitative alimony expires.

~~(7)(a) Durational alimony may be awarded when permanent periodic alimony is inappropriate. The purpose of durational alimony is to provide a party with economic assistance for a set period of time following a marriage of short or moderate duration or following a marriage of long duration if there is no ongoing need for support on a permanent basis. An award of durational alimony terminates upon the death of either party or upon the remarriage of the party receiving alimony. The amount of an award of durational alimony may be modified or terminated based upon a substantial change in circumstances in accordance with s. 61.14. Durational alimony may not be awarded following a marriage lasting fewer than 3 years. However, the length of an award of durational alimony may not be modified except under exceptional circumstances and may not exceed 50 percent of the length of a the marriage lasting between 3 and 10 years, 60 percent of the length of a marriage lasting between 10 and 20 years, or 75 percent of the length of a marriage lasting 20 years or longer. However, if the party seeking alimony is either permanently mentally or physically disabled and unable to provide for his or her own support, either partially or fully, or is the full-time in-home caregiver to a fully and permanently mentally or physically disabled child who is common to the parties, the court may extend durational alimony beyond the thresholds established in this subsection based on the duration of the marriage until the death of the child or until the court determines that there is no longer a need for durational alimony. For purposes of this subsection, the length of a marriage is the period of time beginning on the date of marriage and ending on the date an action for dissolution of marriage is filed. When awarding durational alimony, the court must make written findings that an award of another type of alimony, or a combination of the other forms of alimony, is insufficient.~~

(b) The amount of durational alimony is the amount determined to be the obligee's reasonable need or an amount not to exceed 35 percent of the difference between the parties' net incomes, whichever amount is less.

(c) In determining the length of an award of durational alimony, the court shall reduce the length of an award of durational alimony for the length of time during which the obligor made temporary support payments to the obligee, either voluntarily or pursuant to a court order, after the date of filing of a petition for dissolution of marriage.

(d) In determining the extent to which alimony should be granted because a supportive relationship exists or has existed between the party seeking alimony and another person who is not related by consanguinity or affinity at any time since 180 days before the filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage, the court shall consider all relevant factors presented concerning the nature and extent of the supportive relationship in question. The burden is on the obligor to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that a supportive relationship exists. If a supportive relationship is proven to exist, the burden shifts to the obligee to disprove by a preponderance of the evidence that the court should deny or reduce the initial award of alimony. The court must make written findings of fact concerning the circumstances of the supportive relationship, including, but not limited to, the factors set forth in s. 61.14(1)(b)2.

(e) In the event that the obligor reaches full retirement age as determined by the Social Security Administration before the end of the durational period indicated by paragraph (a), and has reached at least 65 years of age, the durational alimony shall end on such retirement date if all of the following conditions are met:

1. The obligor files a notice of retirement and intent to terminate alimony with the court and personally serves the alimony recipient and his or her last known attorney of record, if such attorney is still practicing in the same county, at least 1 year before the date that the obligor's retirement is intended to become effective.

2. The obligee has not contested the notice of retirement and intent to terminate alimony according to the factors specified in s. 61.14(12)(b) or the court has determined that such factors do not apply. If the court makes any of the findings specified in s. 61.14(12)(b), the court must consider and make written findings regarding the factors listed in s. 61.14(12)(c) to determine whether to extend the length of the alimony award as set forth in s. 61.08(7)(a).

However, if the obligor continues to work beyond his or her retirement age as provided under this paragraph and earns active gross income of more than 50 percent of the obligor's average preretirement annual active gross income for the 3 years preceding his or her retirement age, the court may extend alimony until the durational limitations established in this subsection have been satisfied or the obligor retires and reduces his or her active gross income below the 50 percent threshold established in this paragraph.

(8)(a) A party against whom alimony is sought who has attained his or her full retirement age as determined by the Social Security Administration before the adjudication of the petition for dissolution of marriage may not be ordered to pay bridge-the-gap, rehabilitative, or durational alimony, unless the court determines that:

1. As a result of the dissolution of marriage, the party seeking alimony would have an income of less than 130 percent of the federal poverty guidelines for a one-person household, as published by the United States Department of Health and Human Services, based on the income and investable assets available after the dissolution is final, including any retirement assets from which the obligee can access income without incurring early withdrawal penalties;

2. The party seeking alimony would be left with the inability to meet his or her basic needs and necessities of life, including, but not limited to, housing, utilities, food, and transportation; or

3. The party seeking alimony is the full-time in-home caregiver to a fully and permanently mentally or physically disabled child who is common to the parties, or the party is permanently and mentally or physically disabled and unable to provide for his or her own support, either partially or fully.

(b) However, if the obligor continues to work beyond his or her retirement age as provided under this subsection and earns active gross income of more than 50 percent of the obligor's average preretirement annual active gross income for the 3 years preceding his or her retirement age, the court may award durational alimony until the durational limitations established in subsection (7) have been satisfied or the obligor retires and reduces his or her active gross income below the 50 percent threshold established in this paragraph.

(9) Notwithstanding any other law, alimony may not be awarded to a party who has a monthly net income that is equal to or more than the other party's monthly net income.

(10) Social security retirement benefits may not be imputed to the obligor as demonstrated by a social security retirement benefits entitlement letter unless those benefits are actually being paid.

(11) If the obligee alleges that a physical disability has impaired his or her capability to earn income, the obligee must have qualified for benefits under the Social Security Administration Disability Insurance Program or, in the event the obligee is not eligible for the program, must demonstrate that his or her disability meets the disability qualification standards of the Social Security Administration Disability Insurance Program.

~~(8) Permanent alimony may be awarded to provide for the needs and necessities of life as they were established during the marriage of the parties for a party who lacks the financial ability to meet his or her needs and necessities of life following a dissolution of marriage. Permanent alimony may be awarded following a marriage of long duration if such an award is appropriate upon consideration of the factors set forth in subsection (2), following a marriage of moderate duration if such an award is appropriate based upon clear and convincing evidence after consideration of the factors set forth in subsection (2), or following a marriage of short duration if there are written findings of exceptional circumstances. In awarding permanent alimony, the court shall include a finding that no other form of alimony is fair and reasonable under the~~

~~circumstances of the parties. An award of permanent alimony terminates upon the death of either party or upon the remarriage of the party receiving alimony. An award may be modified or terminated based upon a substantial change in circumstances or upon the existence of a supportive relationship in accordance with s. 61.14.~~

~~(9) The award of alimony may not leave the payor with significantly less net income than the net income of the recipient unless there are written findings of exceptional circumstances.~~

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by Pastor Brad Clayton, Faith Presbyterian Church, Tallahassee:

Holy God, as we arise and receive the gift of this new day, we pause and think of the days that have gone by—the moments that we have had to live together, to work together, and to accomplish much—days, weeks, and years. We look back at those days and think of all that we have taken for granted.

How often, O God, have we taken for granted the gifts that you give us? How often have we taken for granted the loved ones that are no longer with us? How often have we taken for granted food, water, shelter, air? How often have we taken for granted those who serve our communities—public servants, police officers, those who teach our children, those who collect our garbage, those who clean our community, and those who keep us healthy? How long have we taken for granted our country, our freedom, and those who protect those freedoms? How long have we taken for granted our families, our children, our neighbors? How long have we taken each other for granted? How long have we taken you for granted, O God? How many days and moments are lost that can never be relived again?

As we arise and receive the gift of this day, may we not take it for granted. Let us use this day and its moments to the fullest. May we not waste time. May we use this day to work together. May we use this day to serve each other. May we use this day to say, “I love you” to those who need to hear it and not wait one more moment. May we use this day to help those in need and love our neighbor as ourselves. May we use this day to say thank you—thank you for this day and all the ones before it.

We are thankful, O God, for all of our moments. And we hope you will guide us to use each gift—each moment—for the greater good. This we pray in the name of the one who loves us, who provides for us, and will never let us go. Amen.

Pending further consideration of CS for SB 1436, pursuant to Rule 3.11(3), there being no objection, CS for HB 615 was withdrawn from the Committee on Appropriations.

CS for HB 615—A bill to be entitled An act relating to human trafficking; amending s. 16.618, F.S.; deleting an obsolete provision; requiring the direct-support organization of the Statewide Council on Human Trafficking to develop certain training for firesafety inspectors; providing that such training is eligible for continuing education credits; providing an effective date.

—a companion measure, was substituted for CS for SB 1436 and read the second time by title.

Senator Garcia moved the following amendment which was adopted:

Amendment 1 (504356) (with title amendment)—Delete everything after the enacting clause and insert:

Section 1. Present paragraphs (b) through (e) of subsection (4) of section 16.617, Florida Statutes, are redesignated as paragraphs (c) through (f), respectively, and a new paragraph (b) is added to that subsection, to read:

16.617 Statewide Council on Human Trafficking; creation; membership; duties.—

(4) DUTIES.—The council shall:

(b) Assess the frequency and extent to which social media platforms are used to assist, facilitate, or support human trafficking within this state, establish a process to detect such use on a consistent basis, and make recommendations on how to stop, reduce, or prevent social media platforms from being used for such purposes. To the extent that these objectives can be achieved under existing laws, the council must implement a system to do so without undue delay.

Section 2. Paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of section 16.618, Florida Statutes, is amended, and paragraph (f) is added to that subsection, to read:

16.618 Direct-support organization.—

(b) Recognizing that this state hosts large-scale events, including sporting events, concerts, and cultural events, which generate significant tourism to this state, produce significant economic revenue, and often are conduits for human trafficking, the institute must develop training that is available ready for statewide dissemination ~~by not later than October 1, 2019.~~

1. Training must focus on detecting human trafficking, best practices for reporting human trafficking, and the interventions and treatment for survivors of human trafficking.

2. In developing the training, the institute shall consult with law enforcement agencies, survivors of human trafficking, industry representatives, tourism representatives, and other interested parties. The institute also must conduct research to determine the reduction in recidivism attributable to the education of the harms of human trafficking for first-time offenders.

(f) The direct-support organization shall develop training for fire-safety inspectors in the recognition and reporting of human trafficking. Such training is eligible for continuing education credit under s. 633.216(4).

Section 3. Paragraph (e) is added to subsection (14) of section 409.175, Florida Statutes, to read:

409.175 Licensure of family foster homes, residential child-caring agencies, and child-placing agencies; public records exemption.—

(14)

(e)1. In addition to any other preservice training required by law, foster parents, as a condition of licensure, and agency staff must successfully complete preservice training related to human trafficking which must be uniform statewide and must include, but need not be limited to:

a. Basic information on human trafficking, such as an understanding of relevant terminology, and the differences between sex trafficking and labor trafficking;

b. Factors and knowledge on identifying children at risk of human trafficking; and

c. Steps that should be taken to prevent at-risk youths from becoming victims of human trafficking.

2. Foster parents, before licensure renewal, and agency staff, during each full year of employment, must complete inservice training related to human trafficking to satisfy the training requirement under subparagraph (5)(b)7.

Section 4. For the purpose of incorporating the amendment made by this act to section 409.175, Florida Statutes, in a reference thereto, paragraph (e) of subsection (3) of section 63.092, Florida Statutes, is reenacted to read:

63.092 Report to the court of intended placement by an adoption entity; at-risk placement; preliminary study.—

(3) PRELIMINARY HOME STUDY.—Before placing the minor in the intended adoptive home, a preliminary home study must be performed by a licensed child-placing agency, a child-caring agency registered under s. 409.176, a licensed professional, or an agency described in s. 61.20(2), unless the adoptee is an adult or the petitioner is a stepparent or a relative. If the adoptee is an adult or the petitioner is a stepparent or a relative, a preliminary home study may be required by the court for good cause shown. The department is required to perform the preliminary home study only if there is no licensed child-placing agency, child-caring agency registered under s. 409.176, licensed professional, or agency described in s. 61.20(2), in the county where the prospective adoptive parents reside. The preliminary home study must be made to determine the suitability of the intended adoptive parents and may be completed before identification of a prospective adoptive minor. If the identified prospective adoptive minor is in the custody of the department, a preliminary home study must be completed within 30 days after it is initiated. A favorable preliminary home study is valid for 1 year after the date of its completion. Upon its completion, a signed copy of the home study must be provided to the intended adoptive parents who were the subject of the home study. A minor may not be placed in an intended adoptive home before a favorable preliminary home study is completed unless the adoptive home is also a licensed foster home under s. 409.175. The preliminary home study must include, at a minimum:

(e) Documentation of counseling and education of the intended adoptive parents on adoptive parenting, as determined by the entity conducting the preliminary home study. The training specified in s. 409.175(14) shall only be required for persons who adopt children from the department.

If the preliminary home study is favorable, a minor may be placed in the home pending entry of the judgment of adoption. A minor may not be placed in the home if the preliminary home study is unfavorable. If the preliminary home study is unfavorable, the adoption entity may, within 20 days after receipt of a copy of the written recommendation, petition the court to determine the suitability of the intended adoptive home. A determination as to suitability under this subsection does not act as a presumption of suitability at the final hearing. In determining the suitability of the intended adoptive home, the court must consider the totality of the circumstances in the home. A minor may not be placed in a home in which there resides any person determined by the court to be a sexual predator as defined in s. 775.21 or to have been convicted of an offense listed in s. 63.089(4)(b)2.

Section 5. This act shall take effect July 1, 2022.

And the title is amended as follows:

Delete everything before the enacting clause and insert: A bill to be entitled An act relating to human trafficking; amending s. 16.617, F.S.; providing the Statewide Council on Human Trafficking with an additional duty; amending s. 16.618, F.S.; deleting an obsolete provision; requiring the direct-support organization of the Statewide Council on Human Trafficking to develop certain training for firesafety inspectors; providing that such training is eligible for continuing education credits; amending s. 409.175, F.S.; requiring foster parents and agency staff to complete preservice and inservice training related to human trafficking; reenacting s. 63.092(3)(e), F.S., relating to reports to the court of intended placement by an adoption entity, to incorporate the amendment made to s. 409.175, F.S., in a reference thereto; providing an effective date.

On motion by Senator Garcia, by two-thirds vote, CS for HB 615, as amended, was read the third time by title, passed, and certified to the House. The vote on passage was:

REMARKS

On motion by Senator Passidomo, by two-thirds vote, the following remarks were ordered spread upon the Journal.

Senator Mayfield: Members, I had an opportunity to serve with Chairman Stargel in the House, and we had quite a bit in common. We were both married to House members when we decided to run and they were termed out. The common theme that Kelli and I had when we shared our stories, is that we were just housewives. How could we possibly be in the House of Representatives? Much less in the Senate? How could we possibly have chairmanships, or powerful chairmanships? Because we were just House members. I mean, we were just housewives. You know, we had kids—go home, raise your kids, take care of them. People underestimate the power of women and they underestimate the power of mothers. If you want to get something done, you call a busy woman and she will make it happen because that's what her life has always been revolved around. She is the one that keeps the glue together at home, and I can attest that Chairman Stargel is about one of the strongest women I know. She takes on those tough issues, and I think she demonstrated that this past week on the tough issues that she takes on. She takes them on because she really, truly believes it. She believes it deep in her heart. She has had those experiences, and she knows what it's like for other women and her constituents in general and the struggles that they have. You know, I could just go on and on about Kelli, but I will tell you this, Kathleen, you are her best friend. We were just sharing this last night—you know that you have a best girlfriend whenever they tell you, "Take that suit off and burn it! Never wear it again!" There's not a lot of people that would say that to Chairman Stargel, but you are her best friend. And to her family, she loves her family more than anything. If you noticed in the pictures in the video, her biggest smiles were when she was with her family and mainly with her grandchildren. Being a new grandmother myself, you never know what that joy is like, to have a grandchild, until you have one. If we had known they would have been so much fun first, we would have had them first. Kelli, you are going to be so missed; your smile in the mornings, no matter how late we stay at night; the energy that you have is just unbelievable; the strength that you have; that you can say what's on your mind and people will respect it. We know that there's been a couple of times with you and the President, sharing your mind. You're like brothers and sisters when you're in the room together. We are going to miss you and good luck on your next journey. I'm sure there's a lot out there that you're going to be able to accomplish.

Senator Boyd: Thank you, Mr. President and Chair Stargel. We, too, served in the House together. I was just a freshman and you were kind of an upperclassman. We looked up to you. You took on tough issues and you handled them with such style and grace. Then I had the opportunity, as you recall, of being Ways and Means Chair in the House, and you were my counterpart here in the Senate. What I liked about that relationship and what we did together so much was, it wasn't any bantering, it wasn't gamesmanship, it's you trying to get this and me trying to get that. We just sat down and you said let's do this together, let's figure it out. We did and I so much appreciate that. You're first of all, a child of God. You're a wonderful wife and a wonderful mother and grandmother. This process is definitely going to miss you. I will say this in closing—you are everything that is right about this process.

Senator Cruz: Chair Stargel, I am pretty positive that we have been on opposite ends of some of your fiercest legislation. I do want you to know this—I want you to know that I honestly and truly respect your passion for what you believe in. I've watched you answer questions unwavering. I've come at you with questions and you've remained composed. I hope that every time you had a tough committee where we asked tough questions, I always tried to make it a point to tell you afterward you did a good job. And you do. That's the way of the Senate—we can disagree and we can fight fiercely for what we believe in, but we should be leaving it on the field and understanding that we all represent Floridians. I appreciate the fact that you never held those tough questions against me. You answered them and we moved forward. We will miss you. We'll miss your style. We'll miss your passion. I hope that you go home and enjoy your grandchildren. Because grandchildren are God's reward for not having killed your own!

Senator Jones: Chair Stargel, you and I never had a relationship with each other even when I was in the House. It wasn't until last year when we were having a very difficult debate on—you know what bill it was—and you said something that was misinterpreted by people outside. I'll never forget, you came over to my desk and you and I shared some tears with each other because you just shared that that wasn't what you meant. Your heart that you presented to me then, I took that and I still look at you the same way to this day. Senator Pizzo said something yesterday that I really appreciated for those people who attack you based off the values that you stand firm on. And you're true to those values. You have a true, pure heart, and if they would only get to know you, they would know you're only really just following the values of what you truly believe in. As I speak directly to you, I wish you were here longer so we can continue to build that relationship. I'm so happy that I had the opportunity to serve with you. Continue to keep that value and continue to follow God's path. "Well done, thy good and faithful servant."

Senator Hutson: I just want to tell you, Senator Stargel, how much you're going to be missed. I say that not just because I have $45,000,000 unallocated in the budget right now, but because you've been a true inspiration to a lot of us in here. Here's some little known facts that people didn't know, but I'm going to share them with you now. Senator Stargel didn't drink until she got into the Florida Senate. That's a true fact. This process has beaten her down a little bit, and she's needed some medicine to get some sleep at night. You have kept it real the entire time in the Florida Senate. I know every time when we're in the lunchroom, and we start talking amongst ourselves about policy, you come in and say, "Oh, we're not going to do that." Or you come in and tell us why we shouldn't do that. You're kind of the voice of reason for all of us. We are going to miss that. There is nobody else that comes in and kind of keeps it real like you do. So, some of us are going to have to step up and be that Kelli Stargel next year, but it is very hard. The other little known fact—she did not like when I got elected because I'm younger than some of her kids. So it took me about four years to get her to actually listen to me. It was very hard for me to kind of break through to get this relationship and this bond with you. You are an inspiration to women everywhere; you're an inspiration to young, little girls everywhere. You have shown that strong, independent women can do something and matter in this world. You have taken on some tough legacy issues that will forever be ingrained in the history of Florida. We are going to miss you. Thank you for that.

Senator Pizzo: I noticed that your staff went with a picture of Beckham instead of me, but it's okay. The greatest compliment I ever get when things get heated or we're in a committee or we're in the chamber, is when a member of your side comes over and says, "I wish you were on our side"—for how passionate and how pure when we've met with groups, individuals, and entities talking about really controversial issues that people feel passionately about. You know how that can get, and you know that I can go after people. I think you know my spirit. There are probably some people that are gonna say that I didn't go at you hard enough. That's because we've met independently and separately for me to vet and to test your true authenticity about issues, of which we do not agree on many. The greatest compliment I give to you is I wish that you were on our side. I wish we had somebody like you and that we were aligned politically or philosophically on many issues and that you were on our team. The greatest compliment I can give you—I said this to somebody yesterday, "You know what?" We went from HB 5 to 1808, and I said, "You know what? The first person in here that would adopt a child that nobody else wanted would probably be you." But there aren't millions of you; there's just a few of you. The compliment I want to give to you is that you mean it, it's real; a lot of politicians are not, and you are.

Senator Diaz: Senator Stargel, thank you for your service, and thank you for the sacrifice that you have made over the years with your family time because doing this job takes us away from our families. We've had the opportunity to work together, especially on education issues, and sometimes I have crazy wild ideas about education. I know you guys don't notice that. You've been an incredible sounding board to me and given a different perspective. Oftentimes—most of the time—we agree; but you give the nuances. For me, it has been a relief to have someone who can give me that feedback, understand those issues; and really, you've been a steady hand. We're going to miss you. You know, even during the budget process this year and last session, when you're in the middle of the craziest time, and you're trying to go through these spreadsheets, you always have a smile when we come up to pester you. I know it's part of the process, but not everyone handles it that way. So, I want to thank you for your service and thank you for that. I appreciate you.

Senator Baxley: I've been a Stargel fan for a long time. I still remember a very special day that I walked into Allan Bense's office when he was Speaker. I said, "Speaker, what do you need?" He said, "You've got to meet these people. You got to get down to Polk County." He started telling me about the Stargel family and that John was going to run. He said, "You are going to love them." He was so right—from our walk together in faith, to our commitments to the family. It didn't take me long to figure out who actually runs that place. Because I'm in the same posture; Ginette runs my real world. You're not a housewife; you never were. You're a homemaker. You make it work and you make it home. You pull in every feature, and you have such an open story of your own faith. John was absolutely my best friend on the floor and the most kinship in terms of what mattered. I knew that your entire family exhibited that. You were a model of what we should care about most. It meant so much to me when you came to take up the reins; to know the Stargel impact would go on; Mama Bear was in the house; your modeling in the Senate of how to conduct yourself. You know, when you've been bumping elbows down there at the House—120 people—it's quite an experience, and I wouldn't trade anything for it. But there's nothing like the Senate and being able to actually make a difference in a much more significant way—with the kind of leadership that we have. You're that leadership, and you've shown that compassion. You know when I'm red hot and need to be cooled off. You know when and what to say to make a difference in somebody else's life that's serving at your side. It's just been an honor and a privilege, and I've been waiting 20 years for what you did yesterday. I can't tell you how much it means to me as an adoptive father. Kids matter so much to our future. And you got it, and you built it. Kids are all different, and they've all got that wild streak that you've got. It's a power move to the future to build a family and to build this Senate with the imprint that you've placed on it. God bless you, and thank you.

Senator Powell: Senator Stargel, I wrote a thirty-minute speech. I'm just joking. One of the things I noticed about you, especially in this process, is that unending smile to come on in, right. When I first got in the process many years ago, I used to be a little bit apprehensive about bothering people. That soon wore off. Even to this day, there's no hesitation when I see you, if you're working on something and I'm like, well she looks like she's a little busy. And you'll smile and say, "Come on in." You've been able to handle a lot of issues at the same time and still, you've been able to take care of personal things like the budget, policy, and our issues. I couldn't put my finger on it, but I would always think to myself, how does she do that? What Senator Mayfield said made sense. It's because you're a mom, and you know how to put all those different things together. Even yesterday after your debate on the floor, I saw you put everything together. Okay, now it's time to go deal with the budget. You were able to switch focus so quickly and still be able to remember the things that are important to us. There have been times when you've said to me, "You know it's not really that much stuff that divides us or many things that we disagree on. It's just those little things." So, when I said policy and not the person, and the issue and not the individual, I always think about you because, in this process, you've made a difference. I'm proud to have known you, proud to call you a friend, and I'm thankful for you. I wish you the best for your future. I don't say when you go home, because somebody who does a lot of things like you do, I don't see you going home to sit down. So good luck with the next step that you're going to take. We're proud of you and we thank you.

Senator Burgess: First and foremost, I just want to let you know that Briar texted me and said how honored she was to be in your farewell video. I said it yesterday and it bears repeating—you are a rock. You are an absolute, unshakable rock. And you give people like me, who may hold a deeply held conviction, the confidence to stand up and confess that before a body like this. You empowered me, and many like myself, to feel comfortable and confident enough in ourselves and our beliefs to do so. The void that's going to be left when you walk through those doors for the last time as a Senator is going to be massive.

You are an active listener. Active listening is a gift—it's an art. Senator Pizzo said it yesterday—he's right. God gave us two ears and one mouth, but it's a really hard thing for us, especially as politicians, to practice what you do. As you're working on the budget, as Senator Powell said, you're working on these massive issues that you still somehow manage to take on, and still be such an amazing mother, wife, and grandmother. It's truly profound. I just need you to know, and this is intended to be one of the greatest compliments, you're my wife's hero. She's your biggest fan, and that says everything. Thank you so much for the example you set for young legislators, such as myself, to feel confident in what we believe and to stand up for that truth.

Senator Bean: Good morning to you. Good morning to the Florida Senate. Good morning, Stargel family. Senator Pizzo reminded me of a story several years ago, 15 years ago or so, that I was taking my kids to the YMCA. All week there were basketball tryouts. Our kids would go from 4:00 to 6:00 to play basketball, and all of the coaches would evaluate their performance. There was a big draft on Friday where they took notes, and they weren't just coaches. Everyone had a coaching partner, and they evaluated and took notes on all the kids. I was just excited my kids were going to play. As I dropped my kids off Friday for draft day, the head of the YMCA hands me a clipboard. He said, "We're short a coach, and we want you to coach." I went in there with a blank clipboard knowing nothing about any player. There were over 100 kids, and I was trying to get another coach to at least share their scouting report; share with me; give me help? Can you give me advice? I remember one of the other coaches—because as y'all know, middle school basketball at the "Y" is very competitive—he said, "I got some advice for you, Bean. Draft the tall ones." That's what I did—turns out drafting tall ones meant absolutely nothing in that league. We had some very good snacks—that's what we were known for—not much else on the basketball court. If I was going to draft my team, my number one draft choice would be Kelli Stargel. She is a warrior unlike anybody else. No one has received as much animosity, heat, whatever you want to call it, whether it's online or in person. She's unfazed by it. She always asked me, "What's right?" Her superpower is really just her clarity of vision. You could say its brutal honesty of what's appropriate or what's not appropriate, and to say we're going to burn that dress—that was her being honest and truthful—because she knows what's right and what's wrong. Earlier this morning, I was proud of myself. I sent her a congratulatory bottle of spirits with a nice note. I actually had a page deliver it, and of course the page had to go all the way around. I was proud of myself as the page put it on her desk, and I knew she was going to look at me. I saw her look at it, and she shook her head, rolled her eyes, and put it under her desk—which is the right thing to do. That is something. If I needed education help, I'd go to her because she eats and breathes it. There it is! Put it up top right there! Because she's a homeschooler, she's done it. She's done so many things. So many times too, we're behind the scenes. I'm going to tell you that's her superpower. My weakness, my Achilles heel, is I don't like telling anybody "no." So how many times has she said, "Blame me, do it, blame me." Because she doesn't care. "Let's do what's right—blame me." Hey Senator Gruters, I'd love to do it, but, boy, Kelli Stargel—what are we going to do about her? Her husband and I were seatmates in the Florida House in 2002. We would debate with ourselves on whether we should debate. Now I know where he's getting fired up—at the dinner table. That's who he would share thoughts, debate, and all kinds of things with. So, Kelli, I have enjoyed our ride together. We came in ten years ago, and my goodness it has flown by. I'm going to miss you. My notes say, "See you on the other side." Hopefully, wherever you are—I see your new team is over there—Team Stargel. That's the team I want to play for going forward. Godspeed, Kelli Stargel.

Senator Wright: Keelee? Do you remember them calling you Keelee? So, I'm still kind of new to this whole process. I'm jealous of some of you that spent time together in the House and got to know each other.

Mr. President: Senator Wright, I should caution you about the Keelee/Kelli thing—she's still the Budget Chair! Go ahead.

Senator Wright: Okay. I had better change this. Thank you, sir. So, I'm sitting at the table with Mr. and Mrs. Bean—and they were so generous to say, "Why don't you sit with us?" I didn't know any of you. But I knew there was a Kelli Stargel, and then, at the end of the night, somebody said there was also a Kaylee Stargel, and I was really confused. How many Stargels are there in the Senate? But we got to know you, and I just want to tell you one thing that I hope comes out correctly.

The woman in my life, besides my wife, that has given me my strength throughout my entire life—you remind me of her. That person was my grandmother, whose ring I still wear to this day as my wedding ring. I think of her every day. Her name was Ruby Wright. You are that strong person who gives me the desire to be a better Senator and you have taught me a lot. Whether you realize it or not, I'm kind of like a sponge. I watch what you're doing and I see what you're doing. You've been an inspiration to me and I am, too, going to miss you. Thank you.

Senator Garcia: First and foremost, Senator Stargel, my respect and admiration. I will never forget the first weekend I got back after being here in Tallahassee for the first time, and my mother asked me, "Well, what's it like? What are the people like? What are the women like?" I remember going down the list really fast, as I usually do, and saying, "Well, Mom, there's this one Alpha." She said, "Yeah? And you're not?" And I said, "Yeah, that's why. I know that I'm going to learn so much from her." I'm so grateful for that. I'm so grateful for being able to watch you, learn from you, and work with you. Thank you very much.

Senator Gibson: Yesterday, after the debate and closing on the bill—Senator Stargel's bill—I walked over and gave her a hug. She said, "There's going to be cameras probably taking a picture." And I said, "Well, I don't really care." Because you are very genuine and embody what I said yesterday—"to thine own self be true." You are true to yourself and true to your convictions. Even though I may not have necessarily agreed with the final outcome of the bill, I'm never disagreeable. You pricked my heart because your feelings are so genuine. I know that it was a heartfelt debate for you and a heartfelt issue for you. I don't know if you cared about the cameras, but I didn't care because I wanted to do that. So now I'm going to switch a little bit and talk about that Taiwan trip. Kelli didn't mention yesterday that we also had Alex Diaz de la Portilla on the Taiwan trip, and I'm like, "Oh my God, who are all these people?" Because it was a double cultural trip I think for us. Not only what was happening in Taiwan and what was happening in the port, but we had a cultural conversation as it related to African Americans and Caucasians and feelings and what happens in neighborhoods. Then I thought, man, this lady is so green. John talked us to death. By the end of the trip, I think we had a very good meeting of the minds, and we left better than we came. And you weren't so green by the time we left, because I filled your head with information. Actually, you were never green. I don't mean the color green. You guys understand what I'm saying right? So I came to respect you very much by the end of the trip—even though you took my scarf. I have appreciated your demeanor and who you are in this process, and I have appreciated your personality. You're totally unflustered, and if you are, it's deeply hidden behind your bright smile. You've never not returned a call when I'm sure people were calling you a million times about budget items—and not just this time. Thank you very much for being a friend and accepting my friendship. I genuinely want to make sure you know that I deeply respect you and appreciate you very much. Maybe we'll make another trip to Taiwan, but we'll leave John this time.

Senator Passidomo: Kelli, I can't look at you, I'm going to look at John. We have been on an incredible journey. First of all, I want to thank John for sharing Kelli with us. Kelli's like my best buddy in this process, as you all know. To the Stargel family, your loss was our tremendous gain over these last couple of years. There are so many vignettes in my head. Let's talk a little about the work. Kelli didn't go to law school, but she's the best lawyer in this chamber—absolutely, hands down. We've had philosophical conversations about bills. Every bill from the most mundane public records exemption to the serious heart-wrenching bills that we considered yesterday. Kelli and I—we drag in Mayfield every once in a while and others—to talk about what the bill did, what effect it would have, what kind of consequences. I'll give you an example: the alimony bill. You know, Kelli's been working on these huge, huge issues the last couple of weeks and the budget. She took the time out to sit down with me to go over the alimony bill, piece by piece, section by section, to talk about what this does. What does this mean for the people that are getting divorced? That's the Kelli Stargel, the lawyer—we should get The Florida Bar to make you an honorary lawyer. That's the Kelli Stargel that I know from the serious part here in the chamber. I really appreciate it, because policy is something that I really love and I know you do too. We really have had such a great time talking about policy. But then, the other stuff. Kelli and I have traveled all over the state and all over this country on various and sundry activities, and she is one of the most fun, endearing—I don't even know what to say. The journey has been absolutely incredible. When we're in the President's office, and we're having a meeting about some things that are coming up, we kind of gang up on him. It's the three of us—poor President. He's with Kathy Mears so can you imagine what that's like? We try to win. We finally say okay, Mr. President, you know, you're the President, so we'll kind of agree with you—and then we go out. I hope you all had the opportunity to spend time with Kelli on a personal level, because she really is the most wonderful human being. I don't know what we're going to do without you. I really don't. You've been a great friend, a good buddy, and a good, solid member of the Senate. I don't think there's anyone out there like you. Thank you for everything that you've done. We're still going to be buddies. Kelli and I do shopping trips. We usually bring along a guy or two. We've been doing that for years, and we'll continue to do our shopping trips. I want to thank you, thank you, and thank you.

Senator Stargel: I think yesterday, Mr. President, one of the things we were wanting to know is how come Senator Torres has a microphone that will help him reach all the way to the dais when he wants to speak? Anyway, we're all tethered to our desks. But anyway, before I go into the speech, for a couple of things, I've got this baseball here. You might have seen me grab it a couple of times. Debbie Mayfield gave it to us and, of course, it says on here, "Sometimes you have to play hardball." I keep holding it in hopes it will help because I also believe there's no crying in baseball. So I'm going to do what I can to make it through a speech, and I'm going to do what I can to not cry. So with that, as I start crying—but no. First off, I want to thank my family. Actually, I'm going to throw it at you. John, Rebekah and Quint, Amanda and Adam, Austin, Cadie, and Addison, Robert, Rih, Elizabeth, Hannah, who could not be here, and Laura. In May, when she gets married to Carl, who will be joining our family. I know we all say it, but it's true; I could not be here without the support of my husband and the sacrifice of my family. And I do mean sacrifice. When I first got elected, my oldest, Rebekah, was 24, and my youngest, Laura, was 12. This was not what I had planned to do with my life. This was my husband's goal. I was a stay-at-home mom, and I worked to help get him through law school. Our hope was that some day maybe he could run for office. There is no way I ever thought I could do this. I was scared to speak in public. It was so bad that on my very first two-minute stump speech, I cried. But I decided to give it a try, and I thought I could both do well in serving the Legislature and being a mom. I planned my daughter Amanda's wedding between my primary and my general election. She worked a lot on planning too—it wasn't all me. And then, two months after I was elected, my middle children, Robert and Hannah, were in a very serious car accident. I realized at that point, I couldn't do both, and the mom that had always been home couldn't be there for that. Oh, my goodness. I was going to have to be in Tallahassee because session started, and we were going into committee weeks. My husband, John, is amazing—absolutely amazing. He was elected before me. He knew the demands, but he also knew me and what I could accomplish being here. It was clear that I was not going to be at everything and that this was going to be the new normal for our family. I was in Tallahassee, and John was home meeting the day-to-day needs of raising the kids. So, thank you from the bottom of my heart for sacrificing so I could be here in public service, so I could serve in this capacity, and so that I would be able to do something.

Here we go—we're going to open the wine that Aaron Bean left on my desk. My commitment to myself was that I was going to make every minute count. People keep saying to make sure that you enjoy yourself—we've all heard that a lot in the system and in this process right now. But the truth is that I'm not here to enjoy myself. We're here to do a job; we're not here for dinners or the ability to say, "Do you know who I am?" This is not our hobby. We need more people to run for office to work to make this world, as Jeff Brandes' song said yesterday, the world that we dream and the world that we're going to make. What John knew, and what I soon realized, was many of the things I'm passionate about could be better addressed and sometimes better explained by a mom. This process has all kinds of people—young and old, rich and poor, black and white, men and women. But not many of the women voices in this process came from the perspective of someone like me who had been a stay-at-home mom; because it's really hard to leave your family to do this. It's hard for everyone. But people would say to me—as Debbie said—who's going to take care of your kids—like they didn't have a father, or you don't have a degree. Or how are you going to ever be able to learn how to speak in public? I wondered that also myself. But John knew. He knew how much I cared; he knew the difference I could make. Thank you for believing in me and always having my back. Many of the things I've worked on have centered around my family—the empowerment scholarships, working to make sure that all kids have an opportunity to get an education in a way that works best for them—not just the rich kids, but all kids. I've worked on many bills dealing with school choice because I believe nobody in the school system is going to care as much about that child as their family and as their parents. I've worked on helping to solidify laws for parental rights because I believe that it's the breakdown of the family that has caused so many of the problems that we have to deal with up here. I became a fighter for that family. Working for other families that maybe didn't have the opportunities that my family's had. I am so honored to have had the opportunity to do this and been able to make a difference. But I have not done this alone. I have the title of Senator, but this is absolutely a team effort. Whether it's the staff here in the Senate—Booter Imhof, who had to teach me everything about regulated industries because I knew nothing about tied house rules or three-tier systems or anything, Chair of Regulated Industries; Tim Elwell who has spent hours discussing the budget, appropriations, and policy; Robert Babin who helped me learn what all the tax code was and everything that we're still dealing with today, from how taxes are affected to doing the tax package; John Phelps who knows the rules like nobody else and also loves history so we have a lot of conversations with that; Tim SADBERRY who had to teach me the budget and how all that works; and Kathy Mears who knows everything else and all the things in between. She knows so much about the process. And the staff who have been with me since the beginning. Let me start with Rachel whom I've known for 30 years. We homeschooled our kids together, and she was also a mom—a mom who wanted to make a difference. She decided to work part-time, which turned into full-time, which turned into a career. I could not have done this without your help and, most importantly, without your thoughts and prayers. Chris, who started with me in the House, who was a young single guy who maximized the benefits of our employees to get tuition assistance and got an engineering degree while working as my legislative assistant. He went out to California as an engineer; he's now a little closer in Tennessee. He got married, had three kids—no, you had three while you were working with us; then in the last few years since he's gone, he's had another so he now has four. I really appreciate that you took the time to come back and be here with us today. You worked for my office for ten years, so thank you, Chris. Then for my first two years in the Senate, I had Sam Van Camp Hartman. She wasn't able to be here, but she was a teacher and left the teaching profession. She came and worked in my office to help me with having a teacher perspective because we were doing so many education bills. She's now a stay-at-home mom with her daughter. Then we have Chad, the best bargain attorney in the Florida Senate. He has the title of legislative assistant, but he is my secret weapon. He's the one who knows the law, he follows the policy, and he has been absolutely vital on some of the pro-life legislation that I have worked on because he knows it very well. We have Denise who literally keeps everything running in the home district office. When constituents have issues, they get the calm, competent assistance from Denise to make sure all their problems are solved. Last, but not least of my staff, is my scheduler, the calendar keeper, the woman with that kind "no," who also happens to be my best friend for 35 years. I absolutely would not have made it through this without you, Kathleen. You get the short stick because I talk too much, and I don't want to get too emotional—trying to hold this baseball. But, she heard me gripe so much about the time constraints. I didn't have time to do this, didn't have time to do that, and I wanted to meet with the people, and I'm trying to do it and couldn't do it all. She was a stay-at-home mom too—didn't need the job and said, "I'll come in and help you with the calendar; I'll help with the schedule." So when you call my office, you get that "no," you get it from Kathleen because she valued my time as much as I valued my time and was able to help me make the priorities that she knew I wanted to make. The teamwork of you, Rachel, and John have kept me going. Kathleen does actually have all the secrets though. If any of you want to know, she has the secrets.

And finally, I want to thank all of you. I've said many times that I'm proud to be a member of the Florida Senate. I've carried a few controversial bills from pro-life to beer to estoppel, and never has any member made it personal—never. As has been said and this Senate has demonstrated, you can disagree without being disagreeable. We've had so many funny moments—too many to list. We'd be here all night; although I've done that to you all for the last two nights, so I'm not going to do it today. But I do want to mention a few. Debbie Mayfield, Marti Coley, and I have a unique bond because we came to this challenging job as you said earlier as the wives' club, riding on the coattails of our husbands. It was hard, but I think we've all done pretty well for ourselves. President Designate Passidomo who—Kathleen said, “Burn the dress.” Kathleen said, “Go buy the dress.” So here we go. And again, we look at the videos and the pictures, and there are so many pictures of us laughing. We have fun. We’re not making fun of you, Mr. President, we are working with you. I can remember the days in the House, on the Judiciary Committee. Senator Gibson, you also had a very different hairstyle back then, but you wanted to know the why. Even now, she wanted to actually pass legislation that you have at the top of every bill that says, “Why, why are we doing this; why are we discussing it; why is this bill here?” You know the why. So, for all of you who are going to be serving with President Passidomo at that point, I’m just going to tell you this—you need to know your stuff. You need to know why you’re doing that bill. She’s not going to put up with just doing a bill because this lobbyist asked or that person wants it—no, why are we changing the law? And she’s going to hold people accountable to that, and that gives me great hope for the future. I’m looking forward to watching your service. Aaron Bean, Abby, and President Simpson and Kathy, you guys have truly become friends, and that just doesn’t happen often in this process. Rather than cry on the floor about all that, I’m just going to wait until Monday after I hear what you guys have said about me. In the words of Senator Pizzo, my final, final comment, this has literally been the time of my life. And, if you will indulge me, I would like to read a sign that I have in my office. I had to run down there. I’d like to help you out. Which way did you come in? I’m just kidding. That is in the office, but that’s not the one. It’s a sign that actually Rachel gave me. It says “Do it anyway. People are often unreasonable, illogical, self-centered, but forgive them anyway. And if you are kind, people may accuse you of selfish, ulterior motives, but be kind anyway. If you are successful, you will win some false friends and some true enemies; succeed anyway. If you are honest and frank, people may cheat you. Be honest and frank anyway. When you spend years building something, someone can destroy it overnight. Build it anyway. If you find serenity and happiness, they may be jealous, but be happy anyway. The good you do today, people will often forget tomorrow. Do good anyway. Give the world the best you have and it may never be enough. But give the world the best that you have anyway. Because you see, in the final analysis, it’s between you and God, and it was never really about them anyway.” So one more before we go on that. I want to say finally of all the things I’ve done here, one of the things I am most proud of, honestly, was the input on the design of this new chamber because it’s going to have a long lasting visual—the medallion at the top with all the names of the counties, the part at the top where it has the emblem of the State of Florida which mirrors what’s on our Old Capitol. These were comments and things that I got to be a part of when we designed this chamber. But, the thing that really makes me most proud was my input on our state motto being top and center. It’s my motto. I’m glad it’s the motto of the State of Florida. It is “In God We Trust.”

President Simpson: Yes, so now y’all have heard some emotional Kelli Stargel. Now I’m going to get back to being real. What most of you don’t know is that someone said earlier, “Did y’all see the picture with Anitere Flores, Senator Flores, and Senator Stargel right there at the beginning?” That’s the Kelli Stargel I know. So when we say sister, somebody said sister earlier, a much older, meaner sister is what I know—Kelli Stargel. Here’s what you don’t know, maybe. She grew up in Land O’ Lakes. Dade City has two arch enemies if you go back to our era, which is about 35ish years ago—mine anyway, maybe not hers—Zephyrhills Bulldogs, Danny Burgess. I mean this is the eight-mile war we called this thing. That’s Danny Burgess’ problem. Then we had Land O’ Lakes High School. Kelli and I, once we met each other on the campaign trail before we were both elected to the Florida Senate, I discovered she went to Land O’ Lakes and graduated in 1984. 1984? Hey, wait a second. I won’t say the adjectives, but we beat them in football pretty regularly in those days. And she says, “Well, we had an academic school. Y’all were a football school.” And I said, “You’re damn right we did, and we’re proud that we were a football school. How do you like us?” Anyway, I got sidetracked there for a second. So then, if you go back nine or ten years, we put together a little—by accident. I was in Jacksonville one day with Senator Bradley, the other Senator Bradley, and Senator Bean. We were sitting at a Cracker Barrel, and we said, “Hey, you know, we’re going to have a little wolfpack. We’re coming in together. I’ve never served. Senator Bradley had never served in this capacity, and so we’re just gonna kinda band together. We’re all coming in the same class, and we’re getting to serve maybe ten years together, depending on what happens.” We didn’t know what 2016 was going to bring. So when we got up here, we said “Hey, you know, we need to expand the wolfpack.” Right, Senator Bean? So, Senator Stargel became one of the wolfpack members along with President Galvano. There’s a picture in one of these hallways with the five of us. Every year, unbeknownst to everyone else, we would line up and take a picture. We have them all—Kelli’s always in the middle in red—for some reason, she always had red on. We tried to line up the same way. We have pictures and there’s one of those pictures here in the hallway. So, she was very early on a part of the group. She’s never been left out of anything just for the record. Now I’m going to give a few people some heart attacks, because we talked about being the budget chair. Senator Stargel is very passionate about some issues in the budget. Ease, if y’all don’t know it, is one of them. We have proposals in the House and the Senate. It’s kind of like, well, you know, we can take the House proposal and maybe add some money to it, and I think everybody’s going to be fine. So, we talked about that a month ago, and then maybe a week ago or so we said, “Well, what if we do it the Senate way, and we had proposals where everybody gets a certain amount, and then you get more.” Senator Stargel’s like, “No, we’re not going to do that at all. We’re not going to do this.” And I said, “Well, the options are to zero it out—let’s just get rid of these or go to this kind of position.” “Zero it out—that’s what I’m dealing with.” So the good part is that Senator Bean said, “Hey, you know what?” The “Mean Bean” does not exist. It’s like Bean, “Yeah, we’re not going to do some things.” “Mean Bean” can’t get there. Senator Stargel can get there. So, what I’ve done for this time is said, if someone wanted an answer maybe I didn’t want to give them, “Well, go see Chair Stargel.” “You know what, Mr. President, I’m gonna take my chances with you instead.” Everybody knew what that meant—go see Kelli Stargel, see what she thinks. She says “no” to everything. Then I said, “Well, Kelli, the problem we got here is there’s a Speaker of the House and a whole team over there fighting us every day to line everything up, and we can send bills to the Governor.” I said, “You’re always on their side; you’re always on the House side. You speak House, so we’re going to see what you think. We’ll know what they’re thinking, and this is how we’re going to figure all this out.” She was like, “No, they speak ‘Kelli Stargel.’” Yeah. So anyway, we’ve had a great run, Kelli, for nine years. Obviously, I remember where we met at the store there. I forget the name of the road in Lakeland before we were ever running. We’ve had a good run. We’re not going to miss each other because we only live about 30 minutes apart. Just so everybody knows, there are four senators here in Pasco County. You say, “Well, how did Pasco County get so lucky?” It’s got a budget chair; it’s got Senator Burgess; it’s got Senator Hooper; and myself, all in Pasco County. If you look at that map, it’s like there’s only two from Pasco County. No, there’s four. You know, we’ve grown up around each other. We didn’t know that at the time, but our families have gotten real close. And we’re really gonna miss them.

House Amendment 1 (269533) (with title amendment)—Remove everything after the enacting clause and insert:

Section 1. Section 8.0001, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:
(Substantial rewording of section. See s. 8.0001, F.S., for present text.)

8.0001 Definitions.—In accordance with s. 8(a), Art. X of the State Constitution, the United States Decennial Census of 2020 is the official census of the state for the purposes of congressional redistricting.

(1) The following delineation of congressional districts employs areas included within official county, tract, block groups, and block boundary descriptions used by the United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, in compiling the United States Decennial Census of 2020 in this state. The populations within these census geographic units are the population figures reported in the counts of the United States Decennial Census of 2020 provided to the state in accordance with Pub. L. No. 94-171.

(2) As used in this chapter, the term:

(a) “Block” describes the smallest geographic unit for which population was tabulated in the 2020 decennial census. Blocks are nested within tracts and within block groups. A block is identified by a three-character number that is unique within a block group.

(b) “Block equivalency file” describes a list of all blocks within the state and the congressional district number designated for each block. Blocks are listed by a 15-character number that combines the five-character county-level Federal Information Processing (FIPS) code, the six-character tract number with leading zeros and an implied decimal, the single-character block group number, and the three-character block number.

(c) “Block group” describes a cluster of blocks within the same census tract. Block groups are nested within tracts, and are uniquely identified by a single character number with a valid range of 0 through 9.

(d) “County” describes a legal governmental subdivision of the state. Boundaries of counties described in this chapter reflect those boundaries in effect as of January 1, 2020.

(e) “Geographical information systems map” describes an electronic map that represents the boundaries of the congressional districts of the state in a commonly accepted and readable format.

(f) “Tract” describes a relatively permanent statistical subdivision of a county. Tracts are nested within counties, and are uniquely identified by an up to four-character number and a two-digit suffix.

Section 2. Section 8.0002, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

(Substantial rewording of section. See

s. 8.0002, F.S., for present text.)

8.0002 Division of state into congressional districts.—For the election of representatives to the United States House of Representatives, the state is divided into 28 consecutively numbered, single-member congressional districts of contiguous territory, to be designated by such numbers as follows:

(a) All of Escambia County.

(b) All of Okaloosa County.

(c) All of Santa Rosa County.

39.3065 Sheriffs of certain counties to provide child protective investigative services; procedures; funding.—

(3)

(c) Funds for providing child protective investigations must be identified in the annual appropriation made to the department, which shall award grants for the full amount identified to the respective sheriffs' offices.
